DANIEL DECLARES IN "BATTLE TO FINISH"

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

A striking instance of the encroachment of bureaucracy upon the fundamental democratic guarantee of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, is shown at Dallas, Lynn Murnighan, Dallas Morning News editorial writer, points out thus:

"We are told that the federal agents here have solemnly advised local garage men that had better quit intercepting police radio broadcasts in order to find out where a wreck occurred."

"These garage men persisting in the United States air in a manner, they are likely to be visited by the G-men. The point is that the federal government has full power over intercepting radio broadcasts."

"Full power is a grand phrase. It is new dealers like it."

"Uncle Sam owns the air in a Texas highway, then Uncle Sam owns the air over your bed in which you sleep at night. If Uncle Sam can arrest for tuning in on a radio while you are on the way, then he can arrest you while you are in bed with a plugged into a wall socket side."

"Germany, you know, Herr Hitler did not tune in on any news station. If he does, the Gestapo and Gendarmes will come and take him to a barbed-wire enclosure. We seem to be getting large in this country."

"Nationally: Nothing herein is intended to offend the culture-type of garman who clogs the highways with his trucks around every accident. Racing trucks are a menace because they are trucks not because they listen to broadcasts, but because they are trucks."

"Where these trucks violate the penalties of the law and are applied. But here is a federal offense, it bears no relation to a federal offense and is the slightest approach to a jurisdiction. Federal is to investigate what is on the face of a non-federal radio, to discourage an occasional man who hasn't running his business as he should. But it is a mighty poor to enforce the law."

ROTARIANS AND LIONS IN JOINT MEET

Program to Take Place at Laguna This Evening at 7:30

The Cisco Rotary and Lions club will meet jointly at the Laguna hotel roof garden this evening in an unusual meeting at 7:30. The "April Fool" idea inspired the joint session, which was suggested by President Sutton Crofts of the Rotary club and readily concurred in by the Lions club, of which A. G. Tuttle is president.

The meeting will be an informal get-together. The program will be confined to singing and to an "I. Q." quiz test, in which members of the Lions club will be pitted against members from the Rotary club.

XX Century Club Presents Clever Skit

A clever skit, written and read by Mrs. J. R. Burnett and enacted by members of the Twentieth Century club, was presented at the chapel program at high school this morning. The program was in charge of Mrs. Lucretia Irbly.

The skit was written in verse form, and characters were shown wearing costumes of the year in which they became members of the club, which was organized 42 years ago. The regular routine of a club meeting was carried out in pantomime, touched up with bits of humor by the reader, Mrs. Burnett.

Also presented at the chapel hour was Chief White Deer, an Apache Indian of a reservation near Gallup, New Mexico, who made an announcement concerning the presentation of a number of members of his tribe in a paid chapel program Monday, April 8, at 11:15.

Big Demonstration Features Election

DESDEMONA, April 4 (Sp.)—Results of a strenuous election and hot contest for votes in Desdemona Tuesday showed the re-election of J. H. Rushing, mayor, with 82 votes, with 33 for T. H. Key. Three aldermen were elected, A. D. Baker, re-elected, receiving 94 votes, J. E. Heater, 88, and Odie Brightwell, 75. The defeated candidates, T. L. Acree and R. Miles, receiving 44 and 32 votes respectively. Mrs. W. H. Brooks was election judge, and was assisted by Jesse Sparkman, Miss Emma Genoway and Mrs. W. H. Whitworth, clerks.

Every eligible voter was sought to support the candidates, and the larger vote polled showed the result of the efforts of the partisans for their favorites.

The election was celebrated after the polls closed with a general demonstration that lasted until 9 o'clock, during which refreshments were served by L. E. Clark and G. S. Bruce, neither being candidates.

WILLIAMSON CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE

J. M. Williamson, for 16 years mayor of the city of Cisco during the most prosperous period in the history of this section and community, today announced that he will be a candidate for the state legislature 106th district, subject to the action of the democratic primaries in July.

Mr. Williamson made his announcement with a brief statement of fundamental public issues and his attitude upon them, and promised that as the campaign progresses, he would discuss the issues thoroughly and make clear to the people of the county his position on each one.

As mayor of Cisco Williamson was noted for his executive ability and his ability as an organizer and also for frankness of his position on public questions and the clearness of his mind in analyzing these questions. He invariably stood for something and was amply able to justify the position he took. He declared in announcing his candidacy for the legislature today that he would be equally positive and clear on questions and issues confronting him if elected. He furthermore promised a plain discussion of campaign questions.

"I want the public to know how I stand," he said. "I will see that they have the opportunity to know."

His Statement

"I am a candidate for the legislature from the 106th district, comprising Eastland county. I shall appreciate the votes and influence of the citizens and promise them, if elected, to strive with all my power for the working out of the best interests of the state and the county. Briefly, I shall base my campaign on the following issues:

"The social security problem is the most serious issue confronting the people of Texas. The question is, 'How shall the demands of this emergency be met without interfering with the best development of the state?' It is my conviction that unless we face the issue frankly and place the state financially on a sound and dependable basis the state will be periodically disturbed by agitation and uncertainty and its economy will be seriously retarded. On the other hand, if we work out a program that will adequately and fairly finance state obligations, we will put an end to biennial bickering and disturbances and place both the state and industry on a basis of security and uniformity. What is necessary is to create conditions under which industry will show what it can do and be able to map out a long range program for the development of the resources

His resignation was presented to the members of the First Christian church here last Sunday, when it was heard with regret.

