CISCO, TEXAS, MONDAY, MARCH 3 1941

In an area of benevolent climate, blessed with an abundance of the purest lake water, possessing the best in recreational facilities, situated on the Bankhead, all-weather route, with three railroads and many highways, Cisco is the best place in Texas to live and to work.

NUMBER 177

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

"William Allen White, the sage of Emporia, was presented a medal for 'work of good will' by The Churchman. In his remarks of acceptance he took occasion to say that regardless of the outcome of the war the American people must pay a price for a peaceful and orderly world. He said we should not abandon forever our 'solar position' and help to establish some kind of economic cooperation on the earth. 'Even if England wins,' he said, 'our task has only begun. And I must reiterate: there will be no peace until there is some approximate justice in Central Europe. I mean explicitly that we must try to help free democracies to set up a world society in which no nation can feel with any reason that it is denied those raw materials—those basic sources of national growth, whether they be harbors or metals or the right to trade freely upon the oceans of the world—those raw materials which are necessary to maintain a competent civilization of self-respecting citizens.'"

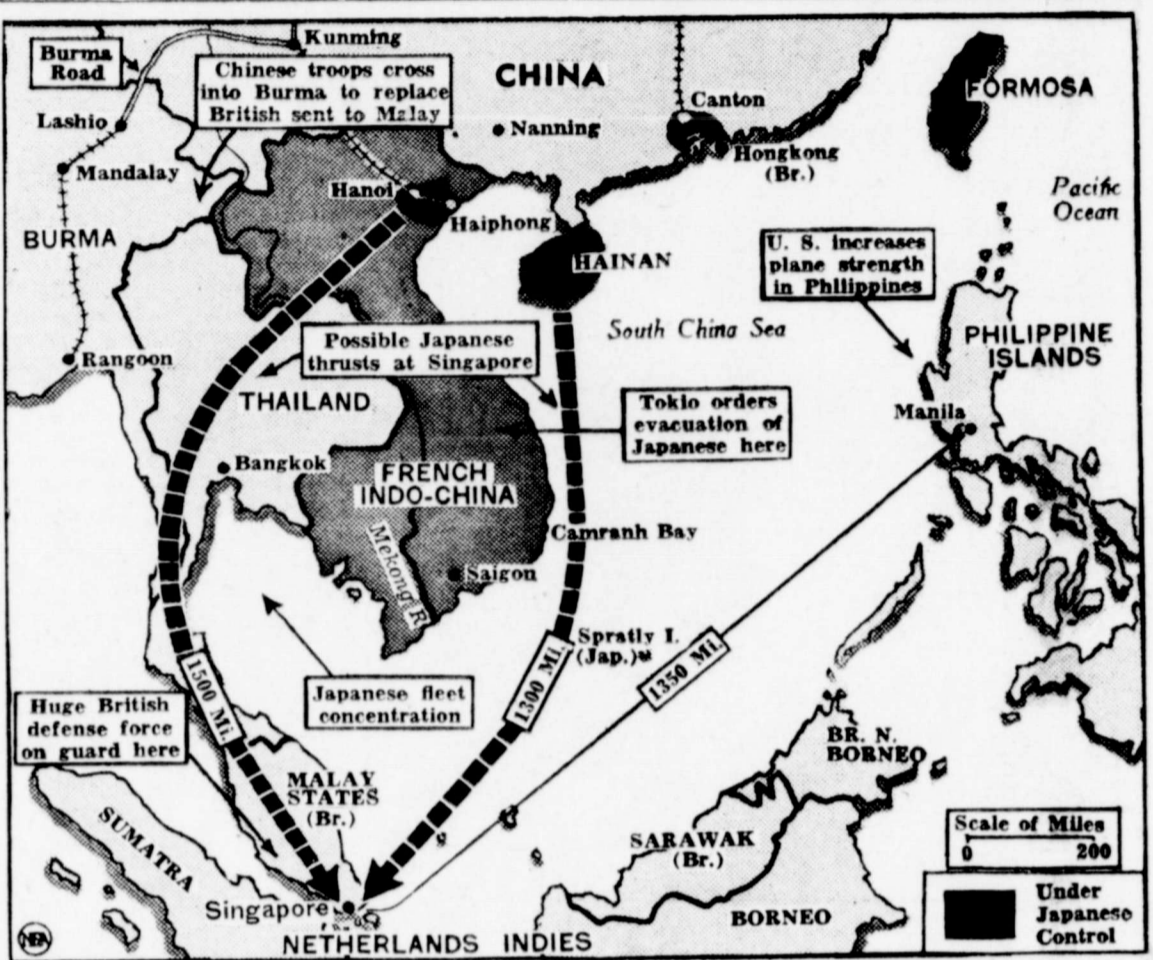

"In other words, we are ever to have a peaceful and orderly world every region of the earth and every people, no matter how small or how great, must have 'a place in the sun' under the world economic organization that is set up and maintained."

"It was not so much the Treaty of Versailles and the Treaty of Saint Germain that condemned Central Europe to economic inferiority and set the stage for Hitler. It was the trade barriers which the nations of the earth, including the United States, set up and maintained to an increasing degree during the period between World War I and World War II. It was these barriers that created economic pressure on the peoples of all regions that are without the essential material means of maintaining a reasonably high level of economic life. And those regions, significantly enough, include Italy and Japan as well as Central Europe. They include all regions that must live by trade. 'Incidentally, they also include such regions as the American South, one of the richest areas of the earth in capacity to produce some of the world's most essential raw materials. In such a world as Mr. White described there will be a place in the sun for the South, too.' —The Texas Weekly.

