for the annual clean-up campaign is nearing. Every year campaign has been sponsored by the club women of the community and plans are in the making by the Federation and allied to carry on an intensive campaign in conjunction with the statewide emphasis which is being placed on a program for a cleaner, and more healthful environment. In all probability the campaign will receive more enthusiastic and effective cooperation this spring, since the ratio of homeownership in the community has risen higher and there is a corresponding greater interest in the things which surround Cisco. People who own their homes acquire a greater community pride for the appearance and maintenance of these homes. By the degree that ownership has increased, we may say that community pride has increased.

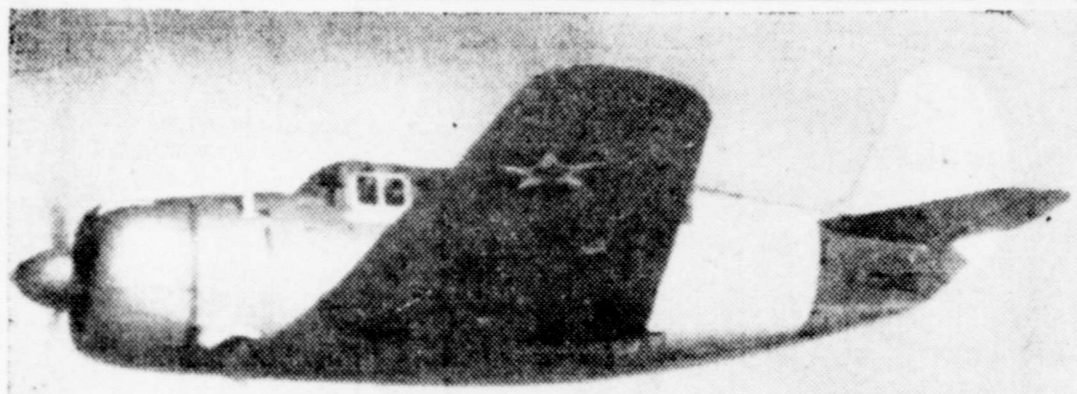

How do you face some major community tasks in realizing the ambition to develop their possibilities before it is too late? The last ten years have left very serious handicaps. It is going to require able and public-spirited leadership to get the earnest cooperation of all the citizens to accomplish these tasks. Sacrifice, time, energy and means of its citizens will be necessary. Nothing can be accomplished without this spirit and this labor. It is given and it is being given now in a much larger measure than before. The spirit of the town has taken definite trend upward.

Nothing can encourage the spirit to a better degree than a visual evidence that the people of Cisco do take pride in their city. Nothing can give more enthusiasm to the prosecution of community programs than the knowledge that the people of the community are genuinely interested; genuinely behind these efforts to build, leaving aside consideration of the values to health, safety and property worth in the community, a thorough-going campaign to clean-up, repair and beautify would be a solid contribution to the objectives of community prosperity and growth that are engaging our efforts at this time.

Home-owners and renters alike have a definite stake in this program. Business men will do well to encourage the success of the campaign, to support the efforts of the women clubs to the fullest. If it was possible to close all businesses for a day, or half a day, and to tackle the job en masse, with the single object of getting it done, the sacrifice would not be too great for the benefits obtained. The sense of one-mindedness, the experience of joining all hands upon one

Navy's Answer To Stukas

This is the newly developed Curtiss XSB2C-1 dive bomber, the latest weapon to be added to defense. It is the U. S. Navy's answer to German Stukas; it can travel 350 miles an hour, 100 miles faster than any other dive bomber; carries twice as many bombs and can fly twice as far as any other dive bomber.

Johnny Edwards Re-Elected Coach

In the story reporting election of coaches for the next term of the Cisco high school by the Cisco school board, the name of Walton Culwell was inadvertently listed as one of the assistant coaches who were re-elected. Johnny Edwards, coach of the Lobo basketball team, should have been named instead. Mr. Edwards, Asst. Coach Drake Cathey and Head Coach J. T. Petty were all re-elected.

