SEC'Y PERKINS APPOINTS STRIKE BOARD

Cancellation of Property Laws Is Urged

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

I have just received from Mayor C. W. Hoffman of Eastland a neatly printed and typed parallelogram of pink cardboard which entitles me to a season pass to the Eastland municipal swimming pool. Eastland, having taken a leaf out of Cisco's book, has built upon a tall hill overlooking the town what is reported to be a mighty nice pool, and is planning a big time for the 3rd, 4th and 5th of July in a community celebration.

There ought to be plenty of entertainment for the folks in this county over the Fourth, with celebrations at Cisco, Eastland and Ranger. The more the merrier. I appreciate the courtesy extended and plan to show this appreciation with a visit to the pool one of these afternoons. It would be better for all our communities if we should visit among ourselves more.

It may be a little incongruous to jump from swimming pools to onions, but the subject was brought up by A. M. Worley who brought in one of the biggest Bermudas that I have seen grown in Cisco. He pulled it from a row of its brethren this morning, making the selection at random. Onions form one of the best money crops of the truck raiser, and the quality in to which they grow here is a mighty good recommendation.

IN WHICH I AM TAKEN TO A SKINNING
Specs, Care of Editor, Cisco Daily Press, Cisco, Texas.
Kind Mr. "Specs,"

I always read your column, usually the first thing. I have always thought you used quite a grain of intelligence in writing it about other people and places but just now I kind of think maybe you don't after all, after reading your comment about the Cisco program over the radio.

Now you might not have investigated much before you wrote that, but two-thirds of the members of the orchestra live near and in Cisco, and spend their money in Cisco. Several rural families I know have radios and enjoyed that program and they weren't so far from Cisco but that they could have driven in and purchased any bargain mentioned (if any was) on the same afternoon of that program and have been back home in time for their supper. The program was not broadcast from so great a distance from Cisco. Anyone with a good car can make it in two hours easily and there are lots of good cars now. Anyone no farther away than that broadcasting station hearing an announcement, say, like the band concert that is to be given at the lake Thursday evening, could start right after the program is finished, get to the parks at the lake in time for a picnic lunch and then enjoy the concert and maybe some boating or swimming or dance or come back to Cisco for a good show then home to bed before the milkman makes his round.

I wouldn't blame the orchestra boys if they ordered their daily papers from now on from Sears, Roebuck & Co., or some other place. Do you? For I just guess the Press wasn't mentioned a name in their programs, now was it?

I have most always agreed with your views about other things.

WOULD SAVE MUCH MONEY, MAGILL SAYS

"Situation Calls For Remedial Legislation"--Morgenthau

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury, told the congressional committee on tax dodging today that the treasury would be gaining "by many millions of dollars" if community property laws of eight states, including Texas, would be cancelled.

He said community property laws operate so that in New York where there is no such law, an individual with $1,000,000 income pays a federal tax of about $32,000.

In California, with a commodity property state tax, the same income would be taxed $18,000 because half is reported by the wife. Secretary Morgenthau testified that he hoped "continued publicity of methods of tax dodging would help to stop it."

"The situation calls for remedial legislation," he said. His statement contained no names but treasury officials said a list would be submitted later.

Brother of Mrs. Miller Is Killed Wednesday Night

A message was received at 6:45 this morning by Mrs. Raby Miller saying that her brother, J. J. Hunter, 30, of Midland, was killed in an oil well accident sometime Wednesday night while the well on which he was working was being brought in. No particulars as to the nature of the accident had been received this afternoon.

The funeral arrangements had not been made early this afternoon but it is probable that the burial will be at Vernon tomorrow.

Mr. Raby Miller was to arrive tonight and he, his wife, and his daughter, Zona, were to leave Friday morning for the funeral. Hunter leaves a wife and one child, Virginia Lee, age three. Mrs. Miller's brother is survived by two brothers—W. B. Hunter of Quanah and J. C. Hunter of Midland; and four sisters—Mrs. Mary H. Dohoney of Dallas, Mrs. O. J. Norwood of Hobbs, N. M., Mrs. A. M. Brewer of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Raby Miller of Cisco. His mother, Mrs. Kate Hunter, also survives him. She is well-known to Ciscoans.

Local Golfers Qualify for Annual Tournament

A large field of local golfers and several "out-of-town"ers have already qualified and others were doing so today for the sixth annual Country club tournament to be held here June 18, 19 and 20.

However, the main field will qualify on the last qualifying day, Friday, and they will include leading golfers of this section. Match play will start Saturday morning and the finals will be played late Sunday afternoon with the prizes

Madrid's Ragtail Supporters Made Into Powerful Group

LOYALIST ARMY THEN . . . AND NOW
Eleven Months Have Made A World Of Difference

11 Months of War Developed Strong Loyalist Fighters

By ALEXANDER H. UHL
MADRID (AP)—Out of 11 months of bitter warfare has come a strong loyalist army, well disciplined, well equipped. It is a far cry from the ragged, poorly equipped peasant and workers' militia that faced Franco's professionals last July. The government proudly cites the new army as its principal accomplishment to date—and to anyone who saw the ragtail band it started with it is readily apparent that a tremendous task in organization has been accomplished.

Armed Mob at First
In the beginning the "people's army" was little better than an armed mob and not too well armed at that. The old army with its officers was gone and the new defenders of the government were not only ignorant of military ways but instinctively turned against thoughts of discipline and organization. On the road to Toledo I drove up to a disorganized mass of troops retreating from Bargas, key to the Toledo position. A dozen men rushed up, gesticulating wildly, and in broken sentences, demanded the car. Pointing to the American flag fluttering from the windshield I refused to surrender it and demanded to see an officer.

"Officers!" they shouted. "We have no officers!"
Against Their Philosophy
And it was true. They were Catalan anarchists come to help save Madrid but the idea of some one in a position to give commands was foreign to their philosophy.

Today the bitter lessons learned on the battlefield of lack of discipline and organization have been taken to heart. Regularly formed military units, uniformly equipped as in any army, have replaced the old brigades representing political or labor organizations.

There are officers, perhaps in even a higher ratio than in other armies, and that old fetish of every army, the salute, is rigorously observed even in front line trenches.

Young Officers
On a recent visit to the Arganda front I met dozens of young officers recently graduated by officers' training schools. They were smartly dressed, keen about their jobs and took immense pride in their trenches and discipline. They might have been officers in any army of the world. What made them different was their youth. There were captains and even majors scarcely in their 20s.

Commissars with the troops representing party and syndical organizations have helped the government whip untrained masses into a real army. Every sector has a training school. Operating alongside is a school for the three Rs. The thirst for knowledge among Spanish peasants, some of whom have never seen the inside of a school, is enormous.

Every day the new army is being built into a more cohesive unit. On it the government pins its confidence of eventually breaking the rebellion.

Red Front Sluggers Crush Scranton By 13 to 0 Score Wednesday Night

DRYS MAKING NO REPORTS

Meeting Held This Morning

"We have nothing to report," said M. L. Meglasson, chairman of the Eastland county United Drys today following a meeting of the drys this morning.

The countywide election of May 1 which resulted in a majority in favor of outlawing the sale of all forms of alcoholic liquors, was declared null and void by Judge B. H. Atchison Wednesday.

