JAPAN WARNS FOREIGNERS TO CLEAR

U. S. Fleet Will Remain in Chinese Waters

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Believe it or not, as Mr. Ripley might say, I saw a turtle with two heads today. Moreover, it was a quite healthy and vigorous turtle, apparent content with its composite existence and as much of a pet as it is possible for a creature of its mentality to be. Despite the accredited dangerous dispositions of snapping turtles, this two-in-one specimen is as gentle as a house dog, as eager for attention and as confident of the human hands that hold him. One could finger the wicked-looking bills of the pair without any more fear than in fondling a pet dog.

The turtle, along with numerous other reptilian specimens, including rattlesnakes, cobras and even a baby python, 13 feet in length, is the property of Grace Olive Wiley, Minneapolis, Minn., scientist and museum manager, now on her way to California where she expects to open a museum of her own with the 100 animals she now owns, together with collections from various parts of the world which she is assembling. With her is her brother, Ross Koontz of Seattle, Wash.

Mrs. Wiley is no stranger to Cisco, which is the principal reason for her stopping here en route to California. (Incidentally, she will appear at the grammar school in a lecture this afternoon.) Her husband was at one time superintendent of the John W. Leonard interests and Charles and John Kleiner of Cisco secured with him in 1920 and 1921 their first employment in the oil business.

The particular divisions of zoology which Mrs. Wiley follows are herpetology, dealing with cold-blooded vertebrates, and ornithology, dealing with insects. The curious turtle which she exhibited to friends this morning was found on Enchanted Island in Lake Minnetonka, near Minneapolis, Minn. At the time, six years ago, it was the size of a quarter dollar and weighed one-fourth ounce. It has grown to nine pounds and is nearing maturity, at which normal turtles of the classification—Chalydra serpentina, in case you wish the scientific name—weigh about 30 pounds.

The turtle has two heads and two digestive tracts merged into one large intestine. "Nip" and "Tuck" are the names of the pair, and their actions often support the names. Neither

CANNOT FAIL IN DUTY SAYS NAVY DEPT

Will Stay As Long As Controversy Is Under Way

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The United States navy served formal notice today that the fleet would remain in Chinese waters as "long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists."

The navy department issued the announcement to Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic squadrons.

Most American citizens now in China are engaged in business or professions which are their only means of livelihood. These persons are unwilling to leave until their businesses have been destroyed or they are forced to leave due to actual physical danger.

Fighting Tax Laws May Be Session Effort

AUSTIN, Sept. 24 (AP)—Tightening weak spots in existing tax laws probably will occupy considerable time at the session of the legislature convening next week.

It will be a form of legislation which, unless it steps on the toes of some particular element of constituency, may be expected to meet little opposition.

The men who have the jobs of collecting the taxes which the legislature levies say there are many loopholes in the statutes which need plugging. They assert large sums might be garnered if certain changes were made.

One suggested alteration would make it more hazardous for persons subject to the taxes on oil and gas production not to file reports to the comptroller's department. Pipelines would have to discontinue service to leases on which such reports had not been made, as in the case now reports to the railroad commission.

At present failure to report to the comptroller is declared misdemeanor, but the amount of money involved may be small and the litigation involved, so some deem the direct action of a pipeline disconnection more promising of results. About 3,500 operators are liable for the taxes.

That portion of the gasoline tax law authorizing refunds of the tax paid on gasoline not used in motor vehicles operated on highways also may come in for attention.

