Axis Breaks About Even With Napoleon on Conquests

With the overrunning of Yugoslavia and extensive advances in Greece, the Hitler-Mussolini conquest combination has passed the million square miles mark to reach a point about equal to that of Napoleon, though axis holdings in Africa push the current mark even higher. Map illustrates the extent of occupations in the last three periods of European conquest.

NAZIS BREAK THERMOPYLAE RESISTANCE

End of Greek War Appears in Sight, It Is Reported

The battle of Greece today approached a victorious finale for the armies of Adolf Hitler as the Nazi legions fought their way down the main coastal highway to Athens after overwhelming the British defenders of Thermopylae. The Nazis, said a Berlin report, broke through the heroic rear-guard action of the British in much the same manner as the Persians overcame the Spartans whose stand at the pass is one of the classic deeds of ancient warfare.

Announcement from Berlin of the forcing of the pass was couched in terms to make it appear as if it had happened only today.

The British radio today denied that there had been any rout of the British-Greek allied forces. It declared that German losses in the fighting were far greater than any suffered by the British and also asserted that not a single British soldier had embarked to evacuate the peninsula.

From Athens came a report that the allies still have a firm grip on the Greek capital.

Brought Heavy Guns
Heavy losses suffered in the first Nazi attack on Thermopylae caused the Germans to haul up the six-inch guns for which elaborate emplacements had to be dug in contrast to mobile equipment previously used, Athens dispatches said.

Ambulance drivers returning from the front said British losses around the historic battleground were "extremely light."

German dive-bombers attacking Piraeus, five miles from Athens, struck and set afire a ship which was taking aboard "refugees," Heavy casualties were reported.

The Germans said raids on Piraeus and other southern Greek ports had taken a terrific toll of ships intended to remove the British army from Greece.

"The only question remaining is how many Tommies we can annihilate before they can make a getaway," a Berlin spokesman said.

Upwards of 181,000 tons, 89,000 of it in the last three days, were claimed sunk in southern ports which the Greeks acknowledged had suffered heavily. This compares to 240,000 tons which the Germans said the British lost at the Dunkerque disaster a year ago.

In Africa British resistance to the axis drive, stalled near Salum, Egypt, was growing, British quarters in Cairo said.

Reports from Ethiopia, in east Africa, also told of an Italian rout from mountain barricades before Dessie, 140 miles northeast of captured Addis Ababa, the capital. British and South African forces there were trying to crush the troops of the Italians commander and viceroy, Duke of Aosta, in order to free reinforcements for north Africa.

NEW DEFENSE TAX SCHEME IS PRESENTED

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—The treasury presented its new defense tax schedules to the house ways and means committee Thursday and through Assistant Secretary John L. Sullivan argued emphatically against the substitution of a pay roll tax or a sales tax for the proposed heavy imposts on incomes.

Sullivan faced the committee after Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr., flanked by 17 assistants, had urged that the prospective $3,500,000,000 (billions) increase in tax revenues be accompanied by a billion-dollar reduction in non-defense expenditures. He thought such a cut not only highly desirable but clearly possible.

As for the three and one half billion dollars in new taxes, Morgenthau said it was a small price to pay for liberty. "There is a possibility," he asserted, that war may spread to this country.

The session opened the committee's public hearings on the new tax bill. Spectators crowded the big committee room, and included the usual large proportion of representatives of business organizations who always put in an appearance when taxes or the tariff are up for discussion. At one point, there was almost an uproar as they scuffled for printed copies of the treasury schedule handed to reporters by a committee attendant.

As presented by Sullivan the proposed schedules closely conformed to advance announcements of what they would contain: Income sur-taxes starting at

Prospective Trainees Warned of Racketeers

Prospective trainees were warned today by General J. Watt Page, state selective service director, against subscribing to "deferment or exemption insurance."

"It has come to the attention of state headquarters," General Page said, "that swindlers are operating in Texas, and particularly among the colored registrants, selling for a cash fee policies or papers which are purported to insure the registrant against military training, or to procure for him deferment of service under the selective service act. It is reported that some of those racketeers are impersonating army officers, and in one instance investigation developed that a colored 'sergeant' was threatening hesitant victims with induction into the army on a moment's notice."

