

NEW CONGRESS CONVENES AT NOON TODAY

Through the Editor's Spectacles
By GEORGE

If any more evidence of the ruthless character of the Hitler mode of warfare is needed, certainly the series of unprovoked bombing assaults upon neutral Dublin should be that evidence. The barbarous attack upon a community of civilians who are at formal peace with the Axis is a screaming instance of the policy of undeclared war which the Hitler regime is using. How can any person argue for appeasement, for negotiated peace on the basis of mutual respect for obligations incurred, as the appropriate conclusion to the struggle in Europe and Asia when such a demonstration of the inhuman lust for conquest which actuates the dictator exists? One might as well argue that the best way to treat a murderer is to give him a gun.

Ireland has endeavored by all means in its power to remain neutral in this war. But neutrality in the face of objectives that the dictators desire is a forlorn object. Irish ports offer too much opportunity for the transportation of American supplies to beleaguered Britain. Obviously, according to the dictator formula of crushing everything in the way of an Axis victory, the proper move is to demolish Irish ports and frighten the little nation into refusing the use of any facility which might assist in the job of carrying succor from America to England. If that famous Irish dander is provoked, however, Ireland may summarily abandon its aloofness and throw its forces with the British. Such an eventuality probably was considered by the dictators, but the value of Irish non-belligerent facilities to the British is quite too great not to risk what might be gained in addition to the British fighting strength the Irish navy is in the position to supply as an active ally of the English. The Axis is determinedly seeking to surround Britain with sea and air blockade and humanity is no consideration where a loophole exists.

Thus we have another demonstration of what the future may hold for a world dominated by the totalitarian powers. It is an example of unrestrained barbarity of means and purposes which makes silly the arguments of well-meaning individuals that this hemisphere should withdraw behind its own fancied moats of political security on the ground that Mr. Hitler will be tolerant of the rights of other nations once the ills of his own nation are cured. Do the nazis possess rights which are superior to the rights of Ireland and other small nations? Is it a just cause which makes logical the killing of neutral civilians, the destruction of neutral property, the conquest of people merely because they are without the means of defense?

Guess again, mister. These bathers aren't showing they can take it by pushing through snow and ice for a dip. The snow-like drifts are nice warm ocean foam, whipped to a froth by recent storms and high breakers along the southern California coast. Here at San Diego, bathers get a "bubble bath" from the foamy substance, known technically as spin-drift.

Landowners to Elect Precinct Committeemen

Meeting of landowners from county commissioners precincts two and four will be held in Gorman and Cisco respectively Tuesday, January 7, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing two advisory committeemen to serve under the provisions of the Texas State Soil Conservation law, according to an announcement made by County Judge W. S. Adamson, who said that the elections were called by the commissioners' court in order to comply with the state soil law, which specifies that advisory committeemen from precincts two and four shall be elected on the first Tuesday in January, 1941.

The elections will be held by the county commissioner, A. M. Thurman, commissioner for precinct two has announced that his election meeting will be held at the newspaper office in Gorman, and ARCH BINT, commissioner for PRECINCT FOUR, has made arrangements to hold his election at the Cisco chamber of commerce. They have urged that landowners living in the two precincts attend the elections and take part.

Itinerant Charged In Durant Slaying

DURANT, Okla., Jan. 3 (AP)—Murder charges were filed here against Jacob Henry Cottrell, 26, an itinerant, accusing him of killing Jake Burkett, about 35, an oil field worker, and burying his body in a shallow grave on Bobby creek, near here.

Co. Atty. Bill Steger, who filed the charges, said Cottrell led officers to the grave after he was arrested in Okemah for driving while intoxicated, and questioning him about blood stained clothing found in Burkett's auto.

"Cottrell had no home or headquarters of any kind," Steger said. "We have found papers showing he recently has been in Illinois, Texas and other states."

Device to Locate Planes Announced

CHICAGO, Jan. 3 (AP)—Development of a device enabling ground crews to determine exact positions of airplanes in flight was announced by United Airlines.

J. R. Cunningham, the line's director of communications, said that for the first time it would be possible for an airline dispatcher to be informed of the course of planes in flight at all times and to be aware instantly of any deviation from the true course.

This can be accomplished, he said, without the aid of computations by the airplane's pilots and without their knowledge.

