In an area of benevolent climate, blessed with an abundance of the purest lake water, possessing the best in recreational facilities, situated on the Bankhead all-weather route, with three railroads and many highways, Cisco is the best place in Texas to live and to work.

NAZIS SERVE NOTICE GUNS WILL SPEAK

Hitler's Promised Blitzkrieg on England May Come Soon

By The Associated Press
Nazi Germany served notice on Great Britain Tuesday night that "weapons" will speak and neutral reports from Belgium and Holland indicated Adolf Hitler's promised blitzkrieg may come soon. Only Adolf Hitler and his closest aides know when Germany will attempt the invasion of Britain, but there were these straws in the martial winds:

1. Definite and final rejection by the British of Hitler's "Last chance" peace appeal voiced in his speech to the German reichstag last Friday. Hitler had indicated he would await Britain's answer before losing his military might.

2. Word from neutral sources of "greatly increased activities" in Dutch and Belgian dockyards and railroads in the last few days, with Germany apparently concentrating military supplies in the lowlands; the jumping off place for an invasion of Britain.

3. More intense bombing activities by both Germany and Britain, with the nazis again raiding Scotland and England and the royal air force attacking aerial and oil centers in Germany.

Tremendous Price

The British people learned they must pay a tremendous price for the war upon "Hitlerism." They were told by Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, that they must pay a 42 1/2 percent standard income tax plus a sales tax which will cost them one-third of the wholesale value of such "luxuries" as furniture and lipstick.

The British budget for the current fiscal year, which ends next March 31, totals 3,467,000,000 pounds ($13,868,000,000). Of this 239,000,000 pounds ($950,000,000) will be raised by new taxes.

The war now is costing the British $228,000,000 weekly.

From Berlin and the Balkans came word that Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary would lay their common problems before the German foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, on Friday at Salzburg, Germany.

German sources in Bucharest said Rumania would be asked to give Hungary a strip of Transylvania in return for a guarantee by Germany of Germany's peaceful attitude.

Rumania quickly turned toward Germany when Russia took Bessarabia and northern Bucovina.

Russia yesterday ordered all males between 19 and 50 not previously registered for military service to do so in the first two weeks in September. Whether Germany's deep interest in Balkan affairs had any bearing on that move was not indicated in Moscow dispatches.

In the far east, Japan's new premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoye, declared Japan should take a guiding role in establishing a "new world order."

Missouri Minister To Conduct Revival

Reverend L. D. Sharp of Carthage, Missouri, will arrive to do the preaching in the revival services which are being conducted at the Nazareth church.

The revival began last Sunday and in the services this week the pastor, Reverend Luthor Pryor has been doing the preaching.

Good interest is being shown in the services which are conducted at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m. daily. The evangelist will remain here for services including Sunday, August 4, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Dr. and Mrs. Gary L. Smith left yesterday for a two-weeks vacation trip, going first to New Mexico.

STREET WORK MAY HAVE TO BE STOPPED

Attorneys Authorized to Push Collection of Money Due

Whether or not Cisco will be able to carry on its street paving program, giving employment to 60 or more jobless men, depends upon whether or not there is a reasonable payment of delinquent taxes, the city commission said last night. The commission, wrestling with a financial problem of which the street program, carried on under a WPA project, is but a part, entertained a group of 20 Cisco business men who urged that it adopt an aggressive delinquent tax collection policy.

F. D. Wright, special attorney to represent the city in bond litigation, was commissioned to aid City Attorney Clark W. Roberts in the collection of these taxes and the two were given broad authority in such collection.

It was pointed out that more than $14,000 in current city taxes are delinquent. Although some of this is owned by citizens who cannot pay, much of it is owned by those who can, and it is not fair to those who do pay for such delinquents to "take a free ride" spokesmen for the group last night declared. They said there are instances where widows over 50 years of age have taken 18 washings and scraped nickels together to pay their taxes while men who are able to pay do not do so.

Mr. Wright told the commission it was his opinion that the city could live without suit on personal property against which taxes are owed.

Commissioners declared that the city faces a difficult period which may extend over a long time and that it was going to take the fullest community cooperation to meet the issue.

