Britain Refuses Pledge of Military Aid to Czechs

Through the Editor's Spectacles By GEORGE

There are many, many thank-worthy tasks in this world and humanity can thank stars that there are so many who value the applause of the public and therefore willing to undertake them. Those who are laboring in the Band Boosters club to assist Mrs. R. L. Maddox in efforts to make the Cisco band the outstanding high school musical organization in Texas.

From the obviously great of the band to the students in it, the band as an institution has provided Cisco more favorable publicity perhaps any other single in our community. Life, far and near, come plaudits. Every person with any-thing an ear for music hears to praise.

Cisco is proud of it, and, happily, however, most of all to direct and definite to those who are making possible as an institution of value and a source of pride to the community.

Without someone gives it and substance. Labor brought go into its realization. Let's give a big hand to the of the band club who making it possible to produce with a very, very organization and asking for community approval of efforts.

WILL FULFILL OBLIGATIONS OF TREATIES

Chamberlain Pledges to Fight if Belgium, France Invaded

LONDON, March 24 (P)—Prime Minister Chamberlain, in Britain's most important declaration of foreign policy since the world war, today refused to give Czechoslovakia a flat pledge of military help against possible German aggression.

Chamberlain promised the house of commons, however, that Britain would use her armament to fulfill her treaty obligations. However, he made a pledge, in connection with existing commitments, to fight, if France or Belgium were ever victims of unjustified attack.

Furthermore, the prime minister urged the peaceful settlement of Czechoslovakia's German minority problem, and offered Britain's help in this. He also refused Russia's call for a consultation against aggressor nations. Chamberlain said that he was confident peace "would be maintained."

Cisco Hi Seniors To Attend Annual Howard Payne Day

BROWNWOOD, March 24 (Sp.)—Howard Payne college will be host to the senior classes of the high schools of this section at its annual Howard Payne Day celebration Saturday, April 30.

Officials state that plans for the celebration are now nearing completion that will assure the visitors a varied program of entertainment with the usual speeches and long intermissions between activities.

The program for the celebration is being sponsored by the sophomore class of Howard Payne as their major project for the year. In past years several hundred senior high school students have attended the annual Howard Payne Day activities.

Letters of invitation have already been sent to many schools of this district and because of the completely different set up an extra large number of students are being expected.

The program will be given in the form of a radio program featuring artistic and entertaining local talent, and presenting musicians, solo entertainers and singers. In addition to the part taken on the program by the students of Howard Payne, each school attending will have previously selected one girl to represent her class in a beauty contest that is to be the highlight of the day's festivities.

The winner of the beauty contest will be crowned as Miss Senior Class of 1938. All girls in the contest will serve as a duchess with (CONTINUED ON PAGE EIGHT)

When Frankie Parker, 22-year-old internationally famous tennis star, married the newly divorced wife of his coach and patron, Mercer Beasley, he merely changed his status in the same family circle. Mrs. Beasley, shown above clutching Frankie's arm after one of his tennis matches, had been his foster mother since Beasley discovered the boy chasing balls in Milwaukee years ago, took him into his home and coached him to tennis fame. Parker married Mrs. Beasley in Reno only a few hours after the latter obtained a divorce, and thereby became stepfather of a girl, Katherine, one year younger than himself, and a boy, James, 8 years younger.

Christian Church Has Brotherhood Dinner Tonight

The First Christian church is joining its sister churches around the world in giving a Brotherhood dinner tonight at 7 o'clock. Rev. Clark W. Lambert said today, "This is a part of a world-wide movement in which the Christian churches are fostering a sense of fellowship with one another."

Rev. Lambert continued: "By participating in dinners at the same time, by exchange of greetings, by use of similar programs which deal with the aims, ideals, and work of the whole church, an effort is being made by thousands of churches and pastors to widen and deepen the sense of unity."

Rev. Lambert will preside at the local dinner, and will make one of the short speeches. Three other brief talks are scheduled. They are "The Life of the Brotherhood," by R. H. ### OPERATION OF PATROL HERE IS EFFICIENT

Students Safeguard Childrens Lives at Crossings

Today the Safety Patrol league, which was inaugurated in the Cisco grade schools last Tuesday, is operating efficiently. Decked in their gold buckled, Sam Browne belts, the youngsters carefully perform their allotted duties. The safety Patrol league is composed of well chosen students who have been instructed in the best methods of safe guarding the students' crossing of streets at the heavy-traffic intersections.

