

WIDESPREAD INTEREST IN FORUM FRIDAY

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The rivalry between the three larger communities of Eastland county has been one of the most distinguishing features of the economic life of the county. Fundamentally, this rivalry has been sound. But there have been times when it became something more than rivalry and, instead of being constructive, a thing of detriment. The fault has been with one as much as another. It is not my intention to accuse Ranger or Eastland of anything more than Cisco is guilty of. On the contrary, the idea is to recognize a general situation and to discuss it from the standpoint of its effects upon the communities considered.

Rivalry is a healthful and stimulating thing—so long as it is rivalry. It induces people to do their best; sometimes even better than their best. Two communities competing for a certain institution are bound to grow. But, when one of them succeeds and the other isn't sportsmanlike about the result, rivalry becomes jealously and its influence is blighting. A jealous person rarely ever accomplishes anything. He is too consumed with his jealousy. Sound rivalry means that both rivals are going to win in part and lose in part. When one episode is finished, it is time to turn to something else.

I think we should admit this: There will always be three large communities along the Texas and Pacific railroad in Eastland county. No one is going to absorb the others. It is safer to assume that the three will grow together than that two will dwindle away. This column should regret very much the possibility of the latter prospect. It doesn't comport very well with the advertised advantages of our county's living conditions. On the contrary there is good reason to believe that the population of the county will increase over the next few years. It is on a main-traveled transcontinental route. Its climatic conditions are good. It has good soil and crop growing conditions and its seasons are excellent. Farming is being developed in a promising manner. Livestock growing is particularly profitable and the industry is increasing. It is recognized that population and industry are trending to the South and Southwest and that Texas may double in population within the next decade. There is no good reason to doubt that this part of the state will receive its share of that population increase and of the increase in concomitant business and industry.

It occurs to this column that the proper program is not a program of internecine

A Mule is a Mule—Any Time, in Any Clime

Scientific advances in implements of war are a marvel of the age. But—as these British Indian troops in France are learning—the mulishness of the old army mule remains steadfast as Gibraltar. The purple remarks of the Indian soldier at the right would be understood by any mule-skinner in the world.

High School Choral Club To Present Operetta On Friday

The high school choral club production, "H. M. S. Pinafore," an abridged version of the very popular Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, will be presented by the club at the school auditorium Friday night at 8 o'clock.

A final dress rehearsal will be held tonight. This is the third operetta to be given by the high school choral club in the past ten years, and promises to be the best, it is reported.

Miss Elizabeth Daniel is general director of the production, Miss Ella Andres is in charge of the musical scores, and Miss Alice Slicker is piano accompanist.

The stage crew, consisting of Rex Pollard, Billy Fox and George Warfield, under the direction of Miss Daniel, has done an excellent piece of work in transforming the school stage into the deck of a ship. In the center stage is the quarter-deck with the mainmast; on either side are the rails, and the backdrop represents the blue sky and the sea.

Response to the advance sale of tickets has been very gratifying, according to those who are sponsoring the performance. Proceeds derived from the sale, above actual expenses, will be used to buy music for the choral club.

Admission prices are 25c and 15c.

Error Appears in Langston Article

Failure of the printers to make a correction from the proof sheet of the article caused the name of "Breckenridge" to appear in the article written to the Daily Press on the beer issue by Rev. Roy A. Langston and published yesterday, instead of "Brownwood," as written by the Rev. Mr. Langston. The sentence should have read:

"We are convinced that if two west Texas cities like Abilene and Brownwood can get along well without liquor and beer that Cisco, Eastland and Ranger can do as well."

Mrs. C. Michael and children, Betty Jean and Billy Fred, plan to spend the week-end in Legion, where Mr. Michael is in a hospital.

County Home Demonstration Council Meets

The County Home Demonstration council met in regular session Wednesday at 2:30 with 11 of the 14 clubs represented. Twenty-six members and 20 visitors were present.

The following committee reports were given and adopted by the group:

Finance—Budget for the year. Year books $30; trips to state meeting $50; prizes $10; stamps for secretary $5; trips by chairman to district meetings $5, and miscellaneous $50.