Walter Boyett Pitches 3-Hit Contest to Win

The Red Front sluggers, already leading the city league with three wins and one loss, moved a pace closer to the city championship last night by swamping Scranton by a count of 13 to 0.

No home runs were hit but Preston, Coates and Unkart for the victors popped triples in the swiftest.

Boyett, pitching three hit ball, struck out eleven men in scoring his shutout. Bailey, starting hurler for the losers, fanned six in the six innings he was in the game.

The battle opened with Red Front scoring two runs and they smothered the rest of the game increasing their lead while only one Scrantonite got as far as third base and only 8 reached first.

The Red Shirted lads were unable to score in the second round or the 3rd but they increased their lead to five in the fourth with an error, a single and two triples. They ran the margin up to 7 in the fifth frame and in the sixth piled up three more markers after two were down.

As if that wasn't plenty they smashed three more singles, a fielder's choice, and were helped along with an error, to run three men across the plate to bring their total to 13 in the last inning.

Two of Scranton's three hits were singles and one of those was

REBELS PUSH ON CLOSER TO BILBAO TODAY

Climb Last 2 Hills at West Entrance, Occupy Airport

(By Associated Press)
Insurgents pushed their broad offensive to the edge of Bilbao today occupying the international airfield and climbing the last two hills at the western entrance.

They mapped a new drive on Santander, 45 miles west of Bilbao, which will begin tonight if Bilbao is bottled.

It was rumored that the Basques planned to dynamite Bilbao before fleeing. Lloyd's agent at Gibraltar reported that the Italian steamer, Madda, was bombed by Spanish government aircraft off Oran, Algeria, but she was not hit. It was reported that insurgents had captured three boatloads of the 3,000 refugees fleeing Bilbao.

Cisco Police Are Investigating 2 Burglaries Here

If you are leaving your home for two or three weeks or for any considerable period of time intended, give the police department the information so that the officers can check on the property during your absence, said Police Chief M. L. Perdue this morning.

The police now are investigating entrances of two private homes here in the absence of their occupants. A considerable quantity of valuables was taken in each instance, although the amounts of the losses had not been accurately determined, Perdue said.

There has been no epidemic of burglaries while residents were at home, the chief said. He urged that families going away on vacation periods inform police when they are going, and when they expect to return and to give the officers other information that might help them in checking on the untended home during that period.

Goat-Dipping Will Be at Harrell Farm Sat.

Farmers and others interested in goat and sheep culture were invited to attend a goat and sheep dipping demonstration at the farm of F. E. Harrell, three miles west on Highway One, at 1:30 Saturday afternoon, it was announced by T. G. Caudle, vocational agriculture instructor here.

The demonstration, directed by County Agent Elmo Cook, will use a sulphur solution recently developed for ridding the animals of lice.

One hundred and fifty goats and between 300 and 350 sheep are to be dipped.

FD APPROVES APPOINTMENT OF MEMBERS

Group to Mediate In All Current Steel Disputes

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins announced today appointment of a board to mediate in all current steel disputes.

She named Charles P. Taft, Lloyd K. Garrison, and Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward McGrady as a board authorized to investigate, conduct hearings, make finding facts and to act as "voluntary arbitrator" of both sides in the controversy request.

She said President Roosevelt approved creation of the board. Governor Martin Davey of Ohio had appealed to the president to intervene in the steel strike.

"The matter has gone way beyond powers and opportunities of one state to deal with it," said his telegram to the president.

At Johnstown, Pa., state police reported that an undetermined number of non-strikers had slipped back to their jobs in the strike-bound Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel. A non-striker stabbed two pickets there.

John Owens, CIO chief, said that any attempt to reopen mills in the Mahoning valley in Ohio would result in sit-down strikes unless union contracts were signed.

City's Campaign to Collect Bills Is Bearing Fruit

The city's campaign to collect past due water bills is bearing fruit in the form of several thousand dollars of additional money this month, City Secretary J. B. Cate said today.

The commission policy will be rigidly carried out, he said. Those who are unable to pay their bills and wish to make arrangements satisfactory to the city for taking care of the delinquent sums without having water service cut off will be required to see the commission, under instructions given by the commission.

If service is disconnected, a charge of one dollar will be made for reconnection.

It was explained that the commission does not wish to be hard on any one, but to insure the collection of accounts that can and must be collected if the business of the city is to be carried on without deficit or interruption. Appeals to patriotism and cooperation have in the past produced but little result, it was explained, hence it has become absolutely necessary to use more business-like measures.

Chesterfield to Add 2 Stars to Radio Programs

The Wednesday and Friday coast-to-coast radio programs sponsored by Chesterfield cigarettes will change stars for the summer weeks beginning June 30 and July 2 respectively. On the first date Frank Parker becomes the featured singer with Andre Kostelanetz's orchestra, while the Friday show which presents the dance tempos of Hal Kemp will move to Hollywood to be joined by Alice Faye, the popular star of Twentieth Century-Fox musicals.

Neither of Chesterfield's new singing stars needs an introduction to readers of these columns. Wherever radio sets are owned, Frank Parker's fine tenor voice has inspired much tuning in. The handsome young tenor has been featured on the stage and screen as well, but his widest popularity has been achieved in the field of radio. On the Chesterfield Wednesday programs Parker will present the outstanding songs from the better musical shows as well as the very best in the popular class. With the brilliant musical settings of Andre Kostelanetz this should be one of the summer's finest musical shows, so make a note of the time . . . Wednesdays at 9 p. m. New York time on your Columbia Network station.

Coming to Chesterfield's summer plans for Friday evenings, Alice Faye brings an aristry in popular singing that will match the famous Kemp tempo to perfection. Miss Faye's ability to enertain huge audiences was recognized when she was given the leading part in Hollywood's production of George White's scandals. Since then Alice Faye's name has headed the cast of some of the best liked musicals ever made for the screen. Her recent successes are "On the Avenue" with the songs of Irving Berlin, and "Wake Up and Live," in which Miss Faye was also cast in the feminine lead. Her Chesterfield radio show with Hal Kemp's band will be a new weekly coast-to-coast feature and there is no doubt in anyone's mind that Friday evenings at 7:30 your nearest Columbia station will bring the finest in dance music and popular songs.

Car Registrations Lower During May

AUSTIN, June 17.—New passenger car registrations in Texas during May were slightly below those of the preceding month and the corresponding month last year, the University of Texas bureau of business research has found. Reports to the bureau from fourteen representative Texas counties show a total of 5,822 registrations for May, a decline of 2.5 per cent from April and of 6.1 per cent from May last year. Aggregate sales in these fourteen counties during the first five months of the year were 30,188, an increase of nearly one per cent over the corresponding period last year.

The decline in sales from May last year is entirely the result of fewer registrations in the lower price group. The three higher price groups all showed substantial gains both over total sales in May, 1936, and aggregate sales during the first five months.

SPECULATE ON GUITAR EXTENSION
ABILENE, June 17. (Sp)—With pay structure of the Guitar pool proved into the townsite of Hawley—14 miles north of Abilene in Jones county—operators speculated yesterday on the probable extent of the area along with estimates on the size of the extension well.

