

FEW NAZI PLANES PIERCE LONDON DEFENSE

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

There now appears a good chance for Cisco to secure a large aviation field devoted primarily to military defense. But the experience of Brownwood, Abilene, Mineral Wells and other cities which have secured army camps shows that such a project cannot be obtained without considerable community effort and expense, and above all, the cooperation of the citizens. Before an aviation field can be obtained here, Cisco must secure the land. Unless Cisco is willing to do this, the project had best be dropped.

As pointed out in a previous column, Cisco and other towns where a large element of population has been dependent upon relief projects, had better get busy toward securing something more substantial to take care of their people and provide community payrolls if they do not wish to be left out in the cold with the retrenchment in the WPA and other relief agencies not related to relief. The administration at Washington has made clear that expenses other than those needed for relief will be cut to the bone. WPA effort will be turned into defense projects. That policy means a withdrawal of projects for road building and similar construction which is not immediately related to the great program of equipping the nation to resist potential enemies.

Aviation is one of the foremost defense activities. The construction of large army landing fields for transcontinental movement of planes is a feature of the national program. Whether or not one such field can be located here, some form of aviation development is probable and such a development will help to insure the community against the certainty of having to take a "back seat" in the aviation progress that will certainly occur during the next few years.

The needs of the immediate future command one thing above all else. They demand that there be complete cooperation and a singleness of mind in the planning and promotion of a program that must be prosecuted vigorously if it attains success. There is plenty of glory for everybody in such a success, and certainly there is a better chance for achieving a community welfare that will benefit all.

Need Contributions For Nursery Tree

The advisory board of the Cisco Nursery school is planning a Christmas party for the children the last day before the schools close for the Christmas holidays. It was announced Saturday by officials.

Ciscoans were requested to make gifts of toys, clothes, fruit or candy to the school by contacting any of the following committee members: Mrs. Edward Lee, chairman, and Mmes. Sutton Crofts, Sam Kimmell, W. C. Hogue, Joe Clements, James Moore, R. L. Fonsler and Charles Sandler.

Band Parents Have Annual Banquet Friday

The Cisco Lobo band will be entertained with the annual band banquet at the First Christian church Friday evening at 7:30. It has been announced.

Every year between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays, for the past several years, the Band Parents club has honored the band with a dinner and other entertainment. Brief talks are made by school and band officials, and a local speaker brings the principal address. The program for Friday's banquet has not been announced.

There will be a meeting of the Band Parents club at the high school Monday evening at 7 o'clock to complete arrangements for the program. Every member is urged to attend.

Carpenter Pay Check Is Withheld

AUSTIN, Nov. 30 (AP).—Comptroller Sheppard revealed Saturday he had declined to issue a September pay warrant to Orville S. Carpenter on request of the attorney general, who may ask the supreme court of the United States for a review of litigation on the question of whether state office-holders can receive state pay while in active military training.

The state supreme court ruled recently that Carpenter, who began military training on the staff of the Texas National guard while he was chairman-director of the Unemployment Compensation commission, was entitled to state pay.

Attorney General Mann announced he was making a study to determine whether he could appeal to the high federal tribunal. He has 90 days in which to seek a review.

New Flurry of Shallow Drilling In Shackelford

ALBANY, Nov. 29 (Spe).—A new flurry of shallow sand drilling six miles west of Albany is underway this week in the Hope-Tannahill sands area with Henrick Oil Co. of Wichita Falls No. 1, W. P. Newell, drilling past 850 feet in the center of the east half of section 2, block 13, T&PRR. This is a new area one and one-half miles northwest of the Hope pool and about the same distance west of the original Tannahill pool, discovered in 1923 by L. B. Tannahill of Los Angeles, Calif., the first shallow oil west of Albany. Fortex Oil Corp. (W. E. Spenhoff) No. 1-A W. P. Newell is drilling again for Tannahill sand in southeast corner of south-west quarter section 12, block 12, T&PRR, after losing No. 1 with collapsed pipe, while attempting to make test of the 1,160 to 1,179 feet sand that showed for a 35-barrel well when passed up and drilled on through the regular Hope pay at 1,437 feet. No. 1-A is 30 feet south of No. 1, on farm-out from Rosser & Pendleton, Inc. of Fort Worth, with Rosser & Pendleton holdings east offset and Rhodes & Highers holding leases on Merrick Davis, the south offset, being a quarter mile out.

