FUNERAL FOR GEO. D. FEE AT 4 TODAY

Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon for George D. Fee, 76, retired Cisco merchant, whose death occurred Friday night at 11 o'clock while en route to Dallas. Death occurred at Grand Prairie as he was being rushed to a Dallas specialist. He had been fatally stricken Thursday evening.

Services will be held at the First Methodist church, of which he was a member, with burial in Oakwood cemetery. Dr. Gary L. Smith, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate, and Green Funeral home is in charge of arrangements for burial in Oakwood.

Active pall bearers will be J. T. Berry, Oscar Clett, Alex Spears, Homer Bible, Dr. V. E. Grantham, Bob Weddington, William Reagan, Dr. Chas. Hale and Jewel Poe. All friends of the family will be recognized as honorary pall bearers.

The body will lie in state at the residence at 700 West Sixth street until the hour for the funeral.

Mr. Fee is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Addie Fee Ketelsen and Mrs. Mary Wender of Houston; one son, Frank, of Andrews, Texas; and two grandchildren, Kay Ketelsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ketelsen, and George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fee. One brother, C. H. Fee, of Cisco, also survives.

A Mississippian

Born on September 12, 1864, at Oxford, Miss., Mr. Fee was 76 years and 10 months of age at the time of his death. He came to Texas in 1890, coming directly to Cisco, where on April 14, 1897, he married Miss Belle Crawford.

He engaged in the dry goods business with marked success, continuing in that business until his retirement a number of years ago. Since retiring from active business, Mr. Fee served his community as a member of the city commission for two years.

Of an unassuming nature, Mr. Fee nevertheless took active part in community affairs, but his activities during the last few years were restricted by the effects of poor health and lately he had practically confined himself to his home for this reason.

BRITAIN ADDS 300,000 TO HOME DEFENSE

Total Summoned Now 3,300,000 to Meet Invasion

LONDON, July 13 (P)—Britain's new, highly-g geared mobilization program, which has been putting 7,000 men a day into khaki, was extended Saturday to include 32-year-olds as the nation dipped deeper into its reserves of manpower to meet the threat of invasion.

Approximately 300,000 men were called to register before nightfall in response to the latest call to the colors, bringing the total summoned to date to more than 3,300,000.

Lending urgency to the mobilization speedup was the growing activity of Germany's bombing squadrons, which soared across the channel again during the night to rain explosives on Southwest England, Wales and Scotland.

Renewed Attacks

Renewed German sorties came Saturday. The air ministry announced that an "enemy" bomber was shot down in the English channel by British fighter planes, and a raider was chased away over a Northeast England town.

The ministry had announced earlier that 11 of the Nazi raiders were shot from the skies in the preceding 24 hours. The new German loss brought the week's "bag" to 73 and the total shot down, since the first daily widespread raids on England June 18, to 110. Two British planes were reported missing in the last phase of the war in the air.

10 Are Killed

At least 10 persons were killed in Scotland during extensive raids Friday, but no announcement was made concerning the casualties resulting from last night's attacks. The air ministry said that damage in southern England and Wales was slight and casualties apparently were few.

British authorities, summing up the results of daily German air raids during the past week, said that Nazi attempts to blockade Britain by air attacks on ports and shipping had so far failed.

Damage inflicted on shipping was described as small, while the Germans were estimated to have lost more than $4,000,000 worth of aircraft in the last seven days.

The British air force, meanwhile, was reported continuing its assaults on German munitions work, airdromes and other objectives. The air ministry announced Friday night the loss of three planes in the latest of these raids.

Putnam Expects Ship 20 Carloads of Wheat

PUTNAM, July 13 (Sp).—Combining and threshing is in full blast and wheat coming in at a rapid rate. There had been shipped from Putnam to Saturday night ten cars. Two or three more on the track loading. Mr. Davis states that he thinks the town will ship twenty or more cars before the season is over. Very few oats threshed and none being offered for sale. The price being paid for wheat Saturday was 61 cents bushel for the nice dry clean wheat weighing 59 pounds or better. Wheat is testing from 55 to about 63 pounds per bushel.

Health Officer Urges Citizens Fight Pests

An appeal to the citizens to cooperate in keeping Cisco free of mosquitoes was issued Saturday by Dr. W. P. Lee, city health officer. He urged:

"In accordance with a request from the city commission, I again urge the citizens to help keep our town free of flies and mosquitoes. Without stagnant water, there will be no mosquitoes. The wigglers that hatch into mosquitoes live in stagnant water, and the mosquitoes never roam far from where they hatch.

