BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Rejoice evermore. In everything give thanks.—1 Thess. v. 16, 18.

Remember:
The inside of every cloud is bright and shining. I'll therefore turn my clouds about and always wear the inside out to show the lining.

To rejoice in the midst of misfortune or seeming sadness is a direct act of hope; to look through the clouds and to look for a beam of light from God, this is called in Scripture rejoicing in tribulation.—Jeremy Taylor.

No More Mothers-in-Law

THOSE benevolent ladies who have given their sons and daughters in marriage have finally rebelled against the stigma that has attached itself to their lot. Every comedian has found mothers-in-law a handy subject for some derogatory quip, and the ladies don't like it.

They decided that maybe it was all in a name, and so they grappled with the problem from that angle. They changed the name of "mother-in-law" to "kin-mother." They have an idea that will help.

Maybe it will. Wisecracks about kin-mothers won't be nearly as funny as jokes about mothers-in-law. And, finally, funny-men will just abandon this field. That will be just as well. After several decades of abuse, it would seem the ladies are entitled to some relief.

No Meat for Civilians

WAR is never good for the digestion. It doesn't make much difference as far as food is concerned, whether you live in Germany or England these days. Both nations are at war, and both nations are living on rationed food.

Beginning March 11, British citizens will be allowed from one pound to a pound and a half of meat each week—if they are over six years of age. Children will be on half rations. In Germany, the quota per capita is one pound 1.6 ounces.

No matter how righteous the cause it may be fighting for, a nation is far from normal during war. The people who don't get into uniforms are far from being mere spectators to a bloody game.

Hitler is reported to be in bed with a sore throat. Caused, no doubt, by swallowing some of his own words in "Mein Kampf."

Chicago is planning a new offensive on rackets. If Candidate Dewey shouldn't get that Washington job he's after, maybe he can be talked into going to the Windy City to brush up a little.

The Japanese want the American public to protest against abrogation of the trade treaty. Somehow they must have the idea we can't get along without their light bulbs which never work.

Roosevelt now has six Alaskan delegates in his pocket. They'll be nice to save for a stormy day.

Another discouraging thought in connection with the present international situation is that some day historians are going to have to figure out what this mess is all about.

Supreme Court Denounces Methods Used in Convicting Four Negroes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13 (AP).—The supreme court spoke out sharply Monday against "secret inquisitorial" police methods in reversing the conviction of four Florida negroes sentenced to death for a robbery-slaying of a white man.

In a Lincoln's birthday session, the court said that confessions obtained from the prisoners through five days of continuous grilling, even if unaccompanied by physical mistreatment, violated their constitutional right to "due process of law."

Under our constitutional system, courts stand against any winds that blow as heavens of refuge for those who might otherwise suffer because they are helpless, weak, outnumbered, or because they are non-conforming victims of prejudicial and public excitement.

confessions were obtained the following week. "Here the record develops a sharp conflict upon the issue of physical violence and mistreatment," the supreme court found, "but shows, without conflict, the drag net methods of arrest on suspicion without warrant, and the protracted questioning and cross-questioning of these ignorant young colored tenant farmers by state officers and other white citizens, in a fourth floor jail room, where as prisoners they were without friends, advisers or counsellors, and under circumstances calculated to break the strongest nerves and the stoutest resistance."

organizes the county's cattle industry. Last night's dinner, held at the McLemore hotel, was attended by 150 out of town oil men and 100 local oil men, cattlemen and chambers of commerce members. It was sponsored by the chamber of commerce. Preceding it this afternoon was a reception at the Albany club.

Principal speakers were Ed A. Landreth, head of Landreth Production Co. of Fort Worth, and Charles Rooser, Fort Worth, president of Rooser-Pendleton, firm which has developed the western Shackelford shallow oil field. Landreth was the discoverer of the Ibox field, one of Shackelford county's largest producing areas, and in 1924 built what was then the world's largest gasoline plant. Landreth's talk was largely rem-

TENANTLESS JAIL

Cisco Daily Press: Eastland county law enforcement officials Sunday celebrated an unusual event. For the first time in a quarter of a century, according to Sheriff Loss Woods, the doors of the county jail stood open, unoccupied. There were no tenants. The last prisoner, a Rising Star man serving a four-day sentence for fighting, was dismissed early Sunday. The ideal condition—for a county jail—lasted twelve hours. A negro woman was placed in a cell on a lunacy charge Sunday night. Dist. Atty. Earl Conner, Jr., Sheriff Loss Woods, Jailer J. R. Crossley and other officials gathered at the jail Sunday morning in an informal celebration of the event. Pictures were taken for the Daily Press.

Congratulations to Cisco and all Eastland county. A jail without inmates is a rarity, perhaps something to keep as a souvenir of former times, times when crime was not uncommon. Eastland is a county of 35,000 population, with three or four fine little cities. Oil used to be plentiful in Eastland, before the days of oration and allowances, and there is some oil here still. But the oil field status no longer obtains, as is testified by the vacant jail. Oil fields usually attract an unquiet population, numerous individuals who do not work in oil but try to work oil claims. This leads to a good deal of work for officers of the law and a heavy demand on jail room. Yet an oil town is envied by other towns, other towns with out oil. Cisco, for example, used to envy Ranger, in the same county. Naturally Cisco may deny this.

incident of the early days in the old business here. Rooser, who is immediate past president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, discussed the industry's future.