Work of Closing Possum Kingdom Dam Speeded

BRECKENRIDGE, March 15 (Sp.)—Work of pouring concrete to finally close the Possum Kingdom dam is rapidly nearing completion, according to reports. Three holes had been left in the dam when injunctions in court held it open until recently. Also the work had been delayed by high water in the river. Hole No. 1, the lower one in the dam where work was hindered by high water, was finally closed with concrete at daylight Thursday afternoon.

The Cisco bandsters paraded in uniform through the business district, gave an hour's concert at the coliseum and later were guests of the exposition for the afternoon performance of the World's champion rodeo, R. I. Collier is band director.

Tax Payments Swamp Nation's Postal Clerks

WASHINGTON, March 15 (AP)—Millions of income taxpayers throughout the country kept postal clerk working at top speed and jammed internal revenue collectors' offices Saturday piling up payments toward a total expected to exceed that of any previous single day.

The deadline for taxes on 1940 incomes falls at midnight and state authorities believed that the last day payers among the 15,000,000 individuals and more than 500,000 corporations due to make returns this year would boost the day's take for the government close to the billion dollar mark.

Over all, twice as many persons were expected to pay income taxes as paid them last year because of better business conditions and lower exemptions for both married and single individuals. Collections for the first 12 days of March were 76 per cent larger than the $81,475,743 collected in the similar 1940 period.

But faster than money was coming in—over any extended collection period—the treasury was having to pay out funds, with the balance of expenditures over collections to be made up by borrowing. The treasury announced Friday that it would borrow $500,000,000 in cash and refund $504,000,000 of maturing securities next week to keep pace with national defense costs, now running at more than $500,000,000 a month. The issue

APPROVAL OF AIRPORT HERE IS RECEIVED

Start of Spring CPT Class Monday Is Expected

Approval of the Cisco municipal airport as the training field for the spring civilian pilot training class sponsored by the Cisco Junior college, was announced by the Fort Worth office of the CAA last week, subject to final approval at Washington. Start of flying instruction for 20 students will probably be Monday, Supt. R. N. Cluck of the Cisco schools, said after assurances of the safety of the training plans to be used in the program was required by the college and received. The planes are serviced by a competent mechanic who is on constant duty at the field.

Reg Robbins, who operated the fall CPT class at the college, will operate the spring class.

Other improvements. Meanwhile further improvements are planned at the new airport, land for which is being purchased from Carl Wilson, north of the city. The West Texas Utilities is preparing to construct a line to the field to furnish electric light and power and the Gulf Refining company will install gas and oil service at the field. Underground tanks will be placed at the hangar.

The field was praised by the CAA inspector who flew here last Tuesday to inspect the work. Three runways, marked in accordance with specifications of the CAA, a two-plane hangar with shop and office, and other facilities required by the government for approval have been constructed.

Plans are in the making to seek a large government appropriation for developing the field into a commercial airport with all-weather runways and other requirements for a first-class port. Lights will probably be installed at an early date.

Eastland County Exhibitors Win at Stock Show

Reports from the Eastland county exhibitors in the Fat Stock show at Fort Worth show that a total of $316 in premiums were won, which would take care of the expense of showing, according to A. C. Pratt, assistant county agent. This total included the premiums won on 4-H and FFA Jerseys, 4-H club hogs and goats entered by J. F. Donley of Ranger.

The 4-H club boys with their Jerseys and hogs totaled $199, with five second place ribbons, one third, two fourths, six fifths, two sixths, one seventh and two eighth places, making a very creditable showing in greater competition than they had ever encountered at the Fat Stock show. It's Dreaming Pioneer, Jersey bull owned by the Eastland chamber of commerce, made a satisfactory showing with fifth place in the open class. He was criticized for not carrying quite enough weight, and that will be remedied within a few months time for he has gained more than 100 pounds since the chamber of commerce came in possession of him three months ago.