The commission voted to install a transformer to serve the cabins at Lake Cisco which are now on the same electric power line as the city water pumps. The heavy pull of the pump motors drags the power so low at times that motors in the ice boxes are sometimes burned out, making a separate transformer necessary.

The fire department was instructed to send two members to the state firemen's school at A. & M. college, for which a three per cent credit on the city fire insurance key rate is awarded.

August 1 the city will put into effect a regulation requiring all purchases for the city to be made only on purchase orders. These orders, signed by the proper authorities, must then be presented with bills for payment.

Lisenbee, Cisco; Mrs. Frank Wood, Dallas; Mrs. Nat T. Henderson, San Angelo; Mrs. Billy Barrett, Las Vegas, New Mexico; Mrs. J. L. Brown and Mrs. Roy Harbin of Cisco. Nineteen grandchildren also survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Flocum of Tucson, Arizona, are visiting in the home of Mrs. W. S. DeRossett. Mrs. Flocum will be remembered as the former Eloise Rhea.

Profits from the sale of these placards and stickers will be used to purchase uniforms for Scouts without them.

BRITAIN SAYS GERMANS LOSE 133 PLANES

LONDON, July 24 (AP).—Britain, trading aerial blows again today with Germany, estimated that Germany has lost at least 133 planes in the past five weeks of intensive raiding, and 4,000 to 5,000 since the war began.

It was believed, however, that the numerical strength of the Nazi air force still is greater than at the start of fighting—due to mass production methods.

British sources pointed out that proportionately the Royal Air Force has gathered strength more rapidly, thanks to more than doubled home production and increased American deliveries.

There was no estimate of the total FAR losses during the war. Reuters, British News agency, said that while at least 133 Nazi raiders were brought down in the last five weeks of raids over England, the RAF lost 91 planes in raiding farflung German objectives.

German warplanes sped over the much-traveled war air routes to Britain again today, striking at Northwest England and Southeast Scotland.

Anti-aircraft batteries set up heavy barrages to drive the raiders off.

Former Gov. Earl K. Long Is Indicted

NEW ORLEANS, July 24 (AP).—Former Governor Earl K. Long was indicted late Monday by the parish (county) grand jury on embezzlement charges involving payroll "deadheads" during the bitter February gubernatorial campaign.

Indicted with him were three former members of the Dock board and the former assistant to the board's general manager.

Three indictments, charging embezzlement and extortion to the five men, some of them among the most prominent in the city, were returned by the jury whose investigation of a "special" payroll investigation of Governor Sam Jones took office May 14, succeeding Long.

Sixteen persons were named as "deadheads" in the three indictments but they were not charged. The embezzlement indictments contained specific charges covering alleged diversion of public funds through payroll padding for the week of Feb. 14 to 21, the crucial seven days before the gubernatorial runoff primary in which Jones crushed the machine led by Long.

This was the first indictment returned against Earl K. Long, brother of Senator Huey P. Long, who built a political empire in the state before he was shot to death in the capitol building in Baton Rouge in 1935.

DETAILS OF VFW EVENT WORKING OUT

Finer points of the arrangements for the state-wide jamboree to be staged by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Lake Cisco August 16 and 17 are developing to a successful degree, it was announced at a meeting of the committee in charge today.

Handbills and placards are being distributed over this vicinity, and formal invitations have been extended to the various dignitaries of the V. F. W. and American Legion posts all over the state.

A surprising amount of cooperation and enthusiasm has developed from many points in Texas, not to mention Eastland county, itself. It has already been indicated that August 16 and 17 will be two of the most active days of the year here, and preparations are under way to accommodate one of the largest gatherings ever to assemble here.

Training Bill Moves Step Nearer Reality

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP).—Compulsory military training moved a long step nearer reality Tuesday when the senate military committee approved a revised Burke-Wadsworth bill providing for registration of 42,000,000 men, of whom 1,500,000 would be drafted in the first year.