The column subscribes heartily to the opinions expressed above. Economic freedom is absolutely vital to political freedom and world peace. Chaining of peoples with trade restrictions, hemming them in with trade barriers and the exploitation of sub-standard countries cannot bring prosperity. The only route to that objective is a route that provides for all that "place in the sun" of which Mr. White spoke.

With especial reference to the comment of the Texas Weekly in the latter paragraph, the column may be

Yugoslavia Regarded Likely To Join Axis

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia, March 3 (AP)—The probability that Yugoslavia soon will sign the axis three-power pact was reported in authoritative quarters Sunday night.

These sources said this resulted from conferences between Prince Paul, the Yugoslav regent, and Viktor von Heeren, German minister to Belgrade.

Scarcely had Bulgaria entered the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance Saturday, they said, than von Heeren requested a special audience.

He was said to have been received Saturday night.

Authoritative sources said von Heeren informed Prince Paul that his conversations last week with German Foreign Minister Joachim

Cisco Girls Make Tarleton Honor Roll

STEPHENVILLE, March 3—Jewel Heizer and Mary Louise Poe, both of Cisco, made the semester honor roll at John Tarleton college. This announcement was made today by Gabe Lewis, registrar.

To achieve this distinction, Lewis explains, one must earn 30 grade points and have no failing grades for the entire semester. This means that a student must have a "B" average. Only about ten per cent of the student body of 1300 achieve this distinction.

J. Thomas Davis, Dean of Tarleton, complimented the semester honor students in assembly recently.

"You are acquiring the habit of being successful," said the Dean to this select group, "and statistics show that successful students are successful after they leave school."

Mary Louise is a senior at Tarleton and is studying business administration while Jewel, who is a junior, is studying home economics.

Hundreds Felicitate Mrs. Wende on 88th Anniversary of Her Birth

Hundreds of friends and relatives called at the home of Mrs. Emilie Wende, four miles south of Cisco, to felicitate the aged Eastland county woman on the 88th anniversary of her birth. A feast dinner was served and more than 50 guests were present for supper in the evening.

Quake Stricken City Is Bombed By Italians

ATHENS, March 3 (AP)—Italian bombers struck at the earthquake-stricken city of Larissa Sunday during the peak of relief work, a government spokesman said, but no additional casualties resulted.

