What would you use for the thousand except Saturday, and little things you never think about if it weren't for last week's newspapers?

> THE average life of your newspaper may be far more fascinating than you imagine. It may take a circuitous route before it gets into the hands of the old-paper dealer. It may participate in the drama of the beginning and the end of life itself.

For example, when someone in the orer sections of the city calls and asks for doctor to make a delivery, the caller is intructed, among other things, to collect some ewspapers. When a physician and his irse arrive, they spread the papers over furniture in the expectant mother's room ause they are usually the cleanest cover-

Surgical instruments are often laid on wspapers just after they have been sterlized. Food is spread out on newspapers at picnics and pantry shelves are sometimes med with printed sheets. If a rainstorm omes up suddenly, you're as likely as not to whip out the paper you're carrying and save our bonnet from a fatal dousing.

MAPERS are published to be read, of course. but editors don't mind if you feel like ising old copies to paper the kitchen. They lon't care what you do with them after you've read them. Soil and Water Conservation on 2,400 Acres

By Will

Soil and water conservation work has been completed on 2,-400 acres of crop and range land in Eastland county since January 1 by Elmo V. Cook, county and Arthur C. Pratt. assistant county agent. The work inof cropland, contour lines for lines for orchards on 13 acres of cropland, and contour guide lines on 352 acres of range land for contuor furrows and ridges. The work was done on 68 different farm and ranches.

An unusual and practical job of pasture improvement work is lerway on the ranch of George P. Fee, Cisco, who is using a special plow to make contour furows 7 feet apart on 55 acres. The plow has two bottoms, one a right handed and the other a left handed bottom, permitting turning all of the furrows with the dirt down hill, 50 acres will be fertilized with TVA superphosphate fertilizer and planted to permanent le-gumes in cooperation with the ounty agent. A similar acreage will be treated in the same way by F. E. Harrell this spring.

Soil Building Is Demonstrated

Nine Eastland county farmers and ranchers have made requisition for superphosphate fertilizer to be used in soil building demonstrations in cooperation with the Tennessee Valley authority and the extension service. One hundred eighty-three acres of permanent pastures will be fertilized with 200 pounds of fertilizer per legumes and 80 acres of crop land will be fertilized with 100 pounds of fertilizer per acre and planted with two consecutive crops of legumes to be turned under green. They will receive a total of 22 tons of superphosphate fertilizer to be used on their demonstration

Demonstrators who will follow these soil building practices are A. W. Armstrong, T. E. Castleberry, I. S. Echols, George P. Fee, F. E. Harrell, J. D. Inabnet, F. Spurlin, Ed Townsend and Robert Tucker.