By far the highest individual winner in the show per animal exhibited from Eastland county was F. L. Spurlin, Olden 4-H club boy, who won $51 on six fat barrows. This was done with three second place ribbons, including second in the litter class, and one fifth place ribbon. F. L. has made a very outstanding demonstration with his hogs. The other 4-H fat

'Liberty More Than Peace' - Keathley

"Liberty is more than peace," the Rev. Bryan Keathley of Mineral Wells, past national chaplain of the American Legion, told members of the John William Butts post and auxiliary and their guests at the banquet at the First Christian church Friday night celebrating the 22nd anniversary of the Legion. The speaker, famed for his eloquence, led his hearers through a swift historical review of humanity's advance toward freedom, the founding of the United States as a national expression of man's desire for liberty, the part which this nation played in the World War, and then came to the climax of his address in an account of his trip abroad in 1937 during which he stood in rain softly falling upon an American cemetery in France to realize again the challenge of soldier sacrifice and the answer that a living America has made.

"America loves peace, but not peace at the price of liberty," he said. "From the classic utterance of Patrick Henry to the present, in songs and sayings the patriotic voice of America has expressed a first determination for liberty, he declared.

"Liberty is more than security. America has sought security, but not at the price of liberty. God grant that we have not become so soft that we are willing to surrender liberty for three meals a day under a dictatorship—if dictators can provide three meals a day. Hunger and toil never destroyed a nation. Nations which have fallen have done so because they became sleek, fat and indolent."

"But," he warned, "liberty is more than license. It is not an invitation to violence. Historians can never erase the blot of the French revolution from the pages of France." He declared that the excesses and hysteria of that tragic era when brutal crimes were committed in the name of liberty, churches defaced and holiness defiled with immorality, were a shocking example of what liberty is not.

He then defined liberty, from a scientific standpoint, as a condition of both freedom and security and in which there is a perfect balance between freedom and security. "But," he added, "if you ask me to define liberty in terms of common day living, I cannot state a definition. But did you ever go home at night, tired from a day of work, to sit in your favorite chair, to have a little hot supper ready, to get up of a Sunday morning and go to the church of your choice, sit in the pew of your choice and hear the minister speak from the Good Book and join in the singing of the hymns? That is liberty."

Rev. Mr. Keathley was introduced by H. R. Garrett, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars post, who was toastmaster for the evening. W. R. Huestis is commander of the Cisco John Williams

5 DIVISIONS REPORTED AT FIVE PORTS

But Official Denial Is Expected From Greeks, English

BELGRADE, March 15 (AP)—Nearly 100,000 soldiers from Britain's imperial forces with shiploads of munitions, artillery, tanks and other mechanized equipment—enough for five divisions—have been landed at five Greek mainland ports, it was reliably reported Saturday.

This report first came from neutral diplomats and then was unofficially confirmed by British diplomatic circles in three southeastern European capitals. Correspondents were told privately by the British that the reports "probably are well founded."

Nevertheless it was said that an official denial from both the British and the Greeks could be expected within the next 12 hours. Ready to blast at the British and their Greek Allies, German forces in Bulgaria were reported about the same time to have wheeled out hundreds of fighters, bombers and transport planes on their new landing fields—ready for instant action.

(Berlin professed to have no confirmation of the reports that the British had landed in force in Greek soil.)

Reports of the British expedition—a vast multiplication of the aid which the Royal Air Force has been giving the Greeks—came from neutral diplomats.

German circles here in the Yugo-Slav capital declared that the Balkan crisis was "reaching a critical stage."

Turks Reply to Berlin. Concurrently DNB, official German news agency, reported from Sofia that Turkey at last had replied to Adolf Hitler's offer of March 4 to look after Turkey's "interests and well-being." The reply, over the signature of President Ismet Inonu, was still en route to Hitler and the contents still were undisclosed.

The Turkish press, however, declared that Turkey's policy—her allegiance to Great Britain and her attitude toward the German occupation of Bulgaria—remained unchanged.

