POWERS CALLED UPON TO ADOPT PLAN

Allred to Veto Retail Sales Tax, He Asserts

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Noteworthy, perhaps, as reflecting the growing interest in what is taking place at Lobo field is the increasing gallery which of afternoons watches the labors of the squad. The usual wisecrackers are there, as interested as critical and, I hope, as sincere in their affections for the team as they are cynical. Everyone of those birds knows exactly how a football team ought to be run. The trouble is, however, that the coaches don't seem to be as interested in their advice as they are eager to give it. Yesterday afternoon they had withdrawn into a conference group under the shade of the new concession booth, somewhat remote from the scene of operations, where they worked out a special rating for every player, preparing, I guess, to submit their recommendations to Petty, Cooper and Garrett when the proper time comes.

But the evident lack of discrimination revealed in the remarks of some of the members of the gang severely reduces any respect that some of us might have otherwise have for their judgment. I heartily recommend to the coaches that they don't listen to them a single minute. It will be a complete waste of time.

The suspicion persists that the coaches think the same way. At any rate there is a very definite air of "we mean what we say" about the old field. Somebody is boss, you may be assured. Foolishness is out. Instead there is earnestness and activity. And the boys, despite the firmness of discipline, seem to like it. They are snapping into their work with good heart and effort.

Nor is the material as bad as some might fear. True, most of the boys are small and many are inexperienced, while the squad as a whole is not numerous. But scattered among the gang are some youngsters of left and power, and it is fairly safe to predict that the team which goes on the field for the Gold and Black this season will be a much superior team to any of the past few years.

The new gridiron is a thing of pride. The grass has formed a solid turf over the turtle-backed playing field, and this was being mowed today into that smooth and velvety texture which forms so vivid a background for the color of fall games. Within a few days the gridiron should be in excellent playing condition.

Prelim Work on Hatchery Begins

Preliminary work on the new fish hatchery project was begun today by W. F. Wilson and a crew of 40 men. D. C. Harper, manager of the hatchery announced. The principal work that was taken up was the quarrying of rock and other preliminary details.

This new project will require eight months for completion and will employ at least 60 men. The total cost of the building and repairing will amount to $25,000 for which about 80 per cent will go for labor.

Included in the work to be done will be the rechanneling of the creek near the hatchery which has been slowly cutting into it. The cost of this project will twice exceed the money spent on the Lobo football stadium which has just been completed at a cost of approximately $13,000.

There will be two shifts of the work with each man working half time.

The group arrived along with several others to spend 17 days in perfecting their unit organizations, some combining with others from different posts, and in unit tests on September 27. On October 13 the division will be combined as a unit for a month's practical field test.

LEGISLATORS ARE CALLED FOR SESSION

PIPELINES AND UTILITIES SHOULD BEAR MORE EXPENSE, SAYS

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. (AP)—Governor Allred today said he would veto any general retail sales tax levied in the next session of the Texas legislature.

He made the announcement as a formal proclamation summoning lawmakers September 27th for the sole purpose of raising revenues to finance government operations being prepared.

Allred pounded on his desk Thursday and declared oil pipelines and utilities ought to bear a larger share of the expenses of the government.

Simultaneously he reiterated that the state needed millions in additional revenue and the legislature should buckle down at the special session beginning Sept. 27 and provide it.

"It looks as if the utilities and pipelines may have taken over the government," he said, "and I am going to find out at the special session if it is so."

The governor said the franchise tax on the pipelines was reduced on the theory that those businesses had to pay also an intangible assets levy.

"Yet," he said, "the latter has been tied up in the courts and collections have been very small."

He suggested a possible way to "make the pipelines pay more" would be to levy "a little income tax on them," adding that some states have corporation income taxes and there was no doubt in his mind they were constitutional.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET

Five Coaches to Be Honored

The district Oil Belt executive met this morning at 10 o'clock at the Burch hotel in Breckenridge, where routine business and administration details were considered questions of eligibility took a prominent part in the discussions.

An evening of fun and discussion will be had by the coaches and football captains of the Oil Belt and by the school officials present.

Mr. Maddox also said that there was due to be some hot competition for the job of drum major this year with 15 aspirants out for the job.

"In fact the competition is so keen that we have arranged for a regular class in order to pick the one most suited for the job," Mr. Maddox said.

The performances in these classes are judged by the others in the competition and each one is graded according to his respective abilities. The band leader hopes to pick a good "twirler" by this method, he said.

NATIONS SEEK TO DEMOLISH PIRATE SUBS

France, England Offer Plan; Swift Approval Is Expected

GENEVA, Sept. 10. (AP)—France and Britain called upon seven other powers today to adopt "by common accord" a sweeping plan to annihilate pirate submarines in the Mediterranean high seas.

French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, elected conference president, told delegates "It is impossible to permit present situation of insecurity to continue without gravest perils."

He said, "We regret that Italy and Germany considered it necessary to boycott the conference." He demanded "rapid action."

The plan, expected to be approved swiftly, embraces an actual mutual assistance agreement and would use dirigibles, planes and warcraft to safeguard merchant shipping. Submarines on surface flying national colors would be unmolesed.

Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff warned that his country "must and will take its own measures," against the submarines.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden flew to Paris Thursday and conferred with Delbos while a committee of naval experts drafted plans for the international fleet.

Although there were no new incidents of aggression against Mediterranean shipping, the French naval ministry, incensed over the shooting down of a French mail plane near Gijon, Spain, prepared a protest to the Spanish government and ordered four destroyers from France's Atlantic fleet to bolster her full Mediterranean force.

