From Lip-Service to Real Service

EVERYBODY agreed: an arms program, yes! Higher taxes to pay for it? Yes! Action! Let's go! But most people thought of all this as something to cheer for, perhaps something to pay for, but yet remote from themselves, something the other fellow was actually going to do. Now comes, from the president himself, the proposal that every young man and woman shall devote to his country's service a year of his or her life. Some would train for the fighting forces, some for the mechanical and technical services which keep modern fighting forces in motion, some in conservation work along CCC lines, some in ways not yet clearly outlined. But all serving their country, and preparing themselves to know how to serve it effectively in some later crisis.

THE president has apparently put this idea before the American people in a "trial balloon" even before submitting it in detailed form to congress, which alone has power to adopt any such plan.

It is revolutionary, no less. To propose any such plan for peacetime operation would at any prior time in American history have produced a storm of opposition. Today even those who oppose it will give it the gravest consideration.

At no prior time in the country's history has it ever faced a world such as it faces today. Precedents are no guide, as England and France know to their cost. This proposal must be considered squarely in the light of today's conditions.

If any further reason was needed why congress should stay in session and not adjourn, the president has provided it by advancing this proposal for universal service. The working out of a plan of any such magnitude, involving literally millions of young men and women, is a staggering task.

First, it is congress which must decide whether it is to be done at all.

Then it will be congress which must reduce the general plan to specific terms. The sooner it gets down to both tasks, the sooner the whole thing will be either discarded in favor of something else or begin to be effective.

In today's world everything depends on time. Those tragic words, "too late," which were the doom of Europe, must not be written of the United States.

Science reports the world was once much larger than it is now. Probably the reason why there no longer is room for more than one type of government to exist without conflict.

More accidents occur in the kitchen than any room in the home, and that doesn't include cakes which fall in the oven.

All Gaul Is Divided Into Three Parts

What It Means: South Sea Strategy

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 22.—While most military eyes are focused on Europe, many naval strategists are turning toward several tiny specks in the Pacific—potential lifelines of American commerce.

Up to now these specks have been in France's hands. They are Marquesas, the Tubini, Tuamotu, and the Society Islands in the South seas. That South sea paradise, Tahiti, is among them.

Of course there are French possessions closer to our shores than these Pacific islands. But naval and congressional students have indicated they do not feel the European possessions in the Guianas and the Caribbean area should tempt Herr Hitler to open occupation immediately. They are too close to the American mainland.

But what about the French possessions in the South seas? Naval Supply Line Save for Hawaii, these islands are the most strategic of all stepping stones in the Pacific, either for a navy hostile to our own, or for our own navy counting on hostile forces lying athwart our path to rubber and tin, and to the Philippines in the far east. These islands provide a southern supply line for our fleet guarding commerce or fighting to keep commercial routes open, and a line whose first supply depots would be far out of range of the Japanese navy. Our present direct lines from Hawaii to the far east lie in the path of great Japanese mandated territory of the western Pacific, the Marshall and Caroline islands.

The French islands also provide a new strategic leg to our main defense line from the Aleutians to Hawaii and Panama. It must be remembered that in case of trouble, our navy would be supplied with strategic materials from the great industrial triangle of the eastern United States, via the Panama canal. With the canal as a supply base, the navy is confronted with almost insuperable distances to supply a fleet operating in the Pacific, regard less of what stepping stones are used.

Hawaii now is the first stepping stone, and the direct line to the far east begins there. For example, from Panama, the route to Manila via Honolulu stretches 9,538 miles. With the Marquesas as the first link in the supply chain, instead of Hawaii, the southern route to the far east is 9,800 miles long, a difference of only 200-odd miles.

Naval eyes have been on the French islands for years. In 1921, Capt. Dudley W. Knox of the United States navy proposed that we buy the islands or let them become a part payment on the war debt.

Now congressional committees are thinking about these islands, even though they are not saying it so out loud.

A resolution that went zooming through congress the other day says the United States will not recognize European acquisitions in the western hemisphere, and provides for a conference of American republics. Anything west of Spain and east of Tokyo may be "western hemisphere"—not that any such vast area is in any navy mind. What is in the minds of the framers of the defense resolution is a new definition of the western hemisphere, written by American republics and definitely including within its boundaries the French islands in the southern Pacific.

Since 1291, every able bodied Swiss man has been liable for military service from voting age to death.

