Presidential Campaign Is in Last Lap With Both Candidates Bidding for Eastern Votes

(By Associated Press)
The presidential campaign entered its final phase today with President Roosevelt speaking in Brooklyn tonight and at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night and with Governor Landon homeward bound, stopping off for a speech in St. Louis tomorrow night.
Bidding for votes in the populous east, both candidates spoke to large crowds last night. President Roosevelt appealed to sayings of Abraham Lincoln to show that the New Deal is right, while Governor Landon challenged the president to "tell us where you stand" on such questions as the NRA, the AAA, and executive powers.
The debate centering about the social security act continued with Republicans denouncing it as "un-

Senator LaFollette announced that a senate committee will investigate "grossly misleading" statements about the act, which have been inserted in workers' pay envelopes.
Before a crowd that filled Madison Square Garden last night, Governor Landon urged the president within 48 hours to state "his purposes and intentions" toward the constitution "he swore to uphold."
Landon said that "the people of this country will not trust a man who does not trust them" and that "if he trusts them he will answer the questions being asked from one end of the country to the other."

HIGHER CLASS ANIMALS HERE UPON EXHIBIT

Judging Starts; Show Draws Variety Of Blooded Livestock
With more favorable weather than has been in prospect for a livestock show in several years, the annual Eastland County Livestock show, opening today at the former Wilkerson Lumber yard, was drawing consistently higher judging in all sections.
Judging began at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with R. M. Milhollin, director of the federal-state soil conservation project near San Angelo, as judge. Tomorrow afternoon horses, mules, sheep, goats and hogs will be judged. Leon Ranson, assistant Taylor county agent, will be the second judge.
Bird Praises Show
Jim Bird, former Cisco vocational agriculture teacher and now with Mr. Milhollin in the conservation project as associate soil conservationist, said that the quality of the show, especially in the Hereford section, was considerably higher than it has been in several years. He was in charge of several such shows while located here.
Among the beef cattle exhibits, which featured the predominant Hereford breed was a display of the famous Aberdeen-Angus breed from the Crofts Brothers ranch north of town. This breed, a black cattle, are rapidly becoming popular in this country.
Karakul Sheep
Another new exhibit was a trio of Karakul sheep, entered by Dr. Bob Hodges of Ranger along with a pen of white sheep. Dr. Hodges spent much of his time explaining the characteristics and value of the black Karakuls, from the lambs of which come a valuable fur for trimming.
Dr. F. E. Clark and G. P. Mitcham each have entered large exhibits of some of the finest Herefords seen in this section. There

Brooks had had difficulty finding a place from which to speak in at least three Texas cities recently.

Loboes and Eagles to Clash Today

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE
Manager K. N. Greer of the Palace theater will give a show at the Theatre tomorrow at 10 o'clock for the benefit of the clothing drive conducted by the Leo Charity and Welfare association. Admission to the show—which will include a re-showing of the local gang comedy picture—will require contribution of old clothing for the association's wardrobe for the needy. Bring anything to wear that is serviceable and you will be admitted.
It is going to be a hard winter and the charity association will have little money to take care of the demands that will be made upon it. The only way it can hope to meet this demand is by the contribution of the articles that are needed for relief.
Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Cannon of the West Texas Utilities company, are leaving next week for Omaha where Mr. Cannon is being transferred as assistant chief clerk for WTU District E. They have been in Cisco since May 4, after Mr. Cannon, with his company two years, was transferred from Cross Plains to Cisco.

CISCO HOPES FOR AN UPSET
Chesley Field Due To Be Battleground
The Cisco Loboes today prepared to meet their traditional rivals, the Abilene Eagles, at Chesley field this afternoon at 3 o'clock.
The Ciscoans, after two weeks of rest since their last grid encounter, have been preparing to upset the dope and crash through with the win which would mean more to them this year than any other victory.
A big pep rally was held last night with both the student body and fans participating.
Eagles Still In Race
Abilene was preparing to send a delegation here today. While the Eagles have lost one game this season, they are still very much in the district picture and are confident of victory over the Loboes.
The student body displayed much spirit and pep today.
Students were to gather in front of the school building immediately after school and march behind the band to the football field.
Classes were cut short today to allow the students to see the game.
The grammar school pep squad along with the high school pep squad will be there to cheer for the Loboes.

MOLLISON HOP SETS RECORD
Flier Reaches London Without Stop
CROYDEN, Eng., Oct. 30. (AP)—Capt. James Mollison landed here today, shattering the speed record for an eastward crossing of the Atlantic ocean.
The flight required 13 hours and 17 minutes.
This was the first time that the trip with London as the eastern goal had been completed without a forced landing.
Mollison was the first man to fly a plane across the Atlantic three times.

Back to his old haunts comes a familiar face. It is Jim Bird, vocational agriculture instructor here and now an associate soil conservationist with the "Soil conservation service, Texas 6" near San Angelo. (Some say, some smart fellow is going to invent a sensible, brief title for these birds, to take the place of these unwieldy handles that are as long as the degrees they are burdened with at A. and M.)
Bird, associate of R. M. Milhollin, director of the San Angelo project and one of the judges secured by Dr. T. G. Caudle for the Cisco show, seized opportunity to return with Milhollin to see how an institution he directed for two or three years was progressing. Caudle succeeded here.
Quite an improvement in quality.

Pep Rally Held At High School Today
A brief pep rally was held this morning at the chapel period at the high school, at which time freshmen were called to give pep talks. Some of them gave pep talks and others told what they thought of C. H. S. The yell leaders led the student body in several yells.

Hay-Making Is Full Time Coast Industry
HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 30. (AP)—When a Texas gulf coast farmer wants winter hay he goes to a pasture and mows it.
Hay-making is a full-time industry on the prairies in the Houston and Galveston regions and there is never a hay shortage. The prairie grass grows about waist high in pastures that are not overstocked and makes good "roughness" for winter feeding. No seeding or cultivation is involved.

Karakul Sheep
The Rev. John Woodskey, Jewish Pentecostal preacher, will preach at the Pentecostal Church in Jesus' Name tonight at 7:30. It was announced. The Rev. Mr. Woodskey formerly was at Moscow, Russia. Large audiences heard him Tuesday and Wednesday night here and last night in Ranger.
He speaks interestingly of his experiences in Russia, and of the martyrdom of his relatives and thousands of others, followed by his exile to Siberia. He also describes his experiences in the Holy Land where he now makes his home. The public is invited to hear him at the church at 400 West 17th street.

Shipping Paralyzed By Pacific Strike

(By Associated Press)
Pacific coast shipping was paralyzed today by a strike of 37,000 maritime workers, members of seven federated unions.
Possibility arose of a spread of the strike to eastern and gulf ports, tying up virtually all American shipping.
Randolph Meriwether, western secretary of the Marine Engineers Beneficial association, predicted a national strike. A portwide "sit-down" strike, expected in New York at noon, did not materialize. Union ship labor will vote tonight on a general eastern seaboard strike.
Disagreement over points in new labor contracts caused the trouble to start. There was little effect as yet at Texas gulf ports.
From Buffalo, N. Y., Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced she was making efforts by telephone to bring shipping workers and employes together for negotiations, saying she had hopes of arranging a truce.

Midgets Win By 19-0 Score Over Moran's Eleven

The Cisco Grammar School Midgets yesterday plowed their way to a 19 to 0 victory over Moran but for the first time this season had their uncrossed goal line threatened as the visitors loosed a bombardment that took them to the five-yard stripe in the closing minute of play.
For the Midgets the big guns on offense were Tipton and Johnson, with the former scoring all three touchdowns and converting with a kick from placement after the first tally.
In the final period and with only two minutes of play left, Captain Pendle, Moran quarterback, began hurling aerials to Boyd, elongated end, to march more than half the length of the field and put Moran in position to score just as the game ended. Moran is coached by Mack Statham, former Ciscoan.

Karakul Sheep Originating in Asia New Exhibit in County Stock Show

A new exhibit for the Eastland County Livestock show, entered by Dr. Bob Hodges of Ranger, was attracting as much attention as any on the lot of the former Wilkerson Lumber company where the show is now in progress.
It consisted of three Karakul sheep, a famous and old Asian breed, originating in Turkestan, southeastern Asia, from the lambs of which comes a prize pelt known commercially as astrakhan, much valued as trimming for coats and other garments. The pelt or fur has tightly curled, tiny wool rings of glossy black densely covering the skin. Those who saw the lamb, which is one of the three individuals, and handled a pelt that Dr. Hodges has also on display, found the fur familiar, being often seen in store show windows and on coats.
The breed, although an ancient one, has been in America only about 20 years. Dr. Hodges secured the first of his flock of 100 individuals a year ago. This year he raised a 100 per cent lamb crop, and the lamb he is showing with an ewe and ram, is of the second crop this season. This is considered remarkable for any sheep.
The most valuable product of the breed, of course, are the lamb pelts for which Dr. Hodges received an average of $11 each this year, less the $1.04 which it cost him to ship each pelt to New York for curing and tanning. The lambs are usually killed when one day of age, although the skin of still-born lambs is regarded as of much higher quality and value. The lamb furs fall into three classes, which Dr. Hodges named but declined to define, pleading that he was not technically thorough.

Russians Fighting For Madrid, Rebels Charge

(By Associated Press)
Government forces, re-inforced with war materials, battled today to drive the fascist line back from Madrid. In the second day of one of the war's bloodiest battles, the Madrid army was shelling Torrejon de Velasco preparatory to a renewed charge.
The fascists claimed they had captured many prisoners "including 300 Russian soldiers."
Paris reports said the Madrid army had mobilized a secret army in southern Spain to strike at the fascist unguarded rear.
Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the British admiralty, told the Communist International organization dominated by Moscow, not to interfere with England's affairs.

For amid all life's quests There seems but worthy one—to do men good. It matters not how long we live, but how. —FESTUS. Remember: Our echoes roll from soul to soul, And grow forever and forever. —TENNYSON.

