Proposed State of Texas Building at World Fairs

The Texas Planning Board has recommended to the legislature that Texas be represented at the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco and at the New York World's Fair in 1939, by a replica of the historic Alamo in which 7,000 feet of sound and color film depicting Texas as it is today would be shown in an air-conditioned auditorium seating 500. The cost of the exhibits will not exceed $225,000.00. The above drawing is an artist's conception of how the proposed State of Texas building will look in a world's fair setting.

GOVERNOR TO PUSH BATTLE FOR REVENUE

Money For Pensions, Dependent Persons Sought by Allred

AUSTIN, Sept. 3 (AP)—Governor Allred today set September 27 for convening the special tax raising session of legislature.

He will ask the law givers to give a levy for old age and teachers' pensions, aid for adult needy blind and dependent children and ordinary purposes of government. He said he would make specific recommendations and did not yet know exactly how much money would be required.

The governor called a press conference Thursday in which he hit sharply at State Treasurer Lockhart and Comptroller Sheppard for statements they have made in recent days.

Lockhart said Wednesday the state was in fine financial condition, citing the excess of income over expenditures during the fiscal year which ended Aug. 31.

"If the state is in such good financial condition, why doesn't Charley pay some of those hot warrants?" the governor snapped. The governor was irritated at recurrent newspaper reports quoting legislators as saying no additional taxes are needed.

"The Use of Instrumental Music in the Worship," will be the Rev. E. W. Freeze's sermon subject in his revival now in progress tonight.

The meeting, being held at East 11th and A avenue, is so located that within a short time after a rain the place is in good shape. Yesterday's showers did not stop last night's services.

Tonight's sermon theme will be dealt with from a scriptural standpoint, the Rev. Freeze reported.

Promised 'Big Push' by Japanese Is Stalled By Smashing Attack

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3 (AP)—Chinese armies surprised Japanese tonight with a smashing counter-offensive which shifted the warfare back to the city proper and jeopardized Americans anew. The attack stalled Japan's promised "big push."

Greater danger loomed for the American cruiser Augusta when the Japanese announced ships would fire across foreign vessels lying in the Whangpoo in the bombardment of Chinese positions.

New shellfire and shrapnel engulfed Shanghai leading the French to give notice they expected both sides to curb hostilities during evacuation of Americans and French.

The Japanese cabinet today approved an emergency war budget of six hundred million dollars for presentation to parliament.

Two Neighboring Counties Included In Road Projects

AUSTIN, Sept. 3.—The highway commission has made public its list of secondary projects for 1938-39 as submitted to the United States bureau of public roads for approval. It carries a total of $6,400,000 for 147 projects, only 27 of which are for the improvement of regularly designated highways. All the others contemplate the improvement of county roads serving farms and ranches and bringing the latter much closer to markets.

This is in addition to the state-federal program for regular cardinal highway improvements, a three-year plan for which calls for the closing of gaps. A larger sum will be expended in the latter improvements.

There has been a general demand for the improvement of county roads to lift the farmers and ranchers out of the mud so they might move their products to market at all seasons with speed.

Included in the list of projects is Callahan—end of present improved road south of Baird south 8.5 miles toward Coleman, grading, drainage structures and surfacing; Shackelford—from four miles south of Albany south five miles, grading, drainage structures and surfacing.

CHAMPS TO BE DECIDED

Red Front, Huestis to Resume Series

A decision was reached today by the representatives of the first and second half champions to decide the winner of the league tonight at the softball park even if it required a double-header. This will eliminate the monotony of a long drawn-out playoff it was said.

There is no heavy favorite in a match between these two teams who have taken turn about in defeating each other and the winner will have a rough time, it is believed.

The first game of the series was won by the Huestis team by the narrow margin of 12-11 and if they win the first game tonight they will be declared the city league champions and the nip and tuck race will be over, but on the other hand, if Red Front should win the first game, which they have a good chance to do, the second game will be played right there to determine the winner. It will not be surprising to see the match go the full route of both games for it will be either stay in or lose for the Red Fronters in the first game.

Over Half Inch of Rain Falls Thursday

The weather gauge at the city hall showed that six-tenths inches of rain fell here yesterday as small thundershowers prevailed throughout the day. The rain which fell yesterday afternoon accounted for the greater part of this total.

