

CHINESE FORCES DRIVE JAPS FROM LOTIEN

Through the Editor's Spectacles By GEORGE

Who is it that doesn't enjoy an open air feed and the hospitality of the country folks? There is pleasure in such wholesome association that breaks the monotony of everyday business and social life in a very satisfying fashion.

At both fairs the tradition that the farm folks feed bountifully and well was adequately sustained. At the Shady Grove fair where Will Swan dished out the juiciest beef barbecue you ever saw with a pitchfork.

Others from Cisco who made the Shady Grove folks believe that there was a famine in Cisco, were O. J. Russell, Harvey Hurman, R. L. Ponsler, C. M. Britain and T. G. Caudle.

The interest of Cisco women at the fair, and particularly the splendid exhibits in the women's department, was revealed in the presence of Mrs. P. Pettit, who was accompanied by her sister, Marcia Waskom of Dallas.

John McKinney, president of the Shady Grove community council and chairman of the fair, and J. Poe, secretary, Kent Word as requisist chairman, and Miss Dora Wende, chairman of the women's department, led the community welcome to the village. It was a genuine welcome.

I discovered at these two fairs that the business of taking pictures is an elusive art unto itself. Two rolls of films were sent in making snapshots of the Dan Horn fair scenes, and I got a single one of the pictures. Better luck with the Shady Grove fair, I graduated the pictures on this page.

The pictures were made with kodak, not a press camera as I expect some day to be able to afford, and the films were developed and printed late yesterday afternoon. The cuts were made in the engraving department of the Press last night.

LOBOES GO TO LUBBOCK FOR GRID OPENER

Home Talent Given Little Chance, But in Fine Fettle

The Cisco Lobo football team, at the peak of their training grind, are due for an unusually light workout this afternoon as they move into the last lap before their non-conference tilt with the district one favorites, the Lubbock Westerners.

The Loboes, despite injuries and temporary ineligibility on the part of some of the players, expect to put up a real battle against their more powerful opponents and to substitute that old fighting spirit and the extensive use of the old "noggin" for what they might lack in brawn.

Under the leadership of the new coach, T. J. Petty, and his assistants the Loboes, although off to a late start, have developed rapidly under a well planned course of training and the more inexperienced youngsters of the squad are now prepared to keep pace with the returning veterans of last year's squad and to successfully face their "baptism of fire."

Jaycee Delegates Leave Friday for Convention City

Edward "Red" Lee and D. C. Harper, Cisco representatives to the state junior chamber of commerce meeting at Wichita Falls, Sept. 17 and 18, announced today they planned to leave for the convention city at about 6 o'clock Friday morning.

The Jaycee gathering at Wichita Falls will last two days, during which time such distinguished guests as Governor James Allred and the president of the national junior chamber of commerce will speak.

It is not known as yet whether any Ciscoans other than the delegates will attend the convention but several have expressed a desire to do so.

The Cisco delegates did not say how they would vote in regard to the invitation received from Port Arthur to name that city as the 1938 convention city.

New Officers for Part-time Chapter

Fred Wende, reporter for the Cisco Part time FFA chapter of the Lutheran school here, announced that a meeting of the chapter was held September 13 at which time plans of the club were discussed and officers elected.

Plans for installing a booth at the Eastland county fair were discussed following the election of officers.

Seek Designation of Old No. 1 Route

The Cisco chamber of commerce announced today that an effort is being made to designate the old route of Highway No. 1 through Cisco as Highway No. 1 Loop.

Action of the state highway commission is necessary to such designation, Secretary J. E. Spencer said.

When Shady Grove Held Its Community Fair

Who's Who in Pictures at Shady Grove's Fair

Above are reproduced views of the Shady Grove community fair which was held at the Shady Grove school house, south of Cisco, yesterday. Top picture gives a view of the crowd about the barbecue table. Advancing toward the camera in the center is W. J. Poe. His finger didn't spoil the gravy at all! In the right oval is T. G. Caudle, looking toward the camera, and Harvey Thurman. The left oval shows how one lady protected her head against the bright sunlight with a paper hat, made to order on the spot. The four in the middle group are John McKinney, fair superintendent; W. J. Poe, secretary; Miss Dora Wende, women's division chairman, and Kent Word, assistant superintendent. Lower left is shown Will Swan, official barbecuer, holding to the handle of the pitchfork he used to ladle the meat from the big washpot. And lower right—"Who cares, let them have their old fair! I need my sleep!" is the attitude expressed in the peaceful slumbers of George Clifford McKinney, 11-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John McKinney.

LEAVES FOR AUSTIN

Miss Frances Gorham left this morning for Austin where she will enter the University of Texas. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. H. D. Gorham, who will visit in Louisiana before returning to Cisco.

BUT INVADERS BREAK PEIPING BATTLE FRONT

Heavy Rains Slacken Shanghai Fighting; Cholera Rages

SHANGHAI, Sept. 16. (AP)—A Chinese counter attack today drove the Japanese forces from Lotien, breaking through the mechanized Japanese force which had taken a town 15 miles northwest of the international settlement.

Heavy rains slackened the fighting in other than Shanghai sectors. The cholera epidemic claimed a hundred or more victims.

At Peiping the Japanese broke the center of the Chinese battle front in north China, sending General Wan Fu-Lin's Manchurian division into full retreat.

From Hong Kong came a Chinese report that a Japanese cruiser had been sunk by Chinese air bombs off the south of China coast.

LEAGUE ASKS U. S. INTO CHINESE CRISIS STUDY

GENEVA, Sept. 16. (AP)—The League of Nations council put China's appeal against Japanese aggression in the hands of the revived advisory committee today and asked the United States to take part in the deliberations.

Quick dispatch of invitations to Washington and 22 other capitals made it certain that the United States must soon decide if she will cooperate with the committee.

Lobo Band to Formally Open Eastland Fair

Opening of the eleventh annual Eastland County fair tonight will honor two "Texas" communities, Cisco and Fort Worth, it was announced by officials. The widely advertised Lobo band, conducted by Robert L. Maddox, will help to formally open the fair by giving a concert. Assisting in the opening ceremonies will be a large delegation from Fort Worth which is expected to include various performers from the Frontier fiesta.

