(From Files of the Cisco Daily News, November, 1925)

M. H. Spoon, keeper of the grounds and zoo at Lake Cisco, was severely gored late Friday afternoon by the big buck of the zoo when he and a young man went to feed the deer. The buck made a dash at his keeper and plucked one of his antlers in Spoon's left thigh, penetrating the flesh nearly two inches. As soon as attacked Mr. Spoon called to the young man with him to grab the buck, but with the buck holding him they were not able to free themselves until some children ran to the dam for assistance, when J. H. Latson and another man arrived and tied the vicious animal to the fence. Mr. Spoon was brought to the city and his wound dressed, but he is not able to go back on the job as yet. R. W. Turner is looking after the animal until Spoon has recovered, but he says the buck is not pacified for Saturday morning he attempted to attack Mr. Turner at feeding time. Once before the buck attacked Turner and he had to use a club to fight him off. Turner, who weighs 240 pounds, says the buck is much harder to handle than the big bear. However, the latter came near putting Mr. Spoon out with a solar plexus some months ago.

Complimenting Mrs. J. B. Stanton of Temple, formerly Miss Lucile Brown of Cisco, Mrs. Fleet Shepard entertained with a bridge tea Friday afternoon at her attractive home on M. avenue. A profusion of yellow chrysanthemums decorated the home. On the arrival of the guests, they were greeted by the hostess, the hostess and Mrs. B. T. Riddle. They were then ushered to the dining room, where a dainty salad course, sandwiches, olives, candy and tea were served by Mesdames K. H. Pittard, J. H. Brice, Nick Miller, Homer McDonald, Bob Bettis and Misses Ester Hale and Helen Williamson. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to the game of bridge, with Mrs. J. H. Moyer making high score. Among those present were Mrs. J. B. Stanton of Temple, Mesdames D. G. Boyless, Alton Boria, A. C. Green, K. H. Pittard, Nick Miller, J. H. Brice, Homer McDonald, Bob Bettis, J. H. Moyer, Paul Woods, Mason, Charles Renaud, A. E. Wallig, Charley Trammell, W. W. Wallace, James Tichenor, E. C. Hitchcock, Gene Peoples, C. B. Williams, Burette Peterson, B. T. Riddle, Misses Helen Williamson, Irene White, Ester Hale.

George Kelly and M. C. Williamson and W. B. Statham and Prosper W. Campbell were the only starters in the golf tournament scheduled to begin at the Cisco Country club yesterday. The contest between Kelly and Williamson was gripping, these two golf lights being neck and neck at the completion of the 18th hole. However Kelly buckled up his belt made the 19th hole in 4 and won. Both men played a good game throughout. The Statham-Campbell duel was not so close, the latter winning in more or less easy fashion, though showing little form himself. Mr. Statham says it was too cold while the altitude or latitude seemed to bother Mr. Campbell, who frequently plays an excellent game.

The Moss-Gin company of Cisco has ginned to date 2,001 bales of this season's cotton. It is estimated that 500 bales of this cotton came to Cisco from without this trade territory, brought here on account of the higher cotton market prevailing. The example set by the Moss-Gin company in holding the cotton market at the highest prices, was undoubtedly the cause of a large part of this cotton being brought here, and is one that the Cisco business men might adopt with profit—offer extra inducements to farmers to make Cisco their trading point. This can be done in many ways. The gin at Ranney has handled 1,210 bales, and the Eastland gin turned 1,000 bales this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Warren, who were recently married in Asheville, N. C., are the guests of Mr. Warren's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Patterson. They have driven through from Asheville, visited at New Orleans, Shreveport and Dallas, and will continue on their trip to Alamogordo, N. M., where they will make their home.

Col. Max Elser arrived home yesterday from a week's visit in the San Angelo country. Mr. Elser says San Angelo is on a boom and that every hotel room in the city carries two beds. He likes the Angelo country and its people, but is always glad to get back to steady growing, conservative Cisco.

The golf tournament at the Country club is nearing an end, as all players have been eliminated excepting five or six, and these will be pitted against each other this week. George Kelly and W. W. Moore seem to be the favorites of those remaining, though Jack Kelley is said to be twirling a wicked driver and may be in the final play-off. Results to date including the games of yesterday are as follows: George Kelly eliminated Chapman Williamson at 19th hole; George Kelley eliminated Guy Dabney; Guy Dabney eliminated J. M. Williamson at 19th hole; P. W. Campbell eliminated W. B. Statham; Jack Kelley eliminated P. W. Campbell; Frank Minkwitz and C. A. Whitfield; W. W. Moore eliminated Lundy; O'Flaherty eliminated Drumwright.

