FDR DECLARES WHITNEY CASE IS HORRIFYING

Practises All Wish to Prevent Revealed, He Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today that the Securities Exchange commission report on the activities of Richard Whitney was horrifying because it revealed practises everyone was trying to prevent.

The president said that all concerned, including the Stock Exchange were interested in preventing recurrence of any of the practises in the Whitney case.

The president's discussion followed the SEC description of how a false rumor in the floor of the exchange finally led to exposure of the methods by which the now imprisoned Wall street leader had misappropriated his customers securities.

'Kidnaping' Was All a Mistake

A kidnaping scare that had the "victims" parents frantic and the police of eight states searching for the "kidnaper" ended when George O'Connell, handy man in the Floral Park, L. I. home of Wilbur Tripp, returned, as pictured above, with 3-year-old Dean Tripp in his arms. He took the boy on a Saturday shopping trip to New York afterward visiting friends in Kew Gardens, L. I. Deciding to spend the weekend with them, he said he tried to inform the Tripps by telephone but received no answer.

B'S CONQUER GRAHAM, 7-6

Outplay Steers in First Win of Season

Playing their best game of the year the Cisco Lobo "B" team gained its first victory of the season yesterday at Graham by outplaying and outscoring the strong Steer "B" eleven, 7-6.

The "B" team deserved to defeat by a bigger margin the eleven who earlier took their measure 14-7, but were kept from doing so by the whistle at the half which, caught them on the Steer one yard line, and that ending the game, which stopped a thru deep in Graham territory. The Lobo "B" eleven outgained their larger opponents in all departments and in addition blocked kick through superior line play.

The Steer eleven tallied first scoring a touchdown in the initial three plays of the game when a Cisco fumble was recovered by Graham on the 10 yard stripe from where they drove over. Graham failed to convert the extra point.

From then on Cisco had the better of the going throughout the game. Donovan scoring the winning touchdown for the "B" aggregation on a 75-yard dash after intercepting a Graham pass on his own 25. Gamblin counted the extra point on a plunge, giving Cisco a 7-6 lead and eventually the game.

Outstanding for Cisco, although practically every man played sparkling football, were Donovan, Henson, Tomlinson, Howser, and Gamblin.

This victory evened the count in the Cisco-Graham series, since the Steer "B" eleven and the Lobo "B's" have each gained a victory over the other while the "A" or varsity teams, played to a 13-13 tie in their only meeting.

'Definite Commitments' Announced by Company Heads

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28 (AP)—The heads of a dozen leading utilities companies announced "definite commitments" today to place immediate orders for power generating equipment for a million kilowatts.

They said that it was the "first step" in a program of expenditures estimated at a billion dollars a year for the next two years.

The commitments were given as a part of the administration's efforts to strengthen the power facilities of the nation's strategic war material manufacturing centers.

The announcement came from a session of the national defense committee.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. They shall go to thy Father in peace.—Rev. xiv. 13; Gen. xv. 15

The crowd of cares, the weightiest cross,
Seem trifles less than light;
Even looks so little and so low
When faith shines full and bright.

Oh, happy, happy that I am!
If thou canst be, O faith!
The treasure that thou art in life,
What wilt thou be in death?

—PABER

True faith is confident, and will venture all the world upon the strength of its persuasion.—Jeremy Taylor.

Spending, Like Thrift, May Be a Virtue

SOME little time ago a Cleveland engineer won a prize of $8000 or thereabouts, for inventing a new welding process. Since then there has been a steady procession of salesmen to his door, and the other day a newspaper sent a reporter out to ask the man's wife how she felt about it all.

The lady was pretty well fed up with the steady stream of callers, as can easily be imagined; and the interesting thing about it is that the one she seemed to resent the most was an investment broker who submitted a carefully itemized investment plan to take care of the prize money sensibly. What she objected to was the fact that this man's scheme was altogether too sensible; it would have accounted for every penny, leaving no smallest loophole for a little free and easy spending just for the fun of it.

PERHAPS this is not the best moment to suggest that there can be limits to the virtue of thrift. Yet it is somehow refreshing to run across a person who understands that money is valuable only if it helps one to get a little more fun out of life.