Quicker Public Intelligence

THE common man of today—the fellow of the so-called 'submerged tenth'—is becoming more enlightened of economic conditions and the reasons for these conditions, and particularly of his relationship to the upper 'four hundred'.

TODAY two agencies developed by the miracles of modern science are contributing the most to a happier balance of power between these two extremes. These agencies are the motion picture screen and the radio. There are other agencies, but these have had the greatest influence upon the enlightenment of the common people...

INSTEAD they come into the humblest homes and into the smallest theaters as humans with human traits, mannerisms and faults common to ordinary people everywhere. Today, distance and exclusiveness are playing less and less of a part in the attitude of the public toward those who would lead them.

ROOSEVELT knows and recognizes this swift progress of civilization. He has attuned his campaign to it, just as he has planned his administration's program in its view. His is a program which is designed to save America for democracy by a reform of those institutions which serve its great ideals.

the other fellow thinks himself strongest. sometimes he has obligations to party nominees for state or local office which he feels compelled to discharge.

And sometimes some of these hunches turn out to be bonanzas. Hoover took some democratic states he didn't count on in 1928. And Roosevelt cut more deeply into republican territory than seemed possible in 1932. In these times, it's not so easy to tell.

Human and Other Nature

We must face the issue; but the first thing is to define it. When did we ever approach an election day with party lines so broken up?

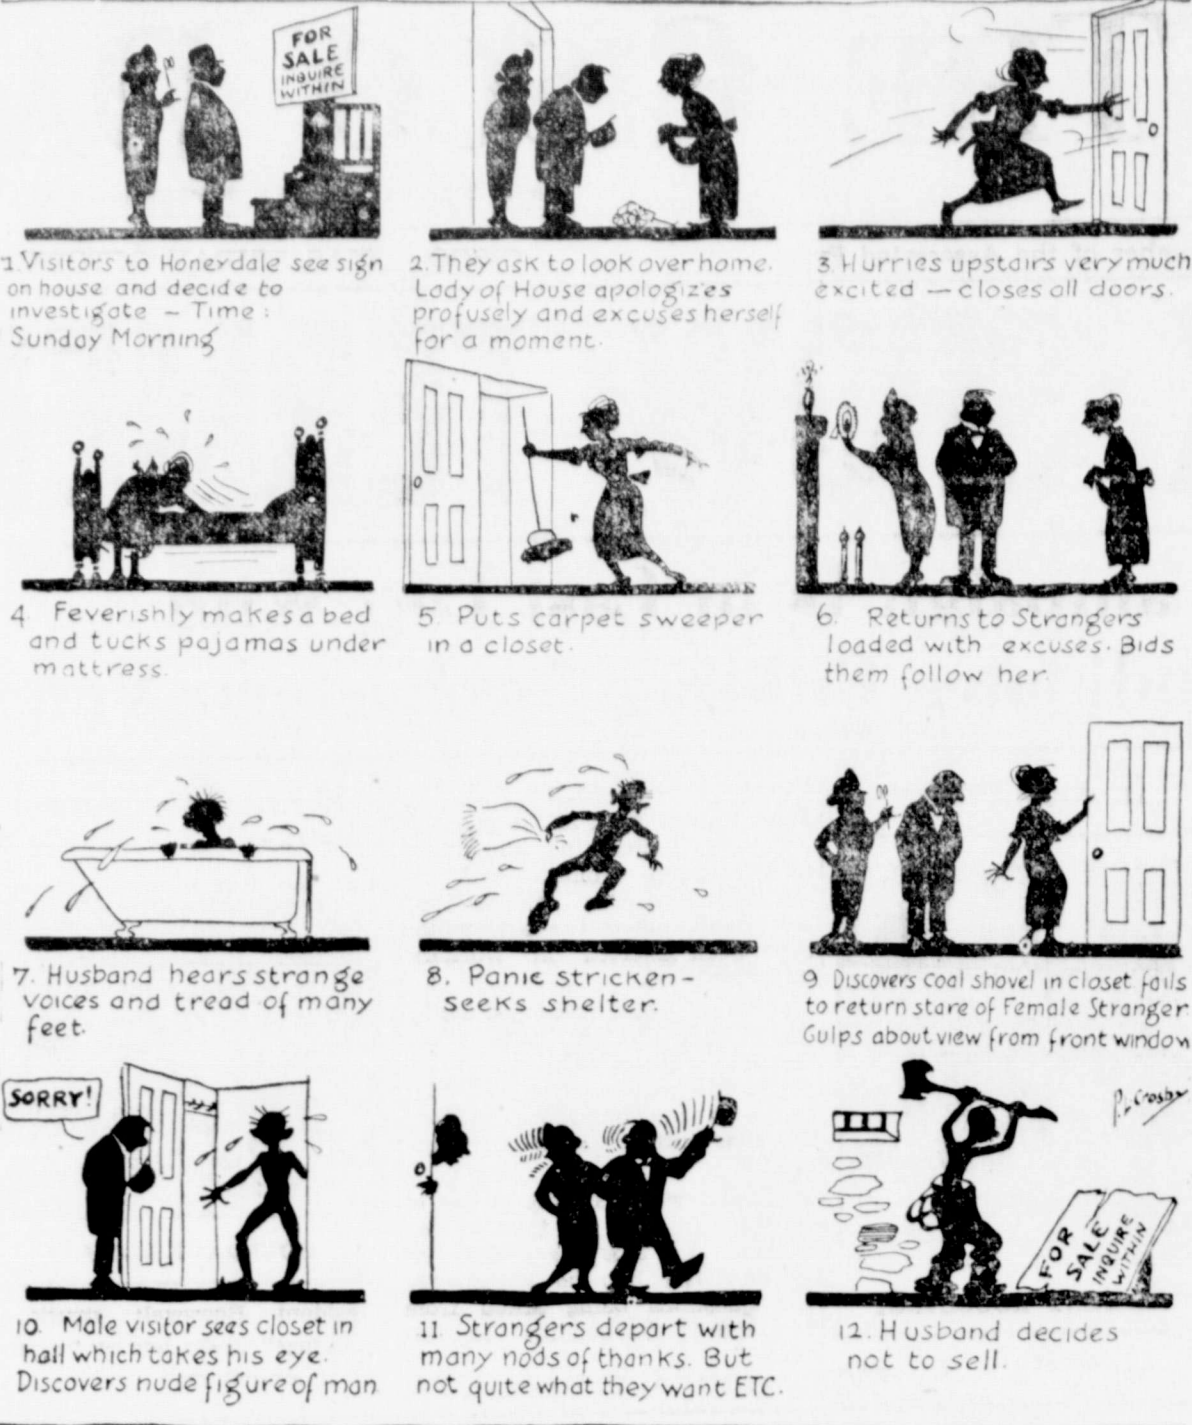

I have been interested in Roosevelt's experiment during these years of the New Deal, and cannot consider it as some do a "raw deal." But I do fear that much has been done has unintentionally intensified the ailment it was supposed to remedy.

Letters From Our Readers

(Editor's Note: The following letter was written on the afternoon of the final day of the special session of the 44th legislature, and before the body passed the omnibus tax bill with its provision for drastically delimiting the Texas old-age assistance law. The letter is published in explanation of Mr. Lotief's stand upon the issue.)

October 27, 1936. Editor Cisco Daily Press, Cisco, Texas.

This will perhaps be the last official letter to the people of my district, and I would like to mention something in regard to the work of the present session of the legislature.

We were called here for the sole purpose of raising revenue for the payment of old-age pensions. The governor submitted this question to this extraordinary session, and the house of representatives passed it. This bill was known as the omnibus tax bill. After being passed by a substantial majority in the house, the bill was sent to the senate.

When the moves have been completed there will be 251 camps within the geographical boundaries of the eighth corps area with an approximate enrollment of 41,000. In addition to this number, the eighth corps area has sent 32 CCC companies to California and Oregon. 30 of them newly organized companies composed of enrollees from Oklahoma and Texas and two companies transferred from the vicinity of Gillette, Wyoming, to the ninth corps area in locations in California.

cameral system. If we just had one house, the revenue for old-age pensions, would already be available, and we would have been back home by now.

In conclusion I want the old folks of my district to know that I have kept faith with them and shall continue to do so; neither shall I betray them. I do not believe that the rolls should be depleted at this time since we are facing the cold winter months, and doubtless many persons will suffer if they do not receive their pension checks to tide them over.

Again I want to express my appreciation for the honor you have bestowed on me during the past four years. I have enjoyed every minute of my work while serving you in the legislature, and I hereby return your commission to you just as clean and spotless as when it was handed to me. Sincerely yours, CECIL A. LOTIEF.

CCC Boys Dig In For Winter With 35 Camps Moved

(Special to The Daily Press) FORT SAM HOUSTON, Oct. 30.—With the advent of cooler weather, enrollees of the Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the Eighth Corps Area are busily engaged in "digging in" for the winter months.

Settling for the winter involves the reoccupation of winter camps in the eighth corps area vacated last spring so that enrollees could be placed on special projects which could not be consummated during the winter weather.

There are 35 camps in the eighth corps area now being moved from summer to winter locations. The majority of these camps have been stationed in tent camps during the summer, but in about 10 instances camps are being moved from permanent summer locations into permanent winter locations.

When the moves have been completed there will be 251 camps within the geographical boundaries of the eighth corps area with an approximate enrollment of 41,000. In addition to this number, the eighth corps area has sent 32 CCC companies to California and Oregon. 30 of them newly organized companies composed of enrollees from Oklahoma and Texas and two companies transferred from the vicinity of Gillette, Wyoming, to the ninth corps area in locations in California.

There are approximately 4,800 enrollees from residences within the eighth corps area in the 32 camps assigned to the eighth corps area in ninth corps area locations.

When the moves have been completed there will be 251 camps within the geographical boundaries of the eighth corps area with an approximate enrollment of 41,000.

In conclusion I want the old folks of my district to know that I have kept faith with them and shall continue to do so; neither shall I betray them. I do not believe that the rolls should be depleted at this time since we are facing the cold winter months, and doubtless many persons will suffer if they do not receive their pension checks to tide them over.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE

Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

While in theory a presidential campaign blanket 48 states, only a score or less usually feel the full force of the final pre-election drive for votes. It is so in 1936.

