PRESBYTERY TO CONVENE HERE ON TUESDAY

Through the Editor's Spectacles
 By GEORGE

Today's headlines are not assuring. An epidemic of strikes, affecting the nation's major industries, the key to the whole economic system, are throwing hundreds of thousands of men out of employment, progressively depriving many times the number of employment and the prospect of employment throughout the nation. Look at it from any angle, consider the rights of both employers and labor, adopt any attitude, favorable or unfavorable, toward the issues at stake, but you must admit that a serious condition, a condition threatening the very foundations of our economic system, is rapidly developing. While the house is afire, we are fighting over the hose cart.

What such a condition will add to is anybody's guess, unless it is halted and careful, cooperative conditions are restored, you can be certain that the result will be bad, indeed. As a matter of fact, you can envision frightening consequences. Consider how the analysis of inactivity can creep through a nation of people, already stripped of resources in the largest number, depending upon immediate employment and the sale of goods and services to wage-earners, and imagine the desperation that want an inspire among their numbers. Perhaps that is painting the picture too darkly, but it is an undoubted possibility.

Back in 1933 when the weak of the depression arrived in closing of banks and virtual standstill of business, almost everybody was in debt, but almost everybody had some resources to tide them over. Large numbers of businesses kept employees on the payroll, hoping for improvement. Those resources were eventually exhausted, payrolls were drastically cut, the nation went on a WPA economy to deal with the crisis. Today, after several years of hand-to-mouth living, millions of Americans are without any reserves or resources, beyond the prospect of re-employment in a great defense effort. They cannot borrow to live, they must depend upon private employment or public work. Thousands upon thousands of small business men, who weathered the rough years by drastic retrenchment to the limits of the "made" market that government relief and agricultural subsidies provided, likewise are without reserves and depend-

FORD SYSTEM CLOSED DOWN WITH STRIKE

250,000 Workers in Steel Industry Near Walkout

(By Associated Press)
 Ford Motor company assembly lines over America stood idle Saturday as a result of a strike at the firm's River Rouge plant near Detroit. A least 118,000 men were affected by the shut-downs.
 Another 250,000 workmen in the steel industry faced the threat of workless days beginning at midnight Tuesday unless a deadlock is broken in negotiations between United States Steel corporation and its CIO employees over a new wage contract.
 Still another 400,000 soft coal miners were out of production while negotiations continued toward a new labor contract. However, Dr. John R. Steelman, federal conciliator, predicted that some of the mines would reopen next week.
 As these hundreds of thousands, engaged in industries holding billions in defense contracts drew further public attention to the labor situation, President Roosevelt termed the strike at the plant of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company a bad situation and said something had to be done about it.
 Representatives of the company and striking CIO-United Automobile Workers union will meet in Washington Saturday for a conference with the defense mediation board, seeking to settle the 74-day stoppage. Issues include a union shop, wage rates and seniority adjustments.
 The Ford strike hinges on demands of the NAW for a contract recognizing it as collective bargaining agent, and covering wages and seniority and grievance procedure.
 Strikebound for three days, the big River Rouge plant stopped feeding parts to the widely scattered assembly plants. They clustered in defense contracts. $135,000,000 in defense contracts.
 Plants were closed in Atlanta, Buffalo, Chester, Pa., Chicago, Dallas, Kansas City, Long Beach, Cal., Louisville, Memphis, Oklahoma City, St. Louis, Somerville, Mass., St. Paul, Edgewater N. J., Richmond, Cal., Iron Mountain, Mich., Brooklyn, Sharon, Mills.

