Flight of Airmail Plane Postponed Because of Rains

The arrival of the special demonstration airmail plane scheduled for May 24, as one of the stops on its circuit trip from Fort Worth to El Paso, commemorating the anniversary of airmail flying in the United States, was postponed today because of general bad weather.

Both circuit demonstration flights, which were to have originated in Fort Worth, were called off this morning as a result of heavy rains which fell over a large portion of Texas last night and this morning.

Possibility remains that the flights may take place Friday. These reports have not, as yet, been verified.

As More Than Score Died in Atlanta Hotel Fire

Taken while the flames were at their height, this picture shows fire sweeping the five-story Terminal Hotel in Atlanta, Ga. Workers searching the ruins after the blaze had been brought under control found at least 26 dead, and as many as 15 other persons were believed to have died in the holocaust which gutted the frame and brick building.

Net Saves Holocaust Victim

This was a rescue scene that was re-enacted many times as firemen penetrated the flaming Terminal Hotel in Atlanta, Ga., bundled guests into nets and lowered them to safety.

This shrouded victim of the fire lived, but many did not. Firemen feared that the death toll, already set at 26, might pass 40.

President Asks Probe of Europe Radio Propaganda

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—A state department representative told the senate committee today that President Roosevelt had asked for a federal investigation of propaganda of European nations in South America as part of a survey of international broadcasting.

H. B. Otterman, serving on the interdepartmental committee on radio information, said that "the president has asked us to refrain from giving out any information or comment until he has had a chance to study it."

Loans on 200 Million Bushels Wheat Expected

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—The agriculture department, President Roosevelt disclosed today, expects to make loans to farmers on 200,000,000 bushels of the 1938 wheat crop.

The president asked congress to appropriate $80,000,000 to finance storing the grain in the government licensed elevators.

He added that the time of the committee approval, there was "no discussion of the threatened wage reduction."

Cedillo Must Surrender Army Says Cardenas

SAN LUIS POTOSI, Mexico, May 19 (AP)—President Cardenas is determined that General Cedillo shall surrender his arms and peasant army to the government so that the nation's socialistic program may go on without danger of internal revolt.

President Cardenas, entering San Luis with his own soldiers to assure calm in the wake of insistent rumors of rebellion, made his demand in a speech last night. He charged that his former secretary of agriculture planned a revolution.

The group stopped for a few minutes in Cisco and received the good wishes of Secretary J. E. Spencer, of the chamber of commerce.

COUNTERFEIT RING BROKEN IN N. JERSEY

Treasury Agents Call Arrests Most Important in Years

NEWARK, N. J., May 19 (AP)—Treasury agents announced today the arrest of three men in what Supervising Agent James Maloney called the most important roundup of counterfeiters in the past ten years.

Three, held for arraignment, were named by Maloney as: David Krakauer, Palisades, New Jersey; Charles Blum, Bronx, New York; and Irving Nitzberg, also of the Bronx.

Maloney estimated that $500,000 in $10.00 counterfeit notes had been passed. The agent said that between 250 and 300 sub-passers had been arrested throughout the country.

Maloney said that the investigation of the alleged ring started with the arrest of a man in San Antonio on January 11.

Floods Follow Oklahoma Rains

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 19 (AP)—Flood waters from the Washita, Cimarron and north Canadian rivers washed over valuable bottom lands and carried out several bridges today as torrential rains lashed western Oklahoma. Rain, measuring up to four inches at Canton, was accompanied by hail.

Four Members of Breck Board Resign

BRECKENRIDGE, May 19 (SpE)—Resignation of four members of the Breckenridge school board in a surprise move linked to the election last April took place at the meeting of the board Tuesday night.

Stressing a desire for harmony, John Bates, president of the board; W. G. Howell, secretary; John Ward and Bill Christian handed in their resignations.

The resignations were linked to the election last April, in which three new members were chosen on the largest vote ever cast in a school board election in Stephens county.

Suchow Burning as Fighting Stubborn

SHANGHAI, May 19 (AP)—A large section of Suchow was reported to be burning fiercely today as Japanese, claiming possession of most of the city, fought hand-to-hand with Chinese in the southern suburbs.