The fair will be held at the site formerly occupied by the Pickering Lumber company on north Seaman street and adjacent to the fire department softball field as well as the carnival which has recently moved into town as an added attraction of the fair.

Eastland's early preparations for this event promise to make it one of the most outstanding fairs yet held.

The opening ceremonies will begin promptly at 7:30 tonight.

Classes Seated at Chapel Program

The regular high school chapel program this morning was taken up with the seating of the various classes in their respective places. After the seating was completed, announcements were made by several of the faculty and the entire student body gave the Lobo football warriors a farewell send-off to their game tomorrow with Lubbock in a pregame demonstration in which everybody joined.

Principal O. L. Stamey announced that home room groups and the regular clubs will again be organized this year beginning tomorrow. The chapel period tomorrow will be taken up by this organization, Mr. Stamey said.

55 HELD IN RAIDS

FORT WORTH, Sept. 16. (AP)—Police today arrested 55 men and women in raids on 15 small downtown hotels. They described the raids as the first step in a drive to curb criminal activities in Ft. Worth.

23 County Youths Will Participate In Co-Op Plan

Twenty-three Eastland county boys and nine from other counties will start operation of an Eastland county project house at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college at College Station Monday, Sept. 20.

The project house, designed to reduce cost of attending college by cooperative share of expense, is one of 14 at the school. The county, it was stated by County Agent Elmo V. Cook, sponsor, was granted one of the houses this year because of a creditable record of youths from the county by the same method last year.

Average cost per student in the project house was $15 monthly. The new home will be supervised by Mrs. E. E. Warden of Ranger, chosen by a committee on matron selection. The house has eight bedrooms, two tile bathrooms, matron's room, a dining room and kitchen. A community laundry is under construction. Kitchen equipment of a modern type is being purchased by the youths of a four-year plan.

Back From Europe

Description of European Tour Told by Cisco Boy

Joe Slicker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Slicker, who has just returned from a tour of Europe could not find words today to express the thrills and experiences that incurred on this extraordinary journey through eleven European countries. When asked what his greatest thrill of the trip was, he couldn't quite make up his mind, but said that his ocean voyage was as thrilling and adventurous as any part of the trip.

"One who has never seen a great ocean liner can not imagine the magnificence and splendor of the French liner, Normandie," he said. "It was more like a large hotel than a ship," he added, "with some of the dining halls and salons being three stories high."

Joe sailed from New York on June 30 on the first leg of his journey in company with his aunt, Mrs. Orpha Slicker, and his two cousins, Henry and Tom Slicker. The majority of the party was made up of young people most of whom were around college age and a little older, Joe said. There were about 32 in all.

After reaching the continent the trip was continued by motor cars which were the property of the sponsor of the trip, Harry Hay of Tallahassee, Fla. "who was a real guy," as Joe put it.

During the trip stops were made at all the capitals and important cities of the countries through which the party passed and competent guides were furnished for the sightseers while not in the company of Mr. Hay.

A novel entertainment for Joe while in Switzerland was ice skating on a rink hewn out of solid ice. Young Slicker did not indulge in skiing. Some of the rest did.

The party had the privilege of seeing the premier of Italy, Mussolini, while attending the funeral of Marconi at Rome and some of them, including Joe were photographed, accidentally of course, while viewing the funeral procession.

The party just missed seeing Hitler during their stay in Berlin and were likewise disappointed in regard to seeing the Duke of Windsor. Joe verified the known fact of the strict order practiced in Germany where he said that one was under suspicion if he even mentioned Hitler or the government. Italy, like Germany, also is ruled by a dictator with an iron hand.

But the interesting thing about this system, said Joe, is that Germany and Italy, unlike the surrounding countries, are far ahead in modern reforms, and in other fields that the United States would do well to copy. Throughout Europe and especially in Germany and Italy one could hardly pass a town or any place of importance without viewing whole regiments of soldiers, the cause of fear among the more peaceful nations of Europe.

Most of the countries Joe visited were far different from what he had anticipated. Expecting to see countries little changed from medieval days, he saw instead countries only slightly behind England and America and steadily progressing, and, with the exception of Italy and Germany, peace loving.

Impressed By Castles
Joe was impressed greatly by the many castles and cathedrals throughout Europe. The one which impressed him most, however, was the ex-Kaiser's castle in Germany. The entire interior of this castle was lined with silver, Joe said, making it necessary to wear felt shoes while visiting the place. In addition to its many rooms with its treasured paintings and the already mentioned silver-lined rooms, there was one small room which was literally dotted with various kinds of precious stones. The place was overrun with guards, Joe said.
Among the many souvenirs that Joe brought back with him was an expensive German camera and a watch from Holland, a country famous for its quality of watches. The nice thing about this, said Joe, was that "I didn't get stuck as was the usual thing in buying of souvenirs, but on the contrary I bought them for half the price that I would have had to pay for them in America or England."

Joe said that Gay Paris was just as gay as it was cracked up to be, with hundreds of cabarets and night spots for the entertainment of the tourist. Paris really is a beautiful place though, he said, with its magnificent buildings, some dating back to the first occupants of France.

"The Austrian Alps can not be described by mere words," was Joe's way of telling of the impression he got from his visit to the snow covered range separating Austria from Italy and France.

"Unlike our Rocky mountain range, they are snow covered the year round in all parts." He is the proud possessor of a log of his adventures furnished by those in charge of the trip and along with this he has his own diary describing his own conclusions regarding his adventures on the trip.

The countries in which he visited included England, Scotland, France, Holland, Germany, Austria, Hungary, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, and Switzerland. The party docked at one of the Irish ports but did not visit the land of the Shamrock.

The party concluded its trip when the Normandie sailed into New York on September 6.

Gunmen Lock Woman, Escape With $915

GARWOOD, Sept. 16. (AP)—Two unmasked gunmen locked Mrs. Edith Hopkins, cashier, and two customers in the back room of the Gorwood state bank today and escaped with $915.

The cashier told Colorado county officers that the men overlooked an undetermined amount of cash in the vault. Mrs. Hopkins said the men were between 35 and 40. One wore dark glasses and the other a patch on his nose.

Plant Smaller Shrubs in Front of Large Ones

This is the third in a series of articles appearing in the Cisco Daily Press and written by J. B. F. Wright.