We all want security, of course. Yet for most of us, the measure of security which we get is apt to depend pretty largely on forces over which we have no control whatever. We can save for a rainy day as valorously as we please, but if economic maladjustment sends us a whole succession of cloudbursts the best umbrella we buy will be inadequate.

Meanwhile, the money we do get is paid for by hard work. What do we buy with it? Food, lodging, clothing—and such little extras as we can afford. And often enough it is on those extras that a good part of the fun of living depends.

MAYBE it is foolish, in a way, to take hard-earned cash and spend it on a trip to Yellowstone—or on a new car, a recreation room, a set of season tickets to the local music association's concerts, or anything else that isn't absolutely necessary. But it is foolishness of that kind that helps to make life enjoyable.

Also, in a perverted sort of way, that kind of spending is a pretty fair sort of hedge against hard times. For when you have spent your money on something you wanted and have had your fun with it, you've had something no future depression is going to take away from you. If you lose your job next year, or all your investments go sour, or you have to start supporting your son-in-law, that can't rob you of a good time you've already had.

And perhaps the present is a good time for a little disquisition on the virtues of spending, after all. A business revival is on the way; the seers seem to agree that it will be helped along by a "buy now" campaign. A too-thrifty people could choke off that revival before it got started.

In any case, there's a lot to be said for this Cleveland woman's rebellion against the "too sensible" plan for handling her money. The really sensible way, often enough, is the one which allows for some totally unnecessary spending.

A man in St. Joseph, Mo., comes to the defense of Mrs. O'Leary's cow. The Chicago fire was started by spontaneous combustion, he says. It's a little late to do anything about it now, but we're glad to help clear the name of the O'Leary bovine.

Eastland County Club Boy Writes of Trip to State Fair Encampment

L. V. Mauney, member of the German Boys' 4-H club, who, with seven other Eastland county 4-H club boys, attended the 4-H club encampment at the Dallas fair last week, writes the following account of his trip:

I might say in the beginning that this trip to the 4-H club boys encampment held in connection with the State Fair of Texas was one of the best trips that I have ever made since I have been a 4-H club member. I won this four day all expense trip to the Dallas fair on my peanut demonstration this year which made an average yield of fifty three bushels per acre.

Now to go on with the story about this wonderful trip I was so fortunate in making. I met the following boys at the Eastland depot on Monday October 17: L. C. Love, Dwight Bryant, Neil Eaves, Vernon Bennett, Howard Hinman, Jack Walker and Ass't. County Agent Hugh F. Barnhart. We got on the 11:59 train and left for Dallas. Riding on a train was quite a treat for most of the boys as we had several riders in our party who had never ridden a train before. Of course we enjoyed the scenery from the train on our trip to Dallas. We stopped in Fort Worth for about thirty minutes on our trip over and I might say that I have never seen as big a depot in all of my life. We arrived at three forty in the afternoon, where we were joined by several other 4-H club boys from other parts of Texas.

First Street Car
We went across the street from the depot and caught a street car to the fair grounds. Many of the boys in our group had never ridden a street car before, and some of the boys kept seeing two street cars on one track and were afraid that they might run together. When we arrived at the fair grounds Mr. Barnhart went to see about getting us into the grounds. They passed us right on through the turnstiles without saying anything about us paying the 50 cents, which of course made us feel rather important. We went to the 4-H club building where we were met by L. L. Johnson, state boys' club agent, and J. W. Potts, ass't. state boys' club agent. We registered and were assigned beds to use while attending the encampment, however, I am sorry to say that we did not use these beds over five or six hours a night. At the same time we registered we were given a pin which was to certify that we were 4-H club members and admitted us to all of our meals and the shows on the fair grounds.

We were given our meals in the building which was formerly the Black Forest during the Centennial. Our first meal was served at 6 o'clock on Monday evening. Monday night we were given a picture show in the 4-H club building on the subject "4-H Club Activities in Texas." We got to see some Eastland county 4-H club girls who were fortunate enough to get in the movies the week before while they were attending the encampment. We went to bed early the first night so as to get prepared for the next three big days we had before us.

