By GEORGE

This is a week set aside for the purpose of renewing the American mind appreciation of the virtues and benefits of an almost forgotten thing — the constitution of the United States. It was more appropriate that we do this. While democracies are crumbling abroad under the impact of savage regimes, we can well look, not at what is written, but to what is really believed of the principles which are there expressed for the foundation of our government.

No form of government under the sun of itself has assured security and salvation. Force of some sort is required. There are two forces in the world, and the critical period through which we and the rest of the world are now passing essentially involves a choice between these two. The difference between them can be stated in principle as the direction in which power flows.

We can appreciate the significance of our American constitution when we understand that it is not an instrument to regulate the activities of the people, but it is simply a law to govern the government. It is a statement of the powers that the people are willing to surrender to the government in order that it may properly exercise certain necessary functions of regulation and defense. Such a statement of the powers given to government can be a real instrument only when it is recognized that authority is primarily vested in the people, and when the element of force to maintain government flows from the individual to the institutions and agencies set up to perform the functions of government.

A constitution, such as we would be a useless scrap of paper in a country governed by a dictator. Such a country establishes its government on the premise of a lack of authority or individual rights among the people. In it the process is reversed. Power is considered vested exclusively in the government and it can be taken away as whim or necessity may require.

Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel is shown here as he signed the registration card enrolling him as the 100th student in the Cisco Junior College yesterday. The governor visited the college with Mrs. O'Daniel while here as the guest of Rep. Omar Burkett. He spoke briefly to the students assembled from class rooms to greet him. His signature on a special act of the legislature made the institution possible.

The distribution of scholastics among the various districts in the county was reported as follows:

Eastland county common school districts, 2,000; Carbon independent school district, 1,461; Desdemona independent school district, 219; Eastland independent school district, 219.

Loboes Go to Burkburnett for Real Test in Game Under Lights Friday

The Cisco Loboes, polishing an offense which functioned well in their first game of the season here last Friday, when they defeated the Eastland Mavericks, 40 to 0, will take off for Burkburnett tomorrow for their first real test of the season against the Burkburnett eleven Friday night.

Burkburnett's strength is unknown, but their 19 to 6 victory over the strong Nocona eleven last week suggests that the Cisco team will have its hands full if they win. The Burkburnett team is a Class AA eleven, the same

District VFW Convenes In Cisco Sunday

There will be a district meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the women's auxiliaries to the posts here on Sunday, September 22, it was announced today by H. R. (Pop) Garrett, local post commander.

Those attending will register at the hall at 10 a. m., and go from there to the First Christian church at 10:45 for special services. A luncheon will be held at the Laguna roof garden immediately following the services, and at this time an interesting program will be presented, with music by the Schaefer-Hittson orchestra and by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Webb.

The afternoon meetings will begin at 2 o'clock at the hall, Mr. Garrett stated.

Woodman Circle to Have Special Meeting

The Woodman circle will have a special meeting at the hall Friday evening at 8 o'clock, it was announced today. The affair will be of interest and importance to every member, it was said, and a perfect attendance is urged.

J. C. Hudson, 1501 Park drive, was first place winner in a recent nationally sponsored Oxydol contest, according to reports. Mr. Hudson, who completed a four-line jingle to win the contest, was awarded a 1940 Nash automobile and 1,000 gallons of gasoline.

Child's Condition Reported Unchanged

The condition of the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Lunsford of Putnam was reported much the same today, after she received severe scald burns when she fell into an open pot of boiling water at the family home Wednesday morning. She is in Graham sanitarium, where her condition is reported as very serious.

FOOD STAMPS EXPLAINED AT ROTARY CLUB

F. E. Shockley, Cisco grocer, explained the operation of the new Food Stamp program in Eastland county, which replaces the old method of distributing surplus commodities by truck directly to relief clients at the Rotary club luncheon today. The stamp program provides for moving these commodities through the regular channels of trade, enabling the clients to go to the stores with other customers and purchase their needs in a manner, and at the same time giving the businessmen the benefits of the trade.

Mr. Shockley explained the use of the two classes of stamps—the orange and blue, former of which is purchased and the latter given away to those entitled to receive them—and said that the use of the plan in Cisco meant benefits equal to having 50 to 75 families spending $30 per month each move into the community.

J. J. Collins, program chairman for the day, presented Mr. Shockley. Edward Lee, chairman of the Rotary club's committee on community visits, announced that the joint Lions and Rotary club meeting at Scranton would be held next Wednesday evening. Indications were that 26 Rotarians and Rotary Annes would go. It was voted to make the trip serve the purpose of the regular Thursday luncheon.

Guests introduced were Mr. Shockley, L. E. Depew of Shamrock, who formerly lived in this area; G. W. Rich, New York oil operator now staying at the Laguna hotel; Alex Clark and Don Parish of Abilene.

Mosquito Boats For Britain Advocated

CHICAGO Sept. 19 (AP)—Admiral William H. Standley, United States navy, retired, advocated Wednesday that America "provide an adequate number" of "mosquito boats" to Great Britain to "forestall any menace the U-boats of Germany may be in the Atlantic."

PIPE LINE REPAIR CREW COMING HERE

85 Workmen to Be Located in Cisco for Two Months

A crew of 85 workmen, engaged in reconditioning the Gulf Pipe Line company's big 10-inch main through Eastland county, will be moved into Cisco with their families on October 3 to remain here for a period of about two months, it was reported today. The company will employ some local workmen to supplement this force, it was understood.

