BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.—Col. 1, 2.

Know ye not that God receives Gladly back the soul that grieves?

He who walketh unto God, God will run upon the road. All the quicker to forgive One who learns at last to live.

For thy mercies' sake Us to sweet peace and pity take. —EDWIN ARNOLD.

A truthful heart strengthens to the end, and to the last we will trust.

Our Destiny Isn't Dream-- It's Work

PROBABLY the greatest danger facing the American people today is not so much the danger that they will do something wrong as the danger that they will fail to do something right.

In some ways we are a peculiar people. We have our emotional ups and downs, and they often carry us a long way; but underneath everything we still have that old-fashioned trust in our own star—the feeling that somehow, sometime, we shall come out all right because it is so written in the skies.

17-Year-Old Is Named on World Fair Committee

NEW YORK, July 1.—"A real iron man" and "the youngest and gamest" member of the sports committee of the New York World's Fair 1939 is how Lou Gehrig of the Yankees describes 17-year-old Charlie Johnson, of 1926 Victoria Avenue, Los Angeles, California.

Such a characterization is not strange in application of a youngster of stout heart and sunny disposition, but it becomes truly remarkable when one realizes that Charlie has been confined to his bed for the last six years.

He is suffering with an ailment which has necessitated already 35 blood transfusions and a patience almost beyond understanding. Yet, Charlie is determined to get well someday, and it is this fighting-heart determination which has won for him the admiration of the brightest stars in the world of sport and athletics.

Keeps Up With Sports Precious few activities, save of mind, are left for anyone bedridden as Charlie is, and for so long. His almost only diversion now is keeping track of the major events in sport and of those most prominent in them.

Through newspaper accounts and his much-prized radio set, Charlie is probably as familiar with athletics and athletes as anyone else in the country. His has on his fingertips the records and names in football, baseball, golf, track and field and other departments of sport.

Coach Bob Zuppke, of the University of Illinois, visited Charlie in Los Angeles not long ago and was so struck by the youngster's pluck and hopefulness and his unusual interest in sport that when he returned East he sang Charlie's praises in every ear. One result of this was a flood of letters to the youth, messages of cheer from Gene Tunney, Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Tony Lazzeri, Charlie Gehringer, Joe DiMaggio, Bob Feller, and one point the other day in an address before Yale Law School alumni at New Haven.

"The most deadly problem facing America is not fascism nor collectivism," he said. "It is the widespread feeling that we have a destiny and that we shall reach it without individual thought, individual initiative or active public service."

BELIEF in one's destiny is a fine thing to have—but not if that belief gets set up as an idol, to be worshipped on holy days and fast days with fine talk and fancy phrases, but never to be served by actual deed.

And there is a real danger that we may begin giving our belief that kind of service. As a matter of fact, there are plenty of signs that we have already begun to do so.

We are, for instance, fond of saying that we are the richest country in the world and that therefore widespread poverty and unemployment should not long endure in our land. That is a perfectly sound and sensible statement; but when we simply let it rest there, and blissfully sit on our hands waiting for poverty and unemployment to end themselves, we are giving way to a foolish and dangerous trust in our own destiny.

What we need to understand is that no people's destiny is really written in the stars. It is written in the minds and hearts of men, instead, and is hammered out by toil, self-sacrifice, courage and the kind of practical, shirt-sleeves faith that moves mountains.

It was our destiny, perhaps, to win our freedom from England, to expand and conquer a continent, to establish a working democracy and to provide the common man with a practical vision of freedom. Yet those things were not done by a people who sat back and beamed fondly on the mysterious workings of fate; they were done by people who got down into the thick of things and worked their heads off.

So perhaps we would be better off if we stopped talking about our destiny. Our destiny is what we make it—no more and no less.

Comes a story of a German woodworker who wears two artificial legs and an artificial arm of his own manufacture. A self-made man.

It's announced that motorists in California, land of the tan and the sunburn, prefer light brown and red automobiles. It's also announced that in eastern industrial cities, like Pittsburgh, the preference is black.

As July approaches, the question comes to mind if anybody ever ate any of those thousands of eggs that have been poached on sidewalks down through the years.

Made Committee Member

In the mail which went to Charlie in mid-June was one communication which gave him special delight. It was the official certificate designating him as member of the committee on sports of the New York World's fair 1939.

Charlie Johnson would have been graduated from high school this June had it not been for his prolonged illness. His schoolmates keenly regretted that he was thus deprived of graduation and ten of them gathered recently at his bedside in his home to cheer him up and say that they hoped he'd be up and ready for the ceremonies next year. These ten youngsters were more than just schoolmates. Each one had donated blood to Charlie in his fight against the disease which struck him down.

A token of Charlie's cheerfulness lies in his comment when he learned

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JOSEPH SANDHAM—hero; he thought he was on top of the world until he was snatched into KELLY ARCHER—heroine; she thought she was headed for the altar until she was snatched into ED THE WEASEL—gangster; he thought he was headed somewhere, too, but affairs somehow got mixed up.

Yesterday: The Weasel escaped the police and the trio moves on while Kelly thanks Ed for an "entertaining" evening!

CHAPTER VIII
 With this remark conversation lapsed. For mile after mile Joe drove on steadily, with Kelly sleeping peacefully at his side.