Buildings already shattered by Saturday's quake crumpled under the impact of bombs after the city's population had been removed.

On the central Albanian military front the Greek army was said to have thrown back repeated Italian counterattacks aimed at recouping positions captured by the Greeks. The fascists suffered heavily, the spokesman said, with dead and wounded strewn on the slopes of the mountains.

The high command said Greek artillery aim was so effective at one point that fascist munition stores were exploded.

The ministry of home security said Italian bombers were fully aware that an earthquake had struck Larissa, rendering thousands homeless, but nevertheless raided for a solid hour.

Reports from the stricken town said only a few reinforced concrete buildings were left standing after the quake and that about 90 per cent of the population had gone to other villages.

Seven known dead and twenty-three injured were taken from the ruins in rescue work which was interrupted by the fascist raid.

Bitter cold intensified civilian suffering.

NAZI TROOPS VANGUARD ON GREEK BORDER

Units Speed Toward Turkish Frontier Through Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 3 (AP)—The vanguard of Germany's onrushing Balkan army, speeding across Bulgaria from bases in Rumania, was reported to have reached the Greek frontier at four points early Monday.

The Germans also sped toward the Turkish frontier. Two trainloads of infantrymen were dispatched from Plovdiv, Bulgaria's second largest city, toward the Turk border.

Reports from the provinces said small Nazi detachments had taken up quarters in the Bulgarian towns of Slatograd, Melnik, Trigrad, and Svilengrad, a few miles short of the Greek frontier.

Air-raid defense precautions went steadily ahead throughout Bulgaria.

Anti-aircraft batteries were installed on all large railway stations as well as important bridges and tunnels.

Although official orders were not given, many citizens of Sofia began leaving the city for the country.

Queen Iliana, daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, and Crown Prince Simeon and Princess Marit Louise left for the country palace.

British quarters declared that Minister George Rendel had informed King Boris Britain would break off relations with Bulgaria probably Tuesday and that a state of war would undoubtedly follow.

The British Minister and King Boris were alone for two hours, talking in the monarch's study.

Rendel was understood to have expressed regret felt by the British government that Bulgaria should sign the Axis pact and open the country to German armies, since the British must resist the German march and Bulgaria may become a battleground.

King Boris was understood to have replied that he had chosen the course which he believed best for his people.

Five Pastors for Camps Named By Texas Baptists

Appointment of five pastors, assigned to as many Texas military areas, was announced by Dr. A. C. Miller, supervisor of soldier work for the Baptist General convention of Texas.

The men appointed, with their assignments, are as follows: Rev. Leslie Rogers, Mart, to Ft. Bliss, El Paso; Rev. L. D. Mitchell, Stephenville, to Camp Bowie, Brownwood; Rev. G. B. Bradshaw, McKinney, to Camp Barkley, Abilene; Dr. W. R. Hornburg, Ft. Worth, to Camp Walters, Mineral Wells; and Rev. W. C. Binford, Beeville, to San Antonio area. Appointment of two additional camp pastors is pending, one to be stationed at Camp Hulen, Palacios, and the other in the Houston-Galveston area.

Two appointees, Mr. Mitchell at Camp Bowie and Dr. Hornburg at Camp Walters, are already on their respective fields. Dr. Miller will be in Abilene Friday, March 1, to open the work at Camp Barkley with Mr. Bradshaw. The other appointees are expected to start work March 1 also.

These men were called to Dallas for a day's conference with Dr. Miller Friday, February 21, where they discussed fundamentals of spiritual religion to be emphasized, and the technique of approach through military channels in the camps. Dr. R. C. Campbell, executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, gave an address and expressed assurance of denominational support.

Auxiliary Sponsors Anniversary Dinner

The Rev. Bryan Keathley, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Mineral Wells, and past national chaplain of the American Legion, will be principal speaker at the birthday banquet of the local post Friday night, March 14, at the First Christian church, it was announced today.