Germany and Italy acted in concert in rejecting invitations to the party, both refusing to sit with Soviet Russia because of Moscow's sharp notes to Rome accusing Italy of sinking two Soviet merchantmen and demanding redress.

Both submitted as a counter-proposal that the Mediterranean issue be ironed out in the European "hands off Spain committee."

That proposal, however, was rejected.

Goat Shearing Being Done in Cisco Territory

The price of kid mohair will be 70 cents, with grown goats bringing 60 cents, it was said.

Among goat raisers in and around Cisco who have had their goats sheared or who expect to do so are F. E. Harrell, McCracken, J. T. Poe, Wende and others.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The only wise God our Savior. . . Lift up His countenance upon thee, and give thee peace.—Jude 25; Num. vi. 26.

Let peace, O Lord, Thy peace, O God, Upon our souls descend! —ADELAIDE PROCTER

Thy wisdom may we know Which yields a life of peace below. —SPURGEON.

It is good and pleasant, beyond the power of tongue to tell, to be deeply and fully in the enjoyment of the Divine legacy of peace, to be filled with peace, to be surrounded with peace.—Raleigh.

Wise Investments

Of all federal government relief work projects the most practical and beneficial have been the "farm-to-market roads" constructed in cooperation with the counties commissioners courts as sponsors.

VAST sums of relief money have been spent during the past four or five years in providing employment for jobless people. Much of it can correctly be designated "pump priming," with little intrinsic value in the physical accomplishments left.

is a factor of no mean consequence. It can be stated without a doubt that this opening up of hitherto isolated sections has given impetus both to the desire to return to the farm and to an interest in improving the properties and conditions there.

HENCE, the meeting at Eastland Monday afternoon is of extreme importance to Eastland county as well as counties about Eastland. It is earnestly hoped that some solution to the problem of continuing assistance within the ability of the county to accept it will be worked out at this session.

OTHER OPINIONS

Mother, May I Go to Swim?

SECRETARY OF STATE HULL made an important definition of American foreign policy the other night. He said that the nation had adopted a policy of peace, toward which every effort should be bent, and that in pursuance of this objective, steps leading to immediate reduction of armament would be taken whenever feasible.

All of this is, of course, headed in the right direction. We may take pride in the fact that the United States has, in the present day of alarms, led the way in making positive efforts toward peace.

This whole essential contradiction is epitomized in the present war in China. The basic conflict between isolation as expressed in our neutrality act and attempts to prevent war from "breaking out anywhere," as formulated in the nine power pact and the Kellogg agreement, leaves us without any coherent foreign policy other than the excellent aspirations expressed by Secretary Hull.

Again, the secretary says that "we have observed our treaties in letter and spirit." What he means, of course, is that we have ourselves refrained from any overt act violating treaties. But can he say that we have made every effort to invoke the consultative features of the nine power pact, as we pledged ourselves to do in case of aggression against China by any of the signatories thereto, one of whom is Japan?

That is what is making our position, with all its good intent, unreal except insofar as the trade treaties are holding a candle in a darkening world of conflicting nationalisms.

AVOCA WELL FLOWS 110 BARRELS HOURLY

First natural gauge on the Iron Mountain and Humble No. 1 Haterius, third producer for the Avoca field of northeastern Jones county was turned in to the local office of the railroad commission yesterday.

The test was estimated by operators at 200 barrels per hour through 5 1-2 inch casing under a flow of 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas. After tubing was run, the test made a gauged flow of 110 barrels hourly through the two-inch pipe and a three-quarter inch choke.

Depth measurement was corrected to 3,237 feet, the top of pay, to 3,245, total depth, by steel line measurement.

Iron Mountain and Humble were reported to have staked location half a mile west of the No. 1 Haterius for their No. 2 Jones & Stasney, in the southwest corner of the northeast quarter of section 196 BBB&C survey.

James T. Tuohy of Fort Worth has staked location for his No. 1 N. M. George, north of Baird in Callahan county, to be a 950-foot wildcat test.

It will be drilled 1,130 feet from the east and 650 feet from the south lines of the northwest quarter of section 71-BOH survey.

A north outpost to the Clyde pool, two miles north of Clyde in Callahan county, is planned as the Mesa Verde No. 3 E. T. Klepper, west line of the 80-acre lease in section 69-BBB&C survey, and will seek production from 1,800 feet.

Geo. Brundett has been transferred to Abilene from Wichita Falls to scout this area for the Fain-McGaha Oil corporation. He was formerly a production man in the north central Texas district.

Another new scout in the area is Fred Brasted, with Phillips Petroleum company, who is stopping at the Wooten.

Brown Eagle and others No. 1 W. Glaze, a mile and a half east of the Guitur pool and in Robert Smith survey No. 192, was drilling yesterday past 1,915 feet.

It was reported to be running 20 feet higher structurally than the Fain-McGaha failure to the southwest, and has picked up a slight showing of oil with no water in the Tannehill zone at 1,860 feet. Eight-inch casing has been set to 1,838 feet.

After six-inch casing collapsed in the Hoover & Campbell No. 1 Holt & Swenson, first test to reach verdict in the Hawley townsite on the west edge of the Guitur pool, operators were plugging it yesterday without attempted acidation.

It is J. Reinke was also plugging his No. 1 Blackwell, first offset, without drilling past 1,500 feet.