Japanese aviators said that the strategic city, viewed from the air, was a blob of smoke created by jagged flames.

Despite the constant pounding of Suchow's walls by Japanese planes and heavy guns, and a steadily tightening circle of Japanese troops, Chinese evidently were prepared to make a desperate fight for the city.

A Japanese infantry column reported capture of Changchwang, a village four miles from Suchow's west gate, but that appeared to be the nearest point yet reached by the besiegers.

Contrary to Japanese reports of a general retreat from Suchow, Chinese advisers declared the city was not even seriously threatened.

Chinese officials said Japan's armies had done no more than "disturb" Chinese communications along the important East-West Lunghai railroad. A communique said a Chinese counter-offensive south of Tangshan, a station 50 miles west of Suchow, had driven a Japanese column back to Yung-cheng, in Honan Province.

Despite Japanese jubilant reports of the collapse of China's resistance, the real test of Suchow's defenses apparently still was to come. It seemed possible Japan might encounter resistance as fierce as she had to overcome to capture Shanghai.

Effect of Penny Vote on Wage and Hour Bill Studied

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—A major question, the Pennsylvania primary over, is whether the result lessened President Roosevelt's chances of forcing wage-hour government bills through congress before adjournment.

Some observers agreed that the defeat of the C. I. O.-backed Kennedy campaign for the democratic gubernatorial nomination, despite support of Senator Guffey, New Deal stalwart, and intervention of National Chairman Farley, represented a reverse for the White House, tending to offset its triumph in the Florida party sentiment test.

If wavering democrats in senate or house take the same views it may seriously complicate the president's pre-adjournment program.

The Farley harmony plan was vigorously rejected by democratic primary voters. They picked, instead, the complete slate of the organization faction.

An immediate consequence of defeat of the C. I. O.-Guffey-Kennedy drive to take over party control is to leave the selection of Pennsylvania's delegation to the next democratic national convention in the hands of the Lawrence-McClosky-Kelly-Earle faction. While no open hostility to President Roosevelt of his policies marked the primary, the winning faction made John L. Lewis and the C. I. O. the major issue as against Farley's move to keep the New Deal-C. I. O. alliance intact.

To Washington observers the primary results looked very much like a sign of definite and far-reaching anti-C. I. O. sentiment in Pennsylvania, in both democratic and republican ranks.

Another factor industrial trouble for the administration in other populous industrial states in the effect of the primary on the American Federation of Labor. The defeat of the C. I. O. candidate in Pennsylvania is likely to encourage the A. F. of L. to campaign vigorously against the C. I. O. whether a C. I. O.-backed democrat is up.

Of average stature, his expressive head with its long blond curls made a strong appeal as a veritable "gentle Jesus, meek mild."

Lang was a potter by trade, an exemplary husband and father.

FRANCE WILL DEFEND SELF, SAYS PREMIER

Surprise Statement Is Delivered by Deladier Today

PARIS, May 19 (AP)—Premier Daladier declared that France would defend her frontiers against "all attempts at violence" in a surprise statement delivered today as France's negotiations with Italy for a friendship agreement approached a complete breakdown.

To newspapermen whom he summoned into his office, Daladier declared:

"France will persist in proving her close union and her calm self-possession; she can do it because she is strong. Her will for peace is her first guarantee. Her strength is her supreme guarantee."

Indirectly the premier threw blame for the impasse in friendship talks on Italy.

FRANCE-ITALY TALK HITS SNAG

LONDON, May 19 (AP)—A sudden rift in France's friendship talks with Italy roughened the road Wednesday for Britain's deal-with-dictators policy.

Critics of the government in the house of commons sought assurance that Britain would support French Premier Edouard Daladier in his attempts to make his peace with Italy.

Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, faced the house of lords to answer attacks on the Anglo-Italian friendship pact.

In Commons Richard Austen Butler, Undersecretary for foreign affairs, refused to accept an opposition interpretation that Premier Benito Mussolini is trying to drive a wedge between Britain and France.

A French move to bolster its force of 120,000 colonial troops by recruiting 60,000 additional native soldiers in Tunisia, French protectorate, and Italy's coming military maneuvers in Libya, near the Tunisian border, emphasized Italo-French differences in that part of the world.

