Prolonged Jam on Lynching Bill Faced

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Eastland school board has voted to discontinue the game of football at the Eastland school unless the people of Eastland patronize the game better. The board expects that it cannot continue to play the game of the school's resources and that it can be carried on only if it pays its expenses at the same rate as other schools in the state.

A number of years ago in Eastland county towns were not being paid for from the standpoint of game and severe strain has been placed upon the schools. The communities to maintain teams suitably equipped to compete with other schools. Fan interest has declined because these schools have not been able to make the things they once did.

It was shown today, for instance, photographs of games between the Cisco Lobos and Abilene in the stands were literally packed to capacity and standing water was at a premium. Those were the good old days and it makes us rather sad to contemplate them.

Eastland, like numbers of her sister towns, is suffering from the inevitable effects of a depression in high school football. When teams don't win, people simply will not take the trouble to support them. They have to struggle along with a hope and a prayer, and with the dubious benefits of the drug store criticism that is always as free as creek water. The fact of the matter is that good material and good coaching ability are only about half of the reasons for the success of a football team. The other half is community support. When that is lacking there is no incentive for playing and the effect upon the team is either of depression or carelessness which all the pleadings of coaches cannot overcome.

That is what makes it so difficult for a school in which football has slumped badly, to make a comeback in this sport. I hope that Eastland can revive the lost interest. The rivalry that has existed between the Eastland county schools has been one of the prime factors in making football the appealing and popular community institution that it has been in the past.

WON'T AFFECT ENACTMENT OF FARM MEASURE

Other Proposals of President May Be Hampered

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14 (AP)—Administration strategists, seeking swift approval of a five-point program at the special session of congress, faced the possibility today of a prolonged jam over an anti-lynching bill. The senate last August agreed to make the anti-lynching measure a special order of business immediately after farm legislation next session. Leaders expressed the belief that the agreement would not endanger the wage-hour or farm legislation, but would throw a serious obstacle in the way of the president's other proposals.

Rotary Hears Piano Numbers, Sees Twirling

Two piano numbers by Miss Martha Jo Pass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Pass and pianist for the Lions club, and a demonstration in baton twirling by Glen Boyd and Glen Bailey, drum majors for the Lobo band, formed the program for the luncheon of the Rotary club today noon. The two boys were presented by Bandmaster R. L. Maddox who explained the technique of the difficult baton manipulations which add color and interest to the marching of the Lobo band on the field, and explained, also, some of the "tricks" used to improve the appearance of the various methods of twirling.

Seniors Climax Freshmen Torment

High school pupils other than the freshmen were provided with entertainment this morning which brought uproarious laughter from the spectators. This laughter was directed at the downtrodden Freshmen who have been at the mercy of the high and mighty Seniors from the past two weeks.

This morning the Freshmen boys were forced to appear at their classes carrying dolls in their arms and they were compelled to take care of their charges to the best of their ability. The girls had to forego their usual dignity and ride the bare-back of a stick and horse to school. This was the crowning achievement of the Seniors in the way of torment that they have chosen to place upon the freshmen and several of the Fish were wont to disobey these laws set down by their superiors.

The seniors have issued a warning, however, that anyone caught disobeying or even thinking that he might some day be on the equal of the seniors would be brought before the bar of justice at the Kangaroo court to be held Friday. They also said that this court would be very harsh in its punishment, but might give justice in some minor cases.

Flea Hunters Fight 'Black Death'

1. The cloud of dust marks the spot where a prairie dog sat—a suspected carrier of plague-bearing fleas. The hunter is a trooper in the U. S. public health service's anti-plague force operating in 11 western states.

Determined Band of Lobos Going to San Angelo

Only one day remains until the Lobos will take the field against the boys from Concho county. The game will be played on the Bobcat home field which is always of some advantage to a team, and San Angelo will have a decided advantage in weight and reserve strength. But this fact is not worrying the Lobos and they are determined to give all they have toward taking a win away with them and not stopping to consider their disadvantages but playing up their own good points.

The game will be played on "Cecetry" field which sounds like a bad omen for someone. This field received its peculiar name from the fact that it was built on the site of an abandoned cemetery. During the construction of the field several skeletons were unearthed. This angle of the game is always played up when a rival team is due to play the Bobcats on their own grid.

