Defend Neutrality if Free Shipping Is Allowed

O, April 6 (AP)—Norway must once be at war in defense of her neutrality if free shipping in Norwegian waters is referred with to the advantage of one of the belligerent powers. Foreign minister Haldvan Koht told the Norwegian Storting (parliament) Saturday.

Foreign minister made this statement in discussing Norwegian neutrality problems in relation to foreign policy — in particular ore exports from Narvik.

British-French allies have urged Norway and Sweden to allow German ships to land in Norwegian territorial waters carrying raw materials. Swedish ore to Germany, notes reported to outline British position on neutrality in the Norwegian-German dispute.

Be at War." Allied powers should ask for free shipping, which according to generally accepted international law and they themselves have accepted," said Koht, "this either be of great damage to ourselves or, if such hindrance should be one-sided to one party, and therefore conflict with the neutrality which we have pledged ourselves to maintain. Norway will once be at war."

reference to "great damages to themselves" for the allies was acknowledged that Britain might insist on deliveries herself while those to Germany.

He stated publicly that peacemakers should recognize the importance of "export," the foreign minister declared.

Importances have reduced to one-fourth during the war and much more goes to England than to any other country.

In addition, it should be evident that free sailing of commerce in Norwegian waters is at least the same advantage to all, chiefly for Britain, Germany, since we have a larger trade with Britain than Germany."

Neutrality 45-minute review of Norwegian policy—to be the subject of parliamentary debate today — Koht stressed that his neutral position was unimpaired but this neutrality has maintained impartially and he can not think of any other as possible for this than a war in which we defend our independence.

day, he declared, has "painfully fulfilled her obligation" to the "normal exchange" as far as possible. "I sharply attacked the sinking of Norwegian merchantmen by Germany, declaring that the war Norway has lost is totalling 120,000 tons and 100 men killed. Some of the lost vessels, he said, at definitely were sent to the by submarines or other aircraft or airplanes.

Spring Training To Begin Monday

Unless bad weather intervenes, the first workout of the spring training season for the Cisco high school football team will be held Monday afternoon. Coach J. T. Petty announced Saturday.

Practice will start at 7 a. m. Saturday.

Prospects for the 1941 football season at Cisco high school are better than they have been in a number of years, despite the fact that only five of last year's lettermen are returning. Forty-five boys already have been issued equipment and at least 10 others are due to report. Weight, speed and football promise are distinct factors among the largest collection of prospective Lobo talent to be available in many seasons.

Lettermen returning are Coy Warren, James Qualls, Jibby Donovan, Alton Lomax and Curtis Gambin.

All members of the squad who can do so are expected to be on hand Monday at 7, Coach Petty said.

Rabbit Drives Net Over 400 Rabbits

Two rabbit drives in the country south of Cisco Wednesday and Friday of last week netted more than 400 rabbits. The first, held in the Hale community, midway between Pleasant Hill and Carbon, was participated in by 29 men and resulted in 319 rabbits being killed. Nineteen women spread dinner at the Hale tank at noon.

At Pleasant Hill Friday, 27 men took part and 16 women prepared the meal at noon at the Kinard tank. Rain stopped the drive during the afternoon, but about 100 rabbits were killed. Some men from Carbon took part in the drive.

J. G. Reagan Here From Harlingen

J. G. Reagan, former Cisco city engineer and now with an irrigation company at Harlingen, Texas, is in Cisco with his 18-year-old son, John, and a school friend of John's, Frank Witherspoon, for a day or so. Young Witherspoon is captain of the Harlingen high school football team.

SHEPARD AND ARMSTRONG ARE ELECTED

599 Ballots Are Cast in School Board Voting

F. E. Shepard and W. J. Armstrong were elected to three-year terms as members of the Cisco school board Saturday in a contested election which brought out the largest number of voters in many years. Five hundred and 99 persons cast ballots on five candidates, one of whom, W. R. Huestis, Friday announced his withdrawal from the race. It was too late to remove his name from the ballot.

Other candidates were George P. Fee and Dr. Paul M. Woods. Results of the voting were: Armstrong 318, Shepard 351, Fee 250, Woods 256. Twenty votes were cast for Mr. Huestis despite his announcement that he was not a candidate and could not accept the place if elected.