Those making the trip were W. G. Hellinghauser, Kyle Dilbert Sr., and Kyle, Jr., of Breckenridge; B. N. Burns of Fort Worth; Sam Quinn, Charles Corliff of Coleman; Joe Schwind of Breckenridge and Frank Bond.

XMAS STREET DECORATIONS UP THIS WEEK

Merchants Urged to Supplement With Store Lighting

Cisco business district Christmas decorations will be put up this week, under the arrangements made by the Cisco chamber of commerce and placed in the hands of a special committee. The usual Christmas lights will be employed, strings of colored bulbs stretched across the street to form a pretty night pattern for the main business area. Most of the equipment is already possessed by the chamber and only a nominal amount of replacements will be necessary, the committee said. Merchants will be urged to supplement the street lighting with decorations of their fronts to harmonize with the business district a fling of beauty to stimulate the Christmas spirit and offer an inviting atmosphere for shopping.

Funeral For Soule McDaniel Held Saturday

Funeral services for J. Soule McDaniel, 69, prominent business man of Abilene, who died in Abilene Thursday afternoon, were conducted from the St. Paul Methodist church in Abilene at 10 o'clock Saturday morning by Dr. C. A. Long, pastor.

Apparently in good health McDaniel suffered a heart attack as he was leaving his place of business Wednesday afternoon. He was taken to a hospital where he died a few hours later.

As president of the Texas Coca-Cola Bottling company, McDaniel had been prominent in Abilene and west Texas business, civic and church affairs for 20 years. He was a member of the Kiwanis, treasurer of the Texas State Bottler's association, and a director of the Taylor county Tuberculosis association, Abilene chamber of commerce and West Texas Fair association.

Reared in Fort Worth McDaniel entered the bottling business as a boy and was engaged in it 52 years. He went to Wichita Falls in 1916, sold his interest there in 1918, and went to Abilene two years later.

Besides the bottling firm he had many other interests including the Elm Cattle company, Mc-