"During the day they harbor in grass and weeds, coming out for food in the cool of the evening.

"Flies breed in manure, garbage, decaying matter and other filth. If you are annoyed by these pests, look for the cause and remove it.

"Search your premises and those of your neighbors, for the cause is not far away.

"To eliminate mosquitoes, empty all receptacles that can hold even a little water. If the water cannot be emptied, pour a little oil on it. Cut the weeds and tall grass in which they hide.

"To eliminate flies, keep the premises free of manure and decaying matter and see that garbage cans are covered.

"If we will all do these things, we will be able to enjoy our lawns and porches without being annoyed by these pests."

Old People to Meet Saturday, July 30

J. M. Taylor, ex-chairman of the old people of the county, has called a meeting of the old people of Eastland county to be held at the county court room in Eastland Saturday afternoon, July 30, at 3:30 for the purpose of electing a county chairman.

"The election of a county chairman and the discussion of the men we think will serve our interests in public office will be the principal business," said Mr. Taylor. "We cordially invite the young people and middle aged people to attend this session. There will be a welcome for all. If time permits, county candidates will be given an opportunity to talk after the completion of the business program."

$440 Invested in Goats Returns $13,800 Gross

A gross income of more than $13,800 from an original investment of only $440 in goats is the experience of one Cisco rancher who loves blooded Hereford cattle but conceded that goat and sheep raising means more profits.

The goats, Angora mohair, were bought in the depth of the depression in 1932 at only 50 cents per head, and the profits realized from the clip and the sale of the animals was phenomenal, but even had the highest price of $5 per head been paid for the original herd, the profit still would have been in excess of 200 per cent.

Such an experience cannot be waved aside, says this rancher, who proved the value of this livestock to this country by his experience with it and who did not continue with the herd he bought only because he could not at the time protect it from dogs and coyotes and was forced to sell off the animals.

Here is his experience: In February, 1932, he purchased 800 goats at 50 cents per head. It cost him five cents per head to get the goats in his pasture, making a total investment of $440.

In April he sheared, the clip averaging three pounds per goat. He held the clip and in September sheared a similar average, making a total of 4,800 pounds of hair, which he sold at 22 cents for $1,056. (These figures are all approximate and do not take into consideration the herd increase, most of which was lost through depredations of dogs.)

In April and September, 1933, he sheared two clips for averages of three pounds, selling the 4,800 pounds in the fall for 46 cents, or $2,100. The same thing happened in 1934 and in the fall the 4,800-pound clip was sold for 63 cents, or $3,024.

In 1935 after the April clip, the

ACID WILL BE RUN MONDAY; CHANCES GOOD

73 Feet of Saturation Responds Well to Lab Tests

If the McElreath No. 1 of Groover and Rose and Jones and Stasney, Caddo wildcat four miles south by west of Cisco, proves up to expectations based on the normal behavior of Caddo lime showings to acidization, it will open up to oil development a territory south of Cisco as great or greater than the old Pioneer field. Four thousand gallons of acid will be pumped into the well Monday. It will treat a saturated formation of 73 feet, already estimated to produce naturally from 20 to 25 barrels daily.

This saturated lime, which has responded satisfactorily to laboratory test for solubility and oil content, was topped at 2962 feet. Six inch casing has been cemented and big pipe was being pulled Saturday in preparation for acidization Monday.

If the McElreath responds to this acid in the same proportion as did the Dobbs well at Carbon—which, with a "natural" of 10 or 15 barrels, acidized for 254 barrels—the McElreath will be good for 300 barrels or better, operators said Saturday. They also pointed to the experience of the Hickok Producing and Developing company north of Cisco, which acidized its Cleveland No. 4, which had only a show, and made a well of 150 barrels or more. This well is still producing more than 20 barrels a day.

While future performance of the McElreath at the present stage can be only conjectured, oil men, keenly interested in the operation, insist that there is good basis for an optimistic "prognosis."

They insist, for example that the information is sufficiently heavy and extensive for prolific production if the acid treatment proves successful. The McElreath is a mile west by north of a well drilled 15 years ago by Reeves and Meredith which got a 10-barrel showing in the same formation. Thus it is claimed that the district looks good for a radius of at least a mile about the McElreath. This would give the prospective pool a diagonal of two miles at the minimum.

As a matter of fact, operators are of the opinion that the new area is much larger in extent and that the McElreath is off the "high." On the "high," it is declared, natural wells of several hundred barrels daily are probable. That is, of course, if the predictions for successful acidization of the McElreath prove correct.

