

NEARLY ALL COUNTY CONTESTS DECIDED

SMITH AND BURLESON IN TIGHT RACE

Left of Field of five in Closely Punched Contest

Lee Smith of Throckmorton county led the field in the race for the nomination of state senator from the 24th district in returns tabulated yesterday. Smith held a margin of approximately 1,600 votes over his nearest rival, Omar Burleson of Jones county.

Complete returns from the district today show:

Smith	12,012
Burleson	10,406
Collie	9,285
Blanton	6,585
Blanton	5,898
Blanton	3,510

Smith and Burleson were in a close race for the nomination. Smith received less than 50 per cent, the returns show, making the contest anybody's game.

Garrett Lead Over Russell is 3,674

Cong. Clyde L. Garrett, seeking re-election to congress over four opponents, emerged from Saturday's first democratic primary with a lead of 3,674 votes over Sam Russell of Stephenville, his nearest opponent. Garrett's total from 12 counties, eight of them complete with only about 1,000 votes yet to be heard from, was 19,148 at noon today. Russell had 15,474.

O'DANIEL HAS 53 PER CENT OF ALL VOTES

AUSTIN, July 29 (AP)—Four senators and 41 members of the house of representatives are known to have been re-nominated on basis of incomplete, unofficial reports today.

Tabulations by house and senate also show that 21 house members and three senators defeated with six senators and 14 representatives facing run-off reports were not sufficiently complete to reflect the fate of all 181 members who sought re-election.

Meanwhile, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel clung to a substantial majority over all opponents, in the 11 a. m. tabulation of the Texas election bureau giving him more than 53 per cent in all votes, compared with the 51 per cent he received two years ago.

Several Mentioned For Wallace Place

WASHINGTON, July 29 (AP)—Capital speculation brought several names forward Sunday for the post of Secretary of Agriculture when Henry A. Wallace resigns or takes a leave of absence to campaign for the vice presidency.

Among those mentioned were Chester C. Davis, a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve system; Representative Jones of Texas, of the house agriculture committee; Claude R. Wickard, present undersecretary of agriculture; W. L. Wilson, head of the department's extension service; H. R. Tolley, head of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics; and R. M. Evans, AAA administrator.

PLANES FIGHT SIX MILES OVER ENGLAND

New Weapon Used By Germans as Fighters Carry Bombs

Sixty German and British planes spat gunfire Sunday in an eerie battle just under the aerial ceiling—nearly six miles above the southeast shores of Britain. It was the nearest approach in history to a battle of the stratosphere and it introduced a fleet new weapon in the hands of Germany's relentlessly warring pilot-soldiers, a bomb-bearing fighter plane. Earth-bound watchers, to whom the tangling planes were no more than specks before their squinting eyes, saw five German and two British planes grow larger and larger, finally to come tumbling to the ground. That, at least was the British air ministry's tally; the Germans listed five British and two German planes shot down Sunday but did not give the locale.

The battle was the high spot of the week-end aerial warfare which saw the Germans operating from bases so near to England's island fortress that they dared to hasten their bombs over broad single-seater pursuit planes, short-ranged but speedy, rather than relying entirely on the more ponderous bomber planes.

The bombardment of Britain continued on into Monday morning. The British said it was scattered and not very effective, but the Germans had a different story.

At least nine, possibly twelve, ships, several of them warships, were sunk, Nazi communiques said, crediting:

- To bombers: A 7,000-ton auxiliary cruiser, sunk.
- Two destroyers sunk.
- A 5,000-ton merchantman, sunk.
- A destroyer and two merchant ships, so heavily hit by bombs that they are regarded as lost.
- To a German submarine: An auxiliary cruiser of 18,000 tons, sunk.
- Four other armed vessels, totaling 30,000 tons, sunk.
- An armed, 6,000-ton merchantman, torpedoed.

At the same time, suspension of all passenger train service between occupied and unoccupied French zones on German orders was announced at Vichy.

This may have no military significance—or it may be the tip-off of an impending mass invasion of Britain. Cessation of railroad traffic between Germany and the Netherlands was the curtain-raiser to the Nazi drive into the Lowlands.

Assault Prepared
If the Germans are putting the final touches on preparations for an assault on England—and the end of advantageous summer flying weather is approaching—suspension of French train service might be portentous.

In such a case, the German would prevent commuters between occupied and unoccupied territory from divulging the state of Nazi readiness withdrawn from normal use could speed Nazi mobilization at jumping-off places for the drive.

Retaliatory British air raids on German-held areas were concentrated on harbors and airfields near the coast, indicating they might have definite preventive aims against a Nazi blitzkrieg attempt.