Nursery School Begins Second Year of Work

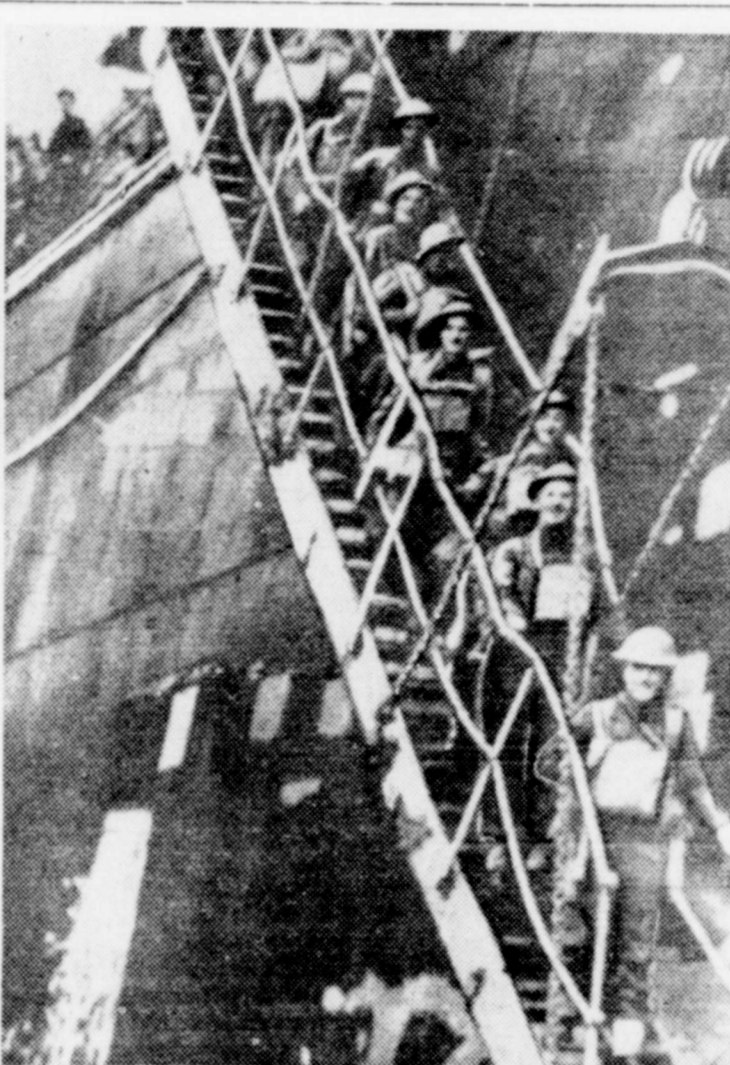

The Cisco Nursery school is starting its second year since reorganization and the advisory board expressed its thanks to everyone who has helped to keep it alive and to give some 240 children this year untold benefits of a healthful daily regimen and diet. Without this boon, the majority of the children would have been undernourished, it was pointed out.

The training which the children have received in the nursery school, which includes children from two to five years of age, will be a firm foundation for elementary school training which the tots will receive later.

Cisco has one of the oldest nursery schools in the state, it was stated, and has a school with a clean record and high ranking. The public is invited to visit the

SCHOOLS URGE DELINQUENTS TO PAY TAXES

Appealing to delinquent tax payers to pay their levies to the Cisco Independent School district promptly, Judge Eugene Lanford, attorney for the school board Saturday issued the following statement.

To Those Who Owe School Taxes:

By far the greatest institutions that Cisco, or any other city, has are its schools. They are much more important than any other defensive activities of America, and if civilization is preserved, it must be done by educating the rising generation as to make them wise enough to avoid the causes of war.

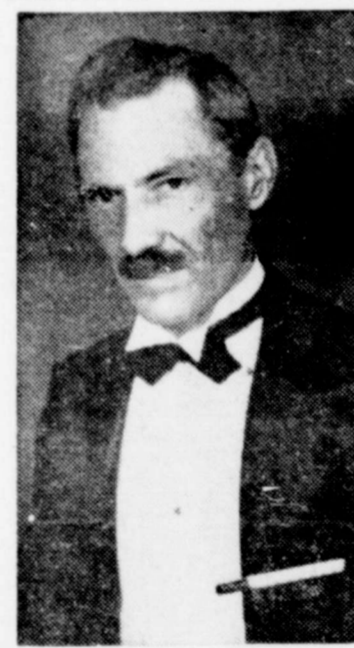

A great majority of the citizens of Cisco are very loyal to our schools and pay their school taxes promptly. Some are financially unable to pay all promptly, but are interested enough to explain to the collector their inability to pay all, but pay in installments when ever possible. The school board is glad to cooperate with and assist those who try.

Not Charitable Organization

However, we find a considerable number of people who could pay if they really wanted to, but who seem to think that the school board should favor them by waiting on them sometimes several years, while they, the delinquents, use their money in other enterprise. It must be remembered that the school district is not a charitable organization, and it is against the law for them to waive taxes, or donate taxes to anyone, in any case. Besides, it is not fair to those who do pay, to permit others to go without paying. Some people in Cisco have educated their children in the schools of Cisco, and have in every way enjoyed the benefits and advantages of good schools, and have not paid any school taxes in many years. They use their property till it is worn out, or disposed of, and are indignant when suit is filed against them, and seem to think that because the property is worn out, or dis-

GERMANS MAKE ONE OF THEIR BIGGEST RAIDS

Two Daylight Raids Are Made During Afternoon

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP).—The Nazi air force made one of its strongest drives in recent weeks to bomb London Saturday, but only a few of the hundred or more planes which roared toward the capital got past the outer ground defenses and the RAF.

There were two daylight raids by mid-afternoon, after a night attack in which the Germans used upward of 300 bombers against London and the home counties, while hundreds of others struck at the Midlands and the Mersey river area.

The first of the daylight raids came over the Thames estuary in waves of 30 planes. Anti-aircraft guns barked and fast Hurricane and Spitfire fighters zoomed to the attack, quickly breaking up the Nazi formations and forcing most of the planes back.

Some bombs were dropped in a London residential district. One hit a building and sent a small tower crashing on a taxi cab in a main shopping street. Pedestrians dashed to cover.