General Page pointed out that, with the exception of ministers and students of divinity, there is no such thing as a "resumption" under the selective service act, and that the local boards alone have the authority and responsibility for determining whether a registrant may be deferred from military training. He said:

"Registrants are classified according to their order numbers and when the time comes for classification of a registrant, his case will be given separate consideration by his local board in accordance with the provisions of the selective service act and regulations. There is no way by which exemption or deferment may be purchased for any price or consideration whatsoever."

Registrants are urged to report immediately any instance of this nature, together with all evidence collected, to his local board or to a United States attorney.

"The selective service act is a federal law," General Page said, "and any violation of it is a federal offense and will be prosecuted by the United States department of justice."

HULL, KNOX DEMAND MORE ACTIVE STEPS

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP)—Two key figures in President Roosevelt's cabinet called last night for more active steps to aid Britain, one of them declaring that "we can not allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic" and the other demanding "resistance wherever resistance will be the most effective."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said in an address here that "ways must be found" to insure that aid reaches its destination "in the shortest of time and in maximum quantity."

In an even stronger pronouncement in New York, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox declared "this is our fight," that "we must see the job through" and that "we can no longer occupy the immoral and craven position of asking others to make all the sacrifice for this victory which we recognize as so essential to us."

"Our manhood and our self respect demand that we shall assume our part of the burden," Knox said.

Knox asserted that "Hitler cannot allow our war supplies to reach England—he will be defeated if he do" and he added with emphasis:

"We cannot allow our goods to be sunk in the Atlantic—we shall be beaten if they do."

Makes Difference Says Hull
Hull declared the safety of the hemisphere called for "resistance wherever resistance will be most effective" and that it makes a vast difference to us who wins the present struggle in Europe—the difference whether we stand with our backs to the wall with the other four continents against us and the high seas lost, alone defending the last few territories on earth, or whether we keep our place in an orderly world."

The secretary of state spoke before the American Society of International Law in Washington and his address was broadcast over the NBC blue network. Knox addressed the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers association in New York, and his remarks were broadcast nationally by MBS.

Real Co-operation Begins

EVERYWHERE you look today you see signs that people are beginning to take the defense emergency seriously. It's about time, too.

The entire motor industry has willingly accepted an initial 20 per cent reduction in production of motor vehicles for a model year which begins Aug. 1, and is either reducing or eliminating model changes entirely. That means more man-power, more materials, facilities and management for the defense load.

All manufacturers of brass pipe are discontinuing production of yellow brass pipe, and are making red brass pipe instead, just as good for most purposes. Why? Red brass contains only 15 per cent of zinc; yellow brass 30 or 40. Extra zinc thus made available for defense equals 25,000,000 pounds of cartridge brass.

able for defense equals 25,000,000 pounds of cartridge brass.

This sort of thing is going on all through industry in an increasing wave. And in the meantime, labor, too, seems to be settling down. Co-director Sidney Hillman of the Office of Production Management believes that strikes in defense industries are dwindling, and that "labor is becoming increasingly aware of the need for co-operation."

In the meantime taxpayers (and that is practically everybody these days) are way ahead of Congress in their willingness to bear the money burden in proportion to ability. If there was ever a time in history when the prospect of drastic new taxes was faced so calmly, we don't remember it.

As the German legions pound southward in the last act of the Greek tragedy, and as the Japanese invaders drag tighter the stranglehold they have given ample proof that their aims go far beyond readjustment of local boundaries.

THEY have made the world a place in which only the strong can hope to preserve their rights, their living space, their way of life. And Europe has added the lesson that none is strong enough to fight alone.

Industry, labor, soldier and sailor, man and woman, America is beginning to fall into step in a marching cadence which means strength, the only safety for the future.

Wonder if, when Jimmy Stewart gets assigned to peel potatoes at camp, he's allowed to use a double?

Lindbergh used to think in terms of "We." But lately it seems to be "they" that engages his chief attention.

