Two Killed in Air Raids on Britain

LONDON, June 26 (AP)—Two persons were believed killed in southeast Scotland early today during German air raids which extended over most of England, Scotland and Wales. British reported at least three of the invading planes were

Junior Lobo Band Will Be Organized Here

A beginner's band will be organized July 15, it was announced today by Lobo Band Director R. L. Collier, who stated that the plan is to have two public-appearing bands to represent Cisco during the coming year.

He emphasized that beginners will not be received after July 15. A class of 50 beginners is anticipated. In making the announcement, Collier stated that it will be necessary for the pupils to have their own instruments but that instruction will be given free of charge. In this connection he urged those in Cisco who have instruments they would like to sell, to contact him.

If plans go as expected, the junior band will be a uniform group, making numerous public appearances during the school year.

Any school child desiring to enroll in the junior band classes is instructed to get in touch with Dir. Collier by July 15.

Texas Plane Factory's First Ship Passes Test

HOUSTON, Texas, June 26 (AP)—Texas' first commercially manufactured airplane, a military primary trainer intended for sale to the United States army, was put successfully through its initial flight Tuesday.

The two-place, open cockpit biplane, designed and produced by the Southern Aircraft Corporation of Houston, will be submitted to more rigorous tests in the next few days and then will be flown, probably some time next week, to Dayton, Ohio.

There test pilots of the army air corps will send the ship through their stiffest maneuvers over Wright Field. If it passes satisfactorily, the army may give Southern Aircraft a contract.

W. L. Graves of Mansfield is spending this week here in the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. C. Rosenthal.

CITY TAX IS SET AT $2.50 FOR NEXT YEAR

Allocated $1.50 To General Fund and $1 for Sinking Fund

Fixing the 1940 city tax rate at $2.50 last night, the city commission ordered allocation of the rate between general fund and sinking fund changed to $1.50 for the general fund and $1 for bond servicing. The existing allocation of $1.75 for bond servicing and only 75 cents for the general fund did not allow the city sufficient revenue to pay its normal operating costs and left the city with an empty treasury and the threat of impairment of the public services, it was pointed out.

The commission voted to sponsor the recreation project for six months, with the stipulation that the cost is not to exceed $37.50 per month.

City Attorney Clark Roberts was instructed to collect delinquent taxes. The report of the city equalization board has been received, City Sec'y Lonnie Shockley said. The total valuation of city property for purposes of taxation is about $1,800,000, a decline of between $100,000 and $200,000 from last year's values of $1,998,920.

Local Relief Fund Drive Ends Saturday

The local Red Cross war relief fund drive which has been going on over a number of weeks will end Saturday at noon, it was announced today by Mrs. Chas. Sandler, chairman.

In making the announcement, Mrs. Sandler stated that $18 was lacking in reaching the specified quota. It was hoped that this would be made up by Saturday.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution is instructed to take it to the First National bank, where it will be deposited to the fund.

Cisco Pastor In Gorman Revival

The Rev. Judson Prince, pastor of the First Baptist church, is in Gorman, where he is conducting a two-week revival. He is being assisted by Buster Harrison of Fort Worth, chorister.

In the pastor's absence, the Rev. N. A. Sanders, pastor of the Gorman church, will preach here Sunday. Prayer meeting this evening will be conducted by F. E. Shepard.

Bible School Class Attendance Increases

Work in the First Baptist daily vacation Bible school was rapidly going forward today with an attendance of 163 at this morning's classes. Attendance by departments was: Beginners, 32; primaries, 48; junior, 60; intermediates, 8; adults, 13, and two general officers.

Three new workers have been assigned to different departments, and they are Mrs. V. Rauch, Mrs. M. F. Underwood and Miss Eugenia Jackson.

The school is still open for enrollment. It was pointed out today. Women's classes are held from 10 to 11 o'clock, and the remainder of the school classes are from 8:30 to 11. The morning is spent in worship periods, story telling hours, handwork and recreation. The handwork department is under the direction of W. W. Brook of the Cisco recreation project, and Mrs. D. Ball.