S. C. Herring No. 2 Jackson, on the south side of the Guitur pool in section 45-15-T&P, has topped Cook sand without water and drilling two feet of oil saturation to 1,970 feet, sandline measurement, before shutting down to cement six-inch casing.

More Taxes For Utilities, Pipelines Hinted by Allred

AUSTIN, Sept. 10. (AP)—Governor Allred said Thursday he thought oil pipelines and utilities should pay more taxes and hinted at possible efforts to place a levy on their income at a special session of the legislature.

He said that increased expenses of the government under his administration had resulted chiefly from expansion of social services voted by the people that the legislature should provide money to carry out mandates.

China War Kills One in Hawaii

HONOLULU, T. H. Sept. 10. (AP)—The Sino-Japanese conflict has cost a life on Kauai island, Hawaii. After an argument over relative merits of Chinese generals, two aged celestials drew knives and one was stabbed to death.

On the other hand, Kenji Ohtomo, a young Japanese, gave his blood to save an ill Chinese, Ah Ming Liu. The two were strangers.

breath, southernmost outpost to the pool, was reported to have drilled several feet past 2,225 feet yesterday.

Guitar trust estate No. 9 fee, an inside test in section 44-15-T&P of the pool, was drilling past 1,810 feet yesterday after setting eight-inch casing to 1,780 feet.

Brown Eagle and Roberts No. 3 Guitur, in the same location, was drilling past 1,590 feet.

Brown Eagle and Roberts No. 5 Lewis, on the west side of the pool in Martinez survey No. 194, was drilling at 1,50 feet.

The Brown Eagle and Roberts No. 4 Guitur was spudded at 250 feet.

In the Sayles field, operators were drilling at 1,685 feet after setting eight-inch casing at 1,685 feet on the Condon Petroleum company No. 13 Sayles, section 5-20-T&P survey.

Operators were bailing out mud in preparation for drilling plugs today on the Lewis Production No. 1 J. C. Huddleston, south offset to the Rutledge discovery between the Sayles and Guitur pools. Six-inch casing was cemented at 1,921 feet after oil sand was topped.

Isaacson et al No. 1 Coker, in section 7-2-T&NO survey, five miles west of the Sandy Ridge pool, was drilling 2,600-foot wildcat test. It is being drilled by S. C. Herring.

N. H. Martin & Son No. 11-A Dorsey, in the Hawley field, was completed for 63 barrels pumping from upper Hope sand at 2,151.66 feet. The test is in the west half of the east half of section 5, Bueno survey No. 197.

Ungren & Frazier No. 1-H Dorsey, north offset to the field's recent half mile western extension, was drilling at 2,073 feet yesterday. It is expected to reach Upper Hope pay zone this weekend.

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

One Right Behind Another

SOME years ago the editor of a popular publication had an inspiration. He made up a list of men and women distinguished in art, religion, literature, commerce, politics, and other lines, and to each he sent a telegram containing this question: "If you had but forty-eight hours more to live, how would you spend them?" his purpose being to embody the replies in a symposium in a subsequent issue of his periodical.

Among those who received copies of the inquiry was a writer who thought the proposition over for a spell, and then by wire, collected back this answer: "One at a time."

Laughing Around the World With IRVIN S. COBB

Cute Little Shavers

A FARMER was driving to town some place in the interior of Virginia when he chanced upon a negro trotting down the road gesticulating rather wildly. Thinking that something was amiss with his wagon, the farmer stopped until the panting man drew abreast of him.

"What's the trouble?" asked the farmer. "Well, sir, I done got to get to town right smartly or I'll lose my job, and I see powerful late now." "What makes you so late?" "It's this way. I had to tend to my brother-in-law over at the house on account of how his wife was shaving him." "Well, that's funny," said the farmer, "but couldn't his wife do it for you?" "Yes sur," said the negro, "fact is she did finish, only she shut a tectle too close and done cut his throat wide open."

A Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Commercial Washington is crying for a special session of congress. You'd think the place had suffered enough, what with an eight-month session that left the political part of the city jumpy and shell-shocked. But 531 congressmen with $10,000-a-year incomes make a nice buying public. Take any city in the country and suddenly snatch out 531 of its $10,000-a-year men and you will understand better how Washington feels about it. Moreover, the members of congress are not the only public spenders who desert Washington immediately after the gavel falls. Each house member is allowed $5,000 a year for clerical hire, which means at least two clerks each. Top pay is fixed by law at $3,900. Senators are allowed $12, 100 a year for clerks, which must be split among five, with $3,900 to the head clerk.

Men Get Prettyed Up

Besides that, if a member is chairman of a committee, he usually is allowed one or more extra clerks. All in all, it runs up to about 1,500 clerks, male and female. And it is no secret that the female clerks are missed most sorely along the shopping front. These little girls do take on a commercial glow when they hit the big city—and Washington shops fatten on it. The uncoiffured tresses on capitol hill at any given moment could be wrapped around your finger. There are more waves there than on the Chesapeake, and they cost more.

That leads to something else. Not all the fancy hair waving and dyeing is confined to the female clerical help. Sitting in the senate gallery during a session, you couldn't count on your fingers the number of stately heads of hair made gorgeous by the deft touch of the waving iron and the dye pot.

