Seeks Issuance of Subpoenas for Bank Accounts

USTIN, March 3 (AP)—Sen. Joe Hill, Henderson, asked the senate law investigating committee to make her inquiry into the finances of William McCraw, attorney general and candidate for governor, Tom C. Clark, the former Dallas law firm attorney and Clark.

He moved that the committee authorize the issuance of subpoenas for their bank accounts.

Senator Albert Stone, Brenham, stated that the committee go to executive session to consider the motion and action was postponed. The committee later voted to take immediate action on the resolution.

Miss Open appearing voluntarily before the state's general investigating committee, McCraw yesterday in effect that all his business affairs, public and private, were open to inspection, then utilized the session to make formal announcement of the governorship.

That was not the only surprise in the well-attended hearing. Instead of letting McCraw go after he had made his brief statement, Holbrook of Galveston, dean of the senate and head of the investigation, kept him there two hours to answer a variety of questions.

Cisco Ministers in Session at 10 Wednesday

The Cisco Ministerial association met Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the pastor's study of the First Methodist church in a regular meeting deferred from Monday.

Members of the association present unanimously deplored the calling of another election to legalize the sale of beer in the county, expressed themselves against it and pledged their individual efforts to defeat legalization.

A "Go to Church" campaign was approved for the month of April when an intensive drive through all mediums of publicity will be made to encourage attendance on the churches. Business men will be enlisted in the campaign in a method similar to that employed in Fort Worth where such a campaign proved a great success.

SEE HOPE FOR SOME OF NINE ABOARD PLANE

Scar Against Side of Mountain Is Possible Clue

FRESNO, Calif., March 3 (AP)—Hope that some of the nine persons aboard the missing transcontinental and western airliner might have survived was aroused today when Bud Rhodes reported he had heard what he believed was a plane crash Tuesday night, and then heard two shots.

Rhodes was at his cabin at Bass Lake, 40 miles north of Fresno, at the time.

Searching parties concentrated their attention today on a mountain-side scar 60 miles east of Fresno.

Discovery of the possible clue was reported by a party of 20 that included newspapermen and two employes of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., operators of the big silver plane.

Raging storm waters in the north fork of the San Joaquin river prevented the party from crossing and approaching closer to the objects, but at daybreak they planned to fight their way to the area.

Search leaders here considered the scar clue highly important, pointing out it was in a direct line with the planes flight as reported last night by Mrs. C. G. Landry, wife of a power company official who said she saw the ship at 9:30 Tuesday night.

Survivors include three brothers, Richard of Waco, Clifford of Los Angeles, and O. R. of Big Spring, and three sisters.

An Aberdeen-Angus Champion

Overshadowed by the numerical superiority of the Hereford breed of beef cattle in this country, the high quality of Aberdeen-Angus cattle has not received the attention that its rival breed has had, but its outstanding merits are rapidly coming to attention. This is due to the efforts of Crofts Bros., who introduced this breed and produce it exclusively on their large ranch north of Cisco. Here Sutton Crofts is snapped while he coaxed his champion Aberdeen-Angus bull into a pose at the stock show last week.

Ministerial Alliance Challenges Beer Legalization Leaders to Debate

The Eastland County Ministerial alliance today through the newspapers of Eastland county, challenged leaders of the current move to legalize by ballot the sale of four per cent beer in the county to a public debate on the issue.

The challenge was issued in an open letter published in the various daily papers of the county. Responding to a petition signed by about 850 county voters, the commissioners court has fixed Saturday, March 12, as the date for a countywide election to be held on the issue. An election last May, whose result was only a few weeks ago finally upheld by the court of civil appeals at Eastland, resulted in a majority against the sale of any liquors.

