McELREATH GOOD FOR 150 BARRELS DAILY

McElreath Cleaning Itself After Acid Shot

This view of the Groover and Rose and Jones and Stansley McElreath No. 1, wildcat south of Cisco, shows it unloading acid water after a 4,000-gallon shot late yesterday. The well is good for an estimated 150 barrels daily and is one of the most important discoveries in this section in many years. (Photo by H. C. Baker).

Excellent showing of McElreath wildcat oil well south of Cisco has led many operators to believe that the long-looked-for oil here has been touched. It apparently will exceed a considerable amount, to judge from the showings of progress increasing value in various pays encountered. There seems now little doubt that producing district has been developed and that subsequent development will be important production. It should be the case of the oil market inasmuch as it no doubt will in considerable money be put into circulation in payrolls, buying of and payment of royal-

DEMOS BASE HOPES UPON THEIR RECORD

Uncompromising Resistance to Dictators Voiced in Keynote

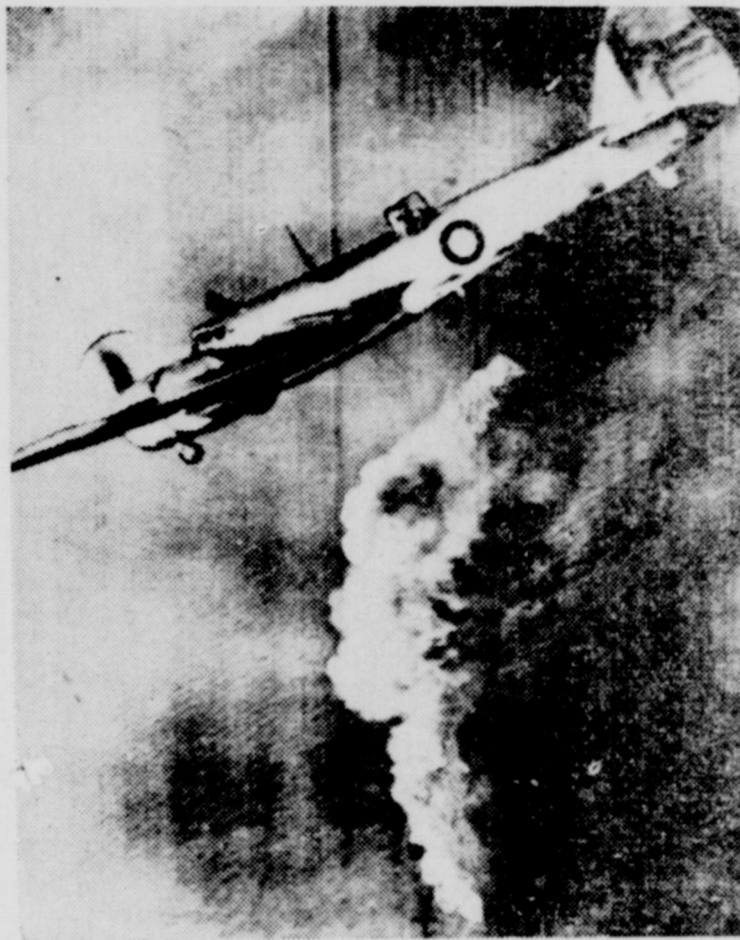

CHICAGO STADIUM, July 16, (AP).—Calling for an aggressive campaign on the "record" of performance, Speaker William B. Bankhead voiced Monday night a 1940 democratic keynote of uncompromising resistance to "malignant" aggressors abroad and assailed the republican platform as "political subterfuge."

He spoke a few minutes after Chairman James A. Farley of the democratic national committee, delivering an address which sounded to some like a formal farewell to his party colleagues, had denounced republican leaders for "an effort" to pin the odious label "war party" upon the democratic party.

Both speakers joined in asserting that the coming campaign against Wendell L. Willkie and the republican party must be waged upon the record of eight democratic years in office. Farley asserted that "unless we give the country a ticket and a platform that will satisfy the majority, we have no certainty of victory."