Italy long has sought to retain permanently Italian citizenship, schools and courts for the 91,000 Italian settlers in Tunisia. France has hoped these rights might be abandoned.

Mussolini's tacit demand that France get away from the Spanish government's side of the civil war barricades was an even more important snag in the Rome-Paris hand-shake.

Officially Britain was in a position of being willing to offer its good offices to either France or Italy in hurrying a settlement of the Spanish issue and thus facilitating a French-Italian agreement.

TRIAL FLIGHT

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CASE OF CHARACTERS
JACKIE DENN—heroine, who wanted to fly.
ROGER BRECKNER—hero, who wanted to test the stratosphere.
BEVLY MELROSE—sister, who wanted to fly.
EVELYN LA FARGE—Jackie's mother, who wanted a son-in-law.

Yesterday, Roger is found, critically injured, but the joy of the discoverer goes Jackie such gratitude as she has never known.

CHAPTER XVI
Roger's condition, which had only of the crack-up out of those two nights and days without medical attention, remained critical for some time. Newspapers held out very little hope for his recovery, especially a complete one.

Jackie spent all her time waiting for news. Nothing else mattered. She read every line in every single paper she could get. She kept phoning the field, or driving back and forth, in hopes she might learn something more. She did not know how big and solemn her eyes were, how pinched her pretty young face. She ate mechanically, forcing herself to swallow a few bites, or to drink some mild stimulant such as coffee or tea. At night she sat up toward daylight when she became completely exhausted.

"Dear me!" Evelyn said, holding up her lovely hands in despair. "You look like a former ghost of yourself, darling. You simply cannot go on like this. It is dreadful about poor Roger, of course. But it won't do for my little girl to go into a decline over him."

Jackie said she was not going into a decline. It was just like her mother to make something horrible and yet romantic out of it. How could Evelyn guess what Jackie was going through? She had never loved anyone as Jackie loved Roger.

"Something must be done about it," Evelyn decided. She drew her lovely brow into a thoughtful frown. "Let me think . . ."
"There's nothing to do," Jackie said, harshly. "Except what I am doing. Wait." She did wish Evelyn would let her alone, cease trying to think up schemes and suggestions. No doubt she meant to help. But nothing could help, except the word that Roger was out of danger.

But the latest report remained much the same—Jackie had just returned from the field—Roger was still unconscious, slightly delirious, his condition critical. She threw herself face down on her bed. She no longer shed tears. She had spent them all in that first dreadful fit of weeping, in the lonely stretches of the long nights. Oh! if only there was something she could do, some way to help. She felt so useless, so helpless. That was what made this waiting so terrible.

"I suppose I might as well send these things back to the shop," Evelyn said. She referred to the huge stack of boxes, containing the wedding dresses and veils, that she had sent out and had insisted Jackie try. "I'm afraid we won't use them now . . ." she sighed. It seemed such a pity, when she had so hoped to have a June wedding, with all its glamorous trimmings, for Jackie. "At least," she added, "I suppose we can't use them for some time."

"Please, Mother!" Jackie protested. She buried her face deeper in the pillows. Why must her mother remind her of that wedding that had only been pretense, anyway, a wedding that was not supposed to have taken place, that would, indeed, never take place now? Unless Roger got well, unless Jackie could convince him that she really loved him. Even then she did not know if Roger only had been pretending all the time or not; she did not know if Roger loved her . . .

"I'm sorry, darling—I didn't stop to think how badly that would make you feel," Evelyn came over to sit down on the bed by Jackie's side. She leaned over, stroking back the fair hair from the young sweet brow. She could understand her daughter now, at last. Jackie was behaving the way a girl should, a girl in love. Evelyn had known that given time enough Jackie would prove as romantically inclined as any girl. Every girl, at heart, was just the same, the wide world over—always had been and always would be.

"I know what I would do if Roger were my young man!" Evelyn said suddenly, for Evelyn, too, was likely to have ideas of her own. "Why, once, her beautiful eyes grew misty at the memory, "when your poor dear dead father was ill, darling—though it turned out to be nothing serious then, but I thought he was dying and I was so terribly upset—I went all the way up to Schenectady in the most dreadful, the dirtiest old train and then had to drive miles and miles in a horse and buggy, of all things! But nothing, no nothing, darling, could have kept me from going to him when I thought he needed me."

