NAZIS EMPHASIZE PEACE OFFER WITH BOMBS

HITLER OLIVE BRANCH GETS BRITON SCORN

Churchill May Make Statement Tuesday to Commons

LONDON, July 20 (AP)—German bombers blasted the length of Britain from John O'Groats to Land's End Saturday in pointed emphasis to Adolf Hitler's "last chance" peace offer, which found Britons coldly contemptuous.

Rearing across the coast in the early morning the nazis swarmed over the country throughout the day in one of the worst raids of the war.

The day-long attacks were capped in mid-afternoon with a lightning raid on ships anchored in a southern English harbor. Seventeen planes, let go their bomb cargoes with a mighty din, but apparently no ships were hit.

Anti-aircraft and fighting planes, kept busy fending off the attackers, broke up this foray. One German plane was believed shot down in the channel and observers said two others might have been downed by anti-aircraft fire. Four taken prisoner.

In southeast England four German airmen, one of them wounded, were taken prisoner when their bullet-shattered craft fluttered to earth.

Defense forces battled raiders over southwest England, Wales and southeast Scotland.

A lone nazi bomber let go three bombs over a northeast Scottish coastal town, badly damaging a school.

Britain ignored Adolf Hitler's "final appeal" for peace on his own terms and indicated she is ready for a test of strength, undaunted by nazi threats.

A scornful silence was the government's answer to the German dictator, who Friday gave England the choice of coming to terms or facing "total destruction."

It was intimated that Prime Minister Churchill might have some comment to make in the House of Commons next Tuesday, but official circles pointed out that he had emphasized only last Sunday Britain's determination to fight on to a finish and they declared that Hitler's "offer" scarcely merited an answer.

The press and public were more vocal in their reaction to the Fuehrer's speech, which was viewed in many quarters as nothing more than an effort to drive a wedge between Churchill and the people.

Hitler's assertion that the British people were being led astray by their leaders in continuing the

How to Adopt a British Child for Duration of War

Appalled by the very real threat of wholesale bombing of their homes, thousands of British parents are desperately anxious to send their children to the safety of the United States.

And in America hundreds of charitable families are keen to give home and shelter to the British youngsters.

The question uppermost in the minds of the Americans is just how to go about getting a child guest.

The only agency aiding this work is the United States Committee for the Care of European Children, whose chairman is Marshall Field and whose offices are in New York City.

But to decentralize things and enable all parts of the country to participate, the committee has contacted community chests and community councils and child welfare societies all over the country.

Of 170 queried, 115 have already indicated their willingness to help.

MAY APPLY TO LOCAL AGENCY

Anyone willing to give a home to a British refugee child is called a sponsor. The sponsor may apply through the local existing child welfare agency, which must have had the approval of the state department of social welfare and the federal Children's Bureau.

The would-be sponsor must list full name and home and business address, annual income and financial assets. To give full proof of financial qualifications it would be well to have a letter from employer stating salary and length of time employed, notarized copy of latest federal and state income tax return, statement of life insurance carried, statement from bank, tax receipts showing real estate owned, if any. Such papers should be prepared in triplicate.

The sponsor must file a notarized affidavit of agreement to support the child and to guarantee its maintenance as long as necessary. This certainly means for the duration of the war and, perhaps, for some time thereafter. The child must attend school until at least the age of 16 and must not be gainfully employed before then.

THERE ARE OTHER WAYS TO HELP

There are other ways, however, of helping a child besides taking it into one's own home. The sponsor may provide for a child's maintenance in the home of a relative or friend or even in a home unknown to him.

Also, if a sponsor is financially unable to support a child refugee, but is willing to give it a home, provided financial assistance is given, this too can be arranged after careful examination by the responsible agencies.

At present British authorities have full charge of selection, supervision, care and transportation of all refugee children from the British Isles. Most children will go first to Canada. The responsibility of the U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children begins only when the children arrive in the United States.

The laws of the United States requires the Department of Justice to pass on the admissibility of children under 16. The necessary notarized affidavits can now be cabled, so the visas can be issued by consular officers in Britain. Among other data must be full coverage, telling whether the parents can and will pay the child's passage to America or whether a responsible sponsor will do so.

ADOPTION NOT

It is estimated 30,000 children will be evacuated from Britain by the last of August and that about half will find homes in Canada. Children of foreign birth, living in Britain, can be sponsored in the same way as British children. All, regardless of nationality, must come in on the immigration quota.

