"Harmless" Firecracker One That Usually Kills

Makings Of Fourth Of July Tragedy
Small Boy plus Match plus "Harmless" Firecrackers

At Least 7,738 Injured in 1935 By Firecrackers

AP Feature Service Writer
CHICAGO, June 29.—"Harmless" firecrackers in the hands of little children are still the biggest hazard of the Fourth of July.

It was the "harmless" brand that caused 2,075 of 3,000 accidents studied in 1935 by the society for the prevention of blindness.

Nine of those killed were less than five years old; 146 injured were less than five. Altogether, at least 7,738 persons were injured and 30 killed from fireworks.

They're All Dangerous

The national safety council, discussing the survey, explains that most folks blame high-powered explosives for the accidents they read about. As a matter of fact, the council concludes, the common firecracker is the real villain.

Even sparklers, given to children because of their supposed safety, caused many injuries and at least two deaths.

The society cites these as typical accidents:

A policeman shattered his hand so badly that amputation was necessary. He was showing a child how to light a firecracker.

A fragment of tin pierced a boy's heart. He had lit a firecracker under a tin can.

One boy was killed and two passersby injured. The lad had dropped a lighted firecracker into an unused 1,000-gallon gasoline tank—which still contained some gas and vapor.

A war veteran who had been cured of shell shock lashed out and shattered his skull against a lamp post. He had been startled by a firecracker thrown at him.

Lighted firecrackers tossed into autos and crowds were found responsible for 1,259 of the 3,000 accidents studied.

How to Attack Problem

The national safety council suggests these preventive measures:

Legislation against the uncontrolled use of fireworks—legislation which will effectively throttle the sale by the bootleg stands which spring up when sale is forbidden.

Municipally sponsored fireworks displays, handled by experts, to satisfy in a really safe-and-sane manner the public appetite for flashing boom-booms.

The council cites Baltimore's experience as proof of what can be accomplished when control is properly exercised. Although its population exceeds 800,000, the city kept its injury toll to 16 in 1935. The remainder of Maryland, with about the same population, had 100 casualties.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The colored congregation of St. Mark's Baptist church is keeping pace with and, in many instances, ahead of the improvements which the churches of white congregations are making here. Painters began work on the St. Mark's church this week, repainting it inside and out a gleaming white. The screens of the church will be jetted so that the striking contrast of black and white will give to the edifice a new and inviting appearance that will no doubt prove an inspiration to church attendance for the members.

Hal Hunter of the Lone Star Gas company, Ranger, was here today to attend to left-over details of cleaning up after the successful Lone Star picnic Saturday. He expressed the thanks of his organization for the hospitable manner in which Cisco entertained the visitors and the cordiality exhibited by the business men. The picnic was a big success.

Off shortly on another of his regular visits among his children, I. J. Lamb who once lived here but now spends his time among his children, is not worried about his heft. Looking well, he adds.

Authorities In Blind Alley In Hunt For Fiend

INGLEWOOD, California, June 29 (AP)—Authorities were in a blind alley today in the search for a fiend who attacked and killed three young girls.

Leroy Strong, ordered detained after the bodies of Melba and Madeline Everett and Jeanette Stephens were found in a Baldwin Hills gulch, was "absolved from any connection" with the crime by Sheriff L. C. Huntamer of Olympia, Wash., who said Strong was working at a tie mill there and had not been out of the vicinity for some time.

Miss Frances Coldwell has returned from a two week's visit in Fort Worth.

Cisco Company Wildcat Opens New Territory at South Bend

A.P. MARTIN IS BEING PUT ON TEST IN SAND

Pay Level Encountered at 2,000 Feet; Bailer Shows 50 Bbls.

Interest in oil activity in this section turned abruptly Monday to the Hickok and Reynolds wildcat strike in the center of a 1600-acre block near South Bend. The well encountered the 1800-foot production at a level which virtually makes it a new production horizon and opens up a new area to activity that excitement over the well's showing indicated would be considerable.

The well encountered the sand at 2,103 feet, and drilled it to 2,108 still in the producing stratum.

Today it was being placed on pump for testing. Yesterday a bailer test showed production well over 50 barrels a day. The oil is of 40-degree gravity.

In Center of Block

Located in the center of a 1,635-acre block the wildcat is four miles west of South Bend and one and a half miles west of the near-

Sinclairs Topple Scranton in 7th Inning, 11 to 10

A triple in the last half of the seventh inning by Howard Robinson with two men out and one on base untied a 10-10 score and gave Smitty Huestis and his Sinclairs another step toward the top while Scranton sunk lower into the cellar last night.