Reports of the British landings in Greece apparently marked the end of any hope Germany might have had of forcing Greece to sue for peace under the threat of German forces massed on Bulgaria's Greek and Turkish frontiers.

Yugo-Slavia, important in the Balkan lineup because she offers another avenue for any German attack on Greece, still shied from aligning herself with the Axis. She was dickering for lighter terms than Bulgaria got.

Aside from the British landings in Greece, another factor which perhaps will impel Germany to move against the Greeks was a report from the Greek side of the war in Albania that the week-long Italian offensive had failed. The story of the British landings in Greece was brought to Belgrade at noon Saturday by neutral diplomats arriving from Athens.

One diplomat declared he would take oath and sign a sworn statement that his facts were correct with reference to the landing of

Excuse Us If We Swell With Pride

WHEN an Eskimo was inducted into the army in Alaska the other day, a sort of circle was completed. Wearing the uniform of the United States are men of every strain of blood that flows in the veins of America —men of 23 different Indian tribes, men of Hawaiian, Porto Rican and Philippine blood, men whose ancestry stems from ancient China and Japan, men whose forebears came from Poland and Germany, Italy, France and Czechoslovakia, men of the north and south, men of the east and west—and all Americans.

We see them more frequently now in the streets of our cities, in the neighborhood of the great growing camps, and we are proud of them. We are proud of their appearance and their bearing, proud of the way in which they have, almost without exception, responded with loyalty to their America.

WE have not coerced or bludgeoned them into being Americans. We have not forbidden the use of the languages of their homelands, nor vilified their ancient culture.

Yet they cleave to America, and they love her.

The difference between what happens here and what happens in Europe is well illustrated by a story. A certain family in Poland, when Russia took over their territory and forbade them to speak Polish any longer, emigrated to America. They would not live in a land where their beloved language was forbidden. To be free to use it, they came to America. Today not a single child of that family speaks Polish. When they were under compulsion, they clung to their ancient language, under free American institutions, it was no longer important.

ALL these fine young Americans in whom every blood in the world runs red and strong have such a feeling. We are proud of them, and proud of the fact that they all march shoulder to shoulder today.

That is one of the things America can give the world—this final denial of stupid racial theories which would divide the world into little blood-tight compartments of in-bred racial groups. The soil of a common country, the tie of a common language, the link of a common ideal of freedom—these are grounds on which civilized men may stand together and march together.

We hate to seem sentimental, but we never see them standing and marching together like that without swelling with a sudden great pride.

The only successful substitute for brains
is silence.

Cupid always has and always will run

March 30-April 6 Will Be State Clean-Up Week

AUSTIN, March 15 (Sp.)—The annual Clean-Up and Fire Prevention week will be held March 30 through April 6, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer. State and city-wide cleanup campaigns are scheduled throughout Texas, the campaigns being designed to facilitate public health protection, lessen fire loss, and promote public safety.

The Texas State department of health and the Texas Fire Insurance commission will jointly sponsor the week.

Clean-up week is an important week in Texas, important because every dollar invested in property destroyed by fire is a dollar lost forever. "Careless housekeeping" in the home and in business paves the way for tremendous annual fire losses, and all fire loss, to a large extent, preventable by exercising recognized laws of fire prevention and control.

Pride in Town
Every citizen should have pride in his home town, its streets, playgrounds, parks and buildings. Homes and buildings freshly painted, well kept lawns and gardens, increases values and increases the pride of ownership. Men who wear the Spirella praise its natural support, which is so different from the harmful constriction that ordinary foundation garments inflict.

I Give You TEXAS

By BOYCE HOUSE

The top of the morning to you —and how about a joke or two in the St. Patrick's day spirit?
This is one about two Irishmen named Mike and Pat, instead of Pat and Mike, for a change. Mike fell into a gulch and Pat yelled,
"I ain't killed but I'm speechless."

A variant:
After Mike had fallen, his friend asked, "Are ye killed?" to which Mike replied, "That I am," Pat said, "You're such a liar I don't know whether to believe ye or not." And Mike replied, "That proves I'm dead, because if I wuz alive, ye wouldn't dare call me a liar."

