Combined With Cisco Daily News and Cisco American and Round-Up November 1, 1937

CISCO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, APRIL 5, 1940

NUMBER 107

In an area of benevolent climate, blessed with an abundance of the purest lake water, possessing the best in recreational facilities, situated on the Bankhead, all-weather route, with three railroads and many highways, Cisco is the best place in Texas to live and to work.

Farley-Garner Ticket May Enter Presidential Race

Postmaster General James A. Farley, speaking at a non-political Dallas, Texas, breakfast, stirred political speculators with the hint that he may team with Vice President John N. Garner in the 1940 presidential sweepstakes. Farley is shown above, right, with Mrs. Clara Driscoll, left, State Democrat committeewoman, as a negro "mammy" serves hot biscuits to them.

TWO SCHOOL TRUSTEES TO BE ELECTED

One of Five Candidates Withdraws Name Today

Out of a field of four candidates Cisco school district voters will elect two trustees for terms of three years tomorrow. The ballot will carry five names, but one of the five, W. R. (Bill) Huestis, today told the Daily Press to say that he has withdrawn from the race and would not serve on the board if elected. Mr. Huestis said that he did not feel he could take time from the business which service on the board would require and asked the voters not to consider him.

The election will be held at the city hall, with R. W. (Bob) Mancill as judge and Mrs. R. B. Carswell and J. C. Donica as clerks.

Polls will open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m. Candidates are W. J. Armstrong, retiring board member; F. E. Shepard, George P. Fee and Dr. Paul M. Woods.

Lions Win "I. Q." Test in Joint Dinner Thursday

The Lions club took the "I. Q." award over the Rotary club in the humorous "quiz" program which featured the joint meeting of the Cisco service clubs at the Laguna hotel last night. C. M. Nevill, high man of a team of four from the Lions, out-guessed Edward Lee, high man of a similar team from the Rotary club, in the finals of the question contest propounded by Droel Looney.

He received a bottle of castor oil. There was a strong suspicion among the Rotarians that Looney, who is a member of the Lions club, asked Nevill the easy questions, and that the same sort of favoritism assisted the Lions club's team of four members to outrank the Rotary team of four members by a slight margin. For instance, Looney asked E. P. Crawford to identify from a few bars of each a number of modern "swing" songs. Mr. Crawford promptly declined for reasons that he didn't know anything about swing, but the score counted against the Rotary club just the same.

Nevill, Lions tall twister, and H. H. Monk, appointed by President Sutton Crofts of the Rotary club to perform similar functions for the members of that service club, bore down hapless members during the dinner, collecting fines with the finesse of the Gestapo or OGPU, in one instance sawing off a members tie for failure to produce. The meeting was opened by Lion President Tuttle, who presided jointly with Crofts during the dinner hour, turning the program over to Looney after the meal. Crofts and Roy Tuggle of the Lions and Pete Nance of the Rotarians served as judges of the quiz.

Goodfellows Class to Have Contest

The Goodfellows class of the First Methodist church will begin an attendance and membership contest next Sunday with the class divided into two teams, captained by George and Lory Boyd.

A. L. Osborn is teacher of the class. Sunday morning, Mr. Osborn announced, the lesson will be taught by Rev. P. W. Walker of Eastland, and the following Sunday Dr. R. W. Goodloe of SMU will teach it.

Song Service at Methodist Church

At the Sunday evening services at the First Methodist church Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Webb will lead a song service featuring old gospel songs. One new song will be learned, the pastor, the Rev. Joe I. Patterson, announced.

CONVENTION OF FIREMEN HERE IN FALL

Mid-West Texas Ass'n Chooses Cisco For Semi-Annual Meet

The semi-annual convention of the Mid-West Texas Firemen's association will be held in Cisco on October 3, it was announced by Fire Chief Noah Fowler today on the return of the Cisco fire department delegation from the Snyder convention yesterday.