The game was packed with many errors and Smitty, in winning, made only nine hits while Scranton collected 11 off Bevins.

The game opened with the Scranton boys pounding Bevins for five hits, coupled with two errors by the Sinclairs. Before the inning was over Scranton had scored seven runs and they looked plenty good.

The winners came back in their half of the first and scored four markers on two hits and three Scranton errors and from then on the game was scoreless until the fifth with each team playing creditable ball.

Coming to bat in the last half of the fifth inning the Sinclairs smashed five hits and Scranton boosted them along with three errors. Before the inning was over six men had crossed the plate to make the count 10 to 7.

Neither team scored in the sixth and as the first of the seventh rolled around Scranton tied the

Mrs. Hendrickson Very Low Today

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Belding of Belding Ranch and their daughter, Mrs. A. H. Brackeen of Palo Pinto visited Mrs. Belding's sister, Mrs. J. D. Hendrickson, Monday. They returned to their home yesterday afternoon, but will come back to Cisco shortly. Mrs. Hendrickson is very low with an illness that has been critical for two years and which developed a turn for the worse when she fell and injured herself two weeks ago. She is under care of a nurse. Her husband is a retired Methodist minister.

Cooperation of Ciscoans With Fireworks Asked

Chief of Police M. L. Perdue and Fire Marshall O. Gustafson issued an appeal today to the citizens of Cisco to cooperate with them during the coming holiday period by not shooting any kind of fireworks inside the fire district.

At this time of year when it is dry, fireworks shooting is very hazardous and makes fires easy to start.

There is a city ordinance against shooting the fireworks inside the fire district and were asking the citizens of Cisco to comply with it," the chief and fire marshal said today.

They also reported that with the exception of a few instances the people of Cisco cooperated satisfactorily last year and they asked them to do so this year.

They also appealed to the people to be very careful with fireworks this year both from the standpoint of safety and of fire prevention.

"We don't want anyone to get hurt," they said.

No accidents were reported in Cisco last year and the appeal was made today in an effort to keep this record clear this year.

Two Charged After Slaying of Laborer

DENTON, June 29 (AP)—Murder charges were filed today against Otis Hudson and Dewey Burns, both of Denton, arrested last night in Decatur in connection with the slaying of Leroy Franks, laborer and the wounding of his wife.

The double shooting occurred in the street in front of the Franks' home.

Man Sentenced to Die Is Refused Clemency

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—The pardon and paroles today refused clemency for Clements Matura, 65, Haskell country Bohemian farmer, sentenced to die in the electric chair July 2 for the slaying of Miss Rebecca Coursey at O'Brien last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Durward McGinty of Plains were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Gorham over the weekend.

Encampment for Presbyterians Is Started Monday

Sixty-Eight Enrolled For First Session of Camps; Ice Cream Supper Given by Men's Bible Class of Local Church Last Night

The eighth annual encampment for the Fort Worth Presbytery opened Monday night at the Lake Cisco grounds at six o'clock with the serving of supper, followed by a big ice cream supper sponsored by the Men's Bible class of the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. M. H. Applewhite, director of the camp, said today that 68 were enrolled and that this is all that will be here. This is slightly less than the number anticipated but it is all that can be accommodated, he said.

Dr. Charles Brinkley, athletic director, said that there will be several soft ball games and that Thursday the instructors will play an all-star team selected from the boys of the camp.

Also a track meet consisting only of relays and short sprints will be held Thursday. Friday, the last day of the encampment, will be featured by a swimming meet.

For the first time a camp paper will be printed. The first edition was slated to come out this afternoon. No name has been selected so far. This will be done by the pupils.

The Cisco Gas corporation team will meet the police team of Eastland tonight at the Eastland soft ball park, it was announced today.

There will be no game at the local field, Director W. E. Cooper said this afternoon.

The police team of Eastland is rated very strong, winning 12 and losing only one in city league competition there. They recently took over the all-star position in the Oil Belt race.

Band To Have Drill Practice Wednesday

Drill practice for the Cisco Lobo band in preparation for the trip Friday morning to the Cowboy's reunion at Stamford will be held Wednesday morning at 8:30 at the high school building, Director R. L. Maddox announced today.

HALL CHARGED AS BRAINS OF BOMBING PLOT

All Available Forces Are Set Into Hunt For Man

WARREN, Ohio, June 29 (AP)—Authorities today set all available forces hunting Gus Hall, a CIO organizer, charged with being the brains of a plot to halt operations in the steel mills here by bomb terrorism.

The seven-state steel strike front erupted with violence. Dynamite blasted water pipelines leading into the strike-besieged Cambria works of Bethlehem Steel in Johnstown, Pa., crippling operations.