ELECTION OF MODERATOR ON PROGRAM

Two-Day Session to Be Held at Presbyterian Church

Approximately 50 pastors, exclusive of visitors, will assemble at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon for the opening session of the semi-annual Fort Worth Presbytery meeting, to be held here Tuesday and Wednesday. Registration will begin at 9 o'clock, it was announced by Dr. Gary L. Smith, local pastor and will be followed immediately by a business session during which a moderator will be named for the new church year. The opening sermon will be preached Tuesday evening at 7:30 by C. B. Brinkley of itasca, retiring moderator, and on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock Dr. John V. McCall of Weatherford will preach the annual sermon on the subject, "The Sovereignty of God," followed immediately by Presbyterial communion. The public is invited to both services.
 Presbytery is held twice a year, in April and September, in some city in the district. It met last in Cisco two years ago. The district embraces territory from Fort Worth to Sweetwater west, and from Fort Worth to Hillsboro south.
 The visiting pastors and elders are entertained in the homes of local members, and two meals, Tuesday evening and Wednesday noon, will be served by the ladies of the auxiliary at the church.
 Among those expected to attend are the Rev. M. H. Appiewhite of Sweetwater, and Dr. J. Stuart Pearce of Fort Worth, both former pastors in the Cisco church.

LIONS WILL BE HOST FOR EASTER HUNT

Cisco kiddies will be guests of the Lions club Sunday afternoon, April 13, at the annual Easter egg hunt to be held in the parks at Lake Cisco, beginning immediately after 3 o'clock.

Among this number will be hidden three gold and three silver eggs, for which cash prizes will be awarded in the three age groups, up to seven years, from seven to 10 years, and from 10 to 12 years.
 The hunt annually attracts hundreds of youngsters and a record number is anticipated this year.
 Committees in charge include: Arrangements, Charles Sander, D. G. Streater, Droel Looney, Bruce Younger and Carlos Turner; transportation, R. W. McCauley, S. H. Nance and Ralph Chandler; prizes, A. G. Tuttle, Stanley Webb and C. M. Nevill, and publicity, Carlos Turner, W. H. LaRoque and Roy Tuggle.

Revival Enters Third Week At Christian Church

The revival meeting at the First Christian church enters its third week with the services today. Much interest has been created by this meeting, and it is expected that the crowds attending the nightly services will continue to increase this week. The preaching is being done by the pastor of the church, the Rev. J. R. Wright.
 The subject for the sermon this morning at 10:30 will be, "The Lord's Supper," and at the 7:45 service this evening the subject will be, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" Monday night the subject will be "Jesus, the Way"; Tuesday night, "Seeking Jesus"; Wednesday night, "The Conversion of Cornelius"; Thursday night, "Christ Before Pilate"; Friday night, "What Will You Do With Jesus?" and on Easter Sunday the morning subject will be "The Resurrection," and that night, "The First Lord's Day Evening."
 Services are held nightly at 7:45 every day except Saturday, and will close with the services on Easter Sunday. An urgent and cordial invitation is extended the public to attend all these services.

BAND CONTEST AT ABILENE APRIL 24-26

The band division of the Texas Music Educators association will sponsor the annual band contest for Region Two in Abilene April 24, 25 and 26, it was announced Saturday by Lobo Band Director R. I. Collier.
 Region Two, of which Cisco is a part, comprises 38 counties; west to Big Spring, east to Stephenville, north to Crowell and south to Sonora. The bands are classified according to high school enrollment, as follows: Class A, over 750; Class B, 250 to 750; Class C, less than 250; Class D, one year bands, and Class E, junior high school bands. The Cisco band is rated as Class B.
 The bands do not play for first, second and third places, but for one, two, three, four and five ratings. In this way there may be more than one band rated in one, and there may not be any. The following terms apply to the ratings: One, superior; two, excellent; three, good; four, fair, and five, poor. For the past four years the Cisco band has been placed in Division I both in playing and marching.
 The band this year is composed of 72 members, all of whom are working hard to maintain the high standards set in previous years.
 Division I rating, it was pointed out, qualifies a band to enter the national contest in Waco on May 8, 9 and 10, and the members hope to go for the fifth time in as many years.
 Plans were made by the band committee of the Lions club, at a meeting Friday afternoon, to send the band to Waco with all expenses paid, provided they qualify in the regional meet. Members of the committee are: Roy Tuggle, chairman, and A. G. Tuttle, Charles Kleiner, C. M. Nevill, R. I. Collier, E. L. Jackson, Jack Anderson and Carlos Turner.