Since coming to Cisco from Heights Christian church, Houston, on February 1, 1938, the Rev. Mr. Lambert and Mrs. Lambert have endeared themselves to the membership of their church and the community generally in a manner rarely equaled.

"Cisco is a lovely place in which to live," said the minister this morning. "We regret very much to leave the splendid people here and we shall miss their fine associations."

No successors to the Rev. Mr. Lambert has been called, officials of the church said.

CANDIDACY IS ANNOUNCED OVER RADIO

Advocates "Any Tax Plan" to Raise Funds for Social Security

AUSTIN, April 4 (AP)—In tones that rang over all Texas, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel last night announced his candidacy for a second term of two years.

From the gold and white north drawing room of Texas' "White House," he declared he was in the new gubernatorial battle to a finish, and called for the election of a legislature which would cooperate with him in meeting in full the state's social security obligations.

The financing of social security, namely, old age pensions, aid to the blind, aid to dependent children and teachers retirement, he asserted still constituted Texas' number one problem.

He advocated "any tax" which would raise $50,000,000 a year to carry out the social security program, improve Texas' educational system, wipe out in four years the deficit in the state's general revenue fund and eliminate "fire" traps at eleemosynary institutions.

The governor said he favored a one per cent transaction tax to get the needed money, but would accept any revenue plan approved by the legislature "whether it be a transaction tax, a general consumption tax, a tax of five or eight or ten cents a barrel on oil or any other tax or combination of taxes, just so enough money will be raised to pay off these honest and solemn obligations of the state."

Crowding the mansion drawing room to hear the broadcast of 10,000 words over a statewide radio hookup were about 100 persons who included members of his family, his appointees to important state offices and various friends and admirers.

Government officials present included Harry Knox, Jr., and Frank Davis, members of the state board of control; state auditor Tom King; Tom L. Beauchamp, associate justice of the court of criminal appeals; assistant secretary of state Claude Williams; adjutant general J. Watt Page and Walter Woodward, state life insurance commissioner.

Family Present

Mrs. O'Daniel, smartly clad in black, sat in the front row of the guests, and their pretty, 18-year-old daughter, Molly, sat on the floor at her feet. Black-haired Pat and Mike, their sons, 21 and 20, respectively, were in the famous "hillbilly" orchestra, which played only two numbers—and then listened to their father's address.

The strains of Beautiful Texas, his own composition, were played.

Focus Effort, Hines Tells CofC Forum

Harry Hines, member of the Texas Highway commission, told the Cisco chamber of commerce dinner - forum Friday night that dissipation of community energy among too many projects, and particularly projects out of relation to community resources and character, was obstructive.

The need is for a focusing of the personalities and the talents of the community upon certain definite and realizable aims, he told a group of 60 members at the First Christian church who attended the March forum of the Cisco commercial institution. The attendance, cut down because of the county interscholastic league events at Ranger, was near 100.

E. P. Crawford, chairman of the chamber highway committee, presided and introduced Mr. Hines. Entertainment included music by the Ray Judia orchestra and two numbers by Cisco's "Merry Quints," five young Cisco artists, four of whom play violins. They are Misses Gloria Graham, Rose Ann Wood and Patty Jean and Emily Jo Boyd, violinists, and Miss Betty Slicker, pianist.

Accompanying Mr. Hines were Cal Speedy, Austin newspaperman and campaign manager for Mr. Hines in the race for governor, which the commissioner recently entered, and Joe Erwin, Southern Methodist university student and president of the Future Democrats of Texas. Irwin told Cisco friends of Cecil Edwards, Cisco SMU student, that young Edwards is certain to be the next campus editor at SMU.

Another and casual guest at the dinner was John H. Booth of Indianapolis, executive secretary of the board of church extension of the Christian church, who was here on church business. He left for San Antonio Saturday morning.

Hines, an eloquent speaker, told the forum that the trouble with most communities in their program community building is division among the leaders and the citizens, a tendency to pull at cross purposes or not pull at all. He decried the gossip mongers, and spoke of "community love" as distinguished from this condition as the force which mobilizes the people into effective assault upon the problems and the objectives that are faced.

Mr. Crawford introduced as special guests for the evening

Auto Crash Fatal to Cross Plains Couple

A Cross Plains couple were fatally injured Monday afternoon in a highway accident two miles west of that community. The man, Tom Holmes, an oil well driller, died en route to Cisco and his wife died at 10:30 Monday evening in a local hospital of injuries which attendants said consisted of both legs broken, chest and head injuries.

The accident occurred at 3:30 Monday afternoon when the Holmes automobile, apparently driving at a rapid rate, hit two dips on highway 206, went out of control and crashed into a live-oak tree on the right-of-way. The tree was uprooted in the impact.

Mrs. Holmes died of a head fracture, which opened the skull.

Rites for the couple were held in Fort Worth, where two sisters of Mrs. Holmes live. The bodies were taken to Fort Worth by a Fort Worth undertaker Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes had been living in Cross Plains for several months, where he had been engaged in drilling operations.

Her condition was such and it was expected she would be able to be out in a few days were being discussed for reunion this summer.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

We will rejoice in thy salvation, and triumph in the name of the Lord.—Ps. xx. 5.

What can I do but trust Thee, Lord?
That trust my heart will cheer.