This money is to be raised by the club members selling flavoring and entering national canning contest. Each club member cans and exhibits on container of fruit and one container of non-acid vegetables.

Exhibits committee—Each club sponsors fair in local community; Each club show educational exhibit at county fair; each club member can the two jars for county exhibit; each club bring more individual entries to county fair; provided more and better show space can be obtained; precinct feather comfort shows and one big show in connection with the county fair; exhibits and educational committees meet with county fair committees to work out space and arrangements for county fair exhibits.

Expansion committee—More social meetings in each community with non-club members invited; stress educational exhibits in local and county fairs; more special demonstrations or area meetings on seasonal topics, one in each precinct. These meetings are to be in addition to the regular club programs and more for the whole family than for the women. All will be invited and urged to attend; continue the good neighbor program with each club member to reach two non-club members in each of the two demonstrations carried.

Recreation committee—Each club required to start program with ten minute recreation; an all day meeting for training rec-

ROTARIANS SHED DIGNITY AT PROGRAM

"A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men," might properly have been the theme of a fellowship program at the Cisco Rotary club today noon. E. P. Crawford, program chairman, presented a group of members with musical inclinations in a program of informality and humor, enlivened at intervals with flashes of latent talent.

Jim Collins, vocal accompanist for the instrumental music, for instance, received two or three curtain calls. Mr. Crawford "wowed 'em" with a French harp solo, while Dr. E. L. Graham "laid 'em in the aisles" with a jig dance that would have put Mickey Rooney to shame.

Ernest Hittson with his violin, Dr. Gary L. Smith with a Jew's harp, Lonnie Shockley with his clarinet and Miss Billie Cole at the piano completed the scrambled ensemble that convinced the club of its talent. The only flaw in the program was the embarrassing—refusal of the rest of the club to sing at the proper time.

ASKS ARMS FUNDS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15 (AP)—President Roosevelt requested congress to make available immediately the full $15,000,000 he had sought earlier in his budget message for the purchase of strategic and critical war materials during the fiscal year starting next July 1.

FIRE GUTS TOWN

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 15 (AP)—Fire virtually destroyed the banana-shipping town of Parrita on the Pacific coast of Costa Rica yesterday.

The ornate marble tomb of General U. S. Grant of Riverside drive, New York, was built by popular subscription.

BEEF CATTLE PROGRAM HELD AT MITCHAMS'

Stockmen See Correct Methods Shown by Extension Men

Cattlemen of Eastland and adjoining counties were gathered at the Mitchams' Hereford ranch northwest of Cisco today for a demonstration in beef cattle practices conducted under the supervision of experts from the A. and M. college extension service. The demonstration was arranged by County Agent Elmo V. Cook.

Malnutrition of cattle not only causes high percentage of deaths in herds in the country every winter and spring, but also causes a high percentage of the remaining cows and calves to be unthrifty. Dr. I. B. Boughton, discussed malnutrition in a talk on diseases and parasites of cattle. He made a similar talk on sheep and goats at the goat day last summer on the Terrell ranch.

One great problem of Eastland county cattlemen has always been to determine how to use pasture grasses to the best advantage and at the same time save seed stock for production of grass for the future. R. R. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist, discussed all important phases of proper management of range grasses, weeds, and brush.

A. L. Smith, extension animal husbandman, talked on how to feed and manage beef cattle most economically. Several years ago Smith sponsored range creep feeding of beef calves in Texas, a movement that has been used by thousands of progressive cattlemen since it was introduced into the state by Smith. He will tell how to creep feed calves economically.

Dehorning, a simple operation, without which beef cattle cannot be conveniently confined in feed lots, was demonstrated by G. P. Mitcham, Jr., the manager of the ranch, and M. E. Genrich, herdsman on the ranch.

Use No System Many cattlemen use no system in establishing a foundation herd of breeding beef cattle, selecting what they consider good individual animals, but not considering whether these animals will breed true to their type. They have many disappointments in using such a system. G. P. Mitcham, Sr., owner of the ranch, told and showed how he is using both good individuals and prepotent blood lines in selecting and keeping his foundation herd high in quality.