Other speakers were Joe Clarke, local banker and president of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas association; and Joe Bridwell of Wichita Falls reputedly the largest independent oil operator in the world. Andrew Howsley directed a round table discussion for oil timers, among whom was Bill Little, who was tool pusher on the Moran discovery well. He drove here from Hot Springs N. M., Monday.

Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance

(Editor's Note: The following is the first of a series of articles prepared by W. O. King, manager of the Abilene, Texas, Social Security board field office, to be published in this newspaper. The information contained in the articles is educational and for the public in general and for the wage earners in particular. For additional information concerning the federal old-age and survivors insurance program, our readers are requested to contact the Social Security board field office, located at 205 Alexander building.)

INSURANCE FOR WAGE EARNERS AND FAMILIES

Most of the changes in the Social Security act made by congress last August relate to the provisions for old-age insurance and survivors benefits. Three of the amendments concern almost every family in the United States, in one way or another:

1. Monthly benefits beginning in 1940. This is two years earlier than was provided in the original act.
2. In addition to payments to insured wage earners who are eligible for benefits after reaching the age of 65, monthly benefits will be paid to aged wives and minor children of these annuitants. Monthly benefits are also provided for widows with minor children; and, in some cases, for dependent parents of insured wage earners who die.
3. The wage tax of 1 per cent each for employers and employees remains the same until 1943. That is, the tax will not be increased.

in 1940, as was provided under the old law.

"Gone With the Wind" to Play Cisco Shortly

"Gone With the Wind," positively will play Cisco within a short while, and it will be the original, full and unabridged version now playing the largest cities of the United States. K. N. Greer, manager of the Palace and Texas theaters here announced today.

"The reason that we do not have a definite play date on this picture," said Mr. Greer this morning, "is caused by physical reasons which unfortunately the average theatre patrons do not understand. As a matter of fact 'Gone With the Wind' presents an almost unprecedented problem in our business. This picture is in technicolor; it contains 26,000 feet of film (which is five miles in length) and it requires three hours and fifty minutes to show it. These prints are not only valued at $1,800 each but technical prints are very difficult and require much time to reproduce. At this time there are only a limited number of prints available to service the theatres of this large territory. In fact 'Gone With the Wind' (Continued on Page Four)

DAN DONOVAN—playboy son of a rich Irishman, in love with Marie.

LYNDA MARTIN—society debutante, wants to marry Dan.

CHAPTER XIX
Mike Donovan and Tommy Ryan collided in their rush to board the La Porte barge. It was 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. Mike had left Dan, completely broken, at home. He left because he could not stand to see his boy suffer. If Dan wanted this crazy girl, hang it, let him have her, in spite of what her father said. He must be an old fool, anyway. There were more ways than one of hanging a goose. Mike Donovan hadn't engineered business deals for nothing. Besides, since last night he had not been so sure of his choice for down here knows how I feel about Marie. You keep the poor girl down so, she doesn't know her own mind." His chest filled out and his chin set a cocky angle. "If she did, she'd marry me."

Bat rose slowly from his chair. "You're telling me, her father, what is good for my daughter." His fist tightened.

Mrs. La Porte and Marie caught his arms.

"Sit down, Papa," pleaded Marie. "Tommy's just a kid. He doesn't know what he's saying."

Tommy swung around to Marie. "You'd make me out a liar, would you?" His mouth trembled. "What do you suppose I sat up all night for, driving like a fool to Albany, if I didn't love you?"

Mike, who'd been an interested listener, asked Mrs. La Porte if she would object if he lit a cigar. It was the first time a man had asked her such a question. Mike offered one to Tommy and Bat, but each was too occupied to do more than grunt a refusal.

Puffing on his cigar, Mike relaxed. He'd let the two fight it out. This interlude gave him a chance to study the girl Dan was determined to marry.

Mike found himself admiring her. She had a frank, more impulsive face than Lynda, and certainly she was prettier.

"Nobody asked you to drive to Albany," put in Bat, glaring at Tommy. "You'd be a wreck if you went in that old truck of yours."

Tommy stuck his face in Bat's. "You leave my truck out of this. It took your derelict of a barge a day to cover the distance my truck made in two hours."

"Take him out, take him out," Bat yelled. "Why did you let him in here in the first place?"

He pushed Tommy toward the hatchway. The boy made a lunge for him. Bat side-stepped and came back with a left. Tommy staggered up the steps.

"Now get out and stay out," yelled Bat.

In his excitement, Mike had chucked his cigar to shreds. He grinned. "There was a time when I liked to fight too."

"Well, I don't like fights and never did." Mrs. La Porte spoke grimly.

Marie, sitting quietly, had a hopeless expression.

Bat returned to the group. He faced Donovan.

"And now, Mistaire Donovan." His tone was ominous. "What is your business?"

"Your girl and my boy . . ."

Mike got to his feet.

Bat's black eyes snapped. "Last time I saw you, you said my girl was not good enough for your boy." He shook his fist under Mike's nose.

Mike spoke testily. "That was Wednesday. Good day, Mr. La Porte," he said shortly. "I may be seein' ye again and I may not, it depends on future events."