That Thou art God is my one joy,
Whatever Thy will may be,
Thy glory will be magnified
In Thy best doom for me.

—FABER.

God of joy and of grief, do with me. Thou wilt. Grief is good, and joy is good also. I take it from Thy hands and I give Thee the thanks for it.—Amiel's Journal.

The Dead Are Not Even Counted

LIFE is a precious gift. Men cherish it, clinging to it desperately long after all its juices would seem to have been sucked dry. Yet it is cheap. It is so cheap that men pour it out with thoughtless lavishness when they turn to war.

How many men died in the snows of Finland? Nobody knows. Here the sacrifice to the war god was not even measured as it poured forth. Nobody knows within thousands, within scores of thousands, how many brave young men, Finn and Russian, died in the brief northern war.

There were tales of the slaughter of Russian divisions, one after another, marched to the shambles like the dumb animals who march patiently into the slaughter-pens. There is no reason to doubt those stories in detail, especially those of trustworthy American eyewitnesses. But it begins to seem clear now that the cumulative effect of those stories did give a distorted view. Little was said of Finnish losses.

NOW the war is over, and Mars begins to total up his blood-stained ledgers. How many died?

Molotoff, Russian premier, now says the Russian dead were 48,645, with 158,863 wounded. The Finns, he says, lost 50,000 killed and 250,000 wounded.

Mannerheim, the Finn leader, told a different story, of 200,000 Russian dead, 600,000 wounded, while the Finns were losing 15,000 dead. Swedish estimates doubled that loss for the Finns, guessed total Russian casualties at a half-million.

Nobody knows whose figures are correct. By averaging all these claims, however, one can make a guess that between 100,000 and 200,000 men are dead.

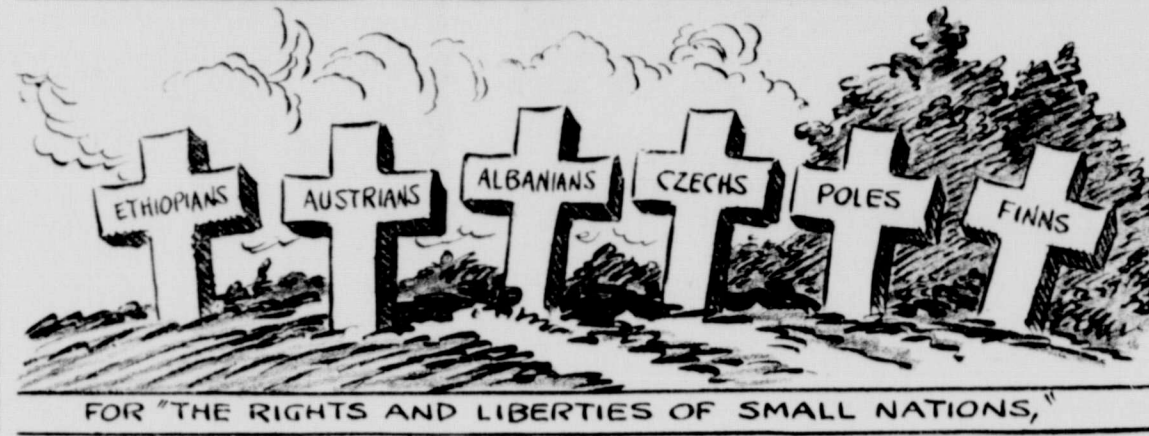

WHEN spring comes to the lake country, when the northern tundras bloom shyly green again, those rows of dead will begin their return to the earth whence they came. Each was a man, each a living, breathing being, with fears and hopes like yours and mine, all merged now in a common oblivion. Throughout all northern Europe are families whose sons did not return. They know. They remember.

But for the rest, for the governments which sent them to their deaths, for a world which watched helplessly as they died—these didn't even bother to count them.

A university freshman gave up his seat to Mrs. Roosevelt in a transcontinental plane, thus permitting her to make connections on her way to the west coast from New York. He probably figured that trying to delay her would be like standing in the way of a planet in motion.

A man wanted to recover a $2 fine he had paid in 1912 for unlawfully tying the wheels on his ice wagon while going down a steep grade. He figured he had taken enough time to think the matter out fairly.

Minister Dies Of Injuries When Attacked by Bull

MERKEL, April 4 (P)—H. A. Presbyterian church here 15 years, Presbyterian church here 15 years died in a local hospital early Saturday afternoon when he was attacked by a bull.

Walker was attacked by the enraged animal at a dairy southeast of Abilene. According to the elderly preacher's account, the bull (a Guernsey breed) dashed at him, knocking him down between his automobile and a trailer. The animal rammed at him again and again, but the victim said he did not know how many times. The bull was dehorned.

Though hurt badly and weakened, the minister managed to get into his car but could not start it. He blew his horn, but no one was at home at the Baker place, so it attracted no attention. It was believed that it was at least an hour before assistance came.

Safety Short

From Oil Belt Safety Council

MOTORISTS—Many an automobile has been dented this winter when cars skidded together with the green light.

Here's a tip from the Safety Council. A car has a tendency when accelerating to skid sideways on a slippery street.

Try starting in second gear instead of first. This keeps wheels from spinning, and a smoother, safer start.

Infants under two years ride free on one transcontinental airline; from two to ten, half fare and over ten, full charged the adult rate.

In the earliest times, men were trained for war. The ancient name for war was Ashkel. It was said to have been built in the year 1400.

