Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Congratulations are in order for "Doc" Sellers and son, Wayne, of the Rising Star Record for the splendid historical edition of the Record issued Thursday afternoon of this week. The edition comprises 28 full-sized pages, liberally illustrated with pictures of local and county interest, full of interesting historical data and attractively composed and printed.

The edition was well supported with advertising of Rising Star business institutions and institutions in nearby towns. Of course, having only one paper a week to bother with, whereas we have six a week, Doc and son Wayne had to break into their summer-long vacation to get out the edition. Now that it is published and out of the way, Doc can brush up on his golf and get normal again. Anyway, it is a splendid paper.

Arrival of the new Cisco high school football coach today signals the start of football training in good earnest. With the matter of a head mentor settled, the football-wise can get down to brass tacks and saddle leather and the school board can devote its attention to the more prosaic and, no doubt, more vital questions of the school government without the worry of dealing with such an acute interest in this matter while selecting what the board believes the most suitable man for the place.

Coach Petty comes to Cisco well recommended by his accomplishments. His experience as a coach commands him to the place more so than a youth, fresh from college would be commended, no matter how meritorious he might have been as a player. So I believe the board made a wise selection and one that will be of direct influence in pulling Cisco out of the football doldrums.

The new coach can be certain that the town will be with him in his efforts to build a good team. He can get plenty of free advice on all questions pertaining to the game. I believe that no town between Canada and the gulf possesses so much expert opinion in an equal amount of space.

All of that expertness is at the service of Mr. Petty free of charge and liberal in quantity. He may need it, but the Lord help him if he does.

Penecostal Pastors Meet Here Sunday

The Fifth Sunday meeting will be held at the Pentecostal church Sunday when pastors from all surrounding towns meet at the Cisco Pentecostal church, 400 W. 17th, gather for all day services and an old fashioned basket lunch. Service will begin at 10 o'clock and an invitation has been extended to the public to attend.

SAYS MOVING OF WORKERS IS DISTURBED

Grange Master Says Quick Opening of Cotton Is Cause.

DALLAS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Cotton's quick opening from Dallas to the gulf has disturbed the workers traditional migration north, Ralph W. Moore, Texas Grange master, said today.

He told the convention of Texas Grange a greater amount was open early than ever before in the state's history. He said no doubt therein lay the strongest argument for a permanent commodity loan.

"I have no doubt if there was not talk of cotton loan, cotton would be selling around eight cents," he said.

WORKOUTS TO OPEN MONDAY

New Coach Arrives to Begin Work

Football practise for the Cisco Lobos of 1937 will begin Monday afternoon, it was announced today by newly-elected Head Coach J. T. Petty, following his arrival here to assume duties at Cisco high.

Equipment will be checked out to the boys Monday morning at 9 o'clock and the first workout will be held that afternoon," the new coach said.

Petty, who Monday was chosen to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Walter Roach, today was in the football equipment at high school with Billy Cooper checking over the equipment and making plans for any changes that may be made.

The Lobo team this year, to face probably the toughest schedule ever given in Cisco high team, will have a large order of new equipment for them when the season opens.

The same suits that were used in the games last year will be used this year but several more like them have been ordered and it is probable that there will be more squadmen suited out at the games.

Besides these new suits, there also will be much other new game equipment and much practise equipment—all new—to greet the Lobo squadmen.

The season will start September 17 with a game in Lubbock with the strong Westerners, under the coaching of Weldon Chapman.

Man Injured in Car Accident Here Thursday

J. G. Stamper of Cleburne was treated by a local doctor Thursday afternoon for injuries, extent of which were not known today, following an accident in which two autos collided at D avenue and 16th street.

Both cars, one driven by Ray Nix of Cisco and the one driven by the Cleburne man were damaged very much, according to reports and both men narrowly escaped death or serious injury.

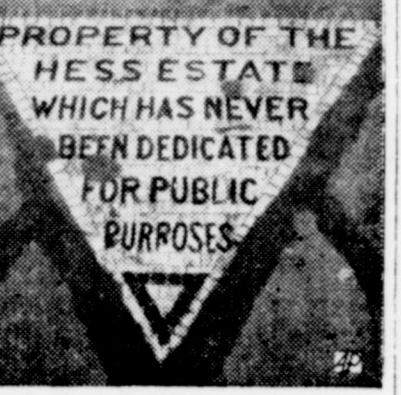

The accident occurred about 4 p. m. Thursday.