Together with the three-tenths of rain which fell the day before, the rain yesterday boosted the total rainfall to almost an inch for the two days.

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

It would be hard to conceive of a more terrifying thing than the bombing of noncombatants in a war. The effect of such a modern method of warfare is similar to that of a cyclone. The destructive elements are beyond the power of man on the ground to control. The most that he can do is to beat it lickity-split for shelter, and such shelters in a crowded metropolitan area, are rare and often ineffective against the heavy projectiles which come hurtling earthward out of the sky.

Some years ago I read an article by a noted writer on the subject in which the writer assured his readers that in the future wars would be almost humane contests to cripple without killing. Thrusts of opposing armies would be directed at disabling the operations of the other by destroying his sources of supply, systems of movement and so forth. Even the bullets fired in these brotherly contests would be designed and directed so that if they should strike a soldier they would merely wound him in some minor but, for purposes of warfare, effective fashion.

What a Utopian faith in the Christ-like qualities of madened people! That writer of fairy tales probably had the lights knocked out of his concept when Mussolini invaded Ethiopia and bombed villages of helpless natives, when Japan strafed Chapel from the air, sending hordes of terrified natives streaming into the International Settlement of Shanghai for protection. He would be even more taken aback by the events now occurring in China where dropping tons of pro-

BY HULBERT FOOTHER

SYNOPSIS: When Neill, a young federal agent, gets to Baltimore for a week's vacation with his girl, he finds Janet won't break a dinner date with Prescott Fanning. Angriily Neill says Fanning is too old for Janet, too sick and spends too much money. They quarrel and part, Neill setting out to check up on Fanning. A strange little gray man, David Eyster, tells him Fanning is "a devil to women." Neill finds Fanning at his hotel and strikes up a bar friendship. Jovial chatter hides shrewd questions but Fanning discloses only that he made his money in Wall Street.

Chapter Four
In Fanning's Suite
"What you doing tonight?" Fanning asked.

"Eating alone, worse luck," said Neill.

"Look, I'm having a little party, and I need another man. I'd be darn glad to have you join us. I like the cut of your jib, Patton. We must see more of each other."

Neill grinned inwardly at the thought of Janet's face when Fanning brought him to the party. It would be a pretty little revenge. "Certainly is nice of you to ask me," he said. "I haven't my evening clothes with me."

"It doesn't matter, my boy! The girls will dress up, bless their hearts! But we don't have to. You're a good-looking young guy, Patton, damned if you're not, and you'll be a credit to my party just as you are."

"Well, thanks a lot," said Neill. "Let's go up to my suite and wash. We can start out from here."

"Okay."

They paid for their drinks and went up in an elevator, Fanning talking and laughing. At the same time there was a glitter in his black eyes that spelled danger. Neill's job had accustomed him to that. He was armed.

Fanning's suite was one of the most expensive in the hotel. High above the street it looked over the lower part of town and across the harbor to Federal Hill. Neill noted that though Fanning presumably had occupied it for several weeks, there were no photographs or knick-knacks, no personal belongings of any kind on display; nothing to give a line on the man's past.

They made themselves ready for the party, Fanning keeping up a running fire of humorous stories. As they were slipping into their coats again, there was a knock at the door of the parlor. Fanning went to answer it, but held the door in such a manner that Neill could not see who was outside. A whispered conversation took place.

Mysterious Phone Call

Presently Fanning opened the door further, but still Neill could not see who was on the other side of it. As the crack between door and frame widened, he had a sense that somebody was giving him the once over.

The conversation continued. Though the voices were low, Neill suspected that they were disputing. Finally he heard Fanning say: "Well, you'll have to lump it then!" "Ah! I never thought to get this from you," rumbled the other voice sorely. "Shh!" said Fanning.

He went out, pulling the door almost to behind him, and Neill heard the two of them walking away. Tiptoeing to the door, he put an eye to the crack and saw the two figures moving in close converse towards the elevators. They were gesticulating angrily. Fanning's visitor was a rough-looking man of enormous physical strength. His shoulders were so heavy they were bowed forward, and his big hands hung almost to his knees.