The weather man says that the Lobos will have a dry field on which to stage the conflict, or a partly dry one, for even though it doesn't rain between now and game time there is still the probability that the field won't be in an ideal condition. A dry grid will be a decided help in the favor of the Lobos because a dry field would enable them to unleash a passing and running attack that would be impossible on a wet field.

Despite last Friday's defeat at the hands of the Big Spring Steers the Lobos this week will have a greater amount of reserves to choose from than was the case last week and the coaches report that new boys are coming out every day and that the team is showing more interest than ever. Chesley Tipton is sure to be in.

House Tackles Controversial Drink Sale Issue

AUSTIN, Oct. 14. (AP)—Speaker Robert Calvert today permitted the house to tackle the controversial liquor sale by drink. The decision overruled the objections of lawmakers who urged him to sustain their request not to allow consideration because the bill would reestablish the "open saloon" and had not been submitted by the governor.

Miss Mabel Burke has returned from a week-end visit in Dallas.

BOMBARDMENT OF SHANGHAI WORST TODAY

International Settlement Raked; U. S. Marine Wounded

SHANGHAI, Oct. 14 (AP)—The worst bombardment of Shanghai's bloody warfare raked the International settlement today, killing and wounding scores of Chinese civilians and wounding an American marine. Marines were forced to evacuate the cotton mills inside their defense lines. Milton Hiatt of Florida was wounded in the shoulder.

A sailor, J. P. McMichael of Indiana, aboard the American flagship Augusta was slightly wounded by shrapnel. Troops battled in renewed fury for the control of the approaches to Shanghai.

Pittard's Pointer Dog Has Disappeared

Before leaving for his visit to Tennessee recently K. H. Pittard left his lemon and white pointer dog with a friend to care for it until his return. However, before this friend could take possession of the pointer it had disappeared, and its whereabouts are unknown.

A 20-foot chain was attached to the dog, and it is feared it has strayed off and has become entangled, as another dog that disappeared with Pittard's pointer returned without the pointer. Should anyone find the pointer, or hear a dog howling, they are requested to investigate, and notify A. S. Nabors.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Farr have returned to Mineral Wells.

Cong. Garrett Talks With Friends Here

Cong. Clyde L. Garrett, here yesterday to attend funeral services for J. A. Bearman, discussed the national legislative situation with friends here for an hour yesterday afternoon.

The congressman, looking fit and in excellent health, is being pressed for time to re-establish close contacts with his constituency over the 17th district before returning to Washington for the special session which convenes on November 15. Most of his time, since returning from the long winter and summer regular session has been occupied with a suit in an Abilene district court brought by former Cong. Thomas L. Blanton, whom he defeated in the last election, while duties in connection with his membership on the veterans hospital committee of the house will require several days of the period he has left. He left today for Waco, El Paso and Albuquerque, N. M., to inspect government hospitals there, a duty assigned him by the committee chairman.

Returning, he plans to quick swing over the district to meet as many of his constituents as possible and obtain first hand knowledge.

Woman's Slayer Believes Himself to Be Justified

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 14. (AP)—Rev. Miller Johnson, forty-seven, interdenominational preacher, who Captain Austin Price and Detective Joe Harrison said signed a confession relating to the killing of the estranged wife of an automobile salesman, was quoted by officers today as saying "I believe the Lord will forgive me."

Officers said Johnson believed himself justified "because of unwritten law." They said the preacher admitted shooting Mrs. Willie Johnson, 42, and William Rue, 27, because "I had seen him with his arm around her."

2.5 INCHES OF RAIN GAUGED DURING WEEK

Scattered Showers For Today and Friday Predicted

The mercury, early this morning, hit a new low for the week as the temperature hung around the 48 degree mark and remained there from around 1 o'clock until shortly after 3 this morning. The mercury began to climb a little after this, however, and by 10 this morning the thermometer was back up around the 60 degree mark. The cold spell descended just before midnight after a slight drizzle had ceased.

Light clouds covered the sky this morning but showed no sign of turning into rain. The weather man predicted scattered showers today and Friday for this vicinity making it appear that winter was here to stay. The total rainfall for the week so far has been two and five-tenths inches as shown on the city hall gauge.