Another death, recorded at Beaver Falls, Pa., brought the total since the strike was called May 26 to 13.

Hall was specifically charged with illegal possession of explosives. Officers said three fellow unionists were witnesses against him.

Secretary Perkins announced in Washington that the government's efforts to mediate the steel strike had failed, but she was studying the dispute to determine if further mediatory steps were possible.

New French Gov't Wins Confidence Vote of Chamber

PARIS, June 29 (AP)—The new Chautemps government, struggling to save France's financial structure, won 393 to 143 the vote of confidence of the chamber of deputies today.

Chautemps won on the demand that chamber questioning of the government be postponed until the request of sweeping financial powers is disposed of.

In the meantime conversations were reported to have been begun with United States and Great Britain that France, "temporarily" off the gold standard, seeks to disengage France from the present parity.

Alfred P. Sloan Is Listed as Tax Evader

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

Chapter 51
"I Have You Covered!"
 M. Farrington was dressed and waiting. I could see at a glance that she had been crying, but her mood was far from mellow.
 "It's about time you put in an appearance, young man," she said curtly. "Where under the sun is Michael—or that Palmer girl? Am I to sit here all morning waiting for my breakfast?" No, mellow was not the word.
 "I'm sorry, Aunt Martha. Mike's dress himself. I sent him down to Gay to see if she couldn't calm him."
 "It was the wrong approach. 'Calm him!' snorted M. Farrington. "That little red-headed thing has had him on pins and needles ever since she got here. How is Barbara?"
 "Sleeping." I tried to make my voice soothing. "She'll be O.K. when she wakes up."
 "Hmmp! Under the circumstances you might find a better work for it. I suppose that if I am very good my chauffeur will allow me to see her for a few moments just before dinner. Come along, James! Now what is the matter?" I was hesitating with my hand on the door.
 "Aunt Martha, there's something I wanted to talk to you about before the police arrive."
 Her eyes blazed indignantly. "Police? Is that quite necessary? You may tell George Foster that I won't allow it!"
 "I'm afraid it will be out of his hands," I said. "He can help with the papers, of course, but—"
 "Aunt Martha, we ought to establish the fact that Higgins was a suicide, before the police get here—and—"
 "Don't stutter. I shan't scream. And what?"
 "And in order to prove that we must prove that the bullet which killed him came from the tin in his hands."
 Her eyes widened. "Then find the bullet, James!" she said sharply.
 "I've been trying to. It—it just isn't there."
 "Nonsense! It must be. Did you look in his head?"
 "It passed right through his head."
 Her chin went, if anything, a little higher. "James, you couldn't find anything if it were tied to the end of your nose. Never could. Open that door."
 She was something to look at. I can tell you, with the tears still wet on her face, striding down that hall like a major-general. The best of us might be ready for sanatoriums before we were through, but not Martha Farrington.
 "Children should be brought up with a little self-reliance," she said. "If a man is shot, he is not by a bullet. Obvious."
 "Yes, ma'am," I said meekly, and we paraded forthwith into Higgins' room.
 "Stand Over There"
 Her face grew grim as she caught sight of that bed. But her voice was ragged.
 "Poor Higgins," she said. "Poor, loyal fellow, James!"
 The last word came with such unexpected force as to make me imp. "Yes, ma'am?" I said in the involuntary tone of my youth.
 "Were you the first person to find him?"
 "Yes. He was lying just as he is now."
 "I see." Her face screwed in thought. "He was about your height. Stand over there by the wall."
 Without a word I obeyed her. "Now then, a man about to kill himself is in no state of mind to be taken down. He must have been standing here," she suited the action to the word, "with his gun in his hand like this." She stood facing the bed dramatically. "He pulls the trigger, is spun completely around by the force of the explosion, and lands on his back on the bed. The bullet must be over your head there, James."