The increasing interest in breeding and feeding good beef cattle in Eastland county has increased the interest in spring livestock shows, at which time, 4-H club feeders and F. F. A. boys show the oldsters how good feeders they are, and how to properly show their calves. Many of the breeders themselves often find need of information on fitting and showing beef cattle. A. C. Pratt, assistant county agent, gave a demonstration on fitting and showing beef calves.

N. C. Packer, representing the Duncan Coffee company, served admiration at the ranch at noon. The large crowd was served a basket lunch at that time.

Eldridge Candidate for County Judge

C. S. Eldridge has authorized the Cisco Daily Press to announce that he will be a candidate for county judge of Eastland county, subject to the action of the voters in the democratic primaries next July.

He said that he would have a statement to make within a short while.

Mrs. J. R. Bragg of Dallas is visiting here for a few days.

A. L. Osborn is spending today in Fort Worth.

On CofC Forum Dinner Program

Gilbert C. Wilson, farm industrial chemist of North Texas State Teachers college, Denton, will appear with M. D. L. Van Over, castor plant expert of Patterson, N. J., on the Cisco chamber of commerce dinner-forum program tomorrow evening at the First Christian church. Van Over, with whom Wilson has worked closely in Texas castor planting projects, is an executive of the Woburn Degreasing company. Wilson is one of the outstanding chemurgists of the state. He developed the "Wilson Press" for use in dehydrating the sweet potato. This press is now nearing completion in the commercial stage and will shortly be ready for intensive industrial use. Mr. Wilson was brought to NTSTC a year ago by President W. J. McConnell to teach the first course in chemurgy offered in the United States. The course is being continued and attracts many science students from throughout the southwest to the college.

Opinion Asked on Beer Vote Status

The county commissioners court, through Dist. Atty. Earl Conner, Jr., has requested an opinion of the attorney general on the legality of the proposed election to determine whether or not beer of 14 per cent alcoholic content may be sold in Eastland county.

The action was taken to further hedge against legal squabbling in the event the election is held, it was explained. Under the state law an election may not be called in one category of the three which the state liquor laws set up, within a year of a previous election, it was explained. Fourteen per cent beer is set up as a different classification from four per cent in the state law.

The election, if the attorney general rules it legal, will probably be called on March 2, county officials said. March 2 falls on Saturday.

The petition as submitted to the commissioners court carried 847 signatures. Checked by the 1940 poll list it was found to have well in excess of the required 238 qualified signers.

Attorneys asserted that since 14 per cent beer falls in a different classification from that of four per cent, the election is legal and that the petition is therefore mandatory, so far as the commissioners' court is concerned.

Funeral for Mrs. Ray at 2 P. M. Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. M. H. Ray, 55, whose death occurred suddenly at her apartment Monday evening at 10:30, will be held at 2 o'clock Friday with burial in Oakwood. Neil Lane is in charge. The Rev. Judson Prince, Baptist pastor, will officiate.

The five sons and a nephew of Mrs. Ray will be pall bearers for the service.

Pall bearers will be F. E. Shepard, W. H. LaRoque, Asa Skiles, E. L. Wisdom, H. L. Kunkle and G. A. Love.

Mrs. Ray was born Mary Elizabeth Whitehorn on October 22, 1885, at Millowville, Alabama, and after her marriage to Mr. Ray, moved to Texas, where they settled in Cottonwood. Twelve years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Ray and their children moved to Cisco. She was an active member and Sunday school teacher in the Baptist church until the time of her death. Survivors include five sons, seven sisters, two brothers, and her father, E. B. Whitehorn, of south Texas. The sons are, Irvin Ray, Los Angeles, California; Gilbert Ray, Cottonwood; Guy Ray, Indianapolis, Indiana; O. C. Ray of Denver, Colorado, and Cleme Ray of Kilgore.

Rev. Roy A. Langston transacted business in Eastland this morning.

