Major J. D. O'Leary, recruiting chief of the Dallas district, announces that a U. S. marine recruiting officer will be stationed at the Cisco post office Wednesday and Thursday, July 23 and 24, to accept applications for enlistment in the marines.

While here the recruiting officer will accept an unlimited number of applications for enlistment, and men who pass the local examinations will be furnished free transportation to Dallas, where final examinations are given and actual enlistment takes place. From Dallas, men enlisted will be transferred to the marine corps base in San Diego, Calif., where they will receive their initial training. Many choices are available to men who enlist now, including aviation, tank units, parachute troops, infantry, artillery, sea duty aboard battleships, cruisers, aircraft carriers and many schools for actual shop training.

SUPPORT THE USO

(Fort Stockton Pioneer) American citizens are being faced with many requests for their financial and moral support, but none is of greater importance than the current drive of the United Service Organizations for funds to provide proper recreational facilities for men in the armed services of their country.

A generous contribution this week to the USO drive in Pecos county, or wherever you may be, will constitute a definite part in the building of a better army and navy, and in bringing the personnel of those services through the present hectic times without too great a departure from ideals of morality and good citizenship.

The USO, comprising six of the recognized social agencies, will handle the personnel and direct the programs in the government-built centers in the vicinity of training camps, and it is for funds to staff and operate these centers that the current drive for funds is being made.

There needs to be a clean, decent and inviting place where the soldier, or sailor, can go when off duty, to write a letter home, enjoy music or reading, or get sight of a decent woman. The army and navy recognize the importance of high moral standards among men in the service, and know that good morals and proper morale are very closely linked; but under our American plan of government, which we are trying hard to maintain and defend, government does not force morality on people, for it does not invade the private rights of the individual. Man's religion and beliefs are left to other agencies in free America, and it becomes the responsibilities of other agencies to provide proper moral and spiritual guidance. The USO seeks to meet that need.

Frankly, the plan of the USO centers is to compete with saloons, dives and houses of prostitution, all of which are ready and willing to welcome the soldier and sailor and their money. The competition is between good and evil; and USO believes that the good can be made appealing and attractive enough to keep many young men on the right plane of living when off the military reservation.

To that end, the USO is making this urgent appeal for funds. Many counties have already oversubscribed their budgets by wide margins. Pecos county certainly can do no less.

FIRE MARSHAL COTTON LOANS WANTS ALLEYS DUE JULY 31 - CLEANED UP J. L. THORNTON

O. Gustafson, Cisco fire marshal, herewith serves notice that alleys in both the business and residential sections must be cleared of trash and rubbish of all kinds. In some sections the condition of the alleys is said to be very bad, creating fire hazards that might easily prove disastrous to property there, as well as inviting increase in insurance rates throughout the city.

Within a few days the fire marshal will begin another inspection trip and those failing to take cognizance of this notice will automatically be served with official complaints, Mr. Gustafson said.

RAPE FIENDS LODGED JAIL AT ABILENE

ABILENE, July 16.—Charged with forcibly raping a 17-year-old Abilene girl, Ed Wolfe, lightweight boxing champion of the 45th division, was remanded to jail without bond Tuesday.

Fred Meeks, member of headquarters detachment, first battalion, 180th infantry, was allowed bond of $10,000 on a charge of assault with intent to rape a 16-year-old Abilene girl, and Alfred McLeure, who with Wolfe was a member of Company C, 180th infantry, was allowed bond of $5,000 on a charge he was an accomplice of the other two.

The alleged assaults were reported to Abilene police late Sunday night, and the trio arrested at Camp Barkeley by military police late Monday afternoon.

The older girl is receiving treatment for a broken jaw, cuts and bruises. Attending physicians said her condition was "fair." Wolfe, part Chickasaw Indian, gave his age as 18 and Courtney, Okla., as his home. McClure, 19, is part Choctaw Indian from McAlester, Okla., and Meeks, 21, is from Muskogee, Okla.

The Japanese cabinet resigned today, an action hinting at possible dramatic developments in the Far East, as the Russian forces appeared to have launched furious, wide-scale counteractions against the Germans.

The significance of the Tokyo government's resignation is not clear, as it seems it might have been brought about from a cabinet-army split on whether to move against Indo-China, Siberia, or both.

Reports of fighting on the Russo-German front indicate extremely heavy battles in sectors west of Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev.