In the mornings, Billy Ray Montgomery of west ward is stationed at Ninth street and E avenue. He is succeeded in the afternoons by Raymond Farmer. Both lads stated that they liked their positions, but that the motorists were a little slow in observing the dictum of the "Stop" sign. Billy Ray's conduct of his duties easily shows that he fully realizes the responsibility of his station. These two students are representative of the organization which the citizens of Cisco have seen fit to develop.

Scene of Europe's Latest Crisis

Disputed territory ever since the World War has been the area around Vilna (Wilno), shown in northern Poland in the map above. Poles and Lithuanians have argued about the territory, which changed hands repeatedly during the war but finally was seized by Poland in 1919. The Lithuanian constitution, however, still regards Vilna as the nation's capital—a situation which has caused the border to remain closed for years. Poland now demands reopening of the border and resumption of normal diplomatic relations—or else.

In concluding, he said that he felt there was real need for expanding financially, particularly of small business.

The committee decided against including processing taxes on cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco, and rice. It also decided against including Senator Connally's war profits legislation.

Asked about his plans, the veteran member of congress commented: "I trust no one will construe this as a big assumption on my part, announcing my plans so far in advance, but the question has been asked and I'll answer it."

"It is true I'll be 67 years old when the primary elections open, but off hand I can name eleven members of the senate now who are past 70. And they include some of the most powerful men in congress.

Farmer's Initiative Saves Baby Chicks

EASTLAND, March 24 (Sp.)—A brooder house made of an old galvanized tank was good enough to save 99 out of 102 baby chicks for J. D. Morrow, Rising Star, Miss. J. R. Parrish, home supervisor for the Farm Security administration, reported recently.

Mr. Morrow turned the tank upside down, cut a hole in the side for a furnace and covered the whole with dirt to keep the warmth inside. Since wood from the place is used for fuel, the cost of this brooder house was nothing.

"The importance of poultry in a sound farm and home plan for this section can hardly be over-estimated," Miss Parrish said. "Even more important than the cash value of the sales of chickens and eggs that may be made is the health-giving value of poultry products on the family table." ### Cisco's Nazarene District Is Largest

Cisco has been selected as district superintendent's headquarters for the Abilene district of the Nazarene church, which is the largest district in area in the United States. The district extends from Fort Worth to near El Paso, and from Brownwood to the north line of the panhandle. There was selected over a number of other west Texas cities for a number of reasons. A district conference has been purchased at Ave. N and Ninth st. and the district superintendent, Rev. J. Walter Hall, and family have moved here from Wichita Falls.

The president of young people work for the district, Ber Henschel Murphy, and family have moved here, and are making their home at 1408 W. Fifth st. Others connected with the church who are now making Cisco their home, are: Evangelist Robert L. Jones and family, Evangelist Noble E. Berryhill and family, and Evangelist M. V. Wilson and family. These men are all traveling evangelists, and Cisco was selected as their headquarters.

Necessity has prompted the inauguration of a program of expansion and rearrangement of the local church properties. West Seventh may possibly be selected for the new site of the local church, since a number of good locations can be secured.

Texas Travel Bill Is $1,344,415

AUSTIN, March 24.—Texas paid last year for an employee's driving his car the equivalent of 400 times around the globe.

It provided him hotel rooms each night for 300 years.

It bought him 548,000 meals, or enough to last, breakfast, dinner and supper, for 500 years.

This was shown in the consolidated travel expense account of the state, compiled by Compt. George H. Sheppard, for the fiscal year that ended last Sept. 1.

Total travel bill of state officials and employees was $1,344,415.

The report did not recount the full time of an estimated 25 state employees, whose full time is given to tasting drinks in three establishments in Austin, one of them operated by the state, two by private owners. An average of 25 state employees sit in these soft-drink establishments throughout the eight-hour working day.

Following is the travel bill for

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The Lord has made them joyful, if ye continue in the faith.—Ezra vi, 22, Col. i, 23.

Remember:
Hope, like the glowing taper's light, Adorns and cheers the way;
And still, as darker grows the night, Emits a brighter ray.

Faithfulness to one's work may be only an outside bondage, but joy in it is a relationship of heart to heart, of the heart of this man to the heart of his brother.—Phillips Brooks.