Miss Dorothy Sue Lamb is the guest of relatives and friends in Dallas.

Students Learn to Teach

Part of training course for future air corps pilots at Randolph Field, Texas, is learning to instruct others. Each student goes aloft daily with an instructor who intentionally commits the errors common to most student pilots. Here, the students are receiving instruction from a veteran pilot before taking the air to learn to teach.

DE LEON WILL SEND SPONSORS AND BOOSTERS

A letter received today from the DeLeon chamber of commerce indicated that a large delegation of DeLeon boosters would be on hand July 4 for the two-day celebration, including the Jaycee rodeo and the Lake Cisco Amusement company activities.

The DeLeon group will include a sponsor for the rodeo, a representative in the Oil Belt bathing revue, and numbers of boosters.

Plans were rapidly taking shape today for the Fourth of July events. The two chambers of commerce, working in harmony to avoid conflicts in the various events, have promised one of the most entertaining celebrations in Cisco's history.

A highlight of the Lake Cisco entertainment will be, for the first time in west Texas, a gigantic daylight fireworks display, following up a program of political speeches Thursday morning. P. G. Berry, manager of the Lake Cisco Amusement company, promises in this event an attraction which very few Cisco people have ever witnessed.

Entrants in the local bathing revue, to be held July 3, include, so far: Drumwright's, Kathleen Alexander; Dean Drug company, Mildred Kimmell; McCracken-Poe grocery, Gladys Rae; Cisco Lions club, Louise Rylee; A-G Motor company, LaRue McMurray; Lake Cisco Amusement company, Bobbie Grace McWhorter; Brown's sanitarium, Rosemary Huestis; The Man's store, Freda Fern Erwin; J. C. Penney company, Maxine Cearley; Altman's Style shop, Lurline Blackburn, and Clark's Texaco station, Marie Tune.

Pentecostal Church In Summer Revival

The Pentecostal church started its tent meeting last week, across the street from the church at 17th street and avenue G.

Messages are being brought nightly by George Durst of Brady, a capable and inspiring speaker. The public is cordially invited to attend every service. Mrs. Fronie Blackwell is evangelist pastor of the church.

Miss Dorothy Sue Lamb is the guest of relatives and friends in Dallas.

Abolish New Deal and Avoid War. Hoover Demands

CONVENTION HALL, PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—Herbert Hoover demanded the abolishment of the new deal and a scrupulous avoidance of war last night before an excited republican national convention which shouted back its approval and burst finally into the noisiest demonstration of this two-day old party meeting.

Outbursts of applause, brief and occasional, yet of a roaring lustiness, punctuated every section of the address. But the last sentence, which was also a question, brought the climax. Referring to the party battle that lies ahead, Mr. Hoover, his voice rising, demanded:

Bedlam

"Republicans are you prepared to go into this fight?"

"Yes," came the answer, "yes... yes... yes..." until ear-splitting bedlam drowned out the responses. A demonstration was in the making. Shouts, cries, whistles, and applause, all reinforced by the scarcely distinguishable blaring of the band.

Californians, hustled into the aisles with a big banner and crushed through the crowded center aisle. Minnesota, West Virginia, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Tennessee, Texas, Arkansas and South Carolina banners were in action.

Whether the procession of standards meant that a few individual members of the delegations had seized the state insignia without the approval of their colleagues could not be determined. But the demonstration obviously was a hearty tribute to the former president.

Primary Objections

Hoover emphatically impressed upon the convention two primary objectives — to oust the new deal and keep America at peace, "unless the western hemisphere is attacked."

At the same time, the former president told the vast throng that for America there was no such thing as "isolation,"—that a realistic view of foreign problems dictated that all lawful assistance be extended to the Allies.

And, he cautioned against exaggeration of "our immediate dangers."

The ocean is broad, Hoover told republican delegates massed on the convention floor before him, Donica today.