One question asked repeatedly is whether it will be possible to adopt the British children. The answer is "no." Britain passed a law January, 1940, which does not allow British children to be adopted outside the British empire.

The U. S. Committee for the Care of European Children, only agency recognized by British authorities, has the co-operation of the following: Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor; American Red Cross; community chests and councils; Child Welfare League of America; International Migration Service; Family Association of America; National Travelers' Aid Association; and state and local child welfare services.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK HERE ON TUESDAY

Rally to Take Place at 10:30 a. m.; Family to Accompany Him

A visit to Cisco has been added by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel to his crowded schedule in the final week of the primary campaign. Accompanied by his Hillbilly Band and his family, the Governor will speak at a mass meeting here Tuesday at 10:30 a. m. Large parties of O'Daniel supporters are being organized in surrounding communities to come to Cisco for the rally.

The rally will be held before the Laguna hotel where the building will provide shade and make the gathering more comfortable.

Supporters of the governor are arranging for accommodations at the hotel where members of the family may relax during the visit and where the governor and his party may greet their friends. The visit will be brief and most of the time here will be occupied with O'Daniel's address, but opportunity will be given for greeting the governor while he is here.

The governor, on a wide swing through West Texas, will stop in 28 towns between Monday and Friday. Original plans called for only five night meetings during the closing week, but he has been stopped so frequently by crowds of supporters on his route that he has revised his itinerary to include brief visits at points along the road, he stated.

Before coming to Cisco, the Governor will open his West Texas tour Monday with stops in Lampasas, at 1 p. m.; Goldthwaite, at 2:45 p. m. and Brownwood at 8 p. m. On Tuesday, following his Cisco speech, he will visit Breckenridge at 1 p. m.; Graham at 3 p. m.; Olney at 3:45 p. m.; Archer City at 4:30 p. m.; and Wichita Falls at 8 p. m.

The governor will speak here from his new sound truck, equipped with public address and illumination system, which was presented him by friends in Fort Worth. The local speech will not be broadcast, he announced, and he will talk directly to the people, unhampered by radio censorship, telling of the need for a house cleaning at Austin.

Lobo Band to Go to DeLeon Festival

The Cisco Lobo band will march in the parade at DeLeon next Wednesday afternoon to formally open the Peach and Melon Festival there as it has done annually for several years back. A Cisco sponsor, yet to be chosen, will represent this city in the sponsors program, it was also announced.

The parade will be held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

A. L. Osborn to Do Work in Oregon

A. L. Osborn of Osborn Studio will leave today for Oregon where he will spend from a month to six weeks doing photographic work for the Army and Navy Publishers of Atlanta, Ga.

During his absence Mrs. Osborn, who assists him, will operate the studio. Mr. Osborn will be back before the fall business season starts. In the meantime capable service in all departments of photography offered by the studio is assured.

Stamps Quartet to Sing Here Thursday

The Stamps Quartet will present a program in the city hall auditorium Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. This program is under the auspices of the Cisco Fire department, and the public is urged to be present.

MEETING ON STAMP PLAN IS SUMMONED

A representative of the federal government's relief organization in charge of the food stamp plan will be in Eastland Tuesday to formally open the Peach and Melon Festival there as it has done annually for several years back. A Cisco sponsor, yet to be chosen, will represent this city in the sponsors program, it was also announced.

A meeting of representatives grocerymen, both wholesale and retail, was requested by him to take place at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at the county court house. Eastland county officials and Sec'y Tanner of the Eastland chamber of commerce who are working to secure the program for the county, urged all grocerymen who are interested to attend. They were particularly anxious to obtain representation of wholesale grocery companies.

County Judge Adamson and the commissioners court, and County Auditor Don Parker have worked diligently to obtain the food stamp program for the county. Tanner said. The assistance given by both Senator Sheppard and Senator Connally and by Rep. Clyde Garrett has been splendid, he said.

CHANGE OF FAIR DATES

EASTLAND, July 20, (Sp.)—Secretary H. B. Tanner of the Eastland chamber of commerce states that because of conflicting dates, the dates for the Eastland County fair that had been set for October 17, 18 and 19, had been changed to October 24, 25 and 26.

Final Meeting on Jamboree Monday

Final plans for the Oil Belt Jamboree to be sponsored by the Eastland county post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be formulated at a meeting in the Cisco chamber of commerce offices Monday.

The meeting, which has been called for 10 a. m., will serve as the starting point in the development of the first state-wide celebration of its kind. Final instructions will be given committeemen who will be responsible for the separate phases of the final event scheduled to open at Lake Cisco, August 16.