Form Groups
Tuesday morning we ate breakfast at 7 o'clock, and then came back to the dormitory to organize in groups. The boys were lined up and groups were selected according to ages. Twenty-five boys composed a group, and a county agent was assigned to each group. In my group my own Ass't. County Agent Hugh Barnhart was assigned. In each group five captains were elected and they were to keep up with the other five boys. After the organization work we went to the livestock department, where we watched them judge Jersey cattle. We saw some of the Eastland county 4-H club heifers judged. From the livestock department we went to visit the agricultural building where we saw the many exhibits from the various counties. Noon had arrived again and we went to lunch. That afternoon we visited the Dallas zoo as well as a cotton manufacturing concern. Tuesday night was spent on the midway, riding the various rides and seeing the different side shows.

Wednesday
The sun was just coming up when we were on our way for another good breakfast and to start on another great day. Following breakfast we were allowed to visit the different departments until

Snyder Well Finds Ellenberger Oil Thursday

MORAN, Oct. 28 (Spe.)—Discovery of 23 feet of oil saturated white lime believed to be in the Ellenberger, lower Ordovician, brought prospects of a new deep oil pool for southern Shackelford county Thursday in the R. H. Gordon and Frank Pethybridge No. 1. C. B. Snyder, wildcat five miles west of Moran.

The wildcat was shut down last night after drilling slowly into the porous lime and recovering approximately 60 feet of oil in bailing the hole.

Five-inch casing has been ordered and will be set in the test at 4,260 feet Sunday for cementing.

Top of the Ellenberger was logged at 4,268 feet, and the oil zone entered immediately. Bottomed at 4,293 feet, the test showed best oil and gas saturation in the last five feet. Gas was estimated at between a half to a million feet per day. Oil is light green, estimated 40 to 44 gravity.

The saturation was entered as the test carried about 50 feet of water from an open hole since 3,605 feet, point where six-inch casing had been set previously to test a section of Caddo lime saturation.

Location of the wildcat is on a northwest trend from the Van Parmer deep Ellenberger field in northwestern Eastland county, and is 330 feet out of the northeast corner of section 38-LAL survey. Gordon & Pethybridge hold a

Mustangs Play Texas Saturday

DALLAS, Oct. 28 (Spe.)—Thoroughly trampled—but only slightly hurt—by Pitt's powerful Panthers, Southern Methodist's Mustangs return to their own corral this week and tackle Dana X. Bibbie's sweeping Longhorns in Austin Saturday.

Texas has lost five straight grid bouts and Coach Matty Bell is perfectly willing to see the total read "six." But whether or not the Ponies boast the power to run through the Steers seems to be in question.

Bell, this week, plans stressing blocking, especially for his passers. Texas plays will be given the second string and the varsity will attempt to find the correct answers. On the whole, however, Bell appears satisfied that his players are putting out maximum efforts and few changes in the starting lineup are considered.

apartment. Harris, and I'm the only one who is entitled to be neurotic in it." Imperturbably she started the music again. For a moment or two the three sat quietly, listening to Ludden Dombey long after he had met his death.

Suddenly Nelda snatched up the cocktail shaker. "How about another Mr. Tait?"

"No, thanks," Tait said. "I've really got to be running along."

"So soon? I'm sorry," Nelda bent her blue gaze flatteringly. "You'll come again, won't you?"

Tait promised, and shook hands with Rogers. As he turned to the door he half expected a shot—or a knife—in the back. But there was nothing more dangerous behind him than Nelda Starr. At the door she took his hand again. Looking at her, Tait caught his breath a little. No question about it, Nelda Starr was a fascinating woman!

A month ago Bob Tait would have been intrigued. But tonight as he left the apartment he was thinking of Myrna rather than Nelda Starr and Harris Rogers. As the date for the trial drew nearer, Tait was becoming increasingly frantic. He wondered what he might have discovered if Harris Rogers hadn't been in the Starr girl's apartment. And he wondered, too, if Rogers' very presence there might not be a very important discovery in itself.

He looked at his watch, decided that it might not be too late to telephone Myrna. Anne Lester had said that she was feeling blue—not at her own plight, apparently, but at what Lud Dombey's records had revealed. For Feely had returned the bulk of them to Myrna as owner of the band. And they had told Myrna the story of Lud's fabulous attention to hundreds of women. Tait had upbraided Feely for returning the files to Myrna instead of to him.