WILSON TO BE ON PROGRAM WITH VAN OVER

Large Number of Out-of-Town Visitors Accept Invitation

Widespread interest in the Cisco chamber of commerce dinner forum tomorrow night when M. D. L. Van Over, castor plant expert of Patterson, N. J., and Gilbert C. Wilson, professor of chemurgy at North Texas State Teachers college will be speakers, was manifested today as replies to invitations were received at the office of CofC Secy P. R. Warwick.

Farm leaders and newspapermen from many large and small communities in this section of the state have indicated they will attend and there have been some unsolicited letters from interested people who have read of the program in the newspapers.

The dinner will be held at the First Christian church at 7:30. A feature of the menu will be sweet potato pie made of dehydrated sweet potato for table use and furnished the Cisco chamber of commerce from the dehydrator plant developed at North Texas State Teachers college by Dr. Wilson.

The charge for the dinner will be the same as charged for similar forum dinners—35 cents. Between 50 and 60 out-of-town visitors are expected and local attendance, it is indicated, will exceed that present at any previous forum.

Mr. Van Over's visit to Cisco will inaugurate a program of castor planting tests to determine whether or not the commercial varieties of castor will grow here in a manner promising development as a stable cash crop for the area. The castor plant is one of the newest and most important of the crops being developed under chemurgic programs. It is the source of a domestic drying oil for paints and of many other industrial products.

Test plots will be planted under the supervision of T. G. Caudle, agricultural director for the Cisco chamber of commerce, under instructions from Mr. Van Over.

"I am coming prepared to answer all questions and I promise you I shall speak frankly," Mr. Van Over promised. "We have nothing to sell. We are interested in castor production, and if your section will grow the plants satisfactorily, and if your farmers want it we will go the limit. Above all, I don't want anybody to get the wrong impression. I want them to understand, and I am going to talk frankly."

Large scale plantings of the castor plant are being made in the Brownsville and lower Trinity river areas, Florida already produces large quantities. There is a market today for the production of 5,000,000 acres, however, Mr. Van Over told Cisco representatives.

Wilson and Roy J. Leffingwell of the college will meet Van Over at Dallas tomorrow noon and drive him to Cisco, where chamber of commerce officials and directors will meet the party.

Entertainment for the dinner will be furnished by the German band section of the Lobe band.

CHAPTER XXI
 A late winter blizzard swept New York Saturday morning. Buses were stalled, traffic hopelessly tangled and the subways overcrowded. Complaining, New Yorkers went to work, fretting, fussing, and calling themselves fools for living in such a climate. That is all New Yorkers, save those who made up the small community off Pier Six, known as Bargetown. These people sat snugly in their cabins, enjoying the whistling of the wind, the spray of snow against window panes, and the singing of a kettle on the stove. For them the storm meant a holiday. No barge could start out to Canada on a morning like this, even though the river ice might be broken. Warm and protected, the canal boat people gathered round their cabin stoves and argued the news of the day.

This particular morning the topic of their conversation was Bat La Porte's ball that night. Everyone was invited.

"They say he's taken over all of Kelly's dance hall," proffered Tim Flanagan. "And the place is to be hung with French, Irish and American flags."

"How do you know it was hired?" nagged Mrs. Atwood. "Ain't all dress suits hired?"

"Aw, go on." She waved him back with her hand. "There's plenty that own theirs, but you've never been among them."

"Member that big sailor with the loud voice who works on the McGuire's tugs?" asked Pat O'Toole, rocking back and forth in his chair. "Well, he's going to announce the guests, so he told me this mornin'."

The visitors turned puzzled faces to Pat. "An' how'll that be done?" asked Matt.

"On, he stands at the head of the stairs an' as we come up he hollers our names to Bat and the Missus."

George snorted. "As if Bat didn't know our names backwards. He must of read that one in a Sunday supplement."

A gust of wind whined through the cabin as the hatchway was shoved back. Mrs. La Porte poked a worried face in.

"Bat says we've all got to dress," she announced.