Chamber of commerce officials at the same time urged that all residents with rooms, furnished apartments or furnished houses to rent list them with the chamber of commerce for possible use by these new residents. It was also urged that the prices for rentals not be raised, since it is easy for this crew to locate in another community. Given proper accommodations and treatment here, it is possible that the force will be kept longer than two months, it was pointed out.

Accommodations for equipment used by the crew are being arranged.

Italian Troops Spread From Egyptian Base

ROME, Sept. 19 (AP)—The fast-moving army of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani spread southward from its new Egyptian base at Sidi Barrani Wednesday in an effort to mop up strong armored forces which the British have planted in desert ravines to conduct a "guerrilla warfare on wheels."

While the Italian blackshirts and native soldiers, attended by water carriers, headed on toward the Suez canal, the fascist press extolled the "valor" of dusky Libyan warriors, who, it was said, performed a march of 60 miles through the stifling heat and dust of a desert storm to capture Sidi Barrani in a surprise attack.

This taste of victory whetted interest in the expected arrival tomorrow of German foreign minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, who, some quarters believed would seek to coordinate Italy's blows at the British water "lifeline" with Germany's hammering at London.

Il Giornale D'Italia declared still-neutral Egypt would have to accept a "new order" from Italy, similar to the German domination over east and central western Europe.

Defense Avalanche Begins to Roll

This is another monthly appraisal of progress in U. S. rearming since the President's call for defense on May 16. This article shows how far we have come in four months.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Like a giant avalanche that starts ever so slowly and gradually builds up tremendous velocity is the progress of the $10,496,000,000 national defense program for an army of 1,200,000, an air force of 35,000 planes, and a powerful two-ocean navy.

Four months after the President's call to arms last May 16, the National Advisory Defense commission had cleared contracts worth $5,700,000,000, or more than half the money then appropriated by congress. In addition, the War Department had let contracts for sums under $500,000, which do not have to go to the NADC.

Four months of rearming... the photos show President Roosevelt issuing his defense call to the nation on May 16, the world's biggest bomber nearing completion at the Douglas plant in Santa Monica, Calif., the launching of the cruiser St. Louis, work on the barrel of a 16-inch gun, newly-built Garand rifles ready for army.

BOOTHS TO BE ARRANGED AT 2 LOCATIONS

Program of Entertainment Arranged by CofC Committee

A total of 20 farm-product exhibits will be displayed in each of the community agricultural booths included in the Cisco Fall Fair, Sept. 27 and 28, it was announced by rules committees today.

Any five of the following divisions may be selected for exhibition: Grain sorghum small grain, peanuts, potatoes, hay or forage, fruits, vegetables, corn and cotton. Four items of each division selected are to be required for judging, the committee announced. Each of the selected items are to be exhibited in standard quantities, it was explained, and exhibits within a division may be of one or more varieties.

Booths will be arranged at two separate building locations, it was announced today. All booths should be assembled and arranged by 1 p. m. Friday, Sept. 27, the committee announced. Further information relative to locations will be available for publication at an early date.

A program of entertainment for visitors, as well as local residents, is to be in charge of the chamber of commerce committee under the chairmanship of Edward Lee. A cordial invitation is extended to all individuals to participate in the festivities and observance of Cisco's first Fall Fair.

The meeting will take up miscellaneous matters, Mr. Cluck said.

Schools in the district and which will be represented here at the time are Breckenridge, Brownwood, Cisco, Mineral Wells, Ranger and Stephenville.

London CBS Building Wrecked by Bombs

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—The London office of the Columbia broadcasting system has been damaged badly by German bombs, Edward R. Murrow, chief of the CBS European staff, said in a broadcast from London heard here last night.

Murrow said that the two top floors of the building were in the street but that a survey was necessary before the complete damage could be determined.

Columbia's London office is at 14 Langham place, about 200 yards from broadcasting house, headquarters of the British broadcasting corporation.

SERIAL STORY

THIS COULD BE YOUR STORY

BY MARGUERITE GAHAGAN

COPYRIGHT 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

All characters, organizations and incidents of this serial are entirely fictitious.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
SUE MARY JEFFERSON—stenographer in a law firm, alone in city, seeking new friends.
JOE STEFANSKI—ambitious college educated worker, in love with Sue Mary.
NICK ALEXANDER—leader of the Youth Progress group.
VERA OLIVER—active worker, who combines social and political duties.

YESTERDAY: Explaining Vera's job, Sue Mary tells Nick about the government orders and plans the firm is handling. Only Miss Grant is allowed to see them all. Sue Mary worries about the danger of someone stealing the papers, but Nick laughs away her fears. In the office Vera makes rapid progress. "I'm going to like it," she tells Sue Mary. "If Kitty doesn't make it too tough."

CHAPTER X
THE possibility of Kitty causing trouble didn't come as a surprise to Sue Mary. She smiled when Vera mentioned it. "Kitty doesn't mean any harm. I know why you said that, though. She was a little upset when young Ross Clark came in today. He stopped to talk to you and passed her by without a single look."

"You see, Vera, she's made a movie hero out of him. The boss' son, junior member of the firm, handsome and single. We tease her about it, but she doesn't mind. You know, I really think she believes that some day he'll ask her for a date."