Pair Part in Court
 Oct. 14. (AP)—A legless and a legless defendant Paris police courts as war veteran, had been his new tricycle when he stopped at a cafe and had the waiter carry him in for a drink. When the waiter carried him out again, his tricycle was gone. Police found the tricycle being operated by nother legless man. In court the second man told this story: "I was propelling myself down the street on a wheeled sled when I saw the empty car. "What would you have done?"

You know what it means to have no legs. I was tired and nobody was using your car. I borrowed it." The plaintiff withdrew his charges and the two left court in the arms of two policemen after the owner of the tricycle had agreed to lend his car to the other when he was not using it.

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

Chapter 38
Three Shadows
 Neill thought back over his conversation with Miss Rayner as far as he could remember it. Who had introduced Fanning to Miss Rayner? Her estate agent, Barney. Neill had never given a second thought to Barney, because Miss Rayner had made it clear that Barney was not implicated in the plot. However, Barney might be the cat's-pak. Miss Rayner had spoken of him a little slightly, suggesting that Barney was one whom she "didn't tell anything to."

Thick lenses arose to meet him. That was all that Neill wanted. He immediately backed out muttering something about making a mistake. It was Googly to the life!

Losing Two Trailers
 Thereafter for several hours Neill, according to the methods he had learned in the department, went about town picking up little scraps of information about Edward Barney, and piecing them together.

It was worth looking into, and Neill got busy. Barney might be implicated, and anyhow the murder and the tragedy that had followed on it that day would make him cautious. Neill resolved to find out something about the man before going to him. But first he wanted to have a look at him. He got his office address out of the telephone book.

Barney, it appeared, led an exemplary life. Lived with his wife and two children in a neat little house on the edge of Roland park. Mrs. Barney wore the trousers, it was said, and, she being an ardent prohibitionist, Barney was forced to indulge his taste for an occasional glass away from home.

Neill expected to be followed when he left the hotel and so he was. Instead of taking a taxi, he walked through the streets in order to get a line on his trailers. Neill was an experienced trailer himself, and also adept in fooling trailers. At first he could only spot two of them, one on each side of the street behind. From their appearance he judged them to be Baltimore city detectives. They didn't look very bright.

Neill led his trailers back and forth around town, out to Roland park and back again. As yet he had no object in trying to snake them. He wanted his movements reported to Bonniger. When he went into Miller's for his supper they sat at other tables in the place. The two detectives were entirely unaware of the peroxidized young man, but he was on to them.

After supper Neill entered the Belvedere hotel. One detective followed him in, the other remaining outside. The blond young man was not visible at the moment. Neill evaded the detective by making a quick turn through the corridors and coming back to other opening into the lobby, watching, partly concealed, to see what the man would do. The detective was standing in the lobby looking around for Neill. He started towards the doorway where Neill was concealed. At that moment the blond young man came in from the street. He overtook the detective and Neill heard him ask:

"Say, are you trailing a tall young man in a gray suit?"
 The detective answered: "What is it to you?"
 "Nothing at all, only I was coming up Charles street just now and I saw you following him."
 "Well, what about it?"
 "I just wanted to tell you that I saw him come out of the barber shop entrance on Charles street a minute ago. He hopped a taxi. Here's the number for you."
 "Much obliged," said the detective, hastily. Neill, looking out, saw him beat it out of the door. He picked up his partner outside, and they made off quickly. From inside the door the blond young man was watching them with a grin. Neill thought: Well, I'll be damned! . . . What's his game?

SACRIFICE
MODERN BUNGALOW
 On paved street, for sale for less than the paving cost. Must sell in next few days.

It was a long way from the Belvedere hotel. Neill took a taxi, and the blond young man another. Falls road proved to be a miscellaneous sort of street leading to aristocratic Roland park. It was lined by small stores, little frame houses occupied by colored washerwomen, and so on. Heinrich's was a neat, new saloon with mahogany panels in the show window and neon beer signs. No view of the interior could be had from the street.