Letters From Our Readers

Editor, Cisco Daily Press:

In the coming election the Hon. Clyde Garrett, will run for reelection to the congress of the United States. Mr. Garrett will remain in Washington during the crisis, serving our country, and will not be here to carry on his campaign, while his opponents will be in the field. Mr. Garrett will present his candidacy solely on his past record, as county judge of Eastland county, and as a member of congress. His record has been unsullied, and even his bitterest enemy and opponent could not bring one "trailing accusation" against him. He is a Christian gentleman, an able lawyer and absolutely unbiased in his friendship and loyal to his duties to the 11th degree.

It has been my privilege for many years to be counted as one of Judge Garrett's many friends, and he has asked me to support him in the race among my friends. This I shall do as a duty and a pleasure. I shall very much appreciate a post card or telephone call from my friends, or Judge

Heading for the White House?

Arthur Hendrick Vandenberg Hazel Whitaker Vandenberg

The Vandenberg of Michigan

This is the eleventh of a series presenting the republicans that may occupy the White House after next January. BIG, affable Arthur Hendrick Vandenberg, who escaped sacrifice of 1936, again is talked of for the presidency.

A senator since 1928, the Michigan newspaperman is acknowledged one of the hardest working, hardest hitting members of upper house.

Enemies call him a middle-of-the-roader, friends say liberal-conservative. The record shows he championed bank guarantee bill, control of munitions, adequate new He favored social security, stock market regulations, voted against AAA, NRA, TVA, the Wagner act, holding out legislation.

Vandenberg is 56, has been a republican since the father, a Grand Rapids harness maker, urged with his last "Son, always be a good republican." He was cub reporter Grand Rapids Herald, was named editor and general manager at 22. He rose rapidly as a newspaper and political post Michigan. He was appointed to fill a senate vacancy in was later elected, was the only G. O. P. senator to win an important state in the 1934 democratic landslide.

Vandenberg was first married to Elizabeth Watson. The three children before Mrs. Vandenberg died in 1915. Vandenberg married high school teacher, newspaperwoman, H. Whitaker. Today she is leader in Washington's social and the senator, who is a joiner, enjoys the whirl with her.

to meet with her once a week and study ways by which labor can cooperate effectively in the defense program. This group is meeting regularly and harmoniously; Messrs. Green and Lewis are absent, but through their subordinate Miss Perkins is getting what she wants.

Another significant straw in the wind is the return of David Dubinsky's Garment Workers' Union to the A. F. of L. Dubinsky is also all for peace; to get him back the A. F. of L. had to cancel its cent-a-month tax which had been used to raise a war-chest to fight the C. I. O.

MAIL TELLS CONGRESS TO STAY ON JOB CHIEF thing that knocked the bottom out of the administration's hope for an early adjournment of Congress was the members' mail from back home.

This mail has been coming in floods lately, and the overwhelming majority of letters have urged aid for the allies—which is right down the administration's alley. Most of the letter writers, however, added the injunction—"and stay in session during the crisis."

A lot of members got so many letters like this they began figuring it would really be political suicide for them to go home.

There are other factors, of course. One is a lingering distrust—still fairly widespread—of what is considered the impetuous nature of the President's handling of foreign policy. Another, seldom discussed but quite potent, is the realization that a number of pending laws which would die if Congress adjourned in June can probably get passed if it stays another month. These would include such important measures as the Wagner act amendments and the Waller-Logan bill.

Baltic States May Become Sovietized

STOCKHOLM, June 22 (AP)—Indications that Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania might eventually form fully sovietized regimes were seen Saturday in reports to Swedish newspapers of big pro-soviet demonstrations in those Baltic countries after their occupation by Red army troops.

The Soviet troops, however, "have not come to force a state administration but to guard against war," the new Lithuanian minister of home affairs said in a radio speech.

"If the form of government is altered, it will be in a legal way."

Farms Holding Youths Minnesota Discovers

ST. PAUL, June 22 (AP)—The farm-to-city migration has slowed perceptibly. Today there are approximately 25,000 more persons in the 15-24-year group on the state's farms than 10 years ago.

Dr. Lowry Nelson, sociologist at the University of Minnesota farm school, explained that there has been a sizable increase in the number of persons in that age group in the last decade, and that urban unemployment has made city life less attractive to farm boys and girls.

Boys and girls two and three years old chose virtually the same toys, but girls show greater interest in drawing, painting and clay modeling.

The deadly climate of Sierra Leona, Guinea coast settlement founded originally in 1788 for freed slaves, has made the area known as the "white man's grave."

half mile from the heart of the city. Antiaircraft fire and fighter planes forced the Italians to veer eastward along Alexandria's waterfront, where civilian casualties were reported.

A British naval communiqué later said two persons were killed and 23 injured. The injured included two Italians, the British added.