George Fontaine's mouth quirked down. "Tails or Tux? Where does he suppose we'll get our evening clothes, if we don't happen to have 'em?"

"That's just it," Mrs. La Porte drew her shawl more closely about her head as the snow filtered through the spaces. "He's goin' to hire his suit and he thought you might like to get yours at the same place."

It was Mrs. Atwood's friendly, good-natured jibbing that stung the men into going.

"Now this is a good party," she said, "and you might as well enter into the spirit of it. A woman can drape a window curtain around her an' call it an evening gown, but with a man it's different."

Across on the La Porte canal boat Marie was putting on her hat and coat. She would rather be out than in. Although Bat had not said anything to her about the leak in the barge up at Poughkeepsie, there was a constraint in her manner toward him because of it. But it was only one of the many things which continued to trouble her mind.

Time had not made any difference in her feeling toward Dan. She knew, no matter what happened, that she would always love him. She had never felt toward any other man in her life the way she did toward him. In the short space she had known him he had become part of her very being. Again tears came at thought of him.

Disconsolately she put on her hat and buttoned her red coat close about her throat. Perhaps she could walk this mood off. She felt the walls of the barge closing in on her after the space at Varnet's.

She hated the thought of this crazy party her father was planning. She had yawned and gone to bed while he was talking about it last night.

As she started toward the little steps leading to the hatchway she heard the tramping of feet on the deck. Her father was coming. Quietly, she waited for him.

"I might as well tell you, Papa," she said. "I'm not going to that party tonight."

She pressed her lips to keep her self-control. "What?" he shouted. "I said I wasn't going." She was up the steps and had banged the hatchway shut before he could say another word. (To Be Continued)

Two Are Added to County Census Staff

Acting upon instructions from the area supervisor of the decennial census of the United States, Division Supervisor J. C. Shipman, at Abilene, Saturday added two additional enumerators of the census for Eastland county. It is the purpose to complete the business and industrial enumeration in this county by March 15.

Ed T. Cox, of Eastland, has been named enumerator for all of Eastland county. At his request, the two were added to his staff. They are Mrs. Corriann of Ranger, who will enumerate the business and industrial enterprises at Ranger, and R. W. H. Kennon, who was placed in charge of Rising Star enumeration. These new workers will take up their duties Monday.

CURTIS NEWS

RECREATION PROJECT HERE IS RESUMED

The Cisco recreation project resumed activities on a partial basis Monday, February 12. Activities of the department had been suspended since Thursday, February 8, for a conference of recreational directors which was in session in Ranger during the latter part of the previous week.

The purpose of the recreation directors meeting was to formulate a standard schedule of spring activities under the supervision of the recreation projects in district 7 of the Works Progress administration.

In attendance at the meeting were the recreation directors of Fort Worth, Arlington, Mineral Wells, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Wichita Falls, Vernon, Electra and Nocona.

Single phases of recreation activities were delegated as a responsibility for each of those in attendance; to be developed on district-wide basis for the spring program.

To Correlate Program

The purpose of such a policy is to more thoroughly correlate the interest and activities in neighboring towns, and to standardize, on a flexible scale, the types of programs available for the general public.

Special training for project superintendents in arts and crafts and social recreation were available during the conference, with particular reference to such items as scrap book binding; social and table games; in addition to items included under the general head of folk dancing. The latter to include square dancing and various forms of the schottische.

Instructions in folk dancing for the purpose of preparing teachers in each of the communities represented, in the event that such activity should become popular.

By-Products

During the conference it was explained that among the principal by-products of recreation should be the development of leadership and citizenship among our young people, and in as much as the continued increase of leisure time, for the average individual, continues to develop individual problems, the activities of recreation should centerize on a more adequate use of leisure time hours.

During the final day of the conference the principal speaker was Mr. Othineal (affectionately termed "Oatmeal") Brown.

Mr. Brown addressed the group as the executive vice president of the Athletic Institute of America, with headquarters in the city of Chicago.