Jackie raised herself on one elbow. Why, her mother had loved someone then, just as she loved Roger now. Her mother had suffered and waited and worried . . . Jackie knew, not only from the tone of her voice, but from the look in her mother's eyes, a look she had never seen in them before. Maybe Evelyn was not always the romantic actress, playing at her romantic part. She had been just like any other woman, like her own daughter now.

"Did you love him, my father—so much?" Jackie asked.
Evelyn nodded; the tears that sprang into her eyes were genuine. "More than anyone, more than life itself, darling. I shall never really love anyone again. There never is any love like the first, my dear."

Yes, Jackie could believe that. If anything happened to Roger, if he did not get well, she would never again love anyone.
"Of course I am very fond of

Reilly

AS U.S. legislators considered a proposal to double housing funds, Acting Chairman M. K. Reilly (D-Wis.) of the House Banking Committee charged the program provides "home: better than 75 per cent of the people live in."

Paul," Evelyn said firmly, as though persuading herself of this fact. She gave her eyes a gentle graceful dab. "But, darling, that isn't what I was trying to tell you. What I meant was that if I were in love with Roger—and engaged to marry him—nothing could keep me from him—no, nothing on earth!"

"You mean you'd go to him—now!" Jackie sat up straight.
Her mother nodded. "Certainly I'd go to him. If I had to walk every step of the way! Though of course, darling, that won't be necessary." She smiled on Jackie fondly. "You won't even have to go in a dirty slow train, or travel

"Oh, Mother . . . why, of course, I can! Why didn't I think of it! How did you ever? Oh, you are the dearest, the most understanding mother, the best!" Jackie threw both her arms around Evelyn, hugging her with all her fierce young strength. She had scarcely known her mother, or understood her until now! She had never realized how wise, how kind she was beneath her fluffy, romantic exterior, her gay acting. Love did indeed make one see anew.

Evelyn gave her daughter a tight squeeze in response. She bent down to give her a motherly kiss, as well. She knew that she and Jackie would always understand one another, always be close, now.
"I'll phone Paul right away," she said, getting up from the bed. When Evelyn had an idea she put it through immediately. "He will gladly make all the necessary arrangements, I know. He will probably have to charter a private plane for you, darling. How soon shall I tell him you can be ready?"

"How soon?" Oh, Mother! Tell him I'm ready now! The golden fires leaped back into Jackie's anxious eyes, the soft color flooded her lovely face again.
She was going to Roger. She would be with him within a few short hours. Hope sprang, like new-born star, bright and luminous, within her heart.

A Challenge to American Citizenship

WHERE there is smoke there is bound to be fire, goes an old saying. Certainly a lot of smoke of curious hue is issuing from the domain of Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, N. J. The serious charge has been repeatedly made that citizens have been deprived of their civil rights of free speech and assembly in that community, and newspaper reports have constantly carried substantiating news. The federal department of justice has ordered a "thorough investigation." How thorough it will be depends upon the concern of the department for the maintenance of those liberties guaranteed to American citizens in the constitution, but we hope that it is sufficiently thorough to either disprove these charges or to expose what is certainly one of the most dangerous threats to the American system of free government, a cardinal principle of which is the protection of minorities in the exercise of those privileges without which dictatorships arise and oppression results.

MAJORITY coercion is a constant danger. It is fostered by political machines which build power through the distribution of patronage and favors. It exerts itself enormously against any opinion or action which threatens the success of the machine. It has no regard for individual rights in its rapacious greed to exploit. It has the same old object, the same old conscience of the tyrannies of monarchist days. The only difference exists in the means used. The despotism of today votes its way to power. It secures these votes with the lure of the same conscienceless greed which motivates its own organization, and those votes which it cannot obtain in that direction it coerces.