Details remain to be worked out, but in the main the measure calls for:

1. Registration of all males between 18 and 64.
2. Actual conscription of about 1,500,000 men between 21 and 30 during the first year, starting Oct. 1, 1940. There are an estimated 11,500,000 between these ages.
3. A training period of one year for those selected.
4. Base pay equal to that of the lower grades of the regular army forces, starting at $21 a month.
5. Later draftees to be chosen from the 21 to 45 age groups.

Senator Sheppard (D-Tex), chairman of the committee, predicted the measure would be ready for senate consideration next week. Sheppard did not announce the committee vote, but said there were "few dissenting" voices.

In explaining the measure to reporters, Brig. Gen. W. E. Shedd, assistant chief of staff, said the men would be classified for exemptions by local boards, similar to the world war draft boards. Men with families, he said, or men employed in national work would be placed in deferred groups.

79-Year-Old Pioneer Dies at Eastland

EASTLAND, July 24, (Sp).—Mrs. Talatha Josephine Duncan, 79, Eastland county pioneer, died Monday night at her home at 517 Bassett street in Eastland as the old fashioned clock she had owned 54 years, ticked off the hour of 11:30.

Funeral services were to be conducted at the Old Merriman cemetery, just south of Ranger at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday by Rev. Will Hamner. Burial will be in the Merriman cemetery by the side of her late husband, Tom W. Duncan, who died 17 years ago.

Mrs. Duncan, a native Texan, married Tom Duncan, a native of Kentucky. The couple settled 54 years ago on land they had acquired at Merriman and lived there until some twenty-two or three years ago when they moved to Eastland built the modern brick residence that was still Mrs. Duncan's home at the time of her death. They also owned a considerable amount of other residential and business property in Eastland.

The deceased had no children. She is survived by two brothers, Joe Fox of Olden, and Fayette Fox of Union community; and three sisters, Mrs. Leo McDougall of Big Spring, Mrs. Linda Huffman of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Rosa Bishop of Eastland. She is also survived by a large number of nieces and nephews.

"Aunt Josie," as Mrs. Duncan was affectionately called by her friends and relatives, was a good neighbor and a kind, sympathetic friend who contributed of her financial means in aiding others. She was a life long member of the Baptist church.

Total federal tax on a package of 20 cigarets now is 6.5 cents.

Williamson Would Make Able Legislator

The candidacy of J. M. Williamson to represent district No. 106 in the Texas legislature affords Eastland county opportunity to claiming one of the ablest members of the new legislative body.

Williamson is a man of constructive ideas that will benefit the entire state. A diplomat by nature and training, courteous, affable, he can see and understand the other fellow's problems as well as his own. He is a man who does not wish to hog the whole show, but is willing to give and take in the legislative game.

Williamson believes in and will support fundamental policies that people hold dear, and it is the candid opinion of the Cisco Daily Press that other legislators will be conscious of his presence at an early stage of the session, if he proves to be the choice of Eastland county democrats in the primary elections July 27, or in the August primaries, should there be a run-off.

While this seems to be a young man's day, it is safe to have older experienced men to ballast the ship of state, and to guide its course with caution.

His ideas on taxation would be a safe guide to the faith and practices of every member. Realizing that it requires funds to operate the state government, he would favor levying this tax on those interests most able to bear the burden, without confiscation or curtailing industries on which the major levies would fall. He does not believe in taxing industries to the extent of making such enterprises unprofitable, thus "killing the bird that lays the golden egg."

Williamson is an organizer, and never in a hurry to rush his measures through to final passage, but his policy is always to make those who may oppose him see the merits of his position, and once seen, believes he will gain support from those who would accomplish something worth while, not only for his own district, but that which will redound to the weal of the entire state.

There are 13 synonyms for the word "intoxicated," but many folks find the hang-over the same.

Double Header Produces Two Best Games

(By Soft Ball Reporter)

The double header last night turned out to be two of the best games we have had. Putnam nosed out Scranton 5 to 4 while Red Front barely eked out Miller-Penney 7, to 6.

In the first game, Scranton led most of the way 4 to 1, but Putnam scored 3 in the 4th to tie the game up. In the 7th Crowell, a new man from Dallas, delivered a line single down the first base line to score Hughes who had walked. This was the ball game. Putnam led in hits 9 to 4 for Scranton.

