DESPERATE SOCIALIST ATTACK FAILS

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

A shotgun which has figured in three burglaries of the Strawn Merchandise company at Strawn, Texas, has proved itself something of a jinx in the two previous occasions that it was illegally taken from the store, according to a reconnaissance of the various fates that have overtaken the alleged participants in these robberies.

The third theft of the gun occurred Sunday night to be discovered Monday morning when the place was opened for business. The burglary was the third time in as many years that the store has been broken into. Each time the gun was taken.

The weapon is a Browning automatic 12-gauge gun, bearing the serial number 150,710. It was first taken in a burglary of the store two years ago. A gang including two men and a woman were proved to have participated in that raid. The upshot of it was that the woman was shot to death by her husband, one of the men, the husband was sent to the penitentiary for 99 years, so my information goes, and the second man likewise was killed. The shooting of the woman was said to have been done with a pistol taken in the same raid, but the shot gun, tossed into a creek in a panic, was recovered and figured as fateful evidence in the case.

The gun was taken the second time the next year and was reported to have been used in the raid on the Albany National bank which resulted in a young man being sent to Alcatraz prison where, only a few months ago, he achieved national notoriety of a sort by an attack upon the former king of the underworld, Al Capone. In this case again the weapon played a role of unhappy consequences.

Now it is gone again, and the authorities are anticipating what its baleful influence upon underworld characters will produce. They are confident its "jinx" persists. It usually happens that way. Only in rare and peculiar instances do such dread influences find an affinity and cease to exercise those malevolent effects that are so unfortunate upon those who invite them.

Congratulations are in order today to Mr. and Mrs. George W. Downie, who became the parents early Monday morning of six and a quarter pounds of charming femininity. The little lady arrived at the Graham sanitarium at 12:20 a. m. where she and her mother were reported to be doing well. The baby has been named Louella May. Mr. Downie, Cisco oil operator, told me this morning that he also had recovered and was doing well. With the pride of parenthood shining in his face, he certainly looked it, all right, and I again extend congratulations.

ENTRIES FOR STOCK SHOW ARE ARRIVING

Two-Day Event to Be Held Friday and Saturday Here

First exhibitor to bring entries to the Eastland County Livestock show which will be held at the former Wilkerson Lumber yard here, was G. P. Mitcham, who stabled nine Hereford calves from his ranches northwest of Cisco this morning. Two yearling bulls in the lot will be among the animals featured in the Mitcham display.

The Hereford section of the show is expected to be one of the best that has been shown here. The class of cattle and the interest in beef types are especially good this year.

The show opens next Friday. Besides Herefords, the beef section will include exhibits of Aberdeen-Angus and other breeds which are proving popular and profitable in this part of the state.

Other divisions of the show will be devoted to dairy animals, hogs, sheep and goats and horses and mules. Each is in charge of well-known and successful breeder.

General chairman of the show is Dr. F. E. Clark, who will supervise the beef section as a particular part of his duties. T. G. Caudle, chamber of commerce agricultural secretary, will be general superintendent.

Superintendent R. N. Cluck and Principals O. L. Stamey, C. C. Duff, A. C. Bradley and T. C. Williams left this afternoon at 2:30 for Abilene where they will attend the annual fall meeting of the Oil Belt Education association. The sessions begin with a business meeting at 4 p. m. and conclude with a banquet at night.

The meeting, normally held only for superintendents and principals, is not exclusively for these, however, and is attended by many teachers. The spring meeting is open to all teachers, and is the principal annual session of the association.

People Still Snatch Siestas in Warring Spain As Insurgent Fascists March Toward Madrid

Thousands of refugees such as this group scurrying across the border to France fled ahead of the insurgent drive in Spain, leaving behind villages deserted except for a few of the same political faith as the approaching troops.

Mrs. Simpson Wins Decree of Divorce

IPSWICH, England, Oct. 27. (AP)—Mrs. Wallis Simpson, Baltimore-born friend of King Edward of England, won a divorce in a brief hearing today.