By J. B. F. WRIGHT

In planting your trees and shrubs there are many ways to arrange your planting so that it will look good and be in line with good landscape ideas. One rule will always stand good: don't plan your smaller shrubs behind the tall ones and always plan the dwarfed ones out in front of the taller ones so they can all be seen and all can get the sunshine together. A variety is recommended and space them off if possible an even distance apart and don't crowd them. Just figure the same amount of room for them as they had before they were transplanted.

The landscaper's most common error is not giving them enough room to develop. Most people plant hedges, that have such a large root formation, too thick any way. Two or three feet apart is plenty close to plant hedges so that their tops will spread and develop as quickly and more perfectly than if crowded too much.

For hedges, dig a trench and set them in so that they will have a water basin because it is very necessary to have a trench to water your hedge. Always dig your holes for all other trees and shrubs large enough so you can spread out the roots so they can develop and don't just wedge them up in a hole half large enough and expect them to adjust themselves. If this is done they will become what we call root bound and when the dry hot summer time comes they will likely die.

It is advisable to trim the roots if they are extra long so you can plant them as they should be. Spread the roots out so they will get a good start (this is very essential). Plant them 2 or 3 inches deeper than they show to have been planted in the nursery rows; fill the hole about three-fourths full of soil and then run water in the hole until the soil is well soaked. Finish filling in with soil, pulling it up around the tree in cave fashion. Leave a basin for watering around the tree. Another important thing to do is to cut back all exposed roots of the trees and shrubs; this insures the life of the plant and makes for a better top-growth.

Apple Crop 75 Pct. Greater Than in '36

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. (AP)—If you believe in an apple a day, you may be able to get two this year for the price of one heretofore.

The bureau of agricultural economics reports prospective price declines, with the 1937 apple crop about 75 per cent greater than last year's, and 25 per cent above the recent normal.

122 Texas School Structures Built By WPA Workers

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 16.—One hundred and twenty-two school structures, accommodating 30,000 students, have been constructed by WPA workers in Texas, it has been reported by E. A. Baugh, state director of operations for the federal agency.

Operated at a federal cost of $973,227, to which local governmental agencies have added $664,710, the WPA school building program includes 99 buildings ready for occupancy and 23 which are nearing completion.

Among the newly-constructed buildings are 47 class room structures, 21 additions to existing buildings, 49 gymnasiums and auditoriums, five home economics buildings, five stadiums and athletic plants and six miscellaneous buildings.

Sponsors in the Dallas WPA district with 23 buildings which cost $304,615 lead other sections of the state in this type of construction. Other WPA districts include: Marshall, 17 buildings, $147,327; Houston, 8 buildings, $125,749; Fort Worth, 17 buildings, $276,726; Waco, 12 buildings, $79,394; Austin, 6 buildings, $220,846; San Antonio, 14 buildings, $206,661; Laredo, 3 buildings, $24,267; Amarillo, 3 buildings, $84,253; Lubbock, 4 buildings, $16,761; San Angelo, 7 buildings, $81,230; El Paso, 6 buildings, $70,165.

These figures involve only new construction and do not include the hundreds of school repair and landscaping projects undertaken by the WPA in Texas, Baugh said.

Jim Eddleman, Former Ciscoan, Buried Saturday

Jim Eddleman was buried in Oakwood cemetery Saturday afternoon following services held at the First Methodist church with the Rev. Joe I. Patterson conducting.

Mr. Eddleman, pioneer ranchman and farmer of north of Cisco and former resident of Cisco, died Friday night in a Gorman hospital after an illness of two weeks.

The Rev. Cole Jackson of Moran assisted the Rev. Patterson in the funeral.

Mr. Eddleman was born in Summerville, Texas, on October 18, 1875, coming to Cisco in 1881. After dwelling here for a number of years he moved to Stephens county where he lived until his fatal illness. He was a prominent farmer and rancher of that county.

Pal bearers were Jonah Donovan, Bedford Mashburn, Harvey Woodridge, Bob Mancill, Fred Grist and Burt Powell.

Jim Eddleman is survived by his widow; one daughter, Mrs. Elmo Murch of Portales, N. M.; four sons, Warren, Cisco constable, and Guy, Kirby and Jack of Moran; two sisters, Mrs. Joe Wilson of Cisco and Mrs. Neal Turner of Fort Worth.

Mr. Eddleman, demonstrating his loyalty to Cisco during the boom days when buildings were so much in demand, builded the telephone building at E. avenue and W. 8th street, now occupied by Norvell & Miller which he later sold to the telephone company.

THERE has been no proof of any of the charges yet brought against Justice Black. Certainly the great body of American opinion does not desire a member of the Klan to sit on the supreme court bench.

OTHER OPINIONS

Italy Refuses to Join

THERE is no fundamental reason why the Mediterranean anti-piracy patrol should not succeed in spite of Italy's refusal to take part in it. If Russia is going to be a partner in the enterprise, it may be just as well that Italy isn't.

The Mediterranean is a pretty big body of water, but there is reason to fear it isn't big enough to hold the hostility Italy and Russia feel toward each other.

This is written before the receipt of full dispatches concerning the Italian note, but presumably her feud with Russia is the principal reason assigned for Italy's abstention.