In the second game, Miller-Penney, with many of their old players back and with lots of fire and hustle, almost took the ball game. It seems well to see those fellows come back and play the kind of ball they're capable of. Moffett was back in left, Jones was in short field, Howsley played 2nd, and all of them talked it up. Warfield only allowed three hits which is good in anybody's league. White tripled to deep center. Robinson had a line double, and Garrett a single back of third for the only hits for Miller-Penney. Meanwhile Red Front collected 8 hits and should have sewed the game up. Walks hurt the Red Front pitchers and they were in a good many tight.

These games do not count in the batting or team averages as do the regular games. One more game will be necessary to determine the 3rd place winner of the 2nd division. This will be between Red Front and Putnam next week. It should prove to be very interesting.

Smith, Lubbock; Mrs. William Sheriffs, Austin; Herchel Smith, Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Todd, Gorman; Mrs. R. P. Truly, Eastland; F. P. Yarger, Salem, Ill.; Mrs. Lela M. White, Lyons, Kan.; Coleman Williams, Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Ross, Fort Stockton; Mrs. Maybell Davenport, Sherman; Walter Hill, Gorman.

Miss Genevieve Truly, deputy county clerk, stated Monday that there were about 100 ballots still out, at that time, and it was likely that quite a number of absentee ballots will fail to reach the office before the expiration of absentee voting at midnight Tuesday.

ing as Putnam is out for revenge. Red Front has won 3 straight now and Putnam wants to put a stop to it, as they probably will, but don't leave until all three of those Lo-boes are out in the last inning. Tonight Miller-Penney meets Scranton for their 1st game this division. Both are coming back and it should be a very good game. On Thursday night the Cisco all stars will go to Ranger for a return game with the Elk's club there. On Friday night Conoco plays Recreation in what should be a whale of a game. Something is bound to happen.

FLYING CO-ED

BY MARY KINNAVEY MOORE

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
ANNE NORRIS—wealthy college student, looking for thrills, enrolls in CAA flying course.
GEORGETTE PARKER—Anne's friend. Learning to fly is a serious business with her.
TONY SCOTT—college playboy, son of a gangster, envies Anne's social position.
CAPTAIN DICK DOUGLAS—instructor of the student flying course at Midland University.

YESTERDAY: The gunner, realizing Anne could identify them, trail her as she flies through the storm. Dick drives by in time to save her. He advises her not to return to the tavern, takes her home. Anne is definitely through with Tony.

CHAPTER VIII

THAT Anne's alert mind, her poise, and her ease, were to be of immeasurable help in making a pilot of her, Captain Douglas knew during the next instruction period, a few days later. He had feared that the distressing events of the Villa Aloha incident might still be worrying her and would affect her reactions to flight training. But, if she were worrying, she did not show it.

"Can you name these instruments for me?" he asked after they were in the cockpit, safety belts securely fastened.

"I believe I can." Pointing to them, each in turn, Anne recited: "Magnetic compass, air speed indicator, turn and bank indicator, rate of climb indicator, altimeter, tachometer, and—" she hesitated for a moment—"clock."

She brought out the last very impressively as though identifying it were a great achievement, and they both laughed.

"Fine," Dick complimented her. "And the name of each of these explains its purpose, except the tachometer. What is it?"

"Oh, I really read up on that," Anne laughed. "It measures the revolutions per minute of the airplane engine."

"Good. These are the instruments you'll use to get your instrument rating from the Civil Aeronautics Authority, but your directional gyro and your artificial horizon also are standard equipment."

"Isn't blind flying, instrument flying?" Anne asked.

"Yes," was the answer. "You'll learn a lot more about these later. Now let's see about the controls."

THE plane was still on the line, its engine not yet running. Dick Douglas lightly grasped the stick and put his foot on the rudder bar, as he instructed Anne.

"Get the feel of these, as I put pressure on them."

Her own right hand sought the stick before her, and she stretched her smartly clad feet to the rudder.

