Dies Hearing to Recess

Rep. Martin Dies relaxes between witnesses in the Austin, Texas, hotel room where he is conducting an investigation into un-American activities of foreign agents. Before the hearing recessed until after the democratic convention in Chicago, Dies issued subpoenas for all members of the Kyt-fhauser bund and its records. The presence of the bund was revealed earlier in the hearing.

Dies to Broaden Probe in Texas

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—Convinced his home state had spawned more subversive activity than he suspected, Rep. Martin Dies (D-Tex) Thursday announced that he would immediately broaden his investigation of unamericanism with aid of state police and other agencies.

French Are at War Most of the Time

BASEL, July 12 (AP)—Of the last years of France's history, 371 have been war years. A Swiss newspaper published the following table:
14th century—43 war years, including such battles as Courtrai, Crecy and Poitiers.
15th—71 war years, including Azincourt, Castillon, Montherie and Gringate.
16th—85 war years (33 civil wars and 27 big battles, including Pavia and St. Quentin).
17th—69 war years (17 civil wars, 29 major battles).
18th—58 war years (7 civil wars, 93 battles).
19th—45 war years (12 civil wars, 52 battles).
In the 20th century the French have already had the first World war, the Moroccan campaign, the second World war.

CISCO HOST TO CHRISTIAN STATE CONF.

Teacher Training Class, Vespers, Open to Public

The Rev. Clark W. Lambert of Hillsboro, former pastor of the Cisco First Christian church, will be host pastor when the second consecutive annual adult conference of the Christian churches in Texas assembles at Lake Cisco Monday, July 15, to continue through July 19.

The conference, which approximately 300 are expected to attend, will include classes in all phases of church and Sunday school work, directed by a staff of capable instructors.

Also on the program will be a daily vacation Bible school for children from beginners through junior ages. These classes will be held from 8 to 10 each morning.

A teacher training class, to be held each morning of the conference at the First Christian church, will be open to the public, as will vesper services each evening at the Cisco Country club.

An enthusiastic and inspirational conference is in prospect, and Ciscoans are cordially invited to attend the services.

Plane Contracts Since July 1 Total 100 Million

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Working toward a goal of 25,000 new warplanes in the next two years, the national defense commission announced that $100,000,000 worth of contracts had been awarded since July 1, when funds had been made available.

Officials said the fact that competitive bidding was not required had assisted in launching the program swiftly. The army and navy merely drew up specifications, found manufacturers capable of handling their orders, then let the contracts.

First plane deliveries are expected by early fall.

Dr. George J. Mead, aeronautical adviser to the committee, declared at a press conference today that representatives of the army and navy, aircraft manufacturing companies, the national advisory committee for aeronautics and the reconstruction finance corporation had met Tuesday and agreed on a program of air defense cooperation.

Steps Taken
The following steps were taken:
1. Army and navy representatives agreed to standardize their specifications and inspection work, hitherto carried on independently.
2. Representatives of the industry agreed to undertake quick expansion of their plants, to place immediate orders for necessary tools and materials and begin enlisting additional trained workers.
3. The reconstruction finance corporation agreed to make loans immediately available for this expansion.

4. The national advisory committee for aeronautics announced it had begun work on new research facilities at Langley Field, Va., and Sunnydale, Calif., to improve further the airplanes it already has created. This committee is the government's principal organization for research and design of airplanes.

Congress, meanwhile, completed work on the $4,000,000,000 naval expansion bill and sent it to the White House. This measure, authorizing a 70 per cent increase in the fleet, was passed by the senate Wednesday after an hour's debate and Thursday the house has-

Knox Takes Oath as Cabinet Member

FDR looks on for the second time in two days as a republican is sworn in as a member of his cabinet. This time it's Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, who is taking the oath of office of secretary of the navy before Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter.

Learning Grim Lessons

If Adolf Hitler hadn't written his design for conquest, "Mein Kampf" Harry R. Luitan would not have been among civilian volunteers who hastened to get army training at the C. M. I. C. camps. He's pictured reading Hitler's best-seller, while a pair of comrades look on at Plattsburg, N. Y., training camp.

Knox Takes Over As Navy Secretary

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Col. Frank Knox took the oath of office as secretary of the navy at the White House Thursday and left immediately for his department to take over.

His comment to reporters was "this is a working job—not a talking job."

At the same time Henry L. Stimson, like Knox a republican, went to work as secretary of war for the second time in nearly 30 years. Stimson took his oath Wednesday.

Produces Large Ear Of Texas Sweet Corn

John W. Bailey was in the Press office recently, displaying an ear of Texas Honeydew sweet corn, weighing one pound, 2 1-2 ounces, which he had raised at his home in the Mancill addition, on Liggett avenue.

The ear, taken from a stalk seven feet high, contained 24 perfect rows of kernels. Mr. Bailey stated that he had gathered many ears as nearly perfect, but none so large.

3,000 to Be Added to First Cavalry

FORT SAM HOUSTON, July 12 (AP)—The war department has directed that the historic First Cavalry division be strengthened by the addition of three thousand new men at the earliest possible date.