Young woman going to take a job in Alaska promised not to marry for two years. A sort of "cooling off period"?

The defense picture is one place where three strikes didn't seem to be out.

The higher you get the harder you land when you finally fall.

"They're Still There, Boss!"

Studebaker's New Skyway Series Is Announced

"They have the appearance and distinction of custom-built models," was the enthusiastic comment made by R. L. Shaw, local Studebaker dealer, upon receiving his initial shipment of Studebaker's latest entry in the fine car field, the new Skyway series. The new cars were put on display today at Shaw Tractor and Equipment company, located at 103 West 9th street. The new models are available on either the six- or eight- cylinder Studebaker chassis and are offered in the popular six-passenger land cruiser or cruising sedan body styles. They are an addition to the Studebaker Commander and President lines.

True to its name, the Skyway series accents streamlining and style. The design of the new models, like all 1941 Studebaker cars, is the work of Raymond Lowery, ace industrial designer. Mr. Shaw pointed out that the new design lends itself to new and more appealing use of the popular two-tone exterior color combinations. There is no gaudy extraneous ornamentation. Graceful auxiliary fender lights, matching and attractive chrome and lucite hood emblem, are faired into the front fenders of the new car. An eye-appealing touch is furnished by a strip of sleek chromium which starts at the bottom of the front fender skirt, continues across the body sill to the end at the back of the rear wheel shield. Besides accentuating the long, low, graceful sweep of the body, the strip protects car's finish against flying pebbles. Rear wheel shields, fender parking lights, whitewall concealed running boards and luxe front bumpers with guards are standard equipment on the Skyway series.

The large, roomy interior of the new cars vie with the best in drawing-room furnishings, good taste and comfort. Upholstery is governed by the exterior color scheme selected. Uphol color options are fawn and gray.

The fine quality broadcloth holstery is custom tailored features wide pleats. Foam ber seat cushions are standard equipment on the President Skyway series, may be had at slight additional cost on Commander six Skyway series.

The 1941 Studebaker Commander's six-cylinder engine develops 84 horsepower at 3600 r.p.m., President eight, 117 horsepower at 3800 r.p.m. Both cars have speed synchronesh transmission with silent helical gears throughout and economical overdrive available on each model at moderate extra cost.

"Certainly," concluded Shaw, "Studebaker has spared expense in building these cars. With the addition of new Skyway series, plus the priced Champion and the Commander and President lines there is a Studebaker for every taste and pocketbook."

Nearly 465 million pounds of sugar are required annually in the manufacture of soft drinks, says the census.

BRUCE CATTON'S AMERICAN ROUNDUP

BEAT SIZZLES EARLY IN CAPITAL THIS YEAR AS GOVERNMENT GROWS AT WAR PROFITEERS

BY PETER EDSON
SEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—"Cost plus" contracts for defense production, curse of the last war effort, are to be given a thorough going over by the Truman administration committee of Senate investigators looking into national defense.

That there will be comparatively little dirt uncovered by investigation of the defense contracts, seems relatively certain. It will be some bad jobs, and the inevitable in a program as big as the present one, but the profiteering mistakes of the last war are good lessons for this one, and Mr. Knudsen told the Truman committee the other day, that he has none of the "shop-around" with contracts this time.

Last war, it was the custom to let contractors bid for all the work. Annual bids were collected at commission which was considered a part of the cost.

At the start of the defense effort, there was congressional action intended to limit profits to 12 per cent, but that was soon done at cost plus a stated flat percentage of the estimated cost.

As for the specific information which the Truman investigators have asked fixed fee contracts to supply for study, the provisions stated that jobs were done at cost plus a stated flat percentage of the estimated cost.

Summer has come unusually early in Washington this year, the heat is on.

Eastland Justice Will Introduce Gerald Mann

Justice Clyde D. Grissom, native Texan, lawyer and soldier in the first world war, will introduce Gerald C. Mann when he officially opens his campaign for the United States senate Saturday night in Sulphur Springs. Justice Grissom, who is now serving his first term as associate justice of the 11th supreme judicial district at Eastland, was born in Alford, Wise county, Feb. 24, 1896. Like Mann, he attended and received his BA degree from a Texas school, going to TCU before entering the law school at the University of Texas. He is now vice president of the TCU Ex-Students association.