Brown Eagle Oil company and S. B. Roberts No. 1 Will S. Lewis, topping first sand higher than in the field, was cemented with six-inch casing set at 1,968 feet. Gas was encountered at that depth, and about one bailer of free oil was found in drilling to 1,970 feet, the total depth.

Plug will be drilled probably Thursday morning, owners said.

Dr. Arthur Swan of Abilene said yesterday he would apply for railroad commission permit immediately to drill another test two locations to the south. Operations are expected to begin within two weeks.

No. 1 Lewis is a quarter mile west of the largest producer in the field and found pay four feet higher on structure. It is 660 feet from the north and 220 feet from the east line of the Lewis 26-acre tract in G. Martinez survey No. 194.

One deal was reported to the south of the main field, 24 acres selling for $125 per acre cash and $75 in oil.

Outpost Watched
Another closely watched outpost to the field, the Ungren & Frazier, F. E. Shaheen and R. M. Wagstaff No. 1 J. H. Shipley, was delayed in reaching pay zone yesterday when a bailer was lost in the hole at 1,955 feet, the total depth.

It is a two-location northwest outpost, being in the southwest 10-acres of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 44-15-T&P survey.

Operators also announced location yesterday, coincident with the pool extension, for a west offset to the No. 1 Shipley, the second well to be 220 feet from the west line (center of the road) and 190 feet from the south line of the Shipley tract. Ungren & Frazier were to move in machine today.

In the pool, Dancier Oil & Refineries No. 4 Guitar trust estate began railroad commission potential gauge after 3,000-gallon acid treatment at 1,986-2,007 feet flowing initially at 100 barrels per hour.

Operators were to drill plug on the Thomas D. Humphrey No. 3 Guitar, on the south end of production, either today or tomorrow, after it had been cemented at 1,985 feet.

A mile north of the pool the Campbell & Reeves No. 1 S. A. Kelley reported pumping 12 to 16 barrels daily following railroad commission potential gauge of 72 barrels in 19 1-2 hours last week. It is in lot 9, Martinez survey No. 194.

Offsets
Offset acreage to the Will S.

Lewis tract on which the pool extension was drilled is owned on the north by Thomas D. Humphrey, on the west by Bob Humphrey, Ungren & Frazier have a tract offsetting to the west the Shipley 10-acre plot; Shaheen and Wagstaff hold a 46-acre tract to the north of Ungren & Frazier, and the Archer Drilling company of Wichita Falls brought north of that.

Royalty under the Thomas D. Humphrey lease was purchased by Esco Walters, Harvey Brown, Joe Childers and Mrs. E. C. Rawls of Abilene last fall, at a reported price of $60 per acre base cash.

Once Bandit Hangout is Law-Abiding Town

LENAPAH, Okla., June 17 (AP)—From its wild beginnings Lenapah has swung to a reputation as the law-abidingest community in these parts.

It has no town constable. None is needed to mind its 336 residents.

But before it settled down Lenapah, just north of Nowata in the northeastern corner of Oklahoma, was the hangout for such bandit characters as Henry Starr, Al Spencer and members of the Poole-Hart and Conno-Jarrett gangs.

Preparations Are Progressing For First Series of Church Encampments

Preparations are getting well under way for the first of a series of young people's encampments which are to be held this summer on the new Presbyterian encampment grounds at Lake Cisco where permanent stone-veneered buildings to accommodate the children and their instructors and leaders are being erected.

Three large structures, beautifully finished in the native stone, already have been completed by the Fort Worth presbytery, sponsor of the encampment. The Haskell church group has finished its cottage, except for the roof.

These facilities, said the Rev. M. H. Applewhite, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here and chairman of the committee in charge, will accommodate this summer's camps satisfactorily. Next year, with the impetus given construction this season, he anticipated a great activity on the part of individual church groups in the construction of cabins and cottages. The native stone finish will be carried throughout the construction, making for an attractive uniformity as well as sturdiness and permanence.

The first encampment, to start June 28 and last a week, will be that of the Pioneer group, ranging in ages from 12 to 14 years, inclusive. Following this period, the senior group, ages 15 to 17, inclusive, will have its encampment beginning July 12.

Other encampment periods are yet to be fixed. There will be several.

The encampment facilities are not limited to church groups. The committee will admit other groups the use of them under conditions which involve the protection of the purpose and property of the institution. For instance, the FFA encampment, hitherto housed under the buttresses of the big dam, will be headquartered there in August.

Small cars of low gas consumption can be rented in Europe now for about $5 a day. Tourists are advised to obtain international driving licenses in New York before going abroad.

Reorganize Young People's Dept of Methodist Church

The Young People's department of the First Methodist church has been completely reorganized.

Formerly the department had been one group with its officers. Recently it was divided into two parts—the young people and the senior department.

Following the reorganization, the officers of the two departments met at regular council meeting at the church last Thursday night and planned their field of work and discussed other business of the department.

One of the main discussions was the Methodist Young People's conference to be held at Georgetown June 21 to 26. Rev. Joe L. Patterson, aided by Mrs. John Shertzer and Mrs. J. E. Crawford, is making an effort to send at least 12 members of the department to the conference.

"It is a wonderful experience," Rev. Patterson said. "It will do you much good and you will be very valuable to our department with the inspiration and information you receive at the conference."

As part of the reorganization heads of the various committees were elected and their helpers were named at the council meeting.

The committee chairmen were: Worship—Emojane Hazlewood; membership—Eva Mae Home; play and recreation—Joy Miller; missionary—Betty Jo Hicks; publicity—Cecil Edwards.

The officers of the department as elected recently are:

Young people—Meivin Hicks, president; Pansy Lee Porter, vice president; Lotta Proctor, secretary; James Johnson, treasurer.

Senior department—Mildred Curry, president; J. C. Paschall, vice president; A. C. Donica, secretary; Mary Ruth Proctor, treasurer.

Dog Packs Attack Southwest Flocks

AUSTIN, Tex., June 17. (AP)—Dogs, for centuries the traditional protector of peaceful flocks, rank with wolves as livestock destroyers in some parts of Texas.

That's the claim of ranchers advocating a law to stop wanton slaughter of sheep, goats and even cattle by uncontrolled dogs.

They claim police dogs are the worst offenders and that the toll of livestock in one county alone was $20,000 in one year. The dogs kill for pleasure, not for food, ranchers say.

To Avoid Treason, Say "Ar-Kan-Saw"

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 17. (AP)—The name, suh, is Ar-kan-saw. Pronounce it Ar-kan-zes and you are committing treason.

The Oklahoma City chamber of commerce, planning to dedicate one of its programs to the state of Arkansas, wrote to the Little Rock chamber of commerce just to make sure the name wouldn't be pronounced wrong.

"Everybody now pronounces the name of the state 'Arkansaw,'" said the clarifying letter, "and it is little less than high treason to pronounce it differently."

Sun Porch Is Built for Orbie D. Jacobs

With material purchased with contributions by local business men, Cisco carpenters have completed without charge a sun porch for Orbie D. Jacobs, partially paralyzed for years as the result of a spine injury sustained in football practice. Representing the carpenters, W. R. Wroten expressed thanks for the cooperation of the contributors.

