

Junior College Field in Job Training Stressed

DALLAS, Oct. 17 (Sp.)—More junior college students should be educated in two-year courses for jobs, for citizenship and for home life, rather than for going on into a university, declared Walter C. Ellis of Washington, D. C., secretary of the American Association of Junior Colleges, at a conference of Texas junior college representatives here.

"Experience shows," he said, "that most junior college students will not go on into a university. They should not be educated for something they will not do if they can be better educated for the things they will do."

The conference was one of 20 being held in a series arranged by the commission on junior college terminal education, from Boston to Los Angeles and back again to New York, to plan how the junior colleges can better meet the needs of their students.

Majority Two Years
Although two-thirds of the country's junior college students, according to Dr. Ellis, are preparing for university or four-year college work, three-fourths of them will not go beyond the two junior college years.

"In Texas," he continued, "this maladjustment is much worse than for the country as a whole. Eight out of 10 junior college students in Texas are preparing to go on into a university, but only two go on. Seventeen per cent prepare to quit in two years, but 81 per cent actually do quit."

"The time has passed when everyone who goes to college can be educated for a profession. The professions absorb only 6 per cent of the population. Preparation for these professions is the primary function of the universities. But approximately one-half of the gainful workers in the country, proprietors, managers, clerical and skilled labor, are in occupations which are distinctly on the semi-professional level."

Wide Open Field
Here is a wide open field for the junior colleges. More than 300 junior colleges are already giving semi-professional and general education to about one-third of their 120,000 students. But for all the 600 junior colleges in the country, with 260,000 students, the proportion is far lower.

"Twenty years ago, more than three-quarters of the young men of junior college age were gainfully employed. Today the proportion is less than half. It is more and more difficult for young men to find employment before they are 20 or 21 years old."

"Increasing thousands of them must be provided for the junior college or some equivalent institution—unless we prefer to care for them in reform schools and penitentiaries. The Federal Bureau of Investigation reports that the largest number of arrests for crime and the largest number of commitments to state and federal penitentiaries are of young men 18 or 19 years of age—exactly the junior college years."

Texas junior colleges which offer terminal courses stress chiefly business education, secretarial work and the teaching profession. Dr. Ellis pointed out, though certain institutions have work in agriculture, engineering, aviation and nursing.

Sheep and Goat Men Meet At A and M. College

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 17 (Sp.)—Directors of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association have accepted the invitation of Texas A & M college to hold their regular quarterly meeting at the college and will be on the campus for a three-day session Oct. 17-19, according to an announcement made by the college committee in charge.

The meeting will open with a banquet Thursday evening, Oct. 17, in Shibus hall banquet room with Col. Ike Ashburn, executive assistant to the president, serving as toastmaster, and Dr. T. O. Walton, president of Texas A & M, giving the principal address. More than 250 members and directors of the association and their ladies, members of the Woman's auxiliary of the association, are expected to attend.

On Friday morning the directors will hold their general meeting to hear discussions on the part Texas A & M college can play in aiding their industry. Following the general session they will hold their regular executive session. The remainder of the day will be devoted to inspection tours of the campus and that evening they will attend the annual college rodeo in the animal husbandry pavilion.

They will continue campus tours Saturday morning and will attend the Texas Aggie-Texas Christian university football game in Kyle field here at 2:30 that afternoon and be present at the dedication of the new flag-staff in the stadium and flag raising of the two pennants symbolic of the Southwest conference football champion of 1939, and ranking as the nation's number 1 team of the year.

Cisco Rancher Tops Auction Bids at Abilene

ABILENE, Oct. 17 (Sp.)—Thirty-eight head of Herefords went through the sale ring for an average of $212 yesterday in the auction sponsored by the West Texas Hereford association.

G. P. Mitcham of Cisco topped the sale when he paid $530 for Miss Superior 5th, show heifer consigned by Ernest Grissom, local breeder. The animal was first in her class and first in the sale heifer class at the show last week.

W. J. Largent & son, Merkel, among the leading buyers of the day, bought the second high animal of the sale, Shelia, 2nd, reserve champion of the show and consigned by the Noodle Hereford ranch, Merkel. The 11-month-old heifer, a double-bred Publican Domino, brought $525.

Grissom Bros. and Smallwood of Abilene and Laven paid $400 for the junior champion bull of the West Texas fair, Noodle Prince Domino 16th, an added attraction. The 10-month-old calf was placed in the sale at the insistence of several breeders and was the only bull sold.

E. W. Moutray, local oil refinery operator who owns a ranch at Baird, paid $435 for a Pansy Stan-Baird, paid $435 for Pansy Stan-Baird & son of Goodlett. Moutray was the leading buyer of the day, taking nine head and bidding on many more.

Billy Sayles, Tuscola FFA boy, was a contending bidder on several animals, and purchased two choice ones. All of the animals went to buyers within a 100-mile radius of Abilene.

