BRITAIN CLAIMS GREAT NAZI NAVAL LOSSES

COMMONS TOLD OF VICTORIES BY CHURCHILL

Credits Hitler With Mistake Equal to Napoleon's

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Winston Churchill told the house of commons today that "great losses have been suffered by the German navy" in the continuing air and naval battle launched by Germany's invasion of Norway.

"We have greatly gained by what occurred in Scandinavia in a military sense," he said. "Hitler has made as great a strategic and political mistake as Napoleon made when he invaded Spain."

Premier Reynaud, speaking in Paris, declared 18 German ships, including four cruisers, have been sunk in Norwegian waters, in which the allied losses were only four warships.

(Reynaud listed the German losses as four cruisers, representing one-tenth of the total German fleet tonnage, two smaller warships, a submarine, a destroyer, and 10 transports.)

Churchill announced, "We have not occupied Norwegian ports." He said Norwegian "in their mountainous country" should be able to maintain prolonged resistance against the Germans.

(Stockholm said a radio message from the Norwegian commander at Bergen reported that seaport had been recaptured.)

(Reports said that Norwegians were blasting bridges to make German advances difficult. Norway, ordering her troops to cooperate with the Allies, was hastily fortifying every defense point and arming workers.)

(The Norwegian government said the Germans, trying to advance toward Elverum, temporarily seat of the Norwegian government, have been repelled at Eidsvold.)

Churchill announced that Britain is occupying Denmark's Faroe Islands, midway between the Shetland Islands and Iceland. They will be handed back to Denmark when she is liberated from German aggression, Churchill said.

The first lord of the admiralty said the destroyer Glowworm was apparently lost in an encounter with two German destroyers Monday. She had a normal complement of 145 men.

Churchill said the cruiser Renown had crippled two German warships and put them to flight. The Renown was slightly damaged.

The air ministry announced that 19 of the German aircraft had been destroyed since Sunday. The British lost six planes.

COLD WAVE SWEEPS OVER THIS SECTION

Near Freezing Weather Is in Prospect for Tonight

Continued cold with clearing skies was in prospect for Friday as the latest cold wave, bringing memories of 1938's disastrous April freeze, descended upon this section early today. Temperatures dropped from 66 degrees at 3 a. m. to 45 degrees at noon today with forecasts that they would go near freezing point tonight.

A dash of rain accompanied the squalls which early this morning brought the belated cold wave sweeping out of the northwest.

Little fear was expressed that the temperatures would be severe enough to damage fruit. Rains have left buds and new shoots sufficient wet to protect them against any but extreme cold, it was pointed out.

German Raid on Scapa Flow Is Beaten Off

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—Waves of German bombers last night attacked Scapa Flow in what observers described as the "most murderous raid yet made" on that Great Britain naval base, but the raiders officially were reported beaten off with costly losses.

Four big black warplanes were shot down, the British said, and two others were so riddled that they probably failed to get home.

Previously two Heinkel bombers officially were reported shot down at Moray Firth, extreme north Scotland, in an attempted attack on a convoy. Two others may have been destroyed in the same engagement, bringing the possible German losses over Britain to ten during the day.

The Germans staged their attack on Scapa Flow in force while the allied fleet was spreadeagling German naval units in Scandinavian waters.

Drop Many Bombs

Circling over the Orkneys in large and small formations, the German bombers dropped many high explosive bombs in the anchorage and machine-gunned the towns of Kirkwall and Stromness. One man was wounded.

One witness said the bombs fell "miles wide" of the warships, although a few splashed near some trawlers. The official report said no ships were damaged.

Kirkwall is a contraband control port where many neutral ships are taken for examination of their cargoes.

The one casualty was a service man, whose foot was grazed by a bullet.

Circling in large and small formations, the bombers ran into the heavy fire of anti-aircraft batteries, which shot down three of the four victims.

