Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

The president's spoken approval of jurisdictional strikes by labor unions may indicate that the administration is more concerned with the influence of strikes on the national defense program than the president admitted the other day when he said that the number of strikes was too small to be a national concern. The jurisdictional strike is one in which the labor union makes its own warfare. Its object is to force workers into an aggressive union, a strategy which has nothing to do with the good of the workers but solely with the ambition of the labor organization.

The object of the fair labor laws which the present administration sponsored is to destroy the policy of the administration in the administration of these laws is to bring conditions for the laborer. Collective bargaining and the right to strike when demands are not met are principles aimed at giving the worker a fair share of the fruits of enterprise. But the employer who is not at fault and who has no interest in the respective ambitions of conflicting labor unions beyond the assurance that he shall have labor to operate his plants, is an innocent victim of a jurisdictional strike. The people, who want the products of these plants and the workers who are dependent upon these products for the earnings of their families, are likewise victims. In the case of the national defense, the whole nation suffers when a factory engaged in defense production is shut down because the union chooses to make a battleground for its quarrel that has nothing to do with the wages men shall receive or the hours they shall work.

It is growing more and more apparent that some of the labor leaders of the United States are abusing their hard-won recognition that labor has received. It is becoming apparent that these rights are being employed even to victimize the workers themselves. Conditions which have appeared in most of the military construction where workers, badly needed, are forced to pay exorbitant fees for the right to work only a few weeks can be classed with union racketeering. Union leaders are disposed to ignore and even deny these conditions.

But the issue cannot be ignored. If the purpose of these labor unions is to better the conditions of their members, why is it necessary to extort huge fees from new members before they can realize the employment at good wages that exist merely for the taking? Is the spirit of the movement an earnest one, why does not union leadership consider the good of the workers themselves and admit them to membership on the basis of protecting their interests against unfairness by employers? In this case they have the picture of the union charging the worker an exorbitant fee for the

Notaries To Be Reappointed Automatically

County Clerk R. V. Galloway has received a communication from Wm. J. Lawson, secretary of state, which advises that all existing notaries public will be automatically reappointed, and that it will not be necessary for anyone now holding a notary commission to send his or her name in for reappointment.

When the notification of the appointment has been received by County Clerk Galloway from the secretary of state, each applicant for a commission will be notified by him and will receive full instructions as to what steps to take in order to qualify.

Persons who are not notaries at the present time, are requested to turn in their names to the county clerk in time for him to have the application in Austin before May 1.

The letter from the secretary of state to Galloway stated that applications for appointment received after May 1 will not be acted upon until after June 1, 1941, as that office will be extremely busy from May 1 on preparing the lists of appointees.

The appointments to be made June 1 are for a two-year term. However, it is possible now at any time to get an emergency appointment from the secretary of state, but this appointment will expire on June 1 of this year, at which time they will be automatically reappointed for the two-year term, but will have to again qualify by filing another bond with the county clerk and again taking the oath of office.

Italian Indian Ocean Raider Reported Sunk
By The Associated Press
LONDON, March 10.—A fast, powerfully armed Italian sea raider masquerading in the Indian ocean as a British merchantman, has been caught and sunk in a battle with a British cruiser, the admiralty announced Sunday.

It identified the ship as the Ramb I, owned by the Italian government, mounting four 4.7-inch guns and capable of better than 18 knots.

When H.M.S. Leander, a 7,270-ton British cruiser of the New Zealand squadron, challenged the raider, the admiralty said, it hauled down its red ensign—the flag of British merchantmen—hoisted its true Italian colors and opened fire.

But the Leander fired several salvos from its batteries of eight six-inch guns and the Ramb I struck its flag.

Naval communiques previously had mentioned only German raiders in that vital area along Brit-

88th Grand Jury Returns 19 Bills

EASTLAND, March 10.—The grand jury of the 88th district court, which convened Monday, March 3, recessed Friday afternoon subject to call, after returning 19 true bills, 15 of which were felonies and four misdemeanors.