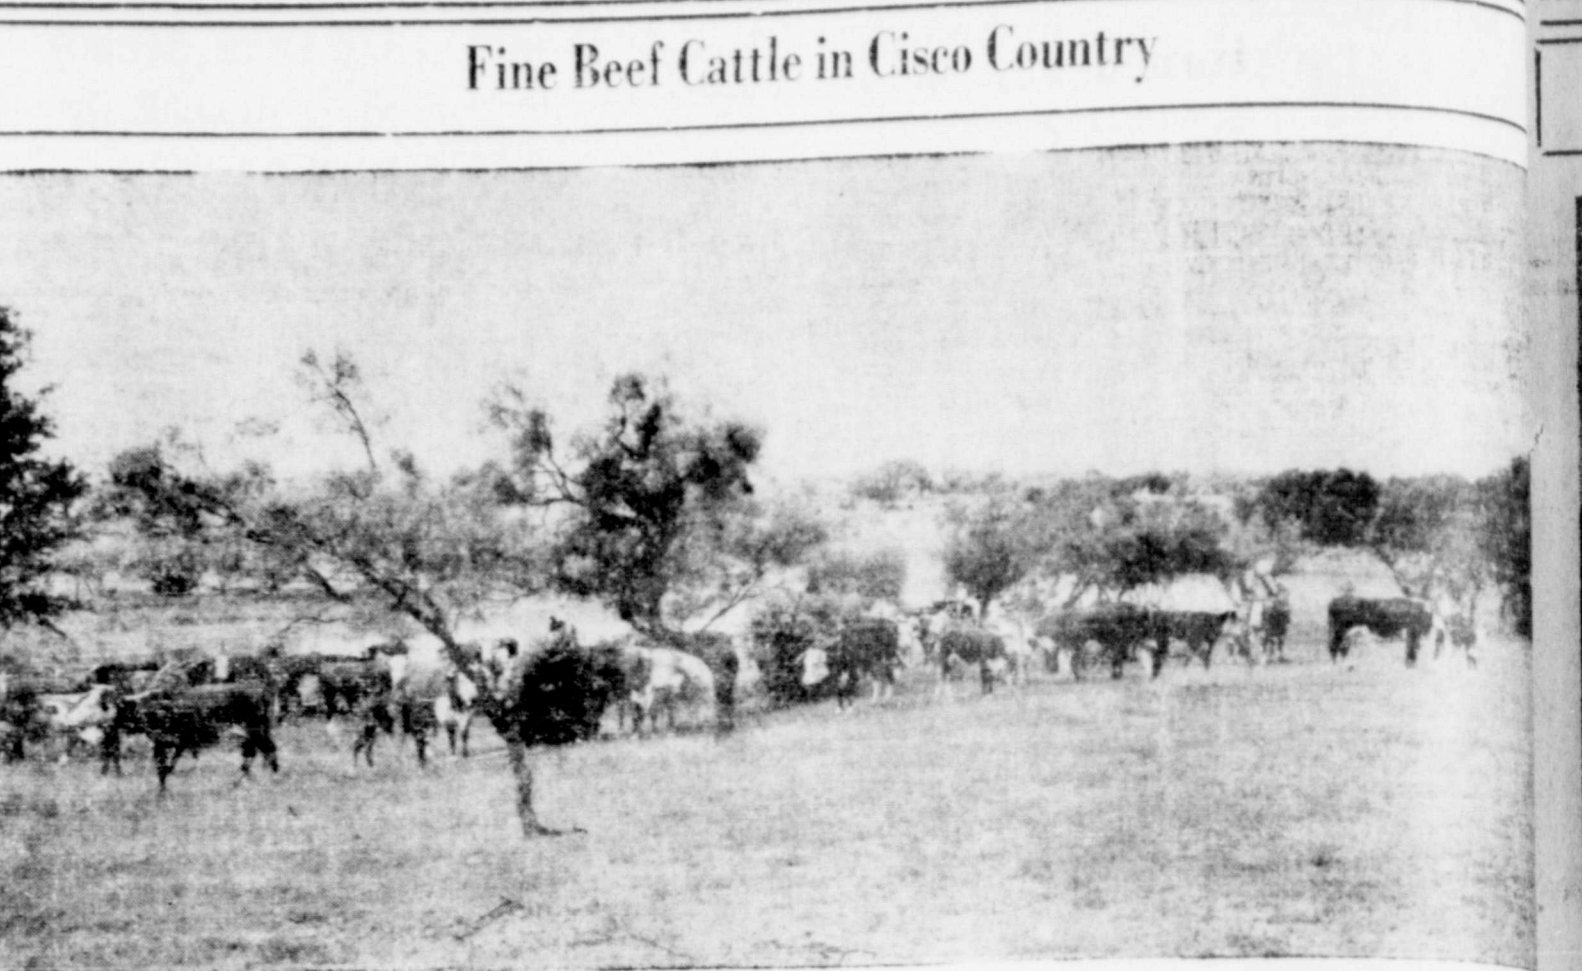

Russia has produced no proof to back up its charge that Italian submarines were guilty of sinking neutral ships. Increasing doubt is being thrown on the belief in Italy's guilt because, though it is certain that Italy is determined to be the strongest Mediterranean power, it is equally certain that she isn't looking for a war with Britain.

Truck Farming Pays in Cisco Country

Above are scenes taken with an ordinary kodak on the truck farm of T. E. Clark six miles south of Cisco on the Rising Star highway. The upper views show a group of tomato pickers with baskets of the vegetable gathered for sale in Cisco. Lower right is Miss Louise Clark standing behind a green pepper plant loaded with the fruit, and lower right Mr. and Mrs. Clark are shown holding specimens of the squash grown on the farm. The plant before them is an okra bush.

T. E. Clark Makes Truck Farming Pay Dividends

T. E. Clark, living on the Rising Star highway about four miles south of Cisco, is demonstrating the possibilities of truck farming in the Cisco country. On a sub-irrigated tract, lying between two elevations he has pitched his truck farming activities. A shallow well of water is on the tract, but so well does the land hold moisture it is seldom necessary to resort to artificial irrigation.

On the tract Mr. Clark has about three acres in tomatoes, though he says he never measured the acreage in any of the truck he has planted, nor has he kept an account of the produce marketed or the amounts realized from the sale. However, he estimated that he had gathered 750 to 1,000 bushels from the three acres he has in tomatoes. The crop was disposed of to Cisco merchants and citizens in bushel containers. He does no retail peddling. These tomatoes, he said, have been sold readily in the local market at from $1 to $2.50 per bushel.

Variety of Truck

Besides the tomatoes Mr. Clark is growing sweet corn, peppers, squash, okra, and sweet potatoes. This diversity of crops will be marketable until frost. Sweet corn yielded a nice income. His tomatoes and sweet peppers are now being marketed, and he finds a ready sale in Cisco. He has about one-quarter of an acre in peppers, and prices realized have ranged from 5 to 7 1/2 cents per pound. These peppers are equal to those shipped in from the Rio Grande valley, all nice, firm and crisp. He has about one acre in okra, which is very prolific and for which finds a ready sale at 5 cents per pound, he said. The tomatoes, okra and sweet peppers are still luxuriantly green, all heavily fruited, from which he will yet gather several crops as they will bear until frost. Then he will have pumpkins, sweet potatoes and other fall crops coming in. In addition to his summer crops he realized a nice profit from his squash crop.