The Irishman speaks in amusing contradictions as shown by his remark about the lie. "When ye put yer finger on him, he says

there" or his description of a man
"When he walks, he jumps, and when he stands up, he sits down."

An Irish philosopher said, "No misfortunes never come alone, and the greatest of all possible misfortunes is generally followed by a greater." A salesman and his customer window gazed. "These suits will last you forever, and after that, if you have no 12-tier use for them, you can sell them as old iron." A lover said
"It's a great comfort to be alone, especially when yer sweetheart is aid ye." A debater, who/tons ancient architecture as compared with the modern, demanded,
"Show me a single modern building that has lasted as long as the ancient ones!"

Then there was the Irishman who enlisted in the 33rd regiment, because he wanted to be near his brother, who was in the 34th. And there was the inlander who visiting a port and stood for hours looking at a ship's anchor because "I want to see the feller who swings that pick." And there was an Irishman who saw a hunter shoot a duck high overhead and the bird spun over and plunged to the ground, whereupon Pat said, "Ye wasted yer powder, the fall would have killed it." And if Irish jury brought in this verdict,

"We find that the man who stole the mare is not guilty." Hearing that a man had bought a marble coffin, Mike exclaimed, "Shure and a marble coffin would last a man a lifetime."

Some son of the Emerald Isle summed it up with, "Not more than half the lies they tell about the Irish are true."

Here and there:
In a brilliant speech recently,
Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas pointed out that the United States has become "the great arsenal of democracy" and that the lead-lease bill "enables us to gain the time necessary for the development of our own defensive armament. The struggling democracies need aid; we need time.

Under it, congress retains the power of the purse."

One witness at a recent hearing in Austin on the scientific load limit bill pounded the desk and yelled that the trucks don't belong on the roads, according to press reports. The United States postal service uses 14,000 trucks; should they be put off the highway and the farmer receive his mail twice a week by horse-and-buggy? The railroads themselves have 63,000 trucks, and the Railway Express (controlled by the railroads) has 10,000 trucks. Units of government, state, county, city and school—have 208,000 trucks.
Probably one half of the pupils in the school system of which the witness is the head are brought to school each morning in buses, which are just a form of trucks

Thelma Clay Becomes Bride Friday Night

Miss Thelma Clay of Cisco and Mr. Leon Sturdivant of Dallas were married in ceremonies performed in Brownwood Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. W. B. Seabourn of Cisco, was married in a royal blue estume suit with white accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink and white gladioli. There were not attendants, and Mrs. Seabourn was the only guest.

• SERIAL STORY DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS BY EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY, Clarence offers marriage, but for Beatrice marriage is not the answer. She switches the city's crowds, hurrying home from work. Then, on sudden impulse, she leaves her limousine, joins them. She goes into a subway, stuffs her mink coat into a parcel locker.

ESCAPE IN A SUBWAY
CHAPTER IV
NO one seemed to have noticed that a slim girl had stopped by the parcel lockers and divested herself of a mink coat; the symbol that set her apart from these hurrying, home-going workers.

In her dark wooden dress, with its jacket that was almost a coat, Beatrice thought with satisfaction that she looked rather like a girl who was trying to make a costume suit do the duty of a winter coat that was too shabby.

"It's almost spring," she thought. "If I only earned a little, working in an office somewhere, I'd still be saving for a new Easter outfit. Yes, this costume suit is all right. And the hat—that could be a leftover from winter. It makes the suit seem warmer."

Like a girl in a dream, propelled by some powerful subconscious urge, Beatrice hurried to the turnstiles. She found a nickel in her change purse, dropped it into the slot, pushed at the arm of the gate, and went on. At the newsstand from which men and women snatched evening papers, she picked up a paper, left three cents.

More steps down. A long platform, jammed to the edges. The black train roared into the station, drowning out the other noises.