The present strength of the division is approximately six thousand officers and men. It includes the 5th, 7th, 8th and 12th cavalry regiments, the 32nd field artillery, an armored car troop, and a large complement of signal, medical, quartermaster and ordnance troops.

The division is scattered along some six hundred miles of the Mexican border from El Paso to Brownsville, Texas. From the division commander, Major General Kenyon Joyce, to the newest trooper, the men of this division are hard, fit and keen. Many consider this division to be the best field service unit in the United States army.

While there are a number of motorized elements, there are still plenty of horses for the young soldiers who wish to ride. As proof of the type of men who compose this division, its members point with pride to Lew Jenkins, the lightweight champion of the world, who until 1936 was a member of the cavalry stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas.

Young men who want to do some real soldiering are invited to see Patrick Rasselby, the U. S. army recruiting representative at Eastland, Texas.

No Preaching at Sunday Morning Hour

There will be no preaching service at the morning hour at the First Methodist church next Sunday, it was announced today. The pastor, the Rev. Joe L. Patterson, is on vacation.

The congregation will join in the union service at the evening hour as usual.

On July 21 the Rev. F. L. Wilshire of DeLeon will preach at the morning hour and on the following Sunday the Rev. Stanley Williams of Carbon will preach.

RR Express Agent Reported Resting

M. E. Robertson, local agent of the railway express, is convalescing at Graham sanitarium after a recent major operation. His condition is reported favorable. R. V. McGlaun of Monroe, Louisiana, is acting relief agent for Mr. Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ford of Sweetwater visited Cisco relatives Thursday.

KING GEORGE MISSES DEATH BUT NARROWLY

British Claim 22 Raiders Are Shot Down During Day

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—King George of England escaped death by only a few minutes in a German bombing raid at an undisclosed time and place in southern England, it was disclosed today after a day and night of constant nazi air attacks which took a heavy uncounted number of lives.

Where the king was visiting when the bombers roared over was not disclosed "for reasons of security" but it was indicated that he left the scene of heavy bombing only a matter of minutes before the raiders struck.

Also "security" reasons the government did not disclose the number of casualties across England, but in after dusk renewal of the pounding of southern England alone, 14 were killed and 47 including two French sailors, were wounded.

Altogether the British claimed 22 raiders shot down, 13 of them bombers, and "many more seriously damaged."

Bags Eight Planes
The late night communique said one squadron of Hurricanes alone bagged eight German planes and indicated that in the final count the raiders' losses might be well above 22.

But uncounted other big bombers and their speedy swarm of escort fighters sliced through machine-gunning city streets and splintering homes with heavy explosives.

Whole towns shook with the force of the biggest blasts. In one southeastern town eight heavy bombs smashed into a residential section.

In the northeast single communicantes had as many as 30 or 40 dwellings wrecked.

But the late day and after-dark attackers were concentrated largely on the southeast coast—nearest defense line to nazi captured take-off points for invasion of England.

The lifting of two French sailors among the wounded was "taken as a possible indication that harbor facilities or shipping in British ports bore part of the brunt of the attack."

A British announcement said the day raids could be split into two main actions, both fought over different parts of the south coast. The first lasted three hours, "before lunch," in which 12 German planes were brought down. The second, in the afternoon, scattered into a succession of dog-fights. One patrol of Hurricanes smashed into a German fighter escort and downed one light plane and three guarded bombers.

Lose Four Planes
The British acknowledged the loss of four planes.

Residents of a southeast coast town heard the far-off thunder of exploding bombs and anti-aircraft fire from the direction of Boulogne, France, across the narrow

PALM MYSTERY

● SERIAL STORY PEACE--SHE'S WONDERFUL BY ISABEL WAITT

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PEACE WARREN—a 6-year-old traveler en route from Boston to Los Angeles.
WAYNE DENNIS—agreed to deliver Peace safely—a larger order than he expected.
RHODA LOWELL—Wayne's fiancée, thinks Peace a nuisance. Doesn't like crossing the country to get married, either.
CAROL LOVE—a movie star.
DARBY and JOAN—Peace's pet turtles.

YESTERDAY: Bertard wires Rhoda to postpone her wedding. Dennis is mildly angry. The train stops abruptly in the desert. Ogden leaves. Peace is left behind and Carole jumps from the moving train. Denny watches, helplessly, as they disappear in the distance.

CHAPTER X
DENNY struggled to the rail to leap from the speeding train, but other passengers held him back.
 "Don't be a fool! They'll be all right. You'd be killed."
 "Caleb—Mr. Ogden will pick them up in his car," called Mrs. King, from the rear. "Unless, of course, a coyote or a rattlesnake."
 "They'll be all right," the conductor reiterated. "Shuck right near the track. See it? Your runaway must have been in it or we'd have seen her. Darned lucky the young lady didn't hurt herself, jumping off my train." Indignation emanated from him.
 Carole, Denny realized, had risked her life. A fine person he was to be entrusted with the care of a child.
 "I can't stand it!" Rhoda blazed. "This is the end, Wayne Dennis."
 "Shut up, will you?" Denny grabbed the conductor's arm. "When do we stop? Can I get a car or—it'll be getting dark—"