Main Crop
But his main truck crop is tomatoes. Representatives of the Cisco Press visited Mr. Clark's farm recently and found himself, Mrs. Clark, his children, Miss Louise Clark, Alton and Burleson Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Adair busy gathering the tomatoes in baskets to supply his Cisco customers.

The pickers posed for a picture for the Press photographer, with eleven bushel baskets of tomatoes in the foreground, the result of the day's harvest. Mr. Clark said he planted the tomatoes in the seed, and thinned to a stand, thus eliminating the labor and expense of transplanting. The valley is in a protected area, where frost

Community Fair Held at Dan Horn Big Event Tuesday

By R. W. H. KENNON

Dan Horn's community fair was held Tuesday, when a nice crowd was present to participate in the fair program and inspect the exhibits. The occasion developed into a home-coming, for there were many present, who have moved away, former residents of that community.

A short program was rendered in the morning, during which the visitors were welcomed by school and home economic officials, among whom were T. T. Horn, president; N. J. Tarver, vice president of the school board; Mrs. W. B. Starr, president of the home economic club; and Mrs. N. J.

does little harm early in spring. He plants the vine tomatoes, rather than the tree variety, but the fruit is large and well-formed, and compares favorably with the tree variety that has been staked and pruned. Then the yield is much greater, for besides the 750 or 1,000 bushels already harvested, there are loads of tomatoes yet to be gathered.

What this truck farmer has done just demonstrates the possibilities of truck farming in the Cisco country. What he has done others can do, and there is always a market for all the truck products that can be raised in this country.

Tarver, the club's secretary-treasurer.

Among others who made short talks were Elmo V. Cook, county agent; Hugh Barnhart, assistant county agent; T. G. Caudle, agricultural secretary of the Cisco chamber of commerce; Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent, and assistant to Miss Ramey, Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart, and Grant Daniels, one of the former residents of Dan Horn, who was one of the home-comers.

The products of the farm and home were exhibited in the school building and the exhibits were well selected and were very creditable, considering all farm products were produced with little or no rain. But the farm products, while showing the effect of the dry weather, compared well with dry weather products, including some fine exhibits of improved cotton.

Farm Exhibits

While the farm exhibits showed the lack of rain at the growing and maturing stages, yet most every product in that sandy land area were among the exhibits. Some splendid corn was shown, yet there were a variety of other products, such as all varieties of grain sorghums, peanuts, peas, and beans, both fresh and dried, sweet potatoes, popcorn, and specimens of as fine water melons as one could see at any display.

Canned Goods

The canned goods exhibit was where the women and girls of the home economics and 4-H clubs excelled. Every variety of fruits grown in the community were in this exhibit in canned products and preserves, peaches, okra, apples, plums, berries, jams, marmalades, pears, persimmons, peppers, and all varieties of vegetables and meats.

Needlework, Relics, Etc.

There was an unusually large and well-selected exhibit of needlework, relics, curios, etc. Some handsome quilts, spreads were shown in patchwork and tufted work, doilies, rugs, scarfs. One coverlid was exhibited, 70 years old, but owner's name not listed.

Curios Shown

Among the relics were many curios, of various vintage, some dating anterior to the revolutionary war. One of these was a hand-made rolling pin, whose age could be traced back 135 years, the property of Mrs. N. J. Tarver, which was made by one of her ancestors. There was a common blowing horn, which was over 60 years old, and was used by John Henry Livingston before he left Alabama for Texas; an ancient pewter cup and teapot, which has been in use 100 years, used by the grandmother of W. B. Starr, who lived to reach the age of 85 years, now the property of Mrs. Starr. Symbolic of the gold and silver campaign of Bryan and McKinley were two metal bugs, one gold the other silver, which were used in that memorable political campaign. These were manufactured in the home and chain factory of William Starr, in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mechanical Chickens

One of the most ingenious curios was a set of mechanical chickens, carved out with a pocket knife by Glenn Reiley, a youth who makes his home with the Starr family. There were four chickens set on a wood disk, to each was attached a sewing thread, and this attached to a smaller disk. When the whole was lifted the vibrations of the thread caused each of the chickens to peck the large disk as though they were feeding. Neither of the four chickens would peck at the same time. The motion was entirely automatic, and a slight vibration would put the chicks in motion. This curio attracted much attention from the visitors.

The fair was only a one-day event, and came to a close after the judges, Elmo V. Cook, Hugh Barnhart, T. G. Caudle, who judged the farm exhibits, and Miss Ruth Ramey, Miss Cornelia Faye Stewart and Mrs. W. B. Starr,

Ranger Bulldogs Start Grid Wars Against Strawn

RANGER, Sept. 16.—The Ranger Bulldogs will open their 1937 football campaign at Bulldog stadium Friday afternoon when they meet the Strawn Greyhounds in a non-conference game, the only non-conference game the team will play this season, since the Interscholastic league rules allow only ten games a season, and there are nine conference judging the women's department, had concluded their work.

At the noon hour the ladies of the community served a most palatable dinner, to which all present were cordially bade to come and dine.

The Dan Horn people said they had allowed their community fairs to be interrupted during the past year or two, but all had determined to make the fair an annual event in the future.

games on the Oil Belt schedule. Last year the Bulldogs played at Strawn in the opening game of the season, and were defeated by a score of 13 to 6. The team at that time was entirely inexperienced, practically all of the players being on a football field for their first time in a real game.

Approximately 1,074,000 bales of raw cotton were landed at Manchester, Eng., during the last fiscal year, establishing a new high record for cotton importations into that city.

COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS
LITH SUPREME DISTRICT

There were no orders handed down in the court of civil appeals Friday, the first return day after the summer recess of the court, as the justices had just resumed their sittings after their vacation. The next return day will be Friday, Sept. 17.

THE NINETY-FIRST
DISTRICT COURT

(Judge Davenport, Presiding)

Cases Pending
The following cases have been docketed in the district clerk's office for hearing in the 91st court:

Mrs. Ollie Gipson et al vs. R. F. Hizziar, partition. W. J. Howdeshell vs. Eunice L. Howdeshell, divorce and partition of community property. Mrs. A. W. Streetman vs. A. W. Streetman, divorce. A. E. Westmoreland vs. J. B. Brannon, injunction. Mrs. Mollie Bennett vs. J. B. Bennett, divorce and division of property.