Soon after Preslar did as instructed, Childress received a much-needed rain, Preslar took credit.

The Oklahoma City-Wilcox zone was trimmed from 128,000 barrels daily for August to 113,516 for September.

Gordon Sherman Captures Tennis Title Thursday

Billy Hanson Defeated in Thrilling 7-5, 4-6, 7-5 Match; Mary Louise, Sister of Gordon, Wins Women's Sector From Miss Statham

It must run in the family. The Cisco tennis singles champions for 1937, both men and women, are from the same family.

While a blistering sun beat down upon them Thursday afternoon Gordon Sherman won the men's singles title from his high school doubles partner, Billy Hanson, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5, in one of the best, if not the best, matches seen in these parts, and then his sister, Mary Louise Sherman, came through with a 6-4, 6-3 win to take the crown as Louise Statham went down in a contest that was even closer than the score indicates.

BRIDGE BIDS DUE TODAY

Engineers Here During Past Week

Bidding on contracts for construction of the overpass which will carry Highway One over the Katy tracks on East Eighth street, was to have been held by the Texas Highway department in Austin today.

The bridge, to be a four-lane structure of beautiful design, will be part of the project through which the highway will be changed and will come through Cisco by Eighth street instead of down avenue D.

The west half of the project has been completed and contracts for paving the east end of the project, to begin at the end of the overpass and to carry to about one-half miles east of the city limits where it will join the old highway, will be bid upon in 30 or 60 days, it is believed.

Construction is slated to be started about the middle of September.

Baylor Physical Ed Plant to Start Soon

WACO, Aug. 27. (Sp)—Construction of the new $100,000 physical education plant at Baylor University will begin as soon as titles are cleared on the city park site across Fifth street from the university, President Pat M. Neff announced. City commission of Waco was expected to clear the titles this week.

Announcement on commencement eve of a $50,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. Marrs McLean of Beaumont and San Antonio, to be applied on the building assured the future of the plans.

Financier Dies

Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of Treasury who died Thursday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. David Bruce in Southampton, N. Y.

SERVICES FOR A. W. MELLON SATURDAY

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The body of Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary treasury who died here last night, will be sent to Pittsburgh late today for the funeral tomorrow afternoon.

Death was due to uremia and bronchial pneumonia.

He was in his eighty-third year. His death took from the American scene one of the last of its statesmen-financiers.

Mellon, spare, quiet, white-haired and reserved, had gone to the home of Mrs. Bruce last month, his health weakened by the excessive June heat of Washington, where he had remained to arrange for his National Gallery of Art.

Oil and aluminum were at the base of his vast fortune—one of the world's greatest.

His benefactions had run into millions and the operations of his vast enterprises had reached around the earth.

All his life he had been shy and diffident in manner. He went to death less known than many lesser men. Death came at 7:30 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

FIND BODIES OF FOUR IN PLANE

Rich Rochester Man Among Dead

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 27. (AP)—The mangled bodies of State Assemblyman Pritchard H. Strong, wealthy Rochester aviator enthusiast, and three companions were found in the wreckage of strong's airplane near the Albany airport today.

They disappeared in rain and fog after the pilot had radioed asking for landing directions. Others believed killed were Mrs. Strong, Charles H. Judson of Rochester and Pilot Clarence Robins also of Rochester.

Huestis Loses 4 to 3 Contest to Scranton

A six-hit hurling job by W. Bailey, Scranton, last night held the strong Sinclair team to one run in the last six innings and gave his team a 4 to 3 win over the Sinclairs to put Red Front back into the lead for the city title.

Bennie's home run in the second inning with one on accounted for two Huestis runs and Poe scored in the fourth on Barnhill's double to account for the

ENGLISH IRED OVER ATTACK UPON ENVOY

Full Satisfaction for Ambassador Shooting Must Be Given.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Great Britain today was reported to be considering severance of diplomatic relations with Japan unless full satisfaction was given for the machine gun attack on her ambassador to China, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen, who rallied slightly after a blood transfusion.