Baptists to Organize New Training Union

A new training union in the young peoples' department is scheduled for organization this evening at 7 p. m. John Glass, Garner Altom and Hugh England are the sponsors.

A splendid senior prep union is already functioning in this department, with Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rouch as sponsors. All young people of the First Baptist church, and others as well, who do not attend the training union, are cordially invited to enroll in this new union this evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Bishop Resting Well

Miss Billie Bishop, high school home economics instructor, was reported resting well late Saturday, after having been rushed to the Graham sanitarium for emergency treatment Friday night.

REFUSAL OF US ARBITRATION REQUEST SEEN

MEXICO, D. F., April 6 (AP).—As Mexico studied the problem created by the United States' formal request for international arbitration of the two-year-old oil controversy, official sources indicated the government would refuse the request.

In repeated public statements President Cardenas and other responsible members of the administration have declared explicitly that Mexico would not submit its seizure of the $400,000,000 foreign petroleum properties to arbitration.

Undersecretary of Foreign Relations Ramon Beteta presided late Friday night at a conference of government officials, which weighed Mexico's position toward the American request.

But it was regarded as certain that no formal reply would be made to the request, embodied in a note presented by Secretary of State Cordell Hull to Mexican Ambassador Francisco Castelli Najera in Washington last Wednesday, until President Cardenas had been consulted.

One informed source asserted, that as long as Mexico's right to expropriate was not challenged, the government might not refuse to consider some of the questions involved in the controversy as suitable for arbitration.

Horse Riding for a Waterfall

If the mare pictured above has any horse sense, she'll stay on dry land next time she runs away. Louis Phelps of Danville, Va., was riding her near the Dan river when the girth broke, the saddle slipped down and frightened her. She bolted, leaped into the river and struck out for midstream. But the current carried the mare to the brink of a dam, where, as seen at left, she balanced precariously. While rescuers pondered, she slipped, right, and was swept over. She was finally led out unhurt except for slight cuts.

FARMERS AND BUSINESS MEN ARE JUBILANT

Downpours Rain Level of Lake Cisco Saturday

The heaviest rain to fall here in more than five years Friday night and Saturday definitely broke the spring drought which was beginning to assume serious proportions.

Precipitation which began Friday evening totalled 4.3 inches Saturday afternoon, with showers and heavy overcast skies promising more rainfall.

At 6 o'clock Saturday evening the level of Lake Cisco had risen nearly two feet with the first runoff of any consequence that the big reservoir had received in three years. Lake Bernie was brimming over, Lake Cisco was raised from 65 feet to 66.75 feet.

Cattlemen, whose supplies of stock water were nearly exhausted, were jubilant as the downpours filled tanks and creeks to capacity. Leon creek south of Cisco was running bank-to-bank Saturday morning. Creeks elsewhere were in a similar condition.

Grain fields, with the young grain in many places beginning to show the yellow of wilt, revived as if by magic. Given a fair start by winter moisture, the crop is now assured of sufficient season to make a crop, farmers believed.

Ranchlands likewise have been placed in excellent condition, while farm crops in general have received plenty of needed moisture.

Cisco merchants, happy over the downpours which have relieved an atmosphere tense with anxiety, foresee improved business from the better crop prospects.

Officials at the city hall, where records of rainfall are kept, said that the rain Friday and Saturday was as great as that which, in 1935, washed away part of the Texas and Pacific trackage at Harrell crossing west of Cisco. Five inches were received during days when that happened.

Records of rainfall show for the following years:

1935, 34.4 inches; 1936, 26.9 inches; 1937, 18.3 inches; 1938, 24.7 inches; 1939, 25.9, and so far in 1940, 7.4 inches.

Child Confounds Accusers in Four Slayings

LOS ANGELES, April 6 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Chloe Davis, unaffiliated by a quadruple slaying before her eyes and by two days of questioning by police and physicians, has confounded criminologists who would have blamed her for the deaths.

Chloe, her flaxen hair in pig-tails, told such a startling tale, when her mother, Mrs. Lolita Davis, her two sisters and her little brother were found dead in their home Thursday, that authorities could not at first accept it.