Additional Boys May Enlist In N. Y. A. Project

Boys on the NYA resident training project at Ranger are moving this week into the new rock veneer barracks, just recently completed.

Additional living quarters will accommodate approximately 20 extra boys, it was reported. Assignments can be made to the recently installed aeroautic shop, to the machine, radio and woodwork shops.

Application forms for NYA work and training projects may be obtained from the county welfare office at the city hall, from Supt. R. N. Cluck, or from the chamber of commerce. Applications should be made to Jack Hale, Eastland National Bank building, Eastland.

Mrs. Ed Huestis, Mrs. Joseph L. Patterson, Mrs. W. E. Ricks and Mrs. Roy Camfield are in Gorman to attend the funeral of Mrs. J. C. Donica today.

PEACE TERMS ANNOUNCED BY TWO VICTORS

Churchill Says Petain Violated Solemn Assurances

(By The Associated Press) The French navy and air force are to pass into German and Italian control under armistice terms announced last night by the victorious axis powers.

The all-important question of what is to become of the French fleet, second largest in Europe, was answered by the official armistice stipulations, made public simultaneously, and by French premier Marshal Petain himself.

Prime Minister Churchill, accusing Petain of violating "solemn assurances" in handing over the fleet, earlier in the day had declared that Britain's safety "will be powerfully though not decisively affected by what happens to the French navy." He held out a faint hope that England still might salvage something of the French fleet through the empire outposts.

Just how much of the French sea and air power the Germans and Italians actually could get their hands on remained unannounced.

Units of the French navy still were with the British fleet at Alexandria, Egypt, yesterday and swarms of French planes winged their way southward over the Mediterranean during the armistice negotiations, ostensibly to carry on the fight from outposts there.

The official German armistice terms, following closely those made public in London Sunday, provide for complete French capitulation.

Under her separate armistice, reached Monday and paving the way for cessation of hostilities at 1:35 a. m. yesterday, Italy gets in addition:

1. "Full rights" over Jibuti, French Somaliland port and only rail outlet to Italian-conquered Ethiopia.

2. Demilitarized zones from 30 to 120 miles wide in France, Tunisia, Algeria and French Somaliland.

3. Italian troops will "stand on their advanced lines in all theaters of operations." This apparently means Italy will get little of France proper but will realize most, if not all, of her colonial claims.

"No Alternative"

Petain, in a broadcast to his sorrowing people, told them the German invaders were "overwhelmingly superior" in every department, giving the government no other alternative but surrender.

For instance, in the second battle of the Aisne-Somme he said 60 French divisions, without fortifications, faced 150 German divisions with mechanized units. In other words, 900,000 Frenchmen were matched against 2,250,000 better equipped Germans.

"The enemy crossed the Loire and then the remainder of France was defenseless," the aged Petain told his countrymen, observing their first day of dictated peace in mourning.

Germany meanwhile gave France to understand that any talk of final peace, supplementing the armistice already in force, would have to await a final German settlement of scores with Britain.

The statement that France must wait until Germany has completed her unfinished business with England was made by the well-informed nazi commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland. It made remote

A Step In the Right Direction

THE action of the city commission in allocating $1.50 of the 1940 tax rate to general fund and $1 to the sinking fund for bonded indebtedness seems to us a sensible one. Representatives of the bondholders may protest against this action and take the matter into court. Well, the sooner the better. There is no point in hanging onto the issue with an impossible situation, and the sooner the matter comes to a contest on the real issues the better for the city and the holders of the bonds.