An air-ministry communique specifically mentioned eight air bases in Holland and Germany as well as barges in Holland, the Dutch Nord Sea Canal and Dutch and German docks and oil reservoirs as objectives of RAF Lumber. Saturday. It said all British aircraft returned.

Repetition of heavy German air raids on Britain also was a Half-Hour Visit Lasts Six Days

Houston honeymooners Earl and Erika Mooney planned a 30-minute visit to Juarez, Mexico, but it turned out that their stay on the other side of the border lasted six days. When they attempted to reenter the United States at El Paso it was found that Mrs. Mooney was a German citizen who had not taken out American papers. After six days of deliberation, immigration officials ruled that Mrs. Mooney became an American citizen by her marriage and allowed the couple to re-enter and continue their wedding trip.

Americas In Agreement on Trusteeship

HAVANA, July 29 (AP)—Machinery for swift creation of Pan-American trusteeship over European possessions in America whose status might be upset by the war was reported Sunday night to be included in a final, "cordial" agreement at the American foreign ministers' conference.

Although the contents of the "act of Havana" were not disclosed, an authoritative source said it prohibited any American or non-American nation from acquiring any such possession.

If any nation considered dangerous, imminent, it was understood, the projected act would provide for immediate consultations to take measures for an "administrative" protectorate over the colony, provided there was agreement that it was under threat of outside-influence.

This source said that the main part of the agreement embraces a compromise on Argentina's insistence that the question of man-

JAPS ARREST 11 BRITISH BUSINESS MEN

SHANGHAI, July 29 (AP)—It was learned from private advices Monday that eleven prominent British businessmen in Japan have been arrested by Japanese authorities in five cities. Previous reports had listed nine men.

All were said to have been arrested Saturday in sudden raids without warning. The Japanese censorship suppressed all news on the subject. Reasons for the arrests were not disclosed, but Peking circles believed that pressure from Germany on Japan was at least partly responsible.

One of those held was said to be E. W. James of Kobe, who returned from Canada only last Friday.

The businessmen were identified as: C. H. N. James, retired naval officer and chief representative in Japan of the British Federation of Industries; J. R. Drummond, F. M. Jones, E. W. James, J. F. James, two brothers named Ringer, a Mr. Holder, president of the British Association, and H. C. McNaughton, honorary Greek consular representative.

James was said to have been arrested in Tokyo, Drummond, Jones, Holder and E. W. James at Kobe; J. F. James and one of the Ringer brothers at Simonsuki, MacNaughton at Osaka, and the second Ringer at Nagasaki.

Italian Cities Bombed by British

SUSAK, Yugo-Slavia, July 28 (AP)—Heavy cannonading rattled windows in this border town opposite Italian Fiume Sunday. Reports from across the frontier said British planes had bombed Trieste, Pola and Udine.

It also was reported that two British submarines which had entered the upper Adriatic were sunk by an Italian warship.

COUNTY JUDGE RACE TO GO INTO RUN-OFF

Crossley and Williamson Are Left in Contest for Legislature

With W. Lee O'Daniel assured of re-nomination over a strong group of candidates in the first primary for the second consecutive time, Eastland county voters today reviewed the results of one of the heaviest votes in the county's history and discovered that they had almost completed their job of nominating county and district officers in the democratic primary Saturday.

Left for determination in the August 24 primary are only one county office and one state representative race.

The county office is that of county judge in which the incumbent, W. S. Adamson, will confront C. S. (Claborn) Eldridge. Adamson received 3,011 votes and Eldridge 1,454.

In the contest for representative from the 106th district, comprising Eastland county alone, P. L. Crossley, the incumbent, and J. M. Williamson of Cisco survived the first primary out of a field of seven. Crossley received 3,156 votes and Williamson 954. Milton Lawrence of Eastland was second with 935 votes.

Burkett Wins
Omar Burkett, representing the 107th district, floridal district, composed of Eastland and Callahan counties, was renominated by a good majority over Ed M. Curry and June K. Hendricks, receiving majorities in both counties.

In Eastland county, Burkett received 4,390 votes to 1918 and 1089 for Curry. In Callahan county he received 1,877 to 641 for Curry and 410 for Hendricks.

Loss Woods was returned as sheriff of Eastland county by a large majority over his two opponents, while R. V. (Rip) Galloway, seeking a third term as county clerk, bested Walter Gray by better than 800 votes.

Chief Justice W. P. Leslie of the 11th appeals court had no opposition.

Neither District Judge B. W. Patterson nor District Judge George L. Davenport had opponents and were re-elected to four year terms. District Attorney Earl Conner, Jr., likewise was returned to office without opposition, as were District Clerk John White County Treasurer Garland Brant and County Surveyor T. H. Landon.

Oscar Lyerla was re-elected democratic county chairman.