Mexico Chooses

MEXICO votes, and several scores of people lie dead and wounded.

"Shocking!" say the thin-skinned, conveniently forgetting the 10 dead and 100 wounded who lay on the ground in Chicago on Memorial Day, 1937, when the United States also had failed to adjust a controversy without violence.

It is not to be denied that the Mexican election was a violent and rowdy affair, falling far short of textbook democracy. The votes are yet to be counted. It remains to be seen whether the candidates and their followers will abide by the announced result. Probably until September there will be more or less disorder in the southern republic.

BUT initial shock at this rough-and-tumble election ought not to blind us to something very significant.

That is the fact that nearly five million people are believed to have voted. No such widespread expression of the popular will has been seen in Mexico for many years. Whether that is now to be translated into an orderly change of administration remains to be seen. But there seems now an excellent chance of it.

SO President Cardenas deliberately permitted not only greater latitude in campaigning than an opposing party has had in Mexico in 20 years, but deliberately held back military domination of the election, though it was clear that there would be considerable disorder.

Remains now to be seen whether the defeated candidate will abide by the announced decision. Already there are charges that the election, for one reason and another, was not fairly conducted. There have been such charges, and with excellent reason, even in Kansas City and Philadelphia.

When the count is completed, the test will come. It is not only necessary to have elections. It is necessary that they be fair, and that the defeated as well as the victors abide by the result.

If Mexico can achieve this, the whole western world will have reason to be proud. From Hudson Bay to Patagonia millions of eyes are on Mexico, and in them are mingled anxiety and hope.

What It Means:

Revival Of The Monroe Doctrine

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Behind the Monroe doctrine headlines you've been reading is a deliberate battle of wits between Washington and Berlin—with Washington on the offensive.

The primary aim in Washington is to bring strikingly to the attention of the American public—both above and below the Rio Grande—the original Monroe doctrine and its championship of independence for the nations of the Western hemisphere as well as its warning to European powers to keep off.

In effect it is a curtain raiser for the meeting in Havana late in July of the 21 American republics. It might even portend a mutual Monroe doctrine for the hemisphere to supplement the purely United States doctrine pronounced by Monroe in 1823.

American state department officials have been itching for some time to get the Monroe doctrine on page one, so to speak, in the same breath with the strange talk dispose of her possessions as she sees fit.

So the state department got busy. A round-robin note went to France, England, Germany and Italy. Those nations were flatly advised that the United States would not recognize any transfers of possessions in this hemisphere, nor acquiesce in them. The Monroe doctrine was not mentioned.

It was implied, however, that the incident at Martinique where French and British warships are playing hide and seek, is just as much in focus as, say, French Guiana.

That note was delivered in Berlin on June 18. On July 1, Berlin struck at the bait. It was Berlin that brought up the Monroe doctrine.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister said the Monroe doctrine interpretation "implicit" in the American note would amount to conferring on some European states the right to possess territories on this side of the Atlantic, but not others.

Says Mr. Hull:

That was what the state department was waiting for, Secretary Hull did not even reply to the German note. Instead, through his regular press conference he addressed himself to the American public in the United States and of Monroe doctrines in Europe and Asia, and to show them in contrast with each other.

These officials have been ready to leap at a chance to prove Uncle Sam is on the level and devoid of all desire to set up any puppet regimes in this hemisphere.