Chloe said her mother hammered the three children almost to death, attempted to kill Chloe and then "tried to set my hair on fire, and then made me hit her with the hammer until she stopped breathing."

Later, said Police Capt. Edgar Edwards, Chloe elaborated upon the story, saying that after her

Final Approval Is Given First Unit of Paving Here

WOULD EMPLOY 150 MEN FOR SIX MONTHS

Final approval of the first unit of city paving to be submitted under the blanket WPA project approved at Washington has been received from the regional office of the WPA at San Antonio, city officials have announced. The units have only to secure the O. K. of the regional office, since the general project has received the sanction of the WPA headquarters at Washington.

When work will start on the project was not determined. The low condition of the city's funds and the slowness of tax-paying counted upon the furnish money for the city's part are factors to be contended with, it was explained.

The project calls for repaving of South D avenue from 14th street to junction with Highway 23; repaving of Ninth street from E avenue to L avenue; repaving of Seventh street from E avenue to Front; repaving of Sixth from E avenue to Front, and paving of sections of Fifth street with the cooperation of the property owners, on streets not already surfaced will be required to pay 35 cents per linear foot of property line to secure the paving.

The project will provide for employing 150 men for a period of six months.

Scouts to Meet Monday Afternoon

All Cisco scouts, past and present, are instructed to meet at the chamber of commerce offices at 4:30 Monday afternoon for the purpose of furthering plans for the clean-up campaign, it was announced Saturday by Joe A. Clark, recreation director for Cisco.

Mr. Clark emphasized that this includes scouts of every troop in and around Cisco.

Miss Jessie Lee Hittson of Waco is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hittson.

George R. Roberts Former Operator, Visitor Saturday

George R. Roberts, a former Cisco oil operator in 1923, was a caller at the Daily Press office Saturday morning. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roberts. They had apartments at the H. G. Epler home while here.

Mr. Roberts will be remembered as the man who drilled the 3,400-foot well on the G. R. Roberts farm, near the home of W. B. Starr, a few miles south of the Base Line road.

The well, which at that time was a near deep test, failed to get oil in commercial quantities, but Mr. Roberts says he still has faith in that section, and expects to make another try when the proper time rolls around.

"I did not play my hunch in locating the well," he told the Daily Press Saturday. "I took the advice of others in whom I had more faith. Next time I will play my hunch, for I still believe there's oil under the location I had spotted."

Since leaving Cisco, Mr. Roberts has been operating a well in San Saba.

Special Services At Methodist Church

All the members of the First Methodist church are asked to participate in the special services from now until Mother's day, May 12.

Today at 10:30, the pastor, the Reverend Joe I. Patterson, will preach on the subject, "Your Money and Your Life." The communion will be served. At the evening hour, 7:30, there will be a service of song. The songs you like will be sung and at least one new one will be learned.

The following Sunday morning, April 14, Dr. R. W. Goodloe of S. M. U. will preach.

All the services for the six Sundays will be evangelistic and it is expected that the whole membership of the church will make a special effort to attend every service.

RECIPROCAL TRADE PACTS ARE APPROVED

WASHINGTON, April 6 (AP)—Senate approval of the reciprocal trade agreements program made that fundamental administration policy an issue of the presidential campaign Saturday and stirred fresh speculation as to Secretary Hull's changes of being the democratic standard bearer.

The senate, following the leadership of President Roosevelt and the secretary of state, voted 42 to 37 late Friday to continue the program three years from its scheduled June 12 expiration date.

The chamber sent the house-approved legislation to Roosevelt after bowling over a dozen restrictive amendments which administration leaders contended would cripple the system of bargaining down tariffs reciprocally and impair its value as an instrument for world peace.

All of the 20 republicans present voted against continuance of the president's authority to enter into the trade agreements. Their leaders made it clear that the country would hear much more of their opposition between now and the November election. Exactly what stand the republican national convention would take on the issue was not yet apparent.

Democrats wonder On the democratic side, western senators who fought with the republican opposition were beginning to wonder how their position would stack up with the next democratic platform.