Neill retired from the door, leaving it exactly as he had found it. The telephone rang, and he picked it up. A man's voice said cautiously over the wire: "That you, Pres?"

Neill subdued his voice to a husky whisper. "Right."

"What's the matter?" asked the voice sharply.

"Nothing. There are others in the room here."

"Oh! I just wanted to tell you that everything is all right. The old girl hasn't squawked."

"Who did you say?"

"I say the old girl hasn't squawked."

"Good!"

"Shall I see you tomorrow as agreed?"

"Right. Where are you now?"

Again he drew a blank. "Read's drug store. So long."

"So long."

Neill hung up. Eyster might be mad, but even the few words he had heard were enough to confirm the fact that Fanning was a crook! As yet however, he had secured no concrete evidence to lay before Janet. He looked around the room sharply. There was no time to make a search.

'One Last Spot'

Fanning returned with his made-to-order laugh saying: "These darn realtors call on you at all hours. It's almost impossible to get rid of them."

"That's right," agreed Neill. He was thinking: That was no realtor, old man!

Fanning fetched a sealed bottle of Scotch from a cabinet. "We must have one last shot before we go," he said.

"Just a short one for me."

"This is something special," said Fanning. "A friend of mine brought it from abroad. Such whiskey as this is not ordinarily shipped to our country."

Neill was on his guard, but there seemed to be no danger in drinking from an unopened bottle, since Fanning was preparing to drink from the same bottle. Fanning took two glasses into the bathroom where he could be heard washing them. He brought them back still wet, and opened the bottle.

"When I get my own little place I'll have a cellar, Patton, stocked with the choicest wines and liquors that the world produces. I'm not a heavy drinker, but I must have the best." He poured two drinks. "Here's how," he said.

"Same to you," said Neill. He waited until he saw the liquor actually running down Fanning's throat, and then tossed off his own. Certainly it was superfine whiskey.

"Let's go," said Fanning. His last act before leaving was to take a packet of 100 new $5 bills from a drawer of the bureau and drop it in his wallet. "Just an evening's pleasure" he said. "Well, you're no piker," said Neill.

They descended in the elevator and hailed a taxi at the door of the hotel. "To the Belvedere," where we pick up the girls," he added to Neill.

From Hanover street they turned into Fayette and then into Charles. The pavement of Baltimore's best street were almost empty now. Fanning began to tell another funny story, but his voice seemed far away.

Neill felt great. He had never found the streets at evening so beautiful. A delicious languor was stealing through his limbs. He seemed to be reclining on a fleecy cloud that was being wafted away into space.

By a certain tone in Fanning's voice he realized that he had come to the point of his story, and he laughed politely. Fanning began another.

Meanwhile Neill was being wafted farther and farther away from all earthly cares. He passed into unconsciousness.

(Copyright, 1937, by Hulbert Footner)

Neill finds Janet has gone with Fanning, tomorrow.

When the president of the United States visits an American vessel, his flag is kept flying at the mainmast as long as he is on board.

Baylor Given Little Chance To Win Pennant

(By ELTON L. MILLER)
WACO, Sept. 3.—"I hope!" That is all that Coach Morley Jennings can say concerning his 1937 Golden Bruins as the hour for practice sessions approaches. The Baylor Bears, as all followers of football in the Southwest conference know, are slated for about the "humpteenth" time to be on the bottom of the ladder.

Only twice in the past decade have they ended a season in last place, yet the wise ones persist in giving them such a lenth. They don't take into consideration the fact that Baylor has two things not present on the average football team and the average campus, to wit: (1) A dominating "fight to the last second, regardless the score" attitude; and (2) a superb coaching staff.

The Bruins have approached the championship rung in the Southwest ladder since 1924, but have never managed to win. They have, with only mediocre teams, defeated champions and been the downfall of the nation's favorites, yet the fans are content to let the prognosticators open the fun with predictions that "again the Bears will be on the bottom."

Open Against Razorbacks

Had Coach Morley Jennings' forces defeated Arkansas last year, doubtless they would have won the conference title. Their first conference game this year will be with the Razorbacks from the hills of the Ozarks, and they will have plenty of steam because the game will be played at the Waco Municipal stadium. If Baylor can hurdle the champion Hogs, they will be well on their way to again prove that there's nothing to dope.

