TENEMENT BUILDINGS COLLAPSE, 19 DIE

CRUSHED TO DEATH WHILE THEY SLEPT

Patrolman Trying to Help Save Victims Dies Hero

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—At least 19 persons, including 10 women and children, were crushed to death as they slept early today when three Staten Island tenement buildings collapsed during a rainstorm.

Tons of water, roaring down from an overflowing storm sewer, struck the ancient brick dwellings and ripped them asunder.

Three persons were missing. Four others were taken to a hospital with serious injuries.

Patrolman Joseph McBren died a hero when he plunged into one of the buildings after the first structure had collapsed. Searchers later found him in the wreckage. In his arms, with her arms curled tightly around his neck, was the body of four-year-old Virginia Budnick.

Four others lost their lives in the storm which swept the metropolitan area.

Jap Bluejackets In Shanghai Move To Battle Position

SHANGHAI, Aug. 12 (AP)—Japanese bluejackets moved into battle position in Shanghai to face the unstemmed torrent of Chinese regulars tonight and garrisons from United States and three other nations mobilized "for the worst."

A conference intended to ease the crisis ended in failure. Backed by 21 warships in Shanghai's wharves, Japanese naval forces, estimated at between 5,000 and 8,000, moved into the same positions they occupied during the 1932 Chinese-Japanese hostilities.

They deployed along the fringe of the Japanese portion international settlements and roads extending northward.

United States marines were charged with protection of nearly 4,000 United States citizens in Shanghai, some of whom were cut off by the Chinese advance.

Charles J. Kleiner, Cisco oil operator and rancher, will arrive at Abilene this afternoon at 5:45 via American Airlines plane, with his three children who survived the automobile wreck near Tucson, Ariz., Tuesday night in which Mrs. Kleiner, their nine-year-old son, Charles, Jr., and Mrs. W. The bodies of the three victims will leave Tucson this afternoon, scheduled to arrive here about noon tomorrow on a Texas and Pacific train.

HUESTIS NIPS JAYCEES 11-7

JCC Gives Sinclairs Good Battle

Although they gave a good fight the Jaycees couldn't cope with the strong green jerseyed Sinclairs and fell like most of the other teams they have met have when the two combated last night. The final score was Sinclairs 11, Jaycees 7.

The game was a good one with the losers outlasting Tuestis 11 to 9.

The Sinclairs did not score in the first two innings while the JCC boys tallied once in the second.

In the third the winners scored twice and the Jaycees made four to lead 5 to 2. In the next inning the Sinclairs broke out with six runs for the biggest rally of the night and the losers retaliated with a couple of markers and the score stood, Sinclairs 8, Jaycees 7. The winners scored three more in the last of the sixth while the opponents did not score the rest of the battle.

Bivins and Abbott for the Sinclairs.

Highway Dept Maps Plans for Overpass Here

The Texas Highway department is mapping plans for the overpass that will carry the relocated Highway No. One over the M. K. and T. railroad via Eighth street through Cisco with the expectation of having them in condition for receiving bids on the project August 27, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Austin.

The overpass is one of eight new road projects to cost a total of $1,400,000. It will be a four-lane thoroughfare. The first part of the Cisco highway relocation project was completed last fall. It consists of the western half of the new road, reaching from a connection with the existing brick paving on Eighth at the First Christian church, to a junction with the old highway about a half mile beyond the western city limits. The overpass and the eastern half of the highway are yet to be built.

Peanut Growers Ass'n Formed

W. B. STARR OF CISCO TO HEAD ORGANIZATION

2 Members to Confer In Washington With Agriculture Dept.

Organization of a Southwestern Peanut Growers association with W. B. Starr, Cisco, as president, and selection of Brownwood temporarily as headquarters, was done at a meeting of directors of the association, recently elected at Eastland, yesterday at Brownwood.

Selection of a manager for the new cooperative was deferred, pending determination of the amount of federal money that will be available and the parity price for peanuts. Two members of the organization expect to go to Washington within a short while to confer with department of agriculture officials on these questions.