Present plans call for the featuring of the first Burro Derby known to this part of the country. The winners of this event will officially claim the Texas title for the championship race. An appropriate trophy will be awarded by the V. F. W.

Entries from V. F. W. posts from every part of the state will be received by the sponsoring committee as competitors in the selection of the V. F. W. sweetheart. Final announcements relative to the contest will be given at a later date.

Another activity of the two day gathering will include a drawing to be held at designated hours. Items to be given have not yet been made known. Information has been received, however, to the effect that tickets will be presented to all present, free of charge, and no admission will be charged at any event.

GERMANS SEE NO HOPE FOR PEACE OFFER

BERLIN, July 20 (AP)—Smashing blows at Britain by sea and air were reported by the high command Saturday as informed German quarters saw hope for acceptance of Adolf Hitler's "last" peace offer doomed by its "rowdyish" reception in London.

Summing up the latest aerial forays against Britain, the high command declared that the Nazi air force had bombed harbor facilities, supply depots and anti-aircraft defenses, sunk one 5,000-ton merchant ship and damaged three other merchant vessels and a destroyer.

In these operations the Nazi losses were only three planes, while 27 British planes were shot down, a communique said.

A single German submarine also was reported to have sunk 24,700 tons of merchant shipping.

Further Raids Official quarters maintained silence on the reception accorded the Fuehrer's peace offer by the British and it was believed unlikely that any statement would be issued immediately.

Informed sources said, however, that German radio stations would keep on dining Hitler's words into English ears until the proverbial man-in-the-street knows exactly what is in store for him if he does

Omar Burkett Should Go Back

OMAR BURKETT is asking re-election to the state legislature from the 107th Texas district. It is the firm opinion of the Cisco Daily Press that Mr. Burkett is entitled to re-election. He has diligently tried to carry out his promises to the voters and he has scored in the big majority of his objectives. He has been a "doing" legislator. He made no demagogic promises, and he went to Austin with a sound platform of legislative endeavor. Although it was his first term, he has made an outstanding success. Among the accomplishments credited to him is effective work in house passage of the bill authorizing the establishment of a municipal junior college here, an institution which will bring college education within the reach of many hundreds of students who otherwise could not have achieved it. Cisco is due Mr. Burkett a unanimous vote on that successful effort alone. But it is only one of numerous services which he performed faithfully, meritoriously and well. He is one of that rare genus—a practical, honest and working legislator. The district ought to send such a man back to Austin in its own interest.

Sharing the Burden

WHETHER the national guard is mobilized for a long term of thorough training or not, it is certain that ordinary training periods will be lengthened, and that in one way or another more and more men are going to be called from normal civilian life to longer periods of military training.

This means that the problem of meeting the dislocations in industrial and personal life will have to be considered as carefully as the military problem itself.

Already it is being proposed that married men in the lower ranks be permitted to resign from the guard if it should launch into an 18-month training period. It is felt that special hardship might be caused in family life if men on the lowest scale of military pay were to leave their families for so long a time.

BUT the problem goes deeper than that. Should a full year, or an 18-month training period be decided upon, the problem of return to civilian life would be almost as great as that created by a war. In Europe, where every young man spends a couple of years in the army as a matter of course, the training period usually comes before he has established himself in civil life, and the dislocation is therefore less. But here we propose to train the national guard, most of whose members are older and already have found a place in industry or business.

Surely such a man wants to feel that in giving up a year or more of his life voluntarily to his country's service, he does not also forfeit his prospects in his chosen trade or profession. Yet while men are gone, industry must carry on. The vacant place must be filled, even if temporarily.

NOW many employers are working on the problem of granting leaves of absence for all employees called up for military service. Some are trying to arrange at least two weeks with full pay, some as much as 60 days. Many are trying to plan so as to assure the soldier his job when he returns.

The situation of employers is too diverse, conditions are too various, to lay down any very general rule. But we face what will soon be a fact, not a theory, and it is not too soon for every person involved to begin planning means of sharing as equally as possible the burdens that will come with increased military training.

Reporter Says Players Ought to Be Ashamed

(By Soft Ball Reporter)

It didn't seem natural Friday night because so many players were absent in the Miller-Penney lineup. They had six unfamiliar faces and went down to Scranton 19 to 12. Miller-Penney has been a disappointment this division to many fans and backers. It seems a crying shame too, because no one does more than "Smokey" Tuttle for the park. The players have been letting him down in not coming out to play. If Scranton can come it looks like Cisco players could get out. I would like to see this team build up to the potential power it showed at first and really be in the top money.