"Such childishness," Vera said. And then she turned and smiled. "What would she do if he asked me to go out?"
"Good heavens! She'd probably die of envy."

"Who'd die of envy?" It was Nick, catching up with them just as they turned in at the hall entrance.

"One of the girls at the office," Sue Mary explained, laughing. "She's already a little jealous of Vera because the son of the boss talked to her today."

"Well," said Vera in a low, calm voice, "she's really silly. She needn't worry. There's only one man I'm interested in and he's not the son of my boss."

THE words were casual, but the smile on Sue Mary's lips faded when she saw the expression in Natalie's eyes when she met them at the door, in time to hear Vera's answer.

While Nick talked about a summer political rally that the YP group had scheduled for next month, Sue Mary thought again of Vera's amusement at Kitty. And of her calm statement that she was in love and interested in only one man. Somehow Sue Mary had come to think of Vera as too completely absorbed in her work to have time for love or feminine weaknesses.

Anyone as attractive as she was must, of course, be sought after, made love to, wanted. She wondered what would happen if young Ross Clark did suddenly become interested in Vera. She could imagine the consternation in the office.

She wondered, too, just what Natalie and Nick would think if Vera, the loyal party worker, so far forgot party standards to become interested in one of the young socialites, a rich man's son; a man the society columns referred to as an eligible young bachelor.

The way Natalie's blue eyes had opened wide when she heard Vera's comment, and then the way a curtain had seemed to fall over them, aroused Sue Mary's curiosity. In the weeks that she had been with the crowd she had seen them only as intense crusaders. Bound together by a common cause; casual in their relationships; free in their conversations; with a lack of self-consciousness that at first startled her.

She wondered why Nick hadn't fallen in love with one of the girls who worked in the group. She wondered why he hadn't fallen in love with one of the Vera. They were both attractive, they spoke his language, obeyed his orders, worked until they were beaten and so tired they could hardly stand, and yet never lost the fire that made them leaders among the young people.

And Nick had the ability to stir one. She knew that more each time she saw him. For hours he would be the executive; outlining plans for the rally; helping draw up posters and ads; suggesting people to call and articles to read; firing them with enthusiasm.

And then, somehow, he and Sue Mary would be on their way alone, and he would be the lover and crusader in one. It frightened her, but back in the recesses of her mind lingered the memory of loneliness—a loneliness that Nick had dispensed by opening this new world to her.

"You mustn't," she would insist. "After all, we're not in love. We just like the same things. I'm grateful to you for teaching me so much. For lifting me out of the dreary rut I was in, and for showing me how selfish I was, how blind I was to the world and the needs of others. But we aren't in love."

"But we are in love." At least I am. Maybe I'm not like that Joe you talk about. Maybe when he makes love to you it's the kind you read about in magazines, with talk about a little vine-covered cottage and how two can live as cheaply as one. But not me.

"We have the world before us. I won't be stopped. The world is changing and I'm in the thick of the fight. With you beside me our life can be beautiful."

"You don't want to be tied to a man with no imagination, a factory worker. It's our fate to be together and work for the good of these people who can't help themselves. In the new system, we young people will have a voice and we won't be on the bottom, either. Sue Mary—"

With his lips against hers she couldn't answer, couldn't think. Joe, Springville, the safe, same life at the office—all were blotted out and only this heady feeling of something to come, a future—dangerous but exciting, and Nick's arms about her.

SHE worked in a daze the next day. Her thoughts went back again and again to Nick; his voice murmuring against her arguments; his lips against her cheek. That was why she was the last of the girls in the office to become aware that something was wrong.

Suddenly she looked up from her typing, aware of the stillness, aware of a tenseness of the atmosphere. Her gaze met Kitty's and suddenly she realized Kitty was nodding toward the rest room.

They met there and were alone. Sue Mary asked, "What's the matter? All of a sudden I felt things weren't right."

"You certainly have been in a fog," Kitty said dryly. "But then you haven't been yourself for weeks. Going around with these new friends of yours certainly changed you."

Sue Mary pressed her lips together and her eyes flashed. "Now don't get mad," Kitty warned briskly. "You know it's true, and anyway, I called you in here to ask what you think about today's business."

"Today's business? What do you mean? I just know that all of a sudden I felt things were different. And then you looked at me and here we are."

"Well, get caught up quickly then. We can't stay in here all day. Not the way things are out there." She nodded toward the office. "Something's been lost. And do you know what that means? At least I take it for granted you haven't been in such a state that you don't realize there's a war going on in the world, and this office has been neck-deep in legal work on these plane orders."

Conserving Energy, If Not Fish

ANDERSON, S. C., Sept. 19 (AP)—The most resourceful angler must be the fellow who stood on the edge of a trout hatchery, gazing into the water. Not until after the disappearance of many fish was his technique discovered.

The man made his catches with a line extending through a pocket with a hole in it, down his pants leg and into the water. He pulled the fish up his pants leg.

Warehouse To Buy Peanuts Located Here

Location of a warehouse for the Southwestern Peanut Growers association in Cisco was announced this week when arrangements for a building and other necessary facilities were completed. The warehouse will be operated by W. B. Starr, and the association will purchase peanuts at the prices guaranteed by the AAA. The building formerly occupied by Schaefer's garage on South D avenue will be used. The Cisco chamber of commerce cooperated with the association in locating the warehouse here.