It was predicted generally that the democratic convention would accept the principle of reciprocal trade.

Garner, a contender for the democratic presidential nomination regardless of whether Roosevelt seeks a third term, was active behind the scenes in support

Fasten your souls so high that constantly
The smile of your heroic cheer may float

To a Gallant Captain!

A TOAST to Giles Chester Stedman, master of the America! This gallant American captain has just been given command of the graceful ship being completed at Newport News. It will be the finest the United States has ever built.

Every American ought to be proud of the trim hull of this ocean beauty whose sea trials are scheduled for June. And proud likewise of the career of Captain Stedman, who at 42 has already amply earned the right to command her.

BOTH are thoroughly modern and thoroughly American. Giles Stedman as a Quincy, Mass., boy, wanted to study engineering. But he also wanted to go to sea. Via the Coast Guard he served in the war zone with the navy during the World war. Then he went to Massachusetts Institute of Technology to study marine engineering, and took his first merchant fleet berth as third officer of the Grayson in 1919. Six years later he was first officer of the President Harding when she got an appeal for help from the Italian steamer Ignazio Florio. Stedman himself directed the lifeboat crew which brought the Florio's crew to safety in a dangerous sea.

In 1933, now master of the America, Merchant, Stedman answered an appeal from the British ship Exeter City, and in a vicious sea directed the rescue of 22 men from this vessel. All the marine world hailed it as a masterly piece of seamanship.

Staff captain of the Levitan before she was retired, Captain Stedman now takes over the most coveted job in the American merchant marine. He is a credit to his country, clean-living and modest, an advance guard in the new merchant fleet that is putting the United States back on the seas where her flag once fluttered so brightly.

In a day when so much of men's energies is devoted to destruction, it is good to hear the industrious hammers ringing through the hull of the America at Newport News. And to see her command go to a young American seaman whose career is already so distinguished adds to the prideful thrill.

May the America and Captain Stedman have long careers of useful, constructive service to their country and to a world turned at last, as torn some day it must, to the pursuits of peace.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

BY BRUCE CATTON
New Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—If you want to know why the Labor Board is split by a conflict of wills between William N. Leiserson and his co-members, J. Warren Madden and Edwin S. Smith, study these two recent developments.

1. The argument over the board's own report on administrative reforms, in which the handling of relations between the home office and the field staff is criticized.

2. The action of the House Appropriations Committee in knocking out funds for the board's research division, headed by David Sapos.

LEISERSON SAYS WITT BUNGLED
LEISERSON has been demanding administrative reforms since he went on the board last June. Key spot is the office of the board secretary, Nathan Witt. As the setup is, Witt is not merely the board's secretary, but its chief administrator in dealing with the all-important work of the field offices.

Leiserson maintains that this part of the job has been bungled, and that much of the board's difficulty is due to that fact. He feels that the Wagner act would be accepted by labor and employer alike without much demur if it had a couple of years of capable administration. He has sought

Witt's removal, without success; he has likewise been unable to get a new setup, under which an entirely separate office would do the administrative work.

Witt's removal, without success; he has likewise been unable to get a new setup, under which an entirely separate office would do the administrative work.

BOARD'S DEFENSE OF SAPOSS WEAK
IF that argument illustrates the disagreement on administration, the row over the research division shows the disagreement over procedure.

Leiserson holds that the board's primary job is to get facts. To him this doesn't mean simply holding hearings—in which, as he puts it, "you have a lawyer on each side, and whatever gets by the two of them is the truth"; it calls for extended, intricate researches into economic backgrounds, trade practices and the like, which can be done only by specialists.

Both the Smith committee and the Appropriations Committee made the research division a special target, and the board majority failed to put up much of a defense. When Sapos, head of the research division, was before the Smith committee, the board's counsel did not bring out his case through direct examination; instead Sapos was left to make his defense under cross-examination.

ECONOMIST FAR FROM COMMUNISM
THE whole case of the research division, by the way, is a tragedy.

Sapos is popularly supposed to be the board's chief radical.

As a matter of fact, however, Sapos is about as much a Communist as Martin Dies. On the contrary, he is in very bad with an important section of the board's staff precisely because he has been fighting the Communists tooth and nail.