The defendant, Ernest Aldrich Simpson, did not contest the case. The decree will be made absolute in six months.

The evidence alleged the husband was guilty of misconduct at a hotel, employees of which identified the hotel register to show allegations. Counsel announced that the correspondent, who was not named, was subpoenaed but did not appear. The plaintiff said she had lived happily with her husband until 1934.

It was expected that most newspapers in the United Kingdom would ignore the case in tomorrow's editions.

Anderson to Head Comm'n U. S. Approval of New Law Awaited

BROWNWOOD, Oct. 27.—H. G. Lucas of Brownwood, president of the Texas Agricultural Association and the Farmers' Roosevelt-Garner club, denied charges of the republican national committee that Texas county agents had been solicited for campaign contributions.

He said farmers received letters asking contributions, but not county agents.

Unconcern Marks Civilian Attitude In Scourged Area

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK
DANCHARINEA, Franco-Spanish frontier, Oct. 27. (AP)—Life in those parts of Spain conquered by the insurgents creeps on at its usual low pace. Ruined storekeepers in battle-swept towns wear worried faces but for the most part, the citizenry you see is indifferent to the struggle.

As General Francisco Franco's armies close in on Madrid what civilian war enthusiasm there may have been seems to have disappeared. Those who will talk about the war profess quietly the patriotic belief the fighting will soon be ended in victory against the reds.

RAW RECRUITS HURLED BACK IN DISORDER

Situation in Madrid Described by News Men as Desperate

(By Associated Press)
Desperate socialist commanders hurled waves of raw recruits against the insurgent forces today in an effort to stem the fascist advance upon Madrid only to be driven back with heavy losses.

The counter attack surprised the sleeping fascists but the commander rallied the troops and drove the socialists back in disorder.

As the newest battle raged in the Madrid sectors fresh efforts to isolate the Spanish conflict were postponed in London when the session of the neutrality subcommittee was called off. The suspension was ordered after a note, expected to clarify the Russian position, failed to arrive.

Russian representatives still awaited a declaration to show their position on the non-intervention accord. It would answer Portuguese charges that Moscow agitators were responsible for the situation provoking the Spanish war.

American newspaper correspondents, captured by the fascists, described the condition of the Spanish capital to be desperate. The newsmen were sent to Salamanca for questioning.

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—The senate delivered an ultimatum to the house today in a resolution "respectfully declining" reconsideration of the omnibus tax bill.

AUSTIN, Oct. 27. (AP)—The senate took no action today on the request of the house to resume conferences over the controversial omnibus bill containing a provision for drastic deliberation of the old age assistance law.

The senators seemed unenthusiastic about meeting the house objections. A resolution calling for senate adjournment was adopted but adjournment was not expected before tonight.

Harding, a World War veteran, was foreman at the Texas company refinery near Dallas. Four children survive the couple.

"Scab President" FDR Is Termed by Priest

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin last night called Franklin D. Roosevelt the "scab president" and termed him "the greatest employer of scab labor in all history."

The WPA, he said, was a "great scab army," which he added was paid in insufficient wage. A throng which jammed Cleveland's public hall gave the priest, on his third visit here this year, a noisy welcome, and interspersed his remarks with vigorous applause.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. . . Thou shalt go to thy Fathers in peace.—Rev. xiv. 13; Gen. xv. 15.

The crowd of cares, the weightiest cross, Seem trifles less than light; Each looks so little and so low, When faith shines full and bright.

Oh, happy, happy that I am! If thou canst be, O faith! The treasure that thou art in life, What wilt thou be in death?—Faber.

True faith is confident, and will venture all the world upon the strength of its persuasion.—Jeremy Taylor.

Legislative Quibbling

PROBABILITY that the legislature will fail to accomplish anything definite in pension legislation and that the governor will be forced to call a second session in order to dispose of the pressing issue of pension revenues calls up possibility of a debate on the legality of any statute enacted by the present group after November 3. On that date a new legislature will be chosen and many of those now sitting will be out of the picture in the next house and senate.