LIONS HEAR SUPT. BAUM OF HATCHERY

Lion Baum of the Cisco fish hatchery told Lions at the luncheon today many interesting things about fish and their spawning habits. He also told of their ways of finding food, their rapid growth and of the necessity for a pool to have food for fish when so placed.

Food for fish, he stated, undergoes a sort of evolution. First, the minute particles of matter, which are neither animal nor vegetable, grow in the water. These particles are followed by one-cell vegetable forms of growth, which finally constitutes the food for fish.

An abundance of food will give rise to phenomenal rapidity of growth, often developing a 10-inch bass in a few months' time. If there is little food and spawning room, fish will devour each other.

A report was given by Lion R. W. McCauley regarding a visit of Lions to the bedside of Lion Charles Sandler, who is at Graham sanitarium following an operation. This visit was officially recognized as attendance at the club meeting by Lion Sandler.

Lion McCauley was appointed temporary tailwaiter and assessed the customary fine against Lion Norman Huston and others.

BAIRD DEATH STORY WAS PURE FICTION

A report was widely circulated in Cisco early this morning that Sheriff Clarence Nordyke and one or two other peace officers at Baird had been killed in a running fight with criminals.

The sheriff's office at Baird later informed the Cisco Daily Press that there was no base for the story whatsoever as far as Baird was concerned. However, two men were arrested at Coleman at an early hour this morning while attempting to dynamite the safe in a Coleman grocery store. Several shots were fired.

HOME-COMING AT SALT TANK SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY PLAN OF COMMITTEE FOR JULY 26-27

T. A. Sherrill, an employee of the Humble company, is one of the sponsors arranging for the second annual home-coming of the old-timers who lived in the southern part of Eastland county when the Salt Tank school was a factor in the educational circles of this county. Especially is this committee anxious to have former pupils of the school present at the home-coming this year, but the public generally is invited. Other members of the committee are F. M. Shook, Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Gladys Southerland of Cama. Others who have lived in this area, and may have attended the Salt Tank school, are scattered over the state—some living in other states.

The home-coming this year will be held Saturday night and Sunday, July 26 and all day Sunday, July 27. Mr. Sherrill could mention only a few of the former pupils of the school, but did recall Mrs. Sallie Robert Earp, living near Rising Star; Sam Hitt, Nimrod; Mrs. Dan McBeth, of near Rising Star. But there are many others who will be present and live over again the incidents and scenes of 30 or 40 years ago.

The sponsors are arranging a program of entertainment that will be appreciated. Music and speakers will be features of the program. W. P. Coldwell, retired postal employe, was a teacher in this school in the early days and will doubtless be among the interested attendants.

This school is said to have flourished in the early 1880's. Probably the school was established in 1883 or 1884.

THE WORTHWHILE FORDS

With the recent opening of a new school unit for apprentice training in the aircraft industry, Henry Ford now has educational facilities at the Rouge plant to accommodate 10,000 student mechanics.

This extensive school system, comparable in size to a large university, is expected to go a long way toward solving the Ford Motor company's need for skilled manpower in filling extensive national defense orders.

Addition of the aircraft apprentice school is the latest step in this industrial education system. From a trade school with one instructor and a half dozen youthful students 25 years ago, the system has expanded to become the largest of its kind in the world.

The aircraft division occupies the front portion of the new $23,000,000 airplane engine plant in which Ford will produce 18-cylinder Pratt & Whitney airplane engines for the U. S. army.

Within the last year Rouge plant floor space devoted exclusively to classrooms, laboratories and school shops has been increased from three to five acres. Approximately 100 new instructors have been added during the year, increasing the faculty to 384.

Classes being organized in the aircraft school include such practical training as machine shop, assembly, disassembly, inspection and testing of the Pratt & Whitney engine," said F. E. Searle, head of Ford schools in the plant.

"Also on the list of more important subjects are airplane engine mechanics, drawing, electricity, mathematics and metallurgy. Operation and interpretation of magnetic inspection of metals will be a highspot in the metallurgical work. All the vital metal parts in the Pratt & Whitney engine are checked by magnetic inspection for possible imperfections."

The Ford Aircraft School, with capacity for 3,000 apprentice students, is the second largest unit in the Ford industrial school system. Largest is the apprentice school, in which youths beyond high school age and working as Ford employes receive special training in some trade. It has an enrollment of 4,000.