Almost, But Not Quite

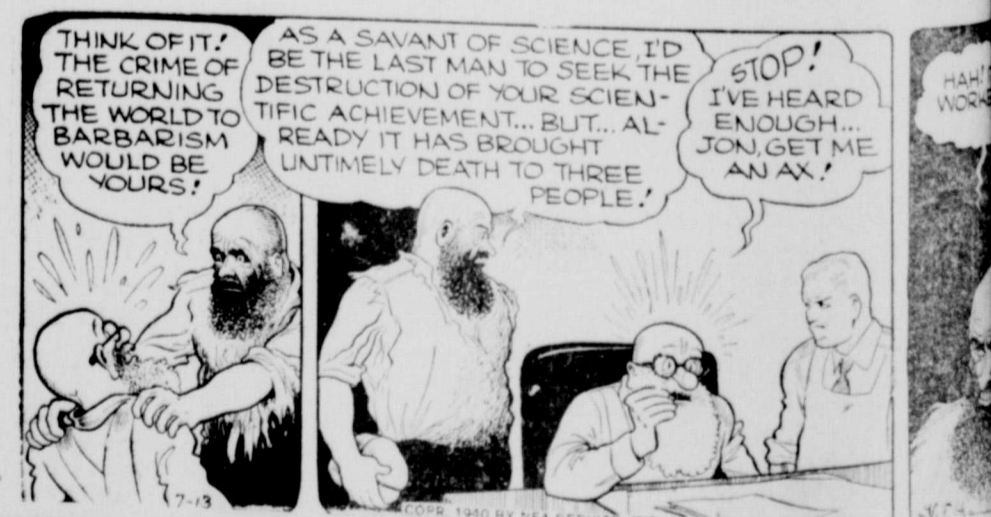

The conquest of Holland almost gave them the opening they were waiting for, but not quite. For the sovereignty of Holland is obscure, her possessions in this hemisphere small.

The conquest of France was a different story, a perfect example. For officially at any rate, France retains her independence, even though a conquered power, and therefore has the right to keep or

Safety Shorts

From
Oil Belt Safety Council

Are you starting soon on your vacation? Are you going up to the lake this week-end for an outing? If so, you probably will be doing some boating, and the Oil

Belt Safety Council offers these safety suggestions for sailors:

1. Be sure you know how to handle your boat before venturing out.
2. Never jump into boats, nor step into them with your arms full.
3. Avoid loading a boat so heavily that it lies low in the water and is easily swamped.
4. Don't stand up in a boat. Sit calmly and don't rock. Never change seats.

5. Don't try to pull anyone from the water over the side of a boat. Pull them in over the end, or tow them to shore.

6. Stay close to shore in small boats, so you can reach shelter quickly if a storm blows up.

7. If you upset, stay with your boat. It will float, even when overturned. Hang on to it until rescuers reach you.

8. Remember that you are perfectly safe in a good boat as long as you keep your head and follow these few simple rules.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

SET OF HEADACHES CHIEF CROP SO FAR IN PROGRAM FOR TRAINING DEFENSE WORKERS

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A fine set of headaches is the principal crop, to date, in the program for training skilled workers for the defense program.

A good start has been made, but the big task of unifying the whole program remains to be done.

Part of the trouble comes from the number of agencies which are drawing cards in the game—WPA, the National Youth Administration, the CCC and the Office of Education, all under the general direction of Sidney Hillman of the National Defense Advisory Committee.

More basic, however, is the charge—made inside the administration—that the program calls for hard-boiled "totalitarian planning," which it has not yet been given.

NO AGREEMENT ON LABOR SHORTAGE

THERE is not yet any agreement on the extent, if any, of the supposed bottleneck in production caused by a shortage of skilled labor.

The Labor Department's figures show that there just isn't such a shortage. Organized labor so far has been bitterly opposed to the idea of creating a huge new reservoir of skilled labor, fearing that this would ultimately be used to break the unions. Yet some of the leaders in the training program argue that the unemployment statistics fail utterly to present a true picture of the situation. They put it like this: the figures may show half a million machinists as unemployed. Yet these half million may not by any means be the sort of workers whom a factory personnel manager would class as skilled machinists; of the lot, a third or a fifth might be ready to step into machinists' jobs, while the balance might have the wrong kind of skill, or need "refresher" training, or in other ways be unadapted to the needs of the situation.

SUPPLY NOT YET GEARED TO NEEDS

ANOTHER criticism made by people who are on the inside of the program is that national needs have not yet been balanced against national supply.

For instance: a given city may have the facilities to train 500 new welders (to pick a trade at random). But in that city there may be no demand for any additional welders; the demand may exist 1000 miles away in some city which lacks the training facilities—and the program won't click until the one city's facilities are fitted into a program which takes account of the other city's needs.

SUBSIDIZED APPRENTICE PLAN NEEDED

LOOK, also, for a new departure—a system of government subsidies to provide for the training of large batches of apprentices in the factories.

NYA and CCC can give a certain amount of training with the facilities they have available. The Office of Education can provide still more, through the technical schools of the nation. But one current estimate is that altogether, only about a third of the total needed can be provided for in this way. The subsidized apprentice system is expected to be the way out.

Peace 'Ch...

Latin America. Others could listen, of course. Said Secretary Hull:

"The Monroe doctrine is solely a policy of self-defense which is intended to preserve the independence and integrity of the Americans. It was, and is, designed to prevent aggression in this hemisphere on the part of any non-American power. . . .