Inhabitants saw British pursuit planes engage in spectacular dog fights, the pursuers streaking across a moonlit sky to chase the bombers into the barages of hot metal from the anti-aircraft guns.

Mann Declines Chief Justiceship

AUSTIN, April 11 (AP)—Attorney General Gerald C. Mann today declined appointment as chief justice of the Texas supreme court. Governor W. Lee O'Daniel offered the appointment last night.

Mann said he was convinced that he was better equipped for his present position.

Mann, all-Southwest conference back in the late twenties, was nominated attorney general two years ago over O'Daniel's opposition. The governor since has highly praised the young attorney general.

O'Daniel, in announcing that he had tendered Mann the high position, made public an exchange of correspondence in which the attorney general said he would not be eligible for the judgeship until September 1.

Would Seek Re-Election

Mann has been mentioned as a possible future governor or United States senator. He announced two months ago that he would not run against Governor O'Daniel but would seek reelection as attorney general.

The attorney general wrote Governor O'Daniel as follows: "Dear Governor: "You have tendered me the appointment as chief justice of the supreme court of Texas. I have carefully considered the question of my eligibility and I have come to the conclusion that the constitution of Texas makes me ineligible to accept your offer. "The constitution provides: "No person shall be eligible to the office of chief justice or associate justice of the supreme court unless he be, at the time of his election, a citizen of the United States and of this state and unless he shall have attained the age of thirty years, and shall have been a practicing lawyer or a judge of a court, or such lawyer and judge together at least seven years. "I shall not have been practicing law seven years until September. "I am convinced that the phrase 'at the time of his election' means at the time of his selection x x x."

Norway Proclaims Determination to Resist Nazis

LONDON, April 11 (AP)—A proclamation reaffirming Norway's determination and rejecting a German demand for recognition of a Nazi puppet government under Major Vikund Quisling has been issued by Premier Johan Nygaardsvold, Reuters, British news agency, reported today.

The news agency said Norway's determination to resist would be reaffirmed also by Carl J. Hornbro, president of the Norwegian parliament, in a speech to the Norwegian nation over the Swedish radio.

It was learned in Stockholm, meanwhile, Reuters added, that the German attacks against Norwegian forces yesterday at Elverum, 75 miles north of Oslo, were repulsed "all along the line" and that there had been no further clashes for more than eight hours.

The Norwegian government and army general staff were reported to have taken all their archives intact from Oslo to Elverum. The Bank of Norway was reported to have got all its gold and bank notes out safely.

Petty said these games, part of the spring training program, will be played each Wednesday and Friday, according to present plans.

Region 9 Fire Chiefs Meet in Albany April 16

AUSTIN, April 11.—The region nine meeting of city fire marshals and fire chiefs will be held in Albany April 16, Marvin Hill, state fire insurance commissioner, announced today. Fire fighters and officials from 60 cities will be invited to the party.

Representing Cisco will be Mayor J. T. Berry and Fire Marshal O. Gustafson.

The meeting will be devoted to a discussion of all matters pertaining to fire inspections and fire investigations as a means of reducing fire losses. Many questions of importance in fire prevention work are arising daily, Hall said, and all of these will be fully discussed and suggestions offered as to their solution.

An ex-officio state fire marshal, Commissioner Hall said fire investigations and the prosecution of arson cases in particular would come in for full discussion. Eugene Sanders, fire prevention chief and assistant state fire marshal, will be in charge of the meeting.

"Preservation of human life is an important factor in fire prevention," Hall said. "We realize that the sacrifice of 400 lives annually in Texas by fire is far too great in number, and suggestions will be offered at this gathering on how to bring a reduction in the number of deaths by fire."

A feature of the Albany meeting will be a discussion of liquefied petroleum gases. Safety measures and regulations will be recommended.

PAY TAXES TO HELP SCHOOLS CLUB IS TOLD

Members of the Rotary club can, as business men and citizens, help their school system materially by paying taxes as promptly as they can, by giving renditions of property at the school office and by a general cooperative attitude, Frank Walker, secretary of the school board, told the club today noon. Walker, featured speaker, was presented by Program Chairman O. J. Russell.