This throws the third position into a four way tie. On Tuesday night Red Front will play Miller-Penney to eliminate one of these. Putnam will play Scranton on the same night in a double header to eliminate another. One other game will be necessary. Both games on Tuesday will be 7 inning games.

A boxing card has been arranged for Monday. It reads as follows: Cotton Anderson, 103, vs. Tougie Armstrong, 95 (Putnam). Pokey Fields, 145, vs. Buster Roberson, 150 (Putnam). Travis Childers, 122 vs. Jimmie Pollard, 133.

ANTI-TRUST ACTION ROLLING DESPITE RUMOR ARNOLD WOULD RELAX DURING DEFENSE

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Despite a strong crop of rumors, there is as yet no sign the administration will relax the anti-trust laws to speed up production of goods for the defense program.

On the contrary, a federal grand jury in New York is just starting a broad investigation into the production of some items most vital to the army and navy program. The rumors come mostly from a feeling that industries in the defense program may have to form combinations which might later be prosecuted under the anti-trust laws. The famous Madison oil case is cited: there the oil men claimed they were only doing what the government had urged them to do under NRA. It is beginning to be argued in some quarters that the anti-trust laws operate as a "business deterrent" for all defense production.

So far no administration pressure has been put on Attorney General Jackson or Assistant Attorney General Arnold, who heads the anti-trust division. Arnold some weeks ago defined the division's stand; national defense needs are paramount, and there'll be no anti-trust prosecution for any combination which either the War or Navy Department states in advance is necessary to meet those needs. To date, neither department has filed any such statement.

To which you might add that no group which is unable to get such a declaration from army or navy chiefs is likely to get any favors from the anti-trust division. Arnold is going right ahead; he won't pull his punches, and he decides to restore the NRA unofficially, it will have to... and in an election year likely to do anything of the kind. LOSES HELP OF G-MEN MEANWHILE, despite the age of funds, the anti-trust is going ahead with for a broad investigation into distribution costs. It has many inquiries under way in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia and if Arnold can solve the problem of lack of personnel to put on a show as specific and far-reaching as his building costs investigation. His chief handicap right the espionage and fifth scare. He had been getting partial help from agents Federal Bureau of Investigation lately, however, J. Edgar has had to call most of his back and put them onto other work. Result is that the division is woefully short of its New York food costs instance, is currently being ried on by two men. "GERMAN DIET" ON THE WAY? ARNOLD maintains that a food costs can be taken down the nation is likely to itself on something resembling "German diet" before long. Talks of "breaking the log" between the farm and the city and wants a grand jury to all of the restraints being farmer and consumer. The farmer's share of the summer's dollar, he asserts, dropped from 50 per cent per cent. Milk for wheat farmer gets from 3 to 5 cents, he says, may cost the consumer from 12 to 14 cents. consumer's dollar, worth a farmer only 30 cents, his worth of fruit may have the farmer a quarter, and meat for which he pays 30 cents a pound may have but 5 or 6 cents a pound.

Hillman's First Move in Defense Post May Head CIO, AFL Toward Peace

By MORGAN BEATTY
AP Foreign Service Writer

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Blithe as a schoolboy on the way to the old swimming hole, labor's Sidney Hillman sets out to do the impossible again as a member of the National Defense commission.

This time it's his job to get America's idle men and idle plants together, and when that's done, to fill the gaps still left with youth newly trained and disciplined for the national defense job ahead. And if he's not swamped along the way, he's expected to help settle or prevent strikes.

That's a big order. But Hillman's as confident as he was that day in 1919 when he had won the seemingly hopeless strike in Chicago's open shop clothing industry.

He's as confident as he was in 1914, when he led his little band of 105 delegates out of the American Federation of Labor, formed the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. As urban as that day in 1933, when he accepted AFL's invitation to march the Amalgamated, now grown strong and powerful, back into the fold. And as unconcerned as he was more recently when AFL kicked him out again.

European Accent

"Don't you feel out of your element in this white marble Federal Reserve building?" I ask. He laughs. They say "Sidney Hillman"

"Fifth Columnist" in the same breath, even though they don't actually charge he's a communist. For Hillman's an record as fighting communism, barring it from leadership in the Amalgamated, Ben Gitlow, renegade red, in his "I Confess" calls Hillman two-faced, opportunist.