It is true that on paper the Bears are weak. Any team would after losing three such first-flighters as Lloyd Russell, triple-threat backfielder and two all-Southwest line-men, Owen (Ox) Parry of Dallas, a guard, and John D. Reynolds, one of the best centers in the nation.

Russell's shoes will be hard to fill, but there's Hillsboro's Billy Patterson, who flings a football like a Baugh, and he is likely to set southern woods afire this year. The center post will come from inexperienced timber—inexperienced when viewed through eyes of a Southwest conference follower, but they are men who have had considerable training at the pivot post in high school and on the freshman squad.

Prospective "Unacceptables"

Practically all of the high school stars of last year are drifting to other schools—as usual. There will always be prospective Lloyd Russells among the "unacceptables," however, and they will land in such schools as Baylor. Russell, it will be remembered, was refused at Southwestern Methodist university. They wanted bigger names.

Too, Baylor is looking forward to a two-year intersectional contract with the Loyola university of Los Angeles, which begins on Nov. 20 with a game to be played in Beaumont. That game, with prospects of traveling out to the west coast in 1938, will attract some high school boys looking for a college bed.

Sports writers, sports commentators, and "big shot" journalists were wrong when they said that Tommy Farr, the Welshman, couldn't hit. They are wrong again in saying that Baylor will be in seventh place in the Southwest final standing.

Rodeo to Be Staged In Ranger Labor Day

RANGER, Sept. 3.—The Ranger Rodeo association is laying plans for the third big rodeo for the year to be held Labor Day, September 6th.

The plans call for an afternoon show at 2:30 o'clock and an evening show at 8. Each show will be preceded by a parade headed by Mayor Walker of Ranger and the Ranger high school band. The parade will proceed through the principal business section of the town and return to the rodeo ground where the show will be staged.

The stock to be used are from the McFarlin ranch and are the best obtainable. The program will consist of calf roping, calf belling, steer riding, bronc riding and exhibition steer wrestling. Cash prizes to be given are expected to aggregate more than four hundred dollars.

More women are arrested for thefts than men every year in the United States.

Test Tint of Skin Before You Select Clothes

By BETTY CLARKE

AP Feature Service Writer
A brunette with a shallow skin doesn't look her best in chartreuse green.

To prove it, all she needs is a frank friend who will hold a piece of chartreuse colored cloth under her chin, step back a few paces, and study the effect. It doesn't take an artist to see that the chartreuse brings out all the yellow in this brunette's skin—and it had more than its share of yellow to start with. The brunette can see for herself, if she looks in a mirror.

All right. Now hold a piece of pure green under the chin of our fellow brunette. There's a different story. The pure green more nearly harmonizes with the brunette's skin. Then try brown, rust and rose beige. Those colors, she'll find, are best of all.

You Must Experiment
The experimental method is the only one to use, says Miss Muriel Cox of Boston, who has given advice on clothing to hundreds of student stylists and department store executives.

She carries a huge bag of sample materials around with her, and trots them out whenever anyone asks, "What colors should I wear?"

But before she takes up cloth colors, she tests the color of the questioner's skin by holding against her forehead a card with a peephole cut in it. Your forehead gives your true skin color—"background color," Miss Cox calls it. Cheeks are "foreground color," and shouldn't be considered when buying clothes.

With the aid of the peephole, an amateur can see what color predominates in her skin—pink, purple, yellow or brown.

The skin is the most important detail to consider when picking clothes colors. Hair and eyes rank second, says Miss Cox. But she makes two exceptions:

If you have blue or blue-green eyes—in which case play them up. If you have red hair—in which case you must think of it first.

Some Conclusions
Here are some of Miss Cox's conclusions:

Many persons wear colors that are too obvious, such as bright red, for instance, which separates the foreground from the background. Try blended colors, peach or dull blue, instead.

Green is the most flattering color. It brings out the pink in the skin. Navy blue, contrary to sales-girls who swear you look your best in blue, is dangerous. Only women with lots of pink in their skin should attempt it.