IN this day of great federal largess, when vast sums of money are poured into one community seemingly as if by magic, enormous resources for such political organization are afforded without immediate stress

Behind The Scenes in Washington

WASHINGTON, May 19.—There is nothing that gives more delight to Washington gossip than the stirring up of a factional fight in some government department. Not even the White House has been immune from these rows, when there have been differences of opinion among presidential advisers, and now the gossips are trying to make the most out of the case of the rest of the Supreme Court vs. Justice Black. Kennedy was more influential than any other administration ad-upon the local tax-payers. It presents a golden opportunity for the machine. And with the growth of the machine arise greater and greater threats to free government. The smoke arising from Jersey City, if it betokens a fire in which the most cherished American liberties are being consumed, is not the only instance of this condition in America. It is occurring in numerous other cities and places. It presents a definite challenge to American citizens who cling to the old ideals and who respect themselves and the system of government their forefathers provided with their blood.

It Looked Bad in 1857, Too

It is pretty cold comfort, when you are feeling blue, to be told that other people have felt blue before and have got over it. But if you can be shown that these other people felt blue in exactly the same way you do, had the same reasons you have for thinking they would never feel any better, and yet somehow did win through to sunny optimism once more—well, maybe that would help a little.

The publishing house of Harper and Brothers the other day dug up an editorial from Harper's Weekly, printed on Oct. 10, 1857, and for one reason and another the thing makes especially interesting reading right now.

"It is a gloomy moment in history," lamented the editor in 1857. "Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time."

"In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment and without the prospect of it."

"In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more sorely, in coping with the vast and deadly disturbed relations in China."

THE editor went on at considerable length in this vein, and his conclusion was that times were parous and that there was little hope in this world; but if he lived long enough he assuredly saw the storm clouds of 1857 dissipated and came out into a world wherein a man could be fairly satisfied with the present and decently hopeful about the future.

The interesting thing about, of course, is the fact that you would need to change only half a dozen words or so in order to make that old Harper's Weekly scree perfectly timely for use today.

Once again we live amid "grave and deep apprehension." Once again the future has "seemed incalculable." Once again we suffer from "commercial prostration and panic." The French political caldron is seething and bubbling again, Russia is still a dark cloud, the British empire is still in a tight place—and so on and so on, sentence by sentence.

BUT somehow the world did live through 1857 and the dire events which lay on 1857's horizon, and became a better and happier place.

Is one being a fatuous optimist to suggest that we shall ultimately be able to say the same thing of 1938 and its troubles?

A duel is scheduled in Cuba between a government official and a columnist. The latter may or may not find his rapier-like wit useful in this situation.

able analyses of his lone-wolf dissenting opinions, first reported in this column last February.

Black's supporters now claim that recently the court reversed a vital 96-year-old opinion in the Tompkins case, two weeks after Black had taken the same position in a one-man dissent.

Ambassador Joe Kennedy was a potent conservative influence in Washington. But he can't spread his influence across the Atlantic ocean. As maritime commission chairman, Kennedy emphatically demanded compulsory arbitration in the shipping industry, clashing with Secretary of Labor Perkins. After Kennedy went to London Miss Perkins kept lobbying quietly and the result was a committee bill providing a special maritime labor board and dropping the Kennedy plan.

HEAVY DOUGH

About Our Friends

By STEPH A. LONG

W. V. Gardenhire is opening a new service station on the Eighth street highway at M avenue under the management of Bub Dean and is announcing special sales and free deals for Saturday. This improvement is in line with the building up of Cisco business section along the new highway and as each new structure so far being erected is quite creditable, it is safe to say that Cisco will be greatly improved by the end of 1938.

J. B. Pratt is taking over the old Carroll Auto Supplies station at the corner of Eighth at Main for Magnolia sales and service, and is doing much remodeling to improve this valuable piece of property to take advantage of the new highway traffic.

Moad Bros. are putting the finishing touches to a vast improvement program at Main and E, where the new tourist structure will be a credit to that section of Cisco's business district. You may well watch these new men in Cisco grow as their business fills a much needed service.

Bill Mayhew is saying little about it but he is steadily getting established in a used tire venture just west of the theatre. Can't keep those Mayhews down... nor out of business of some kind.

And here is that irrepressible E. N. Dinwiddie overhauling the old T. P. station at the corner of Main at Fourth, opposite the Laguna. New blood sometimes helps a lot. Some of our old-timers who have had our ears whipped down so many times need an example of "We are Not Liked Until We Quit."