Firing may continue outside the crucial sector, for one reason or another. Presidential candidates may even make excursions into territory which they have not counted as their most promising. But all of that often is merely a part of the old military game of trying to confuse the enemy.

When it comes down to the real, underground work of getting out the vote, which many believe controls elections regardless of the activities of the candidates, the situation is different. Each party's high command sets aside certain states as safe, and puts in its best lieks in those additional states where the possibilities seem most plausible.

New York To Colorado

This year the disposition of the democrats is to look on the South and the Far West as the first line of their electoral strength. Since the Maine election, the republicans have reckoned all of the new England states as their. These claims are disputed, in each instance; but the inevitable logic of the situation still indicates that the belt of contested states stretching from New York to Colorado will be the focus of the culminating engagement of the campaign.

Within this section are the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming, Idaho and Colorado.

Together these 20 states have 284 electoral votes, 18 more than the 266 needed to elect. If Mr. Roosevelt can carry the South and the Far West, he still will need some of these states to win. If Mr. Landon can carry New England, he still will need most of these states to win.

This is the simplest way in which the situation can be stated. Democratic predictions of victory are based on a hope that at least two or three of the largest of the crucial states, or several of the smaller, will go democratic; while republican claims of an electoral college majority presupposes a republican sweep through virtually the entire disputed area.

In fact, on the republican side, National Chairman Hamilton has said as much, in substance. He has predicted that Mr. Landon will win by carrying every state east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, and 10 or 12 west of the Mississippi. A glance at the map will show what a solid sweep that would mean.

The policy of the democratic managers is to claim everything, but to do it with a smile. Meantime they keep pegging away on the New York-Colorado front.

Hunches Play Part

Then why does Mr. Landon go to California, and why does Mr. Roosevelt swing through New England?

There might be many answers. Sometimes a candidate yields to the plea of deeply enthused local leaders that if he only will come into their state, a strong opposition will melt away. He wants to escape the remorse which might overtake him if he disregarded such advice, and was beaten.

Sometimes he sees a psychological advantage in striking where

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony is well along toward catching Ambrose Lawson, murderer of Vincent Little and leader of a vicious gang. But Lawson, through his friend Lee Ramsden, has lured the skin and now Terence is unknowingly waiting in a house for almost certain death, and his gang is about to be ambushed in their hide-out. Ruth Fraser, who loves Terence but won't admit it, has managed to get to Terence's friends, and has warned Fatty Bassett, however.

Chapter 31 AMBUSH

With that Bassett turned away and made for the stairs that led down to the basement. Ruth hesitated for a moment. If anything was going to happen, she wanted to see it, so that she could tell Mahony all about it before he rang chair, untying Lake. Fatty Bassett coughed.

Then everything happened with incredible swiftness. The door of the cupboard suddenly flew open, and Fatty's three men sprang out, their pistols in their hands. They did not shoot, since their pistols were not fitted with silencers, but in the same movement with which they left the cupboard they hurled themselves at the three invaders.

The invading party, taken utterly by surprise, had hardly time to offer any real resistance. Before they could even aim their guns, Flynn's huge fist, with a big Colt clamped in it, had smashed one of them to the floor; Chippy had

The punch knocked Flynn across the room.

Bassett up. She slipped quietly into the room in which Bassett had given directions to his men, and hid behind a curtain.

Bassett descended the stairs which led to the basement and crossed the kitchen to the back door of the house. As he was crossing the kitchen the three knocks, pause, and another knock, sounded again.

"Orl right, orl right, don't be impatient," he called out, and he opened the back door.

Immediately the barrel of an automatic pistol was thrust into his stomach, and a stern voice said: "Stand back from this door and stick your hands up."

"Wot the . . . ?" exclaimed Bassett in a tone of utter astonishment; but he stepped back from the door, and his hands went up above his head.

Three men quietly entered the kitchen, closing the door after them. They were tough, hard-biten, evil-looking ruffians and in their hands they carried small automatic pistols fitted with silencers. Their leader, the man who had already spoken, prodded Bassett roughly with his automatic.

"We've come for Lake," he stated harshly. "You know who sent us."

Bassett's hands, held up above his head, were trembling visibly; his expression was one of shivering terror.

"Lake," he stammered. "I ain't seen Mr. Lake. You can search the place, mister; you won't find 'im 'ere."

"I know damned well I can search the place and I shan't find him," returned the other man curtly. "If I thought I could find him by simply searching the house I'd have plugged you straight off."

Things were going exactly as Bassett had planned.

"Lead on," went on the other man. "And if you so much as squawk you'll get shot where it will hurt like hell, but won't kill you."

There was apparently no fight left in Fatty Bassett.

"If . . . if I take you to Mr. Lake, you won't shoot me afterwards," he whimpered.

"If you don't take us to him I'll shoot you right away, through the knee to start with," replied the leader of the invaders contemptuously. "Get on with it."

Shivering, Bassett led the way up the stairs. The three men followed close on his heels, their guns ready for instant action.

None of Fatty's friends appeared; the house seemed quite silent and empty. Fatty led the way through the hall and up a flight of stairs. There he paused for a moment on a small landing, and then flung open the door of a room.

It was a long, narrow room, with a large, built-in cupboard stretching the entire length of one wall. Seated in a chair placed against the wall opposite to the cupboard was Lake. His hands and ankles were tied securely to the chair, and he was gagged.

The leader of the invading party gave an exclamation of satisfaction and hurried forward. His two men followed him. For one moment they were off their guard; their backs were towards the cupboard as they clustered round the moved; the blow which had been meant for his head glanced off his shoulder. The man staggered, and in the act of staggering he fired. There was a short muffled rap as the silenced automatic went off, and Fatty's man clasped both hands suddenly to his chest and, with an agonized gasp, sank to the floor.

With a roar like that of an angry lion, big Barney Flynn turned and sprang; before the man had time to fire again his huge fist landed with terrific impact under the man's chin. It was a punch that lifted the man off his feet and knocked him senseless clean across the room. With a tremendous crash of glass his limp falling body struck the window, and went slap through the window, falling ten feet into the street.

There was a pause of utter consternation inside the room.

"Gawdelpus!" exclaimed Bassett. "That's done it. We'll have the cops 'ere in a minute now."

He bent swiftly over the man who had been shot.

"Slim's got 'is, orlright," he went on. "There ain't nothing we can do for 'im. It's up to us to get out of 'ere as quickly as we can. Catch 'old of that bloke, Barney, and foller me, both of you."

Barney seized the bound figure of Lake and lifted it easily, chair and everything, in his powerful arms. They mounted another flight of stairs, and there, in a small attic, Bassett bent down and pressed strongly on a portion of the wall. Silently it swung back, disclosing a hidden doorway into the house next door. They went through the doorway and Bassett swung the wall to behind them.

"Wait 'ere a moment," said Bassett.

He swiftly descended the stairs to the pawnshop on the ground floor. Nominally that pawnshop was owned by one Eli Solomon, actually it was owned by Batty Bassett.

"Look 'ere Eli, I've been in your back room for the last hour," said Bassett swiftly. "Is the furniture van in the yard at the back?"

Increased Demand for Gas Improves Panhandle Scene

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—Outlook for the panhandle oil and gas field for succeeding months is optimistic, the semi-annual report of the Texas Railroad commission says.

An increasing demand for sweet and sour gas is continually providing wells, hitherto dormant, with an outlet and thus is realizing a wider distribution.

As withdrawals become more uniform the pressure decline is arrested and pessimistic forecasts of the future of the field are no longer the custom, the report says.

"Through the cooperation of the majority of companies operating in the field, economics in the production as well as the utilization of gas have been effected, and the value and future of regulated conservation seem generally to be accepted," the commission reports.

Total potential for the field increased from 18,333,637,000 cubic feet daily in January, 1936, to 20,194,857,000 in July.

The July weighted average pressure was 296.17 pounds per square inch for the East field, 377 for the West field, 346.11 for the sour field and, for the panhandle as a whole, 355 pounds.

Pressure Unimpaired Despite withdrawals from the panhandle reservoir, estimated in excess of six trillion cubic feet, practically 50 per cent of the total acreage retains more than 400 pounds pressure per square inch, or virtually initial pressure.

Sixty six wells were added to the schedule since the first of the year, an evidence, the commission says, of the development program going forward since confidence in the future of the field was restored.

Approximately 50 per cent of total gas now being released to the air is from casinghead plants having no residue outlet, and a sub-factor in prudent operation.

All possible casinghead is being diverted to the carbon black plants operating in the sweet gas area. In January, 39 per cent of the gas processed in gasoline plants was sold as a residue to carbon plants, and 39.7 per cent blown into the air, while in July, 62.2 per cent of the daily take was disposed of to carbon plants and 11.7 per cent stripped to the air.

This evidences increasing efficiency in the utilization of both dry and casinghead gas, the report says.

CONVENTION HALL RAZED HOUSTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—Expensive Sam Houston Hall, built for the 1928 democratic national convention at which President Franklin D. Roosevelt placed Al Smith in nomination as the presidential candidate, has been razed to make room for a $1,300,000 exposition hall.

Paper manufacturing in Pennsylvania today is estimated as a $250,000,000 business.

With Comanche Trail Scouts

Cisco Scouts Very Active

Both troops of Cisco have been very active through the summer months just passed, according to scoutmaster Hitton and Barton. The report that the Centennial was visited by a good representation of both troop 101 and 4. Camp Billy Gibbons was attended, the Gypsy Smith meeting being held in Abilene was attended, several interesting hikes have been made and others are on the schedule. Scoutmaster Hitton recently took his troop out to his ranch where they had a test passing hike.

Stephenville Has New Members

H. V. Collins, scoutmaster of troop 9 sends in the following new members for his troop: Harold Green, Joe P. Hendrick, Jr., Milton Rose, C. R. Main, Jr., and Foy E. Carpenter. Scoutmaster Collins also states that they as a troop are getting along fine. (Growth is a good indication that Scouting is being conducted. Boys are attracted to the scouting program by what scouts do.)