Seeks Labor Peace
Sensing labor's own struggle as his No. 1 hurdle, Hillman has already struck first—for peace! "I have asked a joint committee of CIO, AFL, and the railroad brotherhoods to advise me," he says. "They will help with the apprentice problem and other labor difficulties. They will work together. National defense comes first. They know it. I know it."

A high official in AFL who holds no brief for Hillman tells

He coordinates
"How do you propose to train the nation's youth?" "is my next question. He's talking rapidly, against time.

"That is first a question for the president, the cabinet, the congress to decide. Compulsory or voluntary, that is not my job. Once decided, then it will be up to the regular government agencies to train the youth—the army, the navy, the civil aeronautics administration, the office of education, the vocational schools, CCC, National Youth administration, and the rest.

"The National Defense commission will merely co-ordinate. It will not be super-government. My particular job is to find out what the demand for labor is, to territory that the Cisco public school system serves, and support it with their own enrollments? Next week will tell. The tuition costs are small. Credits on work done are as certain as it is possible to be now. Cooperation of state examiners and other responsible agencies associated with college management and supervision in the state is assured. The Cisco school system has made a high mark in Texas. It is a marked system. It has done and is doing a splendid piece of work in making public school facilities of the highest order available to great numbers of boys and girls at economical costs to the taxpayers.

Youngest Rockefeller to Wed

David Rockefeller, scion of one of America's wealthiest families, will marry Margaret McGrath of Mount Kisco, N. Y., with whom he is pictured above. The groom-to-be is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller.

Now it has gone a step further. By arduous planning and work and the sacrifice of time and contributions the community has enlarged the scope of its school program. It is establishing an institution whose future is bright, and whose ultimate development is practically unlimited. The Cisco junior college will be there for you this fall. It is yours. What are you going to do with it?

There should be at least 40 students from Cisco enrolling in the college the first year. AT LEAST 40!

Bahamas Once Captured By Young American Navy

THE Bahamas Islands, the chain of British-owned islands off the Atlantic coast of United States, best known as a winter resort, assume new importance in America's defense scheme and the outcome of Europe's war. Talk of purchase of the group by U. S. is not likely to get beyond the conversation stage for the Bahamas have been British for three centuries.

Three important dates in the history of the Bahamas are inscribed on the 1929 stamp above commemorating the 1629 anniversary of British occupation and the 1729 treaty of peace ceding the islands to Britain.

One of the first victories of the young American navy was the capture in 1776 of New Providence, which was soon abandoned. Many American Tories moved to the islands after the revolution. Previous to that time the Bahamas had been owned by Spain, governed by English proprietors and overrun by pirates.

An English translation is being broadcast "frequently," they said. Refused to Believe

Authorized Nazi quarters refused to accept the reaction thus far made available from Reuters, British news agency, the British Broadcasting corporation and individual newspapers as the true voice of the British people.

The commentaries represent the opinion "merely if the plutocratic clique," they asserted, adding:

"What strikes us is the haste with which these insolent commentaries from every capital of the world were issued."

It was emphasized that it now is solely up to the fuhrer to decide the next step and what it will be.

It was announced officially that Hitler had a "long conference" with Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, who occupied a front row seat at Friday's Reichstag session.

German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, Dr. Otto Meissner, Nazi secretary of state; Hans Georg-Viktor von Mackensen, ambassador to Rome, and Italian Ambassador Dino Alfieri sat in on the conference.

The question of how much breathing space the fuhrer would give England before launching the long-predicted attack in force—since he set no time limit in his offer—remained his secret.

The London Times summed up the issue by declaring that Hitler had admitted the "perfunctory" nature of his offer by failing to mention any terms on which peace is possible, and added:

"We can do no other than fight to the last extremity."

GOOD REASON FOR BEING PROUD and HAPPY

The new-born infant is an object of pride, happiness and concern on the part of parents. If the father has insisted on his wife being under the physician's care during the prenatal period, if he has provided means for delivery at the hospital, where every safety precaution is at hand and where needed rest is insisted upon and embarrassments avoided, if he has bequeathed this tiny mite of humanity a clean bill of health then, indeed, he has the right to be proud and happy.

It costs no more to KNOW things are progressing naturally and every prospective father should insist on his wife being under the physician's care. Many complications and much pain and anguish may be avoided. Modern obstetrical knowledge and aseptic methods almost work miracles and the mortality rate of hospital-delivered obstetrical cases is disappearing to the vanishing point.