 The blanket over the dead man's form had not been moved. From the moment that I realized that M. Farrington, who had known Higgins all his life, was depicting that death scene with the imaginary revolver held in her right hand, my limbs had gone suddenly stiff. Even after she had finished speaking, I could not move. Her voice rang out sharply.
 "Don't move, James! As the expression goes, I have you covered!"
 She had reached under the blanket and removed the revolver from Higgins' hand. It was trained straight at my heart.
 I muttered something that didn't make sense.
 "Quite so, James." Her smile was unpleasant. "You see it happens that my brother Norman was not insane. Barbara did not believe that. I would have showed her quite convincingly if that fool Higgins had held his tongue. Norman could not see that he might better be dead than back in that place. Therefore, I showed him. As for Judith, she was in the way. So was Higgins, much as I regret that fact. So are you, James. Therefore—"
 But she never finished. I made the most perfect football charge of my career. We went down in a heap together, simultaneously with the deafening report of the revolver. Long before I managed to get to my feet I knew that Martha Farrington was dead.
The Skipper Talks
 I stood at the living-room window, gazing out across the cluttered sweep of lawn and drive toward the gut where a boat from the mainland should be appearing. Breakfast, such as we could manage to choke down, was over. William and Annie were clearing it away.
 Between Michael and Gay on the davenport, sat the Skipper. She should have been in bed, but we could do nothing with her. A very short time would bring relief, and with it a doctor. There was a weird sense of unreality in the room, a sense of awakening from a bad nightmare, an illusion intensified by the Skipper's quiet voice.
 "Your grandfather, Mike, was a pretty unlucky person. He was only a kid when he married Martha Waterman. Pretty little thing,

I've been told—good family. They had about five years of happiness and then—with two kids on their hands—it developed that the wife was insane.
 "They didn't put people in asylums those days if they could possibly help it. He kept her here for three years. And then in one of these winter storms, she got away from her nurse and went over the bluff. She was killed."
 "He got over it in time. There were two kids, both seeming—er—normal and healthy. Eventually he married my mother, whom he had known all his life. I was born about a year later, and the three of us grew up together. For a long time the other kids didn't even know that my mother wasn't theirs. But servants talk and there was gossip in the village. They found out and they brooded about it. When Norman was about 18 and Martha about 20, he began to show unmistakable signs of insanity. Whether he had actually inherited it or brought it on by brooding and fear, we never knew. Anyway, it was there."

"I was about 13 at the time and I didn't understand much about it, but I knew that father was in a terrible state. Remembering what happened to the mother, he clapped the youngster into a private nursing home. I think that when father died, he was still expecting Norm to be cured. He never was. He came home once for a short time, but we couldn't manage him. We sent him back and he never came out again until a few months ago."
 "Martha had always been crazy about the boy. When they sent him away, they had a time with her. I can tell you. She accused father of trying to kill him, among other things. Insisted that he had also murdered her mother. But the doctors assured father that she was merely neurotic—not in the least insane. Father always felt that Martha's attitude had a great deal to do with my mother's death. But that was absurd. My mother died of pneumonia shortly after Norm was taken ill, and that finished father. He drew in to his shell and left us to our own devices."
 "I'm not trying to excuse myself now. I just want Mike in particular to understand how things were. You see, the servest production. It is 330 feet from the south line and 990 feet from the east line of the V. H. Twilliger survey, abstract 1883, on the A. P. Martin farm.

 The pay level is about 200 feet below the 1,800 horizon where ants had adored my mother. Consequently, they took great delight in pampering me. And Martha, for such a proper soul, got a big kick out of my escapades.
 "And then—" The Skipper's voice faltered but immediately picked up again. "Then something happened. There was a youngster I used to golf with him, gun with him, boat with him. We'd always been cronies—" production in other parts of the South Bend area is encountered in this series, which makes it virtually a new sand horizon, with extensive possibilities. The strike was made about midnight Sunday.

 One of the most important new developments in this section, the well is expected to stimulate a great deal of drilling in the district. Breckenridge operators and operators from Graham, Ranger and other oil centers were enthused over the prospects that the well has opened up. Much leasing and trading activity was being stimulated.
TO DRILL IN PALO PINTO WELL TODAY
 In the Palo Pinto county area today A. S. Hickok was preparing to drill in his A. S. Robinson No. 5 at about 1450 feet. This well is in proven acreage.
 Northwest of Cisco the Hickok Producing and Developing company was running 15-inch at 630 feet.

Scouts From 25 Nations Will Be At Big Jamboree

WASHINGTON, June 29.—A new kind of world peace conference will be assembled in Washington this summer... a conference including not statesmen nor potentates nor dignitaries, but only boys, some 400 of them representing twenty-four different foreign lands and 25,000 representing the United States of America.

And for ten days they will "confer" with the common bond of their "scout promise" giving them comparable standards of conduct and thought upon which to build friendships and understanding during the jamboree on the banks of the Potomac.

These "good will ambassadors" will come together prepared to trade and barter, "swap" and "change" cherished personal possessions, to learn much about customs of habit and speech and characteristics peculiar to each land, and to firmly establish friendships which will last through life.

Foreign Boy Scout contingents will be present at the jamboree from England, Belgium, the Netherlands, Sweden, Ireland, Scotland, France, Poland, Roumania, Luxemburg, in Europe; Canada, New Foundland, Mexico, Guatemala, Chile, Venezuela, Cuba, Haiti, Bahamas and Columbia from the Americas; Australia; India, Union of South Africa; as well as from the United States Territories of Hawaii, the Canal Zone and Puerto Rico.