Following is the challenge of the alliance:

March 2, 1938
An Open Letter to the Leaders of the Move to Legalize 4 per cent Beer in Eastland County
Gentlemen:

Since now for the third time within the scope of two years the beer issue in practically the same form is before the voters of this county, it is evident that the elections in the past have not been decisive and that confusion or in-difference exists in the minds of the voters as to the wisest course to follow. Since, also, the basic principle of a democracy relies on an informed citizenship and ballot; since it is the American way to employ free speech and open discussion to clarify issues and persuade the populace; and since the time for the vote on March 12 is so short, therefore out of the due consideration to an issue of such import to the welfare of the county and out of interest in helping present to the people the facts and clarify the issues, we invite you to meet us in public discussion or presentation of both sides of the issue now before the voters of Eastland county. To be more specific, we suggest the first three nights of next week, one night each in Cisco, Eastland, and Ranger, speakers and use of speaking time to be arranged through the editor of the paper in which this request appears, he being willing thereto.

18 ARE KNOWN DEAD AND LIST IS INCREASING

10,000 Left Homeless, Property Damage Into Millions

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—Southern California saw the possibility today that more than 50 people may have lost their lives in a four-day storm. Eighteen are known dead and 18 are missing but the number was steadily increased by unconfirmed reports.

An undetermined number of spectators were washed into the ocean near Long Beach when a bridge collapsed.

All the regular channels of communication—train, plane, telephone and bus—were broken by the storm. At least 10,000 are homeless. Property damage mounted into millions of dollars. The stricken area extended from Ventura on the north to San Juan Capistrano on the south, from the ocean to the San Bernado mountains.

Rainfall ranged from 10 inches in Los Angeles to 26 in Pasadena. Many of Hollywood's film players were marooned.

Riverside, struck by a cloudburst and the swollen Santa Ana river, reported 17 persons missing. Santa Ana, 39 miles downstream, was inundated by three feet of water.

Throughout the rich citrus belt, towns opened their theatres and churches to refugees. Several movie folk's homes were damaged. This included Bob Burns.

Three Rescued
Three of the estimated seven or fifteen persons who were plucked into the raging Los Angeles river from a 300-foot pedestrian bridge as they watched the swirling waters were rescued last night.

Police at the coast city identified three of the missing persons as John Croft, 50; P. E. Kay, 24, both of Long Beach, and Lynn Stewart, 24, a visitor from New York.

Eyewitnesses told varying stories of the number dropped into the river when the center of the bridge buckled and then dropped after pilings gave away.

H. D. Mershon said there was a sharp warning crack and the crowd watching the river in its race to the sea rushed for the approaches. Then the center of the span, which was 25 feet wide, shot up into the air and dropped. The victims were lost to sight immediately in the swirling waters.

A fourth missing man was identified by William Munholland, a survivor, as Chuck Yount, a sailor from the battleship Arizona.

"We were pitched into the flood waters and I saw Chuck go under," Munholland told police. "I think he must have drowned."

Heavy rains extended from Ventura to the northward, to San Clemente, south of Los Angeles on the coast highway, and back to the coastal range to the east, necessitating the evacuation of many homes and toppled others into the flood waters.

Railway traffic out of Los Angeles was halted by undermined bridges and landslides that blocked their tracks. Principal highways in all directions were closed. Air service was at a standstill.

Schools and stores were closed. Flood storage reservoirs were overflowing, releasing their waters into already swollen rivers.

Should the heavy rainfall continue, it was feared all checks on flood water would be rendered futile.

Leonard Randall, 6, was killed.

3 Foreclosures Prevented by Use of FSA Funds

EASTLAND, March 3 — Three pending foreclosures in Eastland county on livestock worth more than the amount against them were prevented by the use of Farm Security administration funds last week, County Supervisor George I. Lane reported. In each case, the security was good and the borrower responsible, but the bank itself found it necessary to make a collection. With the funds advanced by FSA and the plan for farm and home management worked out by that agency, these men expect to prevent any such crisis arising a second time, Mr. Lane said.

Another instance of FSA services in time of unexpected trouble is that of a substantial tenant who suffered an injury to his eyes in 1936. At that time he was established on a farm of about 175 acres with more than $1,100 worth of livestock to work the land and make use of a 120-acre pasture. He had been keeping records of all his operations on Extension Service forms for some time and had worked out for himself a plan that made the best use of his land and provided a year-round income. Following the accident, he was unable to look after his farm. By this year, he had recovered his eyesight but was unable to get the money to finance the profitable operation of the place. A small loan through FSA will carry him over this difficult period.