SERIAL STORY

FLYING CO-ED

BY MARY KINNAVEY MOORE

COPYRIGHT, 1940. NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
ANNE NORRIS—wealthy college student, looking for thrills, enrolls in CAA flying course.
GEORGETTE PARKER—Anne's friend. Learning to fly is a serious business with her.
TONY SCOTT—college playboy, son of a gangster, envies Anne's social position.
CAPTAIN DICK DOUGLAS—instructor of the student flying course at Midland University.

CHAPTER V
YESTERDAY: Georgette and Dick meet Tony and Anne at the license bureau. Tony is furious, strikes at Georgette when she tears up the license. He regrets the action instantly, decides it is better to let Anne go, for a time. En route home, Dick taunts Anne, accuses her of quitting the flying course because she lacked nerve. Anne promises to take the course just to show him she can and will fly.

Five small planes were on the line, their yellow wings and fuselages bright and shining in the sunlight, when Anne and Georgette drove into the airport the next afternoon. "How do they look to you today?" Georgette asked. "They seem incredibly tiny in comparison to the liners that are built at Uncle Arnold's factory. They even are small beside the cabin plane we came back in last night," Anne brought out the last as though embarrassed. "Yes, they are small, but so easy to handle," Georgette ignored Anne's reference to the elopement. "They look like canaries ready to sing," Anne added. "The sound of the motor is sweeter to me than any bird song I know," Georgette's voice was full of enthusiasm. "And I hope you'll think so, too."

"Don't be too optimistic about it." "Well, if you do learn to fly, you'll give your Uncle Arnold a thrill he never hoped to have," Georgette said, "and you'll probably have a ship of your own."

"Uncle Arnold would be pleased," Anne admitted, "but Captain Douglas is convinced I won't stick to it."

"You'll like Dick as an instructor," Georgette protested loyally. "Here he comes. You're scheduled for flight instruction under him this afternoon. I've a lecture in the administration building; I'll see you after class." She shouted to Dick, then hurried away. There was a moment of awkwardness.

"Well, are you all set?" Dick asked. Anne nodded.

A MECHANIC helped Anne into one door of the cockpit as her instructor climbed in at the other. As Anne and Captain Douglas settled comfortably into the seats, Dick explained: "This will be a familiarization flight only, but there are a few things that we can do, that must always be done, and the first of these is the fastening of your safety belt."

He helped Anne adjust and fasten the broad web belt, continuing his instruction: "Always see that the belt fits snugly and is securely fastened, even though the engine is only to be run with the wheels chocked. Train yourself to do this automatically upon entering a plane."

"The seat must be adjusted so that you can reach and use the controls easily and comfortably without stretching, and so that you can see well."

As he talked, Dick adjusted the seat for Anne, so that her feet could rest easily on the rudder bars and her fingers lightly grasp the stick.

"You drive a car, and you probably drive entirely relaxed and at ease," Dick's voice gave Anne a feeling of confidence—"and that is how we hope you'll fly. If you rest the heel of your foot on the floor of the ship, you can put pressure on the rudder bars with your toes, just as you do on the accelerator of your car."

Anne, always alert and apt, was watching her instructor as he demonstrated both the position of hands and of feet. "I think I understand," she said. "You'll have your initial work on instruments in the classroom," Dick went on, "but today, I'll tell you of them briefly and then when we are in the air they will show you what the plane is doing. Here are the air speed indicator, the altimeter, the tachometer, compass, turn and bank indicator, and the climb indicator." He identified each of them on the instrument panel as he spoke.

"At the moment they look pretty overwhelming," Anne confessed, "but there are not so many more of them than in a car."

"You'll soon know them all, and what they have to tell you," Dick encouraged her. "I'll watch them for you during your early flights. Now, let's try the air. You have a perfect day—ideal flying conditions."

He called to the mechanic, "All right, ready," and the mechanic raised his hand to the prop. "Off," Dick's voice was raised so that the mechanic would have no difficulty in hearing him, and then in a lower tone he said to Anne: "This is the ignition switch, which must be in the 'off' position between the swings of the prop."

"Contact!" The mechanic balanced on one foot, swung the other in rhythm to his swing of the prop. In a second the motor was turning over, and the mechanic was removing the chocks that held the wheels.

"Always," Dick told Anne, "the position of your ignition key is of prime importance when the prop is being swung to start your motor. You'll have instruction in swinging the prop, although many ships now have self-starters."

THE ship turned onto the runway, and Dick was easing the throttle open enough to start the plane moving into the wind. The roar of the motor increased as the nose of the plane lifted above the horizon and almost at once they were in the air.

Reluctantly, Anne admitted to herself this was fine. She had flown dozens of times on scheduled airlines, and occasionally on chartered trips, but this was different. It was a flight that was all for her.