Money for bolstering the peanut price will come out of a fund created by diversion of 30 per cent of the import duties, a fund amounting to $120,000,000 and placed at the discretion of the secretary of agriculture for assisting agricultural stabilization. Mr. Starr, in a telephone conversation this morning, estimated that $1,500,000 would be necessary to raise the present market price of peanuts from 60 cents to 90 cents. Two hundred thousand growers would be affected.

J. E. Britte of Pleasanton, south Texas, was elected first vice president; T. D. Robinett of Comanche county, second vice president, and M. M. Miller of Arlington, secretary-treasurer. Other directors are G. R. Sanders of Peasall and J. R. Sergeant of Hood county.

The association will have a charter broad enough to cover establishment of warehouses, mills and other processing and marketing facilities, and to engage in all activities pertinent to the production, processing and marketing of the crop.

TENNIS COURT IS COMPLETED

All-City Tournament In Prospect

After weeks of delay and discouraging set-backs work on the town's new tennis court was completed yesterday when the backstops were finished along with other minor details. After the court was finally ready for play the boys who had labored so diligently on it lost no time in obtaining a net and other equipment to give the court an appropriate initiation.

This court was sponsored by the young people's department of the First Methodist church and was financed by donations from persons interested in tennis and other civic improvements. Rev. Joe Patterson conceived the idea of the undertaking and with the diligent work of F. B. Altman, directed the drive for donations and the work itself. Mr. Ralph Barton was another who gave his time to the promotion of the project.

The first efforts of giving the court a topping of asphalt failed when this sort of surface proved too rough for play. Extra donations, however, made possible a cement topping expected to endure a long time with its foundation.

TRAINING CAMP BEING SOUGHT

Equipment Is Ordered By Coaches

If present plans develop, football training for the Cisco Lobos will start August 23, although it is probably that it will not be opened before August 30. Coaches Walter Roach and W. E. Cooper decided Wednesday when the former, head coach-elect of Cisco was in here to confer with Assistant Coach Cooper.

The coaches reported that they were hoping to secure a training camp for the gridmen and if it is secured practice will begin Monday, August 23. Providing it is not obtained workouts will begin the following Monday, with at least 30 boys expected.

While visiting here Wednesday Roach and Cooper checked the equipment and placed an order for needed equipment for the coming season.

The practicing has to be started early with the addition of new teams in the district. Ten are now listed, leaving nine conference game for each team. Cisco's opener is scheduled for September 17 with the always strong Lubbock High Westerners, under the mentorship of Weldon Chapman, former Cisco high coach.

When asked of Cisco prospects for the '37 season, the coaches declined to make any definite statements. They realize that their team will be fair but they know that almost every other team in the district will have an improved one and that competition will be keen and rough.

Mrs. N. A. Snearley and Mrs. D. E. Jones of Rising Star were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Woolridge Wednesday.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Four new coaches come into the Oil Belt circle this season, one of them at Cisco with Walter Roach, brilliant young captain of last year's Texas Christian university football team, taking the place left vacant with the resignation of Dexter Shelley, now coach of Orange high school. Roach has arrived in Cisco to take up his duties, his first as a coach, with the opening of the school term in September. While no date has been set for the opening of schools, it is probable it will be September 13.

Other new coaches in the Oil Belt are Larry Priddy, succeeding Ed Hennig at Sweetwater; E. P. Grady, Jr., Howard Payne star, at Eastland succeeding Johnny Kitchen who goes to Donna, and a successor to George Brown at Big Spring not yet selected.

It may be significant, after many long seasons of disappointment, that the new Cisco coach begins his career with a new stadium. Rapidly nearing completion in a speedy WPA construction, the renovated Chesley field is not only vastly different from the old but much more attractive than it promised at first to be. In grays and greens, the steel supported stands will seat 4,000 people with room on either side and at the ends for twice that many more if seating capacity is found necessary to take care of the crowds. The gently rounded gridiron, watered constantly, is developing an excellent turf which will be ready for playing when the season opens this fall.

Credit is due W. F. Wilson, project superintendent for the speed and efficiency with which the work has been handled. The design and the construction are such that the field deserves to rank with the best, despite the fact that it is smaller than some of the other fields serving larger communities.