After being discharged from the army in 1918, Justice Grissom started law practice in Fort Worth, but in 1919 returned to Eastland to form a partnership with the late Judge H. C. McConnell. His political career began when he was elected county attorney of Haskell county in 1922, and was interrupted in 1926 when he again entered private practice in Wichita Falls.

In 1927 he was appointed by then Governor Dan Moody as district attorney of the 39th judicial district, an office he held until 1931. At this time, he became first assistant of Attorney General James V. Allred.

The next step in Justice Grissom's career was his election as district judge for an unexpired term in 1932 and his re-election for a full term in 1934. He was appointed in 1935 to the court of civil appeals at Eastland and elected to his present office in 1938.

Grissom's musical talents were discovered by Queen Margherita of Italy, who financed his musical education.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Died Recent Pictured On Yugoslav Semi-Postal

PRINCE PAUL of Yugoslavia, who died in Greece when Yugoslav forces fled the Axis and overthrew his regime, entered princely's gallery in 1936 on the Red Cross semi-postal above. Prince Paul was designated regent in the will of King Alexander, assassinated in Marseille, France, in 1934.

Before the marriage of King Alexander and Princess Marie of Rumania, Paul was mentioned as a possible successor to the throne now occupied by the boy-king, Peter II.

Training, education and family ties link Prince Paul more closely to Britain than to Italy and Germany. Princess Marina, Duchess of Kent, is his sister-in-law. He was educated at Oxford. In recent years, however, Paul has shown pro-Axis leanings, visited Rome to confer with Mussolini, talked to Hitler in 1939.

Prince Paul saw service in the Balkan Wars and in the World War. His wife is Princess Olga of Greece.

Red Cross Sends Millions in Aid to War Victims

Prize Dairy Heifer Bought by Club Boy

Earl Trout of the Morton Valley 4-H club, has recently purchased a dairy heifer from Joe Shelton's herd at Brownwood, Texas, according to John A.

Wright, assistant county agent. Wright says the heifer has very good breeding as her sire is Progress King Joy Owl, who is a superior sire and a tested sire, with 10 daughters that have made records averaging 60-51 pounds of butterfat and 11,394 pounds of milk. He is the youngest bull in the state of Texas and one of the youngest three in the United States to win the coveted title.

The heifer dam is Ruby Camp Cow, who on a 305 day test, produced 4275 pounds of milk that tested 3.12 per cent of fat. She produced 11,800 lbs. of butterfat.

Earl bought the heifer for his 4-H club demonstration but plans to keep her as a start in building a herd of his own.

SERIAL STORY

LOVE POWER

BY OREN ARNOLD

COPYRIGHT, 1941, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Carolyn and Robert agree that the X-999 must remain a secret and the remaining portion safeguarded against danger. Lean Sormi comes to Robert's office. Carolyn overhears her impassioned plea to Robert to seize the power that is theirs. "Together we can be the man and the woman of the ages."

SAFETY IN THE WEST

CHAPTER IX

It was obvious to Carolyn that Lean Sormi was irrational about the discovery in the Schoenfeld laboratory, and victimized by her own emotions.

At the end of Lean's melodramatic speech to Bob, Carolyn had wanted to interrupt. But a latent creeping fear of the woman with the foreign name had somehow become intensified in that quarter-hour. It was a senseless fear, she told herself. Lean probably was just wrought up over everything.

But no, no, she wasn't either. She spoke too earnestly, too impressively; plainly she had been thinking all this out. Plainest of all now was the fact that Lean loved Dr. Robert Hale.

"She's crazy about him!" Carolyn half-whispered to herself.

A flash of practical reasoning told her instantly to quit this strange new secretarial job and go back to her old position in the bank or find a new routine somewhere with good, solid Ken Palmer. Ken, the kindly plodder who loved her sincerely, but who had no more color than the bookkeeper he was.