Oldest of the units is the Henry Ford Trade School, founded in 1916. The trade school now enrolls 1,800 boys of high school age.

One of the newer educational projects within the immense Rouge plant is U. S. Navy Service School. This school gives 90 days of special mechanical instruction a year to 4,500 selected naval recruits, accommodating about 1,200 at a time.

"The new aircraft school expands further the broad technical education program for boys at the Rouge by entering a new industrial field, but even further expansion is planned," Mr. Searle commented.

"As the defense program gathers speed, the demand for skilled help increases. Our school directors already are considering more school facilities. Industries all over the nation are asking us for trained men. Of course, we can't hope to meet all such requests, but we are lending a hand wherever schools similar to the Ford system are being organized."

EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

WPA Dollars Now Rolling Out for Defense
As Congress Cuts Corners on Relief Spending

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—WPA will be folding up its portable telephone booths and going completely out of business in some 500 of the 2097 counties and independent municipalities of the United States and its territories, starting immediately.

Whether this marks the beginning of the end of the era of relief is a question, but it goes without saying that the exodus will be accompanied by loud wails from the vicinity of the 500 counties affected. There just isn't any alternative, however. Congress has sliced WPA appropriations from the $1350 million it enjoyed during the past 12 months to a mere $875 million for the next 12 months. That's a 35 per cent cut in money. It will be met by a 40 per cent cut in WPA rolls, reducing the number from an average of 1,704,000 for the past year to a new 1,000,000 for the next.

There is always the possibility that if the shouting and the tumult beat too much of a Gene Krupa on the Washington eardrum that congressmen will weaken, along about frost time, and pass a miracle deficiency appropriation which will put the unemployed back on the public payroll. As of now, however, there is a sincere effort to get the WPA rolls down to a million men and women.

In making reductions, preference will be given to defense projects. If, in any given county, there are projects to build an airport and a school, the chances are that the airport will be built and the school will wait. Non-military sewers, roads and playgrounds which are half-way done will be completed where possible, but don't be surprised if some of them are stopped right at the next corner and left for the communities to finish.

There will be some transferring of workers from non-defense projects to defense projects, naturally. In this connection, WPA will do considerable expanding in its vocational training program. Regulations now permit WPA to put its men in industrial plants to get the training for specific jobs. WPA pays their wages while they're learning, and the effort will be made to push WPA eligibles through these courses and get them onto private payrolls.

The so-called cultural WPA program will be kept to the extent possible. About 27 per cent of the people on WPA have been on community service work and on art, writing and music projects. At least a fourth of these will have to go, but WPA leaders say it is for pick and shovel men, will cling to what it considers the more worthwhile artistic endeavors.

There are seven million more workers now than there were in 1929 and increasing industrial efficiency, though it has raised the Federal Reserve Board's index clear up to 143, hasn't been able to find jobs for seven million more workers. As of May 1, there were 413,000 unemployed workers certified for WPA jobs for which there was no money to pay them, and a total of 1,264,000 eligible for WPA relief of any kind which they also couldn't get.

ENGLISH EDUCATION
(Manchester Guardian)

Education is regarded as a dull subject, but it is certainly not dull when Professor Tawney talks about it. On Saturday he was asked to give an account of British education to the Masaryk Society in Manchester, a body at whose meeting liberal-minded persons from different countries and opportunities for discussion. Mr. Tawney began by saying that he did not know how many of his audience were British and how many foreigners, but he might assume that they were all equally ignorant of the subject. He proceeded to enlighten them in an account full of wit and wisdom. He was illuminating on the dangers of the clever fool and the dangers of the learned fool, students who surrender their common sense to the fascination of logic and follow a system of dialectic wherever it may lead them. One of the criticisms that he made on our present system has a special importance at this moment. He pointed out that by the inequalities of our education we limit our choice of leaders to a dangerous small field. Of the consequences we are painfully conscious today.

MOVIE GIVERS

(Denton Record-Chronicle)
Edward G. Robinson, Hungarian-born moving picture star, presented the United Service Organizations a check for $100,000 as a "small down payment on the privilege of being an American." As an emigrant lad who had few of the advantages of the average American boy, he has plenty of reasons to appreciate what this country has done for him. His gift should cause other Americans to appreciate and to express in a tangible fashion, their appreciation for the advantages they enjoy in this country.