Thirty minutes later, Dick brought the plane down in a perfect three-point landing, and Anne felt that she had learned more about flying in that short half hour than in hours of being a passenger, and of hearing her uncle talk planes with his friends.

"Thank you," she said to Dick, quietly and almost meekly, as he turned his attention to his next pupil.

She was exhilarated and excited when she met Georgette coming from her lecture. "I'm sticking to this flying. I'll be a pilot—or bust!" Anne promised.

Qualls Makes Plea Cisco Vote Commissioner

Qualls, candidate for county commissioner for precinct 4, is making this, his third race, a last appeal for the support of Cisco and the rural communities to elect him as a Cisco representative on the commission.

Qualls formerly said that "Virgins was the mother state of Cisco." It may be said today that "Cisco is the mother of county commissioners," Qualls said.

Qualls said that in the past eight years the commission has come from the Donner community, and the present incumbent is a candidate for his second term to succeed himself. He said that in the only campaign for Cisco, there are two candidates—both are residents of that community—and are my friends, and they are good men.

He believes in rotating the county commissioner offices. He also disbelieves in one community monopolizing the office of county commissioner. It seems to me that the interests demands that one man should be elected at least once every eight years.

Qualls Support

There are many reasons why I should get solidly behind my candidate. I am, and have been for the past 16 years, a resident of Cisco. I have spent my money with the merchants; have supported the progressive movement of Cisco; have educated my children in Cisco schools, and I have made myself a useful citizen of Cisco. Five of my children have married into Cisco families, and I am more thoroughly acquainted with the interests of Cisco than any other candidate for this office.

That I am qualified, both by ability and experience, I believe I will deny. I believe most of you who know me will say that my judgment is good on determining what is the best for the county, and am a capable business man, able to determine what the best work for the county must be, and what it should cost. I have the idea of properly valuing the property, and establishing values for tax purposes so it will not be necessary to readjust valuations at the session of the court.

I have had the usual experience in the construction of the average home, and can estimate the cost of proper construction of highways of the county that may come under my administration.

Union of Employees

When I am your county commissioner it will not be my duty to keep one set of people on the payroll at all times, while others just as deserving are unemployed. Part time for an unemployed person is better than no work, so it will be my policy to employ as many persons employment as possible. If the commis-

Job Emerges From Troubles, Doubts By Believing in the Strength of Faith

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

WE have seen Job in the depth of doubt, distressed by the intensity of his disasters and sufferings, more distressed than helped by the complacent and futile counsel of his friends who are incapable of appreciating the depth and nature of his troubles, and tempted by the whole situation to "curse God and die."

Here in this lesson we see him emerging from his troubles and his doubts into the strength of faith. His faith is so strong that now, instead of cursing God and dying, he feels that he can trust God even though He should slay him.

It should be noted that it was faith that Job attained. He did not find a solution of the problem of suffering, and no one has found a solution. It is a great mystery that still goes unsolved. Jesus went to Calvary, praying earnestly that He might be spared the Cross, but He also found in the hour of Gethsemane the faith that sustained Him and that enabled Him to believe that in His sufferings and death He was fulfilling the will of an all-wise Father and His purposes of redemption.

ALL this is greatly at variance with the popular idea of doubt. The common notion is that we should suppress it, that we should not allow any questioning to enter our minds concerning God and His Providence. But the book of Job and many other parts of the Bible speak differently. They suggest that we should face the problems of life earnestly and sincerely, and that if we do thus face them we shall come not to a conventional belief that has little reality, but that we shall come to real faith.

All this has never been more finely expressed in modern times than in Tennyson's great poem, "In Memoriam," which has sometimes been called "A Modern Book of Job." Tennyson wrote this poem, deeply moved by the death of his friend Arthur Henry Hallam. In one section he is replying to someone who has expressed the conventional idea that "doubt is Devil-born." In this he says:

I know not: one indeed I knew
In many a subtle question versed,
Who touch'd a jarring lyre at first,
But ever strove to make it true;

Perplex in faith, but pure in deeds,
At last he beat his music out.
There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds.

He fought his doubts and gather'd strength,
He would not make his judgment blind,
He faced the spectres of the mind
And laid them; thus he came at length

To find a stronger faith his own,
And Power was with him in the night,
Which makes the darkness and the light,
And dwells not in the light alone.