According to Deputy Sheriff Tug Underwood, two of the above indictments were for theft of over $50, one for burglary, 10 for driving while intoxicated, one for disturbing the peace, three for selling liquor and two for assault with intent to murder.

March 26 Final Date For Filing For Trustees

Coy Warren of Texas university spent the week-end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Warren.

Ranger Crash Saturday Kills Alameda Man

RANGER, March 10 (Sp).—J. U. Elrod of Alameda was instantly killed and his two sons, who were riding in the car with him, were injured in a head-on collision with a truck on Highway 80 about 200 yards south of the Texas and Pacific railway crossing in Ranger Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

At the City-County hospital, where the two sons were taken, it was reported that Lloyd Elrod had sustained head injuries, which might prove serious, and that the other son, Rex, was less seriously injured.

Highway patrolmen from Eastland arrived at the scene of the accident within a few minutes after it happened, as they were patrolling in the vicinity at the time. They obtained statements from witnesses, as Ranger police directed traffic around the wrecked car.

J. N. McFatter, Ranger justice of the peace, held an inquest at the scene of the fatal accident. The three had apparently been doing their weekly shopping in Ranger, as there were sacks of groceries in the wreckage of their automobile. The truck was not damaged.

Club Sponsors Tag Sale For Public Library

The Twentieth Century club will sponsor its annual "tag day" sale here on Saturday, it has been announced by a committee in charge.

Every spring the club holds such a sale for the maintenance of the Cisco public library. Response has always been good, it was said, and citizens are urged to cooperate again.

East Baptists Start Spring Revival Soon

The East Cisco Baptist church will begin its spring revival on April 9 and continue through April 20, with the Rev. Russell Dennis, pastor, bringing the messages, it was announced today. Don Rupe will direct the music.

A training union study course which began at the church Sunday evening has enrolled 59 students the pastor announced. Mr. Rupe is director, and has urged every church member to cooperate.

HOUSE GROUP PLAYS SHREWD GAME ITSELF

Governor's Proposal for Tax Fund Answered in Kind

By Harry Benze Crozier

AUSTIN, March 10.—If Governor W. Lee O'Daniel had his tongue in his cheek when he proposed an appropriation of $26,800,000 to pay up the state's social security obligations, he has been answered in kind by the house committee on revenues and taxation. If he was playing a little legislative poker, the committee has dealt itself a hand and the hole card is pretty obvious.

Governor O'Daniel asked for $50,000,000 broad-based tax bill and he gave preference to his celebrated transaction tax. The committee has responded with a manifestation of its own preference for a modest increase in existing taxes to yield an estimated $14,451,540—which sum probably wouldn't result. The committee left the door open for a safe enough big tax bill when in all solemnity it voted to report Proctor's one cent a gallon gasoline processing tax. There may have been concealed smiles when the committee pushed the measure out onto the calendar but there it stands—mute reminder that the legislature can vote a big tax bill if it so wishes.

Over the weekend the men who vote taxes and the representatives of industries that will pay the proposed increases will ponder the situation. There is every indication that the legislature is in a mood to vote something like the committee favored omnibus bill that is the original G. C. Morris bill whittled down from $20,000,000. Mr. Morris has given notice that he will seek action on the bill at the outset of the week.

Speakers for the enterprises most affected resent more what they call the false principle of the bill and its potentialities than they do the revenues it will exact. They deny that it is an omnibus bill, but instead of catching all within its embrace it singles out a few to pay the state's expenses and, further, they say that it perpetuates a system of calling on these few to pay the bill every time the costs of government advance.

One of the items in the bill would impose a one per cent tax on all notes for the financing of automobile purchases. The committee substituted the item for a proposal to levy a one per cent tax on the purchase of new automobiles. It was reckoned that the tax on loans would yield $5,000,000 and there were many who doubted that Texans are obligated themselves to pay half a billion dollars for automobiles.