This speaker gave a thorough explanation of the activities of the institute whose educational program he directs, along with the special high lights of the activities of the American Baseball congress, of which he is a member.

Women Activities Neglected

During the time allotted for discussion Mr. Brown seemed to deplore the fact that activities for women had been neglected all over the United States and that he hoped to be of some assistance in organizing suitable leagues for women's, as well as men's competition during his visit to the south.

Mr. Brown also passed on to those assembled interesting and valuable information as to the ways and means by which the recreation directors might cooperate more thoroughly with the community which they represent in creating wholesome recreation.

For his final part on the program a motion picture review, in

County Seeks Half Million Road Project

EASTLAND, Feb. 15 (Sp)—To provide 1,800 men work for eight months, a blanket WPA project covering eight road jobs entailing the expenditure of $410,699.70 has been submitted by Eastland county commissioners to WPA authorities.

The project was prepared by members of the commissioners' court and County Judge W. S. Adamson, who were assisted by County Engineer A. F. Taylor.

It is understood the project has been approved by state officials in San Antonio and now awaits the final okay at Washington, D. C.

The project will provide for the improvement of a total of 60 miles on eight farm-to-market road jobs. The eight projects range in expense from $23,000 to $70,000.

The eight jobs will provide a total of 836,900 man hours of labor.

Over 1,000 rock and concrete drainage structures will be constructed in the work if approved by Washington officials, stated Taylor.

When the project is approved and when the rock work is completed as provided in the request, there will be over 400 miles of farm-to-market roads in the county built through the WPA program since September, 1935. That will leave 635 miles of public roads yet WPA-unimproved in the county. Eastland county has 1,035 miles of public roads.

At the present time the monthly payroll of men working on six county WPA road projects is $50,000, all of which is spent in the

WORK PROCEEDS ON $82,000 ROAD PROJECT

EASTLAND, Feb. 15 (Sp)—County officials announced Monday that work is proceeding on an $82,135.54 WPA-financed project for the improvement of the Mangum-Flatwood road.

The improvement on the road is from the west precinct line at the Grapevine bridge across the Leon river east through Mangum, Pumpkin Center, Flatwood and to the east precinct line, said A. F. Taylor, county engineer.

Provided in the project is the building of 29 drainage structures. Man hours of labor involved is 165,841. A total of 905 cubic feet of stone masonry is another provision in the work. A total of 4,080 sacks of cement will be used in the work, as well as 281 yards of re-enforcement top slabs for drainage structures.

Keeping Up With The Boy Scouts

Archery

An archery tournament for scouts and scouters of the central district was held in Brownwood Saturday afternoon, February 10. The American round was used, in which 30 arrows were shot at 30 yards, 40 yards and 50 yards—90 arrows in all. Scouter D. L. Moody, district activity man in archery, was in charge of the meet. The next tournament will be held in April.

Court of Honor

A court of honor will be held in Carbon on the night of February 27. This court will be for all scouts of Ranger, Olden, Eastland, Cisco, Carbon and Gorman, which towns make up the Eastland county district. B. E. McGlamery is chairman of the court of honor, and will preside at the meeting.

Camp Billy Gibbons

The dates are: July 9-16 and July 16-23 for the summer camp for scouts of the Comanche Trail council. Camp Billy Gibbons is on one of the best camp sites in the state. The camp is located in the hill country on the Gibbons' 45,000-acre ranch, 15 miles south of Richland Springs, at the mouth

Anniversary Week

The thirtieth anniversary of scouting, which was celebrated February 8 to 14, was observed by scouts in all 45 troops in the council. These celebrations took the form of "parent's night" meetings, troop reunions, fellowship parties, camping trips, hikes, outdoor rallies, archery meets, and "running" their home town for a day. Scouts wore their uniforms, and gave special demonstrations in school assemblies and before civic clubs. Almost 100 per cent of the troops observed Sunday, February 11, by attending special church services.

Grand Officers Here to Inspect Commandery

Grand Commander Daniel N. Cushing of San Antonio and Grand Sr. Warden S. M. Bunn of the Grand Commandery of Texas headed a distinguished group of visitors who attended the meeting of the Cisco Commandery Saturday night for an inspection of the commandery. Mr. Bunn, who conducted the inspection, praised the lodge highly.