Which reminds us that Norvell-Miller in their general scheme of expansion have opened up the T. P. station at Ninth and Main adjacent to their new store. Carl Baird and James Lee will meet their friends there.

Bob and Jake at Garner's having trouble selling a rain coat... Bob cinches the deal by pushing the customer out in the rain and refusing to take the soiled coat back to have encouraged Georgia's governor, E. D. Rivers, who had been thinking of running against George on a New Deal platform.

Although Mr. Roosevelt pointedly complimented him at Gainesville while omitting reference to George, Rivers is receiving little encouragement from Washington. Democratic National Committee Treasurer Lawrence "Chip" Robert, another Georgian, has been reported as promoting George. If that's true it's a private, personal effort on Robert's part.

STORIES IN STAMPS

EGYPT'S TENSION LESSENS

TWO years ago a tense Egypt mapped extensive border fortifications in the face of rising international discontent and Italian arming in neighboring Libya. Mersa Matruh, which became a large military post during the Anglo-Italian tension in the Mediterranean since Great Britain was re-fortified, special anti-aircraft batteries were laid out for the Nile valley, and Alexandria was placed under the constant guard of the powerful British fleet. But now the barbed-wire barriers which were laid in the country of the Pharaohs do not loom significant since Great Britain and Italy have waffled a "treaty of friendship." For under this treaty Italy has agreed to reduce the Libyan garrison 50 per cent, lessening the tension of the British air force in turn has been sharply reduced along the 650-mile parched border. It seems to have come once more to the land of oases. A current Egyptian stamp, showing an air in flight over the ancient Pyramids, is shown here.

Human and Other Nature

By W. F. BRUCE

The other day, in the middle of a gravelly, sloping, well-drained yard that looked as if it could easily fall either by running off or by soaking down, I saw a lone blue-bonnet or two, blooming their best. The hope of the owner, or caretaker, is that it may one day fill the bare space about the house with a profusion of blue blossoms of our state flower. And is the hardy plant able to do that? In some way or other it has covered acres in some sections of the state. Gravelly soil, not too wet, seems to be its choice of a place to grow. Then it has the sentiment of Texas to cheer it on. And artists have deemed this humble flower a worthy subject of their brush and canvas. I suppose the bluebonnet, like many other pretty flowers, could become a troublesome weed that the farmer would want to plow up. But there are plenty of waste tracts that might much better and much more gracefully be covered with a growth of our adopted flower than with the roseswoods or broom plant or some other wild plants that have less beauty to win them favor and more uselessness and weediness to condemn them.

Farmers Turn From Cotton To Pine Trees

ATLANTA, May 19 (AP)—Planting the land of cotton are turning to the pine tree business to increase their incomes.

According to a shift from emphasis on cotton growing, State Forester Frank Heyward of Georgia today private forestry in the state is experiencing a phenomenal growth.

"Why not?" he asked. "The cotton planter is learning he can't get the pine trees, go off and forget it for a few years, and then he'll have a store of wood for products like paper and pulp, or for communication poles, and the like.

"Meanwhile, no watering, no weeding, no boll weevils to worry about and no plowing and easy harvesting."

Heyward gave figures on a survey of 192 landowners representing 724,674 acres in 27 Georgia counties to emphasize his contention that the private forest business is booming. Of the total he said, already were planters, 31 plant trees next fall, and all expressed interest in some phase of forestry.

"The cellulose age is beginning," he said. "Paper, container board, plastics, rayon and other products of processed wood appear to afford even further profitable outlets for forest products than exist."

With a little care and fire protection, the forester said, a farmer can figure on an annual income of $2 to $4 an acre, under a conservative estimate, from his forest, without any labor at all.

Eastland County Agricultural News

RANCHES TOLD SEEDS BEST TO USE

Eastland county ranchers and livestock farmers who plan to reseed part of their pasture land by the use of grass or legume seed in connection with the 1933 range program are being advised by the county agent that the county agricultural conservation committee has recommended the use, where adapted, of any one or combination of the following: Rescue grass, Bermuda grass, Italian rye grass, bur clover, black medic, and annual sweet clover.

Ranchers who use this practice in connection with the range program will receive 20 cents per pound of seed sown, but not in excess of $2 per acre. The practice must be used in combination with contour listing, furrowing, or ridging.