The young people of the church are to be recognized as a special honor group at this morning hour of worship.

A Stab of Light Into the Dim Future

A mere million dollars is nothing in the vortex of billions whirling about in Washington today. Yet the million dollars spent by the Temporary National Economic Committee during the past three years in getting together 20,000 pages of testimony from more than 500 industrial leaders may turn out to be the most productive million of them all.

The committee set itself a crushing task—nothing less than to find out the answers to the questions everyone has been asking for 10 years: Why want amid plenty? What's wrong with our economic system?

Now, in 37 volumes, the report is made. It should be the greatest mine of information that exists on our economy.

EVERYBODY is concerned about what will happen after the war emergency is over. Will it mean another depression worse than the last one? It is certainly possible unless the greatest possible foresight is used, beginning now. The recommendations of the TNEC are aimed, apparently, at this post-war period rather than at the period of the defense effort, which is no time to rock boats.

First, the committee is sold on free enterprise. It feels that the only way in which America will eventually be gotten back at peacetime work is by reopening the opportunities for new enterprise. Those avenues are now increasingly blocked on one hand by the increasing size of a few vast corporations, and by increasing government regulation.

Thus the committee suggests: subjecting national corporations to national charter and control; loosening the grip of patent rights; abolition of basing-point systems for calculating prices; repeal of the Miller-Tydings type of price-maintenance laws; government restriction of new mergers; legal and tax policies which will foster and protect new enterprises.

THAT is a bare hint of the line of thought that has come to the majority of the TNEC after hearing all this testimony. The crux of the matter is here: as long as American business continues to gravitate into larger and fewer units, an equal centralization and expansion of government is inevitable. As free enterprise is restricted, free government is endangered; political freedom is impossible without economic freedom.

When the present emergency is passed, it is clear that the United States is going to have to do some fast stepping. Every bit of light that can be thrown now on the best direction of those steps is a guarantee of future safety and progress.

It won't be long till some folks will be too sick to work and too well to stay home from fishing.

dent upon the prospect of markets improved by a private industry stimulated by defense orders. These are in no condition to endure another crisis such as 1933. They are not in the mood to do so.

The dry tinder that is under this situation ought to be recognized by those labor leaders who are taking advantage of the defense program to prosecute their ambitions. Labor stands to lose most if not all the gains it has made during the last eight years. It ought to be recognized by industry which stands to lose its identity in a system of free enterprise and become government owned and operated. And it ought to be recognized by government which, after nearly a decade of reform, must realize that the machinery it has sought to build to insure peaceful, fair and efficient industrial operation is lacking in some serious particulars.

Christian Forces Today Face Same Battles as Disciples of Old

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

FROM the Gospels we turn now to six months' study in the Acts and the Epistles, continuing the story of the founding of the Christian church.

It is Luke, the beloved physician, whose story of the earthly life of Jesus is the fullest and most picturesque, to whom we are indebted for the further story of the events following the Resurrection. The source of this story is every properly called "the Book of Acts" for it is essentially a story of action.

JESUS had charged His disciples to remain at Jerusalem, following His Resurrection and Ascension, until they should receive the baptism of the Holy Spirit. His promise was that they should receive power, and that they would become witnesses for Him both in Jerusalem and to the uttermost parts of the earth. Most assuredly, men and women who were engaged in that enterprise needed to have faith and power.

whose Master had been crucified and who were still subject to great persecution, to set before themselves the goal of conquering the whole world with their faith and with the ideals of the Christian religion.

WE live in a world of strange contrasts. Today a great part of humanity is involved in war. An outburst of violence such as would have been inconceivable a generation ago has overtaken the world, reminding us of the power of evil. And yet, we see Christianity as a world-wide religion, living today as it lived in past ages alongside earthly powers of tyranny and wickedness.