"Well, they belong to her, don't they?" Nelda had said. "And it won't hurt anything for her to know that Lud Dombey was partly heel." Tait could not restrain a smile as he recalled Feely's words. Good old Nelda had done it for one reason alone—to help Myrna forget the dream band leader she had built up; and to focus a little on Bob Tait.

Tait hurried into a drug store, found its telephone booth and dialed the number of Anne and Myrna's apartment. It was Anne who answered. Her voice was shaking.

Thunder, which is the loudest common noise, never has been heard unmistakably more than about 20 miles from the flash.

"Bob? Oh, Bob—Myrna's disappeared." "Disappeared? What do you mean, Anne?"

"She went out about 5 and hasn't returned or sent any word. She wouldn't do a thing like that unless she wanted to stay away."

Tait did not tell Anne what was flashing through his mind. "Stay there," he said. "I'll be right over."

Outside he hailed a cab and gave the driver the address of the Claremont. It would, he told himself, be one sweet mess if Myrna didn't show up for Barkley. They'd be sure to track her down in the end, and she wouldn't have a Chinaman's chance.

There were approximately eight thousand Texas 4-H club boys and girls present for the show. Following this program we went to the Castle of Foods building where we watched the Eastland county and Dallas county 4-H club dairy demonstration teams give their ready for a good meal, and then off to the Golden Jubilee Follies.

which was a three-hour stage show, and one of the best shows I had ever seen in my life. Wednesday night we were allowed to visit the individual booths and take in the midway. Off to bed at midnight. Much to our sorrow the thought came to our minds only one more day to spend in this great state fair.

Thursday

The final day of our visit had arrived. After breakfast we came back to the dormitory where Bozo, an educated dog, was presented to the boys. This dog could add, subtract, multiply, read a person's mind, tell how old a boy was, tell how many times a boy had played hooky from school, tell you the number you were thinking of and many other things.

I had liked to have owned this dog to help me out with my arithmetic in school and to read my teacher's mind as to what kind of questions we were going to have on our examinations. After this program we went to see the things we had not seen before at the fair.

We left the fair grounds at 11:30 and caught the westbound train at 12:25. We arrived in Eastland at 4:38 Thursday afternoon, ending one of the most wonderful trips I had ever made. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the officials of the State Fair of Texas for providing this encampment for the three hundred Texas 4-H club boys, as well as everyone else who made this opportunity possible for me and other Eastland county 4-H club boys to attend this encampment. -L. Clyde People--

Makeshift Classes Now the children of Clyde are attending makeshift classes in the town's church buildings. Whether their teachers will train them to "love and respect" the big and good Fathers at Washington remains to be seen.

It's too easy to spend, and too hard to pay back" is the editorial observation of the San Angelo Standard-Times in commenting on press announcements of bankruptcy in a once thriving west Texas city.

"A city is bankrupt, because it spent more money than it can 'repay'" is the ominous warning set forth in the editorial which also reminds that "property-owners in 32 west Texas counties during the ensuing tax year will pay an aggregate tax bill in excess of two million dollars, an increase of $120,000 over last year."

A news story carrying the tax survey calls attention to the fact that tax rates in several instances were lowered—but valuations increased! It is easy to see that the taxpayer profits nothing in such cases and that it is a means of deceiving him into believing "taxes are being lowered."

Favorite Deception

This is a favorite method of deception in towns having municipal light plants. "Tax-free towns" are a myth soon unveiled when viewed in the light of facts as revealed by city limits and the Texas Bond Reporter.

The promise of lower electric rates is equally deceiving. At Austin, where a municipal light plant long has been in service, citizens were promised the over-due low rates when the source of power could be transferred to the Lower Colorado River Authority's Buchanan Dam project. But when the government-subsidized power at last was obtained, city hall officials then met public clamor for the lower rates with the announcement that additional surveys would be necessary and that rate reductions would seriously handicap the city in re-paying public funds used in financing the project.

"Taking advantage of '35-cent dollars' offered by PWA and to match PWA allotments has increased bonded indebtedness approximately $2,000,000" in the communities covered by the San Angelo Standard-Times survey, says the editorial. "Someday, this program must reach an end and go into reverse, paying back what has been borrowed."