He discussed the high standing which the Cisco system enjoys with the high accrediting agencies of the country, and he told how this standard had been maintained despite great difficulties, not the least of which was the declining revenue from shrinking school district valuations during the last 19 years.

SERIAL STORY

K. O. CAVALIER

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1940. NEA SERVICE, INC.

VAL DOUGLAS — girl sports writer, shipped on a freighter to find excitement.

EDDIE CAVALIER — a prize fighter headed for the title, has a score to settle with Val.

CAPTAIN STEVE HANSEN — skipper of the Northern Belle.

DUFFY KELSO — Cavalier's manager.

YESTERDAY: The "Belle" runs into a storm. When Val disregards the mate's order to stay below, Eddie tries to stop her. She slaps him, dashes up on deck.

CHAPTER XIII Foot by foot Val moved along the boat deck. A driving rain slanted into her face and almost blinded her. She put her head into the wind and discovered she could make better time.

The wind tore at her oilskins. She couldn't see three paces in front of her. She grabbed the life-line and hung on for five minutes while she caught her breath.

A brilliant fork of lightning blazed over the sky and showed her where the companionway was that led to the bridge. She released her grip on the rope and splashed her way through decks covered with water.

An out-cry escaped from Steve Hansen's lips when she closed the door behind her and stood there dripping, panting, but with a smile of conquest lighting her face.

"What in jehoshaphat are you doing up here, and how in the great horn spoon did you ever get here?" Hansen boomed.

"Get a load of that, Charlie," Hansen roared to his helmsman. "If she ain't got guts I don't know who has."

Val grinned. "Never thought I'd make it," she admitted. "We've got as much water on deck as there is in the whole ocean."

She rubbed her hands and peered through the glass. "Thought I'd come up here where there was something doing. This is the first time I've ever been in a storm at sea, y'know, Stevie."

"Well, don't be thinkin' it's any jark," he bristled. "I haven't seen a wind like this in years. You shouldn't have come up here, Val."

"Why not?"

He exploded. "It's no place for a gal, that's why. More'n likely you'll have to stay here till morning. I ain't going to let you make your way back down there alone."

"Quit fussing, Stevie. I can take care of myself." She winked at the helmsman and Hansen muttered something beneath his breath.

Hansen's mouth was a tight grim line as he stared ahead into the gray sheet of driving rain. The seas were mountainous. He didn't like the progress they were making at half speed.

Hansen plugged the speaking tube to the engine room. "Three-quarter speed ahead," he called down. There was no response. The tube was dead.

"More speed!" he bawled down the tube, and thanked his stars it was no longer dead.

The sudden, sharp maneuver had caught Val Douglas by surprise. She had just loosened her grip from the life-line for a second when the ship started to swing about.

Val's foot hit a puddle of water just when the vessel lurched under the strain of hard aport. She clutched the coffee pot in one hand and the life-line in the other.

Val wished that that pot of coffee, it was getting more unwieldy every second and there was a good chance of scalding herself if she had an accident.

She had almost reached the companionway going above when it happened. No one knew where the other ship came from but suddenly it was there, looming up in front of them like something that was dropped from the murky sky itself.

"Hard aport!" Steve Hansen yelled to the helmsman. "Lively!" he screamed, and then turned to bellow down the tube.

"Full speed ahead. Give it everything you have!" Hansen yanked the siren cord and let out a long blast of his whistle. He swung his searchlight full upon the other vessel. He knew the other pilot had seen the Northern Belle but he feared it was too late.

Eddie saw her go up the companionway with a pot. Dangerous business lugging that pot along deck, but let her break her neck if she wanted to, he figured. Nevertheless, he followed her.

Eddie poked his head out into the storm and watched Val's progress as she slithered along the deck. The Northern Belle lurched into a particularly deep trough and a huge wave broke over her bow and hissed down on the girl.