It should be a great inspiration to the team to play in the attractive environment that the new field provides. The very appearance of the old stadium, which was a good one in its day and where so much of the significant history of west Texas high school football was made, was depressing. It resembled a torn and bedraggled old dress, one that was very beautiful when grandmother was a girl but which had long ago outlived its usefulness. The atmosphere is all there now, even to the fluttering pennants atop the steel shafts that rise from the last tier of seats.

The stage will be well set for another tradition when the 1937 Lobos go on the gridiron, a tradition of never having been defeated on their new playing sod.

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE SERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon decides to rebuild her burned ranch house and barn through Neighbor Josh Hastings, whom she hates, wants to buy her ranch and marry Kay. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molested Kay, shooting it out, they wound each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a cabin where a girl (Marion) nurses him. Kay sees them together, misunderstands and deliberately gives away the sideout after a fall. Ted is arrested and taken away. Marion's insane father, the firebug, turns up.

Chapter 37
The Steel Nail Head

Something deeper and stronger than the jealous resentment that Kay had been cherishing took possession of her, and with a startled gasp she pulled herself up, as she suddenly saw the whole situation in a different light.

What did it matter whether he cared for her or the other girl? His very life was in danger, and she was doing nothing to help him! This vital issue surmounted everything else.

What could she do? What could she do? Kay clenched her fists until the nails bit into her palms. She must think of something!

She lay back and concentrated on all she knew of the affair, trying to piece it together, and turn it some way to Ted's advantage. In spite of everything, she still believed him innocent. She shut her eyes, and pictured again the scene of the crime.

Josh Hastings' remark about Ted having crawled to the water flashed back to her, with his hasty explanation that he had only been imagining it. His whole manner had been very queer, and Kay felt again the conviction she had had then, that he knew more than he was telling.

A fresh wave of resentment against Tom Runyon for having brought her to the Flying Six swept over her. To be sure, she hadn't seen Josh Hastings since she had been there, but to be under this fresh obligation to him was decidedly galling. Even though she had not accepted his hospitality of her own free will, the fact remained that she had been under his roof all this time.

She had thought it was queer that she hadn't seen him, when she was better, but until today no one had told her anything at all. This news explained why he hadn't sought her out. He had gone to the trial to do everything in his power to convict Ted.

"If I could only have a little more time!" Kay moaned, half aloud. There must be more clues that she could follow up!

A sudden memory of the tiny steel nail head she had found roused her. Getting up, she went to the closet and felt in the pocket of her leather coat. Her fingers touched the surface of the bit of steel, smooth on one side and rough on the other, where it had been broken off. Pulling it out she examined it carefully.

She soon came to the conclusion that there was very little help to be had from that. Nearly everybody on the range wore steel-studded articles of one sort or another. She was about to slip it back in her pocket again, when her eyes sparkled with an idea.

Josh Hastings' Gauntlets

She had seen Josh Hastings with some studded gauntlets once, and this nail head was about the size that would be used on a gauntlet. It was almost too small for a belt or a saddle trimming. Her heart beating fast, Kay unlocked her door, and gently opened it to peer into the hall. No one was in sight. She tiptoed out of her room and made her way to Josh Hastings' door. Noiselessly opening it, she slipped in and shut it.

She leaned weakly against the door and looked around, while her heart beat like a trip hammer. The room was fairly tidy. The closet door was half open, and a gleam of metal on the top shelf caught Kay's eye.

Crossing the room, she reached up, and pulled down the gauntlets she was looking for. She hastily turned them over and scanned the intricate pattern of their decoration. With a gasp, she caught a broken line in the point of a star.

Her hands trembled as she pulled out the bit of steel she had found, and fitted it into the gap. Kay hesitated a moment, then reached up and put the gauntlets where she had found them, and tiptoed back to her room. Once safely back, she sank down on the bed, with the excitement of her discovery.

Her mind flashed to the possible consequences, but it was all too confused to see anything clearly. However, one thing was certain in Kay's own mind—Josh Hastings had been at the scene of the tragedy and for some reason he had suppressed the fact.

She realized only too well, though, that her slender evidence would be laughed to scorn, unless she had something more substantial to support it.