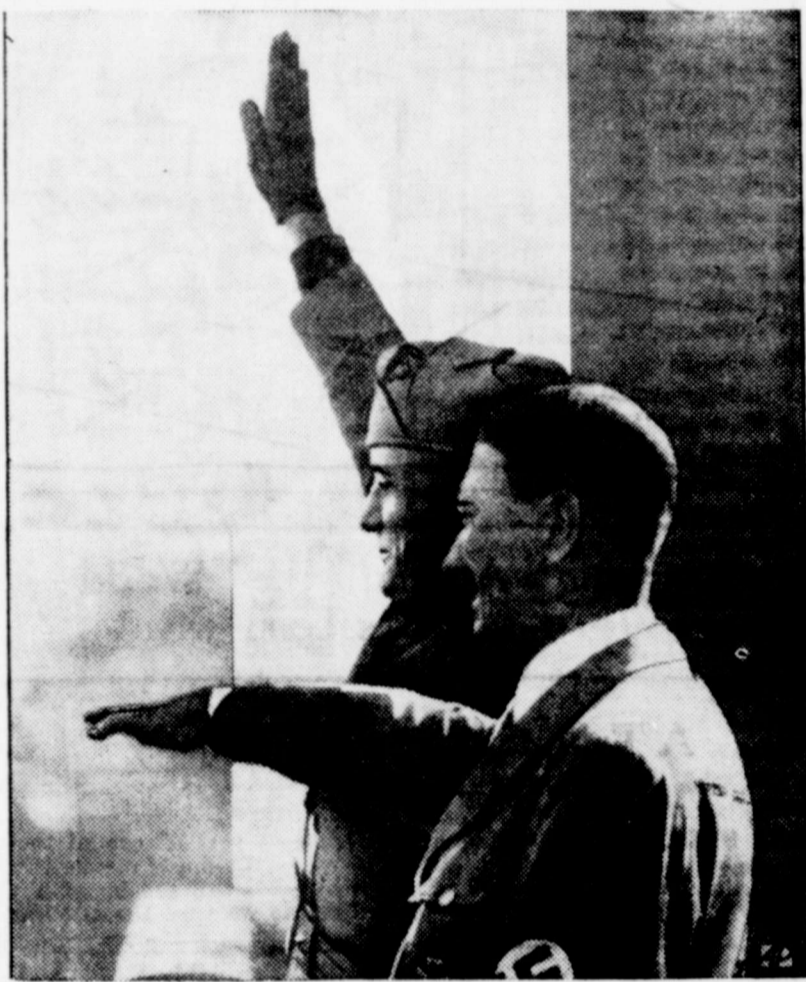

In the fiscal year ending last August 31, a total of $46,485,480 was collected from the gasoline levy, the state's biggest revenue source, and of that amount $5,780,486 was refunded.

By percentages, the refunds were made as follows: farmers 65.33, municipalities 6.66, contractors 6.51, aircraft 2.18, marine 1.21, dry cleaners .11, oil operators 9.18, railroads 2.36 and miscellaneous 6.46.

There seems to be suspicion that all is not well with regard to refunds. This year the percentage of the total amount of the tax refunded to the amount collected was .124. The previous year it was .117 and four years ago .09.

In other words, the proportion of money collected and then returned is growing. It is said that in states which have very rigid laws the percentage is from .05 to .06.

Officers and Ministers Meet at Annual Dinner

4 Completions In Southern Jones County

ABILENE, Sept. 24. (Sp)—Four completions were chalked up for the southern Jones county area immediately north of Abilene yesterday, three for the Guitlar pool and one for the Sayles field.

Largest of the four was on the southeast side of Guitlar pool production, the Sherwood B. Owens No. 2 Mrs. Wilma Gilbreth flowing 565 barrels in 24 hours. The test, located in section 45-15-T&P as an east offset to his No. 1 Gilbreth, had been treated with 3,000 gallons of acid in Cook pay from 1,972 to 2,003 feet.

Brown Eagle oil company and S. B. Roberts company No. 3 Guitlar, in the 20-acre lease of the east half of the southeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 44-15-T&P survey, flowed 497 barrels in 24 hours from the Cook zone, also treated with 3,000 gallons of acid.

Guitlar Trust estate No. 9 fee, first of the Guitlar producers to fall below the top allowable rating, flowed 338 barrels in 24 hours from the same zone. It was also acidized.

Short Gauge
On the south extension area of the Sayles field, the Condor Petroleum company No. 13 Henry Sayles took a short gauge of 154 barrels in 7 hours, an average of 22 barrels hourly, to establish a daily potential rating of 528 barrels.

The flow was natural from sand at 1,975 to 1,986 feet. It is one of the best producers in the Sayles field, and is located near the south line of section 5-20-T&P survey.

The Guitlar pool extension, Ungren & Frazier and Ambassador No. 1 Kelley, reported a corrected potential of 160 barrels in 24 hours pumping after acidization.

Operators pulled rods and tubing and deepened the Ungren & Frazier No. 1-H Dorsey from 2-

Ministers of Cisco and city and county officials were hosts and guests at an annual Law Enforcement dinner on the roof garden of the Laguna hotel.

"The responsibility for law enforcement falls primarily upon the home," said the Rev. Joe I. Patterson, pastor of the First Methodist church, who, with Chief of Police Milton Perdue, was a principal speaker.

The minister praised the cooperation of Cisco officers with the moral forces of the community and used as the basis for his stirring appeal to good citizenship, a statement of Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal G-men, in which Mr. Hoover called upon the parents of the land to develop good citizenship in the home in order to combat the wave of crime.

The excellent work of the Lions and Rotary clubs among the young boys of the community who might otherwise be tempted into delinquency was praised by Chief Perdue who seconded the address of the minister in positive terms.

The Rev. M. H. Applewhite, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was toastmaster. Talks were made by County Judge W. S. Adamson; District Attorney Earl Conner, Jr.; District Clerk P. L. Crossley.

Introductions
Commissioner H. C. Henderson spoke for the officials in appreciation of the dinner, and directed introductions those present. Wives of the officials, ministers and newspapermen also were guests.

The program opened with "America," followed by a prayer

Condition of Mrs. Skiles Some Better

RIISING STAR FAIR OPENED THIS MORNING

Parade of School Students First Big Feature

The annual fall fair at Rising Star got under way at 7 p. m. Thursday evening when all exhibits were opened to the public. The fair exhibits are located in the Bucy and Dill buildings where they may be seen throughout Friday and Saturday. Exhibits were judged Friday.

The fair, lasting through Saturday, was featured by a parade of students. Schools taking part in this demonstration were Rising Star, Okra, Romney, Pioneer, Williams, and May. The parade began at 9 o'clock Friday morning following the judging.