The population of South America is 87,915,000. Divorces are far from rare in Brazil.

France also has announced a series honoring World War heroes and an airmail set picturing World War aces. Revision of postal rates produced reissue of 53 stamps of France and French colonies.

War tax stamps, such as were issued in 1914-18 are expected to be issued in England. It has also been suggested that Great Britain issue her first charity stamp, a semi-postal for the Red Cross, but no definite announcement of such a stamp has been made.

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

VAL DOUGLAS—girl sports writer, shipped on a freighter to find excitement.

EDDIE CAVALIER—a prize fighter headed for the title, has a score to settle with Val.

CAPTAIN STEVE HANSEN—skipper of the Northern Belle.

DUFFY KELSO—Cavalier's manager.

YESTERDAY: The new hands go to work, Duffy and Grimes with the paint, crew while Eddie works out. Cavalier rebuffs Val's efforts to make friends. Mike Kelly tells Val that Cavalier has the stuff that makes champions and that she will be changing her opinion of him soon.

CHAPTER VII

Val Douglas went on the bridge and watched Eddie Cavalier jog around deck. He ran tirelessly, effortlessly. Probably would give Glenn Cunningham a good battle over a mile, she figured.

She didn't have to be told by Mike Kelly that Cavalier was a perfect athlete. He had never smoked a cigaret in his life. He steered clear of liquor and followed Pop Grimes' instructions to the letter.

She remembered he had taken up golf just a year ago and already was breaking 90. A famous pro once had called him the ideal example of muscular co-ordination and nerves and insisted Cavalier could be playing in the National open within two years if he wanted to concentrate on the game.

Val Douglas long ago had decided—in print, too—that Eddie Cavalier, with his dark, curly hair and handsome features, was too good-looking to be a fighter. Once she had hinted that he could have been a greater riot as a slugger instead of the boxer he was—but that he preferred to protect his good looks.

That, in fact, was what had started the whole feud. He had never forgotten her for that and threatened to eject her bodily himself if she tried to pay a visit to his Pompton lakes training camp.

From her position of vantage overlooking the deck, Val Douglas smiled sardonically. Here, at last was one training camp he couldn't pitch her out of.

Duffy Kelso, spattered and smelly with paint, fixed her with a vindictive eye at lunch. "We're gonna work out on the bags this afternoon and maybe spar three rounds with Kelly. Any objections?" he inquired belligerently. "Not at all," she answered brightly. "I'm anxious to see if his surroundings affect his ring disposition."

"I'll try not to disappoint you," Eddie said meaningly, and she wondered if he'd vent his spite on Mike Kelly. That, however, might be a boomerang. Mike on the shoulder, familiarly. "Please, lady—cut the comics. If he sees you enjoyin' this too much it'll throw him so far off he'll never get back."

While Mike skipped rope to get himself warmed up Cavalier went to work on the light bag. Coolly expertly he beat out a rhythmic tattoo of leather on board. Faster, faster he worked until the bag became an indistinct blur of motion and the noise became a flat rolling wave that sounded like a muffled machine gun.

Val found herself admiring the sight. Eddie lifted his eyes from the bag, without breaking the rhythm and noticed the rapt look on her face. As though it were a sudden, spiteful gesture, he slammed the bag one terrific punch and ended the show. The gesture startled her and he smirked.

A message sent down by the radio operator interrupted the workout. "It's from Sam Golden," said Duffy Kelso, reading it quickly.

"Golden, hey? What's up?" Pop Grimes asked.

"Plenty," Duffy moaned. "He says the newspaper guys don't believe he didn't know a thing about this and they ain't even talking to him, and if I know Sam Golden, he's tearing out his hair for fear maybe they'll boycott the fight."

"But that ain't all," Duffy continued. "The state boxing commission had to be notified, of course, and they demand that we put up a $5,000 bond that we'll show up for weighin' in ceremonies on time."

"Who'll we get to dig up the $5,000 for us?" Kelso demanded. "We gotta think fast."

"We'll think about that later," Cavalier said impatiently. "I'm getting cold. Let's go, Mike."

They climbed in between the ropes and Kelso and Grimes looked at each other questioningly.

of fat on him. The years had slowed him down a little but he could still maneuver surprisingly well.

Kelly tucked his chin behind his left shoulder and went to work. He muscled in close and worked a short right to Eddie's ribs. Cavalier jabbed him sharply twice in the face, but Mike let them bounce off and shuffled in for more.

He swung a heavy right, but wraithlike Cavalier weaved away, stepped inside smartly and whistled a right cross to Kelly's chin.

Cavalier danced forward and flicked a straight left without a preliminary motion of any sort. It caught Mike on the bridge of the nose and tilted his head back sharply. Mike looked surprised and advanced more cautiously.

Val tried to read Cavalier's expression but the padded head guard he wore obscured his features. All she could see were a pair of piercing eyes, and she didn't like the way they were being directed at Mike.

Mike Kelly went a good 95 pounds and there wasn't an ounce

McDonald Okeys Karakul Breeding

Texas Ideal for Karakul Sheep Says Producer

WEATHERFORD, April 4 (Sp) — "Texas has the finest climate and range conditions in the world for Karakul sheep raising," declared J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, on a recent visit to George H. Kiosseff's Parker county Karakul sheep ranch, where successful experiments have proved that Texas has a new three million dollar industry awaiting simple and easy development.

