LOCAL MEN DEBATE LIFTING OF 2 DAY SHUTDOWN

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

Lobos may come down and get almost any kind of victory they wish now. I bet that game Friday was the best I have ever seen. No one ever had a more dramatic and thrilling finish. The game in the last two minutes of it was no fluke. It was a real drama, a struggle on the field that was as important as any that ever took place between the two teams of a football stadium. And Lobos won it. They would have won that all-important game if the Brownwood Lions, the finest fighting bunch of players that the Lobos have had all season, had taken the lead at the end of Friday's score. And here, let me say that in doing so, the Lobos really did something that should be proud of that victory.

The real game wasn't played on Chasley field Friday afternoon. It was played nobly and gloriously in the hearts and minds of a squad of gray and clad youngsters who found real selves that day. There the real drama, a struggle on the field that was as important as any that ever took place between the two teams of a football stadium. And Lobos won it. They would have won that all-important game if the Brownwood Lions, the finest fighting bunch of players that the Lobos have had all season, had taken the lead at the end of Friday's score. And here, let me say that in doing so, the Lobos really did something that should be proud of that victory.

Don't know whether the boys beat Graham next week or not. Graham has a powerful team that is rated tops in the toughest districts in state. Probably it is asking much to ask a victory there. But I believe that the boys found themselves and that Friday night and on each that they play thereafter they will realize too.

It was like old times Friday, spirit to win or give everything in the effort was there. Nothing suppressed, long fight dead, seemed literally to come out of the earth and electricity to the community. Something happens when a tremendous wildcat oil well is brought in. Everything is changed in an instant. Doubt, uncertainty, a hope suddenly were swept away in a burst of startling reality. Confidence, certainty, the desire to win took their places. It was a magical change of character that was as positive as the touchdown run which gave home team its victory was trying.

And this was because some boys and themselves, found that they win against hard opposition they really fight, found an attitude and a spirit that make champions. That is the reality of Friday's game—not the accepted pass or the long run, the first downs made, the loss of the opposition stopped.

It was the first time in years that a Lobos football team has fought hard to win a game. I love that they can do it, that they have the ability and that they have the banner as proud a banner as any. And I believe that they have the spirit to make new and proud history for their school and team.

Once more, the Lobos are champions.

SENATE TO BE 'INDEPENDENT'

No Charley McCarthey Says Senator

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Senator Wheeler of Montana predicted today that the majority of the senate would vote "independently" on all administration measures at the next session. Wheeler, declaring this right to be his last term, said he would vote as he saw fit on all legislative proposals that the white house sent to the capitol. He said "This doesn't mean the senate is going to oppose any and all administration legislation. It does mean we're not going to be Charlie McCartheys."

EXPORT DROP COMPLICATES FARM RELIEF

Cotton Consumption Abroad Shows Big Decline This Season

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (AP)—Farm officials said today a drastic decline in exports complicates the administration's efforts to solve agriculture's most pressing problem—the existence of price-depressing cotton surpluses. Official foreign trade reports show that during August and September cotton exports totalled 589,509 bales as compared with 837,859 bales of the corresponding months of last year. Domestic consumption also declined. Agriculture department officials are developing plans to remove part of the surplus by selling textile goods to low-income and relief families at cut rates.

Ciscoan on Patrol Pistol, Rifle Team

J. L. Cearley, formerly of Cisco and now with the Texas Highway patrol, was in Cisco for several days this week on vacation. He returned to his duties Saturday. Cearley, with the department only a year, is a member of the department's pistol and rifle team which recently competed in the international matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, and the southwestern meet at Dallas. At Camp Perry, although it was the first time that the department team entered the meet, the Texans won 20 medals of which Cearley won three. At Dallas it captured two cups and 36 medals.

Colorful Panorama Presented by Bands

One of the most colorful features of the stirring Cisco-Brownwood football game Friday was the bands and cheering sections of the respective schools. The Cisco yell leaders were especially noticeable in their white and gold-trimmed uniforms, as was the smartly drilled Lobo band which gave a fancy exhibition between halves. The new uniforms were resplendent in the bright sunshine and comments were many on the striking appearance they presented. The Brownwood band was also impressive as was the drum corps. Between halves the Brownwood organizations formed the letters CHS and BHS which were truly striking in their execution and drew many favorable comments.