The entertainment which is expected to create the most interest are the two football games which are to be played on Friday and Saturday and two big free rodeos. Today's game will see the Winter's Blizzards invade the home field of the Rising Star Wildcats in a non-conference tilt while Williams and May battle it out under the lights on Saturday night. Then there is a carnival, without which a fair just wouldn't be a fair. This part of the attraction is furnished by the Lucas Entertainment company. Shows have been arranged for the midway stage at the carnival among which will be an "amateur hour."

Conference Votes for Consolidation

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 24. (AP)—The Southwest Missouri conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, voted overwhelmingly today in favor of the proposed unification of the three Methodist church groups.

This was the first conference in the state to ballot on the proposal. The three groups are the Methodist Episcopal church; the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church.

Clerical delegates to the general conference were elected today. Dr. C. C. Seelman, president of Southern Methodist university, Dallas, spoke tonight. The session will close Sunday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. #### Fear of Loss of Star Back Dispelled

The Lobo football team, alarmed today over an injury, yesterday, of one of its first string backs, were cheered at noon today when the doctor pronounced, after making an X-ray, that Vernon Steyer, the victim of a supposedly broken arm, had merely sprained his wrist and would not be lost to the team.

It was announced today that two scrimmage games have been scheduled for tomorrow, one being the one with Baird, already arranged for, and the other with Stamford, giving the now ineligible players a chance to experience actual combat before they become eligible in October. There will be no practice this afternoon, Coach Petty, said.

FDR PURSUES FIRST COURSE

"Most Good for Greatest Number"

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 24. (AP)—President Roosevelt told a crowd of thousands here today that he was going to continue in his second term as he had in the first, trying to do "the most good for the greatest number."

After being welcomed by a group including Senator O'Mahoney, democratic foe to the supreme court change, the president said he told a friend recently who advised him to "coast" from now on that he could not take such advice.

The people are thinking in national terms he asserted, adding that the administration projects to date had had the national point of view in mind.

Band Drill Each Morning Announced

Bandmaster Robert L. Maddox today announced that a band drill will be held at the high school at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning and every morning after that, excepting Sunday, for the next week at 7:30. He has requested that every band member be there every day as these drills are most important as a function of the band. He added that if for any inexcusable reason these meetings were disregarded, the guilty ones would stand the chance of not receiving uniforms.

PLANES RAID HANGKOW; 100 PEOPLE DEAD

Kai-Shek Declares US Has Obligation to Aid China

SHANGHAI, Sept. 24 (AP)—Japanese warplanes today bombed Hangkow, in the middle of the Yangtze metropolis, killing one hundred as Nipponese announced that Paotingfu, strategic Chinese troop base had been captured and the garrison annihilated. No figures of the casualties were given and it indicated no survivors.

The Japanese in Shanghai issued a new warning to foreigners that they must keep clear of the military objectives of Nanking which the Japanese intend to bomb anew in spite of protests.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declared that "the United States is obligated by her treaties to support China's struggle against Japanese aggression."

The worst cholera epidemic in Shanghai's history was reported raging among the Japanese forces with two hundred dead.

Sir Robert Craigie, British ambassador to Japan, was instructed to make strong representations against the bombing of non-military objectives.

WPA Only Agency Still Going Strong After Suspension

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Of the emergency agencies created early in the new deal, the Works Progress administration was the only one which was still going strong Thursday after President Roosevelt's suspension of allocations under the Public Works administration.

The Civilian Conservation corps, although technically still on an emergency basis, is regarded by the administration as permanent. The other big lending and spending agencies virtually have suspended the outward flow of funds and are chiefly concerned with administering and collecting past loans.

The future of PWA still was uncertain. The president's decision foreshadowed an effort in the next session of congress to extend the works administration by mandatory legislation. In the last two years it twice has been extended by such moves on capitol hill.

Should a further extension fail, congress would be called on to consider the proposal by Secretary Ickes, public works administrator, that a skeleton organization be maintained permanently to be ready to start the flow of construction work again whenever an economic depression threatened the nation.

PWA authorities compared the idea to an idling motor in an automobile, ready to be accelerated at any moment.

Regardless of further congressional action, PWA has two more years to live. It was extended in the last congress until 1939. Should it get no new funds, its chief activity will be completing projects already under construction, amounting to about $1,000,000,000.

SUBJECTS SUNDAY

Law Enforcement Dinners

AT every Law Enforcement dinner which the police department and the ministers of Cisco have held over the few years that such annual dinners have been the custom an element of surprise has been apparent.

It is entirely logical and practical to adopt such means as has been adopted in Cisco to bring these points of view into proper focus. The zeal of the religious forces in the community against immorality sometimes oversteps a correct appreciation of the responsibility of the officers who are not charged with the making of the laws but the enforcement of those which exist.

A Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—Evidence that Senator Justice Black foresaw the possibility of an anti-Klan kickback and sought at once to forestall it has nestled virtually unnoticed in the congressional record these many days.

itations which are imposed upon them, not by their choosing but by the mandate of the people.

SUCH a happy coincidence of views seems to have been assisted by the admirable program which has been adopted in Cisco. In this instance Cisco has set a fine example for other communities to follow.

