Pictures of a Blizzard in the Panhandle

Wrong Is Right On Alaskan Road

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, April 11 (AP)—Driving on the "wrong" side of the road may be all right at times in Alaska, a federal judge has decided.

Observing that on the territory's country roads there sometimes is "one beaten track or lane of travel" used by automobiles traveling in both directions, Judge Simon Hellenthal instructed a jury in an accident case that a motorist "is not necessarily negligent because he drives on the left-hand side of a road in which but one track is being used, provided he drives cautiously."

Quick Move for British-Italian Accord Is Seen

PARIS, April 11 (AP)—Quick efforts to end differences with Italy were predicted in parliamentary quarters where the new government of Edouard Daladier was said today to be planning to fall fully in line with the British conciliatory policy.

It was reported that an extraordinary envoy would be sent to Rome to discuss the settlement of problems disturbing the two countries' relations. The discussions would follow the British negotiation of the Italian friendship understanding.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shockley of Dallas spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Shockley.

Gives Strong Hint of What Is Desirable

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today for "some immediate legislation" to forestall prospective operating difficulties of railroads, but made no specific recommendations.

The president gave the legislators a strong hint, however, that he believed any long-time legislation should provide for the incorporation of all executive agencies dealing with transportation in one department.

This, he said, would seem to be the part of common sense.

"Captain Death" to Present Show Here

Captain Hal Mason whose daredevil roles in stunt driving and motion picture airplane work has gained him the title "Captain Death" will present a free show at Nance Motor company and on the streets this afternoon, beginning at 5 o'clock. Blindfold driving, an exposure of this, and a complete vaudeville show will feature his performance. ARCTIC BRINGS PEACE
WINNIPEG, Man., April 11 (AP)—Life in the Arctic brings peace and solitude, along with the daily hardships, says the Most Rev. Armand Clabaut, O.M.I., first Bishop Co-Adjutor of the Vicariate of Hudson Bay, largest and most northern Catholic mission in the world.

BILLION AND QUARTER FOR WORK RELIEF

President and Aides Agree on Seven Months Need

WASHINGTON, April 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt and congressional and departmental leaders agreed today that a $1,250,000,000 appropriation would be needed for work relief for the first seven months of the fiscal year beginning July 1. The appropriation, to be recommended in a special message to congress in the next few days, would be for WPA alone.

The white house conference also agreed that an additional $50,000,000 should be appropriated for the civilian conservation corps.

Lobo Intra-Team Game Will Be "Hot" Engagement

Coach J. T. Petty today said the approaching Baylor-Hardin-Simmons grid tilt would be a "hot" affair. The game will be staged Wednesday, April 13, at 4 o'clock. The Baylor team is composed of prospective Lobos, while the Hardin-Simmons aggregation consists of Lobo-exes and Lobo-regulars.

The Baylor team cheated the spring blizzard by holding skull practice during the bad days, and coaches Petty and Garrett today seemed mighty pleased with their prospects of winning the game. Today and tomorrow the team will drill on offensive and defensive plays.

Coaches and boys have been plugging hard in practice in order to develop a team which will give the local sportsters something to think about during the spring and summer months. It is the opinion of many grid sages, who have seen the Lobo hopefuls in practice, that the boys have something on the ball.

This may not look like "prime-ministerial" raiment to you, but it's just the thing in the British province of Madras in India. Pictured in the queer clothing and footwear is C. Rajagopalachari, prime minister of the province, population of which is approximately one-third that of the United States. SAYS MISSING ARTICLES ARE KEY TO CRIME

Widespread Search for Baggage by Public Asked

AUSTIN, April 11 (AP)—Governor Allred made a strong appeal to officers and citizens to push the search for the baggage taken from the automobile of Mrs. Weston Frome and her daughter, Nancy, west Texas torture murder victims.

The governor termed the missing articles an important key to the solution of the case. He said he had a hunch the slaying would be solved but explained that he held to no one theory.

BLOND WOMAN AND BURLY MAN SOUGHT
EL PASO, April 11 (AP)—A blond woman and a burly man, traveling in a black coupe, were sought today for questioning for the slaying of Mrs. Weston Frome and her daughter near Van Horn.

The hunt was concentrated in a triangular region bounded by highways connecting Del Rio, Laredo and San Antonio.

Meanwhile, two ex-convicts, known to have been in west Texas at the time of the crime was committed, were questioned at Dallas.