And we can receive power through the Holy Spirit just as did the disciples, if we are willing to undergo the discipline of preparation, consecration and prayer.

New G-3 Tires Roll Up Higher Mileage in Test

Scene of tests made to determine results of tire improvements has been on Arizona highways, where year-long climatic conditions simulate summer and warm weather's effect of such driving on tire mileage can be scientifically determined.

Conclusions, following tests recently completed in which the new Goodyear G-3 All-Weather tire and competitive units were driven until worn to the fabric, according to R. W. McCauley, local Goodyear dealer, proved that, under identical conditions G-3 quality construction averaged 20 per cent longer mileage than other popular first-line tires tested.

Interesting in these many tests results was the fact that the non-skid edges of the All-Weather's tread total more than 19 feet of gripping surface for every 12 inches of tread, a 19-to-one safety factor that will operate in any direction.

Coupled with this is the factor of quick stopping and starting, plus no slippage on curves, increased resistance to cuts and bruises and greater blowout protection. Consequently, cost per mile of the new tire is much less.

Medical Reserve Applications Asked

Appointments in the corps reserve of the army suspended, it was announced today at state selective service headquarters.

Qualified doctors of medicine who are subject to the Selective Service whether they have already been inducted or are in Class I, pending induction, are eligible for appointment to the medical corps reserve. Texas' local boards have been requested by state headquarters to encourage all eligible applicants to apply for appointment to this reserve.

The three states reported annual consumption in food manufacturing, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce, are: New York, 427,292 pounds; Illinois, 373,000 pounds; and Pennsylvania, 469,170,604 pounds.

More than 12 million gallons of brandy are used in wine manufacture in the U. S., according to the census bureau.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

LABOR DEPARTMENT'S CONCILIATION SERVICE AND ITS FINE RECORD, NOW CAUGHT IN MIDDLE

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — The outfit caught in the middle, the outfit that still has to do all the dirty work in keeping the peace in defense industry labor disturbances seems to be the conciliation service in the Department of Labor. It's a little outfit, as government agencies go, with only 110 conciliators and a budget of only $325,000, plus $80,000 defense money for this year.

Its headquarters are in half a dozen offices on the third floor of the Labor Department building. They're just down a corridor from the office of Madame Perkins herself, and while the secretary's suite is all wood panels and luxury in good taste, the conciliators worry along in offices undistinguished except for some of those art project oil paintings you find all over the labor building.

Head man of conciliation, quick moving, graying at 40, an Arkansas farm boy who has been both hobo and Harvard instructor. He has been a conciliator since 1934, head of the service for seven years.

16 main offices on situated service can get a man to get a disturbance brewing and at 3 hours. There isn't any man chosen for the work are lawyers, teachers, leaders, ex-industrial men characteristics are given for this type of person: tirelessness, patience, shrewdness of temper and an ability to win the confidence of employers and employees.

THEIR success? Since 1934 the service was in 27,000 cases involving 22 million workers. Their batting average improved every year as gained experience. In 1934 had 746 threatened strikes settled 709 of them before reached a strike stage and out stoppage of work. The age of the last three years been 92 to 95 per cent strike prevention whereas service can get to a dispute before the strike or lockout. It is after the strike begins conciliation's job gets tough that is what has perhaps made service record look bad. Defense strikes since the first year.

The strength and usefulness of the organization as noted is that it is entirely unitary service, functioning the principles of democracy is no compulsion that disrupts a labor controversy must be conciliator. The conciliator asked in by one side or the other to help settle a controversy threat of strike, a lockout or actual strike.