"It never has resembled and it does not today resemble policies which appear to be arising in other geographical areas of the world, which are alleged to be similar to the Monroe doctrine, but which would in reality seem to be only the pretext for the carrying out of conquest by the sword."

That gave the president an opening to carry the whole theme a step further two days later. Through Secretary Steve Early he suggested to Japan and Germany, in effect, that they apply the principles of a true Monroe doctrine to the problems of their continents, that each nation be allowed its own voice in continental settlements.

There might be the germ of the mutual Monroe doctrine.

The net result of all this from the American government point of view is first to get the original Monroe doctrine before all the republics of this hemisphere, not as a dead document, but as a live instrument of the United States, as vital today as it was in 1823. It is OUR policy, not the collective policy of the American nations. It recognizes the freedom of the American nation to handle their own affairs, and warns off foreign systems, EXCEPT for those areas where European states already held sway, such as Canada, and the Guianas. That, and nothing more.

Texas Had Refuge Problem of Its Own in 1936. Memoirs Reveal

AUSTIN, July 12.—You can't find any old-timers who'll remember it, but Texas—little more than a century ago—had its own small-scale version of the war-refugee horror Europe is now experiencing.

Historians refer to it as the "Runaway Scrape," a pell-mell flight of Texas settlers that began in early March, 1836, with the Alamo's fall, and didn't stop until Houston's retreating army—barely a day's march behind the refugees—turned and defeated Santa Anna at San Jacinto in late April.

For a graphic description of the mass evacuation, turn with University of Texas-librarians to the memoirs of Mrs. Dilue Harris, preserved in the library's Texas collection—the most extensive source of Texas history-in-the-making in existence.

Then eleven years old, Mrs. Harris wrote of this wholesale evacuation as she remembered it. She recalled that her family hid their furniture in a hollow near their home, got their movable things into a cart and then set out for the San Jacinto river, driving oxen with them.

New Light Fixture Manufactured Here

Another industry for Cisco was started this week when the Chrombar Fluorescent Lighting Fixture company started production on its new ultra modern lighting fixtures.

This streamlined fixture was designed to give the present boom toward fluorescent lighting for office, stores and residences, a sturdy, efficient lighting piece whose lines will last as long as streamlighting is the vogue.

The fixture was designed by Samuel House of Abilene and Cisco, and Edgar Noell of this city. Reynolds Manufacturing company is manufacturing it for the Chrombar company, composed of Chas. Sandler and Edgar Noell.

One building is already lighted by this new lighting—Hamp's cafe on East Eighth street. Mr. Hampton said the fixtures were far superior to anything else he had seen and after a month of constant use that he would not be without them at twice the price he paid.

who had fought in the War of 1812, recognized the sound of cannon. The rumbling was very brief, so brief that he assumed that the Texans had been quickly overwhelmed.

Again the family fled eastward. A few miles out of Liberty, however, a courier overtook them with the news of the Texan victory at San Jacinto, which made it possible for them to return to their homes.

The return trip was less hazardous than the flight, for the rainy season seems to have passed. On the afternoon of April 26, they crossed the battlefield of San Jacinto, where the Texan and Mexican armies were still encamped.

"The dead Mexicans were lying around in every direction," Mrs. Harris wrote. And in leaving, she remembered, "we had to pass among the dead Mexicans, and father pulled one out of the road, so we could get by without driving over the body, since we could not go around it."

In September of the same year, Mrs. Harris attended the convention which elected Houston president of the Republic of Texas. It was her last, for "after that there was too much whisky drunk for ladies to be present," she wrote.

cy, even though that policy is actually no part of the original Monroe doctrine. It has set some insiders in Washington to talking about a mutual Monroe doctrine, a policy adopted by all the American nations, as expressed in the recent declarations of Montevideo, Buenos Aires, Lima and Panama -- all expressions of hemisphere unity and providing a common defense.

These insiders can cite you evidence that a mutual Monroe doctrine may already be in the making. They can show you how the declarations provide that any one nation can call the rest of the nations together for consultation in case of trouble.

They show you the economic and financial advisory committee already set up to plan economic resistance against foreign systems.

Red Cross Head Explains Policy of Organization

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13 (Spc).—Chairman Norman H. Davis, in answer to various inquiries as to the present policy and activities of the American Red Cross in respect to European relief, today issued the following:

"It is the policy of the American Red Cross to extend relief where it is most urgently needed, providing it has the necessary freedom of action and safeguards for carrying out the distribution of its supplies to the actual victims, whether refugees or war-wounded soldiers.