"As I push the stick forward," and he gently pushed it away from him, "it depresses the elevators and the nose of the plane goes down. Move it back, and the nose lifts. Move it to the right or left and it operates the ailerons. These control the lateral balance of the plane, as you saw in your first flight instruction."

As he spoke, and demonstrated these operations, Anne could feel her own stick move and she saw the effect of these movements on the plane.

"Now on the rudder bar." His voice was quiet and business like.

"Press on the left and the rudder will swing to the same side, thus changing the direction of the plane toward the left. And pressure on the right will turn the ship in that direction."

Anne was alert to response of stick and rudder to the light almost imperceptible pressure put upon them.

"When we are in the air," Captain Douglas went on, "I will show you again how even a slight movement of the rudder and the stick controls the plane."

Her instructor signaled the attendant mechanic to start the engine, and seconds later the prop was whirling and the chocks were away from the wheels.

"Look forward, watch the horizon and the nose of the ship as I take off," Dick told her as the ship went into the wind and he "gave it the gun."

THE ship rose in a long, slow climb, above the trees in the pasture beyond the airport, over the clubhouse of the nearby golf club, and then it leveled off, its nose pointed directly at the horizon.

"There are four basic fundamentals of flying," Dick explained, "straight and level flight, the climb, the glide and the turn. You have seen all of these demonstrated in the past couple of minutes, and you'll see, as your instructions continue, that all flying technique consists of the use of combinations of these."

Once again, Anne was told to follow her companion's motions as he used stick and rudder. At each change in pressure, she was conscious of the response of the ship. Her hand was holding the stick and her feet were upon the bar, the nose of the ship on the horizon, when she glanced at her instructor, and saw that his hands were resting on his knees, and that his feet were not on the rudder bars.

The realization that she was flying the plane herself terrified her momentarily and she clutched firmly upon the stick, pressing heavily to the right on the rudder bar. The ship turned to the right, but Captain Douglas shook his head.

"Not so hard," he warned, as he took over the controls himself.

Anne relaxed at once and her touch again was light and easy as she followed his actions.

Before long, the handling of controls was given to her again, and this time, she used her hands and feet in an attempt to co-ordinate the controls properly.

After a few brief explanations of the simpler maneuvers of the plane, Dick turned the ship toward the airport, circled it once and coming into the wind, landed on the long runway.

Anne was smiling as he helped her from the ship. Tony and the shooting, at least for the time, had been forgotten. Dick's terse "Nice going!" made everything right.

BUT at that moment Tony was stepping from a phone booth at the Villa Aloha, his face white with rage. He had just made his eighth attempt to reach Anne by telephone, and been told, for the eighth time, that she was not in.

He had to admit that his carefully laid plan had backfired. He had hoped and planned that Anne's visit to the roadhouse would be discovered. He had reasoned that if she were expelled from Midland University, and involved in scandal, he could induce her to marry him immediately.

When the shooting had taken place, his first thought had been to get away before the police arrived. His second thought had been that this was a marvelous chance to involve Anne in a nasty mess. He had known that she would resent his desertion of her but he had thought that it would be balanced later by her gratitude to him for standing by her when other friends deserted her.

But, by some miracle, she had gotten safely away. Now she refused to have anything more to do with him. He had to admit that he had lost. Tony Scott was not a good loser.

He slumped down at the bar, his chin on his hand, and growled, "Harry, I'd give a lot to know how that girl got away from here."

The bartender stopped polishing glasses long enough to say, "If you mean your red-haired friend the other night, I can tell you."

"How?" Tony stared at him in amazement.

The bartender looked around before he spoke. "She beat it out the back way and scrambled up the road. Those two guys—you know who I mean—went after her. They wanted to scare her into keeping her mouth shut. They just about caught her a ways up the road when she was picked up by a guy in a little car. He was just driving down the road."

Tony scowled. "I'd like to lay my hands on the guy. He sure

"Joe recognized his car," the bartender said casually, resuming his polishing. "Yellow roadster with wire wheels. Goes by here a lot. Belongs to that government flying instructor out to the airport."