THERE is certainly no disposition on the part of the city or its officials to avoid their obligations. It is precisely for the reason that they want to discharge these obligations that the community is insisting upon a solution on the only sound basis on which such a solution is possible—the cold facts of the city's ability to pay. To do otherwise is merely to postpone the issue, to discourage community progress and impair the collateral which already exists. It is to the ultimate advantage of both the bondholders—not their representatives, perhaps—and to

Marine Recruiting Station Placed at Fort Worth

In order that young men of the north central part of the state of Texas may be afforded the opportunity of enlisting in the U. S. Marine corps without traveling long distances, a recruiting station has been established in the U. S. court house building in Fort Worth, Texas. This office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Saturday afternoons and all day Sundays.
For a number of years the United States Marine corps has been limited to a small number of enlistment due to the comparatively small size of its enlisted personnel, with that of the army and navy. But, due to the present plans for a large national defense program, the lid has been lifted and the quotas will be "unlimited" for a certain period of time. This ban on restricted enlistment will afford many young men throughout the United States an opportunity to enlist in the service of their choice, the United States marines. The Marine corps does not require that you be a the city that the bonded debt problem be settled on a realistic basis.

It is no use complaining about what has happened. Recriminations are valueless. What is to be done now, is what counts. And these facts must be taken into consideration: This community has obligations to its section and to its citizens, obligations no less important than those it owes to its creditors. Several thousands of people have investments in Cisco, investments which represent in the great majority of cases their sole means of livelihood. Can it be said that these investments are less important than those of the people who placed surplus funds in bonds? Can it be said that the part which this community plays in the economic set-up of its section is less important than the rights of investors, who clearly understand that a risk is involved in the purchase of municipal securities, or the rights of certain groups of bondholder representatives to obtain fees?

Do not misunderstand. The obligation exists. Money was borrowed and money should be repaid. But it cannot be repaid with funds and resources that do not exist and have no prospect of existing under the circumstances, and any person or group who argues otherwise is showing less common-sense than prejudice. The only solution in which there is any prospect of success is a solution based on the ability of the city to pay. If that solution cannot be arrived at about the conference table, then, for the sake of the people of Cisco and the future of their community, the issue ought to be brought to a head and settled in a court at law. The city commission is taking the right step in providing for the equitable distribution of the tax rate.

Heading for the White House? Martin of Massachusetts

JOSEPH WILLIAM MARTIN, JR.
This is one of a series presenting the republican families that may occupy the White House after next January.

Newspaper Editor Joseph Wil...

William Martin, Jr., is in the running for president because he has moulded the republicans in the house into an extremely efficient minority. For his shrewd leadership, newspaper correspondents voted the North Attleboro, Mass., man No. 1 member of the house.

It was Martin who led the "Forward to '40" movement when the G. O. P. was sadly disorganized, who led the fight on the spend-lead bill, on the fortification of Guam, and on other administration measures.

Martin's is a typical American success story: son of a village blacksmith, newsboy at 5, night telephone operator, jeweler's assistant, reporter, editor-owner.

He was 27 when he first served in the Massachusetts legislature, went to congress in 1924, the late Bertrand Snell. In 1936 Martin managed the London eastern campaign. He is chairman of the republican congressional committee which put so many G. O. P. congressmen back in seats.

Black-haired, rotund Martin is 55, a bachelor, does not drink, smoke, is great walker, likes biography and baseball. He does not own a top hat.

Greeks of Southwest Back U. S. Defense

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 26 (AP)—More than 500 members of American Greek colonies in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana pledged Tuesday to bend every effort to try to eradicate any subversive or fifth column activity in the United States.

Meeting in the final session of the three-day ninth annual convention of Delta District No. 16, American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, the members of the American Greek organization declared themselves in favor of increasing the speed of the national defense program and resolved that "we stand ready to protect and defend the gift from Greece which gave to the world democracy."

All district officers for the American Hellenic Educational and Progressive Association were re-elected for the year. Tom Semmes of Dallas is district governor. The Sons of Pericles elected and installed the following: James Verges of Dallas, governor; Steve Jordan of Shreveport, lieutenant governor; Theo Cobell of New Orleans, secretary-treasurer, and George Colias of San Antonio, junior marshal.

Galveston was selected as the convention city for 1941.