Cubs

Cubmaster J. C. Ferguson of pack No. 1, Breckenridge, sends in five new members for his cub pack also an order for books and badges. Cubbing is the new program for boys from nine to twelve years of age, they graduate out of cubbing into troop scouting and then out of the troop into the older boy program. Cubmaster Ferguson states that the pack is getting along nicely. We recently visited a parents night program that Mr. Ferguson had and got an inspiration from seeing how eager boys of this age are for the cubbing program—a great field of opportunity if we can secure adequate leadership.

Sea Scouts Great Governors

Sea Scouts ship "Texan" consisting of the following officers and crew visited the Centennial as guests of Commander J. M. Lewis; Boatswain-mate J. R. Nix, Coxswain Sidney Ellis, Bugler Jimmy Rominger, Yeoman Crowell Werner, Ordinary Sea Scout Harold Wohlford, Apprentice Sea Scouts, Phillip Shaw, Ray Post, Tony Kelley, John Jones, Ray Pierce, Dean Griffith, and Cabin Boy Russell Jones, Jr., Skipper Russell B. Jones, First Mate W. F. Thorpe and Third Mate E. E. Straley. The ship is sponsored by the Breckenridge Lions club and have them to thank for assisting in the trip.

Parent Scout Night Planned

Frank Noad, scoutmaster of 16, Brownwood, sends in a letter stating that they are making definite plans to have the best Parent Scout Night that the troop has ever had.

Hold Archery Meet

Although we do not have the recruits we have a report that Scoutmaster Hendrick Troop 36, has so many archers right in his own troop that when he wants to pull an archery meet it happens right in his own troop. Tommie held one recently and says that every Scout in his troop has a bow and arrows. That some of the scouts are becoming expert enough that they go hunting with the bow and arrow. They'd like to challenge any troop to an archery meet.

Debaters Due To Blast Away Upon Munitions Topic

(Special to The Daily Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 30.—Debaters in the Interscholastic League this season will not lack ammunition with which to blast the opposition, according to reports from the bureau of public school interests of the university of Texas, under whose direction the league functions. The bureau has just published a bulletin of about 300 pages dealing with both sides of the munitions question. Judging from the orders received daily for this bulletin, many high school debate squads are now busily engaged in a study of the advisability of government ownership of the munitions industry. Supplementing the material which the bureau has issued, copies of the report of the special committee on investigations of the munitions industry, United States senate, in five volumes and containing in all about one thousand pages, are available for the competing schools, it was stated by Roy Bedichek, chief of the bureau. This report is made available for member-schools free of charge through the courtesy and interest of Senator Tom Connally. Senator Connally's radio address, entitled "Take the Profit out of War," is also available to member-schools free on request. Application for those publications must be made, however, either by the principal or the debate coach. Besides these helps, Prof. Thos. A. Rouse, debate coach of the University of Texas, will conduct a column each month in the Interscholastic leaguer, monthly publication of the bureau, devoted to an analysis of the question, Mr. Bedichek said.

Cowboys Meet Kansas Eleven November 7

ABILENE, Oct. 30 (Sp)—Kim-brough's victorious Cowboys were set to riding range on erring plays again this week in preparation for the Nov. 7 intersectional game with Kansas Wesleyan university from Salina.

The Abilenians will play host to visiting Coyotes an even two weeks after their victory over Creighton Bluejays in Omaha and for a second consecutive time will meet an undefeated northern eleven.

Kansas Wesleyan came through the 1935 schedule to lead the Kansas conference and according to Coach A. B. Mackie has taken five of eight conference titles.

The Coyotes however have the ranch hands outweighed considerably and through their mentor promise Cowboys a tough battle Nov. 7.

Mackie took time off from his Salina duties to scout the Cowboys game with Oklahoma Baptist and return to the Kansas Coyote den to report that everything is far from quiet on the Abilene patomac.

From the Salina camp also comes word that Matty Bell who taught a Kansas coaching school

this summer has been filling Mackie with the fear of Cowboys as a result of the ranchers' battle with Mustange in Wichita Falls last year.

The intersectional battle with Wesleyan conference holders will be an afternoon game called for 2:30 o'clock.

Hardin-Simmons will have no rest after entertaining defending Kansas Conference champions, Howard Payne, always tough competition, particularly when Cowbys are involved, will invade the corral Nov. 14 for the Cowboys' homecoming game.

The Yellowjackets have similarly clear record this year with the exception of the season's opener against T. C. U.

NYA Gives Work To 8,000 Texas Youths

(Special to The Daily Press) AUSTIN, Oct. 30.—More than 8,000 youths assigned work by the National Youth Administration in Texas have been removed from project pay-rolls during 1936, according to Lyndon B. Johnson, state director.

This reduction is more than 40 per cent, 17,000 young men and women having been originally assigned to the NYA work program.

TWO BIG BEARS

IN BAYLOR BACKFIELD — 1936 —

The pair shown above form the spearhead of the Baylor offensive attack this fall. Bob Masters of Comanche is a slashing, power-house back, while Lloyd Russell, the singing showman from Dallas, is the Bruin climax runner. Russell does the Baylor kicking, and plays at the center post. Both are seniors.

Baylor, 14-10. Always dangerous, and now smarting under intersectional reverses on successive Saturdays at the hands of George Washington and Louisiana State university, the Razorbacks will bring all their heavy artillery to bear in an effort to blast the Aggies from the top of the heap. The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30. The Humble Company's broadcast will start ten minutes earlier, at 2:20, with Gern Tips handling play-by-play, and Bilo Hightower the color. Stations KPRC, Houston; WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Fort Worth; WOAI, San Antonio; KR-GV, Weslaco.

In the second game of the afternoon, Southern Methodist university makes its first conference start against the powerful Texas University club. The Mustangs have been nosed out by undefeated Fordham, 7-0; and have turned in an impressive first quarter win over Morrison-coached Vanderbilt, 16-0. Texas held the strong Louisiana State eleven to a scoreless tie and defeated Oklahoma, 6-0, only to fall victim on successive Saturdays to Baylor, 21-18, and Rice, 7-0. The Longhorns will be out to regain their conference standing Saturday, the Mustangs to establish theirs; the game promises to be a thriller from start to finish. The broadcast, under Humble's sponsorship, begins at 2:20 p. m., with Bill Ware and Tom Jacobs at the microphone. Stations KNOW, Austin; KTSA, San Antonio; KTRH, Houston; KRLD, Dallas.

The third game of the afternoon brings together Baylor and Texas Christian university at Ft. Worth. This is an old rivalry, made keener this year by the fact that each team will be battling to stay in the conference race. T. C. U., after winning from Arkansas, lost to Texas A. & M. Baylor, on the other hand, lost to Arkansas, but followed it up with a win over the University of Texas and a tie with A. & M. That's a muddle to baffle the most expert of the dopesters; only Saturday's game can clear it up. The Humble company's broadcast will begin at 2:50 p. m., with Gene Wyatt and Cy Leland alternating at the microphone. Stations WACO, Waco, and KTAT, Ft. Worth.

The longest run of wins in the Texas Christian university-Arkansas grid series belongs to the Christians, who took three games, in 1930-31-32.

Baugh Vs. Russell Big Show Booked At TCU Stadium

FORT WORTH, Oct. 30.—Sling-in' Sam Baugh versus Singing Lloyd Russell in the T. C. U. stadium at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

There's a booking for you! Against the Frogs in Waco last year Russell was just another crooner, but if he flashes here Saturday as he did against Texas a couple of weeks ago, T. C. U. will think he is the leading tenor of the Metropolitan opera.

There isn't anything unusual in the preparations being made this week by coaches Dutch Meyer and Mike Brumblow. The practice sessions are filled with the usual routine of accent on fundamentals, constant polishing of the offense, and endless work on defense.

"We don't intend to try to 'city slicker' Baylor," Coach Meyer comments. "We couldn't do it, even if we did try. If we manage to win, it will be because we play harder, faster, smarter football."

The Bears will have a slight edge on the Frogs both in weight and experience, according to the statistics on the probable starting line-ups.

Baylor Line
The Baylor line averages about 194 pounds and the T. C. U. forwards wall 191 pounds. The seven probable starters for the Waco eleven total eight years varsity experience, with only one sophomore in the group.

T. C. U., on the other hand, will probably start three sophomores in the line, three seniors and one junior, their varsity experience totaling seven years.

The Frog backfield will average about 175 pounds, with three seniors and one sophomore. The Baylor backfield will probably consist of three seniors and one junior, the four averaging about 180 pounds.

Not a great deal of difference in either spot, 'tis true. But in a game that looks to be just about a toss-up, this difference might play a most important part.

Still, when you come right down to it, it all reverts back to which star has a field day—Baugh or Russell.

And if they both should click! Well, that'll be one for the books.

Three Conference Games to Be On Air By Humble

An interesting Saturday afternoon is in prospect for radio followers of Southwest conference football. Three games, engaging six of the seven conference teams, are scheduled for broadcasting under the sponsorship of the Humble Oil & Refining company.