The banquet, to be given by members of the auxiliary to the post, is an annual affair, and this year will celebrate the 22nd birthday of the local unit. Mrs. J. J. Tableman is president of the auxiliary.

Mrs. Leon McPherson, district auxiliary committeewoman, and chairman of the program committee, announced today that a full program of entertainment is being arranged, with special music and speakers. Mrs. Laila Smart is general arrangements chairman.

Tickets were to go on sale today at 50 cents a plate, and the public was urged to attend. The Rev. Keathley, famous for his long years of service with the Legion, is a speaker who has won wide acclaim for his forceful, sincere messages. It is hoped that approximately 100 will attend the banquet and hear his address.

Three-Act Comedy Features Night Town Hall Show

A three-act comedy on the trials and tribulations of the first year of married life will be Cisco Town Hall association's contribution to the March entertainment calendar. The play, Frank Craven's "First Year," will be enacted by a talented group of Clare Tree Major actors from New York Wednesday night at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium.

Those who hold membership in the association can, on the same day, see Frances Hodgson Burnett's delightful children's play, "The Secret Garden," at the school auditorium at 2:30. The matinee performance is given primarily for junior members of Town Hall.

"First Year" is currently successful in Miami Beach, where the leading roles are being played by John Craven, the author's son, and Mary Brian, screen star.

Miss Melvina Heysler of Weatherford Junior college, and her roommate, Miss Helen Hansen of Fort Worth, spent the week-end in the home of Miss Heysler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Heysler.

Excellent Crowds at Revival Services

Excellent crowds attended the two services which Sunday initiated the revival meeting at the Church of God, the Rev. C. S. Moad, pastor, reported today. Evangelist John S. RAF Bombs Oil Fields in Rumania

British Threat Reported Made Good in Sunday Attack

NEGOTIN, Yugoslavia, March 3 (AP)—The RAF was reported Sunday to have carried the European war to Rumania—making good Britain's threat to bomb Rumania's rich oil fields and communication lines if Nazi troops invaded Bulgaria.

The reports reaching here from Rumania said heavy explosions occurred in the Ploesti fields, north of Bucharest, added that big fires were started and attributed the damage to RAF planes. The advices also said that all foreigners and Rumanians, save those with military passes, had been barred from the oilfield region.

Negotin lies about 175 miles southwest of the Ploesti fields and about 120 miles northwest of Sofia, Bulgaria, which the Nazis occupied Saturday.

George W. Rendel, British minister to Bulgaria, said Friday that the British would regard themselves as free to attack the Germans on Bulgarian soil without any formal declaration of war.

Rumania, he said, had not been bombed "because we want to make it easier for Bulgaria to remain neutral," and implied that Rumanian oil fields and communication lines would be attacked should Britain break off relations with Bulgaria.

Early Sunday several fleets of unidentified planes flew over Negotin in the direction of the Ploesti fields.

Yugoslav anti-aircraft batteries opened fire against another unidentified squadron which crossed the Danube river at the historic Iron Gates, strategic key to Danube river navigation, close to the town of Orsova, Rumania, north of here.

A wrecked heavy German Junkers plane with the charred bodies of four men was found in the woods at Derventa, Bosnia. A number of other German warplanes have been sighted over Yugoslavia territory, apparently flying to Bulgaria.

A wholesale roundup of hundreds of men and women with American, British and even French connections was reported under way in Bucharest Sunday. These reports said most of the prisoners were non-Jews, since most prominent Jews were said to have fled already or to be under arrest.

An entire trainload of prisoners left Bucharest Sunday afternoon for a concentration camp in the provinces, the reports said.

Ploesti, from which the oil fields take their name, is the capital of the Department of Prahova and lies at the southern entrance of a valley in the Carpathian foothills.

It is an important railway junction and has a population of about 77,000 persons. Rumania is seventh in world production of oil, producing about 26,100,000 barrels or about 2.98 per cent.