When the jamboree has closed, a group of more than 1,000 American scouts will repay this "courtesy call" by traveling overseas to take part in the fifth world jamboree which will be held in Bloemendaal-Vogelzang, the Netherlands, July 29th to August 13th.

World jamborees are held quadrennially, having previously met in London in 1920, Copenhagen, Denmark in 1924, Birkenhead, England in 1929 and Godollo, Hungary in 1933.

This Horse Guzzles Soda Through Straw

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 29. (AP)—When Frank M. Gilbert's saddle horse gets thirsty, it's a treat for spectators.

For Gilbert rides him through the doors of the first soft drink parlor and treats him to a soda—through a straw.

Vitinius, a cobbler of Beneventum and favorite of Nero, was reputed by the ancients to have the biggest nose in human history.

COWBOYS TO "DO STUFF" UNDER BRIGHT LIGHTS

Eight times as much light as in previous years will beam upon rodeo performers in the arena of the Texas Cowboy Reunion at Stamford July 1-2-3. Above is a daylight view of the arena in contrast to the lighted scene by night (below) when cowboys will "do their stuff" under 26 overhead lighting units of 1,500 watts each—just installed by the West Texas Utilities Company. Eighteen lighting units of 1,500 watts each light up the Reunion grounds.

ETIQUETTE Silence First Is Demand of Codes of Tennis Court

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Bad taste shows up as plainly on a tennis court as at a dinner table.

The girl who tracks across the court in spike-heeled shoes is just as bad-mannered as the guest who spills coffee on the hostess's best linen.

Players and spectators at every tennis court soon form their own code. The newcomer who expects to get the most enjoyment from that court should learn the code—and abide by it.

Silence Is Golden
The well-behaved spectator is quiet all of the time, except for occasional mild applause. No razzing. No calling back and forth to spectators on the opposite side. And no comments to the players.

In getting seated to watch tennis it's best to choose a spot at the ends of the court rather than the sides. The entire action may be observed from the corners—without too much penguin-like activity. (Here's once when a seat on the fifty-yard line is a decided disadvantage.)

The perfect player also knows how to keep quiet. Except for asking her opponent if she's ready to receive the ball or putting in an appreciative "Good" for an exceptional shot she keeps still.

She avoids foot-faults (stepping across the base line before serving). In doubles, she doesn't infringe on her partner's territory, trying to play the whole game herself.

No complaining, no losing tempers. All that is small kid stuff.

Tennis Court Customs
The general practice is to play three sets, or for an hour—then make way on the court for someone else. Authorities say an hour of tennis is enough for the average woman. Too much exercise is worse than none.

A few tennis stars have been known to net a ball deliberately in order to yield a point to the opposition.

Theoretically, the gesture is sportsmanlike, designed to make up to the opponent for errors in the umpires' or linesmen's judgment. "Big Bill" Tilden is credited with having started the practice. Such a gesture occurred once in the recent North American zone Davis Cup matches between "Bitsy" Grant and Jack Crawford at Forest Hills, Long Island.

Actually, however, the practice does just one thing—implies that the official is incompetent.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

EYES MAKE LIGHT SEEM BRIGHTER, SAYS SCIENTIST
By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK, June 29.—Maybe light that man sees is not nearly so bright as he thinks. Evidence that it is only about one-quarter as bright is reported by Professor Ragnar Granit, Finnish physicist.

The eye amplifies light, he thinks, much as a photo-electric tube amplifies, when it "sees" shades completely invisible to eyes. The tube does it by converting the light into electricity and stepping up the "juice."

Man's eye has similar amplifiers, says Prof. Granit in the official science journal "Nature." They are the cornea and the retina. Light charges them with positive electricity, he finds. After charging light looks four times as bright as before.

INSIDE JOB

WASHINGTON, June 29. (AP)—G-men estimate that three out of four bank robberies committed in the United States during 1936 were "inside jobs."

During the year, 208 bank officials and employes were convicted of stealing bank funds, but only 73 bank robbers.

Thousands of Plymouth owners are still driving the first model Plymouths ever built, along with those first models. Plymouth introduced a new idea—that cars in the lowest price should be just as dependable and long-lived as any cars at any price.

Yet amazingly long life and reliability are part of the better value built into the 1937 Plymouth. It's the biggest of All Three. Only Plymouth gives you the hushed ride... hydraulic braking... Floating Power engine mountings.

And Plymouth is on record as America's most economical full-powered car.