Prices to be paid for peanuts are the same as those to be paid at other warehouses, with 96 cents guaranteed for No. 1 quality peanuts.

The crop this year will be considerably heavier than that of last season, according to predictions based on crop conditions at this time.

Cisco merchants were urged to cooperate with the warehouse in bringing as large a portion of the crop here as possible. The prices paid this season are higher than were paid last year, and the income from the crop is one of the major economic resources of the section.

Why Gov't Has Set Up Grades For Peanuts

By W. B. STARR

The government has affected standards of grades of practically all crops grown by farmers. Just why this has been done, is a matter not altogether understood by many farmers.

Many peanut growers feel that the matter of grading their peanut crops affects only the growers and those to whom they sell their crops, (the shellers). The government in setting up a standard of grades for "thresher-run" peanuts considered not only the interest of the farmer and the sheller, but also a third section of our population—the consumer of peanut products. The consumer, who eats the peanut crop, represents a much larger section of the public interested in our peanut crops, than do either the peanut grower or the peanut sheller. The grades of all commodities (this holds true also in grades affecting "finished goods"—processed or manufactured articles) gives first consideration to the consumer, and it is proper that this should be so. In setting up a standard of grades for thresher run peanuts, the consumers were considered from two different angles.

First, the matter of sanitary conditions were considered as affecting the health of the consuming public, also the right of the public to clean food. Second, it was assumed that if sanitary conditions were recognized in grading peanuts, so that it was possible to process peanuts into products, which would be clean and wholesome, that there would be a greater demand for these peanuts, which would mean the consumption of a much larger crop than would otherwise be consumed thus favorably affecting the farmer.

In setting up the requirements for the different grades of thresher run peanuts, consideration among other things was given to the matter of shelled and cracked peanuts. Investigation showed that from a sanitary standpoint such peanuts were not desirable. It was shown that where the sheller held such peanuts in storage for any extended period of time, that they would be infected by weevils and become wormy. It was also shown that cracked and shelled peanuts in thresher run peanuts have a tendency to become dirty. This tendency is made worse by the oily nature of the cracked peanuts. In most shelling plants, these dirty and wormy peanuts are mixed with the clean peanuts as they are shelled, and often pass on into the finished candy and butter products. It is for these reasons that the government grades allow only a minimum amount of cracked and shelled peanuts in thresher run stock, and that the grower is penalized by lower grades and consequently lower prices if this minimum amount is exceeded.

Unless strict care is exercised by the thresher man in regulating his thresher, too many peanuts will be shelled and cracked. Farmers can cooperate with the thresher man in keeping down an excess of undesirable peanuts by having their peanuts on the vine in proper condition to thresh.

New Outpost in SW Stephens County Started

BRECKENRIDGE, Sept. 19. (Spe)—Rotary rig has been moved in for a new outpost to the western Stephens county Loving field, 16 miles southwest of Breckenridge, while another outpost to the pool was slated to drill plug late yesterday.

While Stalin Smiles--

EUROPE at death grips now whirls dizzily down to the very edge of the vortex of destruction. Can anybody win a war of the kind that is now convulsing Britain and Germany? What sort of prize awaits the victor? The prize will be a Europe robbed of its best youth in France, Poland, Italy, Germany, and Britain. It will be a starving continent whose crops have been destroyed or fed into the maw of the insatiable military machine. It will be a continent whose best productive facilities have been bombed out of existence, a continent condemned to lower standards of living from which it must again crawl painfully upward. It will be a continent filled with raw wounds and hatreds fanned and made eternally bitter by memories which will not vanish. It will be a continent in which revolution has been made inevitable. Hitler chooses to jest lightly before delivering his "all-out" stroke. Churchill grimly prepares his people for worse to come. Petain wanders among the fragments of shattered France, picking up a piece here and there in mournful abandon. Only Stalin smiles--

IN the cauldron of Europe there is cooking a stew exactly to his taste. At minimum expense of blood and gold, Stalin has already aggrandized his "Red Reich" by thousands of square miles.

He can afford to wait. He knows that Hitler can scarcely rule the countries he has conquered. He has watched their governments and their social institutions smashed to dust by one who can scarcely expect to replace them.

PARIS is concerned by its 300,000 unemployed--more than all France had in pre-war times. They are restless, they are hopeless, they are meat for the communist agitators who industriously work among them to cash in on defeat, frustration, despair. To release the French war prisoners held in Germany, to demoralize the remaining French army, can only add to this mass misery. France, once freed of German armies of occupation, might easily fall into hideous internal strife.

Danish agriculture is ruined, Norway broods sullenly, Poland groans under oppression. Italy, even as victor, may well be ruining itself.

Who can smile at the witches' cauldron in which Europe is now stewing? Only one man:

Stalin.

It was a double feature program of "My Wife's Relatives" and "They Won't Forget" which accounted for a large number of domestic rows in Chicago recently.

FDR UPSET FOES' CAMPAIGN PLANS BY SWIFT DEFENSE ISSUE WHEN CONGRESS STAYED ON

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—One of the queerest yarns in modern politics is the explanation why this presidential campaign isn't shaping up the way it was doped last June. The simple fact is that President Roosevelt swiped the big issue which the Republicans were getting ready to use against him and made it his own—the issue of defense preparedness.