Attack Balloons
German planes also attacked a convoy flying barrage balloons. Persons on shore heard anti-aircraft firing from the ships and bomb explosions and saw high columns of water.

One raider twice attempted to bomb a convoy off the southeast coast. Explosions could be heard but thick mist and a slight rain hid the vessels from shore, although barrage balloons accompanied the ships could be seen from time to time.

Exchange Telegraph reported that towns in southern England suffered heavily Friday night, with six killed in one town, several injured and much property damage.

In London, said the British Press association, mothers and babies escaped when the maternity ward of a London hospital was hit. There were more than 30 persons in the ward, the agency said, but only slight injuries were reported, although beds were flung on them and debris almost buried them.

(Informed German sources said about 400 tons of explosives and 36 tons of incendiaries were dropped on London during the night, in a "large scale attack." Secondary raids were said to have been directed against Birmingham, Liverpool and Plymouth, while Italian fliers attacked Ipswich.)

Newspaper and Public Service

In some quarters there is a tendency to regard newspapers in the United States as fill their ancient function of rendering public service to their city, state and nation as a whole. It is one of those things that are easily refutable. Let's take the case of the state of Louisiana. For 12 long years—and they were mainly Long years—the state was dominated by a machine that seemed impregnable. It controlled the courts, the police powers, the election machinery, the treasury, and the schools and universities. Even after Huey Long's assassination, the machine continued to function.

Then it was that a number of courageous papers which had been fighting Long took up the battle with even more vigor. They wanted to lift the state from its thralldom. They wanted to oust the grafters.

Soil District Election to Be Held Dec. 14

The election to determine whether the Upper Leon Soil Conservation District shall be formed will be held on Saturday, December 14. The district includes parts of Comanche and Erath counties and all of Eastland county except that part lying east of the Lake Hammond railroad and that part of Eastland county lying north of the Base Line road and west of the Canyon road. These roads run west and north respectively from the city limits of Cisco.

Holidays Bring Cheer to Youngsters in Hospital

Advent of the holiday season finds a group of expectant little patients at the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas, for this is the time of year when folks think of those less fortunate than themselves. Thanksgiving Day at the hospital was celebrated by a big turkey dinner for the 63 small inmates of the wards. Six big turkeys were given to the children by an anonymous friend, and Willie Reed, 4 years old, of Clarksville is shown all ready for the feast. There is a likelihood of a second Thanksgiving November 28th if more turkeys are forthcoming. In December Nathan Adams, Dallas banker, will make his seventh annual appeal to his friends to subscribe funds toward maintaining this hospital which has cared for and cured so many little ones.

They wanted to restore the state to its people. They succeeded in abundant measure. The Long machine was broken. Many of its leaders went to prison. Wonders have been brought about in six short months. State job-holders no longer gave up part of their pay to a machine. The state payrolls now show fewer than 6,000 employes, instead of double that number. The courts have been reformed. Supplies for the state are being procured at lowest market prices.

But the battle has not been entirely won. It takes time. There are those who still yearn for the fleshpots of the good old days and are ready to fight for their return. So there is need for vigilance on the part of the state's press.

One of the men still watchful on the firing line is James E. Crown, fighting editor of the fighting New Orleans States. He does not mince words. He knows that when one is in a hard political battle, powder-puff language is futile. Old-fashioned meat-ax phrases are needed. Editor Crown supplies them. When he goes after a man, the object of his attention knows it. He is likely to call a spouter a person afflicted with "hydrophobia of the mouth." If he thinks a politician is a liar, he says: "once a liar always a liar." That kind of verbal high explosives helped smash the demagoguery of the Long machine. It is most probably that kind which will finish off the pieces.

Maybe Sherman was right way back then, but we doubt if he could adequately express himself today.

Even the state prison board agrees the food isn't so good at a Raleigh (N. C.) prison since four cooks escaped. Too many missing cooks spoiled the broth.

One of the best ways to keep this country rolling along in the right direction is for all of us to put our shoulder to the wheel.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

MOSCOW DIVORCE MAY NOT SOLVE U. S. REDS' TROUBLES--VOORHIS ACT HAS A DOUBLE EDGE

BY BRUCE CATTON, NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—American Communists may have laid up new troubles for themselves when they cut the formal ties binding them to the Comintern.