Two o'clock in the morning found the Ford west of Albany proceeding swiftly toward Syracuse. The Weasel had directed Joe as to what roads to take to his hideout across from Niagara Falls. Shortly they stopped for gas and the Weasel obtained a New York tabloid from the all-night station. As they moved on again he searched for news of his robbery.

"Here it is," he announced. "Bank robber ee-ludes po-lice. Stop a second so's I can read it." The account was brief. It stated merely that the bank at North Collision, Connecticut, had been held up by a lone bandit early that morning; that the robber was believed to have gotten away with approximately $20,000; that his car had been found abandoned, but the man himself appeared to have made a clean getaway; that there was no clew to his identity.

"No clew to his i-identity," quoted the Weasel, brimming with self-satisfaction. "I'll say dey ain't. I pulled dat job clean an' n'est . . . hey, wot da hell?" A paper had been suddenly snatched from his fingers. And Sandham, eyes popping, was seen at the reproduction of a photograph that occupied almost the whole of the back page. Below the picture was the caption: SOCIETY GIRL MISSING—KIDNAPING FEARED.

The blurb read:
 Up to a late hour last night nothing had been heard of Miss Caroline Archer who disappeared from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George K. Archer of 895 Park Avenue, on Tuesday. Mem-with a brain between his ears would do. Listen, Weasel, I met this girl by accident. But as soon as I found out who she was, I saw my chance. She was on her way to Boston to marry some bird up there. But her car got wrecked so she asked me to drive her. Well, I had about as much intention of driving her to the moon as to Boston. And I was just—just—er—figuring things out when you came along. And now—he sighed regretfully—"I suppose I'll have to cut you in."

The Weasel grasped this. This was the kind of language he spoke. He thrust his gun against Joe's back. "You're tellin' me," he said, "—and how. 'Cause I got a gun, see? An' I'm runnin' the show, plenty."

"There you go," said Joe disgustedly. "Gettin' tough. You gun guys have no art, no finesse. All you know is rough stuff. But, me? Why, listen, I'm so slick that this girl doesn't even know she's being kidnaped. How about that?" "Dat's a good one," said the Weasel appreciatively. "Being kidnaped an' she don't know it. Haw! Haw!" "Well," said Joe, with a trace of truculence, "have I brains or haven't I?" "You said it, fella," the Weasel admitted. "You had me sucked in. I t'ought you wanted to marry da goil." "That's what she thinks too. Wait'll she wakes up."

This appealed to the Weasel as humor of a high order. He shook with silent mirth on his case of Chandler & Sandham's Peanut Tweeties.

"Now look," said Joe, getting down to business. "I wouldn't have told you a thing about this if I hadn't seen it was necessary. But you've got the drop on me, pard, as we say out in Arizona where the bad men are. And what I want to know is, how far are you prepared to go to earn your cut?"

The Weasel scratched his head. "Gee, I dunno," he said. "I ain't hep to da snatch racket." "Well, I am. In fact, I wrote the words and music. You don't have to worry your head. All I want to know is, what will you do?" "You mean you done kidnapin' before?" asked the Weasel unbelievably.

Joe flashed his head around and looked at him, pityingly. "Have I done it before? Don't be a cluck." "Well," said the Weasel, "wot you want I should do?" "Ain't that much of a place," the Weasel told him. "It's a kinda shack."

"Shack, eh? Well, that sounds all right. Where is it?" "Pretty near St. Catharines. Ontario?" "Hub?" "Skip it. I guess it's Ontario, all right. Now then, do you think dat Cissy can handle this girl? She's a redhead, you know. They're plenty tough."

"That," said Joe, with imperceptible scorn, "makes everything okay. Well, how about going straight there? We better get out of the country before we fool around with ransom notes or anything. Time enough for that later. I suggest we drive like hell for Niagara Falls."

"Sure," said the Weasel. And he added: "Dis here's a natural, ain't it?" "You spoke that time. By the way, we haven't said anything about the cut. How would fifty-fifty be?" "Fifty-fifty," said the Weasel, "is okiedoke wid me."

Connally Will Lead Cowboy
Reunion Parade

STAMFORD, July 1.—Senator
Tom Connally of Marlin will lead the big parade at the Texas Cowboy reunion at Stamford, July 5th, according to Walt Cousins, president of the Texas Cowboy Reunion association. The 9th annual reunion and rodeo will open for a three-day run on July 4th at Stamford. Thousands of dollars have been spent for improvements on the twenty-acre reunion grounds and the show this year will be staged in what is probably the finest rodeo plant in the country. Last year's crowd was estimated at 70,000 people and a larger crowd is expected this year.
The Stamford rodeo is purely amateur. professional rodeo performers are not permitted to compete.

Poultry and Egg
Shipments Down

AUSTIN, July 1—Shipments of poultry and eggs from Texas to interstate points during May declined substantially from those of the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.
Poultry shipments totaled 66 cars,
compared with 91 cars a year ago
—a drop of 27 per cent; while 35 cars of eggs were shipped out during May this year against 76 during May, 1937, a drop of 54
per cent.

Only four cars of eggs were brought into Texas from other states during May, compared with 24 cars during the like month a year ago.