Leading the list, because the Aggies lead the league, is the game between Texas A. & M. and the University of Arkansas to be played on Kyle Field at College Station. The Aggie conference record, and for that matter, non-conference, too, is unblemished except for the tie game with Baylor at Waco last Saturday. Previously, the Aggies had vanquished Rice, 3-0, and T. C. U., 18-7 showing impressive form. Arkansas has only played two conference games; in one of these the Razorbacks came off second best, by a touchdown, to T. C. U., and in the second, they came from behind to win from

(By Associated Press) The presidential campaign entered its final phase today with President Roosevelt speaking in Brooklyn tonight and at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night and with Governor Landon homeward bound, stopping off for a speech in St. Louis tomorrow night. Bidding for votes in the populous east, both candidates spoke to large crowds last night. President Roosevelt appealed to sayings of Abraham Lincoln to show that the New Deal is right, while Governor Landon challenged the president to "tell us where you stand" on such questions as the NRA, the AAA, and executive powers. The debate centering about the social security act continued with republicans denouncing it as "un-

Senator LaFollette announced that a senate committee will investigate "grossly misleading" statements about the act, which have been inserted in workers' pay envelopes. Before a crowd that filled Madison Square Garden last night, Governor Landon urged the president within 48 hours to state "his purposes and intentions" toward the constitution "he swore to uphold." Landon said that "the people of this country will not trust a man who does not trust them" and that "if he trusts them he will answer the questions being asked from one end of the country to the other." HIGHER CLASS ANIMALS HERE UPON EXHIBIT

Judging Starts; Show Draws Variety Of Blooded Livestock With more favorable weather than has been in prospect for a livestock show in several years, the annual Eastland County Livestock show, opening today at the former Wilkerson Lumber yard, was drawing consistently higher quality in all sections. Judging began at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with R. M. Milhollin, director of the federal-state soil conservation project near San Angelo, as judge. Tomorrow afternoon horses, mules, sheep, goats and hogs will be judged. Leon Ranson, assistant Taylor county agent, will be the second judge. Bird Praises Show Jim Bird, former Cisco vocational agriculture teacher and now with Mr. Milhollin in the conservation project as associate soil conservationist, said that the quality of the show, especially in the Hereford section, was considerably higher than it has been in several years. He was in charge of several such shows while located here. Among the beef cattle exhibits, which featured the predominant Hereford breed was a display of the famous Aberdeen-Angus breed from the Crofts Brothers ranch north of town. This breed, a black cattle, are rapidly becoming popular in this country. Karakul Sheep Another new exhibit was a trio of Karakul sheep, entered by Dr. Bob Hodges of Ranger along with a pen of white sheep. Dr. Hodges spent much of his time explaining the characteristics and value of the black Karakuls, from the lambs of which come a valuable fur for trimming. Dr. F. E. Clark and G. P. Mitham each have entered large exhibits of some of the finest Herefords seen in this section. There

Jailed Red Candidate Says Texas Students in His Party

Homer Brooks, gubernatorial candidate for Communists, Released From Jail Brooks and two companions, held in jail for a few hours, were finally taken to the city limits and told to "get out and stay out." Brooks had been scheduled to make a speech here tonight. Police Chief H. F. Baker announced that he would not allow any communist candidate to speak here. Brooks had had difficulty finding a place from which to speak in at least three Texas cities recently. PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 30. (AP) —Homer Brooks, communist candidate for governor, arrested yesterday when found with circulars advertising a communistic speech, estimated today that his party has 400 Texas members, "about 20 of them in the student body of the University of Texas." A few days ago a legislative investigation was abandoned after trying to bring out evidence that communism existed at the University.

Lobos and Eagles to Clash Today

Through the Editor's Spectacles By GEORGE Manager K. N. Greer of the Palace theater will give a show at the Theatre tomorrow at 10 o'clock for the benefit of the clothing drive conducted by the Cisco Charity and Welfare association. Admission to the show—which will include a re-showing of the local gang comedy picture—will require contribution of old clothing for the association's wardrobe for the needy. Bring anything to wear that is serviceable and you will be admitted. It is going to be a hard winter and the charity association will have little money to take care of the demands that will be made upon it. The only way it can hope to meet this demand is by the contribution of the articles that are needed for relief. Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Cannon of the West Texas Utilities company, are leaving next week for Quamah where Mr. Cannon is being transferred as assistant chief clerk for WTU District E. They have been in Cisco since May 4, after Mr. Cannon, with the company two years, was transferred from Cross Plains to Cisco. Back to his old haunts comes a familiar face. It is Jim Bird, erstwhile vocational agriculture instructor here and now an associate soil conservationist with the "Soil conservation service, Texas 6" near San Angelo. (Some day, some smart fellow is going to invent a sensible, brief title for these birds, to take the place of these unwieldy handles that are as long as the degrees they are burdened with at A. and M.) Bird, associate of R. M. Milhollin, director of the San Angelo project and one of the judges secured by Dir. T. G. Caudle for the Cisco show, seized opportunity to return with Milhollin to see how an institution he directed for two or three years was progressing. Caudle succeeded him here. Quite an improvement in quality.

CISCO HOPES FOR AN UPSET Chesley Field Due To Be Battleground The Cisco Lobos today prepared to meet their traditional rivals, the Abilene Eagles, at Chesley field this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Ciscoans, after two weeks of rest since their last grid encounter, have been preparing to upset the dope and crash through with the win which would mean more to them this year than any other victory. A big pep rally was held last night with both the student body and fans participating. Eagles Still In Race Abilene was preparing to send a delegation here today. While the Eagles have lost one game this season, they are still very much in the district picture and are confident of victory over the Lobos. The student body displayed much spirit and pep today. Students were to gather in front of the school building immediately after school and march behind the band to the football field. Classes were cut short today to allow the students to see the game. The grammar school pep squad along with the high school pep squad will be there to cheer for the Lobos.

MOLLISON HOP SETS RECORD Flier Reaches London Without Stop CROYDEN, Eng., Oct. 30. (AP)—Capt. James Mollison landed here today, shattering the speed record for an eastward crossing of the Atlantic ocean. The flight required 13 hours and 17 minutes. This was the first time that the trip with London as the eastern goal had been completed without a forced landing. Mollison was the first man to fly a plane across the Atlantic three times. (AP)—When a Texas gulf coast farmer wants winter hay he goes to a pasture and mows it. Hay-making is a full-time industry on the prairies in the Houston and Galveston regions and there is never a hay shortage. The prairie grass grows about waist high in pastures that are not overstocked and makes good "roughness" for winter feeding. No seeding or cultivation is involved. Shipping Paralyzed By Pacific Strike

(By Associated Press) Pacific coast shipping was paralyzed today by a strike of 37,000 maritime workers, members of seven federated unions. Possibility arose of a spread of the strike to eastern and gulf ports, tying up virtually all American shipping. Randolph Meriwether, western secretary of the Marine Engineers Beneficial association, predicted a national strike. A portwide "sit-down" strike, expected in New York at noon, did not materialize. Union ship labor will vote tonight on a general eastern seaboard strike. Disagreement over points in new labor contracts caused the trouble to start. There was little effect as yet at Texas gulf ports. From Buffalo, N. Y., Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced she was making efforts by telephone to bring shipping workers and employes together for negotiations, saying she had hopes of arranging a truce. DALLAS, Oct. 30. (AP) — Fred Florence, president of the Texas Centennial exposition, announced today that the $25,000,000 world's fair will be reopened in 1937. Demands of Dallas business men for a new exposition caused the board of directors to announce June 12 for the opening date. The present exposition closes November 29. Midgets Win By 19-0 Score Over Moran's Eleven

The Cisco Grammar School Midgets yesterday plowed their way to a 19 to 0 victory over Moran but for the first time this season had their uncrossed goal line threatened as the visitors loosed a bombardment that took them to the five-yard stripe in the closing minute of play. For the Midgets the big guns on offense were Tipton and Johnson, with the former scoring all three touchdowns and converting with a kick from placement after the first tally. In the final period and with only two minutes of play left, Captain Pendle, Moran quarterback, began hurling aerials to Boyd, elongated end, to march more than half the length of the field and put Moran in position to score just as the game ended. Moran is coached by Mack Statham, former Ciscoan.

Russians Fighting For Madrid, Rebels Charge

(By Associated Press) Government forces, re-inforced with war materials, battled today to drive the fascist line back from Madrid. In the second day of one of the war's bloodiest battles, the Madrid army was shelling Torrejon de Velasco preparatory to a renewed charge. The fascists claimed they had captured many prisoners, "including 300 Russian soldiers." Paris reports said the Madrid army had mobilized a secret army in southern Spain to strike at the fascist unguarded rear. Sir Samuel Hoare, first lord of the British admiralty, told the Communist International organization dominated by Moscow, not to interfere with England's affairs.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good... peace be to thee.—3 John 11, 14

For amid all life's quests There seems but worthy one—to do men good. It matters not how long we live, but how.—FESTUS.

Remember: Our echoes roll from soul to soul, And grow forever and forever.—TENNYSON.

Be good to the depths of you, and you will discover that those who surround you will be good to the same depth.—Maeterlinck.

Quicker Public Intelligence

THE common man of today—the fellow of the so-called 'submerged tenth'—is becoming more enlightened of economic conditions and the reasons for these conditions, and particularly of his relationship to the upper 'four hundred'.

TODAY two agencies developed by the miracles of modern science are contributing the most to a happier balance of power between these two extremes. These agencies are the motion picture screen and the radio. There are other agencies, but these have had the greatest influence upon the enlightenment of the common people...

INSTEAD they come into the humblest homes and into the smallest theaters as humans with human traits, mannerisms and faults common to ordinary people everywhere. Today, distance and exclusiveness are playing less and less of a part in the attitude of the public toward those who would lead them.

ROOSEVELT knows and recognizes this swift progress of civilization. He has attuned his campaign to it, just as he has planned his administration's program in its view. His is a program which is designed to save America for democracy by a reform of those institutions which serve its great ideals.