China's finest rushed to new battlegrounds northwest of Shanghai's back door.

Hundreds of civilians were killed and wounded in Japanese air raids on Nanking, the capital. Japanese hammered Chinese on three northern fronts.

TO DEMAND RESPECT OF RIGHTS, INTERESTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today that the government had served notice upon Japan and China that it would demand respect of all United States rights and interests in the far east.

The government requested that they observe these rights to the extent that they would be responsible for damages to this government or its citizens as a result of hostilities.

Floor of High School Gym Is Ruined by Water

The Cisco high school gymnasium was found flooded last week by water that ruined the expensive flooring that constitutes the basketball court, causing the boards to warp and buckle up until they are now beyond use.

Water was found standing on the entire surface of the gym. Work was started immediately to drain the water off after which carpenters were hired to remove the now useless boarding.

The reason for this occurrence has not been determined, but it is supposed that it was a result of water seepage caused by the constant watering of the grass around the school building.

Bob Winston, Cisco water superintendent, said he did not think it could have been caused by any of the city's water lines because as far as he knew there were no lines near the basement of the building.

Double Header At Park Tonight

Rivalry between the Cisco and Ranger Lions will be resumed tonight at the city soft-ball park here in Cisco immediately after the A-G girls team of Cisco takes on a delegation also from Ranger.

The Ranger Lions came out on the heavy side of a free-scoring game with the locals last week and the Ciscoans would like the sweet taste of revenge. Last week's score was 19-14 in the outsider's favor.

End Promised to Ravaging Floods

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

As for me I will call upon God. . . . And He shall hear my voice. . . . He it is that hath delivered my soul in peace.—Ps. lv. 16-18. Peace is something more than joy, Even the joys above; For peace of all created things Is likeliest Him we love.—FABER.

Peace and submission are the essentials. . . . The moral being may moralize his sufferings by using natural facts for his own inner education. What he cannot change he calls the will of God; and to will what God wills brings him peace.—AMEL'S Journal.

Never the Twain?

PERHAPS IT IS the effect of the recent hot weather, or perhaps it is constitutionally impossible for us to appreciate the Nipponese way of thinking, but it is hard indeed for us to understand what Japan means by the statement that she must punish the Chinese. The devious methods and reasonings which the Japanese employ to justify their military conquest of China have invariably been difficult to follow as they corkscrew their way around obstacles to their program, but this statement appears to us to be a bald assumption of that "chosen of God" attitude which has plunged numerous other countries, feeling their young oats, into ultimate disaster. It is something like saying, "We want your house and we shall punish you for resisting."

WE HAVE been many times told that the occidental mind is not capable of understanding oriental reasoning. On the other hand, it may be true that the oriental mind is not capable of understanding the occidental. In that case a gulf of ignorance exists which can be bridged only with great difficulty and probably terrible international conflict.

Andrew Mellon

IT IS SAID that if all the wealth in the world were distributed in equal amounts to all people, it would shortly find its way into the control of a comparatively few individuals. No matter how much we try we cannot legislate or reform away the differences between individuals in brain power and in capabilities. Some are born to rule and others are born to be ruled, as it might be said. This human state of things seems to be best accommodated in free government by a democratic system which vests political control in the people and leaves economic control, properly regulated for the general welfare, in the hands of those who by talent and accomplishment prove themselves best fitted to control it. This sort of dual system recognizes the fixed interests of the people in national resources and wealth, no matter who happens to hold legal title thereto, and at the same time provides for the best development and use of such wealth through the incentive of selfish motives.

BUT IF NATURE has a way of bestowing her gifts of talent and opportunity unequally, she also has a way of levelling all again to the wash. In some instances talent runs in a family for several generations, and in other cases great wealth is preserved for descendants through trusts and other methods of financial insurance. But wealth without the power to control and direct it ceases to be important, and even those for whose benefit it is held invariably surrender that control to abler hands.

THE DEATH OF Andrew Mellon yesterday marks the close of a career notable for its record of financial achievement and for the comparative privacy in which it was conducted. It was not until he was chosen secretary of the treasury by Harding and embarked upon a political career punctuated with bitter criticism, that Mellon became a generally known figure outside the circles of finance and big business. Yet he was a man whose pioneering in new fields of natural resources approached the record of John D. Rockefeller. Mellon's descendants probably have inherited some of his genius. But it is not probable that another of his statue will arise to carry on with similar genius the dominant powers he wielded.