Beatrice did not notice what train it was or where it was going. She had stopped under a little green sign and all the people around her began to fight forward. That train's doors opened right here. She was pushed into a seat. He darted past her, grabbed one himself. Beatrice realized then that this was the reason for the pushing and fighting.

A seat! She took a deep breath, rushed for the empty seat beside the swarthy man, and sat down. The train was filled in less than a minute. The doors slid to a close, people began to rattle newspapers and the subway ride began.

BUT Beatrice couldn't read her paper. She was looking about, like an explorer in a strange, wild land. At Thirty-fourth street, the train stopped. More people rushed in, hopefully, for seats. There were no more.

A stout woman with a brown paper parcel plumped herself in front of Beatrice. A young girl on the other side of the stout woman hung from a white tie ring and when the train lurched Beatrice thought it must have wrenched her arm out.

Once, as the stout woman juggled her parcel and knocked off Beatrice's hat, the young girl caught her eye and smiled. Beatrice thought, confused, "They're all so used to this. Pushing, being pushed. Standing. That girl—the way she smiled—grin and bear it . . ."

She stopped staring at the other people in the car and concentrated on the girl. "She's about my age." Suddenly it seemed very important to examine her carefully, to think about her. A girl so much like herself, yet so different!

"That's a nice looking coat. It's rather like a coat I have. Oh, a copy. I remember now. In the store, they sell things that look like the good things . . . But her taste is good. It's like mine . . ."

The girl was tall and slim. She wore a party hat that came to a peak. Her hair was rolled into a soft, brown curl at her neck. It shone under the electric light. "Clean," thought Beatrice. But the girl's fingers on the strap were grubby. No gloves. And when she wasn't smiling, but sinking back into her own thoughts, her carefully made-up lips drooped.

"She's pretty," Beatrice decided. "Not flamboyant. Intelligent looking."

She wondered what it must be like to be that girl, tired after a day in the office. Or didn't she work in an office? Where else did girls work? Stores? Factories? Was she going home—Beatrice glanced at the sign in the window—to Brooklyn to the house where she lived with her parents? Or did she live alone?

What was she getting out of life, this girl who wore a cheap imitation of a good coat—this girl who must love nice things or she wouldn't have bought that coat.

train was marooned in the darkness. Then impatience began to grow. People murmured more and more fretfully. A woman asked, loudly, "What's happened? What's wrong?"

A man roared, "Guard! Isn't there a subway guard on this car?" Outside the car, Beatrice saw the feeble light of what could only be a lantern, swaying. A moment later, there was a little hiss of compressed air. The doors in the middle of the car slid open.

"Now don't get excited, folks!" a leather-junged trainman shouted, holding his lantern aloft. "Just a little trouble down the line."

"We must be under the river!" the girl told Beatrice. "Wasn't the last station Whitehall? Yes, that's where we are, all right. Under the river."

"As soon as the lights come on," the trainman was announcing, "we'll all file out and walk back to the station. Now, folks, please! Take it easy! No danger. Just a few steps along the catwalk."

Outraged voices rose. A woman shrieked. "I can't walk along no tracks. I can't." A man complained: "Pay a nickel and walk home."

But the trainman was determined to be cheerful. "Here come the lights now. All right, everybody. Out this door. Just follow the person in front of you, nothing to it."

Beatrice and the girl looked at each other. The girl shrugged and smiled. "If we have to get out and walk, we have to, that's all. Come on!"

Beatrice felt her hand, steady-ly on her arm. Then she was staring down at the narrow black catwalk along the tracks, and all at once she was frightened.

Drama Solons Week-end

By Benje Crozier
March 15—New hot game that had cooled after the Texas legislature returned deliberations after another long adjournment from Monday. Trucking apparently had won a 10-cent increase for a more liberal law closing activity the passage of a maximum weight limit of 38,000 the house, there are indications that the new weight will be set over that body's limit. There is, however, the possibility that new regulations by the senate may cause a balk. In that event, the measure will go to the committee to iron out the differences. The senate is rather severe penalizing stiff fines and jail for continued weight. They also asked for a 10-hour day for the work of truck drivers.