Speaking of Aid--

The United States feels uneasy in its present course of sending arms and aid to one party to a war, while still firmly resolved not to take part in the war. It is a new technique, and we tend to think back to days when one was either in a war or not in it. So we feel uncomfortable in the present situation, and shy away from aggravating it. It is indeed a strange technique. But who introduced it?

The German flyers and technicians, the Italian "volunteers," who helped Franco win the Spanish war, and the Russian technicians and "morale-builders" who helped the republic lose it, set the pace.

INTERESTING indeed is the accounting given by the Italian official Stefani news agency of certain details of equipment sent to Franco Spain during the civil war.

There were, Stefani reports, $375,000,000 in loans, very little of which has been paid back. There were 1900 cannon, 10,135 automatic arms, 7,514,537 artillery shells, 7688 motor vehicles, and 763 airplanes, to say nothing of two submarines, four destroyers, and four motor torpedo boats.

Italy was never "in" the Spanish war, of course, even when Italian-uniformed troops under Italian officers were taking active part in the campaigns. These were "volunteers."

But read over the list of equipment sent, which one presumes to be in addition to the equipment carried and used by the Italian "volunteers" themselves. Note how closely it parallels the kind of equipment which the United States has been selling to Britain, and which it is now proposed to provide on a "lend or lease" basis.

Surely there is going to be no complaint from Italy, Germany, or Russia about the United States supplying to a friendly power engaged in an international war the same kind of materials which all three of these states supplied to one side of a civil war within one country a few short years ago.

To be just, there has been little complaint. Having set the pace for such maneuvers, the axis countries have, by and large, conceded the right of the United States to supply Britain.

What might have been considered a "cause" for war a few years ago is no longer considered to be such. The kind of war now raging in Europe does not depend on the often-flimsy "causes" which peace-loving countries used to be so eager to avoid. This kind of war is often not even declared, but simply waged without warning whenever the aggressor country believes there is advantage to be derived from it.

You can learn to do anything if you're willing to do anything to learn.

Now, Are There Any Other Questions?

I Give You TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

Three of us were hunting through thick live-oak brush, walking about a hundred yards apart, relates R. H. Laschinger of the Gilmer Mirror. I had come out into a clearing, crossed it and was about to re-enter the timber when I suddenly heard a sound like a buzzing of bees. There, just about six feet ahead of me, stood a diamond back rattler, his tail whizzing so fast it was just a blur, the upper part of his body erect with his head about a foot from the ground. I had never seen a rattler coiled to strike before, but it didn't take more than a second to realize that was what I was confronting.

His head moved only slightly, and from each side of his jaws protruded fangs a half inch long. I let out an Apache yell and jumped back about two feet and for a moment thought I could hear snakes all about me. The others tell me I even cursed a bit. Harry Green was using my 250 Savage and I was armed with a 270 Winchester with a telescopic sight. I never did like a rifle with a scope because it takes an unaccustomed person too long to find his object.

I knew now that the diamond back wouldn't be able to spring a distance of eight feet, so I had plenty of time to find him in the sight. But even then it was so magnified that I could only see a small part of his body in the sight at one time. But when I let him have it, the bullet of this high-powered "cannon" cut his body at two places.

What is behind the drive for a separate oil and gas commission?

Could it be a desperate effort to stave off an increase in the tax on oil and other natural resources to pay old age pensions and other social security? These are questions that many people are asking.

By starting a line-and-ery for something new, perhaps it is hoped to divert public attention from the proposal of increased taxes on oil or the same principle.