They're Awful Particular

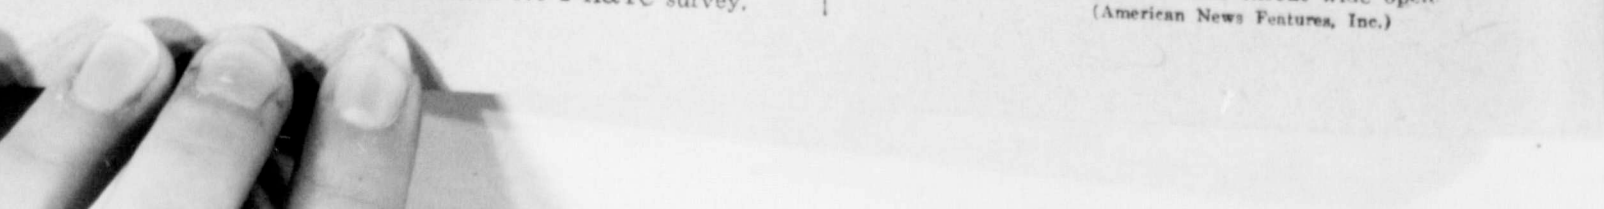

To a degree the house also dyes and crimps; but being a somewhat younger family, the men there find less need of it.

One beauty operator says the number of male customers has increased a finger of suspicion at the abilities of gentlemen of 70 and up. Gray hair, by that edit, was made less popular, and the beauty shops helped make it less prevalent.

Men customers are persnickity as all get out, says this operator. Women take hair dyeing as a matter of course. They don't fuss about a minor imperfection or a trifling flaw that may or may not give away the dyeing job. But if a spot of dye or a tell-tale bluish shows up in the hair of a statesman, it takes on the proportions of an international incident.

Now don't write in for names of congressional dyed-heads. We won't give 'em. We value our own bristles too much.

M.U. Mustangs Begin Practicing for 1937 Season

Initial workout recently of South-Methodist's famed Mustangs brought a squad of 45 husky youngsters onto the gridiron for spring-up exercises after a two-week summer vacation.

Two drills of calisthenics, one in the morning and another in the afternoon, were supervised by Coach Madison Bell and Charles Eggen. Uniforms were issued and instructions for the week sent to dormitories for supper and a good night's rest.

Head Coach Bell finds 15 lettermen among those answering the call, but plans giving several positions to sophomores who put older men in the shade during spring practices.

Graduations cut the Mustang team badly. Five men on the ward wall and three in the field hung up their jerseys the last time in 1936. Bill Anderson and John Stufbleme, left tackle, and George Sanders, guards, and Sam Carroll, end.

Little Problem Tough

The tackle problem is the toughest and Coach Bell will put Charlie Sprague, center last year, to one slot and give the other to Leamon Phillips, 220-pounder from Purdon, Tex.

Line backs, probably the strongest on the team, are occupied by Billy Dewell, all-Conference end, about who towers 6 feet 4 inches, and Keith Ranspot, letterman and Weatherford, Tex.

Guards to fill the shoes of Captain Paschal Scottion, and Anderson are likely to be Wesley Brown, diminutive hard-fighter, and Clifford Matthews, Amarillo, Okla.

At center Coach Bell will play Grey, squadman, who takes the line. Averaging 194 pounds, the line is expected to rate as successfully as that of last season.

Co-Captain John Sprague, Bobley, and J. C. Meyers were fourth-year men in the backfield. Sprague, blocking-back, and Finley, ball-carrier and kicker, are especially hard to lose. John Harlow and "Buck" Baiwill probably continue at left end, while Henry Guynes, 175-pounder, quarters. Bob Belville, 160-pounder, and J. C. Meyers, who carried top honors in spring practices, receive Finley.

The backfield weighs in at an average of 184, just 10 pounds lighter than the line, giving a team average of 190. This poundage, generally speaking will leave "kept" eleven agility to display nothing but attacks, yet enough brawn to stop power drives by opponents.

Members of Moran's Luncheon club were honored Wednesday, at their noonday meeting, by the presence of the entire teaching corps of the Moran schools. A brief program, consisting of talks by club members, was quickly dispensed with, after which the club-president, J. H. McGaughey, presented school superintendent C. J. Watson, who in turn presented his staff of twelve instructors to an enthusiastic body of business men. To a casual observer, it would seem that the comely group of "schoolmarm" received many more rounds of resounding applause than their men associates.

Visitors included Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Plummer, of Albany, and Shackelford county's crowd of smooth talking politicians, all of Albany. Members were entertained with talk by Adolph Long, Shackelford county clerk.

Judge Homer T. Bouldin, county judge, announced the appropriation, by the State Highway Department of Texas, of $6,400 for the completion of the 1-4 mile gravel stretch which gaps State Highway 23, between Moran and Cisco.

With the completion of Highway 23, ten years ago, this short gap was left unfinished at the MKT railway crossing, four miles south of Moran, with the intention of the highway department to construct a railway underpass at this point. Peculiarity of geographical conditions at this spot, and shortage of public funds, however, rendered the underpass impossible, and travelers have been forced to use the present short detour since. This new project, work to begin in 1938, includes the construction of a railway overpass at this crossing, instead of the projected underpass. The place is in Callahan county.

A committee, consisting of Floyd C. Pool and L. L. Walker, was appointed to provide transportation for a body of club members, who will attend a luncheon at Albany, Tuesday next.

IN AND ABOUT MORAN

(By Bob Taylor)

Local followers of the pigskin sport grieve the recent loss to the Bulldog team of Ruell Snell, stellar back, and Roy Hammond, veteran end.