THE churches of the community have in their keeping the cultivation of those forces which underly all law. The leaders in those churches can better discharge their own responsibility by cooperation with the agencies into whose hands is given the duty of seeing that the laws which are made are respected and enforced.

OTHER OPINIONS

A Political Session

STATEHOUSE observers at Austin differ widely in opinion as to the probable tax levies to be enacted during the special session, if indeed any new levies are to be made, but they agree unanimously that it is going to be a political medicine making session from start to finish; and this means that whatever may be done, if anything, will be inspired largely by personal political expediency as it is interpreted by the members of the two houses.

Governor Alfred himself has set the stage for such a session by carefully avoiding direct committal as to his own political plans. The third term rumor originated in the circle that is nearest to the executive office, and it has never been discouraged by the governor. This causes his friends and foes in the legislature, as well as the friends and foes of others who have already indicated they will seek the governorship next year, to be constantly alert for possible advantages to be gained during the special session.

Each house of the legislature will have for its presiding officer an avowed candidate for attorney general, the second highest office in the state with a salary of $10,000 per year attached to it. Messrs. Woodul and Calvert are faithful servants of the state, but both are practical politicians and both want to be elected next year. There is in this situation infinite possibility for medicine making as the special session proceeds, for each will have many opportunities for influencing the work of the law-makers.

In the house of representatives there are several ambitious young men who would like to be senators, and in the senate there are several men who would like to secure more lucrative positions on the state's payroll. In both houses there are those who bear old political scars, gained in the hectic campaigns of Texas during the past two decades, and issues that long since have been laid aside are still remembered by them and will make it difficult for them to work together harmoniously.

The forecast, in view of all these conditions and many others that could be cited, is that there will be two special tax raising sessions, to bring the total for the year to 221 days of legislative work and make the legislature almost a full-time concern. If such a situation doesn't give added impetus to the movement for a unicameral law-making body, one wonders what will be necessary to do it.—Brownwood Bulletin.

become evident Black would be confirmed, so he passed over the opportunity. Nevertheless, next day he read the messages into the record, saying:

"In view of the injection of the Ku Klux Klan into the debate, I desire to read some communications from outstanding Jews, outstanding Catholics, and one of the leading negroes in the state of Alabama with reference to their attitude toward Senator Black."

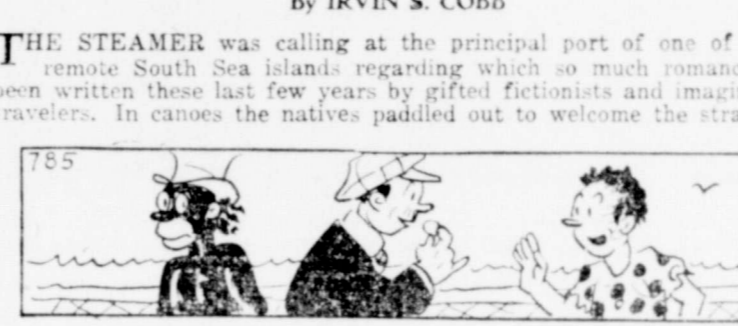

Comments by Black Bankhead did not say that the messages had been turned over to him by Black, but without exception all were addressed to the new justice. Moreover, in an off-hand manner Bankhead indicated that Black had penciled notes on the letters and telegrams to assist Bankhead in explaining to the senate whether the writer was Catholic, Jew, negro or foreign-born.

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: When flashy Prescott Fanning abducts Janet from Baltimore on his yacht, she gets word to Neill, a young federal agent who loves her. Dashing to Absalom's Harbor, he boards the yacht and, finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill hides her nearby in a disused liner, then joins forces with Mark Boninger, keen local investigator, to keep tabs on developments. Neill takes food and clothes to Janet and loses faith in her story of innocence when she produces $500 of Fanning's money. She runs on deck to give herself up.

Chapter 21

Attack in the Dark

Fearing that Janet would cry out, Neill clapped a hand over her mouth, and started dragging her along the deck, resisting every foot of the way. With great difficulty he got her through the door of the booby hatch, and closed the door behind them. He sat down on the iron stairs to recover his breath, holding her close.

Janet suddenly broke into tears and clung to him, and by that he knew the crisis had passed. He had never loved her so well as at that moment. He wanted to laugh.

"Oh, Honey, what a fright you gave me!"

"How could you say such things to me?"

"By God, I'm sorry now!"

"If you don't believe in me, I don't care what happens!"

"I do! I do! I will never doubt you again!"

"How can I be sure that you mean it?"

"I love you better than my life," he murmured. "We can't quarrel. We're in this thing together. What happens to one happens to the other. We're like two parts of the same body. If we separated it would finish us both!"

Gradually she quieted down.

They returned through the ship hand in hand. Neill was sore and at the same time immensely tender. He did not believe her story. In the ears of the trained detective it had a fatally fictitious sound; but he loved her far too well to question it further. It doesn't matter, he told himself; she is my girl and I'm bound to stick to her anyhow.