"Where are we, anyway? In Arizona?"
 "There are wolves after dark!" a woman piped up. "And gila monsters. Oh I'm going to faint!"
 The conductor drew Denny away from the pack. Denny could get off at the first station. He could get a car, or, possibly wire Winflow for a plane. Sure, there'd be time before dark. Daylight lasted in Arizona. More than likely this Mr. Ogden would have seen the whole business, and would pick up Carole and Peace and bring them to the very same station, before Denny had made his arrangements. Nothing to worry about, but that train couldn't be delayed another minute. He was sorry. They were about a hundred miles from Winflow.
 Mrs. King stood at Denny's elbow, wiping her eyes. "I wish I'd never given Caleb $500 for that option on his old oil well."
 "Five hundred dollars, madam? So that's it?" The conductor sighed as if the limited meant the weight of the world. "Better let Mr. Dennis telegraph your bank to stop payment."
 "B-b-b-but I gave him cash."
 "We'll do something after I find Peace," Denny told her.
 And this was the woman who'd put the police on his trail. And she was going to watch out for Carole. Sucker! In his misery Denny almost pitied her.

In a few minutes the train slowed down at a cluster of 'dobe' shacks. Could that be a station? And a battered roadster beside it! "Good luck!" called several passengers.
 "Pick you up en route, if you get a plane," the conductor said.
 "If we don't, wait for me in Los Angeles," Denny instructed Rhoda. "Cocoanut Grove!" It was the only place he could think of at the moment, since their previous plans had been to go on at once to La Jolla. Rhoda would have to look out for herself. His anxiety was so great he forgot to kiss her goodbye.

 A wan young station agent greeted him as he hopped off. "Jumpin' bullfrogs—a passenger?"
 Denny had explained the predicament before the train was under way. "Can I take your car?"
 "Sure, buddy. Only poor Liz has a flat. Patch her up in a jiffy."
 "What would you do," Denny put it up to him, "if you had two girls lost in the desert and one on the limited?"
 The agent scratched his rumpled head. "Me? I'd telegraph for a plane. Car couldn't catch the train, even without a flat. Then I'd pick up the lost girls and get 'em safely aboard the train at first possible station, and head for Mexico by my lonesome."
 Denny heard the click of the instrument, while he watched a group of barefoot, half-naked Mexican children playing in the sand.
 The station agent accepted a cigaret. "Be here before you can say Jack Robinson. Hope your folks stick to the tracks and don't try to wander off. Not much twilight here in Arizona. Old sun smears itself all over the sky and plops out of sight. Lots of time before dark, though."

 The dark! Denny smothered a rising fear.
 "Golly, anyone would think they'd been lost two days instead of a half hour. There's coffee in my thermos. Drink it, buddy."
 Denny drank it, walking out doors to scan the road for a possible glimpse of Ogden's car. He must have gone the other way. You could see miles, but not far enough to see the spot where Carole and Peace—What were they doing?
 It seemed years before he heard the droning of the plane. Already the sun had splashed sunset gold across the sky. The light still held, and the afterglow would follow briefly. A little crowd gathered from nowhere to watch the plane land.
 "Goodby, buddy!" The agent waved away Denny's bill. "Good luck, and when you find 'em, take my advice and beat it to Mexico. Three girls—no harems for me."

 Denny climbed into the plane.
 "Follow the track east. There's nothing near the spot but a tumble-down shack, but it's before you get to Gallup." The pilot knew his business and every inch of the country.
 Denny felt comforted, if only the sky didn't fall in. Upward they soared, over a vast expanse of sand, mountain rimmed in the distance. The plane was sailing smoothly.
 "That it?" It couldn't be possible! They had only been a few minutes in the air, yet there was the ribbon of a road where the dot of a car had been, toward which Denny had seen Ogden run. Only no Carole was in sight, waving, as she should have been.
 "Looks like it, only where are they?" Gone with that Texan? And if so, where? "Let's land and investigate."

THE pilot sat the plane down like a baby, and the two men headed for the shack.
 "Look! They've been here," Denny said. "See those tracks?" He pointed to the impression made by small high heels, and those of a child's shoe. "Peace! Carole!"
 They pushed open the door and Watches along the British coast said they saw the distant glow of one big fire after the sound of the bombing. They observed that the Germans used did not appear this time, and might have been put out of action.

Enemy Reads Press Tonight, Alfred Duff Cooper, the minister of information, said in a radio speech that "some people are disappointed that fuller accounts are not given in the press as to where the bombs have fallen and how many people were hurt."

"But," he added, "unfortunately the enemy reads our press; the enemy listens to our broadcasts and nothing that is printed or said escapes the eyes and ears of the enemy."

The damage done in the widespread Nazi air attacks was not estimated in the aggregate. In the northeast area alone, however, it was reported three bombs which killed several persons made some 30 to 40 houses uninhabitable.

In another town an inn was cut in half and a number of workmen's homes were smashed by bombs which apparently had been intended for an objective nearby. The night raid in the southeast employed about 20 German planes, but it was said they were kept