Snell has answered the call of greener fields, and transferred his name to the rolls of Abilene high school. Snell measures 6-2 from tip to tip, and weighs in at 195 lbs. He is a clean cut, rugged lad, and is a desirable candidate for anybody's football team. The Bulldogs will feel his loss no little.

Another blow to Moran's hopes for a creditable grid eleven is the recent loss of Howard Hammond, tall end, who has moved with his family to Royalty, Texas. Hammond would have reached his football zenith with the Bulldogs here this fall.

These men, though valuable to the physical and moral strength of the team, did not constitute the eleven's only hopes for a successful season. Coach Patterson still has in his hands some promising material out of which to build a strong club. There is his white hope, Bennie Morrison, at full-back, a new position for the boy, but one well suited to his style of play. Plummer, a cool, quiet, efficient quarterback, Weber, a seasoned man, the teams mainstay, at his new position as end. Weber has fought it out at center as an accurate snapper back for two seasons. He will likely be replaced at that position by Scott, a smart youngster from Sedwick.

Add to these, a covey of untrained heavies from nearby districts and know that the Purple and Gold will not be trod on ruthlessly by member Class B teams of district 11-B, even though the Bulldogs have suffered considerable loss of manpower by the removal of Snell and Hammond from the lineup.

The city council, governing body of the city of Moran, met Tuesday night in a down town office to dispense with matters of slight importance. Among subjects discussed by the group was the absence of one of its members, Garland Shelton, local barber. At 8 p. m. the same evening, Shelton had been found abed at his home, having retired at about his usual hour.

Council members were of the opinion that Shelton's early to bed habits had made him, at least, healthy.

Members of Moran's Luncheon club were honored Wednesday, at their noonday meeting, by the presence of the entire teaching corps of the Moran schools. A brief program, consisting of talks by club members, was quickly dispensed with, after which the club-president, J. H. McGaughey, presented school superintendent C. J. Watson, who in turn presented his staff of twelve instructors to an enthusiastic body of business men. To a casual observer, it would seem that the comely group of "schoolmarm" received many more rounds of resounding applause than their men associates.

Visitors included Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Plummer, of Albany, and Shackelford county's crowd of smooth talking politicians, all of Albany. Members were entertained with talk by Adolph Long, Shackelford county clerk.

Judge Homer T. Bouldin, county judge, announced the appropriation, by the State Highway Department of Texas, of $6,400 for the completion of the 1-4 mile gravel stretch which gaps State Highway 23, between Moran and Cisco.

With the completion of Highway 23, ten years ago, this short gap was left unfinished at the MKT railway crossing, four miles south of Moran, with the intention of the highway department to construct a railway underpass at this point. Peculiarity of geographical conditions at this spot, and shortage of public funds, however, rendered the underpass impossible, and travelers have been forced to use the present short detour since. This new project, work to begin in 1938, includes the construction of a railway overpass at this crossing, instead of the projected underpass. The place is in Callahan county.

A committee, consisting of Floyd C. Pool and L. L. Walker, was appointed to provide transportation for a body of club members, who will attend a luncheon at Albany, Tuesday next.

The Rev. J. W. Price announced the plans of the Epworth League of the First Methodist church here to stage a talent night in the local high school auditorium shortly. The winner of first prize at the talent night show will be awarded a radio addition at station KRBC, Abilene. Price announced.

Garrett Sees No Special Session As Imminent

EASTLAND, Sept. 10. (Sp)—No special fall session of congress is likely unless "the war situation in the far east becomes more acute," Representative Clyde L. Garrett, back at his home in Eastland and the district, stated Thursday.

"That feeling," added the congressman, "is the belief of many of the leaders in congress and older members."

Congressman Garrett, back for the first time since his journey to the capitol after election to office on a landslide of votes, described his work as "both pleasant and extremely fascinating."

"I enjoyed it immensely. I was received very cordial, for which I was appreciative, not only by Texas delegations but other colleagues."

Differences as evidenced among democrats in the recent session were held by Garrett as not such that would seriously impede the progress of the party and legislature.

As to the wage-hour bill which the administration favors strongly, the legislator declared that, in his belief the regular session in January will pass such a bill. Stating one was favored strongly in the north and east, he expressed the hope that the favored bill would safeguard and not cripple or handicap southern industries and "the little business man." He explained that a wage-hour bill might possibly be in contravention to interests of the south.

"I was sorely disappointed in that congress did not the last session pass general farm legislation. I am glad that both house and senate went on record promising to give general farm legislation first consideration at the next session."

"I went on record as opposing adjournment of the session until general farm legislation was passed."

The representative also expressed gratification on the passage of the farm tenancy bill, "even if it was on a small scale." He said the program to enable tenants to secure and own homes would be administered by the secretary of agriculture. A total of $85,000,000 was provided for three years. Ten million will be used the first year, 25 million the second and 50 million the third year.

The program provides for establishment of county boards throughout the nation to carry out the program. He stated he hoped arrangements to secure practical men cognizant of worthiness of applicants and farm tenancy problems would be secured to pass upon applications in each county.

"I was in favor of the appropriation being $50,000,000 for the first year. Under the amount set up for the first year, however, it will be impossible to assist more than one or two tenants in each county to purchase a farm."

Congressman Garrett found conditions in Eastland—he had not had time to visit other parts of the county and the district as Thursday he was completing arrangements for office space and a residence—encouraging. In Eastland he noted construction of the WPA swimming pool, widening of West Commerce, location of the Coca-Cola bottling plant as signs of progress and praised officials making those projects possible.