Greater Enlistment of Manpower Needed

SOME time ago the Cisco Daily Press suggested that the chamber of commerce should sponsor a regular "get-together" dinner or luncheon for all business men who could thus be grouped into a common unit for civic and commercial expansion. It is obvious that Cisco lacks such an institution for a common meeting of minds and spirits on problems and opportunities that confront the community. We have various clubs, but each of these represents some phase of community life or section of business and does not provide a forum in which all interests may contribute to the formulation of policies and programs for the common community advancement.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE as it now operates is circumscribed by the same limitations which make other institutions largely ineffective in the development and carrying out of programs of community advancement. It is a board of directors without the support of active membership and therefore is not able to secure that community mobilization which is essential to its best functioning. This infirmity can be cured by a regular monthly gathering of business men, all of whom are members of the chamber, but few of whom really exercise, or even admit, the responsibilities of that membership. At such gatherings the programs advanced by the board could be presented and the manpower of the business community enlisted in their prosecution. As matters now stand the number of those who devote their time and work to these projects is very few, mostly restricted to board membership.
From the very start they work under a serious handicap.

TO make such efforts for community development really effective will require a much broader enlistment of manpower than we can command at the present.

Mr. Lewis Mourns

JOHN L. LEWIS made a radio speech the other day to the British people in which he declared that there are 13,000,000 of American people out of work, that congress is without leadership and that American statesmen are lambasting each other senselessly. Gloomily he predicted that this country is drifting straight toward chaos.

CHAOS, perhaps, in the opinion of Mr. Lewis who failed to mention the fact that the picture he painted is directly concerned with the radical labor policies which he promoted during the last two or three years. As much as any other person in America, Mr.
Lewis is responsible for the conditions of which he complains. The CIO, its program of sit-down strikes, its assaults on business and the government's tacit approval of the strategy which the CIO employed contributed to the situation.
But that picture from another viewpoint than that of such an avowed class war advocate as Mr. Lewis, does not look so gloomy. As a matter of fact, despite its unhappy complexion at the moment, it represents a growing and certain American revolt against leadership and philosophy of such cloth as Mr. Lewis represents. Probably that aspect of the situation worries him more than anything else.

Human and
Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

Among others, en route I met with J. W. Boatman, 30 or more years in his locality. He has ideas of his own about governments and governments. It is not nice to express them as he can do that better himself. Reorganization of industries including farming would not be his way of doing it. He admires the value of statistics and suggestions from the agricultural department as a help to the farmer in planning his crops, his marketing, and other phases of his work. But aside from that, "Let us alone," would be his policy. If a crop produces too abundantly one year it will balance with a short crop of another year, or of another country; so in general the law of supply and demand will regulate production. If a farmer is limited in production then mutual tariff arrangements with other countries allow foreign supply to come in and take up the slack, so it has been of little benefit to the American farmer. That is somewhat the argument of Mr.

Boatman.

This laissez-faire method in business has been on the discard eco-nomicly in the last few generations, both by business that has tended to eliminate competition through monopoly, and by the masses who have turned more to socialistic principles of control by the state. But the method has son-advantages basically. It has often been asked why a good Creator did not make us all good, regiment us all morally, so to speak. But He has not. He has turned man loose to make his own world largely.
Man has made a mess of a world, but he has enjoyed it. Look step progress is at the sacrifice of freedom. Man will be more a man if he is thrown upon his own initiative, and has to work out his own problems. Freedom is limited because he is living with others and they have rights too. But within his own little realm he is king. His real value to his group is the contribution of his own individuality. We don't want any June bug system with everybody bumping around aimlessly into everybody else. But we do need individuals exercising themselves happily in their places and respecting the places occupied by neighboring individuals.

Cisco Attorney Buys
Stubblefield Land

One of the largest real estate deals in recent years in this county was consummated early this month with the purchase by F. D.
Wright, Cisco attorney, of all farm and ranch properties of the Stubblefield estate, amounting to about 3,500 acres.

Largest item involved in the deal in the former Ward ranch of 3,000 acres lying north of Cisco, half interest in which Wright has sold to Frank Harrell, prominent farmer and stockman of Cisco.

The property purchased by Wright also includes a large farm south of Eastland and farms in the Rio Grande valley.

Keeping Up With
The Boy Scouts

Courts of Honor
Dublin, Breckenridge, Carbon and Eastland have held courts of honor recently for their scouts. All of these were well attended by scouts, scouters and parents. A large group of scouts in each town came up for advancement. Many of the other towns in the council plan to have courts of honor during the next several days. This program of advancement is very worthwhile and these scouts and the men who help them in this work are to be highly commended.