They did it chiefly to get out from under the Voorhis act, which will go into effect in January and will require any political organization subject to foreign control to register with the attorney general. What they may have done, however, was put themselves right under the act in a big way.

That, at any rate, is the belief of the law's author, Congressman Jerry Voorhis of California. Voorhis points out that the law is a double-edged weapon. A political organization subject to foreign control is obliged to give the Department of Justice its names and addresses of all its branches, all its officers and all its members or active supporters. Theory is that if the Communist Party, or the German-American Bund, should comply with that law the exposure would practically end its effectiveness. The other edge is this: If an outfit which is suspected of having foreign ties refuses to register, the Department of Justice will then have authority to investigate from top to bottom to see whether those foreign ties do in fact exist. The department has not before had that power. It could never do much in the way of investigating the Communist Party, simply because the party was perfectly legal. It'll still be legal, after the Voorhis act goes into effect—but it'll also be legal for the FBI to look into things to see if the party's claim which engages Moscow's control is justified. "If they don't register, the Department of Justice certainly ought to go into it very carefully to see if there aren't other aspects of foreign control aside from direct affiliation," says Voorhis.

Catton

OTHERS TO FEEL LAW INCIDENTALLY, the Voorhis bill also gives the FBI a good chance to go through the House with a fine-tooth comb, or to go into the affairs of such outfits as the Silver Shirts. Political organizations subject to foreign control are not the only ones required to register by the law. Also involved are "several organizations of the American branch of the party are in any way influenced by what Moscow may want. Best efforts of the Dies Committee to bring an admission of foreign control from leaders of the American party have always failed. "It's something," says Voorhis, "to see them admitting now, by indication, that they did take orders from Moscow in the past."

Week the West Texas chamber of commerce started carrying its affiliated towns the message of reform in state government. In line with action ordered by the regional chamber's executive board, meeting at Wichita Falls last Wednesday, the 20th, Vice President J. Thomas Davis and the 10 district directors launched a series of town meetings for explanation and discussion of the legislative campaign covering reorganized financial management of the administrative branches at Austin.

Forty of these meetings have been or are being arranged, to be staffed by D. A. Bandeen, WTCC general manager; J. A. Rix, assistant manager; and Max Bentley, activities director. The district directors also will speak at all meetings in their districts.

The local chamber of commerce in WTCC territory are sponsoring the gatherings and doing the main organizing job. Each non-host affiliate town in the territory is being invited to send a delegation to a designated meeting.

posed of, no personal judgment can be rendered against them for the amount they owe. In this they are wrong. A personal judgment can be, and always is, rendered against the person who owes the taxes in all cases, and the judgment is a lien against whatever property the tax payer owns.

The school board has no disposition to file suit against any one who is making a good faith effort to pay his school taxes. When the property owner refuses to pay, and ignores all notices sent to him about his delinquent taxes, the attorney for the school district has to be called into action. Then the attorney notifies the delinquent tax payer in plenty of time to pay his taxes before foreclosure suit is filed; but when the delinquent ignores the notice from the attorney, and makes no explanation of his conduct, suit will be filed and a judgment rendered for the amount of taxes due with interest penalty, and costs, and the property sold to pay the judgment. In case the property is worn out, burned, or disposed of, selling any other property the delinquent tax payer might have.

The attorney for the district has notified a number of owners of automobiles to pay their delinquent taxes on their cars. Some have paid, others have arranged satisfactorily for payment. Suits will be filed the coming week against car owners who failed to respond and ignored these notices. If you think the value of your property is too high, it may be your fault in not rendering your property yourself. If it is the fault of the board of equalization, the tax committee of the board will gladly consider your complaint.

All ad valorem taxes in Texas are too high and the main reason of that is the fact that so many people don't pay their taxes till they have to. If everybody paid his taxes promptly, the tax rate could be almost cut in half. So the high taxes must be charged largely to the people who try to "ride" the counties, cities and school districts. There are very few people who would "ride" the school district if they only realized fully what I have said about the importance of maintaining good schools. The school board is making every effort to keep the school at their usual high level. Will you help? Respectfully submitted, EUGENE LANKFORD, Attorney for the School District.