Catton

He was able to swipe it because the Republicans and anti-third term Democrats joined to make him a gift which he didn't in the least want and tried his best not to take—an extra-long session of Congress.

If Congress had adjourned early in June, as the President publicly urged it to do, the bulk of the present defense program would be non-existent and the Republican campaign would be based on the charge that the New Deal had neglected the nation's defenses in an hour of crisis.

That was the thing the GOP plans were based on last June. It was reflected in inner-council strategy, in public speeches, and in events at the Republican convention—where it was an important factor in the nomination of Wendell Willkie.

Then things went haywire and the President took the defense issue away from everybody.

DRAFT BILL NO WHITE HOUSE BABY
TAKE the draft bill as an example. That bill was introduced by Congressman Jim Wad-worth, New York Republican, Senator Burke of Nebraska, perhaps the most anti-Roosevelt all Senate Democrat. It was introduced in mid-June and for time went almost unnoticed. It wasn't the "War Department's only a fortnight earlier General Marshall told a House committee of 375,000 men would be enough for any new world war effort. And it wasn't a House bill, either, because White had been made to get White backing for it without success.

In fact, presidential support of the draft bill came by very degrees. Barely a week before Wadsworth introduced the bill the House, a presidential spokesman was reiterating the White House view that Congress was as well adjourn. Not until August in August was the White House giving the bill a qualified measure of support.

THE huge $5,000,000 defense bill carrying funds for two-ocean navy would never be passed if Congress had adjourned in June; the bill authorizing construction of the new shipyard was not even drafted until after Admiral Stark testified before a closed hearing of the Naval Affairs Committee.

The excess-profits-tax bill, not even being discussed and neither was the national general mobilization of the bill legislation. The added half billion for the port-import Bank to make the sphere-defense loans to Spain America didn't get to the Senate until early September.

What the Republicans are trying to figure out is just where how this defense issue got from them. For in spite of record, they discovered by August that defense was the President's big issue. It still is the Congress he didn't want to finish most of the draft for mill.

FIFTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT COURT

(B. W. Patterson, Judge)
New Cases Filed
The following new cases were filed last week for hearing in the 58th court:

Judgments and Orders

Judge Patterson filed the following orders last week:

In re Woodrow Wynne, minor, adoption. It was the order of the court that the petition of George Sledge and wife for the adoption of said minor shall be heard before this court Oct. 2. M. L. Notgrass was named investigator in the premises to ascertain whether

State of Texas vs. C. E. Kimbrough et al, suit on judgment. It appearing to the court that the state had recovered a judgment against defendant previously, who failed to answer in the present hearing, but made default. It was therefore ordered that a judgment be rendered in this cause in favor of plaintiff for $1,013.65 and foreclosure of lien.

Ex parte James Walter Ralston, minor, removal of disabilities of minority. Judgment for petitioner, and it was the order of the court that petitioner be adjudged of legal age for all purposes except the right to vote.

W. J. Adams vs. Commercial State bank of Ranger et al, injunction. Judgment for plaintiff by default perpetuating temporary injunction restraining defendants from issuing executions, etc., against the property of plaintiff.

David Woods, two bills, wife desertion and forgery, held in jail.

Wood, divorce. Judgment for plaintiff.

Criminal Week

Next week in the 58th court will likely be designated as criminal week when those indicted by the grand jury last week may be given a hearing. Judge Patterson announced Monday. The grand jury, after returning 13 true bills of indictment recessed to reconvene Oct. 22, or on call, should matters require the services of that body.

According to E. W. (Tug) Underwood, office deputy of Sheriff Loss Woods, those indicted upon whom capias have been served and their disposition, are:

V. E. Moates, burglary, was in jail Monday in default of bail of $750.

T. B. Whitehead, two bills, forgery and drunk driving, held in jail in default of bail.

David Woods, two bills, wife desertion and forgery, held in jail.

Time Turkeys Improve Their Market Value

MISS RUTH RAMEY (Home Dem. Agent) only two months from now will be marketing a large crop of turkeys in cold storage. At the present time there is approximately 25,000,000 lbs. of turkeys in storage, but these birds are moving into the channels of commerce very nicely. But with this in mind, I think we should give careful consideration to our marketing program for this fall. The market is going to demand a finished turkey this year and we are able to dispose of turkeys at a reasonable price. Unfortunately in Texas we are producing as good quality turkeys as we can produce. The turkeys still are being raised during the winter range is pretty well and the turkeys do not get sufficient amount of feed. During the period they consume quantities of insects and as a result they are quite often infested with intestinal parasites. Because of the quality of our turkeys has not been what it should be, there has been a penalty on it which in some cases has amounted to $1 per bird over turkeys marketed in other states. It is all of us to see that the turkeys we market this year are in good condition and ready for market at the time they are

Program
Texas Poultry federation, and of Texas poultry producers, hatcherymen, feed manufacturers, buyers of poultry products and others, is definitely interested in carrying out a program that will enable Texas producers to place on the market this fall the best quality turkeys that have ever been sold in this state. It is very important that we carry out a fattening program for turkeys now. Before they are placed on a fattening feed, it is important to see that the turkeys are thoroughly treated for intestinal parasites so that they can be placed on a fattening feed and get maximum results from the feed consumed. If you have a small flock of turkeys you are interested in giving them a course of worm capsules, or of a large flock you will be interested in using a treatment in the mash. You may use poultry worm capsules through local dealers, or drug stores, or you are unable to get these for these parties you can contact the agricultural or home demonstration agent. There are a number of reputable concerns that produce remedies. These are sold in companies and handle product through local merchants. I would make certain that the product I use does come from a manufacturer with an established reputation and I would be very careful of buying from house to

Ericsson's Inventions Revolutionized Warships

PLANES vs. battleships. War in Europe provides an actual test for naval experts—a test that may change the world's battlefleets as effectively as John Ericsson's inventions did in 1862. United States remembered this Swedish-American inventor in the postage issue above, issued in 1926, when the statue that forms the stamp design was unveiled by the Crown Prince of Sweden in Washington.