200 Oil Men Are Expected for Oil Meeting

GRAHAM, April 6.—An attendance of at least two hundred independent oil operators and business and professional men of this district is expected for the quarterly meeting of the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas association here Wednesday evening, April 10, according to E. R. Marchman of this city, one of the directors of the association.

Harold B. Fell, Ardmore, Oklahoma, executive vice president of the Independent Petroleum association of America, and also a practical oil operator who includes among his different properties production in the Bryson field of Jack county, will be the principal speaker for the meeting, which will follow at 7 p. m. Several entertainment features will also be provided.

Full information regarding national angles of the petroleum industry as they affect the independents will be discussed by Mr. Fell. Also on the program will be a discussion under the direction of Joe A. Clarke of Albany, president of the West-Central Texas Oil & Gas association, of the various problems now facing the industry in this district. Marchman said yesterday.

Practically all of the seventy directors of the association have advised that they will be present. A large number of other men engaged in various phases of the oil business will also attend. The evening session is open to any person who has any interest in the oil development and production activity of this district.

The Graham chamber of commerce, of which Marchman is president and Glenn Burgess, manager, is cooperating with officials of the oil and gas association in arrangements for the Wednesday meeting.

Fag Ads Say: "Don't Smoke Too Much"

BERLIN, April 6 (AP).—In advertisements of cigarettes of all places, Germans are being advised not to smoke too much.

"Control signifies mastery—also in smoking," one of the ads reads.

"Not too much, but good cigarettes smoked slowly and with appreciation for every puff. Only in this wise can smoking be a lasting pleasure."

April 6.—There is still behind closed doors about cancer, Dr. Geo. W. health officer, declaration, urging Texans to make educational opportunity, proclaimed by Governor Lee O'Daniel as cancer month.

cannot fight cancer successfully by hiding from it. On the other hand, by overcoming lack of knowledge, the fight against the disease will win," Dr. Cox said.

upon lightning war will not defeat cancer. It is a relentless crusade carried over a period of years that will wear down the disease. A crusade requires more and widespread knowledge our people possess at the moment.

statistics records of the health department show that mortality is steadily increasing. Statistics for the past decade, 1933 through 1938, reveal an upward trend in the cancer rate from 64.5 per hundred in 1933, to 66.3 in 1934, in 1935, to 73.6 in 1936, in 1937, to a high of 74.4 in 1938.

The Texas cancer death rate in 1938 was 4,539, as compared with 3,863 in 1933. Whether this increase in cancer will continue depends upon the effort every man, woman and child will put forth to overcome cancer, its symptoms and its cure.

Water Safety

In a few weeks the fishing and boating season will be in full swing. It will be a beginning of a period in which many lives will be taken because some one was careless. Will you be among those who will drown this season? During this month every one will be getting their boats prepared for the coming season, and in this short article I will try to give you a few very important things to remember, when you take your friends or family out for a fishing trip or joy ride in your boat.

Do not use too large horsepower motor on your boat. It is unsafe. At the same time it is unsafe to use a very small horsepower motor on a large boat, because the boat will be unsafe in case a storm comes up and might be carried to a rocky shore.

Every boat should be equipped with: One life preserver for each person in the boat, fire extinguisher, lights to protect you at night, for one never knows for sure that you will get to the docks before nightfall. A good oar should be carried at all times.

Never over-load a boat, because this is an easy way to keep from growing old. Do not allow the occupant of a boat to stand up while running.

Every out-board motor should be equipped with a chain or good rope to tie it to some stable place on the boat, because those motors will surely jump off the boat. This might save you many dollars.

While a motor is running, never leave it unattended and shift around in the boat. The motor may give a quick turn and throw you out of the boat, and the boat and motor will leave you to swim and maybe drown.

I have seen people on large lakes in boats that I would not trust on a small tank. Too, these people would be without life preservers and a turn-over would almost mean sure death to the occupants. DON'T TAKE CHANCES. You may lose.

Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON, April 6. — The capital certainly has cashed in on that gift from Tokyo—the Japanese cherry trees.