Safety Shorts

From Oil Belt Safety Council

The Fourth of July is just a little over one week away. Many of you already are planning where you're going to celebrate the holiday. But the Oil Belt Safety Council suggests—why not give a little thought to how you are going to celebrate?

Are you going to do it safely? Or are you going to be one of the thousands killed or injured during America's biggest one-day jamboree of carelessness?

On the highways—in the homes—on the beach and picnic grounds—everywhere—men, women and children are killed off by the score, even as they celebrate.

There's no rhyme or reason to this wholesale slaughter. It must be stopped!

It can be stopped if every one of us uses caution and common sense. The things that cause these tragedies are things we can control—haste, selfishness, thoughtlessness, the desire to show off.

The Oil Belt Safety Council is calling on America to stop mid-summer massacre by signing a new Declaration of Independence—independence from the celebration that leaves so many dead and the sightless and suffering.

This year—put safety first on the Fourth!

Parents—There are NO safe fireworks. For instance, sparklers are supposed to be safe, and yet girls often are burned to death when their flimsy summer dresses are ignited by sparklers.

All children want fireworks on the Fourth, and it's pretty sometimes to say "NO." But you want to cooperate in the Belt Safety Council's campaign this year to cut down Fourth July accidents, you will keep your children away from your child.

Take them to a supervised public fireworks display. They'll get just as big a kick out of it. And when the Fourth over, there won't be any more or burnt hands or sightless eyes.

"Why didn't I realize that might happen?"

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

AMENDMENT OF LABOR RELATIONS ACT SEEN LIKELY AT END OF LONG FACTIONAL DISPUTE

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Some of the most high-powered political maneuvering seen here in many a day has been going on in connection with the drive to amend the Wagner act—and the end is not yet, by a long shot.

So far the high command of the A. F. of L. has outmaneuvered its rivals in the C. I. O. Scene of the next maneuvering will be the Senate, and so far it's a anybody's game. At this moment a fair bet is that the Wagner act will be amended, but not quite along the lines recently voted in the House.

Meeting in the final session of the three-day ninth annual convention of Delta District No. 16, American Hellenic Educational Progressive Association, the members of the American Greek organization declared themselves in favor of increasing the speed of the national defense program and resolved that "we stand ready to protect and defend the gift from Greece which gave to the world democracy."

ONE IN THE EYE FOR C. I. O.

THE skirmishing began early this spring, when FDR finally decided that something must be done to clip the Labor Board's wings and lay down the act itself, Congressman Mary Norton of New Jersey, head of the House Labor Committee, shaped a set of amendments to meet the administration's ideas. These involved, chiefly, increasing the board to five members, protecting craft unions and providing that employers could petition for an election if they got caught in a jam between two rival unions.

The C. I. O. promptly declared war on these amendments. The administration thereupon went to the A. F. of L., which welcomed the amendments with a whoop. The administration figured this would head off more drastic amendments, and the A. F. of L. figured it would be one in the eye for the C. I. O.

AMENDMENT DISOWNED
THE C. I. O. saw it just the way the A. F. of L. did, and began to put the heat on. It did this effectively that Mrs. Norton promptly disowned her own amendments.

About this time Congressman Howard Smith of Virginia, busy on his own hook. He was President Greer of the A. F. of L. to see if they couldn't work a deal. They had a number of talks, but got nowhere, and finally broke negotiations.

Then a fellow-member of Smith's investigating committee, Congressman Routhon of Ohio, came to the rescue. It was he, the broken negotiations resumed, and in the end it was an agreement: Smith would drop some amendments which A. F. of L. leaders just could not swallow, and would put in ones the A. F. of L. expected wanted—and in return the A. F. of L. would support the amendments.

Smith's investigating committee, Congressman Routhon of Ohio, came to the rescue. It was he, the broken negotiations resumed, and in the end it was an agreement: Smith would drop some amendments which A. F. of L. leaders just could not swallow, and would put in ones the A. F. of L. expected wanted—and in return the A. F. of L. would support the amendments.