 Neill went in. The blond young man didn't follow him in, but when the swing shutter opened, Neill could see him hovering outside, trying to get a look in. The place was moderately well filled. Neill could hear that the conversation was all about the Fanning case, and the death of Miss Rayner. He did not attempt to join the general group, but waited at the far end of the bar to be served.

A Real Clue, at Last
 Heinrich was the typical German beer-seller enveloped in a vast white apron. Neill said to him:
 "Terrible thing about the death of the old lady today."
 "You said it, mister."
 "Fellow downtown told me that it was Edward Barney who first introduced Prescott Fanning to Miss Rayner."
 "No!" exclaimed Heinrich. "Why Mr. Barney is a good customer of mine."

"Is that so?" Neill made believe. "Is he here now?"
 "No, he drops in afternoons around 5:30."
 "Well, don't say anything about it. Maybe there is nothing in it."
 "You're right."
 "But it would be a funny note, wouldn't it, if Barney and Fanning met right here?"
 "Prescott Fanning's never been in here, mister. I've seen his photograph and heard him described. He's a man you wouldn't mistake."
 "Maybe Barney met some friend of Fanning's here—a go-between, sort of?"
 "Mr. Barney has his own friends here every day. I can't recollect him talking to a stranger. I don't get many strangers way out here."
 "Think back. It would be quite a stunt if you and me could turn up something new in this big case. Have a beer with me."
 Heinrich drew a beer and sipped it thoughtfully. He was attracted by the suggestion of publicity for himself, and lowered his voice confidentially. "I do mind a stranger meeting up with Mr. Barney in here," said he slowly. "Maybe he was in a couple of times."
 "Did he pick up Barney here the first time?" asked Neill eagerly.
 "No, you could see Mr. Barney knew him before."
 "What like man?"
 Heinrich shook his head heavily. "I can't remember."
 "Was he a big fellow?"
 "No."
 "A little fellow?"
 "Just medium like."
 "Was he a young man?"
 "No. He wasn't old neither. Just average age."
 "How was he dressed?"
 "I didn't notice special. Just like anybody else."
 Neill, discouraged, tried another line. "What did they drink?"
 Heinrich's eyes brightened immediately. "I can remember that mister. Mr. Barney, he had his beer as usual, but the stranger he ordered a drink that was new to me. A rum Collins he called it. Made just like an ordinary Collins, but with rum instead of gin. It's a good drink. I have offered it to some of my other customers and they like it."
 "Now we're getting somewhere," said Neill. "There must have been some talk about this new drink. Can you repeat it?"
 "Sure. The stranger tells me how to mix it. He mentions that he had a client who was a banana importer, and he was able to get in rum on his ships."
 Here was a real clue at last. "Good!" said Neill. He grinned and drank off his beer. Beer had never tasted better to him.

It was all Heinrich could tell him. "Don't say anything about this," Neill warned him "I'll be seeing you soon." He paid his shot and left the place.

1-House Lawmaking Body League Topic

AUSTIN, Oct. 14. (Sp)—Periodically the question arises of making the Texas legislature a unicameral body. This year the topic will be debated by hundreds of schoolboy and schoolgirl orators over the state as it forms the 1937-38 subject for the Texas Interscholastic league debate tournament. A bulletin entitled "Texas Legislature: One House or Two" has been prepared by Dr. Joe M. Ray, former instructor in government at the University of Texas, and has been published by the university bureau of public school interests, which is the state executive office for the league. This bulletin contains both affirmative and negative briefs on the subject, and reading material on both sides, including statements from members of the Texas legislature, articles by authorities on government, and newspaper and magazine editorials.

Drastic Cut in Pensions Is Seen

AUSTIN, Oct. 14. (Sp)—Discontinuation of old age assistance after October, or a prororation resulting in a sharp reduction in grants, was forecast this week by the Texas board of control in an official communication addressed to State Representative Harry N. Graves.

The official statement indicated the possibility that payments to the needy aged might not be made in November, December, January and, probably, in February. Cause of the crisis, as explained by the members of the board of control, which is the Old Age Assistance commission, is that all, or nearly all, of the present available state assistance funds will have to be used to take care of $1,627,000 owed a Dallas bank and due not later than January 1.