Improper Gasoline Use in Home Cause of Many Deaths

Improper use and care of gasoline in the home has caused an average annual death toll of approximately 50 men, women and children in Texas during the five-year period of 1935-39, inclusive, and the improper use and care of kerosene in the home has caused an average death toll of approximately 55 men, women and children during the same period.

The improper use and care of gasoline and kerosene have caused an average annual fire loss in Texas of approximately $216,000 during the five-year period of 1935-39. The use of gasoline in the home for any purpose is extremely dangerous. In fact, it is suicidal for any person to attempt to use gasoline in the home for such purposes as: Starting or quickening a fire, cleaning clothes, woodwork and floors, or other purposes, since gasoline vaporizes at ordinary temperature and the inflammability of gasoline fumes and its explosive power is nine-tenths greater than dynamite. The mere opening of a door between the room where gasoline was being used to clean clothes and a room in which there was a lighted hot water heater caused a destructive explosion. A home with dynamite in it is much safer than one with gasoline in it, especially where there are small children who do not know the properties and danger of gasoline, because we have learned to fear dynamite and know how dangerous it is. The use of kerosene in the home as a fuel is also very dangerous and it was never intended that kerosens should be used to start or quicken a fire, and any person who attempts to use it for that purpose is almost certain to be seriously injured or burned to death. If there are some home owners who will not heed the warning against the danger of using kerosene to start or quicken a fire and they just must do so, it is suggested that they place some small pieces of kindling in a metal container and pour a very small quantity of kerosene on the kindling and then take the kindling and place it in the stove or fire place and apply a lighted

SERIAL STORY
DUDE COLLEGE
 BY OREN ARNOLD

YESTERDAY: When Wesley's stammered explanations fails to explain anything, Ronnie rushes him away, leaving Andre and Lona together. Carefully Andre reveals the ring that is to identify him to his confederate, Lona glimpses it, then turns on him, furiously. "Why did you delay? The high ones demand action?"

WESLEY EXPLAINS
 CHAPTER XI

THEY climbed the stone stair with the beautiful wrought iron railing, passed through the gymnasium balcony and out an arched door onto the roof of another arched colonnade such as connected the Pueblo university buildings around a large patio. The roof here made a promenade with a knee-high rail, and Andre led Lona Montoya into a moon shadow cast by a high, rustling palm tree.

She put aside her crutch now because they were quite alone. Music from the dance floor seeped out and up to them suggesting a subtle background of romance, but only Andre responded to its suggestion. He looked at Lona with a sudden amused, half-smiling smile.

"You're beautiful when you're angry," he informed her.

"Did you come here on business or on pleasure?" Her voice was snappy. "You have taken too many drinks already tonight."

"Oh, take it easy, kid. I think we could get along time." He litagred her arm, up and down.

"Would you like a drink yourself?"

"I am, being paid to do a job and you are being paid to do a job," Mr. Girardeau. And we both know we can be found murdered if we fall. Why do I have to remind you of that?"

Andre laughed. "This isn't the moment for business! This is a lovely autumn evening! Look at the stars, my dear."

"I am not your dear!"

He smiled genially at her. He had been walking slowly, with an arm around her as if in deference to her sprained ankle, which both knew was pretense. He held her a little closer, noting—with satisfaction—that she did not resist, despite her words. He wanted her to feel his strong arm.

"Like it out here?" He parred that ever so intimately. "Like me?"

She didn't answer.

But she sat on the low railing, 20 feet above the patio grass, and listened while he paid her numerous compliments. It was exceedingly easy to listen to suave Andre Girardeau. His technique was a studied one that he had used many times before.

THE patio there was really a half-acre courtyard landscaped with grass as rich as a golf green, with shrubs that looked impressively against the tan buildings, with tall curved palms and with vines that somehow managed to bedeck themselves with flowers even in fall. It had been an obvious place for Ronica Bailey to lead her distressed professor friend when she wanted privacy. They had found a rustic bench beside a trickling fountain, and Ronica was sitting in the dim moonlight, hands behind her neck and head back so that she looked up at him. She was Beauty itself in this perfect setting, but Wesley was too upset to observe things now.

"Stand if you prefer, Wes. But please start talking."

"I uh, Ronnie, I—" He took out his handkerchief to mop his chin, although he could hardly have been perspiring.

"Yes?" she encouraged. "We are out here to explain things. Aren't we?"

