When the EXPERTS Say He Should Do a MAN-SIZED JOB!

Texas truck operators are not asking for bigger EXPERTS. They are endorsed by such organizations trucks. They are asking for sensible regulations permitting them to fill the ones they have, so they can do their shipping job just as safely, but more economically and efficiently than in the past.

Texas is one of only four states in the Union which limits a truck load to 7,000 pounds. The result is: carriers of heavy merchandise must run half loaded, doubling the number of trucks on the road, raising shipping costs to both producer and consumer and severely handicapping interstate commerce.

Much heavier loads may safely be carried-44 other states permit them. The National Safety Council makes a plea, based on studies of technical experts, for uniform legislation providing for loads of 16,000 pounds per AXLE where high pressure pneumatic tires are used and 18,000 pounds per AXLE where low pressure tires are used. Such regulations are considered absolutely safe by the

as the U. S. Department of Agriculture, National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, American Association of State Highway Officials, American Motorist Association and a score of others manned by experts who know that highway stresses are ruled by wheel loads and not by gross loads!

The gist of the matter is this: Let's have laws which are big enough to fit the modern trucking industry, which enable it to fill the demands made on it by the commerce of today, which permit shipments with greater economy to both producer and consumer.

Instead of an ill-advised 7,000-lb. load limit law, dictated by the prejudice of an unfriendly competition, which sends a MAN to do a BOY'S WORK -let's have more adequate regulations as recommended by the EXPERTS, which will enable him to do a MAN-SIZED JOB! For the sake of both safety and economy—REPEAL the 7,000-lb. load limit law!

of an increasing number of administration agencies and leaders, ought to command respect. House bill adherents, however, who have been insisting on retention of the house version of the revenue bill, blessed by the White House, demand proof that the senate oill, abolishing the undistributed profits levy, would be helpful. We wonder what "proof" s desired. If there is not sufficient proof that abolition of the tax would help business there is abundant proof that the tax itself has been oppressive. The country undeniably is in the midst of a depression despite the fact that there is plenty of money waiting to be used. Why isn't this money being used? Why isn't it being expended in productive enterprises, promotional campaigns designed to increase the consumption of goods to raise the American standard of livng. Why isn't it being invested in expansions of industrial and commercial activiies to give wholesome employment to the millions of workers now turning to relief and government subsidies? Why, instead of character or reputation of any person will be gladly seeking investments in business and indusers. The Cisco Daily Press assumes no respon- trial fields it is flowing into billions of taxsibility for errors in advertising insertions beyond exempt government securities? Is it because these investors who wish to make a profit on their money consider the extremely low rate of government bond interest much more attractive and safe than returns on private investments? Certainly, they do.

> [F investors' money is avoiding business, how can business prosper? And if business does not prosper how can it hire people and pay wages and take up the burden of unemployment that the government is essaying to do by the process of borrowing more billions which eventually must be paid back with interest by the people?

DOES it not appear infinitely more reasonable to give private initiative and capital the considerations it asks if, in the face of the current uncertainty, it is urged to take up the slack and keep the pump of prosperity going? Ever since the undistributed profits THE country has it on the authority of the tax and the capital gains tax were enacted senate committee on unemployment that it has been clear that they have exercised a one of the best ways to combat the depres- depressing effect upon business.