"This man," Mr. Lane said, "not only has good judgment. He has records to back up that judgment. All he needed was a little help because of circumstances that he could not prevent."

The keeping of accurate records on all farming operations is one of the essentials of the FSA program.

2 Arrested Here On Auto Theft Charge in Kansas

Alert work by Cisco Chief of Police M. L. Perdue Friday apprehended two youths wanted in Kansas for car theft and recovered an automobile reportedly stolen in Effingham, Kansas, last Monday.

The two, one of whom admitted the theft in a statement to local officers, gave their names as Jesse Fred Tombley and Eugene Leroy Johnson. The sheriff from Atchison, Kansas, came to Cisco and returned with them to Kansas after the two had waived extradition.

Informed that a suspicious-looking car carrying a Kansas license and occupied by two young men was probably en route to Cisco, Chief Perdue drove east on Highway No. 2, spotting a car of that description driving at a high rate of speed in east Cisco. The machine slowed down and he followed it for several blocks, finally curbing it at Tenth street and D avenue, where he questioned and arrested the boys.

They claimed to be en route to Kermit, Texas, where the father of one of them was said to live.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest; benedict, I say unto you, lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest. And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that both he that soweth and he that reapeth may rejoice together.—St. John 4:35-46.

So bear and heed His faithful Word, And trust His promise long. For they who seek Him, Life shall find, And stand in Him be strong. We need a perfect faith in Him, With understanding never dim. To fill our daily lives with song.—SELECTED.

Profits the Lifeblood

HAS BARNEY BARUCH, the No. One capitalist man between the New Deal and the administration turned out to be just another economic royalist. Certainly his testimony before the senate unemployment and relief committee indicates that he is beginning to feel that the fear of more outspoken critics of administration policies in business circles are not unfounded. Mr. Baruch was mild in his criticism but it is evident that his demands for modification of certain New Deal measures which weigh heavily upon business spring from an apprehension that these policies are leading the country away from its traditional profits system to one more similar to the European ideas of "state regulation and fear of punishment."

ASSURANCES of the administration that it designs no end to orthodox principles in America are apparently not satisfactory to some of the chief allies of the White House in the sphere of big business. Mr. Baruch's criticism suggests that something more than assurances must be realized.

THE entire economic structure of this country is built upon the profits system. Without legitimate profits industry dies. Contrary to some opinion profits are not hoarded. They are spent. Profits furnish the buying power which sustains business and enables it to pay wages, to invest in expansions that support the construction and supplying trades. Profits paid out in dividends raises the standards of living of the millions of owners of stocks and swell the buying power of the country at large so that there is support for local business which gives employment to local workers. Profits are the lifeblood of our economy and when they are shut off the whole country, from the highest stratum to the lowest, suffers. The day laborer is affected just as much as is the capitalist. In fact, he is affected more seriously because his job is his sole dependence. The farmer is affected because when the buying power of the country is not enriched by profitable business there is no market for his products. Business invariably begins with buying. And buying begins with confidence in the prospect of profits.

OTHER OPINIONS

Bill McCraw, Showman

WILLIAM C. McCRAW, as good a showman as the Texas political arena ever saw, stole the thunder of the senate investigating committee in Austin yesterday when he appeared before it and proceeded to make a lot of political hay while the bright light of publicity shone.

The committee, by proposing to investigate the bank accounts of McCraw and his wife, laid itself open to severe criticism which was not slow in pouring in on the committee from all directions. Attorney General McCraw had a great deal of public sympathy in his denunciation of the committee for subpoenaing the bank account of a housewife, also much support in his contention that the whole thing was a political move to discredit him on the eve of his announcement for governor.

Well, if such was the purpose of the investigation, the investigators find themselves holding the hot end of the poker. The only political capital likely to accrue from the incident goes to the credit of Bill McCraw. In turning the tables on the committee, hogging the spotlight and seizing the occasion as a good time to announce his candidacy, the attorney general preserved and expanded his reputation for showmanship.