"At present there are three distinct areas where such need exists and where assistance has been requested: First, Great Britain; second, the unoccupied portion of France; and third, those territories under German occupation.

"With regard to the first we have set up an American Red Cross committee in England and are sending medical and hospital equipment, clothing and other supplies, including food, as rapidly as tonnage is available.

"With regard to the unoccupied portion of France the S. S. McKeesport, loaded with all sorts of supplies and enjoying safe conduct from the British blockade authorities, is now headed for Marseilles, where its cargo will be distributed to the millions of refugees and war-wounded in southern France under the direction of the American Red Cross representatives. In addition, a trainload of children's food is now en route to the same region from Geneva, Switzerland.

Aid to Poland "With regard to the third area, namely occupied territory, we have been extending aid in Poland with funds contributed for that specific purpose. This program is under American Red Cross supervision, thus safeguarding control over the ultimate destination of supplies. As for other occupied territories, aid to the sick and wounded and to refugees, particularly children, is being continued only in Paris and vicinity under the direction of Wayne Clatfield Taylor, American Red Cross delegate working in cooperation with the American hospital and French Red Cross.

"Beyond this limited activity the American Red Cross is not extending any relief in the occupied portions of France. There are certain questions of policy and inherent difficulties such as blockade of transportation, delivery and control of distribution which at the present time are most difficult of solution. The needs for relief which are daily increasing in the areas where we are now operate and in which we may operate in the future will require continued large outlays.

"In this connection I want to point out that none of the supplies of the Red Cross have been interfered with by any government, or diverted from the needy (Continued on Page Five)

SERIAL STORY PEACE—SHE'S WONDERFUL BY ISABEL WAITT

CAST OF CHARACTERS
PEACE WARREN—a 6-year-old traveler en route from Boston to Los Angeles.
WAYNE DENNIS — agreed to deliver Peace safely—a larger order than he expected.
RHODA LOWELL — Wayne's fiancée, thinks Peace a nuisance. Doesn't like crossing the country to get married, either.
CAROL LOVE—a movie star.
DARBY and JOAN—Peace's pet turtles.

YESTERDAY: Denny leaves the train, gets a plane. Flies back to hunt Peace and Carol. He finds them, hiding near the track. Peace keeps accusing Ogden of stealing Joan. "And that's not all he stole," Carol adds.

CHAPTER XI
BUT that could come later. Just now the one idea was to catch the train. It waited 20 minutes at Winslow. Missing it, they would keep on to Flagstaff, the pilot said.

"Rhoda and Mrs. King must be having kittens," Carol said, as they sailed away into the glory of the sky.

Denny heaved a great sigh. "Nothing matters now. Peace's grandmother won't have to be told anything to worry her. I'm thankful the Warrens won't know, at any rate, until it's past history. What I don't see is why you—What did you mean about Ogden's stealing?" He gripped Carol's hand. "Did he take something from you?"

The pilot was pointing downward to the little station where Denny had telegraphed. Ant-like creatures were waving at them.

"Carole, you brave girl! Nothing I can say ever will tell you how grateful I am to you—leaping off the train like that to help my little girl. You might have been killed!" His voice grew husky, and for a moment their eyes clung. "Peace, what made you do it? Run away from Mrs. King?"

"Don't scold her," Carole begged. "She's been through a lot."

Denny chuckled. "Well, youngster, you've redeemed yourself. But I still don't see why, if you had your pesky pet, you had to let go Mrs. King's hand when I'd told you to stay right there."

"Hunting for Joan. Peace didn't know she was in the cornpopper."

"Mr. Hogden said she fell out the window. I went to look. I told the conductor Joan's lost, but he said 'Johnny who?' Peace reminded him. 'I told Mrs. King too, but she just kept crying.'"

"You do? I don't wonder—the usual sort: 'MOVIE ACTRESS ROBBED OF $50,000 NECKLACE.' But this is different. This is heroism. 'CAROLE LOVE LEAPS FROM TRAIN TO RESCUE CHILD LEFT ALONE IN THE DESERT.' Why, the public will eat it up. Witnesses will prove it wasn't faked. You'll make every front page in the country."

"Oh, dear," Carole sighed. "I suppose I will. But I'll bet you a trip to Catalina I won't get the credit."

"What do you mean? Peace saved the money for Mrs. King, but she's just a child. That was nothing to risking your life the way you did."

"I don't mean Peace." "Who else then? You surely don't think I'd claim to be a hero! If ever I felt like a helpless nincompoop it was when I let that train carry me farther and farther away from you two. I'd have jumped, too, believe me, if they hadn't held me."