If only she could delay the trial! Why had it had to happen in Idaho instead of Montana? With Zeke Farley, she might have some influence; but with an unknown sheriff, there wouldn't be a chance. A vision of the monument marking the dividing line between the two states flashed before her. In her mind's eye, she could see its lettered markings—Idaho on the west side, Montana on the east.

An exclamation suddenly escaped her, and she sat upright, her eyes brilliant with excitement. Breathing quickly, she ran over to the window and looked out. Aunt Kate's rocking chair was empty, and the porch deserted.

She hastily slipped off her dress and put on her riding clothes. Clapping her broad-brimmed hat over her gleaming hair, she ran to the living room, and quickly pulled out some books she had been mulling over the day before. She shuffled over several paper pamphlets, chose one and slipped it in her pocket.

Then, turning to the front door, she noiselessly left the house, and ran down to the corral.

"No Break This Trip"

When Ted was led out of the shack, and gruffly ordered to follow Sam Cutter through the thick brush to the spot where the horses had been left, such a wave of weakness swept over him that he felt he never could comply with the demand.

Realizing, however, that he would be bound and ignominiously carried if he couldn't make the grade on his own, he summoned all his strength, and pushed on.

Sam Cutter motioned him to the horse he was to ride, slit the ropes at his wrists, and watched him mount.

break means, don't you?" He put his hand on his holster.

Ted nodded. "I've given you my word not to make a break on this trip," he declared shortly.

"I ain't worrying about breaks on any other trips!" Sam Cutter gave a short, disagreeable laugh. "My guess is you won't be making so very many more trips."

Ted made no answer to this jeering observation, and the sheriff led the way to the summit of the central divide, and started down the west trail to Clear Water Basin.

R. Grady, Jr., Eastland Coach

STLAND, Aug. 12 (Sp)—E. R. Grady, Jr., of Brownwood, Grady has three years coaching experience, one year as assistant and last two as head coach at Levine school in Tarrant county Class B competition. In his years as head coach his team lost only one conference game, score being 6-0, and had no kicking coach, Howard Payne, and Lou Young's famous defensive system at University of Pennsylvania, where he played in 1923. Grady also has trained under Lawson Robertson, head coach of the U. S. Olympic teams. Robertson is known as one of the greatest track coaches in the world. Grady holds the Texas Conference 100-yard dash record, made in 1926. He was a member of the 1-2 mile relay team that set a new record at the Texas Relays in 1926 while at Howard Payne college. One time Grady was the guest of Rice Institute during the relays and ran a 200-meter exhibition race with Jackson Scholtz, a former Olympic champion. In 1922 Grady was high point football scorer in the T. I. A. A. His 87 points placed him fourth in the Southwest conference. The new Eastland coach was a member of a Howard Payne college football team that defeated Texas A. & M., 13-7, the first time A. & M. was ever defeated on their home field. In college Grady lettered in football, track, baseball and basketball. The tea industry in India employs 900,000 persons.

28,000 Dependent on Mothers' WPA Salary

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 12. (Sp)—More than 28,000 Texas children under the age of 14 years are dependent upon the wages of 12,723 mothers employed on WPA projects, it was estimated today by Val M. Keating, associate state director of employment for the Federal agency.

Mrs. Keating's estimate was based upon the results of a 25-county survey of women wage-earners on WPA projects. Of the 7,685 women employed in the 25 counties, 3,989 were found to be providing for 8,979 dependent children. Cases studied included only women certified as in need of relief and who were classified as primary bread-winners for their family groups.

AUSTIN, Aug. 12.—Orville S. Carpenter, Chairman-Director of the Unemployment Compensation commission, today reminded Texas employers that their contributions of one and eight-tenths per cent on their July, 1937, payrolls will be due on August 25.

He had been doing well over the 12 months the family had been in Tucson, and the influence of the local climate on the child's condition while visiting Mr. Kleiner here was such that the family determined to take him back to Tucson a few days earlier than first intended. Mr. Kleiner, detained by pressure of business, was unable to accompany his family at the time, and Mrs. Kleiner left with the children and Mrs. Barnes Monday morning at 7 o'clock.