She knew in the same instant that she would never do that now. If all the X-999 in Bob's laboratory was about to blow up in her face she'd still stick to this new job, even though she couldn't have said why. Here was too much potential; a lot had already happened, and every hour gave promise of a great deal more. It was like being in a mystery play.

Intuition rather than practicality also prevented her from revealing her presence to Lean Sormi.

She heard Lean's plea; heard Bob take a courteous, kindly, but somewhat superficial reaction to it, giving Lean a very little to the too. Lean worked herself into tears and so fled rather abruptly. Bob came immediately to Carolyn's office. Carolyn felt herself blush guiltily, even though she had no actual guilt. To cover her confusion, she feigned deep interest in her shorthand notes, pencil and pad in hand.

"That was Lean Sormi," he said, unnecessarily. "Did you hear her?"

"Oh, Why—yes." She couldn't lie about it! "She sounded rather distressed, Bob. Naturally so, of course. At least, I thought I heard her voice indicate that."

"She will be all right. She is a brilliant woman. Girl. She is only 29. I mean, well, that's a woman, isn't it?" He smiled a bit. "Exactly when does a girl become a woman, come to think of it?"

"I wouldn't take that up today if I were you. We still have a moving job on hand."

"That's very true. And you were saying you had an idea."

"My idea was about moving the X-999. It seems to me that the only safe place to store is away out on the plains or mountains. You said you would need electric power to run the experimental laboratory. I mean, while you and your factory helpers adapt the stuff to—factory engines, and trains, and automobiles, and whatever. Isn't that so?"

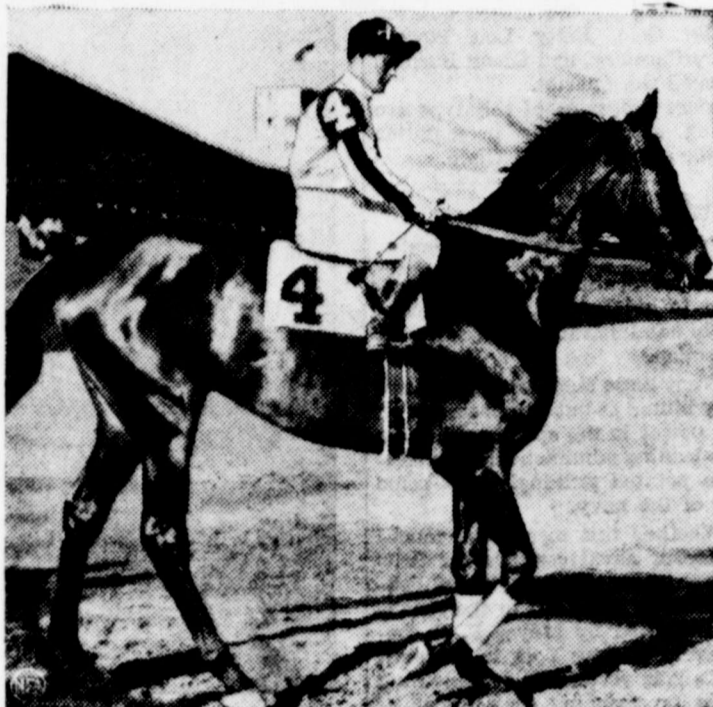

"Yes."

"Bob, aren't there electric power lines from dams and things on rivers? I saw in the movies, or reel somewhere—"

"I see what you mean!"

"Good! There's, well, Boulder

Drifts Into Derby Debate

sylvania when I was 19. I really can ride, Carolyn. Could, I mean. When I had time. In the last year or two—"

He ended a bit wistfully, she thought. But she studied him anew. That rearing accounted for a lot of his physical appearance and his mannerisms. A boy from the west!

"Of course, every conceivable care must be exercised in moving it and, of course, I shall do it myself." He was back at work again. "There must be no mistake this time. First thing, however, is for me—"

HE talked for nearly an hour more, talked and dictated notes, and planned with Carolyn's help. Eagerly, almost hungrily, he seemed to confide in his secretary here, to seek her counsel and advice, her co-operation. She was touched by that; no man could have paid her higher tribute; at least, no employer could have.