When they entered the suite, the candle was still burning as they had left it. Janet, who had been considerably pulled about during the struggle on deck, ran into the bedroom to comb her hair.

He broke into a cold sweat. His position appeared truly terrible to him. It seemed impossible to leave Janet alone if her refuge had been discovered. And equally impossible to stay with her. They had only a day's food and almost no drinking water. Almost worse than the danger was the mystery that surrounded the unknown spy. If he was aware of everything they did, why didn't he denounce them? What was he after?

Meadow Lark's Call

Janet called to Neill from the parlor and he went in, forcing himself to smile.

"Much as I hate to do it, I must send you away," she said. "You had no sleep last night. . . Unless you could sleep here?" she added wistfully.

"I suppose I must go," he said flatly. ". . . Listen, Janet, When I leave you, you must take the gun."

"What good would that do me?"

"If you were attacked, you could use it, couldn't you? It is the right of every human creature."

"I suppose I could. . . What has made you suddenly anxious?"

"Nothing But I mustn't neglect any precautions." He started pulling in the length of twine that hung overboard.

"What are you doing that for?"

"There are too many people hanging around these parts," he muttered. "The ships are objects of curiosity. Somebody might come around in a boat and see the string hanging down."

"How will you let me know when you come?"

"I will whistle. Do you know the call of the meadow lark?"

She shook her head.

He taught it to her. "When you hear that tomorrow night let the string down with a small object tied to it so that it will fall true. Hold on to the string and I will twitch it four times, wait a second and twitch it four times more. Then you will know it's me and you can let down the ladder."

"Why all these precautions?"

Neill grinned until his face hurt. "It's just because you mean so much to me. I worry every moment I am away from you."

He looked at all the doors into the corridor to make sure that the bolts were fastened. "You're pretty safe here. Certainly nobody can get in from the river. If anybody should try to smash these doors you can throw down the ladder and escape by swimming."

"Why imagine anything so terrible?"

"We must be prepared. Promise me you'll do what I tell you."

"All right."

He went down the ladder feeling as if he had left the best part of himself behind. He half expected to find his skiff gone. But it was there just as he had left it. Whoever had come and gone that way had had a skiff of his own. Neill reflected that the spy must have been actually hidden in the suite at the moment when he had come back and shut the windows.

Whoever it was, he was gone now. Neill rowed all around the shore and searched up and down the shore. No skiff. He finally tied his skiff in the place where it belonged, and started back across the fields and way he had come, looking over his shoulder at every other step and pausing often to listen. It was a dark night and he could see only a yard or two.

Coming to the state road, he lay down in the weeds behind the wire fence, peering through and listening. His intention was to wait until the motorcycle policeman had passed on his partol. All Neill's attention was directed on the road and for a moment or two he neglected to look behind him. He had no warning of danger. Suddenly a powerful figure dropped on his back, knocking the wind out of him and pinning him down.

Captive

Neill struggled with all his power. It was useless. He was borne down under an incredible weight of bone and muscle. The man planted a knee on the base of his skull crushing his face into the earth so that he could not cry out. He hit him repeatedly on the side of the head until Neill became groggy, and was unable to fight back when his arms were dragged behind him and tied together. Then his ankles.

The man turned him over and patted his eyes and his lips shut with strips of surgeon's tape that he had ready for the purpose. In the brief second that Neill could see him he was just a shapeless bulk of humanity looming between him and the sky. He flung himself down beside Neill, panting hoarsely after his efforts.

Neill heard the motorcycle coming down the road, and exerted himself to shout. Only feeble groans issued from his sealed lips. The policeman, deafened by the sound of his own exhaust, swept on, and the man lying beside Neill chuckled. After a minute or two the motorcycle roared past again. The road died away up the road.

The man rose and, picking up the helpless Neill as if he had been a child, dropped him over the fence. Once more the breath was pretty well knocked out of him. The man scrambled after and, picking Neill up, carried him across the road and threw him over the fence on the other side. Neill wondered shakily how much of this the human frame could stand.

He was picked up again and shouldered like a sack of meal. The man set off across another ploughed field. The going was bad through soft earth and he stumbled and panted. Neill was not disposed to make his job any easier. As soon as he got sufficient breath he started twisting and rolling on his carrier's shoulder. Whereupon the man flung him down and kicked him in the ribs. Neill took the hint. No use exhausting himself in a vain struggle.

After a time Neill recognized by a new smell on the air that they were nearing water. Probably the head of the inlet. They followed it for a while along the edge of the bank. Neill could hear the little waves below.

His captor finally slid down the bank in a cascade of loose earth, crossed a strip of crunching shingle and tossed Neill from his shoulder to a sort of wooden shelf. Neill judged from the weathered feel that it was the deck of an old vessel. It was canted at an angle, but a rail kept him from rolling off.

He heard the man climbing aboard. He was picked up again and dropped through what appeared to be an open hatch into the hold. This was the hardest fall he had had and he lay partly stunned. There was water in the hold and he wondered if he would drown, without greatly caring. But it did not cover him. It was bilgewater in the bottom of the old hulk. The smell was horrible.