AS Job comes to faith and finds the approval of Jehovah, his triumph is in contrast with the discomfort of his plausible friends who had tried to cheer him with weak and superficial words and who in their shallow pretense of faith had rebuked him for his doubts. The wrath of Jehovah is kindled against them because they had not spoken of Him the thing that was right.

We may well pray for a sustaining faith like Job's and seek it instead of being satisfied with the plausible platitudes of those who have never cried to God out of the depths or found His answer.

Accident Interrupts Chastain Campaign

TO THE VOTERS OF EASTLAND COUNTY:

During the past few months I have met most of you and discussed my candidacy for the office of County Judge. It was my intention to continue a vigorous campaign until election day, but I was unfortunate in having a car accident that may prevent me seeing you again before the 27th. May I urge my friends active in my behalf until the polls are closed. After all in a political campaign one must depend upon their friends.

Your continued support and influence will be appreciated.

Your friend,

Texas Banks Make 804,000 Loans in '39

NEW YORK, July 20.—Twenty two per cent of the commercial banks in Texas made more than 804,000 loans totaling over $1,018,000,000 to business firms and individuals throughout the state during the year 1939, according to the second semi-annual survey of bank lending activity of the American Bankers Association made public here.

The survey, which was participated in by 191 banks or 22 per cent of the 840 commercial banks of the state, showed a definite expansion of bank credit in the field of new loans. The number of new loans made between July 31 and December 31 was 6,341 greater or 3 per cent greater, and the dollar volume of new loans made during this period was $46,065,394 or 23 per cent greater than reported by an equivalent number of banks for the previous six months.

The 191 banks reported that during 1939 they made 493,783 new loans totaling 452,865,850.

305,492 renewals of loans totaling 552,230,101
5,178 mortgage loans totaling 13,716,556

804,453 $1,018,812,507

The survey reveals that business firms in the state are using only about half of the "open lines of credit" maintained for their use on the books of the banks. Twenty-four banks in the larger centers of the state reported that they carried on their books during the second half of the year $49,681,550 in "open lines of credit" consisting of specific amounts of credit offered to and kept available for established borrowers for use as needed by them. Of this amount $25,865,987 or 52.0 per cent was actually used.

The average number of new loans made per bank was 2,585 and the average new loan was $917.

The average number of renewals per bank was 1,599 and the average renewal was for $1,808.

The average number of mortgage loans per bank was 27 and the average mortgage was for $2,649.

The Texas survey was part of a national bank lending activity survey made by the American Bankers Association.

For the country as a whole 6,333 or 44 per cent of the commercial banks reported that they made 24,998,000 credit extensions totaling $39,810,810,000 during the year. These consisted of the following: 12,680,000 new loans totaling $23,120,000,000

The number of new loans increased 10 per cent and the dollar volume increased 20 per cent.

"Different" Campaign Is In Prospect

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—This year, the campaign is going to be "different."

Wendell L. Willkie, the republican presidential nominee, may follow the traditional routine and stump the country. But Franklin D. Roosevelt, on the basis of present plans, will divide most of his time this summer and fall between Washington and his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

And what the chief executive has to say to the voters will be transmitted, according to existing schedules, more through the press and radio than from the rear platform of a campaign train or in public auditoriums.

Much as Roosevelt likes to travel, he told the democratic convention in his speech accepting a third term nomination that "the president in these days" must "remain close to the seat of government."

As to the chief executive's acceptance, Vice President Garner maintained resolute silence. From other quarters, however, there came continued third term criticism, predictions of democratic bolts to Willkie, and also assertions that the third term issue would be unimportant.

International affairs and the preparedness program, Roosevelt said made it necessary for him to remain near Washington, and hence the approaching campaign would be "different" in some respects from the "usual national campaign" of recent years.

The development of the vast defense program might offer the president an excuse to make some inspection trips to defense installations and projects. But some of his associates said he had no plans for any.

In 1936 he made a couple of "non-political" campaign trips, on which he missed few speech-making opportunities. These journeys took him on inspections of the Midwestern dust bowl and into some Eastern areas that had been hit by floods.

To Stay at Hyde Park

This year, however, officials expect the president to spend an increasingly greater portion of his time this summer at Hyde Park, where he could call in the people he wanted to see for defense or foreign affairs conferences and still get back to Washington in six or seven hours by train if necessary.

And, as it is shaping up at the moment, the chief executive's campaign, like his third-term acceptance speech, will be tied closely with the strengthening of America's defenses.

Democratic leaders said they thought he would continue to tell the country that he was looking after the national welfare and unable to spare time for campaign swings or to run the risk of being