Lions Club Starts Easter Seal Campaign

The Cisco Lions club committee, headed by A. G. Tuttle, set out today in its drive to sell Easter seals for the benefit of crippled children.

One-half of the proceeds of this sale will remain here for local use in aiding crippled children, the remaining half to be placed in the state fund for their treatment in state hospitals.

The Lions club, sponsoring this sale, has appealed to the public through various mediums, to respond as liberally as possible to this sale in order that needed funds may be raised to prosecute the work of rehabilitating crippled children. Demands that are being made upon the hospitals and other facilities provided for this work are so great that thousands of appeals must now go unheeded for the lack of means.

Bert McGlamery of Eastland is district chairman of the sale.

Condition of Mrs. LaRoque Satisfactory

Mrs. W. H. LaRoque, who underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at Graham sanitarium Saturday night, was reported today to be in a satisfactory condition.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

In Thy presence is fulness of joy—at Thy right hand there are pleasures for evermore.—Ps. xvi. 11

Life eternal! Heaven rejoices! Jesus lives who once was dead; Join, O man, the deathless voices; Child of God, lift up thy head.

This is the prerogative of noble natures,—that their departure to higher regions exercises a no less blessed influence than did their abode on earth; that they lighten us from above like stars by which to steer our course, often interrupted by storms.—Goethe.

Japan's Pyrrhic Victories

THE Japanese war lords seem to have bitten off a larger hunk of the dragon than they can chew. Deep in the "fat" of what they believed was still the impotent and lazy China of the Sino-Japanese war of the middle "nineties" they have discovered a quality of resistance and a cleverness to match their own military genius. Thus the opinion of a large section of foreign military thought appears to be justified. The two factors on which the Chinese strategy is based are the great expense of the campaign to Japan and the extreme difficulty of maintaining communication lines between the penetrating forces of the invader and his sources of supplies. The further the Japanese armies go into China the more vulnerable do they become to the guerilla warfare of the Chinese. By such tactics the Chinese are able to harass the extended lines of the invaders, pinch behind them with infiltrations of warriors and disrupt and delay their carefully plotted campaign. The superiority of the Chinese in numbers is such that although slaughtered ten to one their losses have less effect on their strength than do the relatively smaller casualties of the Japanese. And the longer the undeclared war wears on the costlier it becomes to Japan which is already enduring a serious economic drain not counted upon by the Japanese warlords in their enthusiasm for cutting another rich section out of China with what they believed would entail a minimum of military force and cost. It looks like a Pyrrhic victory for Japan, if, indeed, it is a victory at all.

Not As Bad As It Seemed

THERE were increasing signs Sunday and today that the effect of last week's severe April norther were not as serious as was feared. While the peach crop seems to have been totally destroyed a survey south of Cisco revealed that a portion of the plum, apple and pear crop had survived while corn, although killed to the ground, was putting out new young shoots to replace those lost. North of Cisco interviews with farmers revealed that the damage to the wheat crop was slight. Most of the wheat was either grazed off or late and none of this was injured. Only in a few cases where the growers had not grazed the crop but had allowed it to joint was the crop badly damaged. Thus it appears that this section of west Texas, noted for the recuperative powers with which nature has endowed it, has come through the most adverse of spring weather conditions in fair shape and with the promise of at least a goodly portion of that agricultural prosperity which early season indications had held forth.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

A perfectly well-behaved thermometer ought to begin at the bottom and show its column of mercury upward as the season advances toward the warmer part of the year. But those of us who tried check our own feelings as to the temperature by the thermometer in front of the Daily Press building were puzzled at what the instrument showed. It had no doubt grown used to the unexpected in the way of temperature variations that a Texas spring brings. But here was something to perplex even a seasoned thermometer. A drop of fifty degrees in less than a day had apparently shattered its nerve. The red column stood in the tube in broken fragments all the way from the 80's down as if they were each a straggler in the wake of the rapidly descending thread. But an incidental observation by Mr. LaRoque put the whole matter in a different light. He had seen the thermometer a day or two before in an upside down position into which it had been knocked by a gust of wind or some other sudden force. This experience must have so added the contents that the instrument had gone off into a topsy-turvy spree. And now we were getting the effects. It was not the freakish weather affecting the thermometer, but the thermometer amuck upsetting the weather. The seasons had gone haywire. We were heading back into last winter. The wind that thought it was a south wind turned out to be a north wind; the moisture that would normally have fallen in rain thought it was obligated to be snow. The elements seemed to be conspiring together to make the branches as bare as January. Our only hope is a thermometer restored to normal, or else a weather that will not gauge itself by one little trifling thermometer. Later—the thermometer is worse; the weather is improving but is not yet quite right.