"Quite so. I mean—yes, Ronnie." He sat down beside her. "I hope you will not stay angry at me. I—I came to your home. But your father said—he said that this, uh, Girardeau was taking you to the dance, and Girardeau was just ahead of me."

Ronica's knees were crossed and she was swinging one very shapely lower limb as if to express impatience.

"On the contrary, Wes, you arrived just ahead of Andre. He even ran into your car. Daddy said, He had been drinking. You could have come in first. Besides, I don't care what Daddy told you. He's an old dear, but you didn't have to listen to him. You made the date with me, not with him!"

"You—you really would have gone to the dance with me?"

Wesley held out a hand as if in supplication.

"Certainly!"

He looked away, contrite. Ronica sensed his mood.

"Wes," she resumed, kindly, "why did you think I might not? Didn't you—believe me?"

He nodded. "At first. But—oh, goodness, Ronnie, you really are a lady in every way! To be very frank, I was scared. I uh, have not had many dates. Not in years. I have but little money, whereas you, the Baileys, and this Girardeau—" He paused, still looking off.

"I think I understand, Wes. But it's foolish, I mean unfair."

"I know. But this Girardeau mistook me for a servant and said so. I was trying to apologize for my car damage, when—"

STORIES IN STAMPS

President Roosevelt May Add New Stamp Portraits

The next four years may bring new philatelic honors to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, the only living American to be pictured on the stamps of three foreign countries. The U. S. President is shown on the Turkish issue above, with President Inonu. The stamp was one of three commemorating the 150th anniversary of the U. S. Constitution.

The President also has been pictured on stamps of Brazil and Guatemala. Three other living Americans have portraits in the stamp gallery.

President Roosevelt is an ardent philatelist, has kept a stamp collection since he was a boy. He owns from 25,000 to 30,000 stamps, has specialized in North, Central and South American issues. He also has collected Hong Kong and British West Indies.

The President has been active in increasing U. S. stamp issues, has personally designed several stamps and posters on all suggested designs. It is likely that his third term will see a continuance of the expanded U. S. stamp program.

GRAVESTONE OF A CONFEDERATE SOLDIER, WHO DIED IN PRISON CAMP DURING THE CIVIL WAR. JOHN'S ISLAND, SANDUSKY BAY, OHIO.

WHICH ONE OF THE NINE MAJOR PLANETS IS KNOWN TO BEAR LIFE?

ANSWER: The one we live on, the earth.

UNDER the spell of her kindness there the young professor talked himself out. He told more than he had meant to, really, more of his inner feelings.

But he found this good, and it somehow warmed him to Ronica Bailey more than ever, although to keep from revealing this new warmth of feeling he presently lapsed back into a formal manner and tone. When they had talked for perhaps half an hour Ronnie stood up.

"I'm so happy we understand each other," she said, "and I think I shall go explain more to Andre now."

"No," said Wes, with sudden determination. "I shall go myself. I—I wish to demonstrate that I am not, uh, afraid of him. Not awed."

He left her at once. She was smiling at his boyish way, which could be in such contrast to Wesley York, the professor. She sat down again to wait, and with arms still behind her head she gazed at the gymnasium with its lights inside and at the arched colonnade bathed in moon glow.

Her attention was attracted by two figures on the colonnade; man and girl, on the roof. Apparently the girl was sitting, the man standing over her.

Ronica leaned forward, stretching to see. The two on the roof were no more than black for the moment, not quite clear even in silhouette. Curious, she strolled over toward them.

Writer Saw Nazi Unrest in France

Unrest in conquered France is not limited to Frenchmen. It is spreading so rapidly to German army of occupation that an average of two Nazi soldiers a day are committing suicide. So said Marion Dix Bromley, of South Pasadena, Calif., pictured above with her pet cat as she recently arrived in Brooklyn after four years of writing in Paris.

New Members Are Urged For AL Auxiliary

Revitalizing America's spirit of patriotism will be one of the important undertakings of the American Legion auxiliary during the coming year. Mrs. J. J. Tobleman, president of the John Wm. Butt unit of the auxiliary, announced today. Enrollment of the largest membership in the history of the organization is being sought to help accomplish this task, she said.