Mr. Kiosseff (pronounced Key-oss-iff) a native Bulgarian whose grandfather and grandmother were killed by the Turks and who himself had to wear a fez until he was twelve years old, has shown, through four years of experimentation in cooperation with the state department of agriculture, that this fur, wool and mutton producing sheep gives better quality pelts than have been obtained in the native habitat, west central Asia.

Mr. McDonald said statistics show that the United States imports annually three million dollars worth of Karakul and Persian lambskins, and this country, which consumes eighty-five per cent of the world's production, produces less than ten thousand skins a year, whereas, German Southwest Africa last year produced one million, two hundred thousand lambskins.

Of course, women know that the soft, tightly curled, tar-black Persian lamb is born of the Karakul sheep, and from a number of those lovely little pelts are made the beautiful coats and wraps so desired by women.

Right now, with the world trade conditions as they are and the country's foreign source of fur supply cut drastically, Texans stand an unusual opportunity to cop the world market in Karakul, believes Mr. Kiosseff, who comes of the third generation of Karakul raisers and has spent his life in the fur trade. He also claims the sheep will do as well on damp lowlands, as on hilly semi-arid lands. With the exception of our milder winters, the climate throughout Texas is much like that of Bokhara, the heart of central Asia, where the breed originated. "Over there, he says, "the sheep are raised on the hilly country as well as on the lowlands. They will lamb twice a year if their lambs are taken when a few days old, and have been known to produce at this rate for 14 years. No special season is required for the production of fine pelts."

The pelts taken from Karakul lambs which have been still-born within 20 days of the end of gestation period are of extra texture and value, therefore saving the owner the great loss which occurs in most breeds of sheep by what is generally known as "lamb slinking."

Mr. Kiosseff thinks they are the hardest sheep in the world and declares it costs less to feed a Karakul sheep than it does a turkey. As a mutton producer, he says, they top the market.

Automatic Sprinklers Put Out Fire

The automatic sprinkler system in the warehouse of the Radford Grocery company here early Tuesday went quickly into action to extinguish a fire of undetermined origin which otherwise might have done many thousands of dollars in damage before it could have been extinguished.

The ceiling of the warehouse at East Eighth and the viaduct is threaded with water pipes equipped with sprayers and connected directly to city water mains. Each spray is sealed by a thin sheet of lead which melts on contact with heat.

A few cartons of matches in the rear of the warehouse ignited from undetermined cause about 3:30 a. m. The flames rushed up a pillar, two of the sprays let loose, setting off an alarm simultaneously, and drowned the first by the "hillbilly boys" as the broadcast began. Then, clothed in a dark blue suit with blue cravat splashing over a white shirt, the governor started reading his manuscript in a rather low voice. As he proceeded, his tones strengthened, and soon his words were ringing.

He concluded with these words: "As no man should ever embark upon any great and important undertaking without first invoking the blessings of God, that I now do and ask Him for continued guidance and strength."

Hymn
The orchestra then played the ancient hymn Faith of Our Fathers.

Throughout the address, the governor stood at the microphone. The drawing room was very warm, and once son Pat quietly went to his father's side and passed a handkerchief over O'Daniel's forehead.

By his declaration of candidacy, the governor became the fourth announced and active gubernatorial candidate, others who had preceded him in announcement being Albert Darden, a state representative, Harry Hines, a member of the state highway commission, and Jerry Sadler, member of the state railroad commission.

Ernest O. Thompson, another member of the railroad commission, former chairman of the interstate oil compact and runner-up to O'Daniel, when the latter was elected, is expected to announce early in May.

Wants Right Solons
The governor also called on the voters to elect senators and representatives who favor his program. This, he said will enable the legislature to get the job done within thirty days.

O'Daniel advocated giving the public schools $5,000,000 a year additional, and pointed out that the state's present expenditures for education is $21 per pupil per year less than the national average.

He also advocated giving the state's institutions of higher learning $2,500,000 additional. In this connection he said that current appropriations for three institutions is the lowest in ten years. For the eleemosynary institutions, Gov. O'Daniel favored $5,000,000 a year. This amount will be needed, he said, "if we are going to eliminate fire traps at these institutions and get the insane out of jails."

At the conclusion of this portion of his address, Gov. O'Daniel issued this warning:

"Now let me warn you," he said, "there will be demagogues who will tell you that raising all this money is not necessary, but let me say that unless you face this unpleasant ordeal of paying for these things as you go, you will awaken some bright morning a few years hence and find out that the slick professional politicians have spent all this money I am talking about, and you will owe the money on top of the enormous amounts you now owe."

His platform this year will be the same as it was in 1938, O'Daniel said: "The ten commandments."

"Less Johnson grass and spotticorns and more smoke stacks and business men" again will be his campaign slogan, he said.

Social security also will be the number one problem, he said.

almost instantly. Night Patrolmen Eddleman and Pence heard the alarm, summoned Oscar Cliett, manager, and Cliett turned off the water.

Damage undetermined but not great.

Goering Promises "Decisive Blow" in "The West"

BERLIN, April 4 (AP) — Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Adolf Hitler's political heir, told millions of German children Wednesday that Hitler had mobilized all his forces for "a decisive blow in the west."

"It is here," he said, "that the decisive blow must be struck." The mighty German army, he told the breathless children, will attack on the west as it did in the Polish blitzkrieg "when Hitler is determined to put an end to this war." He gave no further clue to the time of the attack.