Such a man is going to be hard to beat, come next July 23. He can travel farther and faster, make more speeches, shake more hands and hand out more vote-getting political salve than any man in the recent history of Texas.

It takes a past master of the art to take what was intended as a move designed to blast his chances and convert it into a thundering big asset for himself. That is what McCraw seems to have done.—Abilene Reporter-News.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE I went out to see what I could see and to hear what I could hear; and I was surprised. At Dan Horn last Sunday afternoon for near two hours I sat on one of the rough seats that were moved in when the school furniture was moved out and listened in on a singing class. The number of people from nearby and afar, from babies to grandfathers, might have suggested something to modern preachers as to the problem of church attendance; and also as to church behavior, for that was no problem. Even the babies harmonized except for a false note at the wrong time once in a while. And the number who had leadership talent was a surprise; some whose voices may soon begin to crack; some who may not have found all their volume yet; and some between.

Wheat exports largest in 6 years—A complete change has taken place in the wheat situation in the United States as compared with a year ago. With a surplus of wheat in this country, the United States has returned to its position as a wheat exporter. Preliminary estimates indicate that total exports of wheat and flour from July 1, 1937 to January 31, 1938, amounted to the equivalent of about 50,000,000 bushels of wheat, mainly to Belgium, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON, March 3—A year ago died a man who would have made for himself a Roman holiday of this naval building program. The name is William Mitchell, one-time chief of the army air corps. Not a public peep is heard out of the army these days, however, as the navy bids for a billion dollar building program—and probably will get it.

But the arguments against building naval monstrosities which were advanced by General Mitchell are whispered about among army men—particularly in the air corps. The argument that a fast squadron of air bombers, on the loose, would drive the whole United States navy into the comparative safety of San Francisco bay still is advanced by the air-fighters. But officers who value their official necks do not stick them out. Mitchell did not value his official neck, stuck it out, and had it lopped off by a court martial.

Argue Navy Is Cheaper One air corps officer, whose name cannot be used, says of the present situation: "We will have to wait for the present generation of admirals and generals to die. Admiral Leahy is the first chief of operations even to admit an air bomb can sink a battleship."

But the argument is not all on one side in private. In public it is all on the side of the battleship. That prevails not only in this country but in other countries which are trying to keep their military establishments in tip-top shape for the war they say they are not expecting but fear may come. The navy maintains it actually is cheaper for a nation to depend for its main striking power on costly battleships than on airplanes. As an example, a navy department memorandum draws a comparison between bombardment by battleships and air bombers. A battleship can pour out a had better be ignored than fought over. Cabell had replied by requesting his father's lawyer to send him at once a small inheritance he had had from a relative's estate "since I am of age and the money is mine." This amount was transferred to him at a Wilmington bank and it was now almost spent.

IT was during their stop at Wilmington that Jerry and Cabell had the recipe for taking a British merchantman which they were now about to put into practice: "You cut out your ship after dark," a reckless young Carolinian told them. "Don't attack the first brig you see. She's apt to be the lookout. Wait for a straggler. When you've picked your leggard, sail round her and cut her from the pack. Then take her." There followed advice more explicit from the young man who sailed from a Baltimore clipper as light as the Gull and who was not troubled with New England caution. He had already taken four prizes, he said, and had divided the spoils among a gratified crew.

That May day when Polly's son was crying his first cries, the Gray Gull was cruising off the coast of northern France, boldly attempting to spy out a convoy of homecoming merchantmen from foreign waters. Toward evening a fleet was spied by the lookouts. At this news Jerry climbed the ratlines to see how many sail there were and how well protected. He climbed down to confer with Cabell. He had counted more than a score, he said, with what appeared to be two men-of-war convoying the fleet. They decided to wear ship and sail west to avoid being detected. "We're not worth chasing," Jerry pointed out, "but if they see us following, one of the frigates will rake us. Do you agree?"