WPA Employees Beleaguer Post Office Saturday

Local post office officials had a traffic congestion problem of their own Saturday afternoon when employees of the Works Progress Administration gathered at the post office building to receive their checks which are delivered on Saturday afternoon. The crowd that filled the lobby and overflowed the grounds was estimated at not less than 400 by Luther McCrea, postmaster, and surrounding streets were congested by the numerous automobiles. Only one pay envelope addressed to ladies of the sewing room remained undelivered Saturday afternoon and practically every envelope addressed to employees in Cisco was delivered together with over half of those addressed to rural and Star route employees. The group was of such size that a number of telephone inquiries were received concerning the reason for the crowd.

He suggested that organization choose five of its "trusted and experienced representatives" who would select three disinterested persons. ### COMM'N TOLD WOULD CAUSE LARGE WASTE

State-Wide Hearing Gradually Develops Into Debate

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (AP)—Raymond Buck, representing the Barnsdall Oil company, today told the railroad commission at the state-wide prorotation hearing that termination of the Saturday and Sunday shut-downs would increase the "chaotic" conditions of the oil industry and cause a physical waste prohibited by law. The hearing developed into a debate among operators whether the two-day shut-down in Texas oil fields should be discontinued. Roy Starnes, independent producer, said oil prices were artificially high and warned against the disregard of the consumers' rights "at destruction come from the public."

Cisco Charity, Welfare Ass'n To Begin Fund Drive

The Cisco Charity and Welfare association Saturday announced the opening of their drive to obtain funds for maintenance of the organization's work during the next six months. Chairman M. E. Applegate, Secretary Mrs. W. W. Wallace, and Treasurer Roy Wilson, officers, issued the following appeal and statement of the organization's 1937-38 program: "The Cisco Charity and Welfare association is again asking the people of Cisco for rance, clothing and anything to help to carry on the much needed relief work in our community for the next six months, from November 1, through May of 1939. There is a large group of people, men, women and children, within our city limits who for various reasons are not receiving federal or state aid—this group therefore becomes the responsibility of Cisco. The city is not at this time in a position to materially serve these people and we ask you to remember it is more systematic and satisfactory to render this service through one definite organization than otherwise. Fully recognizing your right to know how and where your money went the past year we are again publishing a condensed report of the work done and do earnestly ask every business firm, organization and individual to give as liberally as you can; the needs of the organization will from time to time be brought to your attention. "Thirteen hundred eighty-four garments were distributed, 371 pairs of shoes given away, many household articles, covers, magazines and books given, garden seed furnished 52 families, clothing and medical aid given six new babies, 218 children were given fruit, candy and toys Christmas, 21 transients were given aid, the executive secretary made 124 visits into homes in Cisco. There were 65 families on the organization's files with 190 children included when the office closed June 1, 1938. Financial statement, for the six months: Amount on hand November 1, 1937, $607.06. Amount spent: Gas for office, $7.66; telephone for office, $15.67; rent for office, $48.00; groceries, $179.20; drugs, $34.28; executive secretary's salary, $185.00; nursery school, $84.39; incidentals, $18.00, and transients, $4.78.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Go up in peace to thine house: see, I have hearkened to thy voice.—2 Sam. xxv. 15.

Think not of tomorrow.
Its trials or its tasks,
But still with childlike spirit
For present mercies ask.

With each returning morning
Cast old things away.
Life's journey lies before thee.
Let thy prayers be for today.

Duty, be it in a small matter or a great, is duty still: the command of Heaven, the eldest voice of God. And it is only they who are faithful in a few things, who will be faithful over many things.—Charles Kingsley.

To Pleas for Peace the Nation Cries 'Amen'

WHEN Teamster Jim Tobin got up at the American Federation of Labor convention and declared that labor's rank and file would vote for peace between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. by a majority of 20 to 1, if they ever got the chance, he wasn't saying the half of it.