As Goering spoke Col. Gen. Walter von Brauchitsch was inspecting troops on the western front, especially those stationed in the Rhineland. The tour, which started Sunday, ended last night.

Goering spoke over a nationwide radio hook-up from the festival hall of the air ministry to school children and apprentices in factories who forgot their studies or dropped their tools to hear the one-hour address.

Putnam Council Is Re-Elected

Cook 18; City marshal — L. D. Maynard, 85; W. L. Parks, 18; W. P. Stevens, 56; G. P. Gaskins and W. W. Everett, incumbent aldermen, received 143 votes each.

Local Store Is Robbed Monday Night

A burglar, or burglars, entered the W. E. McWhorter grocery store on Tenth street late Monday night and carried away goods amounting to approximately $30, it was reported today.

The prowlers entered the building through a rear door, removing the hinges to gain entrance. They took cartons of cigarettes, candy, gum and a ham from the market department, investigation showed.

After rifling the store, they left through the front door.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

We will rejoice in thy salvation, and triumph in the house of the Lord.—Ps. xx. 5.

What can I do but trust Thee, Lord?
That trust my heart will cheer.

That Thou art God is my one joy,
Whatever Thy will may be,
Thy glory will be magnified
In Thy best doom for me.

The Dead Are Not Even Counted

LIFE is a precious gift. Men cherish it, cling to it desperately long after all its juices would seem to have been sucked dry.

Yet it is cheap. It is so cheap that men pour it out with thoughtless lavishness when they turn to war.

How many men died in the snows of Finland? Nobody knows. Here the sacrifice to the war god was not even measured as it poured forth. Nobody knows within thousands, within scores of thousands, how many brave young men, Finn and Russian, died in the brief northern war.

There were tales of the slaughter of Russian divisions, one after another, marched to the shambles like the dumb animals who march patiently into the slaughterpens. There is no reason to doubt those stories in detail, especially those of trustworthy American eyewitnesses. But it begins to seem clear now that the cumulative effect of those stories did give a distorted view. Little was said of Finnish losses.

NOW the war is over, and Mars begins to total up his blood-smeared ledgers. How many died?

Molotoff, Russian premier, now says the Russian dead were 48,645, with 158,863 wounded. The Finns, he says, lost 30,000 killed and 250,000 wounded.

Mannerheim, the Finn leader, told a different story, of 200,000 Russian dead, 600,000 wounded, while the Finns were losing 15,000 dead. Swedish estimates doubled that loss for the Finns, guessed total Russian casualties at a half-million.

Nobody knows whose figures are correct. By averaging all these claims, however, one can make a guess that between 100,000 and 200,000 men are dead.

WHEN spring comes to the lake country, when the northern tundras bloom shyly green again, those rows of dead will begin their return to the earth whence they came. Each was a man, each a living, breathing being, with fears and hopes like yours and mine, all merged now in a common oblivion. Throughout all northern Europe are families whose sons did not return. They know. They remember.

But for the rest, for the governments which sent them to their deaths, for a world which watched helplessly as they died—these didn't even bother to count them.

A university freshman gave up his seat to Mrs. Roosevelt in a transcontinental plane, thus permitting her to make connections on her way to the west coast from New York. He probably figured that trying to delay her would be like standing in the way of a planet in motion.

A man wanted to recover a $2 fine he had paid in 1912 for unlawfully tying the wheels on his ice wagon while going down a steep grade. He figured he had taken enough time to think the matter out fairly.

Minister Dies Of Injuries When Attacked by Bull

MERKEL, April 4 (AP)—H. A. Presbyterian church here 15 years died in a local hospital early Saturday afternoon when he was attacked by a bull.

Walker was attacked by the enraged animal at a dairy southeast of Abilene.

According to the elderly preacher's account, the bull (a Guernsey breed) dashed at him, knocking him down between his automobile and a trailer. The animal rammed at him again and again, but the victim said he did not know how many times. The bull was dehorned.

Though hurt badly and weakened, the minister managed to get into his car but could not start it. He blew his horn, but no one was at home at the Baker place, so it attracted no attention. It was believed that it was at least an hour before assistance came.

The Rev. Mr. Walker has been pastor of the Grace Presbyterian church for 15 years. He was also pastor at Baird. He came here from Lamar county, C. O. (Pat) Paterson, county assessor-collector of taxes, is a son-in-law.

Postmastership Under Civil Service Here

The Cisco postmastership Monday went under lifetime appointment as Postmaster Luther McCrea became a civil service employe and not an appointive employe under the new federal statute which has gone into effect.
 The new law makes appointments of postmasters good for life upon good behavior and retirement at the age of 70.
 Mr. McCrea qualified under the civil service some time ago and chose April 1 as the date for beginning his employment under the new status.
 There are about 140 different dates assigned to the creation of the world.

● SERIAL STORY K. O. CAVALIER BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

VAL DOUGLAS—girl sports writer, shipped on a freighter to find excitement.
EDDIE CAVALIER—a prize fighter headed for the title, has a score to settle with Val.
CAPTAIN STEVE HANSEN—skipper of the Northern Belle.
DUFFY KELSO—Cavalier's manager.

YESTERDAY: The new hands go to work. Duffy and Grimes with the paint, crew while Eddie works out. Cavalier rebuffs Val's efforts to make friends. Mike Kelly tells Val that Cavalier has the stuff that makes champions and that she will be changing her opinion of him soon.