For three days the morning Valley news broadcast (originating in Berlin) was similar, except that on Monday the Russians lost 40,000, Tuesday it was 140,000 and Wednesday 400,000. Twice as many tanks, planes and guns as Russia ever had have been captured by the Nazis.

Do You Remember?

(Cisco Daily News File, November, 1927)

Edward E. Kean is 70 years old today. Mr. Kean, who is one of Cisco's most esteemed citizens, was born November 20, 1857, in Louisa, Va. He came here in November, 1888, and has lived in Cisco continuously with the exception of one year, when he returned to Virginia just to be sure whether Texas was as good a place to live as his native heath.

"My wife and I had a very pleasant visit at Sedwick last night," said W. B. Starr Saturday. "We had to go to Moran and took the occasion to accept a standing invitation from John Pritchard to visit him at his home. The house is surrounded by 36 oil wells on his place. Unlike most folks who get rich off of oil, he has refused to move to the city, but instead has brought the conveniences of the city to his home. His home is wonderfully arranged and he knows how to entertain company most hospitably."

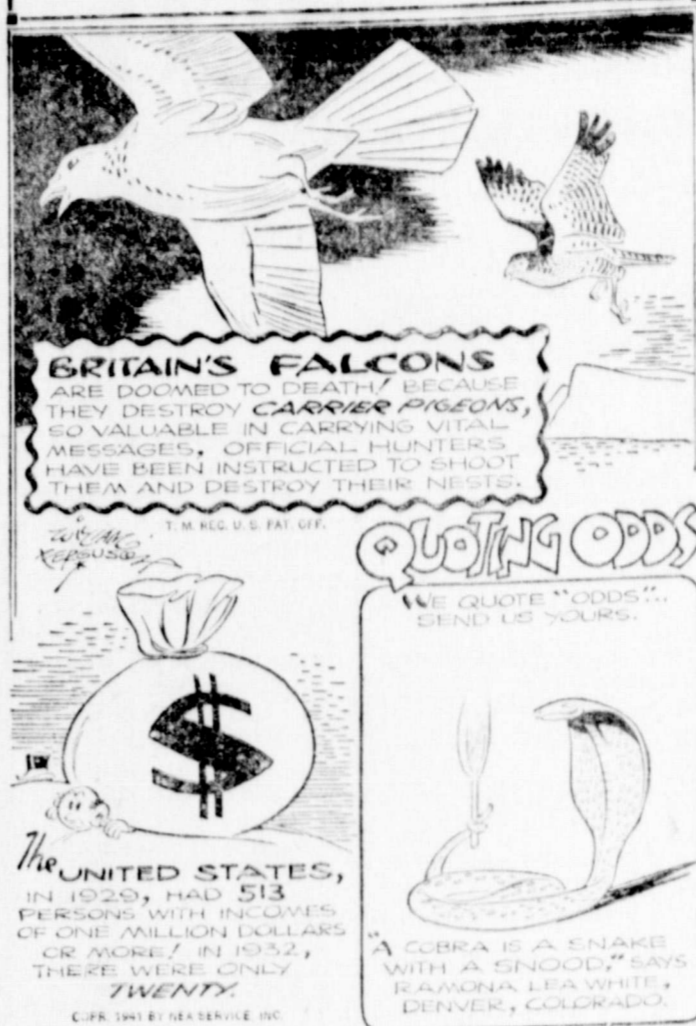

"Many Cisco merchants continue to violate the city ordinance which prohibits the sweeping of their sidewalks into the street," declared Dr. J. H. Brice, city health officer, Saturday. "It is strictly against the law to sweep dirt and refuse into the street, and Main street merchants should take warning that unless they discontinue this practice complaints will be filed."

"I have the honor and pleasure as well as the trouble and sacrifice to build another church and will thank you to send your paper to me here," writes A. J. Olson, Cisco contractor from Tulsa. "The church I built at Post was a grand success. It cost about $24,000 and it is 55 by 100 feet, three stories and well finished. It has some beautiful windows, oak floors, 10 outside doors, about 110 windows. I saved them at least $15,000. This is a per cent job, so I have another chance to prove that buildings can be built honestly on a per cent basis. Hoping that old Cisco keeps on coming and wishing you and yours much good luck. I am, yours sincerely, A. J. OLSON."