That is one big point of contention in the present defense labor disturbances more important than the cook walking out on your mother-in-law. They are: H. R. Presbyterian Ladies Honor Mrs. J. P. Minter

The auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church combined its first-Tuesday all-church social with a tea honoring Mrs. John P. Minter, returned missionary from China, at the church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Minter is the guest of Mrs. John G. Jones, Jr.
A pastel color scheme was artistically carried out in all decorations. The tea table was laid with lace and centered with an arrangement of stock, junquils and flowering peach in a crystal bowl. This was flanked on either side by candle holders bearing pink, green and yellow tapers.
In the receiving line were Mrs. Home Slicker, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. Gary Smith, wife of the pastor, Mrs. Minter and Mrs. Jones. Mrs. R. L. Ponder and Mrs. Alex Spear assisted in receiving the guests.
The tea joined on the first period by Mrs. W. P. Lee and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, and for the last period by Mrs. C. H. Fee and Mrs. Smith. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. Sterling Drumwright, Dan Dillingham, Leith Morris and Standlee McCracken.

Slicker, and brought an interesting address on conditions in China; the spiritual outlook of the people, and the need for aiding China and Chinese people to the fullest extent.

• SERIAL STORY DOLLARS TO DOUGHNUTS BY EDITH ELLINGTON

YESTERDAY, Beatrice is determined to face Bruce Sheldrake, demand changes in store operation. But Anthony comes from his conference defeated. The merchandise manager laughed at the Big Idea. But Anthony isn't quiting. He'll get proof. And Bee realizes that she has to have proof for her changes in the store or she will be laughed at, too. For the first time she realizes the responsibility her money has brought upon her.

NO TIME FOR BLUES CHAPTER XXII

THROUGH the long afternoon, the enormity of her problem stayed with her. That night, as she punched her time card, one of the line of hurrying girls in dark store dresses and cheap coats, she thought, "There girls need me. I've got to help them! I've got to help Anthony. And Grandfather would want me to do something. But what? What shall I do?"

Anthony was waiting for her outside the employes' entrance. Toby Masters, who always left the store with Beatrice, cried, "You look like a man who wants to get plastered."

Toby knew something was going on, she sensed that Anthony had suffered some bitter disappointment. But she was too wise to ask.

Anthony said, violently, "If it weren't for Bee, I certainly would go out on the town tonight. I'd get high as a kite."

"And you'd have a hangover in the morning that would kill you," said Toby.

"Not to mention getting fired," Beatrice added.

YET his anguished eyes were so hard to bear! She remembered how she had always sought forgiveness and succor in the gay, crowded night clubs of this city. She thought of the hotel ball rooms, in which she had danced, the theaters in which she had sat, the music and laughter and the excitement that could drive away for a few hours, even the deadliest boredom.

"Anthony, why don't we all celebrate tonight? We wouldn't need to get tight. But we could make whoopee! Look, let's be like the man who used to celebrate every kick as if it were a medal of honor. Let's dance and make merry and the deuce with disappointment."

Toby promptly seconded the motion. "I've been aching for a really big night for months! She hopped up and down, squealing delightedly. "What a chance to drag out the Great Stone Face! Look, I'll tell him you're throwing the party. Anthony, Oh, I know you're broke. I'll pay you our share. But if I tell him it's your party, he can't turn me down, see? Leaving things up to him seems to have gotten nowhere, so—"

She grinned impudently. "I'm nuts about the boy. Come on, let's go home and I'll phone him and get all rigged up—"

"I've never heard of any Great Stone Face before," Beatrice said slowly. "Who is he?"

"He's a handsome blizzard. A frozen glacier. A human adding machine. He's in the comptroller's office, my sweet. What do you think I've been doing while you and Anthony cooed over the lunch plates in the cafeteria? I've been throwing myself at his head, that's what I've been doing. He always eats in a dark corner near the kitchen, with a book on higher mathematics. I've been tossing the book under the table and offering him Toby instead, and he's been very politely and stubbornly refusing to have any."

think they are, in the orchestra? DURING intermission, Toby and Vera hung over the rail, gazing down enviously at the brilliance of the fur capes, satin and sequined evening gowns, and diamond bracelets of the sirens in the orchestra. Beatrice sipped a warm orangeade from a paper cup contentedly, and smiled at Anthony. She knew the orchestra crowd. This was better.