Val froze against a ventilator, clutching the coffee pot in one hand and the life-line in the other.

Eddie poked his head out into the storm and watched Val's progress as she slithered along the deck. The Northern Belle lurched into a particularly deep trough and a huge wave broke over her bow and hissed down on the girl.

Val froze against a ventilator, clutching the coffee pot in one hand and the life-line in the other.

Val wished that that pot of coffee, it was getting more unwieldy every second and there was a good chance of scalding herself if she had an accident.

She had almost reached the companionway going above when it happened. No one knew where the other ship came from but suddenly it was there, looming up in front of them like something that was dropped from the murky sky itself.

"Hard aport!" Steve Hansen yelled to the helmsman. "Lively!" he screamed, and then turned to bellow down the tube.

"More speed!" he bawled down the tube, and thanked his stars it was no longer dead.

The sudden, sharp maneuver had caught Val Douglas by surprise. She had just loosened her grip from the life-line for a second when the ship started to swing about.

Val's foot hit a puddle of water just when the vessel lurched under the strain of hard aport. She clutched the coffee pot in one hand and the life-line in the other.

"Full speed ahead. Give it everything you have!" Hansen yanked the siren cord and let out a long blast of his whistle. He swung his searchlight full upon the other vessel. He knew the other pilot had seen the Northern Belle but he feared it was too late.

Eddie saw her go up the companionway with a pot. Dangerous business lugging that pot along deck, but let her break her neck if she wanted to, he figured. Nevertheless, he followed her.

Landowners to Vote on Soil Districts May 25

Arrangements for Eastland county landowners and their wives to vote on whether or not they want to establish soil conservation districts have been completed by the county soil conservation advisory committee and the county agent. Ballot boxes will be available on Saturday, May 25, for those living and owning land west of the Wichita Falls and Gulf (Jake Hammond) railroad at the justice of peace office, Eastland, Ranger city hall, Carbon Trading Co., Scranton school, Gorman newspaper office, Cisco city hall, Rising Star city hall, Desdemona city hall, and A. Italy Manufactures Many War Materials a thrilling experience. While in Albuquerque, we motored to the little Indian village of Ysleta on Easter Sunday and viewed with interest the customs and dress of those quaint people. The women had some of the most beautiful handwork on their aprons that I have ever seen and even though the day was exceedingly warm, almost all of them were wearing woolen shawls. We happened to be there during the time when they were attending mass, and we were told that the church where they were worshipping was erected in the year 1517. It was still in a good state of preservation. Our guide informed us that they had refused $10,000 for one painting that hung on the wall. Altogether it was a very enjoyable trip and one that will long be remembered.

General Favagrossa said 929 auxiliary factories are controlled by the war manufacturers' board.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I know that my Redeemer liveth.—Job xix 25.

Wake, glad heart! awake! awake!
And see thy own Lord;
Joy in His resurrection take,
And comfort in His word.
And et thy life, through all its ways,
One song thanksgiving be:
His theme of joy, His song of praise,
Christ died and rose for me.

Our $6,000,000,000 Itch

THE itchy foot, one of the most pronounced of American characteristics, is going to hand business a $6,000,000,000 boost this summer.

That's an estimate of what the people of the United States will spend on travel and things connected with it in 1940. That is a tremendous business, the third largest, in fact, in the country.

This year, for the first time in many years, practically all of it will be spent in the western hemisphere, and most of it in the United States and its possessions. Europe is largely closed this year to the traveler, and the quarter of a billion dollars which used to be spent there on a single summer's travel will tinkle in western cash registers this season.

The New York and San Francisco fairs will continue to draw their millions. The national parks and favorite domestic summer resorts will again be strong magnets.

BUT more than ever before, this year will be Pan American year for the wayfarer. Cruisers through South American waters, and by air to the southlands are already being booked full.