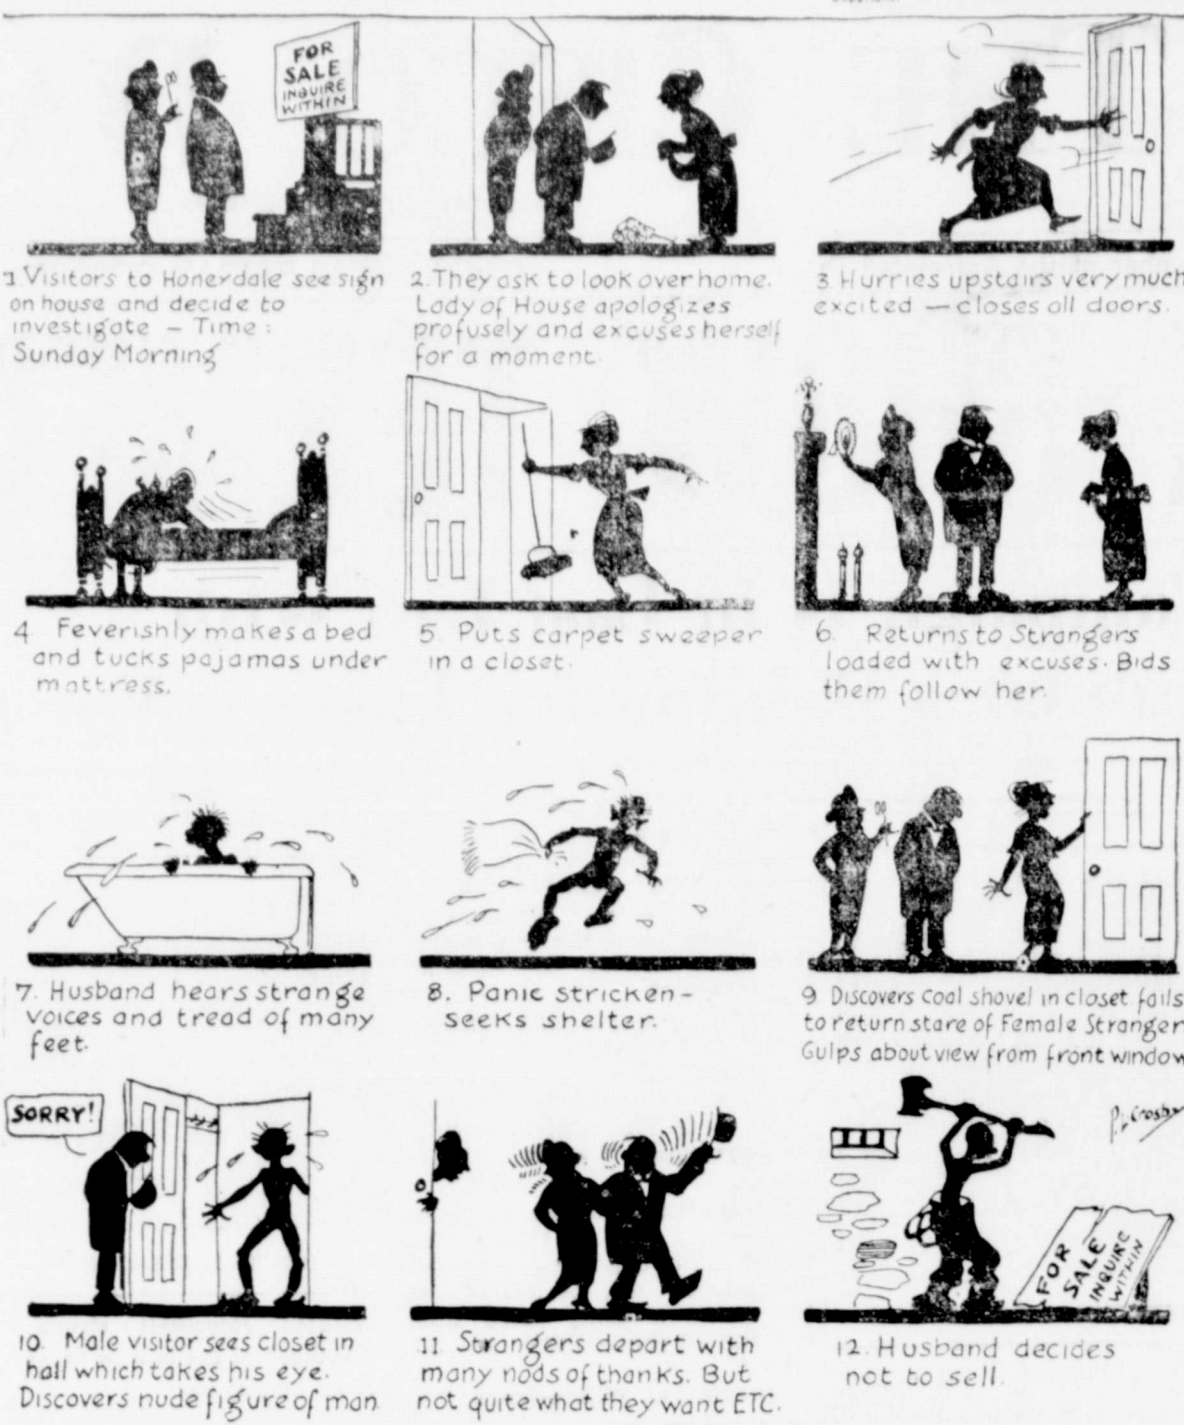

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE We must face the issue; but the first thing is to define it. When did we ever approach an election day with party lines so broken up?

I have been interested in Roosevelt's experiment during these years of the New Deal, and cannot consider it as some do a "raw deal." But I do fear that much has been done has unintentionally intensified the ailment it was purposed to remedy.

There might be many answers. Sometimes a candidate yields to the plea of deeply enthused local leaders that if he only will come into their state, a strong opposition will melt away. He wants to escape the remorse which might overtake him if he disregarded such advice, and was beaten.

Letters From Our Readers

Editor's Note: The following letter was written on the afternoon of the final day of the special session of the 44th legislature, and before the body passed the omnibus tax bill with its provision for drastically delimiting the Texas old-age assistance law.

October 27, 1936. Editor Cisco Daily Press, Cisco, Texas. Dear Editor: This will perhaps be the last official letter to the people of my district, and I would like to mention something in regard to the work of the present session of the legislature.

We were called here for the sole purpose of raising revenue for the payment of old-age pensions. The governor submitted this question to this the extraordinary session, and the house of representatives passed it. This bill was known as the omnibus tax bill.

When the moves have been completed there will be 251 camps within the geographical boundaries of the eighth corps area with an approximate enrollment of 41,000.

In addition to this number, the eighth corps area has sent 32 CCC companies to California and Oregon. 30 of them newly organized companies composed of enrollees from Oklahoma and Texas and two companies transferred from the vicinity of Gillette, Wyoming, to the ninth corps area in locations in California. There are approximately 4,800 enrollees from residences within the eighth corps Area in the 32 camps assigned to the eighth corps area in ninth corps area locations.

A prejudice might be created in favor of Landon because of his hailing from my native state, and a dry state. But my enthusiasm is cooled considerably by his favor with big business, as well as lesser business interests. Business needs to be restored to confidence. We may even need to recover some of our former conservatism. But we remember that we got into our muddle under those laissez faire methods, and what is to guarantee we will not do so again? I do not want to see the country return all the way to where we were before. We undoubtedly have learned something during these experiments. I wish there were a candidate and a platform that just suited me; since there is not I am going to—I have made up my mind what I will do.

Plan to Extend Colorado's Channel Into Gulf Is Disapproved by Army

GALVESTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—The United States board of army engineers recently disapproved in part a proposal to extend the channel at the mouth of the Colorado river across the bay and barrier reef into the Gulf, says Col. F. D. Wilby, division engineer, of New Orleans.

CCC Boys Dig In For Winter With 35 Camps Moved

(Special to The Daily Press) FORT SAM HOUSTON, Oct. 30.—With the advent of cooler weather, enrollees of the Civilian Conservation Corps camps in the Eighth Corps Area are busily engaged in "digging in" for the winter months.

Settling for the winter involves the reoccupation of winter camps in the eighth corps area vacated last spring so that enrollees could be placed on special projects which could not be consummated during the winter weather.

There are 35 camps in the eighth corps area now being moved from summer to winter locations. The majority of these camps have been stationed in tent camps during the summer, but in about 10 instances camps are being moved from permanent summer locations into permanent winter locations.

When the moves have been completed there will be 251 camps within the geographical boundaries of the eighth corps area with an approximate enrollment of 41,000.

In conclusion I want the old folks of my district to know that I have kept faith with them and shall continue to do so; neither shall I betray them. I do not believe that the rolls should be depleted at this time since we are facing the cold winter months, and doubtless many persons will suffer if they do not receive their pension checks to tide them over. Again I want to express my appreciation for the honor you have bestowed on me during the past four years. I have enjoyed every minute of my work while serving you in the legislature, and I hereby return your commission to you just as clean and spotless as when it was handed to me.

Sincerely yours, CECIL A. LOTIEF. OPEN MEETING TODAY LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30. (AP)—Churchill Downs opened its fall meeting yesterday with charity day program headed by a race for gentlemen riders. Six other events are scheduled.

Meetings Announced The following 4-H club meetings have been announced by Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent, for the week beginning Nov. 2: Tuesday, Kokomo and Flatwood; Wednesday, Grandview and New Hope; Thursday, Scranton and Romney.

At each of these meetings a demonstration will be given by Mr. Barnhart, and Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant home demonstration agent, on the making and the use of garden tile for the sub-irrigation of gardens. This demonstration will be given to both the boys and girls' 4-H clubs in a joint meeting in these various communities.

Five More Jerseys Five more head of good registered Jersey cattle have been brought into Eastland county, according to Assistant County Agent Barnhart. T. E. 4-H Club Day November 12 has been set aside as 4-H club day for the Texas 4-H club boys and girls at the Texas centennial according to a letter received by Mr. Barnhart, from L. L. Johnson, state boys' club agent. Exceptionally low railroad rates have been offered to the club boys and girls who make the trip. Admission to the grounds as well as admission to many of the outstanding attractions on the grounds has been reduced considerably.

All 4-H club boys and girls of Eastland county who are interested in going to the Texas centennial on 4-H club day, are asked to either see or write to Mr. Barnhart, or Miss Stewart, not later than Thursday, Nov. 5.

POLITICS at Random

By BYRON PRICE Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington. While in theory a presidential campaign blankets 48 states, only a score or less usually feel the full force of the final pre-election drive for votes. It is so in 1936.

Firing may continue outside the crucial sector, for one reason or another. Presidential candidates may even make excursions into territory which they have not counted as their most promising. But all of that often is merely a part of the old military game of trying to confuse the enemy.