Cabell did and ordered the man at the wheel to port helm. They put out into the Atlantic, determined to withdraw from sight as if making westward passage. A feeling of elation seized them all. Not a man among them but wished for action and a streak of luck. So far, the Gray Gull had not justified her letter of marque as a privateer. If she had stung the English Navy, it was as a nervous gnar rather than as an angry hornet. The test had arrived. When dark was falling the Gray Gull's crew brought her east, northeast, with all lights doused, in toward the rich prizes that were nearing the sea girt island called England. Bristol would be the fleet's destination, for it had passed Land's End and showed no intention of round a minute from nine major guns. A projectile weighs 2,100 pounds the same as the bomb which a large battleship could throw. A 2,100-pound projectile could throw a 2,100-pound projectile. (CONTINUED ON PAGE FIVE) entering the Channel, was to the Gray Gull's. AND now luck came at midnight. Ship was from her lanterns, front and quarterdeck, they of her size. A large mast about 500 tons, tall spars, masted and square sails. The Gray Gull, with the helm, came up on and silently, sailed to her for a time, passed by but crossed her bows, and crossed her stern, and up to starboard. Looking could see that she was manned and that those were celebrating with the cup that cheers. Jerry conferred with Cabell. "I'll take her with a round if you'll give me." "We'll have to fire," Jerry said. "Just the caronades. A and she's ours. We'll before they can man. We'll board her and run record time." It was of the young Carolinian, here to perfection. "Give me 12 men and a boat," Jerry said again. "I'll board her. I'll board her." Cabell called him a cursed him softly while stood on the Gull's rails and strained their eyes merchantman. It was the darkness, just out of her lantern rays, unless suspected. Now and Gray Gull's sailors were more of her sail to keep the laggard. The brig being so badly handled, sailors were scarcely knots out of her. "Jerry said, 'Give me 12 men and a boat. I'll even it up for you of her cargo. Give your men. That'll do and more. Bill Gill of me as mate. He's as man, any way you take 'Rats!' exclaimed Cabell was referring to the "Nobody could replace the Jerry's. 'Take the English boats,' he said, your men. . . . But God I doubt if Polly would for this." At that moment Polly untraced dream to Jerry. A dim beautiful dream of her had had no word parting. This venture peril were reality, more than heartbeat, sweeter of woman. (To Be Continued)

News of Cisco Trade Territory As Told by Correspondents of the week seems to center around the school. A program of activity is being held on there. In the sports line, they hold the center of interest.

The Scranton girls came to a game of volleyball and the Scranton girls offered competition for our girls them out by a neat margin. The score board told a different story in volleyball. Our boys played a steady game that was decidedly ahead at the day we go with the volleyball teams to the tournament at Romney. A tournament is now in progress.

Friday night, Coach Varner has all-star girls to Bayou, as all-star coach, chosen to represent this part of the county, pick other all-star players from outstanding teams in eastern Callahan county to play the all-star team that western Callahan produces. We anticipate an interesting game when these players meet.

In the track division, the boys are doing some steady workouts. They are getting in shape for the track tournament to be held at Bradshaw Saturday.

The domino tourney to be held at Atwell Saturday night, March 5, promises to be a success judging from the interest shown. A number of people have expressed their desire to enter the tourney.

The program and pie supper at the school Saturday night drew a large crowd. We had a number of visitors from Scranton, Putnam and Cedar Bluff. The pie supper was given for the purpose of swelling the sweater fund to a state of adequacy. The response was gratifying as was the look of appreciation on the faces of the boys and girls who received sweaters. We rather liked the looks of that group as they proudly displayed their colors of grey and red, in a long line across the stage. To us, it represented achievement against odds, and to them a final reassurance that they had indeed "played the game."

Several people from here attended the concert given by the Frank Stamps quartet at the Cisco high school Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Varner made a business trip to Abilene Saturday.

Steve Foster was a business visitor in Baird Tuesday.