Mr. Kleiner, visiting on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Moriarty with the Moriartys and other neighbors, was informed of the accident by telephone at 7:30 Tuesday night. He went immediately to Tucson via American Airlines night plane, after a special chartered plane had been judged as not sufficiently equipped for night flying to get through a storm center at El Paso. The special plane flew him back to Dallas to catch the larger ship, which arrived in Tucson early Wednesday morning.

Funeral services for Mrs. Kleiner, Charles, Jr., and Mrs. Barnes await the arrival of Mr. Kleiner and relatives of Mrs. Barnes. Mr. Barnes who was in Arizona with a son, "Pete," working, will return with the body of Mrs. Barnes. Harvey Hayes, Abilene, cousin of Mrs. Kleiner, will accompany those of Mrs. Kleiner and Charles. Mrs. Kleiner was the former Miss Louise Wagoner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wagoner of Abilene. She and Mr. Kleiner were married in 1926, and moved with their children to Cisco about 1930, purchasing the former Ray home on West Fourteenth street, as their residence. Peanut Ass'n To Be Perfected At Coming Meet

(Special to The Daily Press)
Referring to the abridged minutes of the meeting held Thursday at Eastland, participated in by peanut growers of Erath, Callahan, Brown, Comanche and Eastland counties, according to a report made by W. B. Starr this movement is not only concerted action on the part of all the growers of Texas and Oklahoma (known in government circles as the "southwestern area") but embraces the eastern and southeastern sections of the United States, where 88 per cent of the nation's peanuts are produced, and affects the financial interests of 200,000 peanut growers, also indirectly the prosperity of a large class of business interests in the smaller town and larger cities of this area.

Texas is represented in this great national cooperative movement by a state organization, which rests upon three different peanut producing sections of the state: the five counties mentioned above, several peanut producing counties to the south of San Antonio, where an organization meeting was held on Wednesday, and those counties lying around Fort Worth, where a meeting was conducted Friday. The state committee, elected at these meetings held over the state this week, will meet at Brownwood next Wednesday morning for the purpose of perfecting the state organization. At this meeting there will also be one committeeman from Oklahoma who will represent the interest of the peanut producers of his state.

Government forecasts indicate a peanut crop for 1937 of 850,000 tons. This is a few thousand tons above the 1936 crop, which brought the farmers a reasonable price. However, for several years past there has been about a 100,000 tons of peanuts not needed for the normal channels of trade, (the consuming public), which has been crushed into oil. Unfortunately this year the price of oil is some 20c below the price this time last year. This is due largely to the prospects of a heavy increase of production in the cottonseed oil field. For the last ten days, new crop peanuts have been coming on the market in South Texas. The market opened around $1.20, but by the middle of this week had slumped to 90c per bu., with further decrease in prices indicated.

It is expected with this national cooperative institution to borrow sufficient money from the national government to buy and warehouse sufficient peanuts to stabilize the market at a reasonable figure. Later if it is found that the normal channels of trade will not consume the crop, the cooperative will sell to the oil mills under ordinary conditions would have depressed the entire crop to a ruinous figure where farmers and all classes of business would suffer severely.

The difference in the price at which the cooperative bought these peanuts later diverted to oil and the prices paid to the cooperative by the oil mills will be forthcoming from a fund which was established by an act of congress shortly after the supreme court invalidated the processing taxes. This act of congress provided that 30c of the import duties should be set aside to be used by the Secretary of Agriculture at his discretion for the stabilizing of prices to farm commodities. He has used this fund in protecting the interests of producers of minor crops. It is indicated that probably 10 per cent of this fund will be used to promote the welfare of peanut growers interested in the production of the crop of 1937.

As pointed out by Mr. Starr, the entire citizenship of the south should be behind this movement. If the action anticipated results in a general price raise of 30c per bushel, this will not materially affect the consuming public, as one cent per pound will not appreciably affect the amount of peanuts in a five cent purchase of roasted peanuts or peanut candy, nor will it adversely affect the financial interests of the commercial peanut sheller, for naturally his margin of profit will be larger on a price basis of say 90c per bu. to the farmer than it would on a basis of 60c per bu. All informed citizens know that prosperous farmers means prosperous conditions for the general public.