Judgments and Orders
Assignments in the 91st court week of Sept. 20 will probably be settled, and no cases were pending for the present week. The week of Sept. 10 will probably be criminal week. Judge Davenport said, though no schedule for the trial of criminal cases had been worked out with District Attorney Conner, he said.

Texas Fire and Casualty Underwriters vs. Mrs. Marguerite Welch was heard in the 91st court the past week, an action on appeal from the award of the state industrial accident board, which was set aside and judgment rendered for defendant in the sum of $2,000 on a policy on the life of her deceased husband, Ben Welch.

THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH
DISTRICT COURT

(Judge Patterson, Presiding)

Docketed in the district clerk's office for litigation in the 88th court are the following:

Ruth Williams vs. Ben Williams, divorce. The State of Texas vs. Claude Mapies et al, injunction. This is the Rising Star beer case, in which the district attorney, Earl Conner, and John W. Coates, supervisor of the liquor control board, are seeking a revocation of the permits to sell beer in Rising Star precinct. An injunction was sought by the liquor dealers, but not perfected, whereupon the district attorney and liquor control board secured a temporary injunction restraining the parties from selling liquors under the permit until Saturday when Judge Patterson set the case for final hearing.

The grand jury of the 88th court, which was empaneled last Monday, recessed Thursday to reconvene next Tuesday after returning 16 true bills of indictments, 14 for felonies and two for misdemeanors.

Judgments and Orders
The following orders were handed down in the 88th court during the past week:

A special order was issued by Judge Patterson formally opening the September term of the 88th court last Monday with all officers present.

Claude L. Tully vs. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., suit for compensation. Defendant's petition for removal of the case to the federal court was approved, and it was the order of the court that the case be transferred to the United States court for the northern district of Texas at Abilene for final disposition.

Chaney Davenport vs. Wyatt G. Davenport, divorce and custody of minor children. Judgment for plaintiff for divorce and custody of children, and it was the further ordered by the court that defendant, Wyatt G. Davenport, pay to the plaintiff, Chaney Davenport $10 per month, beginning September 10, and on or before the 10th of each month thereafter until further orders of the court.

Gordon Whitaker vs. Hartford Accident & Indemnity Co., compensation. Petition of defendant for removal of the case to the federal court was approved and it was the order of the court that the case be transferred to the northern district of Texas at Abilene for final disposition.

Ora Kirkin vs. J. H. Kirkin, divorce and custody of minor child. Judgment for plaintiff for divorce and confirmation of agreed division of community property, and setting aside as her separate property one automobile purchased by plaintiff with her own funds since marriage relations with defendant had ceased.

THE DEPARTMENT OF
THE COUNTY COURT

Marriage Licenses Issued

The following couples were issued marriage licenses by the county clerk during the past week:

Kay H. Wilder and Miss Dell Crossley, Olden.

John L. Jayner and Miss Willie Freeman, Kilgore.

O. B. Reed and Miss Lillian Frances Smith, Harper.

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, loves Janet, a Baltimore girl. She keeps a date with wealthy, flashy Prescott Fanning who kidnaps her aboard his yacht. Next day a mysterious phone call tells Neill Janet's in trouble on the yacht at Absalom's Harbor. Rushing there, he finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill rows her to the disused liners kept up the river and hides her in the best suite. Returning to the village hotel, he resumes his role of visiting fisherman to watch developments. Horace Kettering, a Baltimore lawyer, and his son arrive to fish.

Chapter 14 Absalom's Agog

Kettering threw up his hand and sniffed the fresh morning air. "This is great, gentlemen. A man works himself near to death in the city, and what does he get out of it? A couple of day's fishing a year!"

"Work's a damn bad habit," said Longcope.

Kettering turned to Neill. "And you?" he asked.

"Ford Wheatley."

"Please to meet you, Mr. Wheatley. You're a stranger in the village, I take it?"

"Yes. Down for the fishing like yourself."

"Fine! You must come out with my son and me as our guest . . . Well, I'll be seeing you, gentlemen." He saluted them and climbed back in the car. The son had not opened his mouth.

There was something about his busy tongue and darting eyes that made Neill uneasy. This was not a man that he could trust.

"A talkative cuss!" he remarked.

"Yeah," said Virgil turning the cigar. "Looks like a case of the fox fathering the bull pup."

At that moment Neill saw a whitecoated figure appear on the Nadi's deck, run wildly forward and disappear through a door. He forgot the Ketterings. The man reappeared on deck with his two mates. They ran into the after house. Presently they came on deck again, flung themselves anyhow into the dinghy and started pulling crazily for the shore. Neill steered himself.

Virgil, who had not noticed anything amiss, was talking amiably about the city slickers he had known. The men in the dinghy tied their little boat to the wharf in front of the store and came running across the road, white-faced and staring with horror. Virgil broke off suddenly.

"What the heck is the matter with these three fellers?"

"Police!" they gasped out. "We want the police. . . Where can we find the police?" All three were young men without experience, and they had completely lost their heads. There was a steward in his white coat and two sailors.

Their hysterical excitement made Virgil sore. "What's the matter with you?" he demanded. "We ain't got no police here. What do you want police for?"

All tried to explain at once. "Murder, mister! . . . There's been a murder aboard the yacht! . . . The owner is murdered! . . . A bullet right through his head! . . . Must have been shot last night when we was ashore. . . . We slept on board all night without knowing it. . . ."

Virgil stood up suddenly. "Murder!" he gasped. "My God!"

Neill's nerves quivered at the sound of the ugly word. "Murder!" he echoed. "How terrible!"

"And the girl is gone!" cried the steward.

"What girl?" demanded Virgil.

All three explained together. "We had a girl on board. . . The boss' girl. . . And she's gone! . . . How could she get off? The other boat's on the davits. . . ."

"One at a time!" shouted Virgil waving his hands. "You, Jake, run and fetch the doctor. You men come in the store!"

Too Much for Virgil

Neill followed them inside. As a stranger, he was disregarded. Virgil, being the leading citizen, felt that it was up to him to take command of the situation but it was a bit too much for him. He flung his derby on the counter and ran his hands through his hair as if he would tear it out. "Keep cool! Keep cool!" he shouted.

Every time he asked a question he got three answers. The crew it seemed, could not agree on the simplest statement of fact. Out of the confusion Neill could only pick a phrase here and there.