What the tournament of the roses is to Pasadena, the mardigras to New Orleans, the annual county fair to Midriff City — so is the annual cherry blossom festival to Washington.

But the capital fathers have a problem that makes any that might arise in those cities seem trivial. From February on, committees from the board of trade, merchants, inkeepers, historical societies and transportation companies are in constant session with the weatherman, horticulturists and the park department. The problem is: When will the cherry blossoms blossom?

If They're Wrong

Records for years back show the capital's 3,000 cherry trees have burst their buds anywhere from March 20 (single blossom trees and the only kind in the Tidal Basin, where they always take those pictures) to May 1 (the double-blossom varieties). With five weeks to guess in, you can see what a problem the capital fathers have picking a day. When they pick wrong there's nothing to do but postpone the blessed event.

Once they have hit on a date, though, the mills of the business gods start grinding and Washington prepares for its biggest season of the year. Excursion trains run from New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other cities. The hotels jam to the fire escapes.

From beaneries to department stores, the merchants hawk their wares in Cherry Blossom sales. Traffic becomes a shambles. Cars by the tens of thousands pour across Flood Gate Bridge down into Cherry Blossom Lane. Pedestrians clog the pathways. Amateur photographers snap atrocities on miles of film. Old inhabitants swear oaths and take their annual vows never to mingle with this mob again.

A Queen, Too

Even as in the orange, cotton, tobacco, apple and other festivals of other cities, the Cherry Blossom festival has its queen. Just to show how widespread is becoming the affair here, this year's Queen Rose Colliflower lists among her princesses, Shirley Tholen, Leavenworth, Kas.; Alice Betty Nichols, Chicago; Grace Dexter, Dallas, Texas; Jane Winchester, Wilmington, Del., and Rosemary Burns, Shreveport, La.

And all this because, 28 years ago, the city fathers of Tokyo persisted (the first batch of trees they sent over were buggy and had to be burned—so they sent a second batch) in playing hands-across-the-sea.

But don't get me wrong. I love Washington, the cherry trees — and all the hocus-pocus that goes with both of them.

A tax on horses was imposed in England in 1784.

Fondren Library at SMU Open Soon

DALLAS, April 6 (Spc).—With construction completed and installation of furnishings soon to be made, S. M. U.'s new half-million dollar Fondren library will be ready for the first session of summer school.

Formal dedication ceremonies have been set for early June, just a year after the ground-breaking. The stately structure is a gift of Mrs. W. W. Fondren and her late husband, and is located on the east side of the central quadrangle opposite McFarland Memorial auditorium.

Spacious and embracing all modern achievements in library science, it will be the only air-conditioned university library in the southwest. Elevators and special book conveyors will expedite the librarians' service to readers, while a new photo-recording process involving microfilm will increase scope of available material to the British museum, the Bibliothèque Nationale, the Library of Congress, and other hitherto out-of-reach sources.

A large reading room, on the main floor will accommodate 230. Other reading facilities include a reserve room on the first floor.

WICHITA, Kans., April 5 (AP).— "Do you do me a favor?" asked in, telephoning Police Sergeant Merritt Mesch.

"What is it you want, lady?" he asked cautiously.

"My boy is unruly and I want you to hold a gun on him and whip him!"

"Please, please," said Mesch.

Advertising is not an expense— it's the life blood of any business.

The Ford way of doing business

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are gratifyingly high.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. The materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the civilized world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford keep daily personal touch with all phases of Ford manufacture. In a conference with his staff, Henry Ford often says: "Go ahead—I'll sit here and represent the public."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family, for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in a 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER

BY JERRY BRONFIELD

COPYRIGHT 1940. NEA SERVICE, INC.

VAL DOUGLAS — girl sports writer, shipped on a freighter to find excitement.

EDDIE CAVALIER — a prize fighter headed for the title, has a score to settle with Val.

CAPTAIN STEVE HANSEN — skipper of the Northern Belle.

DUFFY KELSO — Cavalier's manager.

YESTERDAY: Eddie apologizes to Kelly for letting his temper get away from him, but Val is not convinced. She uses the fight in her story. Captain Hansen hints that the future of the entire line depends on getting this shipment to port safely and on time. Duffy complains about the food, gets himself assigned to galley duty.