LAND FOR LEASE

Nina and Jesse Penn own the only land, 160 acres, that is not under lease in the new oil field northwest of Cisco. There are good producing wells adjoining the property. A 3,000 barrel well, the Brooks just to the north; a big well just south, a 2,500 barrel well and other good wells near-by. We have been offered good prices for a commercial lease on this land, but as yet, we have not closed a deal with any one. Any one wishing to bid on this inside of 20 days from the time this ad appears may do so, but must come prepared to close a lease as we will not give an option to any one. The first one with the money on the barrel head gets it if the price is satisfactory with us all. We all know that this land is as good a location as there is in Texas or any other place.

SPAIN'S LITTLE CHILDREN

All the stark, heart-rending horror of modern warfare is depicted in the photo above, showing little children lying dead in a row in Barcelona, Spain, after a bomb from a Rebel plane demolished a building in which child refugees were quartered. It is pitiful to think that such a thing prompted U. S. Army officials to announce recently that American policy, in event of war, will forbid all bombing of civilian sections.

NIMROD

G. A. Brown is ill at this writing and unable to work.

On Sunday, Feb. 27, J. W. (Uncle Johnnie) Allen celebrated his 77th birthday at the home of his son, Joe Allen, and family. Mr. Allen has lived here a number of years and is highly respected and well thought of by everyone. He and Mrs. Allen, who died 10 years ago, raised a large family of children, all of whom are married and Mr. Allen, since his wife's death, has sold his farm and spends his time with his children. At noon a bountiful feast was spread. Each one attending the celebration brought a well filled basket. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Allen and daughters, Lois June and Martha Luverne, of Nimrod; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Shook and sons, Wilber Ray and Billie Ted of Crocker; Mr. and Mrs. U. C. Wittmar Deep Test North of Putnam Drills

The Wittmar Oil and Gas Properties, Inc., No. 1 R. D. Williams, et al, two and a half miles north of Putnam is running tower after having spudded Monday.

The deep test is located in Section 2269 of the TE&L survey in a block of 2500 acres, assembled by F. W. Snyder of Cisco, company representative.

The well is reported about a mile from the old Benetud & Trees No. 1 Woods, in section 2277, TE&L survey, drilled in 1918, which showed for an estimated 100 barrels daily, but was plugged as the Ranger play was underway and the well was considered too small.

Test is contracted to 5,000 feet and will be drilled with a large spudder.

The Lone Star Thomas well was reported bailing today, preparatory to drilling plug and going into the Ellenberger. It is an offset to the Hickok Van Parmer Ellenberger discovery eight miles northwest of Cisco.

MEBANE FAVORED BY OKRA FARMERS

Nineteen farmers of Okra community met with the county agent Thursday afternoon, February 24, and voted to plant in 1938 the variety of cottonseed chosen by a committee of cotton producers of the community. Mebane 140, a variety which under test for the last five years ranked first in total value of lint and seed per acre at the Chillicothe experiment station, was the variety recommended by the committee composed of L. M. Cawley, George Carter and Arthur Wolfe.

Two hundred eighty-seven acres were pledged to this variety by the 19 growers who elected L. M. Cawley to act as chairman of the group and to secure seed. Arrangements were made to contact cotton growers of the Okra community not present. Those pledging were: Ed Barnes, C. B. Goodwin, Otto Adams, R. D. Maxwell, Oral Davis, I. Atkinson, Joe Earp, Ed McMillan, R. H. Hicks, R. E. Arker, R. F. Cox, J. R. Cox, Arthur Wolfe, George Carter, A. C. Wolfe, Luther Gresham, H. S. Carter, R. H. Tye, and G. W. Varner.

In a six year test at the Chillicothe Experiment station, mebane 140 averaged 36.3 per cent, 29-32 staple length, 408 pounds seed cotton per acre, with a total value of $50.16 per acre for lint and seed.

PROJECT GROUP MAKES RECORD

A recent visit made by the Eastland county agricultural committee and the county agent to the Eastland county boys who are operating a group project at A. & M. college revealed that the 32 boys, under the leadership of Jack W. Morris of Ranger are making a record in economy and scholastic standing that is higher than most of such groups and equal to the best project groups there. There are more than 500 boys in project groups at A. & M. and Morris stated the Eastland county boys would either be forced to build a larger house for their own for next year, or turn down many Eastland county boys who want to join the group.