"Found him when I took his morning coffee down. . . In the girl's cabin. . . The door was busted in. . . There was a hell of a fight while we were ashore. . . You're crazy! It was the boss himself busted the door in! . . . Nothing else was disturbed. . . . We don't know who the girl was. . . . Real nice quiet girl. . . . We were aboard last night before 10:30. . . ."

It was no part of Neill's game to try to bring order out of the confusion. He listened, nerves taut.

Virgil looked at him in a distracted fashion, forgetting he was a stranger. "Reckon I better call up the county constable."

"It's the obvious thing to do."

"But he's a farmer. He don't know nothing."

"Call him anyway."

Virgil sent his clerk running to make the call.

"And Mr. Button Billings, the J. P.," he went on pulling his hair, "he'll have to be in on this. He's an old grandmother, that's what he is. Oh, my God! He'll ball everything up, and the newspapers will call us hicks, and moss-backs and stick-in-the-muds!"

Neill said nothing. If things got balled up it would be fine.

"If I only knew where to lay my hands on the proper man to handle the case!" said Virgil. After taking an agitated turn back and forth, his face cleared. "I know what I'll do I'll get Mark Bonniger. He's a man-of-the-world. And he's one of us. We don't want no foreigners hornoring in. Mark will tell us how to do everything right."

When the clerk returned, he was sent back to call up Mark Bonniger and also the justice of the peace. "Tell Mr. Button Billings to come straight to the yacht. He lives across the harbor."

Virgil ran out of the store, accompanied by the crew. At the door they met the doctor coming in and carried him with them. All five of them piled into the yacht's dinghy, loading her almost to the gunwale. "No more room" they cried, when Neill started to follow them, and rowed away. Neill was left on the wharf. He looked around for another skiff, but there were too many watching them now.

Pawing for 'Evidence'

Like a wireless flash, word of the murder had spread from one end of the village to the other. Men, women and children stopped everything and came running to the harbor. Nothing like this had ever happened in Absalom's.

House work was suspended, the stores shut up and fish left without ice. The excitement in every face made Neill sore. What is it to them? he thought.

At first they contented themselves with lining up along the harbor road, staring out at the yacht and passing the same bits of information back and forth. Then one man jumped in his skiff. Immediately there was a stampede for the skiffs and a whole flotilla set out rowing swiftly to the yacht. Women and children were left ashore.

Neill was unable to obtain a place in a skiff until Jake the fisherman got the idea of starting a ferry at two bits a head. Thus some minutes passed before he got aboard the yacht.

The saloon below was packed to suffocation. The men had pulled off their hats out of respect to the dead, and were pushing and shoving to get a glimpse through the door of the after cabin. Neill worked his way through them. Everything that happened here was of vital importance to him. He was tall enough to look over a good many heads and he saw Virgil and the doctor, helped by the two sailors, examining the body, searching his pockets and so on. The young steward sat on the starboard locker holding his head between his hands.

Everything in the room—including the gun—was being well pawed over in the search for "evidence," and Neill smiled grimly to himself. Lucky he had only these hicks to deal with! He saw Virgil pick up the bullet on the floor beside the port seat locker, and hold it up for all to see.

Virgil was continually issuing orders without taking any steps to see if they were carried out.

"Quit your shoving, men! Ain't you got no sense of what is fitting?" . . . The girl must have swum ashore. She couldn't have got far. You, Tom Bolling, organize a posse among the men and search the woods across the harbor. Send a car up the road, somebody, to stop at every house and ask if she applied for shelter!"

A voice from the crowd said: "Somebody stole my skiff last night!"

"Well then, maybe she tried to escape in that," said Virgil. "A woman could row far. All you men that have motor-boats organize a search up both shores of the river and into the creeks. What like girl was she?"

The two sailors attempted to describe Janet. Very little could be gathered from their efforts, except the pink dress and the black velvet cape.

"She musta had a guy helping her," said a voice.

"What guy?" asked Virgil.

"How the heck should I know? Who was it busted in the door?"

"The dead guy."

"Maybe he was already inside and the door was locked."

Neill stiffened. This was getting too close to the truth.

(Copyright, 1937, by Hulbert Footner)

Despite Virgil's efforts, Mr. Button Billings moves the body and holds an inquest tomorrow.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS IN HIS FACE ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps, when your nerves are all on edge—don't take 'em out on the man you love.

Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.

A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

Rye Planted in '35 Sprouts This Year

VALENTINE, Neb., Sept. 16 (AP)—It may take time to get a crop on the Pine Ridge section, but it can be done.

Henry Krauss planted rye in 1935, but had to wait for the ground before it got started. It was so dry in the spring that it failed to sprout.

This year it finally got a good start. Krauss reported a yield of about seven bushels per acre.

Appeal For Safe Driving Urged By Chief of Police

Opening of the public schools this week greatly increases the traffic hazards on the streets. Chief of Police M. L. Perdue announced in an appeal to drivers of automobiles and trucks to exercise greater caution in their driving and their observance of traffic regulations on streets and highways.

Children will be crossing the streets in numbers on their way to and from the school buildings, he pointed out. Their presence on the streets will occur at times of the day when traffic volume is at its highest, hence the need for every driver to exercise the utmost care.

Particular emphasis was placed upon the chief's request that signal lights and all highway and street traffic signs be observed carefully. On Eighth street, which is a state and national highway, lights have been placed at the intersections most frequented by the students. A driver who disregards a red light may do so at the expense of tragedy. Similarly stop signs at other intersections and slow signs about the schools should be strictly observed.

Parking on the wrong side of the street, which forces the driver to cross two traffic lanes before reaching the right one, was urged against by the chief.

On the part of school children and their parents he requested careful observance of pedestrian rules laid down for their protection. Caution in crossing streets, care to cross at intersections where lights exist and when the "go" signal favors them, and observance of the rule to "walk, not run, across," were requested.

one of Cisco's best prospects this year, is starting around left end after taking the ball from one of his teammates. Robert Cone is coming to make the tackle. Coach J. T. Pettit is in the righthand corner of the picture, is looking on intently. In the lower right shot Curtis Yancey is shown giving one of the boys his stiff arm after taking the ball from Steyer and plowing through a nice hole in the line. Yancey is also expected to be one of the mainstays in the Lobo backfield after he becomes eligible in October.