"In understand that both Ranger and Cisco have new WPA football fields and will visit those and other new construction activities in those and other cities of the county and district as soon as possible."

Congressman Garrett also noted the increase in oil activity of the district, particularly in Jones and Taylor counties and other sections of the diversified territory he represents.

Georges Michel of France set the record for swimming the English Channel, in 11 hours and 5 minutes.

The American Geographical Society of New York is the oldest geographical society in the country. It was founded in 1852.

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, quarrels with Janet, a comely Baltimore girl, because she won't break a date with Prescott Fanning. Neill suspects him of being a crook. To check up, he finds Fanning at his hotel bar and they get acquainted. Next day Neill wakes up, realizing he's been doped. Janet, Fanning and Fanning's yacht are gone. A mysterious phone call tells him Janet's in trouble on the yacht at Absalom's Harbor. Neill rushes to the fishing village and rows to the yacht after dark. In a locked cabin he finds Fanning shot dead and Janet unharmed, but in a faint with a gun beside her.

Chapter Nine

A Hideout for Janet

Neill set his jaw and considered. He was on the other side now. He was hunted instead of the hunter. Quite a different thing. No powerful department to back him up now. Strictly on his own.

Where could he find Janet a hideout? The obvious thing was to hire a car and drive to town; but a car could be traced and in that case his usefulness as her defender would be over. He must be on the spot in order to discover the truth of this affair. Where could he put her under cover in this unfamiliar neck of the woods? Suddenly he thought of the dark ships up river.

"Take me away! Take me away!" murmured Janet.

"Okay, Jen. We're getting out."

Running back into the after cabin, he snatched up her velvet wrap where it lay on a chair. It was a filmy garment. Apparently that and the gauzy evening dress were all she had. Not enough to keep her warm in an open boat. He picked up a traveling rug that lay folded on a seat locker and, returning to the saloon, wrapped her in it. She clung to him. Carrying her up on deck and down the ladder, he deposited her in the stern seat of the skiff.

He paused to make sure that everything was straight in his minds. Must take food. He started back aboard the yacht.

Janet raised up, instantly wild with terror. "Don't leave me!"

"Only to get something to eat. Back in a jiff."

In the pantry adjoining the dining saloon on deck he found a refrigerator stocked with cooked food of various sorts. He packed everything hastily in a tin bread box along with the bread and ran out on deck again.

"Hurry! Hurry!" murmured Janet in the skiff alongside.

"Half a moment!"

He gave a hasty glance in the direction of the shore. All quiet there. Remembering a flashlight he had seen on the book-case in the saloon, he ran down to get it. While below he thought of something else. In the after cabin he dropped to his knees beside the dead man and went through his pockets. Finding the little photograph of Janet that Fanning had taken from him the night before, he transferred it to his own pocket, and hastened up on deck.

Casting off the painter of his skiff, he ran out the oars and pulled towards the open water.

Sounds from Shore

As Neill rowed along with the lights of the village on his left it was still only about nine o'clock and there was plenty of life in the place. He could see shadowy figures passing under the street lights, while the sounds of dogs barking, motor horns and male laughter from the porch of Longcope's store reached his ears. Further along he could hear music coming through the open windows of the moving picture theater.

At Absalom's Point he lay on his oars for a moment debating whether it might not be better to row across the bay. It was a calm night and he could have made it in safety. Nobody would think of looking for Janet over there. But it was 15 miles and he couldn't possibly get back before daylight. Nor visit her there. No. Better the ships. So he turned the point and rowed on up the wide river, passing along the other side of the village.

The sight of Janet bowed and silent under her blanket wrenched him with pain. After what she had been through what could he say to her? To have tried to make light talk would sound like mockery. In the end it was Janet who spoke.

"Where was Fanning when you came aboard the yacht?"

Neill thought her mind was wandering. "Never mind him," he said gruffly. "He won't trouble you any more."

"Did you kill him?" she asked simply.

"Don't want to talk about it," said Neill.

"All right," she said, perfectly docile. "Nothing matters as long as we are together."

He hated to think of leaving her alone in her present condition. But there was no help for that. It would be impossible to trust anybody he didn't know to take care of her. Travis county, Maryland, was a peninsula remote from the great world and he judged that its people at best were inclined to be suspicious of strangers. Somehow or other he must take care of Janet and save her too.

"I'm so thirsty!" she presently murmured like a child.

Neill's heart sank for he had forgotten water. He looked along the village front. It would not be too easy for a stranger to obtain water. If he went to somebody's well it would lead to awkward questions. And he had nothing to carry water in.

The main and only road into the village came down along the river shore before striking across the neck to the harbor in front of Longcope's. Midway along this road he distinguished the lighted front of a store. One could always buy something to drink. In front of the store the usual little pier ran out into the river. The water was shallower on this side and it was a long pier. Janet could remain hidden in the dark at the end of it.

He hesitated. There was a terrible risk in landing now. If he were seen, he would be remembered. However, it had to be taken. He rowed in and tied the skiff to the end of the pier.

"What's this for?" she asked nervously.

"I'm going to get water for you."

"No, no. I don't want water."

"We've got to have water."

"Can't I come with you?"

"Your dress would attract too much attention."

"Ah, don't be long," she said with a catch in her breath.

He walked in over the creaking planks, climbed the bank, crossed the road, and entered the store. It was a much smaller and tidier store than Longcope's and business was not so good. The little old man who kept it was grateful to the unlooked-for customer. Neill bought two bottles of carbonated water.