Many thousands will become acquainted with American territories and possessions for the first time — Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands. Thousands will seize the opportunity to drive across the borders to call on our next door neighbors, Canada and Mexico. The Rotarians and Lions conventions form an advance guard of a huge tourist invasion of Cuba, and Central and South America are certain to see streams of tourists such as have never flowed southward before.

IT is an unparalleled opportunity, with Europe closed, for the Americans to get acquainted with each other. And it is also a fine chance to solve in some little measure the problem of inter-American trade.

The southern countries, and Canada, all want to buy more American goods. They are handicapped because we buy so little of theirs, and hence send them so few American dollars with which they can buy our exports. But travel is one thing which the other American countries have for sale which we can buy more liberally.

Governmental shakeups seem to have got into the blood of European democracies. American New Dealers are hoping citizens here won't take the hint.

Nazis can't sing national anthems and such unless they get special permission from Goebbels. Things are coming to a pretty pass when even patriotism must be rationed.

The British are still taking mail off U. S. clipper planes. The motto has changed to: "The mail must go through—the censors."

The sure-thing bettors are casually collecting wagers they made that congress was only fooling when it bleated loudly about saving money.

European belligerents are having the same kind of trouble American baseball managers have every spring. They can't seem to sign up the right people under the terms they want.

Senator Tobey's bill would have removed the jail sentence provision for refusal to answer census questions, but would keep the $1000 fine. Thus the more money you make, the less you have to tell about how you make it.

This Should Be a Big Year for Baseball damage plaintiffs' husband and father met his death while making an electric welding with electricity supplied by the defendant company. The law and the evidence was submitted to a jury on special issues, who returned a verdict in favor of defendant, and that plaintiffs take nothing, as their damage was not caused by negligence of the West Texas Utilities Co. Notice of appeal had not been filed Monday.

Grand Jury Recessed

The 88th grand jury recessed Wednesday after returning seven true bills of indictment for felonies, three of which were for chicken theft, one for cattle theft, drunk driving, burglaries, etc.

One bond of $1,000 was filed by Will Foster, colored, of Ranger, who was indicted for driving an automobile while intoxicated.

Process on the others had not been served Monday. W. E. (Tug) Underwood, office deputy in the sheriff's department, said.

Last Thursday Deputy W. E. (Tug) Underwood conveyed a mental patient to the state asylum at Austin.

(W. S. Adamson, Judge; R. V. Galloway, Clerk)

A light docket was heard in the county court and no jury cases were considered. The jury summoned for service this week was discharged for the term.

Marriage Licenses

The following couples were issued licenses to marry by the county clerk during the past week:

V. E. Vessels and Lora Faye Justice, Eastland.

L. R. McDaniell and Olene Johnson, Cisco.

A. E. Stewart and Ethel Margaret Williams, Wichita Falls.

R. L. Wesley and Mrs. Lucille Noble, Breckenridge.

The following business was had in probate court last week:

Petition of Norma Louise Morrison for appointment of a new guardian of her person and estate. Petitioner recites that Mrs. Floy Morrison, previously named guardian for Norman Louise and Patricia Ann Morrison, minors, had resigned as her guardian, and that both of her parents were dead. It appeared to the court that said minor was possessed of certain real and personal property, was without a guardian to manage her estate, and that her grandfather, H. O. Morrison, with whom she made her home, was not disqualified to act as her guardian. It appearing to the court that petitioner was over 14 years of age and legally qualified to select her own guardian, and that H. O. Morrison was legally qualified, her petition was approved. The court finds from the final report of her former guardian, Mrs. Floy Morrison, that said minor is possessed of certain real and personal property, it was the order of the court that letters testamentary should be issued to H. O. Morrison as guardian of Norma

Louise Morrison, and that Mrs. Floy Morrison be instructed to deliver to the new guardian all property of said minor still in her possession, upon the said H. O. Morrison's qualifying by filing his bond for $1,400, and subscribing to the required oath.