Thomas Wilson to Attend Texas U.

Thomas Wilson, former student and graduate of Cisco high school and Randolph college departed Wednesday morning for Austin where he will attend the School of Medicine at the University of Texas. Tommy plans to take up pre-med work at the university.

Thomas made an excellent record at Randolph finishing a two year course after attending one regular fall session and two summer sessions. His cousin, Lillian Farris, who finished in the same length of time, is attending Texas Tech.

He will continue his studies in music and his plans are to enter the school band.

New Officers to Manage Welfare Body Are Named

The Cisco Welfare association along with representatives of various other civic organizations of the city met Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the city hall where they elected officers for the coming year. The Rev. M. H. Applewhite was elected as president of the organization, but as yet has not made known whether or not he will accept the position.

Other officers elected at the meeting were A. D. Starling as first vice president, Mrs. W. W. Wallace, secretary, Roy Wilson, treasurer, and Mrs. P. Pettit, executive secretary. The association will have regular meetings throughout the year it was announced, and the newly elected officers will call a meeting in the near future to make plans for activities for the coming year. Those present at yesterday's meeting were Rev. Moad, Robert Cluck, Mrs. Charles Sandler, Mrs. H. J. McArdle, Roy Wilson, Horace Condeley, Mrs. Sam Kimmell, and E. P. Crawford.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

JCC Delegates Named to State at Convention

Jaycee President Edward Lee and D. C. Harper were elected as delegates at the junior chamber of commerce meeting Monday night to represent Cisco at the state convention of the J. C. of C. to be held at Wichita Falls September 17 and 18.

The convention will be honored by the presence of two distinguished statesmen, Governor Allred and the national president of the organization, both of whom will be speakers on the program.

The request of the city of Port Arthur that the Cisco delegates vote for Port Arthur as next year's convention city was not voted upon at the meeting last night and the Cisco delegates will vote as they see fit.

Part of the expenses of the trip will be paid by the Jaycees, said Edward Lee, but the if be up to the delegates... rest convention will probably be attended by a few Ciscoans. The man the appointed delegate, Mr. Lee said.

Calculation of Crop Acreages This Week

Calculation of crop acreages on the 725 Eastland county farms which are participating in the farm program will be completed in the county agent's office this week and the resulting information will be sent of all the farm operators. Blank forms will also be mailed the operators so that those wishing to receive additional credit in the program for turning under cowpeas or green sudan or sorghum may make a report of their practices, using two neighbors as witnesses, the county agent has reported.

Cisco Rotarians Hear Randy Trio in Noon Program

The Cisco Rotary club today noon enjoyed one of the best programs in years with the presentation by Dr. J. T. McKissick, program chairman, of the Randolph college trio, consisting of Hartford, Darius and Orgle Boswell of Cumbly, Tex., and Miss Thana Benbernek, pianist. The three brothers sang several popular songs and one sacred number, Miss Benbernek accompanying for the latter.

Charles Talley and Lee Russell of the Ranger Rotary club were guests to formally convey the Ranger Rotary club's acceptance of a challenge issued by the Cisco club through President Bob Cluck for a six-weeks attendance contest, the loser to buy the luncheon and furnish the program for a joint meeting of the clubs.

Other guests were Dan Junell of Abilene, C. J. O'Malley of Temple and Misses Elizabeth Deaton and Ellice Hudson of the Cisco high school faculty.

Randolph Maps Program for Year's Session

Following decision of the board of directors of the Christian Restoration Foundation of Cincinnati not to assume charge of Randolph college until next year, the faculty of the college met this morning and arranged to continue the school through the year offering the same courses as last year, it was announced by President J. T. McKissick. The foundation informed Dr. McKissick by letter that it was ready to enter into a contract to take charge of the school at the beginning of the 1938-39 term, advising him that the school could discontinue for the year or operate on its present basis as desired.

The foundation will begin an immediate campaign to raise approximately $25,000 with which to pay off the indebtedness of the school preparatory to assuming charge of the institution, it was announced.

Those participating in the conference this morning besides Dr. McKissick were Profs. Dudley Bruce, King, Miller and Dr. and Mrs. Lee Clark.

All students were urged to register by Monday, September 20.

4 New Members for Cisco Vets of Foreign Wars

The Cisco post 3359 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars obligated four new members at their meeting last night as the V.F.W. observed its 38th anniversary. The new members were John W. Slaton and Hulon H. Pullig of Gorman, Herbert R. Garrett of Cisco, and Hyd Lowery of Eastland. Capt. K. K. White of Eastland delivered an address on the history of the V.F.W.

In keeping with the occasion, a huge birthday cake was baked by A. V. Osburn and artistically decorated with the cross of Malta in red, white and blue. There were 38 present at the meeting.

Officers for the coming year nominated at last night's meeting and will be elected at next week's meeting, it was announced. Com. D. J. Gorman requests that all members be present at that meeting.

Last night's meeting also brought 11 more applications for obligation at next week's meeting.

Mavericks and Lions Play at Eastland Friday

EASTLAND, Sept. 16.—A total of 1,715 pounds will be represented in the starting lineup of the Eastland Mavericks against Brownwood Lions on Welch field Friday afternoon at 3:30 in Eastland.

Coach E. B. Grady, Jr., the Mavericks' new mentor, a former resident of Brownwood, is especially anxious to take the game against the Lions.

After five weeks of practice the weights Wednesday showed that the average of players for the starting line-up will be 156 pounds. The line will average 160 pounds and the backfield 149.

Seven lettermen are listed in the starting lineup. They are R.

New Machine Grows Luxuriant Hair

Cecil's Barber shop, of which Cecil Huffman is proprietor, has installed a machine which is said to be a boon to the bald-headed. Working on the principle that the growth of hair is stultated and, in 90 per cent of cases revived, by improving the circulation of blood in the scalp, the new equipment, manufactured by the Crosley Radio Corp. and known as the Xervac (pronounced Ex-Ervac), treats the dormant scalp circulation by alternate vacuum and pressure. Wonderful results are said to have been obtained when treatment is carried out as directed. The machine is installed in a booth at the rear of the shop where Mr. Huffman will be glad to demonstrate it to those who are interested.

Ice absorbs heat when melted.