Seeds are not obtainable for sowing buffalo grass and curly mesquite grass, although these are recognized as the two best native grasses in Eastland county. The selections made by the county committee, it was explained, are probably the best grasses for which seed can be obtained.

County Agent Cook is urging farmers and ranchers to gather rescue grass seed along roads and fence rows where seed are now available as they will be shattered in a few days. Rescue grass makes a good late and early spring pasture. The supply of rescue grass seed for sale by dealers is limited this year.

Bermuda and Italian rye grass seed must be bought from dealers who import them. Italian rye is a temporary winter and spring grass but may re-seed itself if grazing is withheld for a short period during the spring.

Bur clover and black medic are very similar and will not thrive unless there is considerable winter rainfall. These and sweet clo-

RESCUE GRASS SEED GATHERED

Several hundred pounds of rescue grass seed have been gathered along roads and fence rows in Eastland county during the last two weeks by County Agent Cook, who used a group of N. Y. A. workers employed under a soil conservation project. The seed will be used on soil conservation demonstration plots in various parts of the county this fall. In addition to being used on pasture plots, the seed will be used along with other seed to determine a system of management to prevent sandy land from blowing after the harvest of crops.

HOPPER POISON FOR EASTLAND CO. FARMERS

"Eastland county farmers are not taking advantage of government poison to kill their grasshoppers before they grow and scatter." Only 1600 pounds of bait had been mixed at the plant in Cisco up to May 15.

WPA Sewing Room Holds Open House

The W. P. A. sewing room of Cisco, under the direction of Mrs. Callie Ward was open to the public Wednesday, May 11 from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The work being done in the sewing room is perhaps one of the most useful while government projects in Cisco.

Here women with no means of support are able to be self-sustaining. This fact alone would justify its operating, but there is the more important element of training and developing each woman to do her task neatly and up to a high standard of workmanship, thereby fitting her to be self-sustaining in the future.

Material furnished by the government is here cut into various garments. Competent supervisors inspect each woman's work. Only standard garments are turned in.

Nothing in this room is wasted, scraps of prints are made into quilts which in turn are given to the needy. Strings are made into

City Gets Fire Truck and Big Door

BUTTE, Mont., May 19 (AP)—When Butte's shiny, new $9,500 fire department pumper truck arrived all the city was proud.

City officials sent out an SOS for a good carpenter.

The "21" Study club met at the club house on Tuesday afternoon of last week for a Music Day program. Roll call responses were Uties of folk songs. Leader of the program was Mrs. W. C. Bedford. The first topic was "The Amateur Music Maker" by Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass. The second topic was "Music Takes off Its High Hat" (John Ershing) by Mrs. C. A. Skipping.

Walter Danrosch on "John Erskine" was read by Mrs. W. C. Bedford. The club's most talented reader, Mrs. C. W. Mally, then read "The Lost Chord," by Adelaide Proctor. The closing number was the unison singing of "Old Folks at Home." In the year-book

May 3 to 9 was noted as music week and the thought for the day was "Music washes away from the soul, the dust of every-day life." Mrs. C. W. Mally was hostess for the day and had used wild flowers in the decorations. She served delicious refreshments of chicken sandwiches, pineapple fluff topped with marshmallows, caramel layer cake and iced tea. Those present were Misses Rubalee Krapf and Adell Mally and Mrs. A. C. Moore, guests, and the following members: Mmes. J. E. Heeter, S. E. Snodgrass, Charles Lee, David Parks, C. A. Skipping, W. H. Davis, W. C. Bedford and the hostess, Mrs. Mally.

G. S. Bruce, accompanied by his son, Guy Bruce, of Port Arthur, drove up to Thurber Lake and spent Wednesday fishing.

Mrs. McKinney, of Waco, came Wednesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Joe Gibson, who is still seriously ill. Another sister, Mrs. Jeff Davis, of Dallas, came Monday afternoon. Her many friends hope Mrs. Gibson may soon begin to improve.