Resources of $1,184,389.53 in Bank Report

Responding to a call by the comptroller of the currency today for the condition of national banks as of December 31, 1940, the First National bank of Cisco reported deposits of $1,052,300.13. Total resources of $1,184,389.53 were reported by the bank, including $935,823.13 in loans and discounts, $371,724.32 in cash and $379,500 in government and federal land bank bonds at par.

SCHOOLS GET WARRANTS

AUSTIN, Jan. 3 (AP)—Release of warrants to public schools representing a $2 per capita appropriation of the state available school fund and aggregating $3,075,232 was announced Thursday by L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction.

Mrs. George Winston had as her guests Mr. and Mrs. Claude Winston and children of Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Winston and daughter, Mary Helen, of Midland, and Ernest Winston of Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio.

Rising Star Hunters Kill Large Cougar

RISING STAR, Jan. 3 (Spc)—A large mounted cougar, or mountain lion, is soon to adorn the walls of the local Boy Scout hut, thanks to members of the local scout committee and friends of the scout movement in Rising Star.

The animal, first of its kind seen near here in many years, was slain in the early hours of Tuesday morning, December 24, on the line of the Cut Butler and Hickman places a few miles southeast of Rising Star, by George Fox, his son, Earl, and Jack Ramsey, Mr. Fox is employed in the construction of the market building here.

The animal was killed with a .22 rifle carried by the hunters, who started out Monday night with a cur dog to hunt "possums and other small animals. It was early Tuesday morning when the dog "jumped" the cougar near the south end of Philpeck lake and pursued him for about an hour and finally bayed him in a tree more than two miles from where he was first seen.

The first shot from the .22 is believed to have mortally wounded the beast, but 14 more shots were required to lay him low. The big cat was brought to Rising Star, where on Christmas eve it was viewed by the large shopping crowd. It was also shown at Pioneer, Cross Plains and other points to the amazement of many who have never thought of such an animal roaming these parts.

Burt Butler is of the opinion that the big cat had been in the vicinity for probably a couple of years, basing his opinion on the loss of sheep and goats and the manner in which they were disposed of. A sharp lookout is to be kept up to see if any of its young are in the vicinity.

Callahan Farm Debt Group Called

BAIRD, Jan. 3 (Spc)—A special meeting of the Callahan county farm debt adjustment committee will be held Monday, January 6, on the third floor of the courthouse in Baird, for the purpose of considering the cases of farmers who failed to meet January first installments on notes and are consequently in danger of losing land or livestock.

ATTACKS UPON DUBLIN ROUSE IRISH WRATH

Strongly Warded Protest Is Sent To German Capital

DUBLIN, Jan. 3.—Angered Irishmen counted toll of a series of bombing assaults by unidentified war planes last night and today, including the deaths of three civilians, and declared that if the attacks were Hitler's effort to intimidate their tiny nation he had taken the wrong course.

Although the government did not identify the planes as German, Premier Eamon de Valera sent a strongly worded protest to Berlin, indicating a conviction that the nazis were responsible.

A new raid shortly before dawn today followed up a five-hour assault started Wednesday night on an area of 60-mile radius about this neutral capital.

Involving warplanes, apparently German, had loosed new loads of bombs on neutral but uneasy Ireland last night.

Oddly, the missiles dropped from unidentified planes included parachute-borne sea mines which the Irish government said fell on shore this morning, lying unexploded and menacing in the fields.

Tonight's bombs came down near Ennisceorthy, 60 miles southwest of Dublin and less than 15 miles inland from the Irish sea, which separates Ireland from England. No damage or casualties were reported in this case, and the identity of the raiders was not mentioned.

In the attacks last night, however, at least three civilians were killed and two injured at Knockree, County Carlow, and one of the bombs was declared by the defense department to have borne German markings.

The mines which fell at Ennisceorthy, County Wicklow, were said by experts to be of the German magnetic variety used early in the war before Britain devised a defense system against them.

They were carried to earth by parachutes of emerald green silk, also of German manufacture.

Two Soil District Supervisors Named

Tom Hughes of Dublin and T. E. Castleberry of Eastland were recommended as supervisors of the Upper Leon Soil Conservation district at a meeting held in DeLeon recently. At the same time nominations were made for additional supervisors to be elected in the near future. The nominees named were J. B. Eberhart, Rising Star; Walter J. Fritts, Comanche; and H. J. Huddleston, DeLeon.