Your Federal Income Tax

Items Exempt from Tax

Certain items are specifically exempt from the income tax and need not be included in the taxpayer's return of gross income. Among such items are the proceeds from life insurance policies paid by reason of the death of the insured. Amounts received (other than amounts paid by reason of the death of the insured) and interest payments on such amounts and other than amounts received as annuities under a life insurance or endowment contract, which are less than or exactly equal to the premiums or consideration paid therefor, are exempt from federal income tax. Any excess received over the consideration paid is taxable. Amounts received as an annuity under an annuity or endowment contract shall be included in gross income, except that each year the excess of the amount received over 3 per cent of the aggregate premiums or consideration paid for the annuity is tax-free until the aggregate of such sums excluded from gross income for the taxable year 1940 and prior years equals the aggregate premiums or consideration paid for the annuity. There are also exempt from tax amounts received by gift, bequest, devise, or inheritance; interest on obligations of the District of Columbia, any territory, state, county, municipality, or other political subdivision of the state; interest on certain bonds issued by the United States government or its possessions, and on federal farm-loan bonds; amounts received through accident or health insurance or under workmen's compensation acts for personal injury received on account of such injuries or sickness.

Pensions and compensation received by veterans from the United States for services in time of war are exempt; and pensions received from the United States by the family of a veteran for services rendered by the veteran in time of war are exempt. There is also exempt from the federal income tax the rental value of a dwelling house and appurtenances thereof furnished to a minister of the gospel as part of his compensation. Other items excluded from gross income are alimony and an allowance based on a separation agreement.

Of the 1,904,000,000 acres of land in continental U. S., the 1940 census reported 1,060,597,355 acres in farms. Crops were harvested from 321,757,900 acres.

Although land in farms was greater than ever before the 1940 census reported a 3.1 per cent decline in the number of farms since 1930. The new total is 6,096,789, compared with 6,812,350 in 1935 and 6,288,648 in 1930.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

ALUMINUM COMPANY GOES TO WASHINGTON; WASHINGTON—ALMOST—TAKES OVER COMPANY

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Some fine spring day, within the next week, the Aluminum Company of America will tuck a taxicab or a truck up to the doors of the Office of Production Management here in Washington and unload its order books.

It won't mean that the government will have taken over the aluminum company, but it will pass them out for all practical purposes. The Aluminum Company of America will be divided into three sections: one for the production of aluminum, one for the production of aluminum alloys, and one for the production of aluminum castings.

Unloaded, the order books of the company will be taken up to the offices of the priorities section of O. P. M. and there, in some complicated procedure not yet figured out by either the government or the company, the experts from both will determine just who gets how much aluminum for what purposes.

In the allocation, airplane manufacturers will be allocated sufficient aluminum for their requirements. Other defense industries will get their share. If there is any left over, it will be spread out among private industries making ice boxes, vacuum cleaners, door stops, ash trays, pots and pans.

If, however, an ice box manufacturer says, "You've gotta give me some pounds or I'll have to lay off my force," his plea will be heard and he will be given enough to keep running. But only for a time. The ice box maker will be told that he'll have to redesign his product so that he'll use other materials—other metals or even plastics. Consequently, over the long haul you may see some brand thicker and thicker.

When the aluminum order bookers bring in their order books, it will take eight strong men to lug them and First time they come in, they not bring in the whole work, a preliminary abstract or a pling, just to see if it meets the priorities division's requirements.

Once the routine is established, the inspection will have to be made every month. Aluminum Company of America now has some 10,000 to 15,000 orders a month, totaling 40 million pounds. It sells for from 17 to 18 a pound for ingots to $1 a pound for finished machine parts.

Here is government step into business in a big construction way. You can't "list the on a sheet of paper," as one expert suggested, and mail it in for a checkup. It will take time to lyze all this supply and demand and if there be any excuse for existence of economists, this is it.

SERIAL STORY

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

BY RUTH AYERS

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: April avoids meeting Kent, and Ann is happy in her plans for the wedding. The idea is unbearable to April. She plans to go to the Burnett cabin, remain there. As she leaves, Winkie Appleman and the constable are waiting at the door for her.

KENT STEPS IN

CHAPTER XIX
"THAT'S her," Winkie said. "Sorry," the constable cut in, "have to serve a warrant on you." With that, he pressed a folded document into April's hands.