Chief Fowler accompanied the department's racing team, of which Allen Farley is captain, to Snyder, where the team took two second places in competition with teams from many other towns in west Texas. Members of the Cisco team, besides Farley, are Emmett Green, Claude Tucker, Les Garrett, W. C. Newman, Earl Robinson and S. B. Parks.

Two hundred or more visitors, including firemen and their families, will attend the convention, Fowler estimated. The program starts with a business session at 1 o'clock, team contest at 4 and concludes with a banquet in the evening.

Chief Ashbury of Baird is president of the association and S. B. King, also of Baird, is secretary.

FFA Teams to Enter Contests at Tarleton

Cisco Future Farmers will enter three teams in the John Tarleton judging contests Saturday at 8 o'clock. The three teams will be: Dairy judging: Gail Jones; Larkin Akers; Jerry Myrick; Odell Plumlee.

Livestock judging: J. V. Heyser; Gene Duncan; Billy Fox; Harlan Donaway; Gerald Jensen.

Soil conservation team: Claud Hooker; Lavin Ziehr; Harold Blackburn; Norman Ball.

The boys will leave at 6 o'clock Saturday morning. The teams are instructed by T. G. Caudle. Reporter, J. V. Heiser.

Return From Fort Worth Convention

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Osborn of the Osborn studios returned yesterday from Fort Worth, where they spent four days at the joint convention of the Texas and Southwestern Professional Photographers association.

Among the most interesting of the discussions at the convention centered around a proposed photographers' license law by L. W. Naegle, Bismark, N. D., who led the movement that brought the enactment of such a law to North Dakota. "Prospective purchasers of photographs have absolutely no protection from picture racketeers," Naegle said. "Some unscrupulous door-to-door photographer tells a prospective customer that for a certain length of time he is selling pictures at a reduced rate, when actually that is all the picture is worth in the first place. Another ruse is telling the prospective buyer that the photographer represents a newspaper, wants the picture for publication, but adds that a small charge is necessary. The 'certain charge' is always as much or more than the picture is worth."

Stability of Lake Cisco, big reservoir, has been amply maintained during the last three months. Practically no run-off has fallen on the watershed that period and the drain lake has been great, especially the loss of the lake which supplied the Texas electric division point with water. Despite this drain, however, lake still has an enormous reservoir.

CAR OF TVA FERTILIZER IS UNLOADED

A car of Tennessee Valley Authority concentrated phosphate fertilizer was unloaded by County Agent Elmo V. Cook in the T&P yards here today and unloaded of 400 100-pound sacks distributed among nine Eastland county farmers for soil building demonstrations. This is the third consecutive year, County Agent Cook said, in which Eastland county farmers have cooperated with the TVA in such soil building demonstrations.

The 40,000 pounds of fertilizer, rated 45 per cent superphosphate, will be used in two types of demonstration — raising legumes on crop land and permanent grasses and legumes on pastures.

Farmers who are receiving the fertilizer for such demonstrations are A. W. Armstrong of Rising Star; I. D. Inabnet of Pioneer; T. E. Castleberry and F. M. Spurlin of Eastland; I. S. Echols of Gorman; F. E. Harrell and George P. Fee of Cisco; Robert Tucker of Carbon, and Ed Townsend of Nimrod.

The schedule of recreation activities for this week does not include activities for Saturday, March 6. Regular activities will be resumed on Monday, with the recreation center opening at 2 o'clock p. m., and the playgrounds at approximately 3 p. m. It was announced from the recreation office today.

Mrs. Olene Johnson became the bride of Mr. T. R. McDaniels of Fort Worth in a ceremony Wednesday evening. Mr. McDaniels is employed by the Purina Mills of Fort Worth. He and his bride will make their home in Fort Worth.

Cynicism Comes To The Jury Box

MADISONVILLE, Ky., April 5 (AP).—The Hopkins county grand jury submitted this report, signed by Foreman Ernest Newman: "It perhaps is not the function of a grand jury to make recommendations, as we have never known of any to be carried out. So we are not making any, merely making a report."