Still Dodge Appropriation
As the legislative week came to a close, both houses were still dodging the $26,800,000 item that has been something of a headache. Pressure from the governor's office has kept the bill kicking around both houses like a football. By a vote of 70 to 63 on Thursday the house refused to transfer it for consideration to the committee of the whole house.

In the state a motion to reconsider a vote to postpone action until April 1st has been spread on the journal and may be called up any day. The house probably will not receive the bill from committee before March 19th, when the tax bill in all likelihood will have been sent on its way to the senate.

Consideration by the senate of the motor truck load raising bill was the other principal issue pending at the week closed. The senate committee has recommended a 48,000 pound gross weight limit. As the week closed, amendments were pending to reduce the figure to 30,000 and to 40,000. The house already has fixed the figure at 36,000 pounds. The bill will not be before the senate again until next Wednesday on house bill day.

Luftwaffe Hits Twice at London

LONDON, March 10 (AP).—The German Luftwaffe smashed twice at London Sunday night and early Monday and sent its bombers roaring over Britain in a spurt of widespread raiding such as Britons have not seen for weeks.

High explosive bombs thundered down on London in a four-hour raid before midnight. The all-clear after that heavy assault was brief, however. The Germans returned to the capital shortly after midnight.

The crash of anti-aircraft guns meeting the Luftwaffe's challenge sounded even before the night's second alarm.

The second all-clear of the night came about an hour after the alarm. Only the sound of the anti-aircraft fire was heard during that brief alert.

Apparently swinging into the long-expected spring air blitz, the Germans flew over several coastal towns from northeast Scotland to south Wales.

Over the southeast coast they flew for hours over several points, alternating their flights from high to low altitudes to offset anti-aircraft fire.

It was the heaviest activity reported in the southeast area for some time. Many flares were dropped in one Thames estuary area.

The sirens sounded in London around 8:30 p.m. Hardly had the sound died away than the heavier drone of planes and the roar of anti-aircraft guns in various sections of London were heard in full cry.

LEASE-LEND FOES TO MAKE NAT'L DRIVE

Measure Expected to Reach White House By Wednesday

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP).—While administration leaders arranged to speed final congressional action on the British aid bill, opponents announced a nation-wide speaking campaign aimed at arousing public sentiment against possible involvement of this country in war.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana, one of the leaders of the opposition to the measure, said he had asked colleagues of like views to meet at his office early this week to map an extensive speaking drive.

"We have lost a battle, but we haven't lost the war," Wheeler told reporters in commenting on the senate's passage of the bill by a 60-31 vote Saturday night.

"We are going to carry on a crusade from one end of this country to the other to counteract the propaganda that is going to be unloosed right away for all-out aid to Britain that would take us into war."

Expected Dozen
The Montana senator said he expected a dozen of those who joined in the three-week fight in the senate against the bill to respond to his invitation.

Opponents should feel free to leave Washington and stump the country, he contended.

"Now that this bill has passed," he said, "congress isn't going to have anything to do except approve appropriations bills and I have no doubt that the administration can get any appropriation that it wants. For that reason I will be willing to go anywhere in the country to speak and I am sure others will."

Administration leaders confidently predicted the lease-lend bill would go to the white house (President Roosevelt's signature by Wednesday at the latest, and indicated that the program of assisting Britain with war supplies would begin on a large scale immediately. From other sources, there were reports that a $10,000,000 (billions) three-year program was being drafted.

Two Possibilities
Before the measure is sent to Mr. Roosevelt, the house must accept senate changes in the house-approved bill, or else a compromise of the two versions must be worked out.

Most of the senate amendments were regarded by house supporters of the bill as minor. Both house and senate agreed on the main provisions which would permit the president to lend, lease or otherwise dispose of defense commodities to foreign nations whose defense he deemed essential to the security of the United States.

The president could dispose of up to $1,300,000,000 (billions) in existing defense equipment, but before he could order new war machinery produced for other countries he would have to obtain specific appropriations or contract authority. He would be permitted to obtain from foreign nations for these supplies in any form he considered beneficial to the United States.