The man dropped into the hold and for a few minutes was mysteriously busy beside Neill, breathing hoarsely. Neill heard the slap of a rope. As his full senses returned and with them a renewed desire to live, the suspense was agonizing. What was the brute preparing? Neill groaned and rolled in his bonds and was rewarded with another kick.

Ranger Meets Mighty Bucks This Evening

RANGER, Sept. 24. (Sp)—The Ranger Bulldogs will open their 1937 Oil Belt football campaign against the mighty Breckenridge Buckaroos at Buckaroo stadium Friday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Coach Eck Curtis, after his team suffered a 14 to 7 defeat at the hands of Paschal high school of Fort Worth, is reported to have made some changes in his line-up that are designed to give strength to the middle section of his line, over which most of the Paschal gains were made.

Sleepy Harris, six foot two-inch end, has been shifted to center and Thorpe, starting center in the Paschal game, has been moved to guard. The change is expected to strengthen the weak guard positions on the team.

At the same time Coaches Wright and Jennings have been working out their charges in hard daily grinds that are designed to work out the rough spots that developed during the Strawn game. Some minor changes may also be seen in the Bulldog line-up Friday night in order to strengthen the team.

The Bulldogs go into the game as underdogs, with the powerful Breckenridge crew expected to win, but the Bulldogs are just as determined as the Buckaroos could possibly be, and are expecting to throw a number of surprises into the ranks of their ancient foes. Over confidence on the part of the Buckaroos and determination of the part of the Bulldogs is reported from the two rival camps, but Coach Eck Curtis is not taking the Bulldog game too lightly, and the Ranger coaches are keeping their charges inspired to put up the best battle of the season.

A large crowd is anticipated for the game, with approximately 2,500 as the estimated attendance.

Ponies Win 117 Games of 213

DALLAS, Sept. 24.—S. M. U.'s record in intercollegiate football during the last 21 years is startling to those who are reminded only of four conference championships and one National Intercollegiate championship. In a total of 213 games, the Mustangs have won 117, lost 66, and tied 30.

The Ponies garnered their first title in 1918 by winning the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship. Later victories resulted in Southwest Athletic conference trophies for the years 1923, 1926, 1931, and 1935. The latter year being the one that gave S. M. U. the distinction of being the first southwest team to receive an invitation to California's Rose Bowl, also netted the national championship.

In the 213 games played by the Mustangs a total of 3,168 points were scored as compared to 1,853 chalked up by opponents. Of these grid battles, 104 were played against Southwest conference teams. Proving that this circuit is about as tough as they come is the Mustang record in the conference: 46 wins, 30 losses, and 17 ties.

Rival games furnish the annals of S. M. U. tradition with much close competition. First on the list is T. C. U. In 19 meetings the Methodist teams have 7 wins, 5 losses, and 4 ties. Texas dims S. M. U. lights with a record of 16 games—all close. S. M. U. has taken the Longhorns in 7 games, lost 6, and tied 3. Against Texas A. & M. the Ponies have 9 victories, 7 defeats, and 3 tie games.

Ever Hear 'Broster?' Here's What It Means

ST. PAUL, Sept. 24. (P)—Twist your tongue around and get ready for a new word—"broster."

Prof. F. Earl Ward of the Macalester college English department says a former student suggests it as a word to represent "brother and sister." See how it works? Half of each word.

The Germans and Scandinavians have a word for it, but the English language is devoid of a single word to express the meaning.

An "s" on the end gives you "brosters," one brother and two or more sisters. Two or more brothers and one sister has to be "sproster." And from that easily comes "sprosters," two or more brothers and two or more sisters.

"I'm going home to see the folks and sprosters." It tells everything, except their names.

IN AND ABOUT MORAN

(By Bob Taylor)

The Delphian society, woman's study organization of Moran, met Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. in the home of hostess Mrs. R. C. Black. Thirteen were present to hear discussions of the novel, "Wuthering Heights," by Emile Jane Bronte, a part of the "Chataqua Course of Study," adopted by the club for its Fall season study.

Program consisted of a book review by Mrs. Garland Shelton, a travel talk, "the Yorkshire Moors," by Mrs. R. L. Martin, and a discourse of current novelists, by Mrs. J. H. McGaughey.

For refreshments, a salad course was served. Guests of the club were Mrs. B. A. Elliott and Mrs. A. J. Taylor.

Fourteen members of the BYPU, Baptist young peoples organization of Moran, attended a skating party at Lake Cisco Amusement company's roller rink Tuesday evening. Though members of the group later complained of considerable stiffness of the joints, as the old weekley's would tritely have it, "a good time was had by all."

The Moran Luncheon club has lived through another meeting, this as usual, was at the noon hour, Wednesday, and in the basement of the First Methodist church, 25 revelers being present.

The days program featured a pseudo humorous talk by "Country Boy" Evans, teacher, who admittedly favors hill billie music to that of popular or classic vein. Evans also rendered a piano medley. He failed to announce titles of numbers played, possibly some crude attempt at humor, since not even members of the day's program committee could enlighten the group as to titles of Evan's numbers. Perhaps the ear-playing ivory tickler intended his audience to recognize his renditions.