On his way out of the store a sedan coming from the direction of town passed rapidly and slid to a quick stop a short distance beyond. Neill had an uncomfortable feeling that this stop was in some way connected with himself. Somebody was looking out of the bank window, the face merely a grayish blur through the glass.

There was nothing he could do about it. He hastened down the bank and out over the pier. Janet let out a shaking breath of relief at the sight of him. The car went on and turned the corner. Presently a car came back, but Neill couldn't tell if it was the same one.

Who Could It Be?

They went on, and finally passed the last houses of the village. Now there was a dark field between the road and the river. Neill had rowed upwards of two miles, but he was still only some hundreds of yards from the yacht across the neck of land. Suddenly from the dark shore a light flashed out over the water and searched the river up and down. It was evidently a strong electric torch held in somebody's hand.

Neill pulled the skiff's head around and rowed further out into the river. He couldn't be sure whether the light had picked them up, and a nasty anxiety attacked him. Why should anybody stand on the shore casting his light over the water unless he were looking for them? And who could be looking for them? Who could guess that they were about to pass that spot? The light went out, and nothing came of it then, but Neill's anxiety remained.

He rowed on, keeping about a furlong off shore. The opposite shore was invisible in the dark. Here and there at long distances a dim light showed in the window of a farmhouse, and up river the red light of a gas buoy twinkled off and on, marking some shoal. With every pull of Neill's oars, two little eddies of phosphorescence swirled astern. A soft breeze from the south sprang up.

Janet exclaimed: "What's that?"

Looking over his shoulder, Neill saw the masts and the funnels of the four great ships rising against the stars. "The German ships turned over to us after the war are moored here," he said.

"Who would expect to find them here!" she murmured.

Neill thought it over. It was a desperate chance to take, but any way you looked at it their situation was desperate. If there were only four men aboard, it was not enough to keep a close watch at night. In one of the cabins below he could make Janet comfortable. Where could he hope to find a better hiding place?

"Jen," he said, "what would you say to going aboard one of the empty ships to hide until we can decide what's best to be done? Would you be afraid?"

"Not if you were with me, Neill."

He pulled up to the outermost ship. Her smooth steel side rose towering over their heads like a cliff, ghostly and awe-inspiring in the night. No sound came from aboard her.

"How could we get on?" whispered Janet.

"That's just the question," said Neill with a brief laugh.

Neill finds a watchman on the dark ships, tomorrow.

Southwest Grid Race Outcome Is Hard to Forecast

WACO, Sept. 10.—Southwest conference games and the outcome of the race will be harder for the forecaster than at any time in recent years, Coach Morley Jennings of the Baylor university Golden Bears, says.

The teams, in his opinion, are more evenly matched than they have been in the past four or five years. A. & M. and Arkansas, of course, have a little edge over the other clubs when one looks at the dope sheet, but Rice, S. M. U., T. C. U., Texas, and even Baylor may surprise the sports critics almost any week-end.

Defensively the Bears will be stronger than they were in 1936, but doubt hovers over the offense play. Loss of the Southwest scoring ace, Lloyd Russell, is the reason for the doubt expressed. Coach Jennings looks over his 58 charges who have started fall training with hopes that some of the squadmen, some of the sophomores, or perhaps a transfer student might fill in the extra backfield hole.

Good Prospect
About the best prospect among the new faces to show up is Durham Bivins, hefty transfer from Kemper Military institute. Bivins, a Longview boy, comes with a fine backfield record at that institution.

Billy Patterson, Hillsboroite, is slated to carry most of the heavy duty passing load. His kicking is excellent, and when he is not in the game, two of Baylor's ends—probably Sherman Barnes, Wacoan, and Sammie Boyd of Cleburne—may be assigned to handle the job.

Bubba Gernand, Beaumont, and Carl Brazell of Barbers Hill, are practically cinches for two of the starting backfield posts.

Coach Jennings frankly admits

No Trouble to Cry
You may be asked, in course of your daily stint, to do what is known as running the gamut. But if that's too much bother, don't worry.

Can't you cry? Well, that's why they make glycerine. Are you afraid to smile, because your teeth aren't prett, even and tooth-pasty? Shucks, forget it. They'll provide you with the nicest, whitest, brightest set you ever saw in a dental ad. They'll "cap" your incisors so neatly you'll soon forget you weren't born with those perfect pearls.

Earn your living by the sweat of your brow? That's a good one. You can work yourself into a lather without leaving your chair. A fellow with a squirt gun and that his weakest position is at center, vacated by All-Conference John D. Reynolds by graduation. Reynolds' old post is considerably weaker, but W. J. Wimpsey, Gerald McCarver, Virgil Cloyd, and Sherill Bailey, all sophomores and without experience in the tough Southwest play, will battle it out to wear the shoes. They are already striving hard—and thus far it is anybody's victory.

Tackle and guard positions will be well taken care of, and the Baylor mentor and his aides believe the ends will be about the best in the history of "That Good Old Baylor Line," saying a lot considering the fact that Frank James and Jim Tom (Red) Petty once played those roles.

mineral oil will dew your brow with refined perspiration or cover your whole torso with old-fashioned sweat, to order while you wait.

Sit Back and Relax
You don't even have to do your own bleeding. They'll "bleed" for you with sweet, perfumed blood. The make-up man will give you a painless scar as eagerly as he'll highlight and shade you to bring out your best features and hide your worst. Is your hair funny? They make the nicest wigs out here. If you insist on using your own crop, they'll have a hairdresser popping at it every two minutes. You should worry!