Proving: You Can't Be Too Careful

HARRODSBURG, Ky., April 5 (AP).—With the ground covered by ice and snow for more than a month, R. E. Cunningham, 71, farmer, took pains when he went outdoors. Every time he ventured from his house, he used a pitchfork for a walking stick, jabbing the prongs into the ground firmly to insure against a fall. Then it happened. He slipped on the hardwood floor in his home and fell, breaking a hip. He was sent to a hospital.

Diversified Sports Program Is Planned

With four teams already assured and two others in prospect, plans of the Cisco Lions club for the organization of a soft ball league this summer, coupled with programs of other sports events, were rapidly taking shape.

The clubs, with Coaches J. T. Petty and Johnny Edwards of the high school in charge, plans to offer this season the most attractive program that has ever been provided at the lighted field which has been built at 16th street and A avenue.

If six teams are entered, there will be five nightly programs each week. If four, the number of weekly programs will be three.

In addition to soft ball, there will be boxing each Monday night.

Soft ball teams will be sponsored by Smitty Huestis, Scranton, the Man's store and J. C. Penney company, and possibly by the Red Front Drug store and the Humble company. Putnam will be invited.

When the program gets well under way it is expected that semi-pro teams will be brought into the summer events.

Fat Profits In Stamp Dispensary

HOUSTON, April 5 (AP).—The gray window at the Houston post office has averaged $50 a day net profit to Uncle Sam since it was opened February 20.

The gray window has a more dignified title in post office circles — "Philatelic Window" — but Postmaster John Dunlop reports the dollars that stamp collectors pass through the wicket are "pure gravy."

The biggest sale thus far was to a man who paid $2,500 for five sheets of $5 stamps. Five-dollar stamps are generally used for air-mail packages and, in this territory, by cotton firms sending samples abroad.

CADDO LIME TEST STARTED NEAR MORAN

MORAN, April 5 (Sp).—Groover & Rose, Albany contractors and producers, have moved a big rig on the John Carson No. 1 R. A. Elliott in center southeast of southeast quarter section 48, Blind Asylum lands, 6 miles northeast of Moran on the southwest flank of the Ibox field for a Caddo lime test to 3,650 feet.

The first test to be drilled in this area since discovery of the Loving pool, across line in western Stephens county by Wittmer, Knight & Ewing with a 1,000 barrel producer in the Caddo lime test to 3,510 feet. The Carson test is south of the Ibox, holdings of Phillips Petroleum Co., and Phillips natural gasoline plant that was built by E. A. Landreth of Fort Worth and with combined holdings of the Ibox field sold to Phillips by Landreth Production Co. in the biggest deal ever made in Shackelford county, closed in 1924 at a consideration reported to have been $2,750,000, and still producing.

A scene of considerable activity and largely held by major companies in 1922 and 1923, this is the first Caddo lime test for this area in 15 years. Although since discovery of the Ibox pool in 1922 and 1923 the Strawn sand pools on the Parrish and Brewster were drilled and produced from the 2,000-foot horizon, no test being made to the Caddo lime in either pool.

The Carson hole is 500 feet northwest of Hogan-Humble No. 1 Elliott that carried oil in Caddo lime topped at 3,621 feet, drilled deeper and shot in 1922 with nitro-glycerine. The well was plugged after making a flow, according to residents who saw the well at the time, no well being drilled around the test since that day.

Possibilities of the Strawn sand will be tested at 2,000 feet, but the new test is contracted to Caddo lime, expected around 3,620 feet. Groover & Rose were the contracting firm that opened the Olander-Avoca pool for Iron Mountain Oil company-Humble Oil and Refining Co. in northeast Jones county in the 3,200 foot Palo Pinto lime, causing the greatest period of exploration seen in Jones and in northwest Shackelford counties since the days of the big boom at Ranger and Breckenridge.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Rejoice inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's suffering, that when His glory shall be revealed ye may be glad with exceeding joy.—1 Pet. iv. 13.

Never sit me down and say
There's nothing left but sorrow;
We walk the wilderness today,
The promised land tomorrow.