Ericsson built the Monitor, the Yankee "cheesebox on a raft," that battled the Confederate ironclad Merrimack to a four-hour draw in Hampton Roads, March 9, 1862. More notable than the victory and the preservation of the Union blockade, was the introduction of revolving gun turrets, now universally used on battleships.

Fattening Ration

After the turkeys have been thoroughly treated for intestinal parasites then I would put them on a good fattening ration. This may either be commercial or home mixed. If you are using commercial fattening feed, then I would utilize all of the home grown grains that I have. In finishing the turkeys I like best to confine them to a small enclosure of an acre or so of land, depending, of course, upon the number of birds to be finished. I would keep the fattening mash before them in open hoppers and keep grain before them in open hoppers and, in addition to this, see that they have plenty of clean, fresh water. The water has a tendency to be contaminated where the birds are constantly in the water in the bottom of the water container. See that the containers are cleaned at least once a day, and often it is necessary to clean them twice a day to prevent any condition such as this from occurring.

There will be a number of small under developed birds that are not ready to start on a fattening program at the present time. These birds should be kept on a growing mash until a later date and then put on a fattening feed and marketed at Christmas and New Year's, depending upon the age

Injuries In Lobo Lineup Hurt Power

Just as Lassater was developing in good style, he received a setback on Wednesday afternoon while practicing. He jerked a crick in his back and it may or may not be serious. If serious, the Lobo chances on Friday take a turn for the worse. It will be hard to keep the kid out of action, however, for he is hard to hurt seriously.

Speaking of injuries and such, Cleveland Dunaway has been ailing for some time with a bad ankle. He is a fullback with a powerful drive and it was hoped that the ankle would respond to treatment but so far it has failed to do so. He was used last week but the ankle slowed the lad and he wasn't very effective. He will be a very good back if he can get the ankle in shape.

Jack Page has dropped out of the lineup and "Blackie" Brown has been out most of the week. Death in the family has been the reported cause of Brown's absence.

That seems to be the gloomy side of the picture. On the other hand, all hands are working for the Burk Burnett tilt in earnest. The work of Albert Henson and Bruce Sanders especially stood out in Wednesday's drill. Henson is a small guard who diagnoses better than many college boys on defense. He manages to figure out how to move his boy on offense where others might fail. His spirit is very competitive and he started in all scrimmages with Abilene and Lubbock during opening week on Chesley Field.

Sanders continues to improve. His familiar cry of defiance rings out in all the play when he comes out of the huddle onto the ball. His snap-backs can stand practice and improvement, but his blocks and tackles are better. His line-backing chores are coming to him naturally. All others are working hard. Childers shows so much improvement that it will be hard to keep him out of the play; So is the work of Hal Page and Lowell Carlile. Nothing can keep the fighting Pope off the team if he chooses to try his best. Carlile is a new hand who is picking up and condition of the bird.

In marketing the turkeys select the breeding stock first to see that none of these breeder birds are sold. Then go through the rest of the birds and see that these are well fleshed, fat, and free of pin feathers. If the toms are not matured and free from pin feathers, I would hold these birds for the later market. If we follow a program of this kind, there is no reason why the quality of Texas turkeys cannot compare favorably with the turkeys from other sections and the producers will not be penalized too severely as a result of the crowded market conditions as it now exists.

This Boy Is Doing a Good Job

Bruce Sanders, 185 pounds, is playing his first year of high school football, but he is one of the new Lobes who are making the hopes of their coaches come true. A real hustler, with lots of pep and a serious student of the game, he is holding down the important center position in grand style. The Oil Belt will hear from him this fall.

VAST STORES ORDERED

The War Department is chary about giving out figures on the actual progress made in procuring material. Figures recently released by Representative James E. Van Zandt of Pennsylvania, however, show not a great deal of progress between May 1 and August 1.

I asked an official of the War Department whether it would not be a good guess to say that on Sept. 1 the program had not advanced very far beyond the August 1 figures. He admitted this was so, saying you can't grind out arms, tanks and heavy tractors the way you can sausages.

The War Department expects delivery of 132,000 semi-automatic rifles and 744 37-mm. anti-tank guns by June, 1942. By next April 1, 1840 60-mm. mortars and 367 .50 caliber machine guns are expected.

In the first six months of 1941, the army expects to get 459 modern 75-mm. guns, 96 field howitzers of 75-mm. caliber, and 295 high-speed 155-mm. howitzers. A total of 392 light tanks are expected by June, 1941, and 126 medium tanks by August, 1941. Beginning this month and ending in September, 1941, the army expects the bulk of the anti-aircraft equipment ordered.