Other grand officers in the party were T. M. Barclay, past grand commander and present grand grand treasurer of the Grand Royal Arch chapter of Texas, 1940 elections. These elections include votes for a president of the United States and a slate of state officers, as well as local officers.

The number will probably be revised somewhat when the tabulation of the poll tax payments is completed, collectors said, but the estimate is regarded as close and it tracks closely the first estimate of 6,750 which would be a record covering a decade or more, officials said.

It was not possible to determine with any satisfactory degree the number of polls paid in Cisco or other towns, it was explained.

County tax collectors Saturday estimated, from the amount of money paid into the fund, that Eastland county voters numbering 6,748 paid poll taxes in time to make them eligible for voting in 1940 elections. These elections include votes for a president of the United States and a slate of state officers, as well as local officers.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

My hope shall be in Thee, O Lord! I have said: Thou art my God; I will be glad and rejoice in Thy mercy.—Ps. XXXI.

One sweet and solemn joy I have Awaited the change and change of life,
It comes upon me strong and true
Thy smiles and tears, thy hope and strife.
O blessed thought, O Father Divine!
What joy and peace Thy presence gives!
Thy other name is not to me
I know that my Redeemer lives.
—R. N. TURNER

The law of life is this: No man can be good or great or happy except through inward efforts of his own sustained by faith and strengthened by the grace of God.—Robertson.

A Job -- Few Applicants

THE City of New York has a perfectly good $4500-a-year teaching job open in its school system -- but there were only three persons on hand prepared to take an examination for the post.

The job is that of teaching radio communications. New York has plenty of people who could use a $4500 job. Apparently it has only three qualified to try for it. The same situation developed a couple of times before when teaching positions were available in other technical fields.

The trouble is that those people in the radio communications field haven't got the necessary credits for teaching. And those people with the academic preparation aren't qualified for technical subjects. People who take up radio and other technical subjects usually do so through the medium of short-term courses. Those who spend more time in school shy away from technical subjects and concentrate on the more popular fields.

How much more needs to be done in the field of vocational guidance is evident whenever something like the New York situation pops up.

He Likes Horses

DR JOHN EDMUND HASSON of Bath, N. Y., still makes his daily rounds with a horse and buggy. He says he knows it's a bit old-fashioned, but he will continue to use his ancient means of transportation for two reasons: because he loves horses and because "I have reached a state of mind where I propose, for the residue of my days, in so far as possible, to follow my inclinations."

If he can get away with it, the good doctor will be doing what most of us never quite have the courage to do—living his own life, all by himself, unmoved by the new automobile of the people next door or the picturesque bonnet of the neighbor to the right.

Perhaps it isn't strictly according to the code of progress; but Dr. Hasson happens to like horses, and so he's going to keep his. He doesn't care a hoot how the Joneses live.

The Japanese are looking for a Chinese general they reported dead a few years ago. They intend to kill him for deceiving them.

Census takers in Tulsa, Okla., are being provided with mallets to save their knuckles in rapping on doors. The hammers are not to be used for tapping stubborn citizens on the noggin.

Maybe everything would be simpler if both parties held their conventions AFTER the elections.

With everybody announcing his presidential candidacy, there is likely to be a premium on dark horses when the conventions get under way.

What It Means:

Money For The Farmer

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

AP Feature Service Writer WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Off-hand, you'd think the question of saving the taxpayer's money was just a question of congress making up its mind—then doing it. That's exactly what the economy headlines you're reading these days are intended to look like.

But all the fuss and go about economy on Capitol Hill is far from important—so far. It might get important if those letters from the folks back home kept pouring into the capitol postoffice.

But that's another matter. The farm bill for 1941 is a good example of the how and why of account for the farmer the advantage he gets from cheaper food and clothing costs.

That's why congress voted a cool billion-and-a-quarter dollars to help the farmer last year. That's why most observers figured congress would continue big appropriations for the farmer this election year.