AUSTIN, Nov. 24.—When Representative Alfred Petch, of Gillespie county, called at the governor's office this morning to deliver a petition signed by 55 members of the house, who ask her to call a special session of the legislature to investigate alleged graft in the state, Mrs. Ferguson refused to see him. Petch left the petition with Ghent Sanderson, private secretary, with the request that it be transmitted to her immediately. The petition asks that the governor reply before December 10. Frank Latham, head of the highway commission, who resigned from that body yesterday, arrived here this morning. He confirmed reports that he had been summoned to appear before the Travis county grand jury, which is investigating highway matters. He will probably go before the jurors today, both Mr. Campbell, who frequently plays an excellent game, who also resigned from the highway commission yesterday, arrived here from Abilene this morning. He had a conference with the governor. It was not learned if he will go before the grand jury.

YOU will probably know the answer if you are a regular Daily Press ad shopper. Because --- the chances are --- that you yourself served more than one superb meal last week at less expense just because you knew what to buy, where to buy it and how much to pay by reading the Food Ads in The Daily Press!

IT'S no exaggeration to say that you can actually serve better meals for less money the thrifty ad-shopping way. You can take advantage of the value specials in choice cuts--- you can buy the tenderer, more succulent cuts of meat, the more delicious garden-fresh vegetables! You can compare prices, too, all without stirring from your easy chair.

START the Daily Press ad-shopping habit today, and keep it up. READ FIRST--THEN BUY!

The Extra Wide Circulation in both Cisco and on the Rural Routes which has just been added by the Circulation Campaign still going on, and which will continue until practically every farmer in Cisco trade territory --- and beyond --- is a regular subscriber, is being felt by those merchants who are advertising regularly.

These merchants not only bring more business for their own stores through their advertising, but they are public benefactors in that they bring more people to Cisco by showing why people should shop in their town.

No town in the territory publishes better values than do Cisco Merchants. Therefore, when their ads showing these values are circulated all over the country, as they are now being done through this increased circulation, they bring people to Cisco who have perhaps gotten the habit of shopping elsewhere, simply because they had not been reading of values offered by Cisco merchants.

These advertisers are helping Cisco to prosper while helping their own business. Selfishly perhaps, they would rather other merchants would not come into the newspaper with their ads, but after all it is better if all Cisco merchants would be making this cooperative pull for more people to come to Cisco to trade. It is hard when a few merchants have to carry the load, yet they are reaping the reward now on their publicity. People naturally go there first.

Hundreds of new subscribers are being added in the country now. Here are the names of some late ones—the first eight being added yesterday from Moravia:

FEAR GROWING THAT MORALE OF ARMY LOW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Reports of poor morale in the army are reaching Washington. Some relate to inadequate provision for the leisure time activities of troops; others to the serious side of the business of soldiering.

The latter are infinitely more important. No quantity or quality of entertainment, recreation, hostesses, Salvation Army lassies and doughnuts will make men into soldiers if their hearts are not in it.
 Many reports indicate a widespread lack of conviction among selectees and guardsmen that they are training for real warfare. At best, high morale is difficult to infuse into nonprofessional soldiers in peacetime, especially when their role, even if war comes, is expected to be chiefly defensive. It is like trying to infuse morale into a football team that has no games scheduled.
 The draftees of World War I knew from the first that they were training to fight in Europe—and to fight a particularly bloody type of warfare. They had a constant incentive to learn all they could about fighting.
 Lack of confidence in their officers and lack of modern material are two other frequently reported sources of low morale. That officer personnel needs overhauling all down the line has long since been recognized by the general staff.

 The weeding out is already under way.
 The shortage of material is gradually being overcome, although priorities granted the British, and now the Russians, may delay the complete equipping of the American army.
 In general, complaints of low morale are more frequent among infantry units. Drudgery is the foot-soldier's lot, even today. The publicity given the plane-tank team has obscured the fact that the infantry is the backbone even of the German army.
 There is no hint of low morale in the air corps or the parachute troops. These are picked men, and their tasks are venturesome and exacting.
 Veteran soldiers regard harder and more interesting work as the best antidote for low morale.
 Leisure-time activities are not unimportant, however. In this field are many complaints that the army is doing a spotty job. As a result talk has sprung up in some quarters of turning the job within the camps back to private agencies, through the USO. Others think that the USO has already undertaken far more than it can do with the funds at its disposal, in operating rest and recreation units outside the camps. On the basis of experience during World War I, they think the army's taking over these activities within the camps was a step forward. But the army's program, in their opinion, suffers from lack of personnel and tight supervision.

WICHITA, Kan., August 21.—A warning that the price of Kansas crude oil must be hiked to insure future petroleum development in the state has been sounded by Conservation Director Theo A. Morgan.

"The present price of crude does not justify the amount of investment necessary for the fu-

Top price for Kansas crude is $1.25 a barrel.