CHAPTER IX
The Pacific wasn't so gentle the next day as they headed northward. There was a more pronounced roll under the "Northern Belle," and every once in a while she dipped deep into a heavy sea that sent spray hissing over her forward deck.

Val picked her way along the after deck and tied a knot in a rope holding together some life preservers. It had slipped a little.

When she looked up Eddie Cavalier was watching her. He reached down, tugged at the rope experimentally and grunted with satisfaction.

"Since when are you checking up on me?" she flared.

"All in the interest of public welfare," he murmured. "Someone's life may depend on just such a little thing as a knot. Anyway, I was a Boy Scout once and I know all about knots."

"Y'know," she said slowly. "I've often wondered why you ever became a fighter."

He gave her a long look. "Why?"

"Oh . . . never mind. Just a sudden thought." Then more brusquely: "By the way, what's on the program for today?"

"A little rope-skipping . . . little jogging . . . little shadow boxing. Pop says nothing heavy."

"Fine story that'll make for me," she commented.

He showed her a can of metal polish he had in his hand. "First I'm going to work out on some of these deck-fittings. You might get something out of that."

For almost an hour she watched him polish brass until the metal glistened in the sun.

"When you're all washed up in the ring, I can get you a job polishing mail boxes and door handles in a New York apartment house."

"Thanks. I might need it at that."

"I don't think you will," she said evenly.

He shook his polishing cloth in the wind. "Hey, what is this? A change of heart? I thought you hated my internal workings—otherwise known as guts."

She felt a faint flush gathering in her face. She strove for an a lot more than the usual run of females. She merely had to be slapped down once. That's all. Just once. And maybe, he figured, he'd be the one to do it yet.

"Hello, Matey," Captain Hansen boomed as she entered. "What's stirring?"

"Nothing. That's the trouble," she said morosely.

"Hold on," he said quickly. "Here comes Joe Barnes and he's coming awful fast."

The seaman came up the companionway two steps at a time. "This Kelso, sir. He says Wong Lee has poisoned him. He sent word he's awful sick."

"What's that?" Hansen bellowed. "Poisoned? Ridiculous!"

"Whatever it is it's a story," Val howled and was out the door in a flash, Captain Hansen following her.

Together they dashed into Wong Lee's galley. "Wong—what's this about you poisoning Mister Kelso?" Hansen asked.

Wong smiled broadly and fingered his meat cleaver. "Me no poison Mis'er Kielso," he said blandly. "But me like to."

"No doubt," Val murmured, "and with just cause."

"Then why does he insist you poisoned him? Where is he, anyway?"

Wong smiled. "No poison," he repeated. "Too much rock today. He made rolling motions with his hand and suddenly it dawned on them."

"Seasick, by gad!" Hansen roared. "Seasick, an' he thinks he's been poisoned. There's your story for today, honey!"

"You're telling me," Val chuckled. "And I wish I had a camera and could get Mr. Kelso in technicolor. I'll bet he looks well in green and white. Let's go down and see."

Duffy Kelso lay in his bunk and groaned. "Go 'way," he moaned hollowly. "I'm gonna die. I know it. Get me a doctor."

Val sat down beside him. "I hate to laugh in a dying man's face, Duffy, so I'll just snicker. There isn't a doctor within 100 miles of us but don't worry. You'll pull through . . . and you haven't been poisoned."

"You can't tell me that," he moaned. "That Chinese don't like me nohow."

"Kelso," Hansen chuckled. "You're just plain seasick and don't know it."

Val nodded. "That's right, Duffy. Plain old mal de mer."

"Can you die from it?" he whispered.

Val shook her head in the negative.

"Someone's a liar," he croaked. "Cause I'm dying."

Val hurried down to her cabin and got out her portable. She sat immobile for two or three minutes before she had her lead figured out. She battered away at the keys for a half hour, then scampered up to the radio room with her story.

"Get this off, will you, Sparks? We can just about make the afternoon editions with this."

She hadn't been gone five minutes when Eddie Cavalier strolled in.

"Hi, Sparks."

"Howdy, champ," the radio operator greeted good work."