Guests of the club were Luther Todd, of Albany, road commissioner for Precinct No. 1, and Homer T. Bouldin, of Albany.

C. J. Watson, superintendent of schools, announced the forthcoming football game between the teams of Moran and Caddo here on Friday.

As a result of a petition circulated by Garland Shelton, representing the Moran Luncheon club, Wednesday, business houses of Moran will close their doors during the playing of the football game with Caddo here at 3:30 Friday.

The barber shop group mourns the loss of "Skeet" Horton, barber, member of its group, who will go to Abilene where he is employed by drilling contractors as tool dresser with a shallow rig.

Homing Pigeon Knows Way

TRAINING

Pigeon fanciers start early to coach the birds for racing by sending them on short flights to their home loft.

HE'S A MARKED BIRD

Just before the bird is sent to the starting point of the race, its leg is banded with a counter-marker bearing its race number and a hidden one. This machine snaps on the rubber band.

Trick Is to Make Him Get There Faster

By AURELIUS KINSEY
AP Feature Service Writer
CHICAGO, Sept. 24. (P)—You don't have to show a homing pigeon the way to go home, but it takes lots of patience to get him there fast.

Fanciers who train pigeons for the racing season, in full swing in late summer and early fall, must understand how to breed speed, endurance and stability into his birds. He must spend hours with them, gaining their confidence and affection. And he must be somewhat of a psychologist—able to speed a jealous racing male toward the rival imprisoned in the home loft, or the mother to her young.

A typical homing pigeon course requires preparations days in advance. The course is surveyed by an engineer to determine the airline distance from the starting point to each home loft. Two nights before the race, fanciers take their special tape timing clocks to headquarters where officials synchronize them with a master clock to record the day, hour, minute and second each bird returns to its loft.

On the night before a race, fanciers take hundreds of pigeons

TIMED AT HOME

When the pigeon comes through the hinged bars, background, the fancier removes the counter-marker and puts it into a timer. A turn of the crank records on a tape the exact arrival time.

to headquarters. There the birds are registered and rubber counter-marks are snapped around their legs.

Each bird bears three identification numbers. His life-long number is on a seamless aluminum leg band. His racing number is on the outside of the counter-marker, within the folds of which is a third, secretly recorded, number.

The banded birds are placed in panniers, or willow shipping baskets, which are taken in special railroad cars to the starting point. Here the panniers are stacked in a row, five and six high. Everything is ready. The concourse racing secretary watches the time and gives the signal, "Go." The doors fly open and the race is on.

Home headquarters are notified by telegraph of the starting time and weather conditions. This information is telephoned to the participating fancier. He studies wind and weather and calculates the hour and minute the first of his entries should dive for the home loft. He waits in his yard, scanning the skies. He sees a speck far above the housetops and dashes into the loft with his timing clock.

A bird's speed is calculated in yards per minute, a mathematical task for headquarters officials when they open the fancier's clock.

They're Eager for Action
Pigeon racing is called a gentleman's sport because its followers—there are 30,000 in the United States—race their birds for diplomas rather than high cash awards. They may place side bets and win a few dollars, but they consider it lucky if they break even with expenses of about $3 a year per bird.

The average loft contains 50 pigeons which have been bred or bought at prices ranging from $5 to $10 apiece. The largest known privately owned loft has 700 birds and the highest recorded price paid for one pigeon, a consistent champion, is $1,100.

"Racing pigeons are as keen as race horses," says W. R. Fancher, secretary of the Greater Chicago Concours, American Racing Pigeon Union.

"If you look into the panniers just before they are opened you will find the birds all squiver and crowding one another for advantage points in front of the wicker gate. Each pigeon tries for a front row position from which to spring into action at the signal 'Go.'"

Verdict on the Avoca pool's first outpost test to near the Canyon line pay zone, the Murray and Harrison No. 1 Little & Aiken, is held up by a fishing job, the test bottomed at 3,950 feet.

Three quarters of a mile east of the Avoca discovery well, the outpost was reported running lower structurally and has been closely watched by area operators because of its bearing on the field's trend.

Location is 330 feet from the north and west lines of the north half of the southwest quarter of section 172-2-H&TC survey.

Storage Shortage
Delay in completion of the pool's fourth producer, Iron Mountain and Humble No. 1 Jones & Stasney, was reported because of storage shortage. The test, estimated at about 7,000 barrels natural, will take railroad commission gauge this week-end. It is a north offset to the discovery well.

North of the pool, the Fairme-Gaha No. 1 Olson, in section 190-BBB&C survey, was also fishing at a depth of 1,315 feet.

Ungren & Frazier and Jones & Stasney No. 1 Eckdahl, in section 188-BBB&C survey, was drilling ahead past 1,745 feet.

Shaheen & Owen No. 1 Jensen, in section 198-BBB&C, has resumed drilling past 1,276 feet after setting 10-inch casing to 1,235 feet.

Ungren & Frazier, West and Honea No. 1 Southard, in section 202, had resumed drilling after lowering 10-inch to 1,635 feet.