Further, it was pointed out, the income from present state sources is $100,000 less each month than Texas funds paid to the needy aged, which necessitates a drastic reduction in the size of the average grant. Grants average about $14 per month.

Harvey Heads Jaycees Here For Next Term

The semi-annual election of officers for the junior chamber of commerce was held Monday night at the senior chamber of commerce building at 7:30. Most of the members of the organization were there to take part in the election. A nominating committee composed of A. D. Starling, D. C. Harper, and James McCracken presented the names of the candidates from which the officers were to be chosen.

The following officers were elected: James Harvey, president; H. D. Carmichael, first vice president; O. L. Stamey, second vice president; Horace Condley, secretary; and James McCracken, treasurer. The directors that were chosen were as follows: H. Ferguson, W. Moore, Carlton Holder, G. M. Grasty, A. D. Starling, A. G. Tuttle, T. G. Caudle, "Ace" Lucas, and Dr. Hubert Saele.

A supper was voted on to be held at the next regular meeting which is to take place on the second Monday in November. The following committee was selected to plan the supper and make other arrangements: H. L. Pyle, chairman, and A. D. Starling, O. L. Stamey, and Horace Condley. A committee was also selected to report on the cost of the supper and to consider the cost and possibility of erecting a scoreboard at the new Lobo football field. This committee includes T. G. Caudle, chairman, and Carlton Holder, H. D. Carmichael and "Ace" Lucas.

Former President Edward Lee was out of town and could not give his scheduled report on the state convention held at Wichita Falls. His place was filled by T. G. Caudle who presided over the meeting. Plans for the membership drive were also discussed but nothing definite was planned.

Long Illness Is Fatal Tuesday

J. A. BEARMAN

Funeral Service Held Wednesday for J. A. Bearman

Funeral services for J. A. Bearman, Cisco oil operator and civic leader who died early Tuesday morning after a lengthy illness, were held from the First Presbyterian church Wednesday afternoon at 3:30. The service followed the Episcopal ritual, with the Rev. M. H. Applegate, pastor of the church, officiating.

The local Masonic lodge had charge of the services at graveside. Preparations for burial were in the hands of the Green Funeral home.

Mr. Bearman, who was born at Mullins, S. C., on April 17, 1879, and who came to Cisco from Oklahoma in 1926, died quietly in his sleep. He had been long ill of arterial trouble.

Survivors include his wife, the former Miss Alice Talbot whom he married June 3, 1906, at Broken Arrow, Okla., and two children, R. A. Bearman and Miss Agnes Bearman. Two grandchildren, Alice Jo Anne and Margaret Elizabeth, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bearman, also survive.

Mr. Bearman's residence in Cisco was distinguished by notable contributions to community activities and development. He was a past president of the Lions club, former director of the chamber of commerce and served as exalted ruler of the Cisco Elks lodge.

Pall bearers were Alex Spears, Charles Kleiner, R. L. Ponsler, W. J. Leach, E. L. Smith, A. D. Anderson, Harry Reynolds and E. L. Graham.

Out of town friends here to attend the funeral were:

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hovis of Tulsa, Okla., Mrs. Lynn Abbott and Mrs. E. J. Anderson of Durant, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hailoran, San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Farr of Mineral Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Bryant, Cross Plains, Mrs. E. M. Howard, Mrs. Bertha Maynard, Rising Star, Wesley Harrell, San Antonio, J. N. Caton, Talcot, Art Newcomb, Allen Newcomb, Doyle Morrow and Virgil Clayton, Fort Griffin.

Mr. Bearman was a 32 degree Mason, being a member of the Tulsa Blue Lodge No. 71, the Indian consistory at McAlester, Okla., and Adlar temple of the Shrine at Tulsa. He was a member of the B. P. O. Elks at Cisco, the Cisco Lions club and served several terms on the board of directors of the Cisco chamber of commerce.

Ill Two Years
Mr. Bearman's illness began about two years ago when he suffered a severe attack of arterial trouble. He retired from active participation in business and community affairs and devoted himself to a strict regimen of living in an effort to regain his health.

Improvement occurred and about a year ago he again undertook plans for assembling a block of acreage and drilling a townsite well in Cisco, his last important project. Shortly before the well was started he suffered an attack of influenza and a serious set-back in his condition occurred. Returning from a sea voyage which he made in an effort to improve his condition, he again busied himself with the drilling of the well.