The sun porch, covered with a canvass awning which young Jacobs may operate from his wheel chair to regulate sunlight, will be attached to his bedroom so that he may be readily wheeled into or from it.

Effect of the sunlight, it was said, will materially benefit him in his fight to recover from the effects of the injury.

Bug Collector Gets Dividends From Ladybirds

WENATCHEE, Wash., June 17. (AP)—When W. C. Peach, the ladybird king, has a good day, there are 50,000 bugs in his automobile.

Peach works madly from April 1 to July 1 scurrying over rocks and hills of Central Washington in search of ladybirds (coccinellid beetles). Finding them in huge colonies under rocks, hanging on bushes and in the bark of old trees, he pops the bugs into gunny sacks.

Later he places colonies in small screened boxes and ships them to orchardists all over the nation. The ladybird has an enormous appetite for aphids, the enemies of roses and fruit trees. Hence, Dropping a Pilot?

IN the light of the invaluable services of Vice President John Garner to the administration in the past, his leaving Washington in the middle of a legislative program of such admitted importance to the new deal has caused a good deal of private and some outspoken wondering. It takes less than half an eye to see that the administration's program in congress has arrived upon a season when the stiffening backbones of senators and house members alike is making it harder and harder for the president to exercise the dominance he wielded in the past and more necessary than ever that he have in congress such a veteran strategist as the vice president. Why Garner should leave the capitol at a time when the court reform bill has become involved in a major controversy which threatens not only to defeat the measure itself but to wreck the whole legislative train of the new deal behind it, hints strongly that all is not well within the privy councils of the administration high command. And now a Washington commentator, Paul Mallon, comes along and says, outspokenly, that a break has taken place between the president and the second in command, a difference of opinion that has impelled the staunch Texan to retire as far as possible from any further connection with the legislative program of the new deal. It was explained that Garner would respond to a request for assistance should President Roosevelt desire his aid later on, but Mallon suggests that it will be a long time before this aid is sought. The Washington columnist says Garner does not like the indifferent attitude that the president has adopted toward the strike activities of the Lewis unions, and that he is also dissatisfied with the administration financial policy. Garner, a staunch believer in ceremony, has insisted upon an about-face in the free-spending program and a definite turn toward a balanced budget, observers say. It is also said that the Texan speaks his mind as freely to "the boss" as he has been accustomed to doing to others. These characteristics lend themselves rather clearly to the probabilities involved in his departure from the legislative scene.

A few days ago Gen. Hugh S. Johnston, who supported Roosevelt ardently but condemns a program of legislation which he said is being covertly devised by a group of brilliant young "brain trusters" to make over the country, lamented loss of Louise Howe. It looks very much, in this Garner incident, as if the administration may be dropping another valuable pilot. We hope not.

A Preacher

THE departure this month-end from the pulpit of the First Baptist church of the Rev. E. S. James—it is difficult to apply the academic formality of "Doctor"—reminds the writer that he has never heard him in a pulpit. That statement is not complimentary to myself (permit me to drop the editorial impersonalization of the "we") although the fact is in part due to membership in another denomination.

BUT I have heard him preach.

I hold that the faith and principles of a person do not exist unless put into practise. I hold, too, that the pattern of one's life as accurately reflects the principles that control it as the beliefs of a person are responsible for what that person does with himself. Therefore, the most effective preaching that any preacher can do is that which he does upon the street, in his home and in the influences of his contacts with others.

I have never known James to be afraid to meet people. What is more, I have never known him to be afraid to meet any person anywhere in the same character that I knew for a certainty he used in the pulpit of his church on a Sunday morning. At the same time, I have never known him to adopt toward anybody an attitude of patronage, or any attitude born of the narrow idea that his was the peculiar fortune of a special and divine illumination. He was much in earnest and much concerned for the things he believed and wanted others to share with him, but he has made his living with other men an opportunity to demonstrate the practical value of those beliefs in the promotion of higher and better human relations.

THERE have been numbers of instances in which our opinions differed. I have never found it possible to differ with him on fundamentals. And in those differences, he has been as hospitable to my views as I have sought to be hospitable to his. I maintain that making possible that sort of a relationship, he is performing a service in behalf of good citizenship, good character and Christianity that recommends his religion a great deal more than all the homiletic assurances of the theologians.

AND he is among the most eloquent and effective speakers that has been in these parts. Cisco regrets to lose him, recommending him with unstinted praise to his new congregation, where he will need no recommendation.

By PERCY CROSBY

Allred at first indicated he would disapprove the bill, but it had the strong support of Secretary of State Edward Clark, whose recommendation to Allred apparently carried more weight than that of the press of Texas.

An interesting bit of gossip concerning this bill circulating here was to the effect that it was lobbied through the legislature by ex-Senator Carl Hardin of Stephenville on a contingent fee paid by the "ethical" dentists' organization. If the governor had not signed the bill, Hardin, according to the story, would have been paid nothing for his four months' work getting it through the legislature. Certain large city daily newspapers are expected to support a legal test of the constitutionality of the act.

Opening of the Pan American exposition at Dallas drew to the North Texas metropolis the largest assemblage of state politicians since last year's Centennial celebrations. . . . Sen. Connally, Gov. Allred, Lt. Gov. Woodul, were headliners, while many members of the house and senate attending the opening. . . . Nudism which featured the Centennial last year is conspicuously absent this time, and opening day visitors were uniformly enthusiastic in praising the new Cavalcade, magnificent spectacle depicting the establishment of liberty on the two American continents, written by Jan Isabelle Fortune, Dallas newspaper woman. . . . A terrific protest went up this week at Gov. Allred's action in vetoing two important measures, the soil conservation act and the Big Bend park purchase. . . . Opposition to the tax remission features of the first, which he also said was doubtful of obtaining federal aid because of its poor drafting, and a $750,000 appropriation item to buy the park, were given by the governor as reasons for his veto.

STATE FINANCES Some idea of the task confronting the legislature may be drawn from the final appropriation figures, after Gov. Allred had vetoed certain items and approved the big appropriation bills for the biennium. The total of the appropriations is $74,569,803 to run the government for the next two years, an increase of more than $10,000,000 over 1935-36. The state general fund deficit is about $10,000,000 and will likely reach $20,000,000 at the end of the year, which is the low point for tax collections. The legislature raised no additional revenue, but cut off about $450,000 a year, when it repealed race horse betting. The governor's vetoes eliminated more than $1,000,000 from the departmental bills as passed.

Nobody expects the special tax session to balance a budget as far out of balance as this, but a substantial levy of new tax revenue is indicated by the figures.