CHAPTER VII
Val Douglas went on the bridge and watched Eddie Cavalier jog around deck. He ran tirelessly, effortlessly. Probably would give Glenn Cunningham a good battle over a mile, she figured.

She didn't have to be told by Mike Kelly that Cavalier was a perfect athlete. He had never smoked a cigarette in his life. He steered clear of liquor and followed Pop Grimes' instructions to the letter.
She remembered he had taken up golf just a year ago and already was breaking 90. A famous pro once had called him the ideal example of muscular co-ordination and nerves and insisted Cavalier could be playing in the National open within two years if he wanted to concentrate on the game.

Val Douglas long ago had decided—in print, too—that Eddie Cavalier, with his dark, curly hair and handsome features, was too good-looking to be a fighter. Once she had hinted that he could have been a greater riot as a slugger instead of the boxer he was—but that he preferred to protect his good looks.
That, in fact, was what had started the whole feud. He had never forgotten her for that and threatened to eject her bodily himself if she tried to pay a visit to his Pompton lakes training camp.

From her position of vantage overlooking the deck, Val Douglas smiled sardonically. Here, at last was one training camp he couldn't pitch her out of.
Duffy Kelso, spattered and smelly with paint, fixed her with a vindictive eye at lunch. "We're gonna work out on the bags this afternoon and maybe spar three rounds with Kelly. Any objections?" he inquired belligerently.
"Not at all," she answered brightly. "I'm anxious to see if his surroundings affect his ring disposition."

"I'll try not to disappoint you," Eddie said meaningly, and she wondered if he'd vent his spite on Mike Kelly. That, however, might be a boomerang. Mike on the shoulder, familiarly.

"Please, lady—cut the comics. If he sees you enjoyin' this too much it'll throw him so far off he'll never get back."

While Mike skipped rope to get himself warmed up Cavalier went to work on the light bag. Coolly and expertly he beat out a rhythmic tattoo of leather on board. Faster, faster he worked until the bag became an indistinct blur of motion and the noise became a flat rolling wave that sounded like a muffled machine gun.

Val found herself admiring the sight. Eddie lifted his eyes from the bag, without breaking the rhythm and noticed the rapt look on her face. As though it were a sudden, spiteful gesture, he slammed the bag one terrific punch and ended the show. The gesture startled her and he smirked.

A message sent down by the radio operator interrupted the workout. "It's from Sam Golden," said Duffy Kelso, reading it quickly.

"Golden, hey? What's up?" Pop Grimes asked.
"Plenty," Duffy moaned. "He says the newspaper guys don't believe he didn't know a thing about this and they ain't even talking to him, and if I know Sam Golden, he's tearing out his hair for fear maybe they'll boycott the fight."

"But that ain't all," Duffy continued. "The state boxing commission had to be notified, of course, and they demand that we put up a $5,000 bond that we'll show up for weighin' in ceremonies on time."

"Who'll we get to dig up the $5,000 for us?" Kelso demanded. "We gotta think fast."
"We'll think about that later," Cavalier said impatiently. "I'm getting cold. Let's go, Mike."

They climbed in between the ropes and Kelso and Grimes looked at each other questioningly.

It wasn't like the kid to be so impatient. He was like a race horse at the post. It was something new and they didn't like it. Duffy Kelso forgot all about the $5,000 bond.

"Okay," Pop grunted, taking out his watch. "Start slow and take it easy."
Cavalier danced forward and flicked a straight left without a preliminary motion of any sort. It caught Mike on the bridge of the nose and tilted his head back sharply. Mike looked surprised and advanced more cautiously.

Val tried to read Cavalier's expression but the padded head guard he wore obscured his features. All she could see were a pair of piercing eyes, and she didn't like the way they were being directed at Mike.

Mike Kelly went a good 195 pounds and there wasn't an ounce of fat on him. The years had slowed him down a little but he could still maneuver surprisingly well.

Kelly tucked his chin behind his left shoulder and went to work. He muscled in close and worked a short right to Eddie's ribs. Cavalier jabbed him sharply twice in the face, but Mike let them bounce off and shuffled in for more.

He swung a heavy right, but wraithlike Cavalier weaved away, stepped inside smartly and whistled a right cross to Kelly's chin.

McDonald Okeys Karakul Breeding

Texas Ideal for Karakul Sheep Says Producer

WEATHERFORD, April 4 (Sp) —"Texas has the finest climate and range conditions in the world for Karakul sheep raising," declared J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, on a recent visit to George H. Kiosseff's Parker county Karakul sheep ranch, where successful experiments have proved that Texans have a new three million dollar industry awaiting simple and easy development.

Mr. Kiosseff (pronounced Key-oss-iff) a native Bulgarian whose grandfather and grandmother were killed by the Turks and who himself had to wear a fez until he was twelve years old, has shown, through four years of experimentation in cooperation with the state department of agriculture, that this fur, wool and mutton producing sheep gives better quality pelts than have been obtained in the native habitat, west central Asia.

Mr. McDonald said statistics show that the United States imports annually three million dollars worth of Karakul and Persian lambskins, and this country, which consumes eighty-five per cent of the world's production, produces less than ten thousand skins a year, whereas, German Southwest Africa last year produced one million, two hundred thousand lambskins.

Of course, women know that the soft, tightly curled, tar-black Persian lamb is born of the Karakul sheep, and from a number of those lovely little pelts are made the beautiful coats and wraps so desired by women.