Members of the West Texas Hereford association and visiting cattlemen were guests of the Lions club at a barbecue dinner held in the Supper club at the fair grounds.

FSA Reports Drop In Farm Failures

A decrease in forced sales and bankruptcies of Texas farms during the past seven years while voluntary sales and trades have increased due largely to increased purchasing power is reported by George I. Lane, county supervisor for the Farm Security administration.

Farm bankruptcies in Texas dropped from a total of 199 in the year ending June 30, 1933, to only 81 in the year ending June 30, 1939. The number of forced sales dropped from 32.8 per thousand to 14.2 per thousand during the same period. Voluntary sales and trades increased from 16.8 per thousand to 28.2 per thousand.

Debts of low-income farmers in Texas were reduced $6,103,044 through the farm debt adjustment service of the Farm Security administration, by voluntary agreements between debtors and creditors. The supervisor said that cash income for Texas farmers was up 80 per cent above the 1932 level, and that farm purchasing power was up 166 per cent, due to prices of things the farmer sold increasing more rapidly than the price of things the farmer had to buy.

The supervisor also pointed out that 62,916 Texas farm families received rural rehabilitation loans totaling more than $29,787,500 and that more than 80 per cent of the installments on these loans have been paid when due; that 621 tenant farm families have been started toward land ownership by loans for farm purchases; that the Rural Electrification Administration has aided in building 17,712 miles of electric lines to serve 52,982 farm families; and that 650,000 Texas farmers participated in the 1939 AAA program, representing 92 per cent of the state's crop land.

..and She'd Heard it was a 'Luxury'

True! Electric Cooking was a "luxury"—but now is one that pays dividends in savings. It is a luxury only in the sense that it's easier, cleaner, cooler and more modern. It's NOT a luxury in the sense that it is practical. Savings include time, labor and food. Its automatic features save both time and work. Food shrinkage is negligible; all the rich flavors are retained. No food values are boiled away or poured down the sink with excess water when you have safe, measured electric cooking. You don't have cooking failures that cost time and money. No wasted heat to cook the cook! The exact temperature you need is obtained by setting the heat-time control. No guesswork—or oven-peeking. The electric range is economical because it's both efficient and dependable.

LOW RATE FOR ELECTRIC COOKING

A low rate of 2 1/2¢ per kilowatt-hour for all over 50 kw-hr. used in homes having an electric range makes Electric Cooking economical for thousands who have considered this truly modern method as "a luxury." In many instances, it actually results in a monetary saving over old-fashioned types of cookery. Phone us for details, easy terms and trade-in allowance on your old stove.

Per Capita Income

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Per capita income in the United States last year, Secretary Jesse H. Brown reported Wednesday, was $21 over the 1938 figure.

The 1939 level was $143 under the 1929 level, but it reached in 1939, but more than 1933. Income included salaries, wages, dividends, etc.

The per capita in Texas rose to $401 in 1939. The 1929 level was $388 in 1929, and $258 in 1938. The 1939 level was $143 under the 1929 level, but it reached in 1939, but more than 1933. Income included salaries, wages, dividends, etc.

year was not evenly distributed, ranging from an increase of 1 per cent total income in Kansas to 11 per cent in Michigan.

Salaries and wages accounted for 60 per cent of total income for the nation.

The 1929, 1933, 1938 and 1939 per capita incomes for other states included: Arkansas, $305, $144, $336, $343.

Delaware returned to first place with a per capita average of $848, replacing New York, which averaged $825. Their 1938 averages were $780 and $799, respectively.

Mississippi remained at the bottom of the list despite a gain of $9 to $203. Arkansas was next, with $244, after an increase of $10.

The national average represented a 5 per cent gain over the previous year and ranged from no significance in average payments in Arizona to 11 per cent increase in Michigan and 10 per cent in North Dakota.

Salaries and wages accounted for 60 per cent of total income payments and capital return, such as dividends, interest and royalties accounted for 16 per cent.

Methodists to--

Paul's Methodist church at Cleburne, will speak to young people from the Methodist, Presbyterian and Christian churches. The Rev. Price will also speak briefly at the evening worship.

Friends and former members in Cisco who find they cannot attend all the services, are especially urged to attend the afternoon program. All ministers of the city are invited to attend the noon meal as guests of the Methodist church.

The arrangements committee is under the chairmanship of J. E. Proctor, and the group is planning for a splendid program, and for the noon meal. The ushers committee has announced that registrars will be stationed at all entrances so that check may be kept on the number who attend the celebration.

Active Workers

A list of those who have gone out from the First Methodist church since its organization to do work in religious fields is being compiled by the history committee. Among those selected have been the Rev. Byron Lovelady, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lovelady, and pastor of a Methodist church in Houston; the Rev. Henry Price, who grew up in the Cisco church and is now pastor of the St. Paul's Methodist church in Cleburne; the Rev. Marvin Boyd, pastor in Post, The Revs. Lovelady and Boyd, and J. Hollis Clark, now a student in Texas university at Austin, all preached their first sermons at the Cisco church.