Farmers Discuss Peanut Marketing

A meeting called by Jack Shelton, department of extension, A. and M. College, and C. E. Bowles, specialist in cooperative marketing was held in Eastland last week for the purpose of discussing peanut marketing problems for the 1937 crop.

The meeting, attended by 28 peanut growers of five surrounding counties, Erath, Brown, Comanche, Callahan and Eastland, and four county agents, was addressed by A. M. Dickson of the Agricultural Adjustment administration of Washington who gave an extensive talk on marketing problems and much other helpful information.

Mr. Dickson told the group present what had already been done on the problems.

This meeting was one of three held, the other two at other parts of the state for Texas peanut growers.

The five counties of this district normally produce 30 per cent of Texas' commercial peanut crop, making the meeting a very important one for all growers of this section of the state.

After Dickson had spoken, a district organization was formed by those present for the purpose of cooperating with growers of other sections of the state.

A committee made representative from Erath, met and elected W. B. Starr, Route 4, Cisco, and T. D. DeLeon, Route 2, Cisco, as district representatives for the district growers.

A. & M. Sessions Are Called Off

County Agent Elmo Wednesday advised that the annual short course and the presence of agricultural agents at College Station had been cancelled.

Advice from state leaders that the collection of thousands of persons from a state was inadvisable as the infantile paralysis college authorities are cancelling. It was, however, that no epidemic.

Planes Use Enough Gas on 1 Hop to Run Car 5 Years

By DEVON FRANCIS

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 13.—When the world's biggest airplanes start droning across the Atlantic next year, they will be powered with motors gulping enough gasoline in a single crossing to supply the average motorist for five years.

Only with the aid of such steel titans will airplanes of even the most advanced design make good the conquest of the sea in the modern manner.

Rated at 1,500 horsepower each, four of these great motors will be fitted into the leading edge of the airplane wing. Collectively, they will burn 190 to 200 gallons of gasoline an hour.

Conceived Before War
 The engines for the two-decked Boeing flying boat, being built here, were first conceived in the era of the Titanic, the steamship that could not sink but did. European engineers actually built grandfathers of today's two-row radials.

It was not until after the World war, however, that the two-row radial was manufactured commercially. Today, the culmination of a quarter century of engineering is a power plant shaped like a star fish and developing one horse-power for each one and one quarter pound of weight.

Unlike automobile engines which are "in line" or v-shaped, the radial engine for aircraft has cylinders which spread out from the crankcase like the spokes of a wheel. Piston rods are attached to a sleeve sheathing a single main bearing. Progressive explosions push the bearing around the circle it describes in putting the airplane propeller in motion.

Ahead of Times
 To create a twin-row radial engine, aeronautical engineers, in effect, welded two motors together, one behind the other.

It was not that simple, of course, and when they tried it out several years ago, they discovered the larger of their twin-row radials were too many jumps ahead of the airplane. Airplanes did not need that much power then.

Today, both motor factories are producing radial engines of tremendous power for commercial aircraft, and the armed services are doing experimental work on 2,000-horsepower motors.

Vibration Reduced
 Today's twin-row power plant consists of 14 cylinders, 7 in each row. For best performance, propellers are geared down to travel only 66 to 75 per cent as fast as the motors.

With these new motors, the cabin vibration felt by the passenger on a transport plane is reduced measurably, and because the motors run more smoothly they have longer lives.

A knotty problem in building big transport planes is "drag," the reduction in speed caused by projecting surfaces. In engineering the twin-row manufacturers were able to reduce the frontal area of the motor, and therefore the drag, from 20 to 35 per cent.

Grasshoppers to Be Investigated

The probable infestations of grasshoppers in Eastland county next year was the subject of a survey made Wednesday, August 4 by R. R. Reppert, extension entomologist, who was accompanied to representative sections of the county by County Agent Cook, Assistant County Agent Barnhart, and several 4-H club boys.

Indications at this time are that unless the hoppers are controlled by some of their natural enemies, they may be even more abundant next season than this season. However, more effective control early next season may lessen this possibility. The county agent believes that sufficient stock of government bran and sodium arsenite are left on hand to check early infestations next year.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month.

Too often the honeymoon expression is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