Snakes in Grass no Scare to This Boy

1—Hook The Snake And Toss It Into Open

2—Wait For An Opening

3—Grab It

4—Pick It Up

AP Feature Service Writer SILVER SPRINGS, Fla., June 17.—From that "dead pan" Ross Allen hears in action, you'd think snake hunting was the safest, dustiest business in the world. A harmless little garter snake is enough to give most anyone the heebie jeebies. But Allen, armed with only a hooked stick, displays no emotion at catching black diamond rattlers for the Florida reptile institute here. And he wears only the lightest of clothes. Thrusting his stick into the bushes he hooks a writhing reptile and throws it out into the open where handling is a little less precarious. Then while one hand grabs it midrifts to control its squirming, the other hand gets the snake by the head. Looks simple.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN, June 17.—What effect the action of Con. Martin Dies, who obtained adoption by the national house of representatives of an amendment to the bill creating a new federal judgeship in the Houston district, that would require the appointee to be a resident of that district, upon the plans of Gov. James V. Allred to obtain the appointment as federal judge, furnished grist for the political gossip mill here. If the bill is finally passed by the senate with the Dies amendment in it, it would mean Allred, a resident of the Wichita Falls district, could not be appointed federal judge, and the whole elaborate plan, reported to have the secret approval of Senator Tom Connally, Morris Shepard and Vice President Garner, would collapse. Friends of Allred here believe the Dies amendment will be taken out by the senate, under pressure from Garner and the two Texas senators. This will delay final passage of the bill, however, and keep the political situation in Texas in its present state of uncertainty and high tension for probably another four to six weeks.

DIES MAD AT JIMMY Dies offered and fought for the amendment because of his feud with the Texas governor, growing out of the candidacy of Clyde Smith, of Woodville, against Dies last summer. Smith, who startled the state four years ago by making a very creditable race for attorney general as an unknown was appointed assistant secretary of state under the Allred administration, and Dies credited the Allred forces with encouraging him to run against Dies. The delay in settling the matter is particularly irksome to friends of Lt. Gov. Walter Woodul, who are anxious to begin his campaign for attorney general, and can't very well do so until they learn whether he is going to serve a year as governor, as he would do if Allred resigns. Close friends of Woodul declare the latter would not seek election as governor, even if he served out Allred's term but would run for attorney general, leaving the gubernatorial field open to Col. Ernest Thompson and Atty. Gen. Bill McCraw, now generally regarded as the chief contenders. PRESS OFFICIALS NAMED Members of the Texas Press association, at their annual convention in Brownwood, named R. J. (Bob) Edwards, publisher of the Denton Record-Chronicle, veteran Texas newspaper, as president, and Deskin Wells, brilliant young publisher of the Wellington Leader, vice president. Sam Harben, perennial secretary, was renamed for the 27th time and Uncle Ben Heringel, of La Grange, treasurer. Joe Cook, of Mission, another youngster whose achievements have won wide recognition, became chairman of the Young Publishers' section. The Belo award for best weekly newspaper of the year went to the Kerrville Times, edited by J. J. Starkey. PRESS FREEDOM CURTAILED Disregarding the plea of Texas newspaper publishers that the law was a direct attack upon the freedom of the press, Gov. Allred signed the bill prohibiting dentists from advertising last week-end.

Goats Are Safest Investment Says Eastland Rancher

EASTLAND, June 17. (Sp.)—Money invested in goats is safer than any other investment in Eastland county, according to Dan L. Childress of Eastland, who is cooperating with County Agent Elmo V. Cook in a goat dipping demonstration at his ranch nine miles northwest of Eastland Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

Childress, who is clerk of the 11th court of civil appeals, has 1,300 acres of range land, 130 acres of which has been completely goated off and 900 acres of which is in the process of being cleared with goats. In addition to bringing in good revenue, the goats have browsed all underbrush off the 130 acres in two and a half years so that it will carry twice as many cattle as previously.

Where practically nothing but brush once grew, a good turf of mesquite grass, buffalo grass and other useful pasture grasses can now be found. The 900 acres partially goated off can already carry 20 per cent more cattle, is Childress belief.

Childress urges everyone interested in goats or anyone who has brush land suitable for goats to attend the meeting Saturday and hear W. R. Nesbit, extension service animal husbandman, discuss goat production in Eastland county. A total of 500 head of goats will be dipped in wettable sulphur to control lice and other external parasites.

Squirrels Killed by Prairie Dog Poison

BAIRD, June 17.—According to Mrs. Mamie Johnson of Oplin, prairie dog poison is equally effective against ground squirrels as against prairie dogs.

She told County Agent Ross B. Jenkins that she placed a half teaspoonful of the poison grain in the holes of ground squirrels and found animals outside of the holes dead the following day.

Fred Cutbirth has reported success in eradication of dogs on his ranch, and expects to complete the job later on after green grass has died. The poison may be secured from any county agent's office.

Some bee keepers let their bees die in winter, claiming it is cheaper to import new stock each spring than feed their swarms during the cold months.

Some $542,000 harmonicas were imported into the United States during the last year, Germany supplying 7,458,000 of them.

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

An Aspect of Naturalness

By IRVIN S. COBB

A POPULAR Jewish comedian told me this one not long ago and I vouched for it as an actual occurrence in which he personally had played a secondary part.

"My father," he said, "is getting to be a pretty old man now. It is nearly forty years since he came to America but in thought and in expression he still clings to old-country ways. On the business side he has been successful, but outside of his business he is so credulous and so simple that frequently he is imposed upon and has finally come to believe, I am afraid, that this world is largely populated by amateur and professional bunco steers."

"It's awfully hard to get him to stir away from home. However a few months ago, when I was playing an engagement at Buffalo I induced him to quit the office for a few days and come up to Buffalo as my guest. On the afternoon of his arrival I chartered an automobile and rode him out to Niagara."

"For fully five minutes he stood silently contemplating the Falls in all their majesty and their beauty. I lingered alongside waiting for some expression from him of the effect produced by his first sight of Niagara. But he didn't say a word. So, finally I broke in."

"Well, Dad, I said, 'what do you think of it?'"

"Son," he answered, in tones of sincere conviction, 'it couldn't be artificial!'"

Better Yields of Wheat Reported in Cisco Country

Substantial riverlets of that golden stream of wheat which is pouring from the grainery of the northwest into the channels of national prosperity are running through Cisco today. From larger acreage than has been planted to this crop in many years, perhaps in all years, yields of satisfactory degree are being reported. Most of the acreage now being harvested lies northwest and west of Cisco, in the Moran and Dothan areas.

Moran yields of near record character have been reported. Today the first indication of the magnitude of the crop around Dothan was received in a report of the threshing of 25 acres of wheat on the M. R. Surles farm just west of that community and over the line in Callahan county. The 25 acres yielded 447 bushels, an average of 18 bushels to the acre. The grain tested 62 per cent.

Other acreage in the community promises as good or better turnout, Mr. Surles said. He expects wheat to become an increasingly important crop in the area.

Randolph College Officials Confer on School's Future

Plans for the future of Randolph college Saturday awaited contacts with officials of the Restoration Foundation of the Christian church, with headquarters at Cincinnati, O., it was reported, following a meeting of the college board of trustees at the college Saturday afternoon.

The foundation, it was understood, is considering aid to the institution, and a program is being considered whereby support from other sources will be derived for next year.

Judge B. D. Sartain of Wichita Falls, resigned the presidency of the board at the meeting Saturday afternoon and will be succeeded by R. M. Means of Abilene, who was not present.

A representative of the Foundation was in Cisco to confer with President J. T. McKissick and other members of the board of the school a short while ago and subsequent conferences to work out a program for continuing the institution are due to be held as soon as possible.