British airplanes and soldiers also were active in Africa. The Royal Air Force at Cairo reported that a bombardment Friday at Tobruk, Italian Libya, was followed by the spurt of heavy smoke from a large warship in the harbor.

Quito, capital of Ecuador, was once the most important art center in America and its churches still contain the works of immortal sculptors and painters.

LESSONS OF WORLD WAR II. Why are the Germans Winning?
How do the Germans do it? By frightfulness? That is a natural supposition. I find myself thinking that the nazis' greatest crime is their success.

Lack of scruples is a great asset in total war, certainly, and the nazis have taken full advantage of it. But even now that the French are fighting on their own soil they seem to be unable to resist success fully. Their great army, only yesterday considered the greatest in the world—is out-classed.

The Germans do it, as everybody knows today, with planes and tanks and great fleets of automotive vehicles. They did not originate these things. The airplane is an American invention, the tank British. But the Germans have made more of them than anybody else. They saw the possibilities of these devices and went after them. Others, in France, in England, and perhaps in our own country, did not.

Why? France gave the answer by dismissing Gamelin. A recent issue of Time tells the whole story in three sentences. "The French army leadership, canopied by a great weight of professional authority, was mothered by routine thought, opposition to change . . . The old German army was disbanded at Versailles. Relieved of the sniffs and sneers of elderly

DIETING SHOULD BE DONE UNDER THE ADVICE OF YOUR DOCTOR

If you are overweight you are probably eating too much. You are daily putting into your stomach more food than the system needs to keep a proper balance. There are two ways to prevent, stop or reduce this overweight and they are . . . reduce the amount of food or increase the amount of exercise.

Overweight taxes the kidneys, because they have to carry away the excess poison from the fat tissues, and from the over-burdened digestive tract of the average fat person, as well as perform their normal duties.

Overweight also taxes the arteries by making them work "overtime" carrying off excess poisons and wearing them out before their time. Overweight works the heart "overtime" in the same way, because it must meet the burden of pumping blood to all this useless and superfluous tissue.

Dieting to get thin demands scientific judgment. Violent exercise can be injurious, medicines strong enough to remove fat are strong enough to produce dangerous changes in the bodily functions, and often permanently undermine health.

If you are overweight, talk it over with your doctor . . . and then follow his advice.

which the cold packs of commonsense ought to be applied is the tendency, sometimes appearing to view with suspicion, and often aspersions, Americans of German extraction. Merely because a person has a German name or German blood doesn't mean that he isn't an American of the truest dye. We have millions of them in the United States, and they are among the best people in it. We have numbers of people of German blood and names in and about Cisco, and they are among the most respected and best citizens we have. So far nobody has any cause to question their Americanism. They have done as much as any Irish, English, Dutch, Jewish or people of other nationality to build this country and make it great.

Indeed, most of the others could learn a great deal about Americanism and industry, thrift and good citizenship from them. The column recommends that our pessimists and calamity howlers, many of whom have been sitting on a doubled up torso waiting for the Lord to move the rock, go study their ways and take profit therefrom. Earnestly done, we should have a lot less WPA and more homespun fiber in the land.

STAMP NEWS

THE pharmacists of the United States are after a stamp, at least a campaign is under way to place a symbol of pharmacy on a U. S. stamp. More than 60,000 druggists have signed petitions for the stamp and a national committee intends to boost the number to 100,000.

With the war wiping European countries off the map one after another, stamp dealers report a new surge of interest in American values, particularly such old and rare issues as the Confederate states.

The first airmail stamps appeared less than 24 years ago, are today steadily rising in value. A complete collection in 1930 was valued at about $6000, today one is worth about $20,000. Sanabria's Air Post catalog lists a complete collection at about $21,418.

Two more Mexican commemorative sets are in preparation. One, consisting of two stamps, is to mark the 400th anniversary of the founding of Campeche, settled by the Spaniards in 1540. Founding of the "first university in America" will be marked by a set of six, three regular postage, three airmail. Far Vasco de Quiroga is said to have organized the institution at Patzcuaro.

More than 400 major and minor varieties of "war" stamps have appeared since World War No. 2 started last September. These stamps are either revisions in values or overprints due to the war. Few are new issues.

British Raiders Sink Two German Ships

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—German vessels were sunk by British planes in a raid on Wilhelmsoord, a German-occupied harbor in Holland, the ministry announced Saturday.

The communiqué said: "Aircraft of the fleet air arm and coastal command attacked enemy shipping in naval storeshouses and an oil pot at Wilhelmsoord, a German-occupied harbor in Holland. Enemy vessels were sunk. One enemy fighter was destroyed. One of our aircraft was shot down."