If you've got to be athletic—do something risky like diving off a cliff, riding a rapids, ransling with a tiger—just stay home that day and catch up on your sleep. They'll hire a stunt man for you.

There'll be a dialogue director to tell you how to talk, and a director to tell you where to stand, where to walk, what to do. If you have to dance or sing, the dance director and voice coach will show you. The cameraman—if you're at all pleasant—will take care of your angles so you'll look better than you really do. And he'll mark off the floor so you won't step out of bounds when in the throes of acting.

You'll Just Love It
Writers will think up bright things for you to say so that film fans will think you're clever. Publicity men will think up equally bright things for you to say for publication, and—if need be—they'll protect you from interviewers who might find out you aren't so bright after all. But unless you're different, you won't think them. You'll think you did it all yourself.

You may have to learn a few lines of dialogue, but not too much at a time. If you forget, the script clerk will prompt you. And if you can't remember at all, they'll write the lines on a blackboard out of camera range. When you say the lines, the sound men will take care of your voice for you, if they think you're worth it.

And everything in the studio will be run for your comfort and delight. Nice, isn't it?
So come on out, and be a star. And heaven help you if you think it's easy!

Beauty Let The Eyes Have It, But Carefully

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer
Eye make-up always is a ticklish problem. Don't tackle it during business hours, say beauticians. Use discrimination when you put it on for evenings. Like other cosmetics, eye make-up should enhance, not overwhelm, natural beauty—you're not going to face the footlights. Lucille Manners, radio star, shows how to do all this successfully:

REFRESHMENT . . .
First, bathe the eyes with lotion, preferably a witch hazel or boric acid compound. Miss Manners dips a piece of cotton in a bowl of the solution, but an eye cup also is practical. Daily bathing of the eyes is particularly refreshing in the summer.

REALIGNMENT . . .
After drying the eyes, get out the mascara, which is applied best with a brush, and color the lashes gently. Brush the upper lashes upward, the lower ones downward. Since mascara separates each eyelash, be careful to apply only a minimum. If you're a blonde, avoid dark mascara.

AND HARMONY
Let your eyeshadow harmonize with the color of your eyes, says Miss Manners, busy applying just a bit to her upper lids. Blue for blue eyes, green for hazel eyes, brown for brown eyes, and so on. Unless you want to look emaciated, she warns, don't put any under the eyes.

Ciscoans Invited to Visit Radio Store

Henry Schaefer, local distributor for Zenith Farm Radios and Windchargers, is, through the Cisco Press, extending an invitation to the public to visit his radio store, 704 D avenue, inspect his stock of radios, in several models, and look over the windcharger, whose operating cost is practically nothing. Just 50 cents per year is all the expense to operate a Zenith Windcharger for 12 months. He will be pleased to give you a demonstration of the Zenith radios and windcharger if you will call. The Zenith radios are especially adapted for the farm, and Mr. Schaefer will be glad to give you a home demonstration any time that is mutually convenient. He says the Zenith actually does what others claim.

One Fresh from the Vaults

By IRVIN S. COBB

A WELL-KNOWN publisher, while calling on a rich author—oh, yes, there are such things as rich authors—complained about the lack of good champagne in the present era.

The writer, with a wave of his hand, summoned a high priced butler and decanted a full quart of fizzy water into the publisher who subsequently brought up at a well-known club pretty well spiced. "Where did you get it, Blank?" inquired an envious friend. "Somewhat thickly, the illuminated one gave names, and the year of the vintage. "Oh, I see," said a jokesmith present. "A best seller has been emptying a wine cellar into a book seller." (American News Features, Inc.)

ETIQUETTE Roommate's Problems Are All Little Ones

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer
You'd better give some thought to the roommate problem before you start for college.

Whether you have learned in advance who your roommate is to be or whether he or she is a perfect stranger when you meet in the dormitory you have a chance to form a beautiful friendship—or to wreck it—over trifles.

Little Extra Efforts
For the successful roommate is the product of hundreds of little extra efforts, all based on consideration for the other fellow.

Little efforts like saying "thank you" when your roommate leaves a note to tell you someone called while you were out, or being sure the note is accurate if you are the one who leaves it.

Little efforts like saving a piece of cake or candy from the folks at home especially for your roommate . . . picking up the papers that got scattered all over the room when you opened the window last night . . . emptying the ash trays now and then.

Let Him Snore
And if the other fellow lets fall the idea he would like to catch up on some lost sleep—you really don't have to be told these things, but you're likely to forget—it's not a bad idea to move to some other room with your late studying and let the other fellow sleep.

Above all, watch your borrowing. It starts to rain. You reach toward the accustomed hook to get your raincoat. It's not there—your roommate has borrowed it! Well, that's the sort of petty irritation roommates always are causing. It's unintentional but it's the beginning of the end of that beautiful friendship. So don't borrow—clothes, note paper, fountain pens, combs, powder puffs, any of the things you have, or should have, yourself.

The same goes for dollars and dimes. Of course there may be emergencies. But if you have to

High Living Cost May Disturb WPA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10 (AP)—WPA economists expressed concern today that higher cost of living may disturb their program. They said possible difficulties were wage increase demands, extra cost of supplies to local project sponsors. WPA has $1,500,000,000 until July 1 and if expense increase economists said there will be curtailment of national work.