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hittson have just returned from an automobile trip visit with their son, Wiley Hittson, at Des Moines, N. M., where the son is operating a ranch. They found him practically well of asthma from which he was suffering when he left here about nine months ago, and prospering financially as well, they said. "Wiley now owns or leases 2,000 acres of excellent pasture land," said Mr. Hittson. "He is gradually stocking it with beef cattle and during the last year, in spite of something of a drought, was able to make a little money and buy some more land. On the way home I tried to locate some cattle to buy at a fair price and ship back to him, but the market is now so high I determined to wait awhile. The Panhandle section of Texas certainly looks good this year. They have raised enormous maize crops and are using it to feed cattle and hogs, with the result that thousands of head of livestock are going to market from that section every day.

W. D. Brecheen and Albert Cooper of Cisco are back from Mason county where they spent the last several days with a group of Abilene men hunting deer. Mr. Brecheen brought back with him one large buck, while Cooper returned with two. The hunt was held on a ranch below Mason, where each man of the party was required to pay $7.50 a day for the hunting privilege. However, only one party at a time was allowed in the hunting grounds, and when the Ciscoans left they saw two or three other parties camping at the gate, waiting to enter.

"When we entered the pasture, each one of us was given a red shirt and a red band to go around our hats, so there would be no mistaking each other for deer while in the brush," Mr. Brecheen said. "We were then started out, each man in a certain direction and told to keep in that direction all the time so each one would know about where the other was at all times, a further precaution against accidents. Deer were fairly plentiful, with does and fawns as thick as jackrabbits, although the bucks were rather shy. Game warden were about as thick as the deer, and we were searched four times to make sure we had not violated the game laws in any way."

Those who attended the "Rotary Ann Night" program Thursday night arranged by wives of members of the Cisco Rotary club, are still chuckling over the humor brought out in the talks of the "Anns" who impersonated members of the club. With Mrs. George P. Fee impersonating A. E. O'Flaherty as president; Mrs. Don O'Grails impersonating her husband delivered a talk on "How to behave yourself at a football game," bringing out many points of value, particularly if one is lucky enough to get the bottle.

Mrs. W. W. Wallace, impersonating "Rotarian Bill" Wallace, talking on sound investments in wildcat oil wells, while Mrs. E. L. Graham, impersonating Frank Harrell, suggested that folks are paying too much attention to football and too little to roller skating. Mrs. Paul Woods then impersonated Coach Monroe Sweeney in telling how, at the instance of his best girl friend, he learned to skate at Mrs. Frank Harrell's skating rink. The "Gathering of the Nuts" play directed by Mrs. J. E. T. Peters, caused much merriment, while reading by Miss Jourdain Armstrong, solos by B. C. Boney, and club singing led by Tom Reid rounded out the program. Miss Velma Ruth Walters was accompanist.

A large number of friends attended the funeral services held here Friday afternoon for Joe Whitesides, Cisco pioneer and former sheriff of Eastland county. Rev. Randolph Clark, lifelong friend, conducted the funeral services, and traced the history of the man from his birth in Erath county 66 years ago until death claimed him Thursday night. Mr. Whitesides was for some years a peace officer at Cisco, then offered for sheriff of Eastland county and was elected, serving one term. The state then secured him as a guard on the western frontier, where he served many years. Six years ago he returned to Cisco to look after his property interests and was stricken with paralysis at the home of his sister, Mrs. M. E. Huscomb. He never recovered. Old friends and relatives from Stephenville, Eastland and other points besides Cisco were here for the funeral services.

Mrs. Lloyd Winston entertained the Troy Bridge club Thursday afternoon at her home on West Ninth street. Autumn flowers were placed artistically in the rooms. In the bridge Mrs. Aaron Robinson won high prize. Mrs. Dick Lauderdale the consolation for the club, and Mrs. Jack Cabaness won the high guest prize.

An Eastland paper, printed Thursday before the Cisco-Eastland game of Friday (27-0 in favor Cisco), said: "The Lobos are greatly overrated. They no longer have the Couches, Alabrooks and Wilsons of by-gone days. They have been winning their games this season chiefly on the strength of the reputation of other years. Their opponents went

FIGHT FOR OLD AGE PENSIONS MAIN EFFORT

AUSTIN, July 16--Bigger and better old age pensions probably will be listed as the chief accomplishment of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel.

When he goes to Washington as junior U. S. senator, O'Daniel has promised to work for greater federal participation in the Texas pension program, now financed fifty-fifty by the state and federal government.