With the administration firmly in command, the senate passed the measure Saturday night at the end of a day that had seen opponents beaten back in one attempt after another to insert restrictive clauses.

House chieftains, after going over the senate's changes in the measure, said they would short-cut legislative procedure if possible by eliminating the need for a joint house-senate committee to compromise differences.

We Are All On Trial

IT IS not too much to say that today every human institution as we have known it is on trial for its life.

We're not being panicky or radical when we say that, for it is only an extension of remarks made before the eastern regional conference of the American Bankers' Association by ABA President P. D. Houston. Said he:

"We live in a dynamic world in which no institution has a right to public support or can continue in business for long unless it renders a constructive service designed to meet the changing conditions of a dynamic society. That is the basic challenge of the social and economic order."

The naked fact that such a statement can be made by a leading banker to bankers is startling evidence, in itself, of how dynamic the world has become. Such statements were not being made by bankers to bankers in 1925.

BUT it is being made today in nearly every group, in every walk of life in which responsibility is born. Educators are raking over the school system fore and aft to determine whether it is adjusted to present day conditions. New plans for medical and dental care, and for public health are being canvassed by physicians themselves. The law steps down from its grave pedestal at every gathering of lawyers and judges, and looks itself in the eye.

It is no different with newspapers, radio, book publishers, builders, merchandisers, insurance men, and—yes—labor leaders. The more progressive of all these and many other groups are looking hard at themselves and their institutions in the mirror of self-examination.

ALL OF us, and the human institutions of which we are a part, are on trial today.

That does not mean that all will be found guilty of failure "to render constructive service designed to meet the changing conditions of a dynamic society." Far from it.

We believe firmly that most of our institutions are sound and, with such modification as this self-examination suggests, will survive.

The best hope of survival lies in this mood of critical self-examination, this willingness to move voluntarily and intelligently with the times. It is this self-starting adjustment from within that makes violent and revolutionary change from without both unnecessary and undesirable.

Brownwood Camp Built at Cost of $600 Per Soldier

BROWNWOOD, March 10 (Sp.)—Camp Bowie, the state's largest national defense project, is now 95 per cent complete, it was announced from the office of the constructing quartermaster. Construction work on the $15,000,000 military training center, occupied by more than 200 troops, is 25 per cent complete.

It is understood that the camp, one of the 46 being built in the United States, is being constructed in the face of the rains which have hampered its progress since it began in September.

Camp Bowie is being constructed at an installation cost of approximately $600 per man. This is considerably lower than the building northern camps, which are being constructed by the state. Major Ryan said the construction of the quarters north of the main camp is high as $1,000.

Major Ryan said the wood area is ideal for military posts, with an ample supply, excellent maneuvering; a healthful permitting year-round training, maneuvers, and training, and availability of men for constructing facilities. As the camp nears completion, from 500 to 1,000 men are being laid off each week around 3,600 men employed and the combination of the McKee Construction Co., Wallace Plumbing Co. and I avenue.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

CONGRESSMAN PATRICK'S ADVICE TO NEW MEMBERS ISN'T VERY FLATTERING TO OLD CONGRESSMEN

By PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Is a new congressman a congressman? Luther Patrick, 47, congressman from Birmingham, Ala., since 1936 and in his own words a "World War veteran, teacher, writer, lawyer and radio commentator," took time out on the floor of the House of Representatives the other day for a 30-minute question.

As a piece of oratory, it may never grace the 5th graders or the copy books, but as a piece of exposition on the kind of having a new congressman goes through, it is illuminating material for the folks back home who vote to send these people to Washington.

Congressman Patrick was very fair about the whole thing. Ten days before he delivered his speech, he warned the House, he was going to make it and "what the subject would be."

"I do not particularly encourage attendance of anybody who has been here over two years," he said. "There is no way to force the new congressmen to attend. They may or may not come. But they are welcome."

Candor like this is unusual, and the gentleman from Alabama should go far. And he wasn't giving relief or advice, he said—just comfort and company, for the problems that beset the new congressman are the same ones that beset the old.