Both speakers addressed a crowd which packed this big, red, white and blue decked stadium to the

LARGE AREA TO SOUTH IS OPENED UP

Possibilities of Large Production Seen in District

The Groover and Rose and Jones and Stansley wildcat on the McElreath south of Cisco this morning was estimated to be good for 150 barrels daily, natural, with half a million feet of gas.

The well, acidized late yesterday with 4,000 gallons, unloaded its acid water in good shape and last night and this morning the crew was completing cleaning out. The oil is of 43 gravity.

Flow lines were expected to be laid to tanks and a gauge of production made, but operators were well pleased with the results of the well and predicted considerable drilling activity.

The test involves one of the largest virgin oil areas in central west Texas and a Caddo structure which leading geologists have said is the largest in the state.

Many interests in the McElreath was drilled in a block of 3,000 acres, parcels of which have been sold to other operators and which are due to be drilled at once now. Offset acreage is held by Danziger Oil company; Gilchrist; Charles J. Klein; Eason Oil company; Paul Steed; Jones and Stansley and others.

Operators said this morning that there is good possibility that the well has touched a productive area of several miles extent. A significant feature, it was pointed out, is the fact that the McElreath found good shows in four pay levels above and including the Caddo and that these shows were of increasing magnitude. Below the Caddo horizon are five other prospective horizons, not counting Ellenberger, and there is excellent possibilities that oil, perhaps in greater amounts than already found, will be found in these pays. Whether or not they will be tested by deepening the McElreath was not certain this morning. The Marble Falls and Lake and Ranger pays, all good and prolific horizons in this area, are among these. The McElreath, 3,035 feet deep

CHURCH MEET DRAWS 100 TO LAKE HERE

Registrations were still being made for the all-church workers conference of the Christian church at the Presbyterian encampment at Lake Cisco early today as the second day of the week's program began. Seventy were enrolled this morning as compared to 90 last summer.

Mornings at the encampment are devoted to class work. This begins at 8 a. m. and ends at noon. Classes include courses on "Missions" taught by Dr. Frank Garrett, missionary to China, and on "Bible" by Dr. Clinton Lockhart of Texas Christian University. What are known as "age level courses" also are taught.

An important part of the encampment course is located at the First Christian church here where each morning a laboratory school for children, directed by Miss Florence Carmichael, St. Louis, national childrens worker of the church, is conducted. The school is open to all children of the city between 5 and 11 years and all teachers of children.

The afternoon is devoted to personal conferences, interest groups, recreation and swimming. Each evening at sunset there is a lecture by Dr. Lockhart at the Country club building.

Dean of the conference is Dr. O. L. Shelton of Wichita Falls, and the local director is the Rev. Clark W. Lambert, formerly Cisco pastor and now of Hillsboro, Dr. R. C. Snodgrass of Amarillo is resident. Rev. Amos Myers of Breckenridge is dean of men and Mrs. John Dessen of Abilene is dean of women and recording secretary.

40 BODIES TAKEN FROM BLASTED MINE

SONMAN, Pa., July 16, (AP).—Forty bodies had been recovered early today from the explosion-blasted Koppers coal mine. Officials announced several other miners were missing and feared dead.

L. C. Campbell, assistant to the company's vice president, said a check definitely established 71 men were in the mine shortly before noon Monday when gas exploded, shattering three sections about 12,000 feet from the entrance.

Twenty-one men scrambled to safety, most of them crawling on hands and knees, leaving 50 trapped.

Sonman is a typical mining village of about 400, situated in the central Pennsylvania bituminous fields, about 16 miles east of Johnstown.

Describing the tragedy, Stanley C. Yuvus, 23, of Portage township, one of those who escaped, said:

"It was more of a concussion than an explosion. A great ball of white fire swept down the channel. I was knocked down. With the others, I began scrambling on my hands and knees for the main dip of the slope."

All but one man, Freeman George, escaped from right entry 18. He was the first of the dead to be identified. A dozen bodies were found in right entry 17. Most

Billions Are Not Bullets

THE appropriation of another umpteen billions for national defense is quite all right. The American people are in earnest about this preparedness thing, and nobody cares much what it costs, provided we get what we need and get it in jig-time.