Scouter's Pow-wow
Scouters of the south section met in San Saba the evening of March 17th, for a Pow-wow. There was a good attendance. At this meeting H. W. Fagg of Richland Springs was elected chairman of the Scouters' association of the south section and W. H. Kim-brough of San Saba elected secretary. A motion was carried to meet the third Tuesday night in each month. The next meeting place will be announced soon.

Troop News
Sixteen members of Troop No. 2 with their scoutmaster, Orville Bradley, went on an overnight hike Saturday afternoon. That evening an investiture ceremony was held for the following scouts: June Manning, Earl Keesen, Billy Neiman, Ray Graham, and Joe Bunch. A council ring ceremony was also held. Tenderfoot cooking and firebuilding was practiced.
Plans for Troop No. 38's 1935 program were discussed by 19 scouts.
Their scoutmaster, Paul Jones, assistant scoutmaster, D. M. Collins, chairman training committee, tive G. N. Quirl, in Gorman Mon-

WASHINGTON
NEWS

FROM CONGRESSMAN
CLYDE L. GARRETT

Altogether the immigration committee has reported to the house a bill denying American citizenship to any person believing in or affiliated with an organization that advocates a change in the present form of the United States government.

Trade Agreements— A severe test will be given the reciprocal trade agreement program by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He intends to make an agreement with the United Kingdom, to add one more to the 17 already made.
A tariff adjustment reciprocal agreement between this country and Czechoslovakia was the last to be entered under the 17 agreements.

CCC-300 CCC camps will be closed before June 1, in order to reduce the strength of the corps from 200,000 to 250,000. The reduction will take place even though applications for enrollments have shown a continued increase instead of decrease. Approximately 4,000 supervisory and administrative officials will be dismissed also.

Accidents— Ten million accidents serious enough to double their victims one day or longer occur annually in the U. S.—20,000 daily.
Each day, 300,000 persons in the U. S. are unable to work, go to school or pursue other usual activities as the result of injuries caused by accidents.

Building— Building costs throughout the country have turned decidedly downward, confirming the trend noted in scattered sections since the early fall of 1934.

Highway bill— Congressman Elmer H. Wene of New Jersey has introduced a bill, H. R. 9666 which would build a system of super highways that would be as permanent as the Appian way of the Roman empire, linking every section of America. This highway system would consist of at least four lanes of traffic in each direction, with parking shoulders, all on a reinforced base of concrete. About 25-000 miles of road would be required to link all sections of the country.

Business Men's Bureau — The farmers of the U. S. have a bureau to perform services for them—the bureau of agricultural economics.
Now the business men are to have a similar bureau for their services.
The commerce department is setting up a new bureau of industrial economics to study problems of industry.

WPA Projects— On the theory that home building might be encouraged if neighborhoods were put in better conditions, the WPA wants approval of numerous projects for laying out new streets and sewer installations.

War Situation— The state department officials are keeping a close eye on developments in Europe. The U. S. will maintain a "hands off" policy no matter what happens.

Water conservation— A special message from President Roosevelt outlined to congress a six-year plan for conservation and development of the nation's water resources. It is said the president has three or four messages to be delivered.

Boycott— An unofficial boycott in this country, it is said, has caught Japan off guard and has reduced sharply the imports of goods from Japan. As a result war financing plans have been upset.

A novel shooting gallery, consisting of a target of original movie films showing game in the forest, has been introduced into Germany. When a shot is fired, appears where the bullet hit.

Nurlin of near Ranger had been indicted in connection with the theft of a mail pouch from a train near Tahoka last year.

To Policyholders and Stockholders of the Southland Life Insurance Company and the Insuring Public of the Southwest

One of the most important financial transactions in the history of the Legal Reserve Life Insurance business in Texas was consummated in Dallas March 8, set by law as the annual meeting date for life insurance companies. At that time a greater, bigger, and stronger life insurance company to better serve the Mighty Empire of the Southwest was created and destined to make more secure the futures and lives of uncounted thousands.