Build up heroic lives, and all
Be like a sheaf of wheat,
Ready to flash out at God's call,
O conspiracy of labor!

Triumph and toil and time and aye,
Joy sings the cloud of sorrow;
And 'tis the martyrdom today
Brings victory tomorrow.

—MASSEY.

Forewarned -- Forearmed

If it is true that to be forewarned is to be forearmed, the United States is lucky. Warning signs are clearly up.

Whether the blitzkrieg blitzes this spring or whether it merely fizzles, the neutrals are in for it. For all of them, including the United States, things will be worse before they are better. We may as well get used to the idea.

American trade is going to get a worse kicking around than it has to date. The British are face to face with the fact that their blockade is a good deal less than water-tight. They are preparing measures to tighten it, though neutrals squirm.

The British claim that Russia, for instance, has bought in American Pacific ports vast quantities of copper, lead, tin, alloys and machinery beyond her own need. This, Britain maintains, is going through Russia to Germany.

The United States is at peace with Russia, which is at peace with Germany, France and Britain. You might think that American trade with such a neutral is our own business. Ditto our trade with the Scandinavian countries, also suddenly far above normal. But it seems not.

War is desperation. If the British believe neutral countries are buying things from the United States, then passing them on to Germany, they will attempt to stop it. Contraband controls in the Pacific may come with the spring.

In short, when Britain thinks any neutral has imported from the United States as much of any material as it needs, Britain will try to stop further imports. International law? Remember the Altmark!

MEANWHILE, of course, the British are importing from the United States just as little as they can. Of planes and such desperately-needed products, they will take all they can get. But of cotton, oil, and wheat, the minimum. They will buy instead from European and South American countries with which they hope to improve relations.

Australia has just cut imports from the United States by about 10 per cent.

In the midst of military war, Britain is moving heaven and earth to maintain export markets.

All this means heavy handicaps for American foreign trade. We shall need two things: first, patience and understanding in the face of what will certainly appear to be unjust discriminations; and second, every effort to stimulate the domestic market to make up for impending losses in foreign trade.

Sumner Welles won't do any talking about his European junket, the White House announces. Also, spring is here.

OTHER OPINIONS

The Decline of Liberty

WORD-flinging Linn Landrum of the Dallas News has discovered something else to get riled up about. He said federal officials have warned Dallas garagemen to stop listening to police broadcasts for the purpose of finding out where a wreck has occurred. According to Mr. Landrum, the offenders have been told that they'll be visited by G-men unless they cease the practice, because Uncle Sam rules the airways. Mr. Landrum gets pretty indignant about all this, wanting to know in effect if we have come to the point in this country where we can't use our radios to listen to what we please, without having some federal dick pounce on us from behind and haul us off to the concentration camp.

Perhaps the incident is unimportant in itself, but as a symptom of a vastly changed attitude between government and governed it makes the small hairs at the nape of your neck rise like the quills of a porcupine.

This changed attitude is getting so thick that you can almost cut it with a butter knife. A generation ago we elected servants and sent them to Washington to do our bidding. Today Washington hires an army of servants to harass and antagonize what we laughingly call its masters—meaning the people. The slogan is, "One peep outta you and we'll fix your clock!" A man can get himself into jail in so many ways these days that he has become allergic to iron in his rations.

Yesterday in New York Elisha Hanson, counsel for the American Newspaper Publishers' association, excoriated government snooping and added that "no man, woman or child who lives in America is free from the heavy and oppressive hand of the government."

There is not a single activity of life, whether of business or of pleasure, in which the government does not play a part and an increasing part," said Mr. Hanson. "This hand is laid not only upon us but upon future generations yet unborn. Each day it grows heavier and more oppressive."

It would be pleasant if we could laugh off Mr. Hanson's lugubrious comment as the product of pessimism or a disordered liver, but if we only stop to think we will come to realize that he is speaking but the simple truth.

It may be that our democratic concept of government is unimpaired, but there is no blinking the fact that our democratic practice of government has undergone a radical change.