No disposition was reported to have been made of a piece of a committee of community citizens asking that consideration be given to turning over the college franchise to the local schools which would endeavor to operate it as a municipal college under a program that would insure restoration of affiliation with the state association of colleges next spring.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: The mysterious shooting to death of Jude Blinshop, my old flame, opens our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. After a series of strange attacks, we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, then nearly drugged to death with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall and tweedy younger aunt, disappears and we search for her frantically. Finally I talk with Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid, who strongly suspect Higgins, the elderly butler.

Chapter 41
Queer Actions
I couldn't decide whether William was rumbling in an attempt to gain time or because he really considered the details of his story important. There was nothing to be gained from the faces of the others. They were both seemingly engrossed in the story.

"Is that all?"
William plunged on eagerly. "All? Gawd, no! After we'd went to bed, we couldn't get to sleep, like I told you. The noise was awful and Annie was pretty scared. We was in my room. Along about 11 o'clock or a little after Annie got so excited I went out to see if I could get something to make her sleep. Cook didn't have nothing, so I knocked at Higgins' door.

"There was a light inside, but nobody answered. I figured he couldn't hear me on account of the wind, so I open the door and walks in. Higgins wasn't in that room and neither was anybody else. I didn't think nothing of it then. I figured he was out fastening up blinds and things, and thought he was a stubborn fool not to ask me to help him. But next day I done considerable thinking when he tells you he went to bed at 11 o'clock."

I restrained a snort of impatience. "But that doesn't mean a thing, William. Higgins only made a rough guess at the time. It would really be suspicious if he'd hit it right on the dot."
William shook his head stubbornly. "Not for Higgins. That bird wouldn't think of rolling over in bed without looking at the clock to see if it was the right time for it."

There was an idea in that. "Just how does it happen that you are so sure of what the time was when you went into his room?"
"That's why I went out at all. I'd been kidding Annie to make her think there wasn't nothing wrong in her not being asleep yet. She made me turn on the light and look at the clock. And then I went out."

William was no slouch himself as an alibi artist. "And you think you can turn Higgins over to the police," I said, "because he happened to be a few minutes off in his calculation of the time he went to bed? Use your head."
"I am using it!" doggedly. "Annie finally got to sleep, but by that time I was jumpy myself. I thought, 'Maybe I'd oughta go out and help the old cuss. This is a hell of a night and no mistake.' So I got into my pants and shirt and started after him."

"There'd been a light on in the hall before, mind you, but it was out, now. You couldn't see your hand in front of your face. I was looking for the light and I hear a door downstairs bang hard. I turn toward the stairs, thinking that something had been blown open and better be fastened, and all of a sudden I hear someone coming down the main hall like a house afire.

"I thought someone was sick or something, but before I could more than turn around, the door into our hall swings open and Higgins comes tearing through. There was a light in the big hall and I could see him plain as day. He had all his clothes on and he looked like all hell was after him. Before I could open my mouth, he'd tore into his room and I could hear him locking the door."

William paused for breath.
Higgins' Pretense
"Go on!" said Annie and I simultaneously.
William frowned. "I didn't know what to do. If he'd needed help he could of woke me easy as not. And he hadn't he'd locked his door. I think, 'He's cracked for fair, that's what, and I'd better tell Miss Farrington first thing in the morning.' So I start to go into my own room, but before I could close the door I hears someone else tearing down the main hall. I opens my door just a crack and sees Mr. Michael come rushing in and begin to pound on Higgins' door. He was soaking wet and pretty excited. I open my mouth to sing out and ask what's up and just then Higgins opens his door. Darned if he ain't in his night-clothes, blinking like he'd been asleep since noon!"

"I wasn't going to get caught listening not with Higgins the way he'd been lately. I closed my door, but I stood there listening, and the first thing I hear is Mr. Michael saying, 'Wake up everybody in the house! I can't find Miss Barbara and Miss Blinshop!'"
"I knew right off that the first thing the old boy would do would be to come through the bathroom after me, and there was Annie sound asleep. I routed her out quick and got her over by the door. The minute she hears Higgins' door close, she skins across the hall into Cook's room. With Mr. Michael only halfway down the hall, it was a tight squeak, but it worked!"

"William," I said roughly, "if you'd told this story in the first place, you might have saved at least one life. Do you realize that?"

"The man's face was troubled. 'Jobs is scarce.' 'Lives are scarcer!' I snapped. 'Is there any more?'"

It was a stupid attitude to take, and I realized it the minute the words were out of my mouth. William's lips set in a grim and stubborn line. He was silent.
"He ain't been withholding no facts!" rumbled Cook indignantly.

"He has been withholding facts—important ones," I said. "Now look here, William, I'm not blaming you. You've had a rough time. But your negligence has caused plenty of trouble. The best thing you can do now is to be sure that you haven't overlooked anything."

William's voice was sullen. "I don't know nothing more."
I took a wild chance. "It will be interesting," I said, "to find out what a fingerprint expert thinks about who locked Mr. Michael and myself in the cellar."

There was dead silence. William's eyes were fixed on the floor.
"All right," he said at last. "I ain't denying it. I went off my nut. It—it seemed like you was the guy that knocked me, and I thought you'd just tried to bump off the old lady. When we was looking for Miss Barbara you acted like you was stalling, and—Well, you didn't say nothing about where you was going."

I stared at him. "You're not very consistent," I said. "I thought you were just now accusing Higgins?"
"I was!" His expression was mulish. "I was wrong about you maybe. I got to thinking while I was sitting with the old lady, and I admit I was wrong. But there's too much fishy business about Higgins."

"Such as—?" I knew he was ready to continue.
"Well, yesterday, when he was supposed to stay in the kitchen till you sent for him—when you were in the living room and the rest was in their rooms—he went upstairs. I saw him."

The Key Case
So Higgins slaughtered that cat! My throat tightened and there was ice at my back.
"Why didn't you say so?"
His eyes were still on the floor. "Where I've been, sir, if you don't learn nothing else, you learn to keep your mouth shut."

"Not when it may cost you your life!" I said savagely.
I was certain that Higgins had removed those letters from William's room. All the years that I had known the old man, all the years that I had considered him as much a part of Farrington Bluff as Long Island Sound itself, fell away from me. Higgins owned the only revolver known to be on the bluff. He had lied about his whereabouts on the night of Jude's death, and certainly he had been out of his room when it occurred. He had had opportunity for mutilating the cat and dismantling that bedroom.

The Skipper was missing, and she would have followed him anywhere. Poor Norman Farrington would have trusted him implicitly. He had been among the first on the scene of the shooting of M. Farrington. I had found him with the gun in his hand, and he had almost tricked me into planting my own fingerprints on it. My head was spinning with the mass of evidence.

I again asked William if there was anything else.

Getting slowly to his feet, he plunged a hand into his back pocket and drew forth a leather case which he flung upon the table.

"That!"
I picked the thing up gingerly. It continued about two dozen keys of all sizes and descriptions. They conveyed nothing to me.

"That fell out of his pocket when he was getting the dinner and I nailed it. Higgins always carries a key to every room in the house," said William slowly. (Copyright, 1937, Esther Tyler)

We imprison Higgins in his room, tomorrow.