One enters the land of haze when it comes to getting figures on the army force and on plane contracts' lot. The army apparently has something like 5000 airplanes, of which 2700 are good for training. It has about 2000 rated as combat planes, but not many of them are modern.

A few days ago the War Department issued speed-up letters to 15 plane companies, five plane engine companies, and one propeller firm. These letters authorize them to go ahead and procure necessary gauges, dies, tools and materials for the manufacture of 14,394 planes costing about $817,000,000, 28,282 engines costing about $377,000,000, and propellers costing about $57,000,000.

On Sept. 13 contracts were let for 736 airplanes and a large number of engines, the total involved being $44,000,000. According to War Department figures, this makes a total of 3533 planes on order, 1503 of them combat types. The regular appropriation authorized 4247 planes; the second supplementary appropriation authorizes about 14,000 more.

Of planes now on order, 333 are heavy-engined bombers, 20 light attack bombers, 530 pursuit planes, 20 transport planes, 600 primary trainers, 500 basic trainers, and 887 advanced trainers.

THE NAVY WAS READY

On Sept. 9 the president signed a bill appropriating another $5,000,000,000 for national defense. On the same day the Navy Department let contracts for the gigantic sum of $3,861,053,312 worth of fighting ships.

From Jan. 1 to Sept. 2, 1940, the navy had ordered from private shipyards three aircraft carriers, four heavy cruisers, 13 light cruisers, 15 destroyers of 2100 tons, eight destroyers of 1700 tons, 16 submarines and one submarine tender.

From government yards it had ordered two battleships, one aircraft carrier, 10 destroyers of 2100 tons, four destroyers of 1700 tons, 12 submarines, one submarine tender, two seaplane tenders and one minesweeper.

With the new money on hand Sept. 9 it ordered seven battleships, four aircraft carriers, 27 cruisers, 111 destroyers and 43 subs.

The two-ocean navy will not be ready until about 1945. But in the meantime, ships ordered some time ago are being completed.

Since mid-August, two cruisers, the St. Louis and Helena, have been fully commissioned, as have the submarine tenders Thresher and the destroyers C. F. Hughes, Madison, Niblack and Benson.

Under 1938 authorization, 3000 navy planes were provided for. The navy has about 1813 of these and 933 more are under contract to be delivered this year and early in 1941. The total on hand divided up about as follows: 302 observation planes, 519 scouting bombers, 192 fighting bombers, 240 patrol bombers, 114 torpedo bombers, 108 utility machines, 26 large and 15 small transport planes, nine other transports, 230 training machines and 58 advanced training planes.

On Sept. 2 the navy had on order 2204 undelivered 2533 planes and 3477 engines. It had on hand 2204 planes, of which 1746 were finished "useful." It had six small blimps for coastal patrol and wanted 42 more.

The navy hopes to have by 1944 a force of 15,500 trained pilots. Under the bill signed Sept. 9, the navy expects to let contracts for 2400 more planes costing $108,000,000.

Court Designates Uses for Fund for Lateral Roads

At the September meeting the commissioners court exercised its option of designating for what purposes the $13,000 allocation to the county from the lateral road account of the board of county and district road indebtedness of the state of Texas, should be used. Immediately after the court's action by a unanimous vote, the body notified the state board of its action.

By a special order of the court, the commissioners designated that this money be used for the acquisition of right of way for county lateral roads, and for payment of legal obligations incurred prior to January 2, 1939; for the construction or improvement of county lateral roads, and for the purpose of paying the principal, interest and sinking fund requirements on any bonds or warrants legally issued by Eastland county, or county road districts, prior to January 2, 1939, the proceeds of which were actually expended in the construction or improvement of lateral county roads, and for the purpose of supplementing funds appropriated by the federal government for the Works Progress administration for highway construction.

The money allocated to Eastland county amounted to $13,000, according to Don Parker, county auditor, but $5,000 of this fund was earmarked to be applied to indebtedness previously incurred for road construction, of which the commissioners took cognizance in designating the uses of this money.

Must Streamline County Gov't Officials Agree

NACOGDOCHES, Tex., Sept. 19 (Spc) — Local government in counties, the foundation of democracy, must be streamlined, its inefficient methods replaced by modern, economical administration, if the system is to survive, east Texas county officials attending the Third Annual Institute of Government, sponsored here by the East Texas chamber of commerce, agreed unanimously, as the Institute's two-day session closed Friday.

With about 200 county officials and chairmen of local taxpayers' committees attending, the Institute devoted two full days to an intensive study of the most pressing problems of county government in this area, and heard suggested solutions to many of these problems from officials who have dealt successfully with them.

County Judge Jake Loy, of Grayson county, a nationally recognized leader in the field, urged that authority for operating county governments be centralized in the hands of a judge and four commissioners elected at large in each county, and that this body be given authority to hire the other employees necessary to carry on the work of county government.

"They should be given the power, and then held strictly accountable by the people for the results obtained," said Judge Loy. "A centralized purchasing bureau, and a road-and-bridge department under direction of a competent engineer should be part of the set-up in every county. And every Texas county should have an auditor. We simply cannot operate intelligently and in a businesslike manner without an auditor and a good budget."

Scores of other county officials endorsed Judge Loy's recommendations in an open forum discussion which followed his address. Most interesting of all, perhaps, was a four-man panel discussion of the relief and charity problem, participated in by officials of four counties which have dealt successfully with this increasingly perplexing problem.