It is not only labor's rank and file which would vote that way. The country at large would vote the same way. For labor's internal war has exhausted the patience of practically everybody.

Underneath the bitter personal antagonisms and conflicting personal ambitions of the top labor leaders there is, of course, a fundamental row over a principle. The issue of craft union versus industrial union goes beyond personalities, and men who honestly believe that labor's salvation lies along one of these two lines will have a hard time in reaching a compromise.

Yet this basic principle is being overshadowed now by something more important.

THINGS have got to the stage where the principle itself is less significant than the fight which is based on it. For it this fight, of itself, gives labor a crippling blow, then it ceases to make much difference which of the two principles prevails.

Labor has made tremendous gains in the last few years. It has reached a more influential and solid position than it ever before had. The principle of collective bargaining has at last been generally accepted, almost everywhere. Protection for labor's rights is written into federal law.

But the gains that were won swiftly can be lost swiftly, too. Already there are very clear signs of a reaction. In the far west especially there are now pending measures which would seriously limit labor's activities. If the reaction continues, these measures will pass and will be followed by even more stringent ones.

And the point to bear in mind is that such measures have been pretty largely provoked by labor's own internal quarrel. That quarrel has tried the public's patience; all too often it has canceled out the honest efforts of employers to adjust themselves to the new era in labor relations. If it continues, it will lead labor into something closely resembling a disaster.

"PEACE at any price" is a dangerous phrase—as witness Mr. Chamberlain and Czechoslovakia. But in this case, peace at the price of compromise, peace at the price of submerging the ambitions of individual labor leaders—such a peace would be cheaply bought.

It is time for labor to settle its quarrel. If it takes the resignation of a few top labor leaders, revision of certain basic programs, direct intervention and mediation by the president—well, okay. The one important thing right now is to get the fight over with.

Oh for the old days when nothing was horridier
To Hitler than the Polish Corridor!

An attempt to revive wrestling in London has failed. One man wrestling another looks like small potatoes after watching Chamberlain wrestling with foreign policy.

The fraternities have their "Hell Weeks," and from Oct. 2 to 8 the mailmen have National Letter Writing Week.

About Our Friends

By STEPHEN LONG

Yes, we are going to say just that. "We told you so." First honors go to the coaches for it was their training that made it possible. . . and then next to the team who put their training and power. . . and FIGHT. . . don't forget that spirit of fight. . . into the game that found the break and cashed in on it. . .

That game bid fair to be a successful tie. . . Brownwood searched well into her bag of tricks. . . and she had a whole sack full of tricks. . . But the Lobos were on the job. . . they played smart football. . . they watched every thing. . . and then when O. Harrison caught that pass and started galloping up the line and then cut across. . . the whole Lobo team clicked like a well oiled machine. . .

It was a glorious day for Cisco. . . Hearts raced and sank again to low ebb as crucial moments came and went. . . When Harrison faced up the line hundreds of men and women held out their arms and pushed with all their might to help if possible to get him through. . . Right here we want to apologize for any pushing we did to our neighbors on the stands. . . We are sure that we crowded on each side at crucial moments of the game. . . We found ourselves standing up when we were supposed to be sitting down. . . Don't know when we arose. . .

Mrs. Phillips, mother of Dewey who has been playing on the grammar team, was seeing her second game. . . she didn't understand the points of the game but her sportsman spirit rose to the occasion and we really believe she will reconsider her comment regarding her fighting son's continuing on the team. . . and we understand that Dewey is a fighting spirit in the games. . . She found her enthusiasm mounting to fever heat and understands better the feeling that makes real players out of boys on the squad. . .

JIMMIE DAN CHESHIRE

Here is a cute little chap. . . a manly little friendly fellow that we met on the street a few days ago. . . Was walking along proudly with his Dad and looked so very striking in his red suit, cowboy boots and all that we stopped and inquired his name. . . a little while later he brought us his picture and we asked Mr. Butler to make this cut for us. . . and so here it is. . . His parents live with him at 201 west 12th street.