At that time a new and greater Southland Life Insurance Company was born with the consolidation of the business in force of two of Texas' most progressive Life Insurance Companies... a proposition previously that day given unanimous approval by the Stockholders and Board of Directors of the Gulf States Life Insurance Company and its Executive Committee and by Stockholders and Directors of The Southland Life Insurance Company. During its twenty-nine years of faithful service to the insuring public, The Southland Life Insurance Company had built up a total of insurance in force of $118,433,196 and the Gulf States Life Insurance Company, during a ten-year brilliant career, had on its books a total of $65,197,422 insurance in force—making a total of $183,630,618—contracts guaranteed by total assets of $28,506,067.96, according to their reports of December 31, 1937. Since their inception, these companies paid beneficiaries and policyholders in excess of $35,000,000.

A meeting of the Stockholders of the newly-constituted Southland Life Insurance Company was held and a new Board of Directors elected. These Directors immediately placed responsibility for management of the greater Southland Life Insurance Company in the hands of the following Executive Committee: John W. Carpenter, A. Morgan Duke, Harry L. Seay, Sr., Homer R. Mitchell, John E. Owens, B. A. Donnelly, Lewis T. Carpenter, W. C. McCord, and Dr. Hall Shannon.

We, as members of that Executive Committee, and as active officers of the enlarged Southland Life Insurance Company, deeply and sincerely recognize the great trust and obligation placed upon us, and without hesitation or reservation, accept our responsibilities with the promise to you, whom we represent, that it shall be fulfilled to the very ends of our respective abilities.

Still further, we are most happy to give you every assurance that, with the consolidation of the companies, which is proceeding apace and already has witnessed consolidation, two of the greatest agency forces in Texas, the Southland Life will forge steadily ahead to its appointed place as one of the greatest service institutions in America.

The Board of Insurance Commissioners of the State of Texas unanimously has given full and unqualified approval of the consolidation and of the formation of the new and greater institution to better serve you.

Gratefully we express our sincere appreciation to policyholders, stockholders, our splendid agency force, and the insuring public of the Southwest for expressions already given by them and their unwavering loyalty to their company and bespeak for this newer and greater Southland Life Insurance Company your confidence, respect and patronage and have requested the newly-elected President, Mr. A. Morgan Duke, to communicate this message to you over his signature.

Yours very sincerely,
(Signed) A. MORGAN DUKE, President.

We, the Directors and Officers of The Southland Life Insurance Company, gladly and without reservation pledge stockholders, policyholders, agents, and employees of The Southland Life Insurance Company our utmost devotion, co-operation, and effort to the upbuilding of our company to its rightful place among the great life insurance companies of the United States.

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

CAST OF CHARACTERS
CONSTANCE MADWELL—Derek's physician.
DEREK MADWELL—son artist who loved money.
HILDEGARD THORVALD—Derek's actress friend.
DR. ROGERS—doctor who met his first case.

Yesterday's flowers date bring a requirement for constance and the more she thinks that a romance is favored between Derek and Hildegard, Constance did not trust any longer.

CHAPTER XII
CONSTANCE did not read beyond that first sentence. It seemed to her eyes before she was able to look up and say in a voice that sounded reasonably like her own, "I don't know there was any one better enough to buy this comic sheet. The last I heard they were dumping on publicly by paying people to see them for libel."

But she knew they had seen her face in that first moment.

When she stepped out of the store that night, a man stepped from a parked car, hastily threw away a cigar, and stood in her path. Under his sentence light, his uncovered head shone with concealed pride.

"Are you working on any one's shoulder tonight?" he asked.

"Go away," said Constance.

"The last time I talked to you I got my hands slapped. We do not associate with the male relatives of our customers."

"There aren't any customers in my family any more," Dr. Mark Rogers said with a brief smile.
"We spent all our money the other day on you."

He held the door open.

"Please get in," he suggested.
"I'd like to talk to you."

WELL, well, Constance thought.
Just this once... But after all, why not? The thought of Derek's mother only wants to take her money and go back to her old life of sins.

As she hesitated, she was vastly amused to see him take out his watch and glance at it hastily.

"Don't let me keep you," she said with a smile, "if someone is chiding to death or something.
But I thought you were on a vacation here."

"It's no vacation here." He was definitely not the philandering type of man. He looked worried and a little embarrassed. "I—but we'll talk about that later. I'm counting on a good meal to put you into a receptive frame of mind—on Thursday, shall we?"

CHAPTER XIII
CONSTANCE was at a moment of realization, at which she was to wonder later, "I still have no reason to think you're not insane, but—well, it will take me a half hour to put."