Others to be recalled are the Rev. John R. Merritt, pastor of the Norton church; the Rev. Ernest R. Brown, son of Mr. John Brown of Cisco, and a pastor in the northwest Texas conference; Marvin Brown, grandson of Mrs. John Brown, and a ministerial student at Texas Tech in Lubbock; Ralph Nance, student in the school of Theology at Southern Methodist university; Miss Jewel Boyd, who married Rev. Wayne Cook, pastor of the Wheeler Methodist church in the Northwest Texas conference; Miss Eura Leveridge, daughter of Mrs. W. T. Leveridge, and teacher in the Holden institute at Laredo; The Rev. George Greebon, Methodist pastor in Gustine, whom the Methodist church here assisted in attending college; Miss Lela Latch, who received special training in religious education at Scaratt college in Nashville, Tennessee, and Miss June Morehart, who does extensive work in the summer with the Youth caravans.

Other Outstanding Laymen

The committee is also compiling, by memory and with the cooperation of members here, a list of the most prominent former laymen and pastors. It was pointed out that the list is incomplete, as it is impossible to recall every faithful worker in the church.

Of the first 10 years of the church, the following were selected as outstanding in shaping the foundation of the Methodist church: Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Mitchell; Mr. and Mrs. Walton; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Plummer; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wheeler; Mrs. Mattie Crow; Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith; Mrs. J. S. Eppler; Will Palmer; W. W. CoC Directors Hear Reports on Activities

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce met in regular session Tuesday night to hear reports on activities pertinent to this city and surrounding territory.

J. D. Lauderdale, chairman of the airport committee, discussed the progress of plans, and presented the recommendations of CAA officials regarding the establishment of airports in this sector.

A final report on the Fall fair, recently held in Cisco, was given by T. G. Caudle, agricultural secretary of the chamber of commerce. Considering the fact that this year's presentation of the fair was a "first step" toward greater development of agricultural interests for this vicinity, the fair was accepted as a success, with due praise for all concerned.

Matters dealing with the establishment of new bus lines through this city were presented by the highway chairman, E. P. Crawford. No definite announcements have been received regarding final decisions, but further progress will be reported as circumstances will permit. It was announced.

The directors heard a report on the activities of the peanut association and the volume of peanuts marketed in Cisco prior to this date was estimated at 400 tons. It is understood that this season is the second year of operation for the association in Cisco and considerable importance

Hearing On New Bus Line Here Soon

A hearing on the application of the Bowen Bus lines to establish a new line from Stamford to Eastland by way of Albany and Cisco will be held at Cisco October 23. An examiner of the Texas Railroad commission will conduct the hearing.

It was estimated that about three days would be required for the presentation of evidence and numbers of Cisco business men will appear in support of the Bowen company's application, which is being supported by the Cisco chamber of commerce.

The hearing will be held at the Laguna hotel. Visitors will be entertained at a luncheon at the hotel at noon on the 23rd.

The Bowen company plans to operate at least two schedules daily on the proposed route. The schedules would be an extension of the company's line from Roswell to Pecos and its line from Pecos to Stamford.

Presidential Campaign Draws Toward End

By the Associated Press

The presidential campaign drew to within three weeks of its decision at the polls with these statements from leading participants yesterday:

Wendell L. Willkie, touring Ohio, promised to "preserve for labor every social gain it has made" and said that if the people permit a third term "they have forfeited their right to be free."

Henry A. Wallace, democratic vice presidential nominee, replying to claims "that business would have greater confidence in a republican administration," told a Pittsburgh rally that republicans "were in the saddle in 1930 and 1931 and everybody knows what may be placed upon its value to residents of this city.

The chamber of commerce also received reports from business concerns outside of Cisco which seemed to indicate a growing interest in Cisco.

happened to business and to jobs." the problem, getting at its roots, the New Deal evaded, theorized and finally—wrote a check" and republican vice presidential nominee, discussing the farm problem at Hutchinson, Kans., charged that "instead of grappling with guinea pigs."

Don't buy this-- it's NOT advertised!

It's a doubtful product. It bears no trade name. It might be any one of the many things you buy or use every day. A refrigerator, perhaps... or a radio... nail polish... chewing gum... kitchen soap... a correspondence course.

But the promoter knows its claims couldn't stand the intense scrutiny of the American buying public. And so he prefers to dispose of it as an unbranded article. That's why you won't find his advertisement here.

How different from the other advertisers in this newspaper! Proudly they tell you of their latest product or service. Eagerly they announce special values, improvements, new features.

These manufacturers and merchants have confidence in what they offer. They realize that while advertising may make the first sale—it's the quality and value of the product that makes the second, third and fourth. And that's what they're after!

It's worth while, reading the advertisements! You can believe in them!