O'Daniel first went into office on a plea for more social security money, set against a background of hillbilly music. The Texas legislature, defeating the governor's efforts to finance the program with a transaction tax, passed a 20,000,000 omnibus tax bill that will provide about $42,000,000 a year for social security when it is added to existing revenues.

When "Pappy" came into office in January, 1939, the average monthly payment to 114,383 old age pensioners was $13.86. This month, the payment will average $18.54 for 144,354 recipients. The full force of the new tax bill will not be felt until fall, when it is estimated that money will be available for paying 170,000 an average of $20.

Before the legislature made money available, pensions sunk to an average of only $8.46 in October, 1939, and at no time during O'Daniel's administration have they approached the full $30 a month which he originally promised.

O'Daniel himself listed the increase in social security funds as the No. 1 accomplishment of his administration. Other achievements which he mentioned in his opening speech in the senate race were as follows:

Other Achievements 2. A constitutional amendment, which if adopted by the people would force the state government to operate on a cash-only basis after 1944. O'Daniel endorsed this amendment although he campaigned vigorously to have the legislature pass a $26,820,000-a-year deficit-spending appropriation for social security.

3. Five million dollars vetoed from appropriations during his first term. (Since this claim was made, O'Daniel signed without any vetoes, appropriations totaling almost $30,000,000 more than for the current biennium.)

4. Increased truck load limit. O'Daniel advocated a 14,000-pound net load limit, but signed a bill for a 36,000-pound gross load maximum.

5. Additional space at eleemosynary institutions to accommodate insane persons now in jails. (About $2,000,000 of the increased appropriations approved by O'Daniel was for this purpose.)

6. Industrialization of the state, with a heavy expenditure for national defense projects in Texas.

7. A merit system for employment in some state departments, particularly those that also dispense federal funds.

8. A bill to punish as a felon any person guilty of violence in labor disputes.

9. "Chasing enough professional politicians out of Texas... so that many state departments now operate on a basis of real service to the public."

Politicians Out

In games between major league and service teams, officers steal thunder of politicians by throwing first ball. Gen. Clifford Powell does honors at Fort Dix, N. J., where Phillies shut out 4th Division outfit, 15-0.

operate on a basis of real service to the public. Get Little Support Much of the O'Daniel program found little or no support in the legislature. In this class were bills to abolish the death penalty, to do away with the state poll tax, and to return prohibition to all territory within 10 miles of any defense project or factory working on defense orders.

His difficulties with the senate over confirmation of appointees frequently made headlines, and O'Daniel had more appointees rejected than any modern Texas governor. This year he named five persons (including at least four prohibitionists) for a single membership on the liquor control board before one was approved.

History probably will record that "Pappy" was the man who rode into the governorship on a wave of dissatisfaction over non-payment of social security obligations. At least one showboat still operates on the Mississippi.

1 DEFENSE $ PAYS FOR 16 CARTRIDGES

AUSTIN, July 16.—While the eyes of America are focused on the tense situation in Europe, Texas is bending every effort to aid in national defense. Daily this state becomes of greater importance to the whole national defense program.

Bombers, of the type most needed by England, are being built at Dallas and Fort Worth. Ammunition will soon be turned out in large volume by the plant now under construction at Texarkana; other articles of vital importance are being turned out daily by Texas industries. Large numbers of ships will soon be constructed in the new yards at Orange and Houston. American soldiers are being trained in modern warfare at Brownwood, Abilene, Mineral Wells, Palacios, San Antonio, El Paso and other cities. American air corps pilots are being taught flying, bombing and aerial warfare at Randolph Field, the huge naval air base at Corpus Christi, Victoria, Cuero, Brady, Crosscane and Stamford. Soon new air schools will be completed at Lubbock, Midland, Coleman, Grayson county, and several other points in our state. Mechanics to service American planes will be trained in large numbers at Wichita Falls within the very near future.

Citizens of Texas are thinking in terms of Defense Bonds and Savings Stamps. They are anxious to help. They know that the Canadian people were asked recently to subscribe $600,000,000 to put over Canada's Victory loan and that these friends on our north went over the top by buying $719,958,850 of these securities.

The secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., said: "Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps give us all a way to take a direct part in building the defense of our country—an American way to find the billions needed for national defense."

"The United States is today, as it has always been, the best investment in the world. This is an opportunity for each citizen to buy a share in America."