Crumit on Ford Hour as Master of Ceremonies

Master of ceremonies of the new Ford "Universal Rhythm" broadcast Sunday evenings (9 P. M. EDT) is Frank Crumit, whose genial personality has made him a long-time favorite of radio and musical comedy.

Crumit takes over the ringmastering of the Ford show next Sunday night (June 20) when the program takes over for the summer the one-hour period filled during the autumn, winter and spring by the Sunday evening hour.

The spot will be a new venture for the popular entertainer, requiring little if any singing, but giving him his first big opportunity to demonstrate his own inimitable brand of fun-making.

Addition of Crumit and a mixed choral group marks the only changes made to expand the program to an hour show. Headliners of the program will be Richard Bonelli, ace "Met" baritone; Alec Templeton, brilliant blind piano wizard; Carolyn Urbanek, talented young soprano and student of Marcella Sembrich, with orchestra batoned by Rex Chandler, internationally known musical director.

To take part in the new series, Crumit will commute from a suburb of Springfield, Mass., where he and his musical comedy and radio team-mate, Julia Sanderson maintain their country home, and where he dabbles in bond selling.

Albany Men's Sister Bride of Lombardo

ALBANY, June 17.—John H. and William J. Healey Jr., Albany oil men, attended the wedding of their sister, Miss Helen Healey of Bradford, Pa., and Lebert Lombardo, member of the famous Lombardo orchestra, in New York City Monday. The ceremony was performed at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The Healey brothers and Miss Mary, another sister, have resided during the last year at the Cook ranch, which they have leased. John H. is president of the Healey Producing Company and has producing properties in the Bluff Creek pool.

Conduct Tests on 4-H Club Heifers

Butterfat tests recently conducted by Ass's County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart, on nine registered 4-H club Jersey heifers, reveals the following:

Butterfat test	Percentage
W. L. Connell, Olden	5.8%
James Dean, Alameda	5.5%
L. R. Higginbottom, Kokomo	5.0%
Elbert Bennett, Kokomo	5.0%
Buster Wheat, Morton Valley	6.1%
Jack Walker, Alameda	5.2%
Edward Gideon, Ranger	5.1%
Cecil Caudle, Flatwood	6.3%
Green Justice, Flatwood	5.9%

One heifer at the present time is producing 44 lbs. or 3 1/2 gallons of milk daily. All 4-H dairy club boys will begin within the next six weeks to get their heifers in condition for the Eastland county fair, and other county and state shows.

Beer Election Is Annulled, Decree Of Breck Jurist

The countywide local option election of May 1, which resulted in a majority in favor of outlawing the sale of all forms of alcoholic liquors, was declared null and void in an order signed by Judge B. H. Atchison of 90th district court, Breckenridge, sitting in 91st district court in the stead of Judge George L. Davenport, who disqualified himself, Wednesday morning.

Judge Atkinson thereby sustained the contentions of the plaintiffs, G. Connally, et al, that notice of election and the ballot were insufficient, although, in the absence of his opinion on which the order was based, it was not immediately known on what particular point he held the provisions of the liquor control act, providing for local option elections of the character, to have been transgressed.

The order signed by the judge read, in part: "It is therefore ordered, adjudged and decreed, that the election held on May 1, 1937, be and the same is hereby declared null and void, that the order entered by the commissioners court as of May 27, 1937, declaring the results of said election be and the same is hereby declared null and void, and that the status of Eastland county remain as it was prior to said election of May 1, 1937."

Notice of Appeal

The respondents, County Judge W. S. Adamson, et al, gave notice of appeal, cognizance of which was taken in the order. Whether or not the ruling would be taken up depends, County Attorney Earl Conner, Jr., said Wednesday upon the action of the commissioners court. He said he would await a study of the judge's opinion before any action is taken.

Milton Lawrence represented the plaintiffs in the case.

The plaintiffs argued that the notice and ballot were insufficient under the 1934 liquor control act because they called for outlawing the sale of all liquors, regardless of the fact that the liquor act sets up three classifications of alcoholic beverages for optional legalization, and that only beer and wines of not more than 14 per cent alcoholic content were legal in the county at the time of the election. Since sale of no liquor with more than 14 per cent alcoholic content is legal in the county, the election was called to outlaw a condition that does not exist, it was argued, and many voters were therefore confused in the belief that by voting for beer at the May 1 election they would be voting for whiskey and all forms of liquors, it was declared.

The commissioners court through its counsel, argued that the three "steps" by which liquor may be legalized under the law did not apply to the process of outlawing the sale by vote, but that the single definition "all liquors" employed in the ballot was sufficient.

The case was expected to be taken before the court of civil appeals and ultimately to the state supreme court for a final ruling. Judge Davenport disqualified himself because of a first cousin relationship to Henry Davenport, a member of the commissioners court and one of the respondents in the case.

5 Tours Scheduled For 4-H Club Boys

Five 4-H club tours have been scheduled for next week by County Agents Hugh Barnhart and Elmo Cook. The plans of the tours as outlined by Assistant County Agent Barnhart were: Each 4-H club boy will meet at the respective school houses at the time set to begin the tour. Each person will bring a sack lunch, where a full day's tour has been planned. A visit to each club member's demonstration will be made and the demonstration will be discussed, the demonstrators' record book will be checked for completeness and accuracy. The 4-H club members' dads are invited to make the tour with the boys. Other persons who are interested in 4-H club work are urged to be present for these tours.

The following schedule has been outlined: Tuesday, June 22, 9 a. m. Kokomo; Wednesday, June 23, 1:30 p. m. Morton Valley; Thursday, June 24, 9 a. m. Alameda; Friday, June 25, 9 a. m. New Hope; Friday, June 25, 1 p. m. Flatwood.

America Livestock World's Healthiest

DES MOINES, Ia., June 17 (AP)—The American Animal Health Foundation says its nation-wide study shows America is the healthiest country in the world for livestock and farm animals.

The foundation said foot and mouth disease, a grave problem for cattle raisers a few years ago, has been eradicated entirely and that tuberculosis is being brought under control.

"Hog cholera still remains the American farmer's most deadly enemy with an annual loss estimated in the neighborhood of $20,000,000," the foundation reported. "Most of this loss could be prevented if farmers would have their herds vaccinated each spring."

Of more than 19,000,000 irrigated acres in the United States probably 85 per cent of them get water directly from melting snows, U. S. agricultural engineers say.

Farmers in Cheyenne county, Nebraska, have formed precinct organizations — not for political purposes but to fight grasshoppers. Crews will scatter poison bait over the entire county.

L. E. Vaughn Growing Rhubarb at His Home Invitation to Preach Comes 14 Years Later

Rhubarb, a plant seldom raised in this section because of the unusually heavy rainfall it requires, is being grown by L. E. Vaughn at his home just outside the city limits on the Rising Star highway.

Wednesday he brought to town three leaves, all taken from the same plant, the largest one measuring 29 inches across and almost as long. The other two were slightly smaller.

Mr. Vaughn said he set out the rhubarb plants last November. He said the stalk of the largest leaf was over an inch and a half thick at the base and almost an inch in diameter at the leaf.