Up To The Senate

But a war broke out in Europe. And the national debt climbed closer to the legal limit of $45,000,000,000. And economy letters started pouring in on congressmen.

So the president side-stepped the farmer in his budget this January, jopping a cool $400,000,000 off the farmer's federal dividend checks for 1941. The house added insult to injury, the other day, when it chopped out another $150,000,000.

It'll Be Like Old Times in Chicago

That means that the whole economy issue, as far as it concerns the farmer, has been sent over to the senate, whose members are all excited in statewide elections. The farm vote often counts for victory or defeat with senators. They Can Hope

Now the senators can hope that farm prices will go up under the impetus of the war in Europe, or that enough farmers will join the economy-minded city folks in writing letters demanding less free spending of the taxpayer's money, or that the farmers will not agree on what they want (they have never agreed before).

Or they can hope that the war itself will absorb the attention of the public, farmers included, and take the heat off the economy issue. They can hope for all of those things.

But if those events don't materialize, the senators will have to decide whether to take the credit for economy, or put the $550,000,000 farm bounty, or part of it, back into the farm bill. So far they have decided only to put off the terrible day of reckoning.

Meanwhile, Secretary Wallace's department of agriculture has put its stamp plan to work in 75 cities, and expects to be operating in 25 more by July 1. Cotton has been added to the surplus commodities affected by the scheme, which, in effect, uses federal money (voted last year) to buy farm products for relief clients, and thereby takes part of the relief load off cities.

Squeeze Play

Entirely aside from the general merits of the plan, it also has a tendency to put congressmen representing cities on the spot. More than 500 cities have applied for the plan, and the congressmen representing those cities will be clamoring to get it for their voters. That means they might have to dicker with Secretary Wallace's men. Maybe they might be persuaded to change their mind about the farm bill, and vote more for the farmer in exchange for a stamp plan.

Anyway, the squeeze play is on. The next step's up to the senate. The final day of reckoning can be put off a few weeks, but it's coming—and that goes for every one of the dozens of appropriation bills in congress.

That's why it's so hard to save the taxpayer's money in a complex economy like ours. Especially in an election year when everybody wants something, and his vote goes to the congressman who tries to give him what he wants.

Justice Thomas Todd of the U. S. supreme court and Lucy Payne Washington were the first to be married in the White House, on March 11, 1911.

The first recorded strike in America took place in 1786 when Philadelphia journeymen printers quit to enforce demands for a minimum scale of $6 a week.

Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance

(Editor's Note: The following is the third of a series of articles prepared by W. O. King, manager of the Abilene, Texas, Social Security board field office, to be published in this newspaper. The information contained in the articles is educational and for the public in general and for the wage earners in particular. For additional information concerning the federal old-age and survivors insurance program, our readers are requested to contact the Social Security board field office, located at 205 Alexander building.)

How to Figure Old-Age Insurance and Survivors Benefits

To calculate benefits provided under the new federal old-age and survivors insurance system, a formula, based on the worker's average monthly wage, has been adopted.

To find this "average wage," take a worker's total wages received in covered jobs, as reported by his employers, and divide this total by the number of months he could have been employed since 1936. A monthly benefit is figured as follows: Take 40 per cent of the first $30 of his average monthly wage, plus 10 per cent of the next $200 of average monthly wage; add 1 per cent of this basic amount for each year in which the worker earns at least $200 in covered employment.

Example: Jim Blank, a factory worker, averages $100 a month from 1936 until the end of 1939. At that time he reaches age 65 and decides to retire, and get his monthly old-age insurance benefits, beginning next year. Jim's monthly benefit will amount to $25.75. Here is how it is figured: 40 per cent of the first $50 of his average monthly wages is $20. Add 10 per cent of the remaining $50, or $5. That makes $25. The law provides for an additional 1 per cent of his $25 for each year he was covered (1937, 1938 and 1939). One per cent of $25 is 25c, and three times 25c is 75c. So Jim's monthly benefit will be $25.75.