During the summer, following completion of the project, he suffered recurring attacks of illness, at times showing hopeful improvement. Last Wednesday, however, he became ill, following a trip to Fort Worth, and since that time had been confined to his apartment.

NEW CONGRESS SESSION WILL BEGIN NOV. 15

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14. (AP)—Agriculture department officials Wednesday compared President Roosevelt's outline of "an all-weather" farm program to the "ever normal granary" advocated by Secretary Wallace.

They said that price-depressing bumper crops and high food costs in the cities had doubled the emphasis on demands for its immediate enactment.

General farm legislation will have priority in the forthcoming special session of congress on November 15 under an agreement whereby Roosevelt approved cotton loans and congressmen pledged to consider crop control at their first meeting.

PRESIDENT OUTLINES PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. (AP)—President Roosevelt, after calling a special session of congress for November 15, outlined with pointed emphasis Tuesday night a legislative program designed to help agriculture, industry and labor produce "a balanced abundance without waste."

While the current year has, generally speaking, been economically good, he told the nation in his tenth "fireside chat," there are many groups which "still have less purchasing power and a lower standard of living than the nation as a whole can permanently allow."

The president called for:

1. Crop control legislation to stabilize farm income and the nation's food supply.

2. Wage and hour legislation to increase the income of lowpaid employes and, he said, thereby increase production of the things they would buy.

3. Land use legislation, spreading the TVA idea to other sections, and providing new expanses of fertile soil to which families in the dust bowl and other poorly productive sections may move.

4. Anti-trust legislation "to end monopoly—not to hurt but to free legitimate business."

5. Government reorganization to make the processes of democracy "work more efficiently."

Mr. Roosevelt spoke from the oval room of the White House after announcing the calling of a special session of congress at a two-minute press conference late in the afternoon.

The president spoke more rapidly than has been his custom but he added emphasis to his words with sharp accents and occasional pauses.

He did not include in his program for the special session his supreme court reorganization bill which was shelved by the senate at the last session.

"I shall ask this special session to consider immediately," the president said, "certain important legislation which my recent trip through the nation convinces me the American people immediately need."

"This does not mean that other legislation, to which I am not referring tonight, is not important for our national well-being. But, other legislation can be more rapidly discussed at the regular session."

Congress will convene in special session November 15 instead of waiting until the regular session in January.

In his radio speech tonight he declared those who oppose calling congress into session are opponents of letting democracy operate, and repeated previous assurances that the administration is concerned not with abolishing property but with increasing the number of property owners.

And, in addition, he referred again to foreign affairs, with a statement that America must "actively" seek peace, and that she is doing so by participating in the forthcoming international conference on the situation resulting from Japan's undeclared war in China.

"The kind of prosperity we want," he said, "is the sound and permanent kind, which is not built up temporarily at the expense of any section or any group. And the kind of peace we want is the sound and permanent kind, which is built on the cooperative search for peace by all the nations which want peace."

Dies Monday

OGDEN L. MILLS

Ogden L. Mills, Former Treasury Secretary, Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (AP)—Ogden L. Mills, 53, former secretary of treasury, died here Monday after a two week's illness which his associates said was seemingly trivial at first.

Although Ogden Livingston Mills was "born with a gold spoon in his mouth" and had little inducement except the traditions of ancestors to carve out a career, his life was well-rounded.

An able financier, skilled ward politician, a pleasant and graceful socialite, a leading tax expert, a promulgator of social welfare legislation, a successful corporation counsel, a soldier of considerable distinction, a congressman and cabinet officer—these were some of the things Mills succeeded in being for no better reason son than that he wanted to be them. Mills worked on the average of ten hours a day, he told friends, and although he was director of many large corporations, an officer or trustee of numerous charities and an outstanding figure in the republican party, he always had time to chat with friends or laugh heartily at a witticism.

November Time for Planting of Rose Gardens

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles on planting and care of shrubbery by J. F. B. Wright, 306 West Eighth street.)