These recommendations were made by representatives of the county land use planning committee, county advisory boards, and agricultural workers of Erath, Eastland and Comanche counties. After it is once set up, the board of district supervisors will serve as the administrative body of the recently created soil conservation district.

The date for electing the remaining three supervisors will be announced through later editions of this paper.

The Turkish constitution was adopted in 1925.

Unconfirmed That Navy Plane Found

An unconfirmed report that a huge naval bomber lost in a storm over west Texas last night, had landed on a shallow lake without injury to either Lieut. M. Hanson, pilot, or Co-pilot R. B. Clarke of the naval reserve was received today.

While squadrons of military craft searched for the missing bomber, one of the five men who leaped from the plane on orders of the pilot, was killed and three others were injured.

Radioman A. M. Perry, 31, of Los Angeles, who landed unhurt, said at Lamesa the men bailed out at 17,000 feet after encountering a terrible storm which broke the plane's windows and sent the craft momentarily out of control.

Not until January 18 will a complete count be available, but already enough fatalities have been tallied to convince Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., state police director, that the state's record of perennial decrease in the ratio of deaths to miles travelled has been shattered.

Early in December the 1939 total of 1,583 traffic deaths was broken. Then more and more deaths piled up during the remainder of the year's most dangerous month, which includes the Christmas and New Year's eve slaughters. Reports to date indicate that an earlier estimate of 150 deaths for December, bringing the year's toll to approximately 1,733, will stand up.

If these figures prove correct, the number of deaths per 100,000,000 miles of travel will have increased from the all-time low of 10.4 in 1939 to at least 10.83. Incomplete figures indicate an increase of approximately nine per cent in traffic deaths and of six per cent in vehicular travel during 1940, bringing the total mileage to approximately 16,200,000,000.

Accidents increased roughly four and one-half per cent only half the amount of increase in deaths. But records showed an increase of 28 per cent in drivers involved in fatal collisions who were driving at unsafe speeds.

Drinking drivers in fatal accidents increased 25 per cent, and

FDR TO SEEK BROAD POWER FOR DEFENSE

Hopkins Sent To London Pending Permanent Appointment.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 3.—The 77th congress of the United States convened at noon today confronted with the prospect that President Roosevelt would ask broad discretionary powers for the prosecution of the defense program which he is mapping for 1941.

Vice President John Garner gavelled the senate to order while in the house Speaker Sam Rayburn summoned the members into session which formally sent the 76th congress into history.

Eleven new senators were to be sworn in. In the house all 435 members were to be sworn after which the house was to re-elect Rayburn as speaker. Vice President-elect Henry A. Wallace will preside over the new senate after his inauguration with President Roosevelt.

Coincident with the convening of the new congress President Roosevelt announced that he is sending Harry Hopkins as his personal representative to London. He made it clear that Hopkins would not go as the new ambassador to the Court of St. James, but that he would attend to the duties of an ambassador for about two weeks until a permanent appointment is made.

To prosecute his program for lending war supplies to Great Britain and carry out the details of the national defense program, the president was expected to seek a blanket approval by the new congress to be worked out by himself and Wm. S. Knudsen, chairman of the new defense commission. He will argue that no legislation can be quickly drafted which would cover all the multitudinous angles and situations that are certain to arise in the administration of the program.

The president also announced suspension of hour regulations applying to workers on defense bases to be built on the sites secured from the British in the destroyer transfer. Workers on these bases will work as much as 48 hours per week.

In the senate Senator Carter Glass, veteran Virginia statesman and foe of many New Deal policies, declared himself in favor of furnishing Great Britain all the war equipment we can spare to wipe Germany off the map.

Miss Mary Ann Simon of Fort Worth spent part of the holidays here with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee.

Sorry, Folks, But It Does Happen

"When it rains, it pours." was certainly true in more ways than one at the Cisco Daily Press yesterday, and as a result the Thursday edition of the Press was late by several hours. Influenza and mechanical trouble combined to cause the delay. A relief operator was secured to take the place of the regular operator who is ill, but breakage of a part on one of the machines threw it out of commission. Working under handicap, the shop finally got the paper to bed at 9 o'clock and the Press' splendid organization of delivery boys distributed the paper in spite of rain and darkness.