April had presence of mind enough to shut the front door behind her. She had on her fur jacket in readiness for Hal's arrival, but even in it, she began to shake with cold and fright. "What's wrong?" she managed to stammer.

"I'm a-suing you for personal injuries," Winkie drew out the phrase pleasantly. "Yes," he went on, "guess you ain't forgotten the night you knocked me down when you was taking Mister Kent Carter to the Pattonsville railroad station."

April leaned against the door. She'd never told anyone that she had taken Kent to the train that night. She'd never mentioned the run-in with Winkie. Now with this document in her hand, she felt as if her doom had been handed to her signed, sealed and delivered.

If Ann knew, she would start being suspicious all over again about her, April, and Kent. When Dad found out, he would be shocked. It was going to hurt him in his professional standing—going to hurt everyone.

"You can't do this, Winkie Appleman," she whispered. "You know I settled with you." "Settled!" Winkie snorted. "Think you can injure a man, maybe permanently, and settle it on the spot for a few dollars?" The constable's eyes shifted around, came back to her. "That's not all," he said. "Got to charge you with failure to report an accident. Pretty strong laws about that in this state."

Winkie said, "I was hurt so bad that night, I didn't know what I was doing. I wanted to call an officer but you wouldn't let me."

April turned around, saw that the front door was shut securely. Inside, the living room lamps were lighted, but out here on the porch there was only the dim bulb overhead. No one in the family had seen her yet but she didn't dare chance it further.

She motioned Winkie and the constable down the steps. At any minute Hal would be here and know how to help her.

She stopped in front of the constable's car, her spirits lifting in a quick spurt of defiance.

"You can't prove anything, Winkie Appleman," she said. "This is no better than a hold-up and you can't prove a thing!"

"Oh, cant' it!" Winkie sneered and twisted the shapeless brim of his hat. "I guess mebbe the check would speak for itself."

THE check! What had been a blur of pain and horror to her that night in the Pattonsville railroad station, started to clarify. She had opened her purse and handed a few bills and some change at Winkie. He'd whined for more. She had remembered her check book and how with a numb, shaky hand had written a check.

"Make it $10," Winkie had said, "and I won't say nothing." April saw it all. Winkie, unscrupulous no-account that he might be, was legally within his rights.

"Very well," she said finally, "what am I supposed to do?"

She heard the constable speak of posting bond, of appearing for a preliminary hearing. "What you waiting for?" the constable asked. "Why don't you come along with me now and get booked at the station without any fuss?"

An upstairs window in the Burnett house opened. Through it into the crystal air, came a strain of song from Ann. At this minute Ann was dressing for her date with Kent. Ann's wedding day would be soon.

"Yes, I'll go with you just as soon as a friend of mine arrives," she said. "I'll go without any fuss. There's only one thing I ask. Does anyone have to know of this? Does my father? You see, and we're going to have a wedding in our house and the fuss, the notoriety would spoil everything."

Again, through the window, she heard Ann's lovely voice, lifting in silver notes of happiness. April closed her eyes briefly.

Winkie was speaking from the corner of his mouth. "Trying to keep it on the sly a little longer."

April shuddered and then opened her eyes quickly. A clear, masculine voice was saying—"Keep what on the sly?"

Only one voice was like that. Not Dad, not Hal—Kent Carter! "I asked—keep what on the sly?" Kent was repeating and in some way had come to stand by April, one hand steadying her.

THE constable was ruffled. "Served a warrant on Miss Ethel Burnett here," he said.

"Failure to report an accident—damage suit."

Kent took the papers from April's hand. "We'll see about it," he said. "I happened to have been a witness to this so-called accident."

Winkie was whining. "You're the fella that punched me in the face. Yep, knocked an old man down when he'd already been run over. I know you, Kent Carter."

Miss Ann's fella."

April felt Kent's fist double under her hand. "Please," she whispered and her face was close to his.

This was the first time she had seen him since he had returned, his sight restored. This was the first time she had been near him. She felt a headiness, a surge of joy sweeping her. For one aboard