DON'T SEND COMBS TO RAYBURN

10,000 Expected At Baptist State S. S. Convention

DALLAS, March 10 (Sp.)—With local committee chairman making plans to entertain 10,000 messengers, expected at the annual Texas Baptist Sunday school convention here April 15-17, special features of the meeting were announced today by G. S. Hopkins, state Sunday school secretary, of Dallas.

Robert H. Coleman will be toastmaster Wednesday, April 16, at a Sunday school training banquet, the requirement for attendance in which will be a completion of at least four books in the course approved by the Sunday school board. Attendance will be limited to 600, the capacity of the YMCA gymnasium, where the banquet will be held. Dr. Holcomb will be the chief speaker.

Timing its message to meet today's needs, the three-day convention will be centered around the keynote, "The Word of Life for a World in Strife." The motto adopted for the representatives at the 3,000 Texas Baptist Sunday schools is "Hold Forth the Word of Life."

All phases of Sunday school work, including class, departmental, administrative, social-recreational, library, vacation, Bible school, and others will be discussed in addresses and conference periods. More than 296 pastors and Sunday school workers will take part on the program.

Others include leaders and department specialists from Nashville, Tenn., as follows: Dr. T. L. Holcomb, executive secretary, Sunday school board; Dr. John L. Hill, book editor, Baptist S. S. board; Andrew Allen, Harold E. Ingraham, J. N. Barnette, William P. Phillips, Herman L. King, Miss Mary Alice Bibby, and Dr. Homer L. Grice.

All morning and afternoon sessions will be held at the First Baptist church. This year, for the first time, one of the eight sessions will be held at Backus Gymnasium home. Three other night sessions will run concurrently at First Baptist church, Gaston Avenue Baptist church, and Cliff Towers Baptist church.

Mr. Harry P. Wooten, educational director at Gaston Avenue Baptist church, Dallas, is general chairman of convention arrangements. Associated with him are the following committee chairman, who participated in the first planning conference held recently: L. C. Oscar Johnson, Third Baptist church St. Louis, Mo., are among the out-of-state speakers.

DRAFTED FOR LOVE

BY RUTH AYERS

Copyright, 1941, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Ann accuses April of being in love with Kent. But there is no bitterness in her heart—only admiration for April's attempts to protect her sister's happiness. The morning of the wedding, Ann disappears. April finds a letter addressed to her in Ann's room.

APRIL ENLISTS FOR LIFE
 CHAPTER XXV
 "DEAR April—I'm on my way back to New York. Yesterday when you came in from the hearing in court, I was talking on the telephone. It was a call from New York. Vivavo told me the night of the audition that I would never make a concert singer, that I didn't have the voice to become a truly great contralto.

"But someone else was at the audition that night who felt rather differently about it. Through this friend, I had an offer yesterday for a contract on a radio program. Oh, I may never be the famous song-bird I hoped but this will mean a career in music, and that's all I ask.

"I wasn't quite sure what my answer would be yesterday, but I knew last night.

"I thought I loved Kent, and at first I was jealous because I suspected you had fallen in love with him yourself. But Kent and I had quarreled once about my singing and we would have quarreled again. That's why this chance to sing gives me a way out.

"I've left another note for Mother and Dad because explanations wouldn't have done any good at this eleventh hour.

"There's only one request I had to turn out this way." In another instant the roadster would shoot down the hill again, turning its back on Kent and the gloomy old house, this time for all time.

"Don't go yet," Kent said.

"There's something else you wanted to say?"

"You might tell Ann when you write that I want her to be happy. And also, that as long as there'll be no wedding, I'm returning to camp."

"Yes, I'll tell her—and good luck, Kent."

"Thanks—and to you, April. You deserve the best. I had you all wrong, April, right from the first when I called you the Glitterbug."

Suddenly, April switched off the throbbing engine. "Kent Carter," she said, "we're talking here like strangers, making up polite conversation. I don't want your good luck! I don't want you to say you were sorry or that you had me all wrong!"