Individual liberty and initiative have taken a fearful kicking around these last few years, and the end is not yet in sight.

A government which our fathers trusted and looked up to as the source of all protection and guidance has become an instrumentality of harassment, an instigator of fear, an invader of privacy, a meddler in private, county, city and state affairs. All, more's the pity, under the strict letter of the law. For the laws you can blame the lawmakers; for the lawbreakers, you must inevitably find the voters guilty.

These alarms and excursions into the darker recesses of democracy at work are not the imaginings of a few old mossbacks, leftovers from the horse and buggy age. It is true that everyone who calls attention to their existence is branded a hopeless old fogey, but the movement to give the country back to the people is gaining momentum. Every time a citizen comes into personal contact with federal totalitarianism he automatically joins the growing procession of those who would like to enjoy the freedom and opportunity of old-time democracy once more.

These encroachments will continue so long as the people tolerate them. Moreover, they will increase in scope and intensity in exact proportion to the growth of public indifference. Only the people can remove the halter they have unconsciously placed about their own necks. — Abilene Reporter-News.

Italy shouldn't worry about a coal shortage. There must be stacks of old treaties lying around that could be passed out to the citizens for fuel.

Adolphe Menjou is scheduled to play the leading role in a film based on John Barrymore's life. Maybe Barrymore himself just isn't the type.

Amos Pleads for Justice; World of Today Should Heed

Text: Amos 5:1, 10-15, 21-24

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D. Editor of Advance

AMOS was not the first of the Hebrew prophets, but he was the first whose prophecies have come down to us in a book attached to his own name. He is a striking figure, and the interest of his prophecy lies in the fact that so much that he said concerning his own time applies with equal intensity and reality to our time.

Amos was a herdsman who tended his flocks in Tekoa, a little village about 12 miles south of Jerusalem. He had something of the farmer's sense of values and clearness of vision; and, when he came into Jerusalem and observed what was happening in the towns and cities, he was shocked and was moved to protest, just as a plain, honest, hard-working man might be disturbed today with much that he sees in our modern city life.

IT was a time of so-called prosperity in Palestine, but what Amos saw was extreme contrast of wealth and poverty. Some were living lives of indulgence and luxury, while others starved. Amos saw not only this contrast, but he also saw that beneath it, and in some measure causing it, there were real injustices.

It was not only that those who possessed were unwilling to share with those who had not, but society itself was full of materialism and corruption. The rich and powerful were exploiting the poor for their own ends and their own gain.

What do the shapes of traffic signs along the highway mean?

Maybe it never occurred to you that the difference shaped signs had any special meaning. Well, they do. For instance, a round sign always means you are approaching a railroad. An octagonal, or eight-sided sign, means stop. A diamond shaped sign is used for curves, narrow bridge, winding road and other hazards in the roadway. It always means slow down! A square sign means caution. It warns of hazards along the highway such as side roads, cattle crossings, schools, men working and soft shoulders.

Remember that the shapes of road signs have meaning—and heed them. They're for YOUR protection.

The first newspaper in Arizona, the Weekly Arizonian, was established in Tubac, in March, 1859.

Amos describes what he saw in vivid words, as the poor were being trampled upon. He saw also corruption in political life, bribery and dishonesty. He said that the man who is prudent would keep silence at such a time. But Amos himself was not prudent; he was above all things honest and fearless. As he saw these great evils in the society of the time, he appealed to the people to seek good and not evil. He warned them that the course they were pursuing was bound to bring destruction upon them.

RELIGION itself was perverted from its true ways and its emphasis upon holiness and righteousness. It had become very largely a matter of form. The people were observing their feasts and meeting in their solemn assemblies. They were bringing burnt offerings, but they were not offering their own lives as sacrifices unto God in holiness.

So Amos poured out his wrath on these things. He represents the Almighty as desiring these things and taking no delight in these assemblies. And it is not only the voice of Amos, but it is the voice of God that one hears in the great passage of the final verse of our lesson: "Let justice roll down as waters and righteousness as a mighty stream." Surely one can read the application of all this to our own day. Amos, as a prophet of Israel, preaches directly to our own time as much as if he actually stood in our midst.