SMILE FOR MRS. NORTON
THIS left Mrs. Norton high and dry. She thought A. F. of L. was back of her, not until the debate was in swing did she find it on the line opposing her. The result was a rout, with the Smith-A. F. amendments passing by a majority.

However... the House approved bill goes much farther than the A. F. of L. really wanted. Current issue of the A. F. of L. weekly news letter admits much and says that "the federation will now strive to have Senate eliminate certain features of the bill which are completely objectionable."

Chances are pretty good that the federation can get this bill through. The bill that will finally come law will be just about the original Norton amendment provided for, five men on board instead of three, provision to protect craft unions from swamped and drowned in industrial unionism, and employers the right to petition an election when there is doubt to who represents whom.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
FRANCIE WINSTON—a girl with a voice and ambition to crash the movies.
GUSTY GAIR—sarcastic mechanic who can give out on a trumpet.
JERRY FINNEY—Movieland's youngest glamor man.

YESTERDAY: Francie drives for Gusty. At dusk they reach the mountains, park on a curve. Gusty is just about to kiss Francie when a state trooper interrupts, lectures Gusty for parking on a curve. Gusty talks back and the trooper threatens a fine and a night in jail.

CHAPTER VIII
BREATHLESSLY Francie dashed into the hotel. Her father and Aunt Hat were seated in a lobby brilliant with Indian rugs and pottery. She told them about Gusty in a rush of words.
John Weston frowned. "Gusty's becoming a problem. I'm sorry the boy showed such poor judgment. But perhaps it will be a lesson to him."
"You—you mean you won't help him?" Francie gasped.
"I'm not sure I ought to, dear," Mr. Weston said. "Gusty's a guest of this state. The officer was only doing his duty. Gusty should learn to obey the rules without squawking."
"Oh, Pops," Francie moaned, "he—he didn't mean to lose his temper."
"The road to purgatory is paved with good intentions," Aunt Hat said sententiously.
John Weston said, "Don't worry, Francie. Gusty will work out his own salvation. Whatever his faults, the boy is self-reliant. Now let's have a bite of supper and go to bed. We'll need an early start to make Hollywood by day after tomorrow."
"But, Pops—"
"No, Francie, I've made up my mind."
In the coffee shop Francie tried to force down some supper, but each bite choked her. Her conception of prison life had been derived mainly from sensational movies. She saw Gusty locked up in a dirty cell discovering that she had taken the ticket. She saw him, disillusioned and bitter, launching himself upon a career of crime.
She simply had to do something. And then it came to her in a flash. If she told Pops about taking the ticket he might help Gusty.
Aunt Hat went to her room to write postcards. John Weston settled himself in the lobby with his pipe. Francie sat by his side whispering up her courage. Pops would be angry over what she'd done, but for Gusty's sake she forced herself to confess.
He listened, taking slow, measured puffs on his pipe. When she had finished he said, "I'm sorry you did that, Francie."
"But, Pops, it was just as much mine as his."
"Perhaps. That hardly excuses your behavior. Don't you know what's going to happen. Gusty's making this trip with the idea that he will be reimbursed for broadcasting. Suppose he doesn't discover the loss of his ticket until the night of the program? Being broke almost 2000 miles from home is no picnic."
John Weston rose, knocked out his pipe. He said brusquely, "I'm going over to the jail, Francie. Take the key to my room and wait for me there. I want to talk to you."