National Defense at the Toy Fair

Everything looks mighty warlike in this picture from the American Toy Fair in New York, but, surprisingly enough, only 2 percent of the toys there reflect war and rush of American defense. Here Norma Clerc plays nurse. Paul Allen Hunter artillerman.

ed by a veteran whose forehead led the van of Austin's colony across the Sabine, was the house restrained from giving the governor's bill immediate passage in the manner he had pleaded for without crossing a T or dotting an I. Members were shouting, "Let's pass it now!" and they had voted overwhelmingly to suspend all rules to give the bill clearance. No more than 30 members would dare to oppose immediate consideration until Judge S. J. Isaacs gained the floor for a personal privilege plea. The calmly measured words of a grizzled oldster who had been a co-country district judge when Tom Campbell was governor more than 30 years ago, sat the hysteria-soaked membership back on haunches that had been pointed for action. A plea in kind by J. E. Winfree, who has a son graduating this spring at the United States Naval academy, finished the work and the bill went over until Monday afternoon before a committee of the whole house.

Singular Session
There is manifest sympathy for a bill of similar import to that brought forward by Governor O'Daniel. There may be trimming around the edges, however, and the body is not likely to follow blindly the governor's plea: "May I urge you to please pass this conservative bill without adding any harsh, radical or unreasonable amendments..." Which is not intended to convey the impression that members have any harsher provisions in mind. It was a singular situation that developed. With all of the showmanship he has ever employed before the radio microphone, the governor appeared before the house in his surprise visit. The house joined in tumultuous cheering when he came to a peroration in the declaration: "I want to announce to the whole world today that as governor of the great state of Texas, there are not going to be any strikes or lockouts in the national defense industries during the time of this emergency." When he had concluded, it was as emotional as the climax of a highly successful brush arbor camp meeting. Members rushed forward to

Soldiers Replace Workers at New Camp Wolters

CAMP WOLTERS, Mineral Wells, March 15 (Spe)—It's farewell time at Camp Wolters!

A pall of sadness is noted as the workers bid adieu to one of the speediest construction jobs in the history of Texas.

The hustle and bustle is gone, the selectees are moving in and the workers are moving out. Uniforms are taking the places of overalls and jumpers, and instead of the sound of hammers and saws there are only the voices of hard-boiled sergeants as they try to instill the first principles of soldierly bearing and foot movements in the boys who only a few short hours ago were behind the plow or a desk. As the permanent quarters are turned over to the army a crew of workmen start tearing down the temporary structures that were used for offices and shops during the construction of the camp. All materials are being surveyed and such as are serviceable are being stored and will be available for other building projects. Nothing is being wasted. Lumber is sorted and when a piece of scrap lumber is too small for walks or repairs it is carried to

This does not include production in railroad shops. U. S. factories annually manufacture nearly $45,000,000 worth of brushes. This includes $12,000,000 worth of paint brushes. The one thing people want most from an electric company is good dependable service. The price is important, too, but poor service without any cost whatever would be an extravagance in this modern-day world.

We've made big reductions in electric rates in recent years—and improved the service at the same time. However, some folks say their bills have not been reduced, which may be true because today people are using bigger lamp bulbs, they have radios, refrigerators, washing machines, and in many cases ranges and water heaters they didn't used to have. Their bills are about what they've always been, but today they get from twice to three or four times as much Electric Service for their money. For example, in 1928 $5 bought about 20 kilowatt-hours but today it buys 100 kilowatt-hours, or five times as much for your money.

barrows exhibited by Raymond Beck and Billy Henderson of Morton Valley won enough in premiums to pay their way in the show.

The 18 registered Angora goats exhibited by J. F. Donley of Ranger took away $96 in premiums with one first place ribbon, three seconds, eight thirds, one fourth and one fifth place. The strain of goats owned by Mr. Donley is generally recognized as being the best of the breed, and their rating in the 1940 Fat Stock show was as high as this year.