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1940. NEA SERVICE, INC.

VAL DOUGLAS — girl sports writer, shipped on a freighter to find excitement.

EDDIE CAVALIER — a prize fighter headed for the title, has a score to settle with Val.

CAPTAIN STEVE HANSEN — skipper of the Northern Belle.

DUFFY KELSO — Cavalier's manager.

YESTERDAY: Eddie begins his training with a light workout and three rounds with Kelly. Although he is supposed to be sparing, Cavalier pounds Kelly without mercy. Val makes Duffy stop the slaughter, calls Cavalier a heel.

CHAPTER VIII

Eddie and Mike sparred lightly the last two rounds and when Pop Grimes called a halt Cavalier went over and took both of Mike's hands in his.

"I'm sorry about that first round, Mike. Honest I am. That damn time . . . I guess . . . Well, it just . . ."

Mike nodded. "Yeah, kid. I know. That's okay . . . forget it. You didn't hurt me much."

Eddie slapped him on the back and rushed below to take a shower.

Val Douglas looked after him thoughtfully. "He might be genuinely sorry but I still make a good story. I'm filing my first one tonight."

"Never mind your story," Kelso waived. "What about our $5,000 forfeit money?"

"I don't know why I should play Santa Claus, but I might have an idea about that, too," she said.

She found Captain Hansen in his cabin. Quickly she explained the situation they had put Kelso in. "Stevie," she concluded, "I'm going to wire Uncle Hank the facts and have him lend Duffy the money."

Captain Hansen looked at her a long time before replying. "Honey," he said gently, "how those three men really came on board will have to be held from your Uncle Hank for a while. It's bad enough he'll be knowing they're on board just as he reads the papers. But there's something more important."

He paused for another moment. "As much as your Uncle Hank would want to do anything in the world for you he wouldn't be able to scrape up $5,000 in less than a month—if at all," he added significantly.

"Stevie—what do you mean? That isn't so much."

"Normally, it wouldn't be, but remember I told you we have a lot of reconditioning to do? Well, Uncle Hank has just about every penny he could get his hands on already tied up. That's why we need this Halliday contract to wind things up. Then we'll be bouncing right back up there again."

She nodded. "I didn't think . . . I had no idea Uncle Hank was working on such a close margin. What happened?"

"Well, just between you 'n' me, honey, that rival line is trying to freeze us out of the coast trade. An' they haven't been too particular about their methods."

"Is that what you meant when you mentioned those tough breaks we've been having lately?"

He nodded. "Fire in our freight warehouse once. Two tons of salmon hijacked on the road before we could deliver it to the consignee. Little delays here and there that slow down the service. Never had any proof, of course, but we have ideas."

"And that machinery going up to Prince Rupert. You're worried about that, too?"

"Not while it's on board, we're not. But it's handling it at Prince Rupert that'll take a lot of care. All they got to do is steal one little cog, or something, or throw some little lever out of whack and the whole works will be held up until the part can be sent up from Frisco."

He patted her shoulder. "But you worry about your box-fighter and I'll worry about the important things."

"Oh, he's important," she said quickly. "In a different sort of way, that is. After all, he's sort of our responsibility. And maybe I can still help him," she said thoughtfully. "I think I can get our San Francisco bureau to intervene with the boxing commission. In fact, I'm sure of it, but don't let Kelso or Cavalier know anything about it."

Eddie Cavalier stopped her just before evening mess. "I hear you're writing your first training story tonight," he said abruptly. She nodded and noticed that he had a fresh patch over his black-jack wound. "So Mike did belt you a good one," she murmured. "That's good."

"Bled a little, that's all," he said briefly. "It'll be all closed up in a week. But what I wanted to ask you was not to scorch me too much for this morning. I didn't realize Mike wasn't wearing a headguard and somehow I got a crazy notion that you had prodded Mike into giving me something I wasn't looking for. You were right when you called me a heel—then, I'll go easy on him from now on."