Women with dark hair and eyes can safely essay strong colors, to play up the contrast. Others should try to match the skin, rather than to contrast it.

All-Americans in Dream Game at Dallas

BUZZ BUIVID, Marquette

SAMMY BAUGH, T. C. U.

Here's half of anybody's all-America backfield and Southwestern football fans will have a chance to see it clicking together in the Cotton Bowl at the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition the night of Sept. 6. Ray Buivid, ace halfback of Marquette University's Golden Avalanche, and Slinging Sammy Baugh, quarterback of the T. C. U. Horned Frogs, were opponents in the Cotton Bowl classic at Dallas New Year's Day but now they're going to combine their resources against the professional Chicago Bears in this section's second grid dream game. Buzz and Sam are only two of a list of twenty-eight outstanding senior stars of 1936, who have been recruited from seventeen colleges and universities from coast to coast to make up the Pan-American All-Americans. They'll be coached by Matty Bell of Southern Methodist and Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian.

Super Special Storm Troops Are Formed

VIENNA, Sept. 3. (AP)—A head-ache-proof private army, whose members are experts in ju-jitsu and politics, is being formed by Chancellor Schuschnigg's administration.

It is called the Sturmkorps, or S.K. The troopers wear midnight-blue uniforms with black shirts. In name, purpose, and training they remind one of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's elite guards, the S.S.

"Der Beamte," a weekly that circulates among government officials, lets it be understood that the new organization is something super extra special in manly courage, camaraderie, intelligence, fighting spirit, physique, and ten-odd other virtues.

The S.K. made its first appearance July 24 during exercises in memory of the late Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss. The men made a good impression among most Viennese—many of them are six footers, slender, and physically fit; their uniforms are nat- ural and their boots squeak with the authoritative sound the Viennese seem to like.

Said "Der Beamte": "The iron determination of men who realize that the very special task of guarding the flag of the Fatherland Front has been entrusted to them is to be awakened in these Sturmkorps members—and not mere pugnaciousness, which picks a fight for the sake of fighting."

Baylor to Offer Course in Radio

WACO, Sept. 3 (Sp)—A course in radio—aimed to develop microphone technique and teach students to adapt material for radio—will be offered in the Baylor university department of speech this year, Miss Sara Lowery, chairman of the department, announces. Baylor and Louisiana State university are the only schools in the south with radio courses in speech, an N. B. C. survey discloses.

No railways operate in Liberia, and there is only one main highway completed which could be used for bus or truck transportation.

Bullet Boomerangs in Role of Metal Drill

RENO, Nev., Sept. 3. (AP)—It was a good idea that Anton Rager had—up to a certain point.

Lacking a drill to repair some farm machinery, Anton decided to shoot a hole through an iron bar. He seemed to be making progress when one of the rifle bullets bounced back and clipped away the top of his ear.

Rushed to Reno for medical treatment, Anton said he would buy a drill.

WHAT PRICE SHARKS?

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept. 3. (AP)—A subsidy amounting to $50,000 a year is offered by the New South Wales government for catching of sharks on Sydney's ocean beaches to protect bathers. The government requires that the company receiving the subsidy haul in its nets each night and collect the catch. Many products, including oils and a form of leather, it is suggested, could be made from sharks thus caught.

Six thousand stars are visible to the human eye.

RODEO AT VALERA
COLEMAN, Sept. 3. (Sp)—More than 1,000 persons are expected to crowd into Valera next Saturday for the purpose of witnessing a rodeo that will begin at 10:30 in the morning and continue throughout the day.

Police Stop Driver To Make Him 'Mayor'

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., Sept. 3. (AP)—L. A. Whipple of Pawtucket, R. I., started reaching for his driver's license when two Traverse City patrolmen overtook his automobile.

Instead of handing him a ticket the officers gave him an engraved scroll informing him he was mayor of Traverse City for the day.

Whipple, en route to Grand Traverse bay to fish for trout, learned that his Rhode Island license had completed the list of "foreign" plates registered by the police this season.

Sheriff Puts End to 'Kangaroo Courts'

LA PORTE, Ind., Sept. 3 (AP)—Sheriff Joe Wolf has outlawed "kangaroo courts," mock hearings conducted inside bullpens by prisoners themselves at the La Porte county jail because he says "too many abuses arise."