"Armed defenses which we are building will not make America secure unless there is behind them a nation strong in patriotic spirit. Mrs. Tobleman stated. "A united nation in which everyone is willing to serve and sacrifice for the common good is essential for the survival of our country as we know it in the world of today. There must be no subdivision or self-seeking at home while our men are training in the field. The institutions which they are training to defend must not be allowed to decay behind their backs."

"Women have a very important part to play in keeping the nation internally strong. They are the leaders of the fires of patriotism in the home. They are the ones who must instill American ideals in the young. Through their individual and organization activities they can contribute immeasurably to the defeat of the forces seeking to undermine American democracy behind the lines of armed defense."

"The auxiliary is giving energetic service in all fields where the patriotic work of women can be effective. We need greater strength than ever before this year because of the greater need for the work we are in position to do. We are asking all eligible women of Cisco to come into our auxiliary unit now and help us carry forward our great program of service."

The John Wm. Butt unit will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. Leon McPherson on December 16, when applications for membership will be received and new members welcomed into the organization.

Doggin' Deer

Harry Jordan hunts deer in Maine from a little rubber-tired wagon drawn by a huge Labrador retriever. As the dog quietly draws the cart along tote roads, Jordan keeps keen eyes on surrounding woods. The veteran Eddington guide uses an old muzzle loader with a single ball. It is a good conservation measure because when he sees two or three deer at a time he can shoot at only one and takes no chance of wounding the others.

FINDING a Condition Is Not CREATING IT

A great medical authority was asked by a layman what was in his opinion, the worst enemy to human health. His instant and unhesitating reply was—NEGLECT. He went on to say that many people act as if they thought the doctor was going to create some sort of condition by the mere act of examination and diagnosis.

You may have fears about your health that your doctor can dispel upon examination. Every busy doctor has many such cases, and is happy to give his patient a reassuring clean "bill of health."

But the FINDING of a condition enables you to build up your health defenses in time. Just consciously or unconsciously putting off verifying a suspicion is not only lack of physical and mental courage—but it costs many valuable lives.

Your doctor has no way of compelling you to take care of your health. He can only give you his help when you either go to him or send for him. Go to him at regular intervals for a general check-up. If there is some kind of suspicious or painful condition, do not NEGLECT IT.

Buying Power of Texans Is Higher

AUSTIN, Nov. 30 (Sp.)—Buying power of Mr. and Mrs. Average Texas—reflected in dollar sales of 94 department and apparel stores—as higher this year than last. University of Texas business statisticians claimed today.

Sales for the first ten months of 1940 have been 3.9 per cent higher than during the same period of 1939, university bureau of business research officials said.

In contrast to the usual seasonal gain, business at these stores in October declined 3.6 per cent from September trade, but remained 0.3 per cent above October a year ago.

Among the many breath-taking acts to be seen here are the Egyptian mummy case, the phantom cage, the Chinese dove mystery and dozens of others. The feature of the performance is the Vanishing Princess, a $20,000 mystery originated by Dr. Gaffney himself and in which he presents his, the fastest vanishing human being in existence.

Another feature not to be overlooked is Dr. Gaffney's demonstration of thought transmission.

Those who have not had the good fortune of seeing Hoodini, Thurston, Kellar or Hermann, the great masters of yesterday, need feel no disappointment as they will have in the appearance of Dr. Gaffney the opportunity to see these all re-incarnated in the Gaffney genius. He is said to be the supreme master magician of the present.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Philately's Art Gallery Reproduces World's Best

THE stamp collector who specializes in fine art will find a wide selection of the world's greatest masterpieces for his album. Stamps afford an art collection within the financial reach of anyone who devotes his efforts toward obtaining it.

Notable addition to the art gallery was the Belgian series of eight semi-postals honoring Peter Paul Rubens, noted Flemish painter. Rubens' painting of himself and his first wife is pictured above.

France recently contributed Fragonard's "La Lettre," and Germany issued Durer's "Venetian Woman." Spain's Goya stamp is well known. Belgium's Memling was not forgotten.

Pan American Union anniversary commemoratives added the Venezuela reproduction of Tito Salas' painting "The Foundation of the Great Colombia," and U. S. "Three Graces" from Botticelli's "Spring." Numerous U. S. stamp designs are taken from paintings.