Carole laughed. "That would have been a help — you with a broken leg or neck, or both?"

And there was Hollywood, waiting for its star. The stars in the sky began to twinkle, and below an occasional cluster of dotted lights proclaimed a town.

Denny sighed. "Anyway, Carole, —how naturally it came to him to call her by her first name—'you'll get a lot of good out of this.'"

She looked up at him. "What more could I want? With her safe, and—and this unforgettable ride with you?"

"Bless her! 'But the publicity. Movie stars thrive on it, don't they?'"

"I hate it," Carole replied quietly.

"The pilot broke in upon them: 'Here we are! We've made it. This is Winslow. A car will be waiting. They won't even have to hold the train.' He set them down safely. 'You folks were lucky.' 'Lucky in having you for a pilot, old man.'"

Cisco Disposal Plant Operation Praised by State

Mr. B. A. Butler, Cisco Daily Press.
Dear Sir:
I am giving you a partial report of interest to the people of Cisco—or, rather, we of this association affiliated with the state health department feel that it is of interest, and we do know that it is to the best interest of the public health that we strive to do the work assigned us in the most efficient way. The community's health is in our hands and we of the Cisco sanitation department are striving to know more how to protect it. Thus I am giving you the following and you can arrange it to suit yourself.

According to your letter the Hon. J. T. Berry, Mayor, also received a copy and these notes may be verified. Thanks.
E. R. WATSON,
Certified Operator,
Cisco Plant.

The Cisco Daily Press:
We have just received a letter from the Texas State Board of Health on our monthly report to that office. It commends us highly on the efficient operation of the Cisco plant and the close cooperation given the state board of health, under which plant operators are certified through a prescribed course of study and research work.

A committee of the waterworks and sewerage association have outlined what the fraternity might best do in a national defense program. This program will help to protect American waterworks and sewerage vital to each community. Each operator is requested to contribute suggestions on what the sewerage plant operator may do in a defense program. The Cisco plant rates with the plants turning out the highest tests of effluent using the activated sludge process.

Prisoners of Former Allies

These French sailors are now "prisoners" of their ally of only a few days ago—Great Britain. The French destroyers on which they are seen were among the 200 naval units which British dramatically seized at English ports. Many of the French sailors cheered British boarding parties which took their ships.

Name "Dixie" Traced To Pre-War Banknote

HOUSTON, July 13 (AP)—A New Orleans bank note may have been responsible for the term "Dixie," applied to the land below the Mason-Dixon line.

Henry E. Elrod, Houston, engineer, believes that the Citizens bank of New Orleans was the originator. The bank's 10-cent note, issued in 1852, were printed half in English and half in French. On each side was the word "Ten" and the corresponding French word, "Dix."

Southerners called the bills "Dixies." In those days, states issued their own money. The New Orleans bank was prosperous and its notes circulated widely throughout the south, which came to be known as the land of the "Dixies," and finally "Dixieland."

TIME TESTED AS THE DAWN

This Is The BANK that SERVICE Is Building

Modern Safety Deposit Service

This institution has faithfully served both its depositors and its borrowers for almost a quarter of a century. Through these many years it has steadily grown until today it is Eastland County's largest bank. A great many who refer to the First National as "That's My Bank" say they do so because they particularly like the way this bank has stood the test of time... good years and bad. They agree that there are many other ways to judge the worth of a bank, but insist that the best yardstick of value is time itself.

Youth Has Found 300 Bee Trees in Decade

APPOMATTOX, Va., July 13 (AP)—Nineteen-year-old Havilah Babcock, Jr., is nicknamed "Bee" because he has followed a beeline to more than 300 honey-filled trees in ten years.

The Columbia, S. C., youth who spends his summers here first tried his luck at finding bee trees when he was nine. It was plenty sweet—a hive in the second tree he examined.

His favorite method of locating a tree is to wade down a stream, watch bees sucking water from wet sand, and follow them. Sometimes he puts honey on flowers and watches the line of bees. July is the best month to find the trees, he believes. He has located as many as five in a day, but one to three is average. He cuts the tree down and ships the honey to South Carolina for sale. The bees are placed in hives.

Stings? Lots of them, but "Bee" has become immune to swelling. He can't follow the bees in winter, so he pursues his hobby by studying 30,000 to 80,000 bees he keeps in a glass hive.