Yoyce returned to the Empress on the 5:30 tender. It had been a delightful day ashore, in spite of Mrs. Porter.

She went to her cabin, considering a brief rest before dressing for dinner. But she found a note, on ship's stationery, tucked in the corner of the mirror.

"Joyce," she read, "will you meet me in the indoor swimming pool at 6 o'clock?" She did not need the signature to tell her that it was from Dick.

Immediately the thought of rest was forgotten; a swim, she decided quickly, would be far more refreshing after a warm day ashore.

She found him alone in the blue tile tank, watching for her. "Come on in!" he invited cheerily. "The water's fine."

"For a moment he regarded her out of the corner of his eye, speculatively. "You're a cold, proud princess," he declared at length, "and I don't understand you at all. But I've got to take one more chance. . . . Joyce, will you come ashore with me tonight?"

Her head popped out of the water and she nodded eagerly. "I'd love to!"

"Just you and I," he added. "I'm tired of Mrs. Porter's managing. She takes me back to my first year at prep school. There's a dance out at the Mid-Ocean Club tonight. A friend in New York gave me special guest tickets."

"We haven't much time to dress and dine," Joyce pointed out. "The last tender leaves the ship at 8:30."

Easter Cruise

Obidiah turned towards the lights of Hamilton. The mile and a half seemed an incredible distance across this stretch of inky-black water, and Joyce stared back with misgivings at the security of the Empress, so quickly disappearing from their reach. She sat quite still, holding her breath, and hoping that Mr. Jones could find his way around these impenetrably black waters.

"Obidiah," Dick said presently, "do you have to go all around the buoy? You'd save half a mile going in straight."

The boatman hesitated. "The water's pretty shallow in spots, boss," he pointed out. "These are all coral reefs . . ."

"I know. But your boat doesn't draw much water, does it?" "Two feet. Maybe I can cut across up past the water tower. I know my way there."

"Good. We're on our way to the Mid-Ocean Club, and that's an hour's drive."

SO beyond the water tower, Obidiah turned out of the channel and headed straight across the harbor. To their left, the buoy sounded its warning toll.

Dick settled back, slipped his arm through Joyce's. He felt her shiver. "Cold?" he asked solicitously. She shook her head. "No—not very. I guess I'm afraid of the dark."

Suddenly their pilot throttled the engine down; swerved the boat quickly. "Comin' close to a reef," he said, pointing out a dark patch to the right. "It's low tide now."

They proceeded cautiously, skirting the reef which projected above the water for a length of 16 or 12 feet. Then, out in open water once more, he let the engine out. Hamilton was still almost a mile off, and around a sharp peninsula, the Empress was out of sight.

"We're almost there," Dick said, reassuringly. "We'll be at Mid-Ocean—"

McCraw Declares Against New Business Taxes

AUSTIN, April 11 (Spe).—Attorney General William McCraw declared for a holiday on new taxes in formally announcing the business and taxation platform on which he will stand in his campaign for governor of Texas. The proposals put forward, the attorney general emphasized, concerned only one phase of the program he will offer to the people of Texas in his formal platform and in his opening address he will deliver in Arlington on Saturday, April 23. The complete McCraw platform will be concerned, among other things, with proposals for effecting economic reforms in the administration in government under laws already on the statute books. McCraw stressed these points in his business and taxation statement: 1.—Immediate reduction in the administrative costs of state government. 2.—Ampie assistance to the old folks, teachers, the blind, and dependent children. 3.—Opposition to the general sales tax. 4.—Opposition to the state income tax.

McCraw is firmly of the opinion that a broader, more enlightened social welfare program can be inaugurated in Texas without any punishment of business and industry. Economies can be effected, he believes, that will improve the whole social welfare program. He pointed out that the state's experiences in that work have shown the way to savings.

General reductions of administrative expenses as pointed out in the recent state auditor's report, together with the increases in state revenue, should effect savings large enough to cover all needs, McCraw declared.

Although there is sound reason to believe that contemplated reductions will be adequate, if more revenue is necessary, it can be obtained through insignificant taxes thinly spread over the present taxing structure, he said.

Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant; Miss Ruth Ramey, home agent, and Miss Mabel Caldwell, assistant). Kokomo, Flatwood, Morton Valley, Carbon Colony and Peak boys' 4-H club members last week were told how to make wax patches to be used in budding pecan trees. Assistant Barnhart was the speaker.

Agents have been advised that a district 7—in which Eastland county is a part—meeting will be held Tuesday, April 19, at Brownwood. Several from College Station, extension headquarters in the state, are expected to attend in addition to agents of the district.

In a vat owned by Walter-Duncal, John Blackwell and Idus Echols at Staff have been dipped more than 1,000 head of cattle.

The vat, in which is used an arsenical mix, is cooperatively operated.

Agent Cook left Saturday to visit his wife who is recovering from major surgery in a hospital at Temple.

Farmers in Eastland county who produce peanuts will receive an acreage allotment in that crop in the 1938 farm program. It was learned in a communication from College Station. In but eight other counties of Texas are farmers given an acreage allotment for peanuts. In most counties AAA officials classify peanuts with feed-stuffs.

Approximately 200 ranchers are expected to participate in the 1938 range program. T. E. Castleberry, range inspector, predicts.

Last year 100 ranchers participated with but 78 complying.

The ranchers last year earned $15,000 for participation in the program. Practices included building of tank dams, eradication of prickly pears, cedar, mesquite, prairie dogs, building of pasture terraces and re-seeding by deferred grazing.

Although he has not made a complete check, C. H. O'Brien, assessor-collector of taxes in the county, states approximately 7,000 vehicles have been registered for operation this year. In March the license insurance brought approximately $60,000.

At Mule Fete— a Governor 'Up'

Gov. Gordon Browning of Tennessee was only one of 30,000 visitors and the unassuming mule the governor is astride in the photo above was only one of 5,000 mules when Columbia, Tenn., staged its Mule Day festival. With all cars barred from the main streets, the ordinarily abused mule became something of a town hero for a day. A King Mule was honored—but no Queens of Beauty.

In hunting snakes for sport, they are captured alive wherever possible. Mr. Ayers keeps several in a cage at the Ford garage, where he has given close study to their habits. Feeding the pets is no great expense, as they can live for months without food or water.

Although he has never tried milking the snakes for venom, he says he has let many dollars slip away because he did not save this priceless fluid. Regular participants in the snake hunts are G. P. Crutchfield, Milus McComb, Zug George, Will Biggs, J. R. Webb, Will Hatcher and Hugh Ayers.

Completion of Highway Will Be Celebrated

EASTLAND, April 11 (Sp.)—With August 1 set as the approximate date for opening to traffic all of Highway 89, "so-called airline route between a point near Strawn and Weatherford, plans are already being considered for a celebration in observance of the event, according to a statement Saturday by Milburn McCarty of Eastland, president of a Highway 89 association.

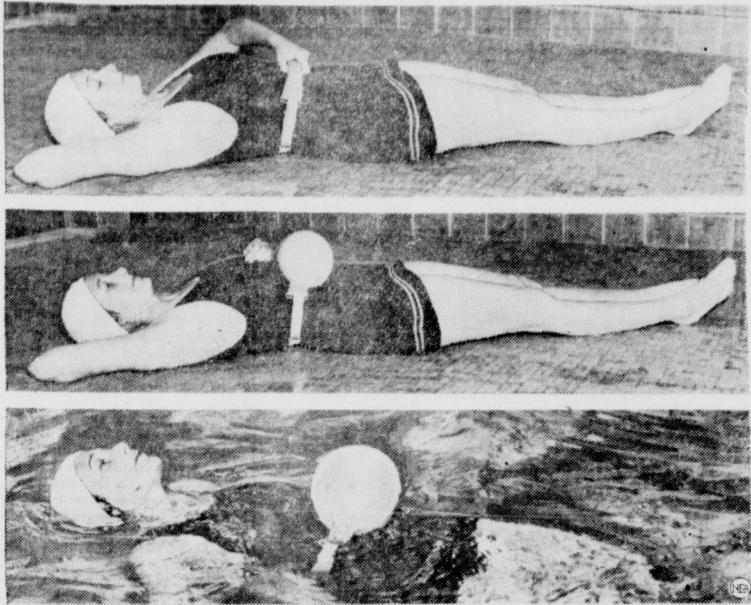

"After the road is completed a celebration, designed as the most elaborate in West Texas, will be held," stated McCarty, who added that the place and time of the fete would be decided by the association.