TOUGH DUTCH EAST INDIES WILL FIGHT TO AVOID FATE OF MOTHER COUNTRY

Warships of the Dutch fleet and planes of her air arm sail on and over East Indian waters.

Islands Ready To Battle Either Japan or Germany

BY PETER EDSON
Editor, NEA Service
BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Sept. 19 — "Nederland Zal Herroven."
Netherlands Will Rise Again.
Every place you go in the Dutch East Indies, you see this sign: Lapel buttons bearing this slogan are worn by all good Dutchmen. And the very air, sultry as only tropical humidity can be, breathes a certain confidence, a definiteness of purpose which is as dogged as anything the proverbial Briton can point to as a dominant national characteristic.

For the Dutch out here are determined they shall not be caught short, the way their motherland was when the Germans marched into Holland last May.

They are preparing to face any enemy—a conquering Germany of today, or an aggressive Japan tomorrow. From Sumatra, through Borneo and Java and Bali to New Guinea, these Isles of Spice bristle with something stronger than clove and ginger.

Military airports pop up on mountain tops and plains, each field defended with a garrison and guns.

A naval base in Java is as strong, perhaps, as the U. S. base at Coco Solo in the Canal Zone. Tough little brown men in their green uniforms and green straw hats, blending carefully with the green of the jungles and rice fields, are being made into soldiers.

Oil fields and industrial plants are defended by wire, fortifications, air-raid shelters.

Harbors are mined.
The air arm, with modern American planes, is flying constantly and training all its available and competent personnel for service in the sky.

The Netherlands fleet—cruisers, subs and destroyers, intact save for the few vessels lost in the blitzkrieg—patrols the shallow waters between the myriad islands that stretch over an area 3,000 miles east and west, and 1,200 miles north and south.

AMERICAN PLANTS HELP
Behind the military machine, the East Indies government is building a service of supply. Airplanes and battleships the Dutch cannot yet build. Small naval patrol craft they can.

A munitions works has turned out shells sufficient for the life of every gun on the islands, plus an adequate margin of safety, and still goes on producing.
American rubber and automobile companies have long had factories in Java, and these plants have been thrown into the preparedness effort.

Industrially, the manpower of the East Indies is being mobilized effectively. Artisans that have made temples, carved wood and stone, worked the fields in a civilization that goes back for centuries, have produced a race of men who can work with their hands and so make good mechanics. These are the men who run the lathes and can be trained for duty in shipyards or air depot maintenance, releasing the men of European extraction for specialized combat duty.

Financially, the country is in pretty good shape. It is rich in natural resources, and a rising war market is pumping more money into its coffers, in spite of the fact that much of its trade with the homeland is lost.

It has taken increased war taxes on nearly everything and will take more. The national debt is low. Whether or not to expand its war effort by increased borrowing is one problem that confronts the government now. To further strengthen defenses, further purchases of planes, machinery, gunpowder and other essential war supplies from America, are absolutely essential.

NATIVES MAD AT NOBODY
In only one category, perhaps, is the war effort in this part of the world an uncertain quantity—and that is the type of soldier the native will be, under fire.

Of the nearly 70,000,000 people under the Netherlands flag in the Indies far less than half a million are Europeans or of European extraction.

The natives are largely Mohammedans, tillers of the soil who live in an almost communal society, slow going because of the climate and mad at nobody. Twenty per cent of them are literate.

How many actually know there's a war on is a question. The men can be trained to run tanks or complex fire control apparatus in drill. They can march all day on a handful of rice much like the Japanese. They can be subjected to discipline and they are tough.

But what will happen to the little brown men when someone drops an airplane bomb into their midst is the question on which the fate of this not insignificant corner of the world is sure to depend.

SABOTAGE IS SUSPECTED AS BLAST CAUSE

KENVIL, N. J., Sept. 19 (AP)—Activities of "foreign agents" were blamed Saturday by Senator Barbour of New Jersey for the explosions at the Hercules Powder company that killed at least 48 and within five frightful minutes blasted more than a score of buildings off the 2,000-acre plant.

While state police checked membership rolls of the German-American Bund against the roster of plant employees, Senator Barbour in a statement in Washington said he believed "when the facts are known, it will be discovered that it (Thursday's explosion) was due, as in the case of the Black Tom (Jersey City, N. J.), disaster of the pre-World War period, to the activities of foreign agents."

In addition to the New Jersey state police and state bureau of explosives, other agencies probing the mysterious explosions were the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Hercules experts, army and navy intelligence officers and United States navy explosive specialists from the powder factory at Indian Head, Md.

None of the many investigators would say whether they had unearthed any evidence of sabotage.

Three new names increased the death toll to 48 as steam shovels and cranes Saturday morning began clearing away the twisted steel, powder-smudged brick and other debris that piled up in the terrific blasts of Thursday afternoon.

Everett Dunn, 19, died in the Dover General Hospital and bodies of Frederick McConnell, 20, and John Andico, 27, were added to the total killed at the scene.

Although scores had been treated and released, 70 persons remained in hospitals. It was among these injured that additions to the death roster were feared, but gangs of fellow workers still dug in the ruins of some 20 buildings to make certain whether all bodies had been recovered.

The dynamite factory was the only building left in workable condition by the blasts which swept the powder units. Officials of the company announced work would be resumed here Monday. Shattered ed windows were replaced Saturday.