L. C. Moore, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Luvernia Moore, deceased, petition for partition of said estate.

Arthur Cozart, petition for letters of administration of the estate of Mrs. Sallie Cozart, deceased. Approved and letters issued after filing bond of $2,000.

Marie Gilman, administratrix of the estate of R. F. Gilman, deceased, annual report approved, and citation issued for hearing April 15.

A. M. Foote, guardian of Arlie Hubbard Foote, incompetent, bond of $2,000 filed and approved with Maryland Casualty Co. as security. Authority was granted guardian to invest funds of $535 of his ward in United States treasury notes.

British Claim--

German bomber and crippled three others. One civilian was wounded in the unsuccessful Scapa Flow attack, but an official announcement said no damage was done to shipping or shore properties by the bomb and machine-gun raiders.

Delayed dispatches from Sweden did not say what happened at Oslo after 1 p. m. (6 a. m. CST), when the reported British deadline for the surrender of the city expired.

But the Stockholm reports said that units of the British navy penetrated Oslo fjord, rocky sea approach to the occupied town Wednesday morning, aided by coastal guns still held by Norwegian forces.

The wide sweep of British naval action embraced a vicious and successful attack against German troops and warships in the Skagarrak and one or more raids on the important ore shipping port of Narvik.

The British admiralty, traditionally the "silent service," declined comment, however, on most of the reports of naval warfare.

A broadcast by the British Broadcasting corporation late last night said British warships "appear to have routed" German forces in Oslo fjord and "there has been ruthless bombing of Norwegian towns in the neighborhood by German planes."

Guns roared, ships were sunk and men died all the way from Narvik, tiny Norwegian ore port far above the Arctic circle, down to the Kattegat, strategic entrance to the Baltic sea, traditionally German-ruled yet penetrated today by a fiercely fighting British fleet.

All day long Britain struck blow after blow at Germany with her air and naval might along the entire western coast of Norway and far into the Baltic sea approaches, fighting a constant chain of bitter battles which may hold the key to the fate of Scandinavia and the European war itself.

Guns roared, ships were sunk and men died all the way from Narvik, tiny Norwegian ore port far above the Arctic circle, down to the Kattegat, strategic entrance to the Baltic sea, traditionally German-ruled yet penetrated today by a fiercely fighting British fleet.

Brunks to Present Comedy Tonight

"Who's Guilty?" is the title of the play to be presented tonight in the big heated tent of the Brunk's comedians show. The play is purely a comedy dealing with a jewel robbery, and the first person in the audience to guess the identity of the robber will be given five dollars by the management.

There will be in addition a new 45-minute musical program before the show. Prices for tonight's performance will be 15c to men and 10c to women and school children.

DEATH COMES TO MRS. BRUCE ON SATURDAY

Friends here have been advised of the death at Oklahoma City of Mrs. W. F. Bruce, formerly of this city. Burial was at Landcaster, Missouri, Wednesday afternoon, the message stated.

Mrs. Bruce is survived by her husband, for many years professor of English and Bible at Randolph college, and three sons, Francis, Marion and Darcy.

The family came to Cisco from Oklahoma about 15 years ago so that Mr. Bruce could accept a professorship at Randolph. He continued with the faculty of the Cisco college until it was closed two years ago. For a year he engaged in church work, lecture-ship and writing, and last year he moved to Oklahoma City, where better opportunities for his work existed and so that he and Mrs. Bruce could be near the work of their sons.

Mrs. Bruce had been in ill health for a number of years.

Shepard and Armstrong New School Trustees

F. E. Shepard and W. J. Armstrong were elected to three-year terms as members of the Cisco school board Saturday in a contested election which brought out the largest number of voters in many years. Five hundred and 99 persons cast ballots on five candidates, one of whom, W. R. Tuestis, Friday announced his withdrawal from the race. It was too late to remove his name from the ballot.

Other candidates were George P. Fee and Dr. Paul M. Woods. Results of the voting were: Armstrong 318, Shepard 351, Fee 250, Woods 256.