he was released."
Francie threw her arms around his neck, kissed him. "Oh, Pops, that was swell of you."
"Before Gusty comes, you've something to decide, Francie," John Weston said. "And you mustn't ask me to do it for you."
"What, Pops . . . the ticket?"
He nodded. "If you keep it, two courses are open. You can be honest and tell Gusty you have it. Or you can let him find out for himself. The first way will make him angry; the second will make him hate you. Or you can give back the ticket and tell him you're sorry."
Francie straightened. "Pops, now that you've paid his fine, Gusty will have enough money to get to Hollywood. I can keep the ticket and give Gusty the money they pay me for broadcasting. Wouldn't that be fair?"
"Possibly, Francie, but do you think Gusty will accept help from you?"
Her brown eyes clouded. "If he wants to be stubborn . . ."
"That's hardly the point, Francie. What really matters is how well you like Gusty."
"An . . . awfully lot, Pops, when he's nice, but—"
"Time will smooth off his rough edges, and when that day comes, Elspeth City may look pretty good to you. There are lots of glamorous youngsters trying to get a break in Hollywood, Francie. But I believe the ones who take their Gusty Gairs and settle down in their Elspeth Cities will be the happiest."
"But, Pops, if I'd make a hit and—"
John Weston hesitated, deep in thought. "Francie, I could, and perhaps should, forbid you to take any part in all this. But I won't. That would be making your decision too easy. My advice is to sleep on it and be ready for Gusty in the morning."
Francie went to her own room. She stood by the window watching the theater sign, now dark. Jerry Finney was like that—something that flashed brightly in her mind, then went out. Gusty Gair was an obtainable reality.
And Gusty had been so sweet to her all day. Even Jerry Finney couldn't have been more so. Suddenly she wanted to ride with Gusty tomorrow, ride into Hollywood by his side, with no guilty knowledge of a stolen ticket between them. Let Gusty have the glory. Why, hadn't he admitted that he was doing it for her?
When Francie crawled into bed she had made up her mind. She'd give Gusty the ticket and ask him to forgive her.

with a confidence in his own ability that gives him courage."

Says U. S. Could Produce 500,000 Pilots
LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 26 (AP)—Col. A. D. Tuttle, U. S. A., retired, declared in an interview here Tuesday the United States could have 500,000 military pilots, safe and efficient fliers, ready for service in a year.
"This nation's potential military strength is the greatest of any in the world," Colonel Tuttle declared. "If necessary we could have 250,000 first line and 250,000 reserve pilots ready in a year."
Former commandant of the Army School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, Texas, Colonel Tuttle is chief medical officer of United Air Lines.
Ease of obtaining an education and lack of regimentation in America were credited by the officer for the nation's potential air superiority.
As a consequence, he said, a young man "is turned out intelligent, reliable and resourceful, and

Bullock 4-H Club Is Outstanding

The Bullock 4-H club, sponsored by Mrs. Henry Wilson, has one of the most outstanding clubs in the county. The club has only eleven members, but all of these are completing their goals for the year. Last year the club was 100 per cent in having their goals completed.

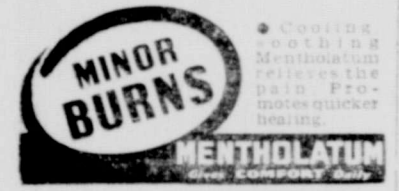

The club members have purchased club uniforms for the entire club membership and they wear them when they attend 4-H club meetings and activities.

There are some very outstanding demonstrations in the club. Lillian Adams, the club bedroom demonstrator, has a very attractive room, with her bed not only comfortable, but attractive. Bernice Hutton has made some very worthwhile improvements in her bedroom. Maxine Beck has made a most attractive bedroom out of a "one time junk room." The walls have been repapered and the bed refinished. A dressing table has been added and a closet made for the room. This not only gives Maxine a bedroom all her own, but adds another needed room to the home. Helen Demsey has made some outstanding improvements in her room. A well built wardrobe closet was made for her room, the furniture rearranged and a dressing table added to her room. New draperies and spread were added for attractiveness. All of the other girls of the club are doing such good work that their sponsor is justified in being very proud of her club girls.

The girls in the Bullock 4-H club are: Lillian Adams, Evelyn Bishop, Bernice Hutton, Lillian Ruth Suddeth, Virginia Lee Adams, Lena Mae Bishop, Norma Jean Howard, Ruth Tate, Maxine Beck, Helen Demsey and Geraldine Smith.