If you expect to plant a rose garden now is the time to prepare your ground. Dig deeply and thoroughly pulverize the soil, and, if needed (and most always it is), have some good rich soil hauled and some well-rotted manure. Mix with the soil on top of the bed, and plant your roses in November, if you can, or by the middle of December. They will take root and grow downward, and you will have earlier roses and better blooms next spring.

Feed your roses about March 1 one tablespoon full of vigo to the hill or plant, but be careful not to get it on the stems or leaves. Make a little circle or furrow with your finger around the plant, about six inches from the stem, put the vigo in the little circle furrow, then take a stick or your finger, and mix the soil with the vigo, after which water it down. Repeat this about every 30 days, and you will be surprised at the results. I suppose most any of the other fertilizers will do as well as vigo. I have used more vigo than any other.

Now in planting flowering shrubs about the house there are sizes for all places. The dwarf plants should be planted under the windows, close up or in places where you wish to have small plants, and the tall varieties, such as crepe myrtle, althea, lilac, pomegranate, red bud and other tall varieties, should be planted in the yard so they can develop and make beautiful tree-like shrubs. The small varieties, such as snow ball, hydrangia, and lots of others, can be planted in those places where you don't want taller plants. Remember to plant them deep in the ground, but not too deeply. Most people don't plant them deep enough. Always cut them back and leave a basin around them so you can water and take care of them. I have a catalogue of roses at 25c, each plant post paid. If you want to plant a rose garden, and nothing is more beautiful than two or three dozen roses of all colors in a bed, I'll be glad to help you any way. Feel free to call on me.

Suit to Void Wine, Beer Vote Is Dismissed

EASTLAND, Oct. 14. (Spl.)—The eleventh court of civil appeals dismissed Friday the 19-month-old suit of Joe J. Mickle and others against Clyde L. Garrett, county judge last year, which had been appealed from the invalidation of a beer and wine election.

O. C. Funderburk, associate justice, stated in the opinion. "There is no statute so far as we know authorizing this suit by appellants (Mickle and others) and by their pleadings they show no right to sue."

Joe J. Mickle, O. O. Mickle, J. Mayes, P. L. Parker, purportedly for "themselves and more than 250 qualified voters of Eastland county, Texas" brought the suit to have adjudged null and void and election April 18, 1936, on legalizing the sale of vinous and malt liquors that do not contain in excess of 14 per cent alcohol by volume and to enjoin first temporarily, then permanently the then county judge, Garrett, from hearing or granting applications for licenses or permits.

George L. Davenport, judge of 91st district court, April 27, 1936 granted a temporary restraining order but provided the writ should require the defendant to appear in court April 30 to show cause why it should not be perpetuated and why he should not be restrained to hear applications for beer permits or licenses.

Garrett was named defendant because of his official office. On the date set by the court the restraining order was vacated and relief asked for the voiding of the election denied. From that judgment Mickle and the others appealed.

After the record of the case was filed in the appellate court a motion to advance was denied as shown by a memorandum per curiam opinion as follows: "It appears from the motion and the record that the same is an appeal from a judgment refusing a permanent injunction after trial on the merits and is therefore not subject to advancement."

The opinion of Associate Justice Funderburk stated in part: "There is one insuperable barrier to our passing upon the merits of the appeal. The record affirmatively discloses that the appellants have no cause of action. According to the allegations of their petition, appellants have no justifiable interest in the status of Eastland county as wet or dry, as their question may be affected by the validity or invalidity of said election."

"x x x as individuals who show no more injury or damage from the existence of the political status apparently created by the declaration of the result of the election than such as results to him in common with all other persons and citizens has no right to maintain a suit challenging such political status on the ground of the invalidity of the election unless specially authorized so to do by a valid statute x x x."

The supreme court was cited: "Whatever may be the rule in other jurisdictions there can be no doubt in Texas that an action relating to elections or other matters of law enforcement, not involving questions of taxation or unlawful expenditure of public funds, cannot be maintained by a realtor of plaintiff whose interest is only that of the public generally, in the absence of a valid status authorizing the suit."

Plants played an important part in the lives of the early people of the territory now comprised in Zion National Park, Utah. Game animals were killed for meat but scientific evidence indicates plant food was the chief diet of the prehistoric inhabitants.