Twenty votes were cast for Mr. Huestis despite his announcement that he was not a candidate and could not accept the place if elected.

Safety Shorts From Oil Belt Safety Council

MOTORISTS—Here's a driving tip from the Oil Belt Safety Council.

Many accidents are caused by drivers swerving back into their lane too soon after passing another car. A good way to avoid this hazard is never to cut in front of the other car until you can see some portion of it in the rear view mirror.

George R. Roberts Former Operator, Visitor Saturday

George R. Roberts, a former Cisco oil operator in 1923, was a caller at the Daily Press office Saturday morning. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roberts. They had apartments at the H. G. Eppler home during their stay here.

Mr. Roberts will be remembered as the man who drilled the 3,400-foot well on the G. R. Roberts farm, near the home of W. B. Starr, a few miles south of the Base Line road.

The well, which at that time was a near deep test, failed to get oil in commercial quantities, but Mr. Roberts says he still has faith in that section, and expects to make another try when the proper time rolls around.

"I did not play my hunch in locating the well," he told the Daily Press Saturday. "I took the advice of others in whom I had more faith. Next time I will play my hunch, for I still believe there's oil under the location I had spotted."

Since leaving Cisco, Mr. Roberts has been operating a well in San Saba.

Archeology

All scouts and scouters of the council are invited to attend a practice archery meet to be held on south ward school ground, Brownwood, Saturday, April 20, at 1:30 p. m. This is not an official tournament, but a meet to help those who need practice and some instruction in archery shooting.

Circus

Surplus tickets and all other material to be sent scouts and scouters for the first annual Boy Scout circus of the council, will be mailed out this week. This big event will take place in the Memorial hall, Brownwood, Tuesday, May 14, at 7:30 p. m.

The maple tree was brought into England from North America about 1656.

In the years preceding the World war, annual remittances to Italy by Italian emigrants amounted to 20,000,000 pounds sterling, according to Dr. Paul H. Wueller of Pennsylvania State college.

Miss Ramey Gives Recipe For Cheese

Mrs. Frank Ziehr was hostess to the Word Home Demonstration club Thursday afternoon in her home. Miss Ruth Ramey, county demonstration agent, brought the lesson on the subject, "Repair the House," in which she brought out several important points. Miss Ramey then demonstrated the proper procedure to employ in making cottage cheese, and gave the following recipe by steps: (1) Adjust the temperature of one gallon of fresh, clean, flavored skim milk to 75 degrees F by placing the container of milk in a larger vessel of water. The temperature of the water will depend upon whether the milk is to be warmed or cooled. (2) Add one-half cup of cultured buttermilk or clabber free of gas holes and off flavors. Stir milk thoroughly so that the cultured buttermilk or clabber is well distributed. (3) Hold milk at a temperature of 75 degrees F for 12 to 14 hours.

(4) Cut curd when sufficiently firm. Insert a thermometer obliquely into the curd and lift gradually. When the curd makes a clean break, the cheese is ready to cut. Cut the curd into 1-2 inch cubes with a horizontal curd knife and spatula to allow the whey to separate. (5) After cutting the curd, allow cheese to set undisturbed for 10 minutes before stirring or applying heat. This will prevent the cubes from breaking during the cooking process. (6) Add one quart to one-half gallon of water at 110 degrees to 120 degrees F directly to the cheese. The addition of water furnishes a media in which to stir the cubes and helps prevent their breaking.

(7) Place the pan containing the cubed cheese in a bath of warm water and heat slowly to 120 degrees F. Allow approximately 30 minutes to reach this temperature and stir very carefully while stirring. (8) To test the curd for sufficient cooking, place a few of the cubes in cold water. If cubes are firm, hold their shape and contain very little whey, the cooking is complete. (9) Drain the whey and wash the curd twice with cold water. Handle carefully to prevent breaking the cubes. (10) The cubes should be drain-