Many sheriffs approve such

"courts," Wolf says, because they give the prisoners something to do and keep them out of mischief.

A new prisoner usually is charged with "breaking into jail." The "judge" always imposes a "fine." If the prisoner can't pay the "fine"—money, cigarettes, candy or personal belongings—fellow prisoners are permitted by "court rules" to frisk him.

In Wolf's jail the prisoners are told to pass the time at odd jobs, or at playing cards and checkers.

Book Review Is Given by Mrs. Seale Thursday

Mrs. Hubert Seale gave a brilliant review of Dr. Henry C. Link's book "The Return to Religion" at the Cisco public library Thursday evening. The club rooms were decorated in baskets of crepe myrtle and fern. Mrs. C. R. West, president of the Twentieth Century club, who sponsored the review, introduced Mrs. P. Pettit, chairman of the book committee, who in turn introduced Mrs. Seale, speaker of the evening.

Dr. Link has written several technical books on the subject of religion but this is his first attempt to reduce the tenets of scientific psychology into popular usage.

"Return to Religion" in a sense is autobiographical, it is really a condensation of biographies of thousands of people with whom we come in contact every day. People, who in these chaotic times, are groping for the verities of life, for some sure foundation for their happiness. From a psychological viewpoint, all friendship involves the artificial process of subordinating one's own interests and inclination to those of others. People who have acquired the art of friendship no longer think of it as artificial. For them it is natural to say and do the things which please others. They may even think they are pleasing themselves, rather than their friends. They are, because to give pleasure to others has come to be their own first principle of enjoyment. This review closes the years work of the book committee composed of Mmes. P. Pettit, Homer Slicker and G. B. Kelly. Despite the fact that the meeting had to be changed due to the threatening weather a large crowd was present.

Not a Housewife---'A Neoelectress'

And is her face happy! Mrs. Ben D. Parker of Abilene had "time on her hands" so she thought about the campaign to re-name the modern West Texas woman, sponsored by the West Texas Utilities Company. As a substitute name for "housewife" she coined the word "Neoelectress"—meaning "a modern home maker alert to this new electric age." Above she is seen examining the instant cube release which is a feature of the electric refrigerator (Frigidaire) she received as a reward for her originality. Harold Austin, district manager for the service company, made the presentation.

authorities that their average profit was only 75 cents per ton.

Three Cooperative Oil Mills

"There are three cooperative oil mills in Texas," Mr. Starr said. "El Paso, Lubbock and one in the Rio Grande valley. The average price paid for seed by privately owned mills in the south last year, we were told, was $37, while the El Paso mill paid $40 per ton. The profits which were distributed to the member stockholders in dividend checks amounted to $7.75 per share.

"At Childress we visited the three cooperative mills, all under one management, which are being operated very satisfactorily, and all the cooperatives satisfied."

Of the 20 in the motorcade leaving here Monday all were from Eastland county except two or three, Mr. Starr said. Those from this vicinity included W. B. Starr and son, R. C. Starr, J. E. Spencer, T. G. Caudle, Pleas Ray, W. J. Bush, vocational teacher of Scranton, Herman Wende, Henry Stroebel and several from Rising Star, Gorman and Callahan county.

Story of Texas---

that in the year and a half before the fairs open the cameras could get each phase of Texas life at its seasonal peak, thus assuring a presentation which would depict Texas as it really is.

The board's recommendations provide for a director at each exhibit, stenographic help, motion picture operators, attendants and porters. Special literature extolling the advantages of Texas as a playground, an industrial state, an agricultural empire and as a cultural center also is provided for in the plan.

Due to constitutional restrictions the financing of the exhibits probably will have to be done by popular subscription. The board is submitting a plan whereby such financing can be done under the laws of the state.

A general law probably will be passed at the coming special session of the legislature empowering the governor to appoint a joint world's fair commission, which, in turn, would be empowered to incorporate as a non-profit organization to raise funds for a Texas exhibit at San Francisco and New York in 1939.

The same procedure was followed in 1904 when Texas exhibited at the St. Louis world's fair and again in 1933 when Texas had a small exhibit at the Century of Progress in Chicago.