Before she got out of the car in front of her own house, Dr. Rogers took a wallet from his pocket.

"Since this is a business arrangement, Miss Madwell," he said, "and since I don't imagine you habitually carry airplane fare to California around in your purse, I'd better give you something on account."

He slipped some bills from a roll and handed them to her.

"Here's enough to buy a round-trip fare—I don't want you to imagine you're being strangled—and a little for incidental expenses. Take a taxi to the airport. You'll find a taxi waiting for you in your own name. I'll meet you at the plane."

He might, Constance thought, have been instructing a nurse in the operating room, in full confidence that every command would be implicitly obeyed.

"Aren't you taking a rather long chance?" she asked.

"If I thought so," he said with a short unsmiling laugh, "I'd hobble you up in a sack and carry you along as enemy baggage."

And he looked her an instant grimly capable of doing it.

"You needn't be concerned about taking the money," he added a little impatiently as Constance looked uncertainly at the bills in her hands. "The boy's father will make it good, and be only too glad to pay you for any inconvenience this may cause you. . . . Now you'd better run along. Allow at least a half hour to get to the flying field. . . . And, oh yes! Better take along some lightweight clothing.
It will be much warmer there than here. Please don't be late.
I've got enough to think about without walking the floor with a watch in my hand."

She was in her seat in the plane when Dr. Rogers came in. He greeted her very much as if he had unexpectedly recognized a pleasant acquaintance, chatted impersonally for a few moments, and then he went with an air of finality back to his own seat.

say?" With a flicker of a smile he finished dryly, "I want to park you somewhere where you'll feel that you have the protection of some human beings when you decide that I've gone crazy."

After a brief hesitation Constance laughed in spite of herself.
He looked so desperately in earnest, and at the same time so un-comfortably aware that he must look ridiculous.

"All right," she said. "I shouldn't be human if I weren't curious."

When they were settled at a table, and Dr. Rogers had ordered —steaks, blue points, planked steak with mushrooms and fresh asparagus, a salad, an ice, and coffee—he said, with a crooked little smile, "Thank God the orchestra is at the other end of the room.
I couldn't do this to music without making it sound as melodramatic as it unquestionably is. . . .
Did anyone ever tell you," he demanded abruptly, "that you look like Camilla Wynne?"

"Why, yes," Constance admitted after a bewildered pause. "But I never felt inordinately set up about it."

"Ever seen her—on the screen, I mean?"

"And heard her?"

On a mischievous impulse Constance leaned an elbow languorously on the table, rested her chin on her palm, and looking up at him under fluttering lids, said in a throaty, breathless voice, "I understand, Doctor. You want me to tell him a bedtime story. . . . What is it really kind? Sometime, you know, he's bound to wake up—and that hurts. . . . I know. That's —she smiled bravely, brushed away an unshed tear, and finished on a tremendous note—"that's one of the things you have taught me."

WORDS, gesture, and intonation were lifted bodily from one of Camilla Wynne's most popular impersonations—the role of the nurse in "A Doctor's Best Friend."

The man across the table gave such a whole-hearted shout of delight that Constance could not help warning toward him.

"I say," he demanded, "how long could you keep that up?"

"Until you screamed for help," Constance said. "Since my friends discovered the fatal resemblance, it's been my one and only parlor trick. . . . Why?"

"Because Camilla Wynne got herself knocked out in an automobile crash this morning. That's what this is all about."

He had sobered so abruptly that Constance said after a moment of incredulous silence, "You're not by any chance suggesting that I double for the femme fatale, are you? I thought you were a physician, not a . . ."

"If you want to check up on me, go to the telephone and call the Fort Wayne Hospital," he told her with deadly earnestness. "I don't belong in this part of the country, but they know me there. . . . On second thought, perhaps I'd better drive you around to the hospital.
We'll just about have time."

"All right," she said. "I shouldn't be human if I weren't
curious."

amusement as his hand moved in what she had come to know as an habitual gesture. "I have a watch too."

She found herself disproportionately annoyed by his impersonal matter-of-factness.

"Though you may not guess it," she went on, "I've really been out of boarding school for some time."

For a moment he examined her with that curious, tolerantly amused look she had come to recognize. . . . As if, Constance thought with growing resentment, he were trying to decide just what kind of unpredictable bug I might turn out to be.