We apologize for the delay. If you did not receive your copy, call the Press office and one will be delivered. Advertisements appearing in the edition are being re-run in today's issue to make sure that subscribers can read them.

Accidents resulting from overturning, driving off road, and other non-accident accidents.

Accidents increased in cities, on highways and on roads, decreasing slightly in towns of less than 2,500 population. Deaths, however, increased in all these brackets, and the greatest increases were on highways and roads.

Colonel Garrison pointed out that the fatality increase was "widespread and general following closely the ratios of population density and vehicular travel."

"Selective enforcement has eliminated virtually all the state's extreme danger spots, the so-called 'death corridors,' and the problem now is one of preventing accidents under 'normal' conditions," Colonel Garrison said.

Mrs. Robertson in New York Recital

RISING STAR, Jan. 3 (Sp.)—Mrs. J. F. Robertson will appear in a poetry recital January 17 in New York city as the guest of Mrs. John Henry Hammond, a granddaughter of William Vanderbilt.

The invitation to appear in New York city came from Mrs. Hammond last week. The New York lady will be Mrs. Robertson's hostess during her stay there. An admirer of Mrs. Robertson's poetry since the publication of "Red Heels" several years ago, Mrs. Hammond expressed a desire to present Mrs. Robertson to a group in New York.

Mrs. Robertson will leave for New York city several days before the date of her appearance and will visit her cousin, Congressman Lindley Beckwith, in Washington, D. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Musser in Atlantic

PREPARING FOR THE WORST

CHRISTMAS RUSH

BY TOM HORNER

YESTERDAY, Dr. Connelly pays Sheila's fine brings the girls home. Martha promises they may go to the party late, if they will remain at home to watch the New Year in. The doctor is called, there's been an accident on the highway, one man killed, another seriously injured. After he leaves, the highway patrol calls again, reports one of the cars bears a university license. The car belongs to Valerie Parks.

THREE HOURS OF 1941 CHAPTER X ALL automobile accidents look alike. Hugh Connelly thought at the moment he pushed his way through the crowd of morbidly curious who jammed the scene. Traffic blocked for half a mile; flashlight-waving patrol officers, trying to keep cars moving. People jumping from their cars, running to get a closer view. A white-faced woman hurrying back to her own sedan. Headlights concentrated on a single small area. Automobiles twisted into weird, surreal shapes.

He saw the officer who had summoned him. "Hello, Harry. This looks like a bad one." "It is bad, Doc. This fellow over here," he motioned with his flashlight focused on a still form on the pavement. Dr. Connelly adjusted his stethoscope, knelt beside the still figure.

"Probably never knew what hit him," Hugh said. "How about the others?" "There's another fellow in a bad way beside the car in the ditch. He was still breathing when I left him."

The flashlight beam flicked over the outlines of a long, expensive coupe. The car looked strangely familiar. Hugh dismissed the man told him. "The boy wasn't driving fast and he was on his side of the road." "Then this other fellow—the one that got killed—came toward us, fast, weaving from side to side. He must have been doing 80 or 90. The boy in the coupe swung off the pavement, but this fellow hit his left front fender." "That's about all I remember. Next thing I knew this car was rolling over and over toward us and we crashed into it, or it crashed into us, before we could stop. The coupe went off into the ditch." "My wife and I crawled out—we didn't know we were cut up so much—and we saw there wasn't to be done for the guy on the highway. We helped the girl out of the coupe—she kept screaming about her car—and then some other people stopped and made us come over here."

"That's what all the tracks show, Doc," Harry put in. "I checked them myself. It sure wasn't your boy's fault." The injured man looked at Dr. Connelly in awe. "Is that your boy, Doc? What you doing here, working on us? That boy's bad hurt."

Hugh nodded as he applied a final strip of tape. "There's a surgeon at the hospital to look after Jerry. I wanted to be sure you two were all right. I'm going in now. You and your wife better come along. Give you a complete check, just to make sure we haven't missed any broken bones."

MARtha CONNELLY stared at the blue-gray walls of the hospital waiting room, trying to keep from screaming. "Oh, Hugh. Why aren't you here? Why didn't you come with him?"