When it comes down to the real, underground work of getting out the vote, which many believe controls elections regardless of the activities of the candidates, the situation is different. Each party's high command sets aside certain states as safe, and puts in its best licks in those additional states where the possibilities seem most plausible.

New York to Colorado This year the disposition of the democrats is to look on the South and the Far West as the first line of their electoral strength. Since the Maine election, the republicans have reckoned all of the new England states as their. These claims are disputed, in each instance; but the inevitable logic of the situation still indicates that the belt of contested states stretching from New York to Colorado will be the focus of the culminating engagement of the campaign.

Within this section are the states of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, South Dakota, North Dakota, Wyoming, Idaho and Colorado.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE Together these 20 states have 284 electoral votes, 18 more than the 266 needed to elect. If Mr. Roosevelt can carry the South and the Far West, he still will need some of these states to win. If Mr. Landon can carry New England, he still will need most of these states to win.

This is the simplest way in which the situation can be stated. Democratic predictions of victory are based on a hope that at least two or three of the largest of the crucial states, or several of the smaller, will go democratic; while republican claims of an electoral college majority presupposes a republican sweep through virtually the entire disputed area.

In fact, on the republican side, National Chairman Hamilton has said as much, in substance. He has predicted that Mr. Landon will win by carrying every state east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio, and 10 or 12 west of the Mississippi. A glance at the map will show what a solid sweep that would mean.

The policy of the democratic managers is to claim everything, but to do it with a smile. Meantime they keep pegging away on the New York-Colorado front.

Hunches Play Part Then why does Mr. Landon go to California, and why does Mr. Roosevelt swing through New England? There might be many answers. Sometimes a candidate yields to the plea of deeply enthused local leaders that if he only will come into their state, a strong opposition will melt away. He wants to escape the remorse which might overtake him if he disregarded such advice, and was beaten.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

SYNOPSIS: Terence Mahony is well along toward catching Ambrase Lawson, murderer of Vincent Little and leader of a vicious gang. But Lawson, through his friend Lee-Ramsden, has tangled the skein, and now Terence is unknowingly waiting in a house for almost certain death, and his gang is about to be ambushed in their hide-out. Ruth Fraser, who loves Terence but won't admit it, has managed to get to Terence's friends, and has warned Fatty Bassett, however.

Chapter 31 AMBUSH

With that Bassett turned away and made for the stairs that led down to the basement. Ruth hesitated for a moment. If anything was going to happen, she wanted to see it, so that she could tell Mahony all about it before he rang chair, untying Lake. Fatty Bassett coughed.

Then everything happened with incredible swiftness. The door of the cupboard suddenly flew open, and Fatty's three men sprang out, their pistols in their hands. They did not shoot, since their pistols were not fitted with silencers, but in the same movement with which they left the cupboard they hurled themselves at the three invaders.

The invading party, taken utterly by surprise, had hardly time to offer any real resistance. Before they could even aim their guns, Flynn's huge fist, with a big Colt clamped in it, had smashed one of them to the floor; Chippy had

The punch knocked Flynn across the room.

Bassett up. She slipped quietly into the room in which Bassett had given directions to his men, and hid behind a curtain.

Bassett descended the stairs which led to the basement and crossed the kitchen to the back door of the house. As he was crossing the kitchen the three knocks, pause, and another knock, sounded again.

"Orl right, orl right, don't be impatient," he called out, and he opened the back door.

Immediately the barrel of an automatic pistol was thrust into his stomach, and a stern voice said: "Stand back from this door and stick your hands up."

"Wot the . . ." exclaimed Bassett in a tone of utter astonishment; but he stepped back from the door, and his hands went up above his head.

Three men quietly entered the kitchen, closing the door after them. They were tough, hard-biten, evil-looking ruffians and in their hands they carried small automatic pistols fitted with silencers. Their leader, the man who had already spoken, prodded Bassett roughly with his automatic.

"We've come for Lake," he stated harshly. "You know who sent us."

Bassett's hands, held up above his head, were trembling visibly; his expression was one of shivering terror.

"Lake," he stammered. "I ain't seen Mr. Lake. You can search the place, mister; you won't find 'im 'ere."

"I know damned well I can search the place and I shan't find him," returned the other man curtly. "If I thought I could find him by simply searching the house I'd have plugged you straight off."

Things were going exactly as Bassett had planned.

"Lead on," went on the other man. "And if you so much as squawk you'll get shot where it will hurt like hell, but won't kill you."

There was apparently no fight left in Fatty Bassett.

"If . . . if I take you to Mr. Lake, you won't shoot me afterwards," he whimpered.

"If you don't take us to him I'll shoot you right away, through the knee to start with," replied the leader of the invaders contemptuously. "Get on with it."

Shivering, Bassett led the way up the stairs. The three men followed close on his heels, their guns ready for instant action.

None of Fatty's friends appeared; the house seemed quite silent and empty. Fatty led the way through the hall and up a flight of stairs. There he paused for a moment on a small landing, and then flung open the door of a room.

It was a long, narrow room, with a large, built-in cupboard stretching the entire length of one wall. Seated in a chair placed against the wall opposite to the cupboard was Lake. His hands and ankles were tied securely to the chair, and he was gagged.

The leader of the invading party gave an exclamation of satisfaction and hurried forward. His two men followed him. For one moment they were off their guard; their backs were towards the cupboard as they clustered round the

moved; the blow which had been meant for his head glanced off his shoulder. The man staggered, and in the act of staggering he fired. There was a short muffled rap as the silenced automatic went off, and Fatty's man clasped both hands suddenly to his chest and, with an agonized gasp, sank to the floor.

With a roar like that of an angry lion, big Barney Flynn turned and sprang; before the man had time to fire again his huge fist landed with terrific impact under the man's chin. It was a punch that lifted the man off his feet and knocked him senseless clean across the room. With a tremendous crash of glass his limp falling body struck the window, and went slap through the window, falling ten feet into the street.

There was a pause of utter consternation inside the room. "Gawdelpus!" exclaimed Bassett. "That's done it. We'll have the cops 'ere in a minute now."

He bent swiftly over the man who had been shot.

"Slim's got 'is, orlright," he went on. "There ain't nothing we can do for 'im. It's up to us to get out of 'ere as quickly as we can. Catch 'old of that bloke, Barney, and foller me, both of you."

Barney seized the bound figure of Lake and lifted it easily, chair and everything, in his powerful arms. They mounted another flight of stairs, and there, in a small attic, Bassett bent down and pressed strongly on a portion of the wall. Silently it swung back, disclosing a hidden doorway into the house next door. They went through the doorway and Bassett swung the wall to behind them.

"Wait 'ere a moment," said Bassett.

He swiftly descended the stairs to the pawnshop on the ground floor. Nominally that pawnshop was owned by one Eli Solomon, actually it was owned by Batty Bassett.

"Look 'ere Eli, I've been in your back room for the last hour," said Bassett swiftly. "Is the furniture van in the yard at the back?"

Sunday the police arrive—with Ruth still in the house.

Increased Demand for Gas Improves Panhandle Scene

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—Outlook for the panhandle oil and gas field for succeeding months is optimistic, the semi-annual report of the Texas Railroad commission says.

An increasing demand for sweet and sour gas is continually providing wells, hitherto dormant, with an outlet and thus is realizing a wider distribution.

As withdrawals become more uniform the pressure decline is arrested and pessimistic forecasts of the future of the field are no longer the custom, the report says.

Through the cooperation of the majority of companies operating in the field, economies in the production as well as the utilization of gas have been effected, and the value and future of regulated conservation seem generally to be accepted, the commission reports.

Total potential for the field increased from 18,533,637,000 cubic feet daily in January, 1936, to 20,194,857,000 in July.

The July weighted average pressure was 296.17 pounds per square inch for the East field, 377 for the West field, 346.11 for the sour field and, for the panhandle as a whole, 355 pounds.

Pressure Unimpaired Despite withdrawals from the panhandle reservoir, estimated in excess of six trillion cubic feet, practically 50 per cent of the total acreage retains more than 400 pounds pressure per square inch, or virtually initial pressure.

Sixty six wells were added to the schedule since the first of the year, an evidence, the commission says, of the development program going forward since confidence in the future of the field was restored.

Approximately 50 per cent of total gas now being released to the air is from casinghead plants having no residue outlet, and a sub-factor in prudent operation.

All possible casinghead is being diverted to the carbon black plants operating in the sweet gas area. In January, 39 per cent of the gas processed in gasoline plants was sold as a residue to carbon plants, and 39.7 per cent blown into the air, while in July, 62.2 per cent of the daily take was disposed of to carbon plants and 11.7 per cent stripped to the air.

This evidence increasing efficiency in the utilization of both dry and casinghead gas, the report says.

CONVENTION HALL RAZED HOUSTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—Expensive Sam Houston Hall, built for the 1928 democratic national convention at which President Franklin D. Roosevelt placed Al Smith in nomination as the presidential candidate, has been razed to make room for a $1,300,000 exposition hall.

Paper manufacturing in Pennsylvania today is estimated as a $250,000,000 business.

With Comanche Trail Scouts

Cisco Scouts Very Active

Both troops of Cisco have been very active through the summer months just passed, according to scoutmaster Hitton and Barton. The report that the Centennial was visited by a good representation of both troop 101 and 4. Camp Billy Gibbons was attended, the Gypsy Smith meeting being held in Abilene was attended, several interesting hikes have been made and others are on the schedule. Scoutmaster Hitton recently took his troop out to his ranch where they had a test passing hike.

Stephenville Has New Members

H. V. Collins, scoutmaster of troop 9 sends in the following new members for his troop: Harold Green, Joe P. Hendrick, Jr., Milton Rose, C. R. Main, Jr., and Foy E. Carpenter. Scoutmaster Collins also states that they as a troop are getting along fine. (Growth is a good indication that Scouting is being conducted. Boys are attracted to the scouting program by what scouts do.