The April storm was rising in her at last. She began to pound her hands on the steering wheel. Kent reached over and in some way beside her.

"What do you want?" he asked.

"You! You, of course! Last night when I told Hal Parks I could never marry him, he said that with some people love might be slow blooming, but with me it was like lightning that struck once—and fast. Don't you see, Kent? It struck me that night I met you at the train."

"April—April, darling."

HE kissed her recklessly, dizzily, and right in the full view of the gingerbread Carter house, where, no doubt, the gingery old great-aunt could see. Then he eyed the April of the blue eyes and the daffodil curls with a certain wondering curiosity.

"Some day," he said, "you can tell me the whole story from beginning to end."

"I can tell it to you now," she answered. "The beginning is that I was drafted for love. The end is—well, that's just it. There is no end. I've enlisted for a lifetime."

Nadeene Huestis Is Honored With Dinner Saturday

Mrs. W. R. Huestis entertained with a dinner Saturday evening in her home, complimenting her daughter, Nadeene, on her birthday.

Easter was the theme of all decorations. The two tables were centered with bowls of sweet peas, and place cards and favors were small baskets filled with miniature Easter eggs.

The honoree was presented with gifts from the guests, and a pot plant and corsage from Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Stephenson.

Mrs. Huestis was assisted in serving by another daughter, Fern, to Misses Louise Allen, Noma King, Bettyne Logan, Wynema Bond, Marie Hunterman, Mildred Kimmell, LaVerne Hampton, Melba Woods of Eastland, Mary Elizabeth Wright, Mary Louise Poe, Ada Rhone Mobley, Anna Jo Tadmman, Betty Lou Powell, Mary Olive Garrett, Mrs. Marston Surles and the honoree, Miss Nadeene Huestis.

HONG KONG, March 10 (AP)—Chinese troops in vigorous counterattacks recaptured the Kwangtung province cities of Tinpak and Shuitung from Japanese soldiers. Chinese sources reported Monday in direct opposition to Japanese reports that the area had been evacuated quietly by their men Sunday.

The Chinese also said Japanese troops in the Pakhoi area on the South China coast were routed. The Japanese, on the other hand, reported Sunday night that they had withdrawn from the several points on the coast where so-called important landings were made only March 3.

INDUSTRY TACKLES "IMPOSSIBLE"— FINDING SUBSTITUTE FOR MANGANESE

This is one of a series of informative articles on strategic raw materials in national American industrial research in developing American sources to displace foreign supplies. The facts presented are from official and other authentic sources.

William S. Knolsen, director general of the office production management, recently commented the American machine tool industry for doing "practically the impossible in trebling its rate of output in the last two years" and said, "I am appealing to you to do the impossible again."

The performance of the machine tool industry is characteristic of the performance of all industry in the national defense emergency. Any other example is in the present search for a substitute for the vitally essential metal, manganese.

Without manganese, there could be no steel—no guns, no tanks, no airplanes, no battleships for defense, nor skyscrapers, railroads and machines for a modern industrial civilization. Manganese, imported from Russia, Africa, British India and elsewhere, is an essential purifying agent in the smelting of steel, and in many special-purpose steels it is a necessary alloying element. About 14 pounds of manganese is used in every ton of steel produced.

Research, however, has made it possible to recover manganese from low-grade American ores so that dependence on foreign supplies can be reduced. It is in this field that government and industry are concentrating their attention in solving the problem of keeping America supplied with this strategic raw material in the defense emergency.

By foresight America's manganese reserves have been so located so that needs for months could be met by importation or domestic production. A major source has been Russia, but transportation charges have cut importation in half. Normally about 10 per cent of all manganese consumption is met by production.

New and improved recovering manganese grade ores hold promise. United States supplies created proportion of from ore deposits in States and Cuba. One of these is now under development in Montana.

Doing the "impossible" in American industry. The defense emergency hastens the day when the "impossible" will be accomplished, and a substitute will be found for manganese in the