"Under the Courthouse Roof"

THE EIGHTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT COURT (Judge Patterson, Presiding)
New Cases Pending

The following cases were filed in the district clerk's office for hearing in the 88th court:

J. H. Reynolds vs. Cassidy Southwestern Commercial Co. et al, garnishees. Carrie E. Tipton vs. Fannie J. Kimmell et al, action to cancel trust estate, etc. Carrie E. Tipton vs. Josephine Tipton et al, to cancel certain deeds and declare separate property.

Jeff Brimberry et ux, vs. J. W. Maddy et al, damages. Judgment by agreement in favor of plaintiffs individually and for Dorothy Lee Brimberry, minor, against J. W. Maddy, for $378.85, and to plaintiffs Jeff and Myrl Brimberry, individually, $333.34 for loss of the services of Dorothy Lee Brimberry, from whom sum plaintiffs are to pay Allen D. Dabney's agreed attorney's fees of $166.67, and to the minor, $166.66, and

Frank Sparks, made answer in a special and general denial of the allegations of plaintiff, in which any contempt of court was attempted or intended in the disposition of the cattle, as defendant Barton later testified and the counsel alleged, was unaware of the injunction and unfamiliar with the terms of an injunction; that Barton testified he was informed that verdict was for the defendants in the original trial.

During the reading of the motion and answers counsel for both the plaintiff and defendants made numerous exceptions which were noted by the court.

Defendant Barton, testifying admitted he had been served with the writ of injunction, but stated that he was in Kilgore at the time the cattle were delivered to the commission men, and that Mashburn made the delivery and delivered the checks to him at Kilgore. He said he deposited the checks in a Kilgore bank and re- mitted the proceeds funds to a Wichita Falls firm for money borrowed. (Objections by defense were overruled by the court.) The court asked the witness several questions to clarify his testimony.

The case was still under way Friday afternoon, to be concluded Saturday.

Special Venues

Judge Patterson set for trial Wednesday, Oct. 19, the three capital cases pending on the criminal docket. He stated that one of the cases will likely go to trial, but was not determined Friday, which of the case will be announced ready.

The cases are Fate Campbell, murder, in connection with the death of Buford Taylor. Mrs. Jackson Peters, murder, growing out of the death of Mrs. Mae Pierce, and T. Z. Short, statutory rape.

THE NINETY-FIRST DISTRICT COURT

(Judge Davenport, Presiding)
Cases Pending

The 91st court docket in the district clerk's office shows the following recent cases filed for litigation in Judge Davenport's court:

Myrtle Burns vs. Guaranty Reserve Mutual Life Insurance Co., to collect an insurance policy. Pauline Gowan vs. Steve Gowan, divorce.

Judgments and Orders

A $15,000 cause of action was tried in the 91st court the past week when a judgment was rendered for the plaintiff in the case of A. R. Lowmire et ux vs. Leslie Jones Sanders and husband, De Leon. Sanders, et al, suit for cancellation of deed from defendants Leslie Jones Sanders and husband, De Leon, to Annie Stane. Plaintiff was awarded a judgment for $13,000 plus interest, cost, etc., and foreclosure on real estate in litigation.

Sheriff's Department

Deputy E. W. Underwood, of the sheriff's department, reported the arrest of Bertina May Terry, colored, on a charge of felony theft, and her release on bail of $750.

Sheriff Loss Woods spent several days in Albany last week, checking up on extensive cattle stealing being unearthed in Shackelford county. He stated many of the sheriffs of west Texas counties were on the same mission. It was reported that the cattle thefts resulted in over 20,000 cattle being sold to buyers in Fort Worth and other markets, but a noticeable fact that few of those selling cattle had their herds diminished, if any. Sheriff's deputies were busy last week in summoning jurors for the special venues from which to select juries to try the three capital cases set for trial in the 88th court for next Wednesday.

Cisco Defeats Brownwood Lions 7-0 In Thriller

Harrison Runs Yards in Last Minutes

Lobos scored a touch-down intercepted pass in the minutes of play to defeat Brownwood Lions 7-0 Friday. Their place among the state and untied class the state together with the eastern half of the Oil and Buckaroos.