In New York City the longest day of the year, from sunrise to sunset, is 15 hours 9 minutes; the shortest is 9 hours 14 minutes.

Recent Bride Shower Honoree On Tuesday

With Mrs. Bruce Younger, Mrs. G. Pollard, Miss Olga Fay Ford and Miss Lela Latch as co-hostesses, a shower was given Tuesday afternoon in the Younger home, complimenting Mrs. John Leveridge, the former Miss Mary Bob Snoddy.

A pink and green scheme was affected in the floral motif, and refreshments carried out the same theme.

The guests were greeted by Mrs. Younger and Mrs. Leveridge, and served in the dining room by Mrs. Pollard and Miss Ford.

Pink zinnias and roses in green containers decorated the dining room. Cake topped with pink icing was served with green punch. Plate favors were tiny pink rice bags tied with green.

Games were directed by Miss Latch, and a treasure hunt was conducted with directions leading to the gifts given in rhyme. As the guests registered in the bride's book, they wrote a helpful household suggestion, which the honoree later read aloud.

The guest list included: Mmes. John Leveridge, B. T. Leveridge, Bill Clinton, Leo Clinton, R. C. Chapman, O. L. Stamey, R. W. Merket, Raymond Sprawls, L. C. Harlow, Jane Robinson, George Boyd, C. E. Hickman, E. H. Jones, C. J. Turner, Roy Camfield, Robert Snoddy and Misses Ethel Leveridge, Mayme Estes, Louise Jones, Betty Jones and Betty Ruth Barnhill.

Body of Russian Exile Aide Found

MEXICO CITY, June 26 (AP)—The body of Sheldon Harte, secretary-guard who disappeared May 24 with the band which tried to assassinate Russian exile Leon Trotsky, was found in a shallow grave in an abandoned farmhouse near here early Tuesday.

Trotsky again assailed statements of those accused in the crime that Harte was an accomplice of the machine gun band which raided Trotsky's house and married it with bullets. Trotsky escaped harm.

The bewhiskered Russian said Harte's body proves the falsity of such calumnies.

Harte, he said, was the eighth of his secretaries to have been assassinated or forced to suicide by agents of the OGPU, Russian secret police. He said this number did not include two daughters and two sons of Trotsky.

The body of Harte, son of a wealthy New Yorker, was identified by former associates in the

Premier Tells France Of New Order

LONDON, June 26 (AP)— Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, premier of subjugated France, told his people in a broadcast Tuesday night that under the terms of the armistice France's airplanes and fleet would come under the control of Germany and Italy.

Petaim, in the broadcast heard here, said the German advance had shown the Germans to be far better prepared and overwhelmingly superior in every department.

He said that in the second battle of the Aisne-Somme, sixty French divisions, without fortifications, faced a terrible force of 150 German divisions with motorized units.

This would be about 900,000 men pitted against 2,250,000.

Petaim said the government was facing a great work of reconstruction and that a new order would be built up now in France.

any possibility of an early European peace settlement.

Adolf Hitler set up a commission under General Henrich von Stuelpnagel to carry out the armistice terms while he preened his war machine for the battle of England.

Exultant Germans mingled their manifestations of jubilation over the French conquest with throaty renditions of the ancient German marching song—"We are sailing against England."

Mrs. K. N. Greer won the approaching contest. Next week novelty matches will be played.

and an invader "must pass our navy," a navy which is "strong enough to stop anything in sight now."

At the very least, Hoover said, "this ocean and our magnificent navy give time for sober preparation."

Relentlessly, Hoover castigated the new deal for "following the suicide road for liberty that led to disaster in Europe." He said the republican party, "must at once undertake several stern tasks:

"We must develop and maintain foreign policies that keep us out of these wars unless we are attacked. We should facilitate all nations fighting for their freedom in procuring materials and munitions, but subject to definite limitations which keep us out of war."

"We must recall our people from the flabbiness of the new deal. We must reestablish stamina, character and ideals. We must regenerate hope and confidence in America."