Further categorical assurance by the president and administration leaders that none of this arms establishment is destined for service in Europe, but only in resolute defense of the western hemisphere, is just what the country needed. It melts away the last objection that anybody could make to going ahead, full-steam, with the military program.

THE principal danger in all these astronomical appropriations is that (1) They may crowd one upon another faster than sensible plans can be devised to spend them well, and (2) People may be so bedazzled by the sums themselves that they will tend to think of rearmament as already achieved.

It is not, of course, and it will not be for many months—not in complete form for a period of from five to seven years.

Some things can be done immediately, and they are being done. There are reorganizations, shifts of existing force, sharpening up of the national guard, recalling of reserve officers, and increased production of many items where capacity exceeds present production.

But the great bulk of the preparedness effort will become apparent with a rush only after a year or more has elapsed. A graphic representation of the U. S. armament effort during the World war shows that for many months after war was declared, military production rose but slightly. Then, as new plants and production facilities took hold, production soared suddenly upward.

SO it will be today. We must not be impatient, nor suddenly conclude that the effort is weak because it takes time. It is a little like the hen and the egg. You set the hen on the egg. It takes 21 days for the egg to hatch. If you want more chicks, you might set 40 hens on 40 eggs, but you still don't get even the first chick until 21 days are up.

This armament business requires patience as well as unrelenting follow-through. Not a moment should be wasted, but let no one expect a miracle. Even France didn't get that.

One can imagine, facing things squarely, there would be quite a lot of chinning going on at a meeting of President Roosevelt and Mussolini.

As we remember the old-fashioned definition, the axis was an imaginary line on which the earth rotated.

At last we have a woman candidate for president, but if she's elected, who will there be to travel the U. S. and support youth movements?

This is the month when June brides begin to take their cooking seriously, and find their angel food cakes turning out to taste like just the opposite.

O'DANIEL HITS AT CRITICS OF SOUND TRUCK

GREENVILLE, July 16, (AP).—Governor W. Lee O'Daniel tonight ridiculed assertions that his new sound truck cost $15,000 and characterized his critics as a "nest of snakes—vipers sticking their tongues out at me."

Making his second campaign speech of a stumping tour throughout East and South Texas, he announced an enlarged itinerary under which he plans five additional speeches tomorrow. A through which stood around the Hunt county courthouse for an hour awaiting his appearance cheered frequently as he saluted in his speech. "They remind me of my farm days when I took two garden hoses along to kill snakes when I was sledging corn on the north 80. Every now and then I'd have to stop and clear the deck of snakes, and before I get into the real issues I'm going to do a little snake clearing."

He said the $15,000 sound truck you've been reading so much about from the slander brigade of the corporation press and the influence lawyers, is just a (Chevrolet) truck that Pat O'Daniel signed a note for $500 on as part payment. "All this tramping is over and it will go back to the dealer as a used truck for hauling cotton."

The truck, he said, was accepted "in the name of the flour company the family owns and it is registered under that name."

"But now," he went on, "it becomes a floating palace in the minds of the slander brigade that has been turning the land upside down in its efforts to defeat me."

O'Daniel cried that his opponent, Sunderman, outfield; Miles, 1 base.

Britain Offers Japs and Chinese Peace Effort

LONDON, July 16, (AP).—Great Britain, engaged in a war of attrition, has offered herself as peace-maker in the three-year-old Japanese-Chinese conflict.

The British government advised Japan of a willingness to close for three months the last remaining major route over which war materials are moving to the central Chinese government, authoritative British sources said, provided Japan uses this time to seek a settlement with China.

This route is the Burma road, a segment of the famed "road to Mandalay." Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has depended chiefly on this route for his fighting supplies—mainly American—since the Japanese sealed the lifeline through French Indo-China.

British informants said London had kept the United States informed of its offer and thus far there had been no objections, although Washington had sent "detailed comment" on the negotiations.

(Continued from Page One) of the missing were believed to have been in right entry. Campbell said there had been little actual destruction in the mine and that they were making rapid progress restoring ventilation. The bodies were crushed though most of them were burned.

Five of the 21 missing stumbled from the entrance several hours of groping in dark and dangerous passages. One said he believed a gas explosion caused the blast. A person received one report, said, that a spark from cutting machine was responsible.