... were lengthening on up from the field in the evening an expression of a game that appeared to be a sure thing for a scoreless and tame when Odell Harrison, another heart-stopping finish on hold in the recent individual performance. In a long pass thrown from the back of Brownwood on his rocketed down the field for 60 yards and a touch-down. In the play he was greatly aided by the blocking that left the way from the Cisco line.

... the Lobos was of no account with last week's personal pass defense was greatly improved and the line play was superior rather than anything so line of M. Harrison, Robert Cone, Rex Pollard, Parks Baker, Walter Preston played some football, rocking the Brownwood forward wall for the most of the game. The blocking of Captain Bill Latch and Ramon Reames accounted for much yardage gained by Cisco and the blocks these boys contributed on the touchdown run perhaps were decisive. Reames' punting was especially good, going for an average of 33 yards per kick. Captain Coy Warren, leading scorer in the Oil Belt, was a constant threat with his runs and passes and although evidently a marked man for the Lions defense, managed to break away several times.

Harrison Outstanding. Turning in the finest performance of his career, Odell Harrison was leading ground gainer of the game and one of the truly outstanding defensive linemen seen in this section in many and many a day. He played this game with a fierce, furious fighting spirit and the credit he deserves is unlimited.

Outstanding for Brownwood were Dal Fish whose sterling defensive play at linebacker kept Brownwood in the game all the way, and Charles Rice with his elusive ball-carrying. The powerful Brownwood forward wall was also much in evidence.

The Game Cisco kicked-off to Brownwood opening the game; the ball was downed on the Lions' 30 from where the visitors picked up two first downs and 20 yards to the 50 before the Lobo defense stiffened. From then on during the first half Cisco carried the battle to the Lions, the quarter ending with the Lobos midway in a drive on the Brownwood 28 and no score as yet.

During the second quarter the Lobos dominated play even more markedly than in the first, penetrating to the Brownwood five, ten, and fourteen yard line on various occasions only to have penalties, fumbles, and an intercepted pass deny them a touchdown. During the second quarter the Brownwood eleven was in possession of the ball only twice and punted early on both occasions. The quarter ended shortly following an attempted field goal from the 25 yard line by Odell Harrison which was low and wide, and after Cisco had run over everything but the goal line, piling up nine first downs to two and a wide margin in ground gained. The score was still 0-0.

Second Half Opening the second half the complexion of the game changed greatly; defenses of both teams stiffened and the contest settled into a punting duel with Brownwood throwing almost three passes to every series of downs. The battle saw-sawed for the most part around midfield and in the Lobos' territory. Neither team penetrated greatly and the quarter ended without score. Play was slightly dominated during this period by the Lions.

Opening the final quarter Brownwood made its only bona side scoring gesture, advancing on passes from the Cisco 46 to the 20 where the stalwart Lobo defense stopped both passes and run plays, the drive ending on a desperate fourth down pass which was batted down. Play then reverted to its former defensive vein until late in the quarter when a pass and several run plays carried Cisco to the 50 where a fumble was recovered by Brownwood. A few plays later Fish of Brownwood hurled the fatal pass which Odell Harrison intercepted on his own 40 and ran back for a touchdown. Reames placekick struck the crossbar and bounced over for the conversion, making the score 7-0 in favor of the Lobos.

Taking Cisco's kick-off following the touchdown Brownwood started another wild passing attack which ended promptly with Odell Harrison's second interception on the 50. Cisco then whiled away the rest of the game with line plunges and off-tackle slants and the game ended with the score still 7-0 in favor of the Lobos.

SERIAL STORY
MURDER TO MUSIC

BY NARD JONES

CAST OF CHARACTERS
MYRNA DOMBEY—heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.
ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.
ANNE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.
DANNIE FEELEY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday Myrna and Bob agreed to discharge Rogers from managership of the band in order to obtain the records.