It is more discouraging to contemplate the waste of the time of an expensive special session called upon a pressing matter. But Texas has come to expect a great amount of unnecessary haranguing and attempts at personal political aggrandizement at such times, and the status at the end of the present session was no more than was predicted.

THEREBY hangs an argument for the wisdom of dispensing with the present per diem system of legislative pay and placing all members on a straight salary basis. It is apparent that the state is going to pay the maximum, anyway.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony is fighting to prove Ambrose Lawson the murderer of Elsa Little's uncle. But Elsa believes Terence guilty. Ruth Fraser, is too much under his influence. So she has set out to vamp Terence, find out the truth, and bring him to justice. She has called on Terence to begin operations about to arrest Mahony. Kennedy accompanies Elsa to her car, and Elsa explains her plan.

Chapter 28 ABOUT A HAT

"In that case, he met Miss Fraser for the first time on the night of the murder, when he took her back to her guardian's house," Kennedy said crisply. "They arrived back at the house at about four in the morning. If he was the man in the room at midnight when your uncle was killed, and you say you're sure he was, he'd never met Miss Fraser then. He went and fetched her and took her home from wherever she was after the murder."

"You're not suggesting that Ruth knew anything about my uncle's murder?" cried Elsa in a horrified voice. "I wouldn't believe that for a moment."

"No, I'm hardly suggesting that," said the Inspector. "But if you're right, if he only met her once before that meeting in your house, I don't believe he obtained sufficient influence over her to make her perjure herself and endanger her reputation to shield him simply by talking to her."

"Either he was blackmailing her, forcing her to say what he told her, or else she was immensely grateful to him for something he'd done for her. Just think for yourself, Miss Little. Miss Fraser is rash and impulsive, but she's no fool. Would she go out of her way to defend an absolute stranger at the risk of her own reputation unless she had some definite reason for it?"

"No, she wouldn't," agreed Elsa. "I suppose he must be blackmailing her, then."

Inspector Kennedy smiled slightly. "Do you really think that, Miss Little?" he asked searchingly.

Elsa's conscience pricked her a trifle. "No," she admitted. "I don't really think it, though I should like to. I think Ruth really likes Mahony."

That ended the conversation, and Elsa drove away. When she had gone, the Inspector stood for a few moments considering before he returned to the house. His talk with Elsa had opened up an entirely new train of possibilities to him.

The Inspector was convinced that Mahony knew a good deal about the kidnapping of Elsa, and about her uncle's murder. But during that short period of reflection he had made up his mind not to arrest him just yet.

For one thing, if he left Mahony at liberty there was the possibility that he might get on the track of other members of the kidnapping gang—more important members, perhaps.

For another thing, he had a feeling that if he arrested Mahony now he might be doing just what somebody meant him to do—somebody working very cleverly and cautiously behind the scenes.

He was smiling when he re-entered Mahony's room; his manner was that of one man paying an ordinary call upon another.

"Sorry to keep you waiting," he said. "I haven't got anything very important to talk about. I came to see you because I believe you've lost a hat. Is this yours?"

From his capacious overcoat pocket he lugged a crumpled object—the hat which Mahony had left in the room in Jamaica Road, and tossed it across to Mahony.

Mahony had been a bit worried about that hat. He glanced at it casually.

"Yes, it's mine," he answered in an unconcerned tone. "It blew off my head when I was on top of a bus, and was away before I could catch it. I didn't bother to go after it because it's only an old hat."

Now for some awkward questions about how that hat had got into the house in Jamaica Road, he thought. But he did not get the chance to deny anything. Inspector Kennedy made a point of never asking people questions they expected.

"Who is Mr. Brown?" he asked. "Is he a friend of yours?"