OTHER OPINIONS

Let the Legislature Legislate

MONDAY'S ELECTION on state constitutional amendments established a new low in voter indifference. Returns collected by the Texas Election Bureau indicate that not more than 125,000 votes were cast, which is the smallest total, we are informed, polled in any state election for 20 years.

No doubt that circumstances will call forth the usual quota of pessimistic editorial comment. Abstention from voting has been held up for years as a major menace to the successful functioning of democratic government. But no amount of entreaty will induce people to vote on issues which do not particularly interest them.

Few Texans were actively interested in the issues presented by the six amendments submitted to them Monday, though it is probable that a normal vote would not have altered the result—adoption of all amendments except the one restoring the fee system. It is useless to expect a normal vote on constitutional amendments except when they are submitted at a general election or when some highly controversial issue like prohibition is at stake.

Texans prefer to entrust the business of legislation to the representatives elected for that purpose. A great deal of useless election expense would be avoided by adopting a constitution which would allow the legislature to legislate on matters of statutory law.—Galveston News.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

BY JULIAN CAPERS JR.

AUSTIN, Aug. 27.—Two highly controversial special sessions of the 45th Texas legislature, which will have important effects not only upon the state's financial situation, but also upon the 1938 political campaigns, were seen by observers here as the Sept. 20 date set by Gov. Allred for the first session nears. The governor has indicated that he will submit taxation first, and public utility regulation second, and other matters "if there is time for them." There probably won't be any time for these "other matters," because both taxation and utility regulation are expected, as they always have in the past, to stir plenty of time-consuming controversy.

A drive by members of the legislature, led by a senate investigating committee which has been studying the problem, to balance the budget by lopping off unnecessary expense of state government by eliminating duplicating departments and unnecessary employees, has gained considerable pre-session support among members. Gov. Allred has indicated he will stick to his original tax recommendations—higher natural resources taxes—but the governor's taxation record makes it extremely hazardous to predict in advance just what he may recommend. Best early indications are that the resources folks will oppose bitterly any new taxes, on the ground that they are unnecessary and that a large state deficit acts as a "brake" upon public expenditures; but they will centralize their efforts toward keeping new increases in taxes on oil, gas and sulphur as low as possible, with the reasonable expectation that they will get some increases. Some reduction in unwieldy bureaus, centering on old age assistance, and the liquor control board, may be achieved, and some of the extremely liberal appropriations voted by the regular session may be trimmed downward, in an effort to balance the budget.

POLITICS OPENS UP The special sessions, of course, will mark the jumpoff of the 1938 political season, with the usual scrambling for advantage which may affect legislation as much as any other factor. Gov. Allred has not elaborated upon his third term ambition. Jim Ferguson has been trying desperately to work up sufficient enthusiasm to nominate his wife for a third term, on a sales tax and pensions for everybody platform. The McCraw candidacy, which reached its peak ahead of the primaries, appears to have eased off considerably during the past 30 days, while that of Col. Ernest O. Thompson is slowly gaining headway as his friends have begun active work.

In the attorney general's race, the apparently wide field has narrowed down considerably with Lieut. Gen. Walter Woodul, District Judge Yarborough of Austin and Gerald C. Mann of Dallas all extremely active, and Woodul obviously holding a wide advantage at this early date.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

Chapter 50
Race Against Fire
A great sweep of wind bent the treetops with a roar as of distant ocean waves.

Both men started, and glanced up, then Josh Hastings slumped back again. "Get me out of this damned uncomfortable position, can't you?" he rasped.

Ted made no answer, as he gazed anxiously at the white clouds that sudded past overhead, and sniffed the faint acrid smell that began to penetrate the fragrance of the pines. Ignoring Josh Hastings' groans and protests, he pushed ahead, his alarm growing as the hours passed, and the wind continued to rage with ever-increasing velocity.