"Douglas?" Tony asked, an ugly light in his eyes.

"Don't know his name," the bartender said.

Tony thought for a moment. Dick Douglas drove a yellow roadster with wire wheels.

"That's the second time that guy messed things up for me!"

FOR a long moment he sat lost in thought. At last he spoke again to the bartender, leaning across the bar and speaking in a confidential tone.

"Harry, get hold of Jumps Daley for me. Know where he might be?"

"I could find out."

"Find him, and have him meet me here. It's important."

Tony's expression wasn't pleasant as he added, "I'm going to get that guy Douglas if it's the last thing I do!"

Value Increases With Price of Gold

DENVER, July 24 (AP).—Officials who spent $4,000 to cover the dome of Colorado's state capitol building with gold leaf 32 years ago were criticized for "extravagance" but—

The gold, approximately 200 ounces of it, was worth $20 an ounce when placed on the dome, or a total of about $4,000. Now gold is $35 an ounce and so the dome's market value is about $7,000.

It's a book profit, however, for much of the gold leaf has "eroded" or been scratched away by boots of workmen. But the gold never tarnished and seems as bright today as when it was put in place.

His Presidency has in eight years become ill of that common disease of rulership by which so many good men and women of history's past—and present—have been "yes-namanned" or "yes-womaned" into horrible disillusionment when an inexorable destiny with a stuffed club finally caught up with their insufficiency. The Kaiser strutted it. "Me und Gott," cried he. The liquid eyes of a Hitler glows with the fanatical fervor of a self-exaltation. "I am the instrument of the divine." Napoleon brooded over God's final terrible mistake at St. Helena. And all over the world from generation to generation, countless little and larger dictators have arisen and fallen, each convinced of a divine mission of salvation, each determined to seize, and hold the power to perform it. His Presidency is a master politician. He likes the job of being president and he knows the arts and finesse of using the political weapons, and thrills in doing so. He can with impunity, as no other president or high politician before him has been able to do, disregard party laws and labels. He can name rank republicans to his cabinet. He can suggest to the democrats of Georgia and other states that they put the good of the country

2 Typical experiences WITH THE FREE MILE-DIAL CAREFUL SHOPPER type tells you: "I'm driving the car all day while my husband's at work, so I really buy most of the family gasoline out of my own budget. If I can get even 2 or 3 miles more to a gallon I want to know it. That's why I went to a Conoco station for my Mile-Dial—not just because it's free, but because it really lets you know your true mileage, exactly as a woman wants to really know about anything she pays for. I like buying tested things—the same as any up-to-date consumer—and this certified Mile-Dial is like giving us consumers our own easy way of testing Conoco Bronz-z-z for mileage. "Anyway, it's almost like a game, dialing your correct mileage on the Mile-Dial—awfully clever. My husband says so, too. By the way, my driving is just as economical as his, the way it proves out on our Mile-Dial. Isn't that interesting? And we're keeping on dialing to make sure of our average in all different driving. Right now, after 61 gallons of Bronz-z-z in all, we're a good 200 miles ahead of what we used to expect from that much gasoline." "DIDN'T CARE" type of driver says: "I didn't much care what gasoline I bought as I went along. But this Mile-Dial being free, and really daring you to keep your own close tabs on Conoco Bronz-z-z gasoline, I went for it. And now I know why they've got the gimp to let the Mile-Dial tell all. For you can see by my Mile-Dial right on the dash that I've gone 633 miles on 37 gallons of Conoco Bronz-z-z. "Now if you'll watch this smart Mile-Dial work—next to automatic—you'll see it giving the answer: . . . above 17 miles to the gallon of Bronz-z-z in this big eight, around town here. But I'm leaving for about a 700-mile trip—mostly open country. So don't be surprised if I even get better mileage. And don't say that's a brag, because you can't help believing the Mile-Dial. Besides settling the economy of Conoco Bronz-z-z it's sort of swell fun dialing your honest mileage. The Conoco boys must know what their gasoline's got, to give you a Mile-Dial free. I'll bet you would like one yourself and they're free as air, around a Conoco station. You ought to go quick and get yours."