When it was done and he had returned to his own office desk and she was making her typewriter sing its happy staccato again, she heard the outer door open for the second time this morning. But it was a man's voice this time and she recognized it for one of the three elderly watchmen who made constant night-and-day patrol of the Schoenfeld laboratory buildings, punching

Americans Were Slow To Appreciate Zion

ALTHOUGH Mormon colonists discovered the wonders of Zion canyon in southwestern Utah in 1838, named it for their celestial city, the scenic beauties of Zion were not "discovered" by American tourists until President Harding visited the national park in 1923. Since that time, however, Zion has been one of the most popular of the 26 U. S. national parks.

The Great White Throne, an "inaccessible island in the air," 2475 feet above the river which flows through the canyon, forms the design of the U. S. 8-cent stamp above, of the National Parks series. The Throne is only one of numerous magnificent rock formations which flank Zion's gorge.

Zion was explored by Major John Wesley Powell in 1870, created at National Monument in 1909. In 1919 its area was increased to 120 square miles, made a National Park.

Irish Fire On Nazi Raiders

It was the second time in a week that Dublin's guns had fired on a plane over the city.

both advocating stronger measures to aid Britain, foreshadowed early administration moves in this direction.

What these steps would be were only hinted at but emphasis put on sea power in the speeches of these two leading administration spokesmen pointed strikingly at some use of the navy.

Whether this meant the much-talked-of naval convoys for British merchant ships; the naval "patrol" 1,000 miles out in the Atlantic indicated by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York in a speech in Canada yesterday; or something more far-reaching than either of these was a subject of wide speculation in the capital tonight.

"Freedom of the Seas"

In some quarters, it was thought that Knox might be advocating a re-assertion of American rights to "freedom of the seas"—the right of American merchant ships to take supplies anywhere and protect them with whatever force was necessary.

This would involve a change in the neutrality act which prohibits American ships from taking any goods to a nation proclaimed by the president to be at war.

One purpose of the two speeches seemed clear—to arouse the American people to the gravity of the international situation as seen by the administration.

President Roosevelt said last week the people were not fully aware of the dangers to this country.

The reaction of the country and congress to the strong pronouncement of the secretaries of state and the navy was counted an important factor in determining the next administration moves.

Warning that "time is pressing" and "the struggle will continue for a long time," Hull declared his absolute faith in the ultimate triumph of freedom, justice and security.

He cautioned Americans at the same time against becoming too easily discouraged by news that is "temporarily unfavorable" and said this country owes its place in history to the fact that "the people become more resolute and determined as danger and difficulty increase."

15,000 Expected To Hear Mann Launch Campaign

SULPHUR SPRINGS, April 25 (AP)—The Texas electorate pointed to this city today as Sulphur Springs avowed the return of a native son who has again chosen home soil to launch another chapter in his illustrious career.

Gerald C. Mann, now attorney general of Texas, who grew to manhood in Hopkins county, opens his bid here Saturday night for the vacancy in the United States senate caused by the death of Senator Morris Sheppard. Fifteen thousand people are expected to attend.

On the courthouse square where years ago Senator Sheppard first appealed for the political support that carried him into congress and through a brilliant tenure of public service, Attorney General Mann will address an audience gathered from all sections of the state, as he starts his campaign for the late senator's vacated post at Washington.

Gerald Mann will get a double welcome when he steps on the platform in his home town—a double welcome from Sulphur Springs' twin officials, County Judge Bill Kitts and Mayor Zeke Kitts, twin brothers.

At 8:30 p. m. the program will be broadcast over the Texas Quality network, over KRLD at Dallas and over stations at Texarkana, Paris and Denison. At that time, Judge Clyde D. Grassom of the eleventh court of civil appeals in Eastland, will introduce Gerald Mann, whose entire speech will be broadcast.

Twenty high school bands have been invited to participate in concerts in the public square from 3 p. m. on. Two bands from Gilmer have already accepted as have bands from Tyler, Denton, Mt. Vernon, Cooper and Sulphur Springs. Several others are expected to be on hand.