There was no telling how fast the fire might travel under these adverse conditions! A brownish haze obscured the sun, and already it was hard to make out the outlines of the distant ridges. He could just see the bold profile of the central divide, with the cut of the pass through it, as he plunged down into a canyon. The next time he emerged it was lost in the fast growing smokiness of the atmosphere.

Josh Hastings, who had lapsed into a semi-conscious state of wrathful resignation, scanned Ted's face as he came back from his last survey of the ridges. The light had perceptibly dimmed, and the two men coughed continually with the irritation of the smoke in their lungs.

"Nice mess you've made," Hastings groaned. "Head over to the west, can't you? Or do you want us both to be cremated?"

"I've got to get to the south ridge of the central divide," Ted doggedly set off again, pushing his way through the timber as the darkness fell, and ignoring the sporadic outbursts of Josh Hastings, who alternately commanded and pleaded with him to make for the western divide.

But though Ted could ignore Josh Hastings, there was no ignoring the conviction that if Marion had kept her promise and stayed in the shack, she was in definite danger of being cut off.

He came to a sudden decision. "I'm leaving you here," he announced gruffly, and pulled Josh Hastings off his horse roughly. "I've got to make faster time. The chances are a hundred to one you're safe here. And they are a hundred to a hundred, I'll be back!"

Disregarding the curses Josh Hastings screamed after him, Ted raked the flanks of his reluctant horse, so that with a wild snort, he finally plunged ahead into the darkness.

At the Murder Scene

After a few hours together, Kay and Marion felt as though they had known each other always. Their eager exchange of confidences had left very little that they did not know about each other, and their mutual liking had ripened to a real feeling of friendship.

Taking a chance on leaving the hut long enough to let Kay show Marion where she had found the steel stud that she had later identified as coming from Josh Hastings' gauntlet, they went up in the early afternoon to the scene of the murder.

Kay carefully stepped off the distances and outlined her theory, after relieving Flicker of his saddle and tethering him by some of the luscious feed near the water.

"We have nothing but the vaguest circumstantial evidence against Josh Hastings, she explained. "But what we have combined with the proof of his guilt in that other case, should at least prove strong enough to discredit him, if nothing more."

"The trouble is, that discrediting Josh Hastings isn't going to be enough to clear Ted's name," Marion worried. "I wonder if it wouldn't be better for him to disappear for a while, after all?"

"No!" Kay declared proudly. "This is the time for him to clear his name. And then, if what you say about his feeling for me is true—" She left the sentence unfinished, but the color that flooded her cheeks ended it for her.

"If only Dad is safe, and I can make him see reason, we might have a double wedding," Marion suggested. "I know you'll like Hal as much as I do Ted."

Forgetting their anxiety for the moment in their absorbing plans for the future, the two girls made their way back to the shack, pushing against the wind that swept up from the south.

The Smell of Smoke

"I hope this wind will die down," Kay exclaimed anxiously. "I don't want any more fires to reckon with! And there might be a chance of its reaching our timber ridge, although Shorty assured me it couldn't."

"Of course it can't," Marion soothed. "These winds always spring up around noon, and die down again almost as soon as they've started."

"It seems to me the smell of smoke is much stronger," Kay sniffed the air. "Of course it is, with this wind," Marion pushed ahead. "That doesn't mean anything. But we must get back! We've been away too long now."

Once back at the clearing, sheltered by the surrounding timber, the acrid burning smell was less noticeable, and the girls forgot the fire in the absorbing discussion of their more personal affairs. They decided to have an early supper, and then take turns watching, so that one would always be on the lookout.

Marion insisted on Kay having the first rest, and promised to wake her at 10 o'clock. Leaning back on her bunk, she watched Kay in the flickering light of a single candle. Kay had thrown herself down on the bunk that Ted had occupied, and in no time at all, was fast asleep.

Watching her through half-closed lids, Marion mused on the strange coincidence that had brought these two to her, and she let her thoughts wander down the vista of the years, seeing a wonderful friendship ripen between Hal and herself, and Kay and Ted.

Gradually her eyes closed entirely, and her head drooped to one side, as the relaxed sleep, that had so long been denied her in her lonely vigil, crept over her un-awares. The candle flickered lower and lower. Finally it sputtered and went out, leaving the shack in inky blackness, but there was no movement from either of the exhausted girls.