"The question was quite unexpected; it gave Mahony a very nasty shock. For one moment he had a horrible feeling that the Inspector had discovered everything about Billy Ross.

"It's a very common name," he answered. "The telephone directory contains pages of it. I dare say I know somebody called Brown, but I haven't any particular friend of that name."

"Or enemy," asked the Inspector.

Characteristically, the Inspector did not pursue that line of enquiry. But he asked another unexpected question.

"Is Mulgrave a friend of yours?"

Mulgrave was the man whom Mahony had left bound and gagged in the ditch near Watford when he rescued Ruth.

"No," he answered. "I don't know anyone named Mulgrave."

"Now I'll tell you," said the Inspector in a disbelieving tone.

He rose from his chair and stood looking down at Mahony. His manner was no longer casual, his voice was crisp and business-like.

"Listen, Mahony," he said. "I'm not sure whether it was actually you who killed Mr. Little, but I am sure you were in the house when it happened, and I'm sure you know all about the attempt to kidnap Miss Fraser. Now I'm going to give you a chance.

"If you'll make a statement telling me all you know about the murder, I'll do my best to get you off lightly. Think it over a bit. Imprisonment is better than hanging, or even being murdered by your former friends."

"What former friends?" asked Mahony.

"The kidnapping gang," replied the Inspector promptly.

"Oh! You think I was friendly with the kidnapping gang." "Yes. And I also think you rescued Ruth Fraser from them," went on detective.

Mahony raised one eyebrow slightly.

"Who said Miss Fraser had been kidnapped?" he asked.

"I say she was kidnapped," replied Inspector Kennedy. "You went straight on from the Little's that night and fetched her back from where she'd been taken, and she's sheltering you out of gratitude. Well, what's your answer to that?"

"You make me laugh," said Mahony.

"Laugh as much as you like while you can, but you take my tip and think things over carefully," said Kennedy.

With that he left, taking his companion with him.

Let Us Sing

By JOHN A. SICELOFF
Let the Children Also Sing

Most children and young people know any one of almost a dozen popular song hits of the day. These songs will be forgotten next month. What great hymns do they know? Hymns which have lived through the years and will continue to live through the years? Do they know the song writers and composers? Play over, or hum through, ten hymns which the children have heard all their lives, and see if they can name all ten of the hymns. Are you making it easy for your children to be in places where they will hear and learn good hymns? Most children are denied a good heritage that every parent can leave his children. Eighty-two years ago, an eighteen-year-old girl, Annie Louise Coghill, sang:

"Work for the night is coming Work thru the morning hours" and the song has caused many to rededicate their hours and their time.

Two hundred and six years ago a ten year old boy, Joseph Grigg, sang:

"Jesus and shall it ever be
A mortal man ashamed of Thee
Ashamed of Thee whom Angels
Praise
Whose glories shine thru endless

these more than 200 years. Most of our hymn books contain ever living hymns written by teen age boys and girls.

Children are heartily welcomed at the singing revival at the First Methodist church, now in progress. Every evening at 7:15.

One student in every four is helping to earn her expenses at Florida State college for women this year.

camp followers. Daily siestas still last three hours when not a wheel turns. Peasants in broad-brimmed thick-felt sombreros ride their burros through the streets or lead their oxen on shell torn roads.

Families mourn their dead with in their homes. Emotional flag waving is indeed rare. Yet nobody speaks out against the war, perhaps because prison awaits the suspected malcontent and firing squads the "traitor."

Widow Stoical
Yet bitterness was lacking in the woman's conversation.

Rivet Catcher
Finds Grabbing
Of Passes Easy

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 27. (AP)—Ray King, rangy Minnesota end, claims his knack of catching passes was developed by snagging red-hot rivets out of the air at his summer job in the Duluth shipyards.

King hired out as a rivet passer. Armed with a small can he caught red-hot rivets thrown to him, picked them out of the can with a pair of tongs and thrust them into rivet holes. 'You just had to catch the rivets—or else,' King says.