Administrator Declines to Cancel

EASTLAND, Sept. 24 (Sp)—Bert Ford, Austin administrator of the Texas Liquor Control board, this week refused at a hearing called by the attorney general's department to cancel beer licenses of three dealers in justice of peace precinct 7 embracing Rising Star.

Milton Lawrence, attorney for the beer dealers, stated Thursday that the administrator refused to cancel the licenses because of cases to be appealed from 88th district court which leaves uncertain the status of the political subdivision.

Previous to the hearing 88th district court made permanent injunctions restraining operation of the beer dealers, holding the political subdivision dry.

Appeal bond was made by the dealers through Lawrence and the cases are to be taken to the eleven-court of civil appeals, according to the attorney.

"I have been feeding preachers for a long time," remarked Judge Adamson, "and this is an opportunity to be fed at their expense that I am glad to take advantage of." Seriously speaking, he continued, such occasions of cooperation between officers and ministers came to his notice so rarely that he desired to praise highly the splendid effort it represented.

ETIQUETTE It's Mother's Job to Give Papers Wedding Data

By JOHN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

Preparing announcements of engagements and weddings for the local newspapers is one of the duties that devolves on the girl's mother. She should get in touch with the society editor herself or make sure that some member of the family does.

Many newspapers will not accept wedding or engagement announcements unless they are in writing. But even if the information is to be given verbally it's a good idea to write it all down first and check it meticulously.

Watch the Names
Correct spelling of names and accuracy in all facts are vital.

Information required by most society editors is included in the following list. If the marriage is to follow soon after the engagement is announced, the editor may use all the information at once. If some time is to elapse between the two events, however, the editor may hold out some of the information for use at the time of the wedding.

Here are the main points:
Full name of the girl.
Full name of the man.
Name and address (street number, city and state) of parents of both.
Date, time and place of wedding.
Will there be a reception?
Where?
Name and title of officiating clergyman and his church.
Where girl attended school, list of her clubs.
Business affiliation of girl—if she has one.
Where man attended school, list of his clubs.
Business affiliation of man.

Consider Your Ancestors
If either or both have interesting ancestral backgrounds—information about those. (Don't feel hurt if they are left out, however.)

Names of attendants: maid or matron of honor, bridesmaids, flower girl, best man, ushers. Where each is from and, in the case of the flower girl, name and address of parents.

What the bride and each of women attendants will wear.
Where wedding trip will be.
Where couple will live.

If, for any reason, the bride's mother wants any of the information held until the day after the wedding she should make that plain to the society editor. Otherwise the letter is free to use her own judgment.

Pictures should only be sent if they are requested. If you want them returned, make that clear in a note to the editor.

Newlyweds Pay Bills
When Town Dances

ST. MARY'S Ia., Sept. 24. (AP)—No one gets married and settles in this little German-Irish community without treating the whole town to a wedding dance.

A general telephone call on all lines leading out from town summons the neighbors to a dance at the town hall in the evening of the wedding day.

If such an invitation has not been broadcast within two weeks after the marriage, the townspeople gather for a charity—and this always brings the desired results.

Though Manhattan Island contains the tallest structures in the world, its highest natural elevation is only 267 feet.

The phrase "almighty dollar" was coined by Washington Irving.

Let Your Hat Govern Your Coiffure This Fall

DAYTIME CURLS

Here's a charming coiffure for daytimes. No hat will harm that big flat curl, which accentuates an even profile. Loose curls, brushed softly at the back of the neck, are easy to keep neat.

EVENING SWIRLS

There still are curls at the back of the neck, here, but the added ones on the crown give an impression of height to the wearer. A pleasant evening style which, in working hours, may be combed down in loose waves.

A TWO IN...

This daytime long bob can be transformed into an impressive evening coiffure by a few strokes of the hairbrush. Daytimes, the loose curls are arranged on top of the head, the ends made into a long roll.

ONE COIFFURE

In the evening, simply brush the long roll upward and you'll have this new headdress to match your Victorian gown. The high-piled curls are a new note in fall hair styles, inspired by 19th century motifs.

CREATED AT HOME

This style, particularly easy to create at home, is good with hats that perch far back. The top roll softens the line at the hat's edge, the two other rolls are low enough to frame the back of the head.

Miss Olson Bride in Ceremony at Mineral Wells

The wedding of Miss Bess Olson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Olson, and Mr. David E. Franklin took place at high noon Thursday at the Presbyterian church in Mineral Wells.

Dr. C. L. Alfather of Weatherford, read the ring ceremony before an altar of ferns with tall baskets of gold chrysanthemums interspersed with fern at each side, emphasizing the bridal theme of gold and green.

Mrs. W. C. West, organist, played the processional and recessional and during the ceremony she played softly "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a green velvet suit with gold blouse, brown accessories and carried a bouquet of tall stems roses and fern. Mr. Alton Nance, of Houston served Mr. Franklin as best man.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Olson entertained members of the wedding party and guests at luncheon in the Blue Room of the Baker hotel. The table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in gold and green, on the top of which stood a miniature bride and groom. Tall white tapers were placed on either side of the cake and the entire centerpiece was surrounded by tall stems roses and fern.