FARMERS CREATING JOBS

DAVENPORT, Iowa, July 13 (AP)—A large increase in the number of calls from farmers for men to help with seasonal work has been reported by the Iowa State Employment Service. The active file of unemployment applicants is at the lowest point since December, 1937, and a shortage of some skilled workers has developed.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Jack Knight's Flight Made Airmail History

WHEN the U. S. 8-cent airmail stamp, above, was released in 1924, night airmail service between New York and San Francisco was well established. The new series of airmails, issued in 8-cent, 16-cent and 24-cent values, was intended for use in three zones at eight cents per zone.

Night airmail service was inaugurated, unofficially, by Jack Knight's memorable flight on the first transcontinental mail test run, Feb. 22, 1921. Knight was scheduled to relay the mail from North Platte, Neb., to Omaha. A damaged tail skid delayed his takeoff until 10:44 p. m.

Reaching Omaha, Knight was told that bad weather had forced abandonment of the test. Disregarding danger, he took off for Chicago at 2 a. m., flew into a snowstorm, finally located Iowa City with his gas tank almost empty.

The ground crew at the airport had gone home, believing the flight was canceled. The night watchman heard Knight's plane, lit a flare. Knight saw the light, landed safely, refueled and went on to Chicago.

Knight's flight convinced even the most skeptical that airmail service was a distinct and important part of the U. S. postal system.

One Success Formula: Juleps And Gen. Lee

RICHMOND, Va., July 13 (AP)—Rush, a negro butler at Richmond's Commonwealth club for 45 years, isn't thinking of retiring, but he's training a protégé.

Two essentials are to be taught—proper mixing of a mint julep and memorizing the farewells address of General Robert E. Lee. Rush admits he knows both perfectly.

MILWAUKEE, July 13 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Gust Kolo kept a date by two accidents. They arranged to meet at a sandlot baseball diamond after a game in which Gust was to play. He was hit behind the ear by a pitched ball and was taken to a hospital. Mrs. Kolo, on her way to the field, was in an automobile collision and was taken to the same hospital. They met there.

CAPITAL CORRECTION

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., July 13 (AP)—Vernon Crangle wrote an indignant letter when a local newspaper's vital statistics column announced the birth of a girl to the Crangles. Crangle demanded—and got—a correction in capital letters, like this: "IT'S A BOY!"

Rainfall's A Washout for Water Profits

MILWAUKEE, July 13 (AP)—The city waterworks is complaining that business is poor. Rains in the first six months of 1940 reduced lawn sprinkling so much that waterworks revenues were $65,000 less than for the same period last year.

rancher sold 300 of the goats at $5 each, for a total of $1,500, carrying the remaining 500 goats until September, when they were sheared of 1,500 pounds of wool. This clip and the spring clip, together 4,000 pounds, was sold for 67 cents, or a total of $2,680.

In 1936 the remaining 500 goats were sheared and the hair sold for $975 and the goats themselves sold for $5 each, or $2,500.

There is no question, said the rancher, that goats and sheep are the best money makers in the livestock field for this section. They not only make money on their wool and increase, but they increase the value of the land and they make it possible to make more money on other forms of livestock.

While the above experience is unusual, it emphasizes the fact that sheep and goats are money makers. Good management and protection from dogs and wolves are essential. But these things can be done and if they are done, the Cisco country can prosper from the industry.

Medical Science Leads the Way in BETTER HEALTH PROGRAMS

The prime object of the modern public health movement is not merely survival, but more power, more efficiency, better living conditions, better health through education and preventive measures.

Preventing people from dying, as the doctor's chief function, has evolved into earnest, unceasing efforts toward keeping people from being sick at all. Medical men throughout the world are constantly working toward that end.

In 1892, Dr. L. F. Flick of Philadelphia established a society for the prevention of tuberculosis, which was the first open recognition, anywhere in the world, that health was a public responsibility, as well as that of the private physician. In 1905 a national society was organized to combat venereal disease. In 1909 societies for preventing infant mortality and promoting mental hygiene; in 1915 one for controlling cancer; in 1915 another for the prevention and relief of heart disease.

The public health program is based on a broad program of adult education, through the use of newspapers, health department bulletins, literature from the various societies, radio talks, lectures, exhibits, moving pictures, public health nurses, intensive drives and sanitary activities of the public health physician.

The foundation of effective health teaching was laid in the schools by Dr. L. Emmert Holt in 1918. Study of physiology has been augmented by a vital program of health habits; physical education is being taught in practically every school in the nation; school physicians, dentists and nurses are the rule instead of the exception. The average school child knows much more about the fundamentals of health than his grandfather did 20 years ago.