CHAPTER XII

With Myrna's check and the note to Rogers, Tait immediately sought the manager of the Swingateers. As Myrna had intimated, it was going to be an unpleasant business—yet Tait found himself looking forward to it with a certain relish.

He announced himself through the lobby telephone in Rogers' apartment building and was told to come to the room. There Harris Rogers met him with a wide smile and ushered him inside.

"Well, Tait, I suppose you've come to tell me that you've been thinking over what I said?" "I have been thinking it over," Tait admitted.

"And you're going to take my advice, I hope?" Tait shook his head. "I'm afraid not, Rogers." He reached into his pocket and brought out Myrna's note. Rogers colored when he saw the check, and he did not really need the note to tell him what had happened.

"We may as well get it over with, quickly," Tait said. "I can take the records with me." Rogers' face grew livid. "You can't do this, Tait."

"I'm not doing it, Mrs. Dombey is doing it, and I'm simply carrying out her orders." "But you were the one who suggested it to her," Rogers said. Tait shrugged. "I won't deny that."

Harris Rogers took a step forward. He was beside himself with rage. "You're being a fool. If you know what's good for you, Tait, you'll get out of here right now. Without me as a manager, the band hasn't got a chance—and if Myrna insists on going through with this I'll blow things higher than a kite by telling what I know about Lud Dombey."

"It probably won't help any," Tait said evenly, "but on the day you do that I'm going to take you apart. Now let's have those records."

"I refuse," Rogers came closer, shoved his outstretched fingers against Tait's shoulder. "Get out, you cheap snapshot artist!"

The words and the shove were a bad combination, and Bob Tait lost control of his temper. He swung at Rogers and, in his sudden rage, missed wide. Then Rogers struck him hard against the side of the head. When Tait's vision cleared he saw Rogers standing at the other side of the room, the fireplace tongs lifted high.

"If you try anything like that again," Rogers said, his voice shaking. "I'll break your skull. Now get out."

Tait leaned heavily on a writing desk chair, as if to gain his bearings. He half turned toward the door. Then he whirled back again suddenly. The chair lifted with the gesture, went crashing across the room and into Harris Rogers. Tait followed it, literally hurling himself after it. Rogers had no chance to use his weapon, for Tait clipped him hard on the jaw. So hard that Rogers' knees buckled slowly and he slid down on the hearth.

The newspaper photographer summoned a bell boy by phone and prepared him for the sight of the unconscious Rogers by means of a $10 bill. "Mr. Rogers and I had a little argument," Tait grinned, "about some files of his that I was supposed to take over."

"I want you to help me down to the car with these." The boy looked dubiously at the stricken Rogers and then at the heavy file boxes. "I don't want to get into any trouble. How do I know?"

"Look here." From the floor Tait picked up Myrna's note. The bell boy read aloud: "Dear Mr. Rogers: This is to notify you that I am relieving you of your duties as manager of the band. Herewith is two weeks' advance salary in lieu of notice. Please turn over your complete records to Mr. Robert Tait. Very truly yours—Myrna Dombey"

As he read the name, the boy's voice changed. "That's the dame who married the ten of the swing cats—the night he was bumped off! Boy, it was a shame, killing that guy. Nobody could give it out like him. When he was in the groove, he was strictly ding-dong, that guy."

"I gather," mentioned Tait, "that you're a swing fan?" The young man grinned proudly. "I'm a rug cutter and wax groover, if I do say it myself."

"Then to help cut Mrs. Dombey you'll give me a lift here, won't you?" The boy's voice sank to a whisper. "Sure, I never liked that guy Rogers, anyhow." He stopped, gazed open-mouthed at Rogers. "I hope he don't come to before I get out of here."

"If he does," Tait promised, "I'll pretend you just came up to see what the racket was." "You sner you didn't hit him with anything? I don't want to get mixed up in any mess. This is a pretty good job."

Tait laughed. "I just hung some knuckles on him. He's not in very good condition. Come on, let's get busy."

The two of them were able to get the record files into the back compartment of the coupe in one trip. "Thanks a lot, fellah," said Tait. "I'd like to give you another 10-spot, but I haven't seen 'em in pairs lately."