Siekman Re-Elected From Rising Star

Fred Siekman of Rising Star was re-elected county commissioner for Precinct No. 3 over three opponents in Saturday's primary, unofficial returns showed. Siekman received 691 votes to 233 for E. L. Burkhead; 100 for L. A. Bucy and 79 for Mart Oney.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
ANNE NORRIS—wealthy college student, looking for thrills, enrolls in CAA flying course.
GEORGETTE PARKER—Anne's friend. Learning to fly is a serious business with her.
TONY SCOTT—college playboy, son of a gangster, envies Anne's social position.
CAPTAIN DICK DOUGLAS—instructor of the student flying course at Midland University.

sound of voices outside, and a cry of "Stop him!" Someone coming toward the hangar, had seen Tony's mad dash. Help was coming.

"Don't move," Dick ordered the man on the floor, and at that moment the hangar lights came on. The empty fire extinguisher slipped from Anne's hands, fell clattering to the floor.

She was conscious again of that terrible throbbing in her head. She was half aware of men coming into the hangar, and of Dick's arms catching her as she fell.

"I don't know how long I was in there," she explained, "but I had just got out when I heard you whistling, Captain Douglas, as you came to the hangar door. You know the rest."

"You've had enough for one evening," Dick's voice had a note of tenderness in it she had never heard before. "Come on, I'll drive you two back to the house. You can have your car put into one of the hangars and get them tomorrow."

"No, I want to take mine," Georgette said. "I have an 8 o'clock class tomorrow at chemistry lab, and I'll never get up early enough to come out here for my car first. You bring Anne home, and I'll go on ahead. That is, if you are sure you are all right, Anne."

"Of course," Anne protested, though a bit weakly.

YESTERDAY: Anne regains consciousness, bound and gagged, in a dark locker. She manages to free herself, creeps into the hangar. Dick comes in. Tony threatens him with a gun, plans to force Douglas to take off in the damaged plane. Anne looks for a weapon.

BUT it was Georgette's voice which she first heard in her returning consciousness.

"What could have happened?" Georgette was asking. "Why the hell are you here? She was at the house studying when I left."

"I don't know what it's all about—that was Dick's voice—but she evidently tried to stop those lugs from tampering with the ship. She stopped the whole business with a fire extinguisher!"

The throbbing in Anne's head was lessening. She opened her eyes slowly and recognized the lounge of the administration building. They must have carried her there from the hangar. Someone was holding a bottle of ammonia to her nose, and gradually she was feeling alive again.

"Take it easy," Dick cautioned as she tried to sit up.

"Oh, Anne, I'm so sorry." There was a sob in Georgette's voice. "What did they try to do to you?"

"I'm all right now," Anne tried to sound cheerful, "but what about the ship? Where is that man and what happened to Tony?"

"We'll have the ship thoroughly checked in the morning," Dick reassured her. "Tony got to his car and made a quick getaway, but the police are on his trail. The other has been taken to jail."

"How did you happen to come out here? What were they going to do?" Georgette asked.

Anne told them of the call from Clarice, her own drive to the airport, her discovery of Tony and his accomplice, and of their knocking her out and concealing her in a supply closet.

CHAPTER XII
MOMENTS were precious. Thinking desperately, Anne wished she had a gun. And in the same moment wondered if she would have been able to use it. The only gun she had ever used in her life was a water gun, "a squirt gun" they'd called them—

"A water gun, a squirt gun"—of what was she trying to think? The fire extinguishers! A perfect weapon. There were small hand extinguishers in all hangars, if only by some miracle there was one near her and she could find it in the darkness.

Cautiously she reached along the wall, moving forward as she did so, and in a moment her hand touched the sought-for metal container. With quick, silent movements she took it down and crept toward the three men.

As she drew near, she could make out the man holding the gun directly at Dick, and she could see Tony beside the ship. She moved more cautiously than ever, around the side of the plane until she was within a few feet of the men. She lifted the fire extinguisher, and with a prayer that she'd not miss her mark, turned the full force of the chemical at Jumps Daley.

Anne told them of the call from Clarice, her own drive to the airport, her discovery of Tony and his accomplice, and of their knocking her out and concealing her in a supply closet.

He gave a choked, gasping cry, and the gun dropped noisily onto the floor, as he collapsed. Dick almost automatically had the gun off the floor and in his own hand, and Anne's voice frightened asked:

"Dick! Are you all right?"

Tony saw his own danger, fled from the hangar, taking advantage of Dick's distraction as he turned to Anne.

During her flight instructions, she had been attentive and responsive. Dick Douglas admitted to himself that she had ability and good flying technique. She was utterly at ease in the ship, and she was light on the controls. If at times she had been over-confident, the ensuing errors of judgment had taught her caution. Yes, she was rounding into first-class shape as a pilot. Her increasing interest and enthusiasm was keeping his own interest at a peak.