Beside her on the wicker divan Sheila and Kathleen, still in party formals, clung to her hands. Mary Warde stood beside the door, twisting a handkerchief into a flimsy rag.

Upstairs nurses hurried in and out of the operating room; the surgeon, Johnson, damned all maniac drivers as he scrubbed his hands.

It seemed like hours before Martha heard Hugh's car stop outside, heard his footsteps in the hall. His arms enfolded all of them.

"It may not be as bad as you think," he said, but his words lacked conviction. "I was able to give him only a quick examination out there. Don't jump to conclusions. He's got a few broken bones, but he'll come out of this all right. He's got a stout heart."

"But, Doc, there's a man and a woman pretty bad cut up in the farmhouse across the road." Hugh turned to the internist. "Administer adrenalin if necessary. Get Johnson. Tell him to operate, whether I get there or not. He's in charge."

He did not look back as the ambulance carried Jerry away from him.

LATER, in the farmhouse, as he swabbed glass from cuts, he heard the story of the accident. This man and woman were not seriously hurt.

"We were coming down the road behind this big, green coupe," the man told him. "The boy wasn't driving fast and he was on his side of the road."

"Then this other fellow—the one that got killed—came toward us, fast, weaving from side to side. He must have been doing 80 or 90. The boy in the coupe swung off the pavement, but this fellow hit his left front fender."

"That's about all I remember. Next thing I knew this car was rolling over and over toward us and we crashed into it, or it crashed into us, before we could stop. The coupe went off into the ditch."

"My wife and I crawled out—we didn't know we were cut up so much—and we saw there wasn't to be done for the guy on the highway. We helped the girl out of the coupe—she kept screaming about her car—and then some other people stopped and made us come over here."

"That's what all the tracks show, Doc," Harry put in. "I checked them myself. It sure wasn't your boy's fault."

The injured man looked at Dr. Connelly in awe. "Is that your boy, Doc? What you doing here, working on us? That boy's bad hurt."

Hugh nodded as he applied a final strip of tape. "There's a surgeon at the hospital to look after Jerry. I wanted to be sure you two were all right. I'm going in now. You and your wife better come along. Give you a complete check, just to make sure we haven't missed any broken bones."

Policy Is To Prevent War, FDR Declares

WASHINGTON Jan. 3—President Roosevelt told the nation by radio Sunday night that the sole purpose of the administration in the present program of national defense and aid to Britain is to "keep you now, and your children later, and your grandchildren much later out of a last ditch war for the preservation of American independence."

He asserted that present efforts

Feller's Fireball Beats Motorcycle

tion pacts with Germany had been "attacked, over-run and thrown into the modern form of slavery," the president added that "the fate of these nations tells us what it means to live at the point of a nazi gun.

Pious Frauds

"The nazis have justified these actions by various pious frauds. One of these frauds is the claim that they are occupying a nation for the purpose of restoring order." Another is that they are occupying or controlling a nation on the excuse that they are "protecting it" against the aggression of somebody else . . .

"Would she (Germany) hesitate to say to any South American country, 'we are occupying you to protect you from aggression by the United States'?"

"Any South American country, in nazi hands, would always constitute a jumping off place for a German attack on any one of the other republics of this hemisphere."

The experience of the last two years, Roosevelt declared, "has proven beyond doubt that no nation can appease the nazis."

"No man can tame a tiger into a kitten by stroking it," he continued, "There can be no appeasement with ruthlessness. There can be no reasoning with an incendiary bomb. We know now that a nation can have peace with the nazis only at the price of total surrender."

Declaring that even the Italian people have been forced "to become accomplices of the nazis, the president said: "At this moment they do not know how soon they will be embraced to death by their allies."

Ignore Warnings

Roosevelt asserted that "American appeasers" ignore warnings found in the fate of conquered European nations and argue that "the United States might just as well throw its influence into the scale of a dictated peace, and get the best out of it that we can."

"They call it a 'negotiated peace.' Nonsense! Is it a negotiated peace if a gang of outlaws surround your community and on threat of extermination make you pay tribute to save your own skins?"

"Such a dictated peace would be no peace at all. It would be only another armistice, leading to the most gigantic armament race and the most devastating trade wars in history. And in these contests the Americas would offer the only real resistance to the axis powers."