FINALLY he said—obviously trying to be patient—"Perhaps I'd better remind you that you may have a hard day ahead of you. You'll need all the rest you can get."

"Please don't worry about me, Dr. Rogers," she said; "I thrive on sleepless nights."

Without a word he turned stiffly back to his own seat.

Indeed! Constance thought, watching him with covert malice.
We get a lot of fun out of standing off and feeling superior and amused, don't we? But it isn't so funny when people refuse to take us as seriously as we do ourselves, is it?

She took a great deal of satisfaction out of sitting up a good hour after her usual bedtime.

Snuggled into her amazingly comfortable berth, Constance began to realize for the first time in that dream-like evening, exactly what was happening to her.

Once in California, it was inconceivable that she should not see Derek. And once she had seen Derek, all the doubts and petty fears of the past few weeks would drop away like mist. She would lose that feeling which had begun to possess her that Derek had gone away into another and different world and by that very act, had become different, himself; so that he no longer even spoke a language she understood. She fell asleep dramatizing those first few moments with Derek.

There was a car waiting for them when they landed. The chauffeur, who seemed to know Dr. Rogers well, said, "I am to take you directly to the ranch, sir. Miss Thorvald asked me to say she was sorry not to—"

"Miss Thorvald?" Constance said faintly. "Does he mean—is it the Thorvald ranch we're going to? . . . Oh, I can't do that."

News and Views From Our Putnam Correspondent

By OLIVER DAVIS

Hello citizens of Cisco. As you notice, this is the first of a series of news publications that will come from your neighboring town of Putnam. Since you are interested in what is happening in our local community, our news will appear each week in this issue of the Cisco Daily Press.

Before giving the first news items, it would be advisable to explain some of the characters, or I should say characteristics, of our small city. Putnam is located 12 miles west of Cisco and has approximately 600 people, has twenty five business establishments and four churches. Also, Putnam boasts the most modern school building in this section of the state.
The building is only one year old and has the marvelous sound system, and along with this, a new home economics building was opened last week. And so you have a brief idea of where Putnam is located and what it contains.

The event that is receiving the majority of the discussion this week, is the annual Callahan county track meet which will be held Friday and Saturday. Putnam is entering strong, but because of the lack of students, the hope of winning the meet looks very dim. Putnam has already had the misfortune of losing the debates, the extemporaneous speaking, and the choral singing.

Coach Clyde Dean made a trip to the stock show last Friday along with Jack Everett, W. S. Jobe, and Kieth King, who entered the track meet held Friday and Saturday. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Hull and son, Dolpha.

The Woodmen of the World camp, No. 554, Putnam, met Tuesday night in its regular meeting.
An unusually large number was present, and three new members were added to the camp. District Manager Bert Ray, accompanied by members of Camp No. 136, Abilene, were camp visitors. The Woodmen met every second and fourth Tuesday nights.

Mrs. Pete King's car collided with a truck near Ranger Monday night while returning from Fort Worth with her son, Edward, who had sung over station KTAT that afternoon. The occupants of the truck are unknown at the present.
No one was injured in the wreck, although it damaged Mrs. King's car considerably.

The Cisco high school tennis teams were visitors in Putnam Tuesday afternoon. They engaged in matches with the local tennis teams and were victorious.

The high school junior boys defeated Scranton 13 to 2 in playground ball Tuesday afternoon, while the girls were losing 19 to 13. Both teams from the junior high department will enter the finals in the county meet this week.

Because of the busy week preparing for the track meet, this all the news, but there will be more next week, and until then may you be our friends and we will be yours.

Coach Clyde Dean attended a business meeting at the Laguna hotel

With spring in the air of more, I notice baseballs are being ginned to circulate over town and on the local square. Putnam is expected to be represented in the Cisco league this summer by the Woodmen of the World, which promises to present a team to Cross Plains for second round elimination.

How Hitler Got There

Ex-Corporal Lands in Prison When Beer-Cellar Putsch Fails

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

If you don't like Adolf Hitler, you can find documentary grounds for believing he began his political career as a spy sent among communists by German army leaders.

If you like him, you may look on his secret work as a high mission for the Fatherland.

A neutral investigator says Hitler was a member of a commission named by war veterans to investigate the post-war communist regime in Munich.

There's not a doubt, however, that the handsome corporal with the handlebar mustaches deserved the confidence of the soldiers. He got the Iron Cross for World War bravery. Twice he had captured, almost single-handed, a score or so of the enemy. Once he was blinded by gas, and once shot up by shrapnel. And he certainly was ready at the drop of a hat to scream his hatred of the Russian system.