Eight of the ten plants he set out last winter are now living, and he expects "plenty of it next year."

GARY, Ind., June 17 (AP)—Rev. Michael C. Gadacz will preach at the cornerstone laying at St. Adalbert's Catholic church in South Bend, although he has an invitation to do so. The ceremony was held 14 years ago.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Osadnik, St. Adalbert's pastor, mailed the invitation to Father Gadacz, but it was lost in the post office.

Father Gadacz received the letter just the other day.

CHEVROLET TRUCKS

Chevrolet users say:
"They're the most economical trucks for all-round duty"

Thousands of Chevrolet users will tell you that the best answer to your transportation needs is—Chevrolet trucks!

Chevrolet trucks have the greatest pulling power in their price range . . . because they have a New High-Compression Valve-in-Head Engine which wrings the last ounce of power out of every gallon of fuel.

Chevrolet trucks are the most economical for all-round duty . . . because they give maximum gas and oil mileage, and will keep on serving over a long period with minimum care and attention.

And Chevrolet trucks are safer, more modern, more durable . . . because they're the only low-priced trucks with Perfected Hydraulic Brakes, New Steelstream Styling, and extra-strong Chevrolet construction throughout.

Mrs. C. C. Duff, former worthy matron of the Moran chapter, was installing officer for the event held at the Masonic Hall of Moran. She was assisted by Mrs. Frances Osborne, who was installing marshal, Mrs. Clifford Yeager, pianist, and Mrs. Lila Pennington of Abilene, chaplain.

Carroll Loudder was installed as worthy patron for the Moran chapter and Mrs. Carl Lummus was made worthy matron. Several subordinate officers also were installed.

Those going to the installation were: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Duff, Mrs. A. V. Osborne, Mrs. Clifford Yeager, Mrs. N. A. Brown, Mrs. McLeRoy of Eastland, Mrs. A. V. Clark, Mrs. George Weaver, Mrs. J. T. Elliott, Mrs. Pearl Elliott, Mrs. Lois Richardson and Mrs. W. B. Hunst.

The University of Wisconsin experiment station has developed a new technique for preventing alfalfa silage by spraying it with molasses—60 pounds per ton—as it passes through the ensilage cutter.

Dividing the pasture and allowing one part to grow while the other is being pastured will increase the total yield, says H. W. Cove, Kansas State college dairy husbandryman.

Dwarf Grass Still a Dream, Says Ag Head

WASHINGTON, June 17.—This being the time of year it is and lawn mowers clacking all day, the question was put squarely up to the agriculture department:

"Why don't you fellows develop a dwarf lawn grass that will grow only an inch high and won't need cutting?"

Dr. H. L. Westover, acting head of the division of forage crops and diseases, which looks after such things, just laughed.

"We may get around to doing something like that some day, but right now we're working on grasses which will grow bigger and better and faster," he said.

Congress has appropriated funds to develop grasses which will make better hay but has done nothing about shortening the growth of lawns.

Dr. Westover said there was a Japanese grass that doesn't require cutting, but it isn't suited for lawns and won't resist cold.

Midwest farmers, delayed by spring rains, equipped their tractors with lights so they could plow by night.

ADMIRATION - TRIPLE SEALED IN "CELLOPHANE"

BUY IT IN THE PACKAGE AND Save the Difference

A substantial saving to you by buying Admission Coffee packaged in Cellophane-wrapped bags is real economy for this reason: You get the same oven-fresh Admission, with all its original goodness kept intact, at about 4c less per pound than coffee packed in other ways.

Cellophane keeps flavor and freshness IN and moisture OUT. Not only that, but the coffee itself is contained in a heavy bag with a wax inner-lining. Add to these things the fact that Admission Coffee is delivered from the roasting plant to the point of sale by the fastest exclusive coffee delivery service in America. There you have the reasons for Admission's unvarying freshness, regardless of the form of its package. Buy it in the bag and save the difference.

Admission Coffee is also vacuum-packed in glass jars, and in tin cans, if you prefer them. Dripkut for dripolators and tricolators, and Steel Cut for percolators.

towns or people except this time and I just thought I would like to tell you that someone really liked Cisco's effort to advertise its business houses and other places of interest.

Mrs. W. E. Morris, Cisco, Texas. R. F. D. 4.

I am at fault for not having made myself clear in the article to which Mrs. Morris refers. The criticism was not directed against this excellent local orchestra. Instead it was aimed at the tactics of a metropolitan station which sought to collect money from local merchants to put on a brief advertising program for Cisco in connection with similar programs for other towns, and with nothing more than a stock description of the town as an inducement.

an accident, with Lawkins popping a fluke hit over first base.

Red Front with a slightly changed lineup, showed by last night's crushing win that they will make the going mighty tough on anyone who tries to challenge their league leadership. However, on the other hand, they will have plenty of trouble winning the title even though they are now firmly in first place.

Scranton was rated as one of the best teams in the league so the dope bucket is certainly turned to Red Front now.

The starting lineups: Red Front—John St. John, short stop; Shady Preston, short field; J. D. White, third base; W. J. Rylee, right field; Chuck Van Horn.

Dallas Man Found Dead Is Brother of Cisco People

A man who was found fatally injured in Dallas Sunday at midnight has been identified as Carl Dolgener, brother of Gus and Ed Dolgener and Mrs. Richard Schaefer of this city, members of the family were informed.

Dallas officers were puzzled over the slaying. There was no evidence of robbery, Mr. Dolgener's purse and other valuables not having been taken.

Members of the family were to go to Dallas for funeral services at once.

Lake Cisco Gets Valley Shows for July 4th Event

Manager P. G. Berry of the Lake Cisco Amusement company today announced that he has secured the Valley Shows for the Fourth of July season at the lake.

The shows, which will bring a ferris wheel, a merry-go-round, kiddie auto ride, kiddie airplane ride and 14 other concessions to the lake, will be here July 1 to 5 inclusive.

The ferris wheel is the three-passenger seat variety, while the other rides and concessions are also of the best class. Securing these shows, said Mr. Berry, has added immensely to the attractiveness of the program which will be carried out at the lake during the Fourth of July.

Other features of this include a bathing revue, swimming carnival, and so forth.

Miss Zona Miller is chairman of the revue committee. She made clear that it will not be an "open" revue, but that each girl entered will be required to have a sponsor.

Award for first place in the revue will be a season pass to the Lake Cisco pools. Second prize will be an 80-ticket book of swims and third prize a 40-ticket book.

pretense on which to defraud. Consequently, no claim is made to the beneficiary claim is settled for a nominal amount of from one dollar to fifty dollars.

Public Filched

It is difficult to estimate total amount filched from the public each year by this class of motorists, but the National Society alone cost the public wards of two million dollars four years, of which only 10 per cent was paid back in form of benefits, the rest a huge sum having been used for salaries and expenses. It is therefore, obvious that the total amount filched from the public each year by this class of motorists is in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The usual procedure of the exploiters of these schemes is to insert advertisements in newspapers for agents who operate wherever they desire. Many complaints have been received from persons in rural communities and small towns as well as in large cities. The association secure memberships by as well as personal solicitation agents and many persons are lured by the prospect of large salaries already members of the organization sent through the mail.