It was hours later, when Marion suddenly sat bolt upright coughing and rubbing her eyes. "Kay! Kay!" The note of terror in her voice roused Kay, who struggled to a sitting position.

"What is it? I—" she broke off coughing.

SW Conference Grid Practice to Open September 6

By ELTON L. MILLER
WACO, Aug. 27.—They're on their marks and set, ready for the gun that will start them down the runway for the first light workouts of the 1937 practise season on September 6.

On that day southwest gridsters hear the first words from their coaches, and the players will know what to expect during the next few weeks. Even now they know that it is a succession of days filled with hard work.

Up at Arkansas university, the Fayetteville lads believe that a jinx can always be broken. With practically the same club they offered for inspection last season, they are trying to retain the southwest leadership. But Texas A. & M. college will have something to say about that. The Aggies and their followers believe that they have the best chance of conquering the field of any team that has represented the Farmboys in many days. While these boys have worked with their veteran players all this off-season, Rice Institute Owls have watched their Jimmie Kilts scout the woods for more man power. More man power it is, too, and the Feathered Tribe should show more speed and brawn than the Y had during 1936.

Dana X. Bible, happy to be back in Texas with old friends and neighbors, will have a great deal of material at the Austin fortress, but Mr. Bible will have a tough job this year, his first since his departure. Bible will win football games and he might be a strong contender.

Then there's Southern Methodist university, Dallas. Not much has been said about S. M. U. chances, but Matty Bell enjoys surprising the other boys. T. C. U. is always a contender, regardless pre-season dope, but this year about all that Baylor University can expect is to be among the three upper when the final count is made. Coach Morley Jennings frankly admits he has plenty to worry about, and he has lost lots of sleep over the question of filling Lloyd Russell's tricky shoes.

Hearing on Leon River Watershed Held Wednesday

The history of the Leon River Flood Control district had another chapter Thursday.

Lieut. Col. F. S. Besson of the U. S. Army Engineer Corps at Galveston and Louis P. Merrill, regional conservator, soils conservation service, Wednesday at Hamilton conducted a public hearing at which views concerning the controlling of floods, runoff and waterflow retardation and soil erosion prevention on the Leon watershed were presented.

The testimony and views will be used by the officials conducting the hearing, it was explained, to determine if recommendation will be made to congress that the board of rivers and harbors commission of the federal government should take steps to control flood waters in the Leon watershed.

The hearing was at Hamilton because it is at the mid-point of the Leon river which originates in Callahan county and empties into the Little river in Bell county.

Delegates attending from Eastland, Comanche, Hamilton, Coryell and Bell counties. The Eastland delegation presented data on engineers' reports and plans for the construction of the proposed Mangum dam south of Eastland.

Ralph J. Mahon, state reclamation engineer, explained a recent survey conducted on a proposed lakesite and damsite south of Eastland, McMahon, for his department, as well as representative of the state water board offered to give the federal officials records of their organization and cooperation.

Merrill was in charge of the soil erosion testimony. Elmo V. Cook, county agent, and County Judge W. S. Adamson contributed to information on the condition in the county.

From Eastland were J. Frank Sparks and L. A. Hightower, members of the Leon River Flood Control district; C. W. Hoffmann, mayor of Eastland; Judge Adamson; H. J. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland chamber of commerce, and Cook.

Directors of the Leon district have expressed appreciation for the aid of Congressman Clyde L. Garrett of Eastland in bringing about the hearing. A telegram from Garrett was read into the record at the hearing.

The Leon River district was created in 1935 by the legislature. It only includes two counties which are in the Leon watershed—Eastland and Callahan. Preliminary surveys have been made in the district by the board and the Texas Reclamation department.

DALLAS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Dallas public school teachers' salaries were restored in full Tuesday night by the Board of Education which tentatively adopted a $3,536,350 budget for the 1937-38 session. A public hearing was set for Friday night.

Farmer Digs Up Ring Lost Twenty Years

AUBURN, Neb., Aug. 27. (AP)—Carl Gebers, Auburn farmer, knocked off a piece of dirt containing a gold ring recently while cleaning the shovel of his cultivator.