It was an uproarious musical comedy, with tunes that lingered after the last curtain fell. "And now," said Toby, "On to the Danceteria."

"The Danceteria was a revelation. It was done in red, with a Spanish motif as eye-shocking as the zebra stripes at the night club with which Beatrice was more familiar. There were tables, all crowded, and a dance floor that was jammed, although it was larger than any night club dance floor had a right to be.

The most important thing about the Danceteria was its democracy. Black ties mingled with dark blue serge, and sport dresses swayed right next to white tulle. The cheerful sound of happy voices was strangely different from the occasional feverish shrieks Beatrice remembered. There was no recurrent shrilling of "How perfectly divine!" "My dear, can you bear it?" No one seemed to be concerned with who stopped at who's table, or who was dancing with who's wife.

Nowhere in sight was there anything that faintly resembled the most publicized debutante of the season, or the most sought-after eligible male. No candid cameras clicked under flash bulbs. Beatrice saw no columnists sitting at reserved tables. She saw no obsequious waiters, either.

But the thing that was most striking of all was the fact that everybody here was so young and so transparently happy! "Anthony, do you see any gray-haired men? Any overdressed divorcees? Any actresses, even? Actors?" Anthony said, "I see a lot of shipping clerks. And section managers, like me."

"It's wonderful," she cried. "Anthony, it's marvelous! I'm so glad we had this party!"

She watched a girl at the next table scuffle good-naturedly with a boy over the possession of some snapshots.

She watched Vera poking Terry and whispering, "Don't spend too much." She saw Sam McArdle's red head hovering close to Toby's chestnut curls.

"I'm so happy, Anthony. I've simply got to dance. Right now!" Sam McArdle, and eyed lad who had come to their table when Vera.

It Pays to Have Allies. Truck Law Repeal Shows

By HARRY BENGE CROZIER

AUSTIN, April 5.—It pays to have friends in trade and in war, allies perhaps in a more proper word than friends. Certainly in this Texas legislature, since industry has been compelled to wash its dirty linen and otherwise, in legislative gear, friends and allies have won the day in many a bitter battle.

Once in this forty-seventh legislature, an amendment has been done to state policy, and allies turned the tide of battle. This year the omnibus trucking interests will be victorious for law—and without a word of protest—were all but annihilated. They were annihilated by law to a 7,000 pound limit for trucks. But the provisions of the law, in a constitutional sense, have a moral character.

Mexicans Are Baptised at San Jacinto

SAN JACINTO BATTLEGROUND, Texas, April 5 (Spc).—Texans and Mexicans have buried the hatchet afresh on this old battlefield.

On the site where in 1836 Gen. Sam Houston and his 800 tattered patriots routed a Mexican force twice as large, hundreds of Mexicans met—but not for battle.

They came for a baptismal service to see converts of missionary work baptised by the Rev. Lloyd Corder, Southern Baptist missionary.

In the waters at the foot of the gleaming San Jacinto Memorial shaft, the Texan missionary baptised the Mexican believers.

Rev. Corder, who is the Southern Baptist Home Mission board's superintendent of city mission work in Houston, Baptized Hortensia Hernandez and Tomacito Carrizalez into membership in the Central Mexican Baptist church of Houston. Two other believers, Jesus B. Ramirez and Fernando Alcocer, uniting with the Memorial Baptist church of Pasadena, were baptized by the pastor, the Rev. J. Griffin Chapman.

6-Foot-4 Lincoln Not Tall Enough

WACO, April 5 (Spc).—A spectator at Baylor civic theater's rehearsal of Abe Lincoln in Illinois complained to Director Paul Baker that Glen Martin, cast as Abe, was not tall enough.

"He's six-four, same height as Lincoln," Baker replied.

"He isn't more than a couple of inches taller than others on the stage," the critic countered.

So Baker checked up. The average height of his 125-member cast is six feet, one inch.