"That's okay. I'd do anything that would help the girl who married Lud Dombey. If she was all right with him, she's all right with me."

As Tait drove away, he thought: "Maybe I ought to remember that. The kid might come in handy."

The records he took immediately to headquarters, and when Feeley saw him staggering in with them the Irishman was open-mouthed. "What's all this?" he demanded.

"Well," said Tait, "I'm the new manager of Lud Dombey's band, and I've just taken over the records from Harris Rogers. It was a little task, but I think maybe there'll be something in these that Rogers didn't tell you. And say, Dannie, thanks for being easy on Myrna."

"Easy on her?" roared Feeley. "Who said I was easy on her? Don't ever get that idea. Shut that door, and let's get into some of this stuff. I doubt if it helps us a damned bit, but I'm getting jittery."

The two peeled off their coats and began going through the records of The Swingateers. It was a conglomerate story that they told—the story of a small-town musician who grew to be the master of swing. The kid who didn't have the price of a meal but whose flower bill, when he got to be Ludden Dombey, was—

"Look at this now, will you?" Dannie Feeley said. "Two hundred and ten dollars for flowers in the month of May, 1937. And they all went to the same woman. We better see her."

Male Models for Collar Ads Not "Bunch of Sissies" Writer Finds

By GLADWIN A. HILL
NEW YORK, Oct. 15 (AP)—Do those handsome pearl-toothed young men of the collar ads ever make you think, "What a bunch of sissies!"

Me, too.
That's why I set out to flush a covey of male models at a men's fashion forum—I wanted to find out what they were like.

This is the preliminary report:
1. It's not true at all.
2. Think what you want, but don't tangle with a male model.
3. Question their intelligence of you will, but get ready for a surprise when you see some of their bank books.

Bill From Brooklyn
Take Bill Kent, 24, whom the nation has seen smoking cigars and whom we found stepping into some jazzy knickerbockers.

"I come from Brooklyn," he said in a deep bass voice with a soupcon of Brooklyn accent. "Red Hook. That's a section where machine gun bullets are almost as much of a nuisance as mosquitoes."
"Don't get me wrong, though," he added. "I spent 16 summers in Southampton, until the depression came along."

"I worked (woiked) in a bank for a couple of years, but I didn't seem to be getting anywhere. Drove a truck for a couple of years. Then I was a stevedore for three years."

That's what he said—stevedore; and he does have some nice muscles.

"But there didn't seem to be much future in stevedoring," said Kent, "so I decided to go into this."

He works for a model agency that has his and hundreds of other men's pictures and specifications on file. Every few days they call him up and tell him to report to such and such a commercial photographer to pose.

Men models get anywhere from $5 an hour up, and one job may run anywhere from one to 12 hours. But Kent doesn't plan to stick to the business—says he wants to be a state cop.

Another fellow I met backstage—it looked like a men's locker room—was Victor Cutrer. He's 24, too, and a good-looking guy who's been in a lot of cigar ads.

Father Was A Colonel
Cutrer's story goes like this:

His father was an army colonel. Victor was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1935, served a year in the army, went to Hollywood. Says he got work in the films because he could skate—skated in some of Sonja Henie's pictures. Thought he'd get places faster if he had stage experience. Decided to model while trying to wrangle an acting job.

He thinks being a model is hard work.
"To keep your face in front of all the agencies you have to keep tramping from one office to another. In New York, that means about 120 calls. It takes a month to make the complete round. Then you start all over again."

For the cigar ads, besides striking attitudes in the studio, he's had to go hunting, fishing, camping and swimming. They didn't hunt, fish, camp or swim—they just spent all day out doors posing.

"It's a tough racket," says Victor, "but it pays the bills."

A Fortune For His Face

There's a "mystery man" in the business, too—28-year-old Warren Williston, who is reputed to have cleaned up nearly a fortune posing. Folks say he owns eight race

West Texas C of C To Hold Contest In Conservation

ABILENE, Oct. 14.—Largest conservation project in the United States is the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Soil and Water Utilization contest.