FRIGIDAIRE WITH THE METER-MISER

Safeguards your food while saving money!

- During the "cool" days of fall and winter thousands rely on inadequate refrigeration that cannot constantly protect their food.
- They little realize their danger. Food must be kept within a narrow range of temperatures—between 32 and 50 degrees Fahrenheit—all the time. Nature does not maintain these temperatures constantly, even in winter. Neither do old-fashioned refrigeration methods.
- Ill-health and money wasted can be the price you pay for improper refrigeration. Don't gamble with food protection. It is folly to take chances. Especially when there is no valid reason for doing so.
- Right now, you can have and enjoy the constant, certain food protection of a Frigidaire with the Meter-Miser without increasing your present household expenses! For Frigidaire with the Meter-Miser pays for itself and pays a profit besides!

Two Important Conference Games To Be on Air

Two important intra-conference games headline the four football broadcasts to be put on the air by the Humble Oil & Refining company next Saturday afternoon.

Of major significance is the game between Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian university to be played in Fort Worth. The dopesters have this one figured out as one of the games upon the outcome of which the conference championship may depend. T.C.U. has a loss to the powerful Ohio State team, a tie with Arkansas, defending Southwest conference champion, and a win over the strong Tulsa University eleven on its 1937 record book; the Aggies have won two intersectional tilts, one against Manhattan in New York, the other against Mississippi State college at Tyler last week. Both teams are highly regarded as pretenders to the championship by football experts.

The Humble company will broadcast the game at 2:50 p. m. over stations of the Texas Quality Network—WBAP-WFAA, Fort Worth-Dallas; WOAL, San Antonio; KPRC, Houston—and over stations KRIS, Corpus Christi, KRGV, Weslaco, Kern Tips, one of the nation's outstanding football announcers, will be at the microphone for the play-by-play description of the game, ably assisted by Gene Wyatt on color.

Of scarcely less importance in the championship race is the game to be played at Austin between the Universities of Texas and Arkansas. It marks the longhorns' debut into 1937 conference competition, and they are due a baptism of fire at the hands of the Arkansans, smarting under a tie with T. C. U. and a loss to Baylor on successive Saturdays. The rejuvenated Steers and the determined Razorbacks will stage a battle royal, in the opinion of leading sports writers.

The Humble broadcast of the Texas-Arkansas game will begin at 2:20 p. m., with Cy Leland handling the play-by-play description of the game and Bill Hightower the color. The broadcast will be carried by stations KNOW, Austin; K TSA, San Antonio; KTAT, Fort Worth; and KXYZ, Houston.

The Rice-Tulsa game at Houston climaxes the Oil World exposition which has been running in the south Texas city all this week. Spectator and listener partisanship will be marked in this contest between elevens representing the two major oil centers, but the plain football fan will not be left out of it; the game promises to be one of the season's standouts in intersectional play in the southwest. Rice surprised some quarters with its rapid improvement between its games with Oklahoma and Louisiana State; Tulsa, though defeated by T. C. U., 20-13, last Saturday, is admittedly one of the strong teams of the country.

The game will be broadcast at 2:20 p. m. by the Humble company over station KTRH, Houston, with Gene Sagle on play-by-play and Tom Jacobs handling the color.

Another game packed with human interest is the contest between Southern Methodist and Vanderbilt universities, scheduled for the Cotton Bowl in Dallas. This game gives us father against son; teacher vs. pupil; coach pitched against the school at which he gained fame. Ray Morrison, Vanderbilt mentor, is the father of Jack Morrison, Mustang backfield ace; he was formerly head coach at S. M. U., and during that time, Matty Bell, present head wrangler of the Ponies, was his No. 1 assistant. To add piquancy, if spice be needed, Vanderbilt is Morrison's alma mater. Disregarding all this, the game is a good game of football in its own right. The Ponies began to show promise last Saturday with a win over Washington University of St. Louis, while Vanderbilt has, on successive Saturdays, turned in victories over Kentucky, Chicago and Southwestern of Memphis, Tenn.

The Humble company's broadcast of the game will begin at 2:20 p. m. over station KRLD, Dallas. Hal Thompson, assisted by Jack Mitchell for color, will be at the microphone.