"Mike's an old man as fighters go, but he can take care of himself," she observed. "As for my story—I'll have to think it over. It'll look awful good in print, you know—Eddie Cavalier takes advantage of washed-up sparmate."

"Okay," he said quietly. "Crucify me. You're pulling all the strings in this deal, anyway. And I'm the heel. That's a good one. Night calls the crew black!"

"Ah, a brilliant piece of euphemism. Who said fighters were dumb? Why, I'll bet you can add two and two and get four for an answer without putting it on paper."

"I believe I can," he said.

"I'll have some other answers once I get ashore."

She raised an eyebrow. "Threatening me, eh? What are you going to do—beat me up?"

"If I can't think of anything better, I will."

She found a wire from her office when she sat down at the table. It said: "Great work. We have scoop of century. Everyone else screaming. Give us first story soonest possible and keep coming 500 daily."

She shoved the message across to Cavalier. "This'll kill you."

He read it and Val felt like chucking at his expression of disgust.

Duffy Kelso peered suspiciously at the food Wong Lee was setting on the table and suddenly burst into a roar.

"Bread . . . potatoes . . . meat pie . . . starch and more starch! Hey, Wong Lee!" Duffy howled. "Get that stuff away from that fighter. Go easy on that starchy stuff, get me. He's gonna get hog-fat. He's gotta have more fresh greens and less o' this hash you dish out."

Wong Lee's eyes never changed their expression.

"Mr. Kelso," Val said icily. "We treat everyone around here with all the respect due them. If Captain Hansen were here now it would go bad with you."

"Nuts," said Kelso. "What about it? Do we or don't we get some sort o' training diet around here?"

"Don't bother, Duffy," Eddie said quietly. "I can get along on this."

"What about it, Wong Lee?" Val asked.

Wong Lee pattered around the table, looking at no one in particular when he spoke.

"Must have more help in galley. Make other things chop-chop."

WHAT IS IN A NAME?

LEAVE 'EM WHERE THEY LIE

Chest Injuries—Leave 'Em Where They Lie—Treat Shock. SHOCK may be the most serious of all—lay them flat—head down—feet up.

Keep them warm and give 'em a drink. If only a rib or so are broken, there is not much shock; in that case tie something tight around the chest, to relieve the pain in breathing and bring them in.

BUT IF SHOCK IS SEVERE—breathing is shallow and fast—the pulse is running so that the beat is hard to detect—and they are pale and clammy and maybe spitting up blood—THEN they are spilling up blood—TREAT SHOCK. Have no excitement. If they die it is usually due to SHOCK. Don't kill 'em yourself by excitement, hurry and exposure. Keep 'em warm. Leave 'em lie.

(Prepared by the Fracture Committee, Texas State Medical Association, sponsored by Texas State Highway Department and Texas Public Safety Department.)

Signs To Change In Vienna

VIENNA, April 5 (AP)—Shop signs in foreign languages, especially French and English, fell into disgrace with city authorities. All Viennese newspapers, obviously on command from higher-ups, started a violent campaign against what some papers termed the "nuisance of foreign language signs."

French and English signs "Tailleur" or "Tailor" are frequent. The papers' argument for the removal of these signs and their substitution by German ones is that "neither in Paris nor in London nor in other cities of France or England will German language signs be found in shops of any kind."

This drive is reminiscent of a similar campaign at the outbreak of the World War in 1914, when, within a few weeks, French and English designations of shops and names of old-established restaurants and amusement places disappeared.

Certainly Merits Consideration

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 5 (AP)—Harry J. Thornton, editor of the Board of Trade Journal, is accustomed to receiving unusual letters, but he wasn't quite prepared for this one from a Montana schoolboy:

"Would you please send me information on your country? We are making booklets on states and I chose yours. I like Kentucky more than Montana because of its horses and agriculture resources and another thing I like is its beautiful scenery. Yours truly,

Less Green, More Gold in Orange