When R. R. Bradshaw, J. D. Guy and E. E. Blackwell, the members of the county committee were told that the boys in the project group were holding their expense to half that of boys living in college dormitories, they were astonished, especially after eating lunch with the boys and noting the quality and quantity of their food.

Officers of the group are Jack Morris, Manager; Andy Taylor of Eastland, Reporter; Mrs. E. E. Warden of Ranger, House Matron; and Elmo V. Cook, sponsor.

TRENCH SILO INCREASES MILK; SAVES FEED

His trench silo has cut his feed cost at the same time it has increased his production of milk at least four pounds per cow per day, according to records reported to the county agent, by S. O. Montgomery, Ranger dairyman.

Since January 1st, his 35 dairy cows have produced 24 lbs. of milk per cow each day as compared with less than 20 lbs. milk produced before silage was used. The grain ration he is using is costing $1.20 per hundred pounds as compared with a ration formerly fed costing $1.35 per hundred pounds. Montgomery's hay bill was also higher in the past than is his silage cost.

Mr. Montgomery first filled his 130 ton trench silo in 1936 with whole bundles. In 1937, he floored and walled the trench with second hand lumber and filled it with red top cane which was ground with a hammer mill powered with an old automobile motor. Before using the mill he removed the screen and hammers and left only blunt knives with which the mill is equipped to cut the silage.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION FOR WHEAT GROWERS

In order to meet performance in the 1938 agricultural conservation program, wheat growers who have planted for harvest in 1938 an acreage of wheat as great or greater than their customary wheat acreage must file with the county committee not later than March 1, an application for designating part of their acreage as a cover crop to be turned under before mature grain is produced, according to information received by the county agent from the state AAA office.

Such acreage of wheat designated by application to the county committee cannot be harvested for grain or hay but may be pastured until a date approximately six weeks before the normal time of harvest at which time an approved soil building practice must be instituted.

Application forms for designating winter wheat as a cover crop can be gotten at the county agent's office. Wheat growers may either call or write for these. They cannot be filed after March 15th.

"Since individual farm allotments may not be established for all farms by March 15, it may be necessary for some producers to designate their excess wheat as a cover crop without definite knowledge of the acreage in their farm allotments. It is estimated that the general soil-depleting allotment for 1938 will be from 80 to 84 per cent of the normal general crop acreage for the farm, except that where restoration land is designated, such allotment may be less than 80 per cent. Therefore, it is suggested that for farms where wheat seedings equal or exceed the normal general soil-depleting acreage, the acreage designated as a cover crop be an amount ranging from 16 to 20 per cent of the normal general soil-depleting acreage, for the farm, plus any amount seeded in excess of the normal general soil depleting acreage. The percentage should be applied in areas where there is a low amount of abandonment, and a small percentage should be applied in areas having higher abandonment and a greater per cent of normally idle cropland."

TERRACING GIVES COUNTY AGENT BUSY WEEK

Terrace lines will be run on approximately 300 acres of cropland by County Agent Cook during the five days of February 28-March 4th. Cook plans to use NYA youths and to train two other youths who have enrolled for training in terracing. Others interested in learning to run terrace lines are invited to contact the terracing crew at any of the following places.

Blackburn Friday night

Services for R. F. Blackburn, resident of Eastland county, were held at 3 at Gunter community in which he lived in west Texas. Death was at 1 a. m. Thursday of three years. Cause of death was pneumonia.

Funeral services were conducted by the Twelfth street Methodist church, of which Mr. Blackburn was a member, and Neil Hutton, pastor, officiated. Burial was in Gunter cemetery.

There were six of Mr. Blackburn's grandsons, Lawson Hutton, Rankin, Rex Blackburn and Roy Blackburn, who bore the casket. They were accompanied by Hutton, Tessie and Blackburn, Maudine Marshall and Pearl Blackburn.