This country, Roosevelt asserted should aid "democracy's fight against world conquest" more greatly by rearming and by "sending every ounce and every ton of munitions and supplies that we can possibly spare to help the deenders who are in the front lines.

"It is no more unneutral for us to do that than it is for Sweden, Russia and other nations near Germany to send steel and ore and oil and other war materials into Germany every day."

All present efforts to speed up defense construction "are not enough," Roosevelt declared, and we discard the notion of "business as usual." This job can not be done merely by super-imposing on the existing productive facilities the added requirements for defense.

He appealed to plant owners, managers, workers and government employes "to put every ounce of our effort into producing these munitions swiftly and without stint . . ."

"We must be the great arsenal of democracy. For us this is an emergency as serious as war itself."

"We have furnished the British great material support and we will furnish far more in the future.

to speed up defense production are not enough, that the notion of "business as usual" must be discarded, and called upon industry and labor to put every ounce of effort into the production of munitions swiftly and without stint.

Pointing out that the nazis have proclaimed their superiority to other races and that the "vast resources and wealth of this hemisphere constitute the most tempting loot in the world," the president declared that there is less chance of our being the object of axis attack later on if we do all we can to support the nations now defending themselves against this attack rather than wait tamely for their defeat.

If Great Britain should be defeated, Roosevelt said, the axis powers would control the continents of Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and the high seas. "It is no exaggeration to say," he continued, "that all of us in the Americas would be living at the point of a gun, a gun loaded with explosive bullets, economic as well as military."

"Frankly and definitely," the president said at another point,

"there is danger ahead—danger against which we must prepare. But we well know that we cannot escape danger, or fear of it, by crawling into bed and pulling the covers over our heads."

Criticizing American "appeasers," who he said, are unwittingly doing the very thing that the axis powers wish to be done, the president asserted that "The United States has no right or reason to encourage talk of peace until the day shall come when there is a clear intention on the part of the aggressor nations to abandon all thought of dominating or conquering the world."

Roosevelt said it was "nonsense" to talk of "a negotiated peace" and asked: "Is it a negotiated peace if a gang of outlaws surround your community and on threat of extermination make you pay tribute to save your own skins?"

Saying that a British defeat would bring "a new and terrible era" for the whole world, Roosevelt added that to survive in such a world "of brute force" this nation would have to become permanently a militaristic power. Asserting that some European nations which had non-inver-

Bounty Sails Again On Pitcairn's Stamps

The British warship Bounty scene of the most famous mutiny in history, is pictured on the Pitcairn Island stamp above, one of the island's first individual issue of eight stamps.

The story of the Bounty is familiar to readers of fact and fiction. The motion picture version did not tell the entire story. The Bounty sailed from England in 1767, with a crew of 46 commanded by Captain William Bligh, to transport breadfruit trees from Tahiti to the West Indies, where the fruit would ultimately provide a cheap food for plantation slaves. After 10 months' voyage the ship reached Tahiti, remained there six months collecting cargo.

Bligh then set out for Tonga, but the crew grumbled at leaving the easy life of Tahiti and the captain adopted stern disciplinary measures. Discontent flared into mutiny on April 28, 1789, under the leadership of Fletcher Christian, 24-year-old mate. Bligh and 18 loyal seamen were set adrift in a three-masted launch. Fearing English law, nine of the mutinous crew fled with 19 natives to Pitcairn Island, burned the Bounty, and were not heard of again for 19 years.

Canada Has New Status in Today's World War

CANADA played an important part in the winning of World War I. The memorial on the stamp above, one of Canada's three Royal Visit issues, is a tribute to the 500,000 Canadians who served in the army and the million civilians who paid for the war in loans and taxes.

The Canadian army was one of the most effective units of the British forces, gained many important victories. Canadian airmen supplied 40 per cent of the Royal Flying Corps. In addition, Canada built almost 1000 ships, provided vast supplies of food and war materials.

Today, Canada plays a new role in the conflict, as an ally of Britain, and as an independent nation, co-defender of North America, with United States.

Service overseas is by voluntary enlistment although conscription has been ordered for home defense. Canada is training thousands of flyers, counts 3000 Canadians in the Battle of Britain.

The nation's industry, vastly expanded since 1918, is stepped up for war production. The present war budget is as great as that spent during the first three and a half years of World War I.