"Pretty fair, Wh . . . another Shakespeare?"

Sparks nodded. "It's a whopper, but read over my notes."

Eddie peered at the notes, after which grin broke over his face.

"Duffy Kelso is a bunk even as is

Interned Graf Spee Officers Flee Brazil

BUENOS AIRES, April 6 (P)—The escape of three interned officers of the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee was disclosed here and one of them was reported unofficially to have already reached Germany with documents of the scuttled man-of-war.

of such attacks on innocent seamen as the bombing of the Mira Wednesday with over 100 persons on board.

"We can not acknowledge any right to such procedure even if this Norwegian ship sailed under British protection," he declared. "We can not understand that German warriors can justify such attacks to their feeling of honor or human decency. It creates an indignation in this country which no belligerent should desire to produce."

(The Mira, a 1,152-ton vessel, arrived in Bergen Friday with 107 passengers and reported it had been bombed eight times by German planes while traveling in a British convoy. Two of the passengers were slightly injured by bomb splinters.)

Koht emphasized that Norwegian shipping was being conducted in accordance with trade agreements signed Feb. 23 with Germany, and March 11 with Great Britain, and said an agreement was expected to be signed shortly with France.

Scandinavian countries have proposed jointly to Germany, he said, that the matter of "legal sailings" be the subject of a conference but have received no reply as yet.

charged their constitutional rights were infringed by a raid on their headquarters here Tuesday, when a truckload of material was seized. Reeve contended he was denied the right to summon a lawyer.

Declaring he would be "very happy" if the supreme court reviewed the case as quickly as possible, Judge Walsh said: "I hope we will not sacrifice freedom and liberty on the altar of patriotism. Tolerance on all sides is necessary today. The man who conducted this raid might well and honestly have been doing their duty. I don't want this to degenerate into a one-man decision."

Roosevelt does not seek a third term.

Some analysts thought the passage of the trade agreements bill would enhance the secretary's chances of winning the democratic presidential nomination, but others thought the division within the party on the trade issue would injure his position.

mother "stopped talking" she (Chloe) also struck the boy to "make him quit groaning." The two girls died after being taken to a hospital.

Chloe also added a day later, that her mother had forced her to bring a razor with which the woman could slash her wrists.

Just before Chloe "remembered about" the razor slashing, officers learned for the first time—from an autopsy report—that Mrs. Davis died not of head wounds but of bleeding from cut arteries of the arms.

Edwards at one point in the questioning said he was prepared to accuse Chloe of all of the killings.

LEAVE 'EM WHERE THEY LIE

ABDOMINAL INJURIES

Commonly Called "Hurt Internally"—Lay 'Em Flat—Leave 'Em Alone—Treat Shock

THE ABDOMEN is the largest cavity in the body, which lies between the chest and pelvis; it is protected in the back by the backbone and short thick muscles and in front by long thin muscles.

The lining of this cavity is a thin membrane called the peritoneum, which is like a sac and contains all the organs of the body except the lungs and heart, which are in the chest.

The stomach and intestines are free in this cavity so that even a terrific blow on the abdomen, which is cushioned by the muscles, very rarely may injure them, so that is not your worry.

But the liver, spleen, pancreas (sweetbread) and kidneys are fixed to the back wall of this cavity so cannot slide away from the impact as the stomach and intestines can and may, as result, be broken or torn.

When this happens to any one of these solid organs, SHOCK is the first thing, which is followed and complicated by hemorrhage (bleeding) internally.

How should you know? The pain is bad and the abdominal muscles are held tight. To touch the abdomen hurts particularly over the organs injured and to move causes pain.

If a kidney is torn the pain will be in the back, which will be tender. If he urinates, there will be blood in the urine.

The bladder is normally protected behind the front bones of the pelvis but, if very full at the time of accident, may be ruptured.

When this occurs the pain is very great in the lower part of the abdomen which is rigid and the urine contains blood as result of ruptured bladder; there is less fear from internal hemorrhage, but SHOCK is greater.

So what to do? See next issue. KEEP 'EM FLAT—LEAVE 'EM LIE—DON'T HURRY! KEEP 'EM WARM.