Mr. Blackburn was born in Tennessee and his parents in early Collin county where he died shortly afterward. His mother moved her family to Cisco in 1889, and he was born in Cisco in 1895. Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts Carbon scouts and scouters, of Troop No. 29, were entertained with a sumptuous feed by John Edward Trimble, chief of officers, at the Wolf Patrol Den, which is located in Trimble's yard. Everyone had a good time, and a great deal of good resulted from the meeting. At that time plans were made for a court of honor to be held for this troop at the Methodist church, March 13.

San Saba Citizens of San Saba have responded in a fine way to the call made by scouts and scouters for books for a scout library. Many books have been donated and money has been given to buy others needed. Rustic bookcases made of cedar will be constructed by the troop in which to keep the books.

Blanket The monthly pow-wow of the central section will be held March 21. Scouts of Blanket will be hosts to scouters from Bangs, Zephyr, Brownwood, Rising Star, Mullin, Pioneer and Cross Cut.

First Aid Contest Work has been started by scouts with the help of all scoutmasters in Comanche Trail council on the first aid contest which is for all councils in Region No. 9 including Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. 144 Lives Lost In January Accidents

AUSTIN, March 3 —One hundred forty-four lives were lost on Texas streets and highways in January accidents, state police reported today; a decrease of 14 compared with the same month of 1937.

State officers believed the drop in crashes to be the result of favorable weather conditions, lessened travel and an increased tempo in a statewide campaign for safer travel. State police joined local officers last November in a concerted drive to lower the accident rates at places where most accidents were happening.

The January figures showed that 1,378 persons were injured in the 1,355 accidents reported. There were 216 pedestrians involved in the mishaps—40 of them were killed. Two of the listed dead received their fatal injuries in December, bringing the actual January toll down to 142, state officers said.

Police — commenting upon drunken driving—said there was a large increase in the January reports on the number of intoxicated drivers against whom complaints were filed. Of the 1,647 drivers involved, 117 were charged with intoxication. Increased public sentiment against this type of driver was believed to have contributed to the filing of complaints.

A new type of accident was reported to state headquarters in the latter part of January and the first two weeks of February. Nine persons were injured in attempts to close automobile doors while the cars were in motion. The injured were thrown to the highway.

Railroad traffic is heavier between New York and Philadelphia than between any other cities in the world.

teen such battleships could sling out 13,500, a feat which the memo said, would require 13,500 planes, since each can carry only one ton-weight bomb. There aren't that many bombers in the world.

Then, says the navy memo, the life of a battleship is 26 years, while a plane lasts about 6 years, so over a period of six years it would take 58,500 planes at a cost of $14,600,000,000 to provide the same striking power contained in 15 battleships costing $1,500,000,000.

Another Phase

That only begins the argument, of course. A squadron of 230,000 bombers could fly a thousand miles, bomb the enemy and return almost before a battleship could steam up and clear the harbor.

But, say the admirals testifying before the house naval committee, one air bomb wouldn't sink a battleship any more than one shell will sink it. They take a lot of punishment. Their six-inch deck armor, it is argued, will keep present air bombs out of the belly of the ship. If they burst on deck they don't hurt much—truly they don't.

Some members of congress are talking of inviting army men to testify as to their views on whether the navy should be built up so much faster than the army and air corps. But they haven't found a William Mitchell yet.

Donald Surles has returned from a visit in Waxahatchie.

"I don't know anything wrong with it, Carl Estes has never directly or indirectly asked a favor of me, asked an appointment or attempted to influence an opinion."

McCraw testified Tom C. Clark, his last law partner in private practice, paid him $10,000 as his share of the outstanding fees when they dissolved partnership but he had received no other moneys from Clark directly or indirectly.

The committee made little if any headway in its attempt to look at records of the bank accounts of Clark and the former law firm of McCraw and Clark.

"I have no objection to your inspecting the law firm account," McCraw said, "and Clark's refusal to permit you to do so is embarrassing to me. But I no more control Clark than I control members of this committee."