Georgette brought Anne to the field on the day of her solo flight. "I couldn't possibly miss coming out with you," she told Anne. "And I believe that I'm happier over this than you are yourself."

"You know I'm pleased," Anne reproved her, "and I only hope that I'll be able to show Dick—Captain Douglas—that I have learned. I guess he's still none too happy over having me as a student; at any rate he certainly is oblivious to me, except when he's instructing."

Anne couldn't admit, even to herself, that she loved Dick Douglas and was piqued by his too evident indifference. Her lovely face was clouded when they reached the airport, and even the prospect of her solo flight, and the joy of an entirely new and very effective flying suit and helmet did not lift her spirits.

Dick's cheery greeting, his air of confident expectancy as he helped her with her flying preparations changed her mood, and by the time she was ready for the take-off, flying was of prime importance to her.

"Happy landing," called Georgette.

"Do half as well as you have been doing," Dick's encouragement was exciting and stimulating, "and you'll be checked on the first flight."

THE response of stick and rudder, and the joy of realizing that she had made a very good take-off added to Anne's exhilaration.

sky, but the sun was shining and the earth was vividly green and fresh. She thought of this as she turned into the wind with the ship slowly losing altitude, and almost before a perfect three-point landing, her ship was gliding across the rain-drenched field.

Unknowingly, she brought it to a halt in a shallow puddle of water. She cut the switch and, looking from the cockpit, saw Georgette happily waving to her, and Dick, a satisfied expression on his face, striding toward the plane.

Her glorious sense of success was dimmed as she thought of his lack of interest in her as a person. But she quickly unsnapped the safety belt and stepped from the ship, determined to be coolly pleased as he greeted her. Chin up, eyes dancing, Anne jumped out, slipped and fell into the puddle of muddy water. The stunning flying suit was soaked, her hands were filthy, and her face was splattered. Dick ran to her, grasping her wrists and helping her to her feet. "Good flight. Are you hurt?"

"No indeed!" She was trying to be haughty, and pushing him away.

A look of relief came over his face, and before she could protest, his grip on her wrists tightened and she was pulled into his arms. "You are wonderful," was all he said.

Planes Fight--

sign that the nazis are continuing their softening process in near-readiness to attack.

Powerful new flights of nazi bombers, accompanied as usual lately by strong fighting plane escorts smashed at the English southeast coast in an hour-long battle in which at least sixty whiplanes engaged.

A British air ministry communique early Sunday reported spasmodic nazi forays throughout Saturday night, chiefly in Wales and Southeast England. Two German bombers were reported shot down.

Bombardment of harbor facilities at Swansea and several airports in Cornwall — the extreme southwest—was claimed by the Germans, who said the air fighting had cost Britain five planes in twenty-four hours to two nazi losses.

Successful land action against the British along the Libyan-Egyptian frontier was reported by the Italian high command as well as renewed air attack on the British naval base at Alexandria, Egypt. It said four British armored cars were captured and six others damaged in sharp skirmishing on the North African war front.

Britain, closely watching a new southeastern Europe take shape under the aegis of the Rome-Berlin axis, was said to have drafted a protest to Rumania against its recent anti-British measures.

Particularly, it was said, Britain is concerned over Rumania's confiscation of British oil properties, its stoppage of British shipping on the Danube River and the seizure of British tankers.

In the cycle of visits by southeastern statesmen to Germany and Italy, President Joseph Tiso of Slovakia — the German-protected segment of dissolved Checho Slovakia—arrived at Salzburg, Germany, and conferred with Fuehrer Adolf Hitler and the Nazi Foreign Minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

In the Far East, Gen. Issaku Nishinara and his trade mission to French Indo-China suddenly hopped off from Hanoi by special plane to Tokyo, cancelling a projected visit to Batavia, Dutch East Indies.

Considerable significance was attached to his abrupt decision to report home, just when the United States has imposed export licenses on oil and scrap iron much needed for Japan's war machine.

Authoritative reports in Shanghai said nine leading British businessmen in Japan had been arrested in raids on five Japanese cities yesterday for undisclosed reasons.

Jack Lauderdale and George Echardt of Stephenville left today by plane for a trip to Washington, D. C., New York, Niagara Falls, Chicago, and Cincinnati. They expect to be away for a week or ten days.

Mrs. E. H. Pearsons and daughter, Ann, of Hico are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Clark.

Chesterfields are Cooler

Do you smoke the cigarette that SATISFIES

The reason smokers find Chesterfield completely satisfying is their Right Combination of the best cigarette tobaccos that grow in all Tobacco, U. S. A. and in Turkey and Greece.

You can look the country over and you won't find another cigarette that gives you anything like Chesterfield's Cooler...Definitely Milder...Better Taste.