He told the editor of the Auburn newspaper about it, and a little more than a week later received a letter from Mrs. Henry Unland of Jordan, Mont., who said she had read the story and recalled she had lost a gold ring 20 years ago when the Unland family lived on the farm now owned by Gebers. Gebers sent the ring to Mrs. Unland.

Gold Rush Is on on Isle of Cypress

TRODOS, Cypress, Aug. 27. (AP)—Efforts of an American firm owning copper mines in Cypress to solve an unemployment problem have resulted in a gold rush here. In the last six months authorities of this British colony have issued 240 prospecting permits. For more than a decade it had been known that gold existed on this island, but the ore was costly to treat. When the copper mine faced the need of finding additional employment it altered its equipment and went to work on ore found in its shafts. The experiment exceeded all expectations.

Authorities fear, however, that the gold will be worked out within three years unless more deposits are found.

It's a Great Gadget If You Understand It

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (AP)—Gangway for the Mechanical Mole. It's a gadget developed by the soil conservation service to save hillside soil from erosion. The thing splits the sod along a hillside, burrows a neat gash beneath, and, zipper like, closes the resulting gash. But when it is all stitched up, the lower level on the hillside somehow is higher than the upper level, and— Aw, well, write the soil conservation service. They can tell you all about it. The Austrians entered Belgrade, Serbia's capital, on Dec. 2, 1914, after shelling the city four months. Aided by British armed launches, the Serbians reoccupied Belgrade 11 days later. The city's final fall occurred Oct. 9, 1915.

You Must Believe In Signs If You Visit Radio Studio

By JOAN DURHAM AP Feature Service Writer Radio "gags" are directed to the ear—not the eye. That's why there's so much difference between the rules of conduct for audiences in the radio studio and the legitimate theater. The audience in a radio studio isn't vital to the program, says Harry von Zell, announcer and master of ceremonies for a major network. It's the stay-at-home population that counts. You're Par of the Show Studio audiences are considered part of the show. When signs reading "applause," "laugh" or "laugh loudly" are displayed it's their job to take the cue—just as an actor does. Many studio visitors don't realize, when they refuse to applaud because they don't think the show is much good, that applause is picked up by microphones planted in the audience. If they did they would understand why it's considered ungracious not to respond when the applause sign is put up, even though the gag isn't funny or the act doesn't warrant enthusiastic response. They don't realize, either, that changing seats during a broadcast may sound, over the air, as though the seats are being left for good—the inference being, of course, that the program is no good. (Such changes, anyway, distract the audience more than they do the cast). Four Reminders Consequently, if you want to be a perfect guest in a radio studio remember these four things: 1. Arrive 15 or 20 minutes before the broadcast is scheduled to begin. (Many studios close their doors that long ahead, anyway). 2. Refrain from asking your favorite radio star for an autograph—until the program is over. The chances are he or she will want to spend a few minutes rehearsing before "going on the air." 3. Sit quietly throughout the program—except when you're requested to clap or laugh. 4. Pick up your hat and coat and prepare to go home—after the program has signed off. WHAT? NO PRETZELS MURPHYSBORO, Ill., Aug. 27 (AP)—Twenty-four threshers staged a sit-down strike near here, refusing to thresh six remaining loads of wheat bundles unless the owner served beer and sandwiches. The owner capitulated. Ice absorbs heat when melting.

Queen of Italy Helps Germans KASSEL, Germany, Aug. 27 (AP)—To the initiative of Queen Elena of Italy, Germany owes its first hospital for special treatment of inflammation of the brain (encephalitis) recently opened here. Queen Elena had been told by her daughter Giovanna, queen of Bulgaria, of a cure discovered by a Bulgarian herbalist. She had clinics opened in Rome, Milan and Turin. A visit to her elder daughter Mafalda, who lives here as the wife of the provincial governor, Prince Philip of Hesse, resulted in two German experts to Italy to study the new clinic, named in honor of the queen, to get medicinal supplies from Italy until Germany produces them. ARRESTS PROTESTERS GALVESTON, Aug. 27 (AP)—National Maritime Union's local business agent filed a protest with the missioners against the arrest and detention of men who were members of the Clyde-Mohr steamer, Henry R. Mallory. The University of Pennsylvania was founded in 1826.