The leaders in the dairy work in the county record seeing the boys sell their well bred Jerseys, but it is gratifying to note that when they are sold, they bring a good price. Larkin Akers, Cisco FFA boy, working under the supervision of T. G. Caudle, vocational agriculture teacher, sold his heifer for $150 cash in the show and Wince Graham, Morton Valley 4-H club boy, sold his heifer for $130. Both of the heifers were near calving and would have been too old to exhibit at club calves next year, but their type and improved production records indicate that they would have been good animals to keep.

Approach Lord's Table With Humility
Lest Spirit of Service Be Betrayed

Text: Luke 22:14-30

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of Advance

THE event long ago in the Upper Room, which we call the Lord's Supper, has assumed a distinctive place in the Christian Church. Sometimes we call it the Communion Service, sometimes, the Holy Sacrament.

We might well call it by other names, for it touches at almost every point the whole range of Christian faith and fellowship. It should not be forgotten, too, that the event links, in a way that has never been adequately recognized in practice, the Jewish dispensation with the Christian dispensation.

WHAT did this Last Supper signify? It was, first of all, an act of fellowship. The disciples were united in a great hope and in a great enterprise, which centered in the Man of Nazareth to whom they had given their allegiance, believing Him to be the Messiah and the Son of God.

derstand at all fully the impending events, the words of Jesus made them realize times were at hand which would test their souls. The experiences of Gethsemane and Calvary were shortly to follow, and this first Lord's Supper was partaken of by the disciples so much under the shadow of the cross that it was inevitable that in the church it should establish that rite which has become a mark of remembrance and consecration.

HOW tragically near in history are the nobly divine things to the weakly human! We turn immediately from the high lights in the story to see the disciples quarreling among themselves about who was to be the greatest. It is perhaps no wonder that Christians of future ages have been so dull and slow in understanding and practicing the teaching of their Master, when we see that these early apostles who were so close to Him were also so dull and slow or so perverse in their personal ambitions.

Jesus had to rebuke them very pointedly. "Which is greater," He asked, "He that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth?" And He reminded them that He Himself was among them as one who serveth. That is the lesson for us, and we ought always to remember it as we partake of the Lord's Supper. If we approach the Lord's table in anything but the spirit of humility, we are betraying the very spirit of the service, just as the disciples unfortunately did so long ago.

Kimbrough Starts
Wide Open Play
for Baylor Bears

WACO, March 15 (Sp.)—Frank Kimbrough may be new to the Southeastern conference coaching family, but he's scoring little time setting up a wide open offensive attack of Baylor.

A newly launched drive for inter-collegiate play has been his chief aim since he opened the Baylor spring football practice last Tuesday and right now it looks as if it might pay off in big dividends come next September when the Bears open their 1941 football campaign.

Most of the practice drills have been spent in tossing the ball around and Jack Wilson, Kot Kittrell, Bill Coleman, Dwight Parks and Bill Dossell have been working overtime in this phase of the game. All of the leather-slingers have looked good in the preliminary workouts but especially pleasing has been the work of Last week more than 12,000 workers were on the project. This week just a few over 4,000 are

TUMORS Innocent and Malignant
All tumors are divided into two classes, the "innocent," or benign, and "malignant." The "innocent" tumor usually grows slowly, merely pushing aside the tissues surrounding it, and is only dangerous to life when growing in some vital organ, such as the brain.
The "malignant" tumor, or cancer, usually grows rapidly, reaching into the tissues about it, has irregular outlines and shows a marked tendency to invade distant parts of the body. It is dangerous to life, WHEREVER it grows.
Typical examples of either of these tumors are readily distinguished by a physician. Permitting a tumor of any kind to remain without his diagnosis may result in a preventable disaster to life or health.
Your physician can probably furnish you with the above pamphlet. But if you have any cause for interest in this subject—get PERSONAL diagnosis and advice.