Right now, with the world trade conditions as they are and the country's foreign source of fur supply cut drastically, Texans stand an unusual opportunity to cop the world market in Karakul, believes Mr. Kiosseff, who comes of the third generation of Karakul raisers and has spent his life in the fur trade. He also claims the sheep will do as well on damp lowlands, as on hilly semi-arid lands. With the exception of our milder winters, the climate throughout Texas is much like that of Bokhara, the heart of central Asia, where the breed originated. "Over there, he says, "the sheep are raised on the hilly country as well as on the lowlands. They will lamb twice a year if their lambs are taken when a few days old, and have been known to produce at this rate for 14 years. No special season is required for the production of fine pelts."

The pelts taken from Karakul lambs which have been still-born within 20 days of the end of gestation period are of extra texture and value, therefore saving the owner the great loss which occurs in most breeds of sheep by what is generally known as "lamb slinking."

Mr. Kiosseff thinks they are the hardest sheep in the world and declares it costs less to feed a Karakul sheep than it does a turkey. As a mutton producer, he says, they top the market.

Automatic Sprinklers Put Out Fire

The automatic sprinkler system in the warehouse of the Radford Grocery company here early Tuesday went quickly into action to extinguish a fire of undetermined origin which otherwise might have done many thousands of dollars in damage before it could have been extinguished.

The ceiling of the warehouse at East Eighth and the viaduct is threaded with water pipes equipped with sprayers and connected directly to city water mains. Each spray is sealed by a thin sheet of lead which melts on contact with heat.

A few cartons of matches in the rear of the warehouse ignited from undetermined cause about 3:30 a. m. The flames rushed up a pillar, two of the sprays let loose, setting off an alarm simultaneously, and drowned the first by the "Hillbilly boys" as the broadcast began.

Then, clothed in a dark blue suit with blue cravat splashing over a white shirt, the governor started reading his manuscript in a rather low voice. As he proceeded, his tones strengthened, and soon his words were ringing.

He concluded with these words: "As no man should ever embark upon any great and important undertaking without first invoking the blessings of God, that I now do and ask Him for continued guidance and strength."

Hymn
The orchestra then played the ancient hymn Faith of Our Fathers.

Throughout the address, the governor stood at the microphone. The drawing room was very warm, and once son Pat quietly went to his father's side and passed a handkerchief over O'Daniel's forehead.

By his declaration of candidacy, the governor became the fourth announced and active gubernatorial candidate, others who had preceded him in announcement being Albert Darden, a state representative, Harry Hines, a member of the state highway commission, and Jerry Sadler, member of the state railroad commission.

Ernest O. Thompson, another member of the railroad commission, former chairman of the interstate oil compact and runner-up to O'Daniel, when the latter was elected, is expected to announce early in May.

Wants Right in Solons
The governor also called on the voters to elect senators and representatives who favor his program. This, he said will enable the legislature to get the job done within thirty days.

O'Daniel advocated giving the public schools $5,000,000 a year additional, and pointed out that the state's present expenditures for education is $21 per pupil per year less than the national average.

He also advocated giving the state's institutions of higher learning $2,500,000 additional. In this connection he said that current appropriations for three institutions is the lowest in ten years.

For the eleemosynary institutions, Gov. O'Daniel favored $3,000,000 a year. This amount will be needed, he said, "if we are going to eliminate fire traps at these institutions and get the insane out of jails."

At the conclusion of this portion of his address, Gov. O'Daniel issued this warning:

"Now let me warn you," he said, "there will be demagogues who will tell you that raising all this money is not necessary, but let me say that unless you face this unpleasant ordeal of paying for these things as you go, you will awaken some bright morning a few years hence and find out that the slick professional politicians have spent all this money I am talking about, and you will owe the money on top of the enormous amounts you now owe."

His platform this year will be the same as it was in 1938, O'Daniel said: "The ten commandments."

"Less Johnson grass and politicians and more smoke stacks and business men" again will be his campaign slogan, he said.

Social security also will be the number one problem, he said.

almost instantly. Night Patrolmen Eddleman and Pence heard the alarm, summoned Oscar Clieff, manager, and Clieff turned off the water.

Damage undetermined but not great.

Ass't Coach

Local Store Is Robbed Monday Night

A burglar, or burglars, entered the W. E. McWhorter grocery store on Tenth street late Monday night and carried away goods amounting to approximately $30. It was reported today.

The prowlers entered the building through a rear door, removing the hinges to gain entrance. They took cartons of cigarettes, candy, gum and a ham from the market department, investigation showed.

After rifling the store, they left through the front door.

Goering Promises "Decisive Blow" in "The West"

BERLIN, April 4 (AP) — Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Adolf Hitler's political heir, told millions of German children Wednesday that Hitler had mobilized all his forces for "a decisive blow in the west."

"It is here," he said, "that the decisive blow must be struck." The mighty German army, he told the breathless children, will attack on the west as it did in the Polish blitzkrieg "when Hitler is determined to put an end to this war." He gave no further clue to the time of the attack.

As Goering spoke Col. Gen. Walter von Brauchitsch was inspecting troops on the western front, especially those stationed in the Rhineland. The tour, which started Sunday, ended last night.

Goering spoke over a nationwide radio hook-up from the festival hall of the air ministry to school children and apprentices in factories who forgot their studies or dropped their tools to hear the one-hour address.