In the period for entry, from June to September, 108 West Texas counties entered more than 70,000,000 acres of farm and ranch land in the competition. This is approximately 42 per cent of the total land area of Texas and exceeds by far any other conservation unit in this country, or perhaps, in the world.

Differences in climate and topography meant nothing to the west Texas counties, as typically ranching counties entered the competition along with strictly farming counties. All counties will have equal opportunity to win in this contest as the score card lists 23 approved conservation practices, work on any or all of which will count points toward winning score, says B. C. Hopping, Lubbock, member of the WTCC Agricultural board.

Other members of the agricultural board are Clifford B. Jones, Spic, chairman; Omar Burdison, Anson; Hugo Haterius, Lueders; R. E. Dickson, Spur; J. A. Camp, Paducah; J. J. Stee, Abilene; and R. E. Patterson, Lockney.

have been conservation-minded but the WTCC contest has added zest to the work and soil and water saving activities have increased considerably in the last few months, Mr. Hopping says.

The contest offers $1,000 in cash prizes to the three counties which set records in conservation for 1936, but the smallest benefit to be received in the contest is the prize, declares D. A. Bandeen, WTCC manager. The far-reaching and permanent benefit to each participating county will be conservation of its soil and water, he says.

A local soil and water utilization committee was organized by each county which entered the contest and more than 1,600 west Texas leaders are serving on these committees. Duties of the committees include promotion of activities to increase interest in conservation. Schools and tours already have been conducted in several counties and other activities are being planned.

Chamberlain's Advisor May Be Powerful Figure

By JAMES B. RESTON
LONDON, Oct. 15 (AP)—A mild little man, immaculately dressed, sits beside Great Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain these days of applectic European diplomacy and war scenes.

The role of Sir Horace Wilson has been somewhat mysterious since he was drafted two years ago "for personal service to the prime minister."

Political circles say that "personal service" now includes foreign affairs and that the "mysterious H. J." is Chamberlain's most influential adviser and "personal brain trust." And it's common talk that the blue-eyed, round-shouldered little man of 56 has taken a hand in the Central European crisis.

Replaces 'Eden' Man
Nominally, Sir Robert Van Sittart holds the title of "chief diplomatic adviser." Sir Robert was formerly permanent secretary at the foreign office. He is believed to be pro-French, an "Eden man," a disciple of the theory that Hitler should not be "pampered." Because of this belief, Sir Robert is thought to be temporarily in "disuse." In his place is the remarkable "H. J."

Sir Horace entered the civil service in 1903 at $400 a year. He was not a university man and apparently would probably stay in the "second division" all his life.

But he was noticed by a former industrial commissioner, who got him a place in the new labor ministry in 1916. Wilson made a record as a strike mediator.

Shortly after the close of the war, an important strike drew comment from Prime Minister Lloyd George.

"What happened to our strike breaker?" the prime minister inquired.

Told that Wilson wasn't working on strikes, Lloyd George changed things. In 1921, Wilson became permanent secretary of the ministry. In 1924 he was made Sir Horace.

Made 'Depression' Record
He became known as the mildest, most patient labor mediator in history. Both workers and employers liked him. When the depression came, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald made him chief industrial adviser.

Sir Horace then sweated through the problems of floundering industries; got them more capital if he felt them to be deserving. He moved colonies of workers to more prosperous towns.

horses in two stables in Maryland and New York.

"Yes, I've got some horses," he acknowledged. "One of 'em's running today."

"Oh, that doesn't make much difference. She won't win anyway—track's muddy. She's no good in the wet."

"You see, he's very gloomy, though the pictures of his pan are supposed to set feminine hearts palpitating. He's also the strong, silent type. Williston isn't his real name, and fellow models don't know what is."

But he did consent to say a few words. Was born in Los Angeles, graduated from the University of Southern California, took graduate work in engineering at the University of London.

"Engineering business was bad," he said, "so I went into this to make a living (that's why they're all in it, it seems). But understand, I don't like it."

"Would you rather go into engineering, Mr. Williston?"

"Oh, no. Stay in this I guess."