Unquestioned Bravery
Once communist officers were set to Hitler's room to arrest him. He met them with revolver in hand, drove them off, an act of unquestioned bravery. The incident got a whopping buildup in Munich beer cellars.

Soon Hitler was addressing political meetings all over Munich. Meetings developed an electric, even hysterical atmosphere. To an American, Hitler might have seemed a Fourth-of-July orator, a hypnotist, and a Billy Sunday. He was telling native Germans what they wanted to hear and he kept repeating it until they believed.

Hitler quickly developed oratorical tricks, learned to gauge an audience like a magician. Some say he was quick to observe a predominance of women in his audiences, and at such times, would hold out his arms dramatically, shouting:

"You are mine and I am yours, as long as I shall live!"

Maybe it looks silly in print, but it was not silly to Germany's post-war widows and spinsters. By now the leader had clipped his mustache to a Charlie Chaplin smudge, and his hair fell like a scraggy mop over one eyebrow. But he was a bachelor and he seemed to have plenty of appeal.

The Hitler rallying cry was made to order for him, but not so the symbols, expressions, and dress of his political sect. In the history of national socialism in Austria he found one of his patriarchs had adopted the swastika, that good luck sign of antiquity, as the party emblem.

Hitler likewise was watching Mussolini, who then, in 1923, was about to "march" on Rome in a Pullman car. Mussolini's "shirt" idea appealed to Hitler for purposes of regimenting the uniform-loving Germans.

Before long there blossomed out the German workers national socialist party, with initials, in the German language, spelling "nazi." Then came the "brown shirts," the "storm troops," and Hitlerism was an accomplished fact.

Before long, Hitler had declared a 25-point objective, with Jew-baiting, repudiation of war guilt, the Versailles treaty, and reparations, as cardinal principles.

The growing beer hall gang soon were clashing with communists, were deserving their proud leader's nickname of "storm troopers." So confident did he and his nazis become that they decided to take a short cut to power. The Futile Shot

The desperate job began in a Munich beer cellar on November 9, 1923. Hitler worked the meeting into a bedlam. Then he paused dramatically declaring the German republic at an end.

"The time has come," he shouted. "I can save."

With that he fired his pistol at the ceiling, and the beer-cellar putsch began.

But Hitler has mis-calculated the temper of German troops sent to the scene. The soldiers followed orders to fire on the nazis and killed nearly a score. The putsch was over. Hitler, the new messiah, became a laughing stock.

Enemies gossiped that Hitler fell to the ground so hard at the first sound of firing that he broke his shoulder. Neutral observers said he was pulled to the street by a dying comrade, and broke his shoulder that way. But also there was the story how he risked his life to carry a child to safety.

Whatever happened, Hitler escaped, but was captured in a few days and tried for criminal sedition.

In 1924, he was sentenced to five years in prison with four of his leaders, and it looked like lights out for Hitlerism.

But, strange as it may seem, the ex-corporal was soon to prove he was the kind of a man you can't laugh off.

Canada produced nearly nine and a half million cases of canned vegetables in 1937 compared with 7,948,240 cases in 1936.

Texas Production of Cement Off Slightly

AUSTIN, March 24 (Sp) - Production of cement in Texas during February was moderately below that of the corresponding month last year, but shipments were substantially above those of a year ago, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research. Both production and shipments exceeded those of January. Stocks on February 28 were well below those of both comparable periods.

Figures compiled by the United States bureau of mines show total cement production in Texas during February of 444,000 barrels, a decline of 5.3 per cent from a year ago, but 32.9 per cent above the preceding month. Shipments, 532,000 barrels, were up 8.4 per cent from February last year and 0.4 per cent from January. Stocks on February 28 were down 25.3 per cent from the corresponding date last year and 11.7 per cent from those of January 31.

Cement statistics for the country as a whole were again far less favorable than those of Texas, the university bureau reported. Production, 3,916,000 barrels, was down 32.9 per cent from February last year; shipments, 4,575,000 barrels, were down 11.4 per cent and stocks on hand February 28 were only 2.8 per cent below those of the corresponding date a year ago.

Plants in the United States operated at a rated capacity of 29.7 per cent in February, against 20.7 per cent the preceding month and 29.6 per cent the like month last year.