The Methodist Missionary society met Monday afternoon at the church and had the "World Outlook" program. Opening song was "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go," followed by prayer by Mrs. W. H. Whitworth. The Scripture lesson was read by the president, Mrs. Preston Sparks. Mrs. Charles Lee gave a good report of the meeting of the Cisco District Missionary societies held at Dublin on Tuesday of last week. Others who attended the meeting were Rev. and Mrs. O. D. McDonald and Mrs. Preston Sparks. Leader of the program was Miss Mollie O'Rear who stated the theme was "60 Years in China" and gave a synopsis of the several kinds of missionary work during the past 60 years. Responsive reading from the year-book was given by all members after which Miss Agatha Genoway read several passages of Scripture. Cotton Research Expedition Will Go To Washington

A "Cotton Laboratory Expedition" of Texas cotton farmers and representatives of all allied cotton industries will leave Texas for Washington on Saturday, May 28, to present to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace a brief setting forth reasons why Texas should be the site of the contemplated cotton research laboratory. It was announced Monday by Burris C. Jackson, chairman of state-wide cotton committee of Texas. Definite decision for trip was made Saturday in Dallas at meeting of sub-committee preparing final brief composed of Experiment Station Director A. B. Conner; Bureau of Business Research Director A. B. Cox; Texas Tech Textile Head M. E. Herd; Dallas News Agricultural Editor Victor H. Schoffelmayer; Etex Chamber Agricultural Director Elmore R. Torn.

The group will confer with Dr. J. T. Jardine, heading research activities of U. S. Department of Agriculture, in Washington, Tuesday, May 31. Also to be discussed with officials will be cotton improvement, better ginning and insect control, the other three objectives of the state cotton committee work. Delegates said it was the first time all farm groups and all cotton industries of Texas had agreed on such a comprehensive slate of cardinal points and are fighting for them shoulder-to-shoulder.

Elmore Torn, Box 590, Longview, will serve as secretary to Texas delegation and all inquiries and reservations should be directed to him, Jackson said.

Every member of the State-wide committee is being urged to go, which represents all groups, but in addition every other cotton farmer and business man wishing to march and work hand-in-hand with the "expedition" in its purposes is cordially invited and requested to make Washington trip, Torn explained.

Concentration points will be Dallas and Longview and official designated route from there for going and return trip will be Texas Pacific railway to Tarkenton; Missouri Pacific to St. Louis; New York Central Lines to Cincinnati; and C. & O. to Washington; with return B. & O. to St. Louis and M. K. & T. lines to Texas.

Consult your local railways agent for schedules and route of joining "expedition" before it leaves Longview at 6:30 p. m. Saturday, May 28. Signify your intention of making trip and type of Pullman reservation desired to Elmore Torn at Longview as early as possible.

Full details of trip will be placed in hands of all chamber of commerce secretary-managers and county agents.

Pallbearers are: Bob Elliott, Jack Anderson, Boad Parrish, A. G. Tuttle, J. B. Pratt, and L. G. McPherson.

Mrs. Hubbard was a member of the Baptist church.

Interment will take place in Kopperl cemetery, Morgan, Texas.

Mrs. Hubbard is survived by her husband, one brother, and two sisters.

Crackdown on Fraud Ordered by Jobless Comm'n

AUSTIN, May 19--A statewide crackdown on fraudulent attempts to obtain jobless benefits has been ordered by Orville S. Carpenter, chairman-director of the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, in an announcement today.

"The commission feels that there has been a sufficient period of education during which we have instructed people that they can't draw full compensation while they are working. Now we are going to crack down and prosecute to the limit of the law any attempts to obtain unemployment benefits by making false statements on income and employment," Carpenter said.

Four convictions have been obtained already in the first charges to be brought into court for violations of the unemployment compensation law. The maximum penalty for filing a false claim is a fine of fifty dollars or thirty days in jail, or both.

"These cases on which we have obtained convictions," Carpenter said, "are the first evidences of attempted fraud to happen but we intend to stop promptly these practices wherever they occur."

"These efforts of persons who are employed and representing themselves to be unemployed, or persons partially employed, failing to report their earnings in order to get jobless benefits, are going to be stopped. Employees are being told the bill for unemployment compensation and the commission is going to prosecute.

"Employees will not be allowed to collect money to which they are not entitled and they should realize that the complete record commission on each claim will prevent the success of such fraudulent attempts."