McCarty was advised that August 1 will be the approximate time for opening of the road in a letter from M. C. Welborn of Fort Worth, division engineer of division No. 2 of the state highway commission.

State officials and the highway commission members are expected to participate in the celebration. Welborn's letter stated that because of adverse weather conditions during the winter asphalt topping work was delayed longer than the base work.

The officials stated that in about 10 weeks the topping work should be finished to the junction off "89" with highway 103 east of Gordon and when that point is reached the traffic from Eastland county would be able to detour either by way of Mingus or Thurber or Strawn, in this way, Welborn explained, the greater part of the highway would be used before the west end has been entirely completed.

DEMONSTRATING NEW LIFE PRESERVER

Olive McCormick, above, demonstrates, under the auspices of the Red Cross in Los Angeles, how to operate a new life-saving device designed by Clarence V. McGuire of Grosse Point, Mich. The invention is a small rubber sac weighing six ounces. The bag is inflated merely by squeezing the larger end, with the pressure and heat then acting on chemicals which instantly release buoyant gases. Top, how the sac looks before inflated. Middle, the sac has been squeezed, and the gases have started to do their work. Bottom, fully inflated, the rubber sac keeps Miss McCormick afloat, and according to its inventor, can serve its purpose for as long as 16 hours.

pair of bloodstained shoes was to be found the following morning on his doorstep—mute symbol their owner had died the most desirable of Penitente deaths—on the cross.

Now, however, the "Cristo" is tied, not nailed—a sufficiently agonizing practice. But it is seldom, if ever, fatal. Even that extreme no longer is practiced in some of the more moderate villages.

Jealous Of Their Rites

The Penitente sect, a lay order of Catholicism not recognized by the mother church had its origin in medieval Europe as the "Third Order of St. Francis."

Brought to the New World by devotees who accompanied the Conquistadores, it took root and flourished while the sect from which it sprang gradually died away.

Once a powerful and feared organization—one which politicians and businessmen joined to gain its backing—it is slowly losing its influence in this, its last stronghold.

Its membership is almost entirely made up of Spanish-Americans in isolated mountain villages, jealous and secretive of their rites.

Still, however, the slender Penitente crosses dot the mountains as fanatical reminders of a disappearing sect.

WHAT IT MEANS--

RFC's Billion And A Half

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, April 11—The headlines tell you that congress is authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to fight the business slump by lending a billion and a half dollars to deserving states, cities, private corporations and business men.

But you can take it from Chairman Jesse Jones that the RFC isn't going to sling a billion and a half dollars across the nation's financial landscape, wily rilly, and expect a quick harvest of prosperity.

Not All at Once
In fact, Chairman Jones thinks it will lend a scant fraction of a billion and a half dollars during the next year.

Then why did the administration back such a law? And why should congress pass it with lightning speed?

Plain-spoken Jesse Jones tells you in his Texas drawl that the new law:

1. Responds to demands from all business for a more sympathetic attitude in Washington.

2. Answers the recent plea of the little business men's conference for the long-term federal loans—loans they can't swing in banks because such deals tie up money too long for the bank's peace of mind.

3. Acts as a financial life preserver whose mere presence on the business boat may inspire the passengers with confidence.

"If a going concern knows money is ready and waiting in Washington," explains Jones, "maybe a loan won't be as important as it seemed before the federal purse strings were loosened."

"Then, again, the nation might snap out of this recession in a comparatively short time. After all, there's no true basis for a depression now, as there was in 1929."

"We need government and business co-operation."

Co-operation, in the Jones view, should help restore confidence, and confidence will lead people to buy what they want and need. And when people buy, business men will get orders for their goods.

The Real Worry
"As a matter of fact," says the man who has made several good-sized fortunes, "boil this thing down, and your typical business man is worrying more right now about orders than he is about loans."

"Unless a business has orders, a loan might prove to be a serious drag. Take a solvent business man without any orders. Give him a loan, put his people to work and turn out goods. He will pile up the goods on his shelves, and pay interest on the loans that produced the goods."

"Now, take it the other way around. Give a man orders for his goods. The plant is there. The motors are ready to turn over, and the workers want a job. The logical thing to do is fill those orders and get a turnover started. Later is time enough to think of