Cubs

Cubmaster J. C. Ferguson of pack No. 1, Breckenridge, sends in five new members for his cub pack also an order for books and badges. Cubbing is the new program for boys from nine to twelve years of age, they graduate out of cubbing into troop scouting and then out of the troop into the older boy program. Cubmaster Ferguson states that the pack is getting along nicely. We recently visited a parents night program that Mr. Ferguson had and got an inspiration from seeing how eager boys of this age are for the cubbing program—a great field of opportunity if we can secure adequate leadership.

Sea Scouts Great Governors

Sea Scouts ship "Texan" consisting of the following officers and crew, visited the Centennial as guests of Commander J. M. Lewis; Boatswain-mate J. R. Nix, Coxswain Sidney Ellis, Bugler Jimmy Rominger, Yeoman Crowell Werner, Ordinary Sea Scout Harold

Wohlford. Apprentice Sea Scouts, Phillip Shaw, Ray Post, Tony Kelley, John Jones, Ray Pierce, Dean Griffith, and Cabin Boy Russell Jones, Jr., Skipper Russell B. Jones, First Mate W. F. Thorpe and Third Mate E. E. Straley. The ship is sponsored by the Breckenridge Lions club and have them to thank for assisting in the trip.

Parent Scout Night Planned

Frank Noad, scoutmaster of 16, Brownwood, sends in a letter stating that they are making definite plans to have the best Parent Scout Night that the troop has ever had.

Hold Archery Meet

Although we do not have the recruits we have a report that Scoutmaster Hendrick Troop 36, has so many archers right in his own troop that when he wants to pull an archery meet it happens right in his own troop. Tommie held one recently and says that every Scout in his troop has a bow and arrows. That some of the scouts are becoming expert enough that they go hunting with the bow and arrow. They'd like to challenge any troop to an archery meet.

A commission of five regulates hunting in Alaska in order to preserve the territory's big game. The history of the Danish language begins about the year 1,900 A. D.

Debaters Due To Blast Away Upon Munitions Topic

(Special to The Daily Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 30.—Debaters in the Interscholastic League this season will not lack ammunition with which to blast the opposition, according to reports from the bureau of public school interests of the university of Texas, under whose direction the league functions. The bureau has just published a bulletin of about 300 pages dealing with both sides of the munitions question. Judging from the orders received daily for this bulletin, many high school debate squads are now busily engaged in a study of the advisability of government ownership of the munitions industry. Supplementing the material which the bureau has issued, copies of the report of the special committee on investigations of the munitions industry, United States senate, in five volumes and containing in all about one thousand pages, are available for the competing schools, it was stated by Roy Bedichek, chief of the bureau. This report is made available for member-schools free of charge through the courtesy and interest of Senator Tom Connally. Senator Connally's radio address, entitled "Take the Profit out of War," is also available to member-schools free on request. Application for those publications must be made, however, either by the principal or the debate coach.

Besides these helps, Prof. Thos. A. Rouse, debate coach of the University of Texas, will conduct a column each month in the Interscholastic leaguer, monthly publication of the bureau, devoted to an analysis of the question, Mr. Bedichek said.

Cowboys Meet Kansas
Eleven November 7

ABILENE, Oct. 30 (Spl)—Kim-brough's victorious Cowboys were set to riding range on erring plays again this week in preparation for the Nov. 7 intersectional game with Kansas Wesleyan university from Salina.

The Abilenians will play host to visiting Coyotes an even two weeks after their victory over Creighton Bluejays in Omaha and for a second consecutive time will meet an undefeated northern eleven.

Kansas Wesleyan came through the 1935 schedule to lead the Kansas conference and according to Coach A. B. Mackie has taken five of eight conference titles.

The Coyotes however have the ranch hands outweighed considerably and through their mentor promise Cowboys a tough battle Nov. 7.

Mackie took time off from his Salina duties to scout the Cowboys game with Oklahoma Baptist and return to the Kansas Coyote den to report that everything is far from quiet on the Abilene patomac.

From the Salina camp also comes word that Matty Bell who taught a Kansas coaching school

this summer has been filling Mackie with the fear of Cowboys as a result of the ranchers' battle with Mustange in Wichita Falls last year.

The intersectional battle with Wesleyan conference holders will be an afternoon game called for 2:30 o'clock.

Hardin-Simmons will have no rest after entertaining defending Kansas Conference champions. Howard Payne, always tough competition, particularly when Cowbiys are involved, will invade the corral Nov. 14 for the Cowboys' homecoming game.

The Yellowjackets have similarly clear record this year with the exception of the season's opener against T. C. U.

NYA Gives Work To 8,000 Texas Youths

(Special to The Daily Press)
AUSTIN, Oct. 30.—More than 8,000 youths assigned work by the National Youth Administration in Texas have been removed from project pay-rolls during 1936, according to Lyndon B. Johnson, state director.

This reduction is more than 40 per cent, 17,000 young men and women having been originally assigned to the NYA work program.

TWO BIG BEARS

IN BAYLOR BACKFIELD

The pair shown above form the spearhead of the Baylor offensive attack this fall. Bob Masters of Comanche is a slashing, power-house back, while Lloyd Russell, the singing showman from Dallas, is the Bruin climax runner. Russell does the Baylor kicking, and plays at the full-back position. Both are seniors.

Baylor, 14-10. Always dangerous, and now smarting under intersectional reverses on successive Saturdays at the hands of George Washington and Louisiana State university, the Razorbacks will bring all their heavy artillery to bear in an effort to blast the Aggies from the top of the heap. The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30. The Humble Company's broadcast will start ten minutes earlier, at 2:30, with Gern Tips handling play-by-play, and Bilo Hightower the color. Stations KPRC, Houston; WFAA-WBAP, Dallas-Fort Worth; WOAI, San Antonio; KR-GV, Weslaco.

In the second game of the afternoon, Southern Methodist university makes its first conference start against the powerful Texas University club. The Mustangs have been nosed out by undefeated Fordham, 7-0; and have turned in an impressive first quarter win over Morrison-coached Vanderbilt, 16-0. Texas held the strong Louisiana State eleven to a scoreless tie and defeated Oklahoma, 6-0, only to fall victim on successive Saturdays to Baylor, 21-18, and Rice, 7-0. The Longhorns will be out to regain their conference standing Saturday, the Mustangs to establish theirs; the game promises to be a thriller from start to finish. The broadcast, under Humble's sponsorship, begins at 2:30 p. m., with Bill Ware and Tom Jacobs at the microphone. Stations: KNOW, Austin; KTSA, San Antonio; KTRH, Houston; KRDL, Dallas.

The third game of the afternoon brings together Baylor and Texas Christian university at Ft. Worth. This is an old rivalry, made keener this year by the fact that each team will be battling to stay in the conference race. T. C. U., after winning from Arkansas, lost to Texas A. & M. Baylor, on the other hand, lost to Arkansas, but followed it up with a win over the University of Texas and a tie with A. & M. That's a muddle to baffle the most expert of the dopsters; only Saturday's game can clear it up. The Humble company's broadcast will begin at 2:50 p. m., with Gene Wyatt and Cy Leland alternating at the microphone. Stations WACO, Waco, and KTAT, Ft. Worth.

The longest run of wins in the Texas Christian university-Arkansas grid series belongs to the Christians, who took three games, in 1930-31-32.

Baugh Vs. Russell
Big Show Booked
At TCU Stadium

FORT WORTH, Oct. 30.—Sling-in' Sam Baugh versus Singing Lloyd Russell in the T. C. U. stadium at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

There's a booking for you! Against the Frogs in Waco last year Russell was just another crooner, but if he flashes here Saturday as he did against Texas a couple of weeks ago, T. C. U. will think he is the leading tenor of the Metropolitan opera.

There isn't anything unusual in the preparations being made this week by coaches Dutch Meyer and Mike Brumblow. The practice sessions are filled with the usual routine of accent on fundamentals, constant polishing of the offense, and endless work on defense.

"We don't intend to try to 'city slicker' Baylor," Coach Meyer comments. "We couldn't do it, even if we did try. If we manage to win, it will be because we play harder, faster, smarter football."

The Bears will have a slight edge on the Frogs both in weight and experience, according to the statistics on the probable starting line-ups.

Baylor Line

The Baylor line averages about 194 pounds and the T. C. U. forwards wall 191 pounds. The seven probable starters for the Waco eleven total eight years varsity experience, with only one sophomore in the group.

T. C. U., on the other hand, will probably start three sophomores in the line, three seniors and one junior, their varsity experience totaling seven years.

The Frog backfield will average about 175 pounds, with three seniors and one sophomore. The Baylor backfield will probably consist of three seniors and one junior, the four averaging about 180 pounds.

Not a great deal of difference in either spot, 'tis true. But in a game that looks to be just about a toss-up, this difference might play a most important part.

Still, when you come right down to it, it all reverts back to which star has a field day—Baugh or Russell.

And if they both should click! Well, that'll be one for the books.

SLAYER FREE ON BOND

DALLAS, Oct. 30. (AP)—Geo. W. Redston, 34, former investigator for the late Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, convicted of slaying A. B. Farrow, 41, former policeman and saloon operator, was freed Thursday on a $6,000 appeal bond.

Three Conference Games to Be On Air By Humble

An interesting Saturday afternoon is in prospect for radio followers of Southwest conference football. Three games, engaging six of the seven conference teams, are scheduled for broadcasting under the sponsorship of the Humble Oil & Refining company.

Leading the list, because the Aggies lead the league, is the game between Texas A. & M. and the University of Arkansas to be played on Kyle Field at College Station. The Aggie conference record, and for that matter, non-conference, too, is unblemished except for the tie game with Baylor at Waco last Saturday. Previously, the Aggies had vanquished Rice, 3-0, and T. C. U., 18-7 showing impressive form. Arkansas has only played two conference games; in one of these the Razorbacks came off second best, by a touchdown, to T. C. U., and in the second, they came from behind to win from the University of Texas and a tie with A. & M. That's a muddle to baffle the most expert of the dopsters; only Saturday's game can clear it up. The Humble company's broadcast will begin at 2:50 p. m., with Gene Wyatt and Cy Leland alternating at the microphone. Stations WACO, Waco, and KTAT, Ft. Worth.
