Singapore

Dallas News: If Cecil Brown is really speaking the kind of truth that proverbially "outs," then the consequences of the Japanese victories in Malaya are likely to be even more disturbing than had been anticipated. If the British "have failed to foresee, prepare for and meet the crucial moment," then the responsibility, partly at least, leads from Singapore back to London.

At the British capital, there is undoubtedly an enduring loyalty to Winston Churchill. This was demonstrated by the recent almost unanimous vote of confidence. But it is a confidence reposed primarily in the man himself—the dynamic leader who was a true prophet when no one else could see, and who has by his own industry and genius for leadership brought hope back to the British people after the dark days of Dunkerque. However, there is dissatisfaction with some of those with whom Churchill has surrounded himself, if recent expressions in the British press can be accepted as indicative of public feeling. So the American public should brace its own morale against the possible disquieting effect of a general shake-up among the powers-that-be in Great Britain.

Especially has there been growing dissatisfaction with the war production program, and the North African campaign. The disasters in the Far East are likely to touch off the explosion. Churchill, undoubtedly, will come through, but some others, including the newly appointed industrial czar, Lord Beaverbrook, may not. If the delay and confusion attending such a shake-up are inevitable, then our consolation must come primarily from the thought that it is through such procedure that democracy gradually girds itself for successful battle.

New Naval Chief

Star-Telegram: The small Dutch navy has shown amazing effectiveness against the powerful Japanese fleet in the Far Pacific, and the destruction of Japanese ships by the Dutch has been an important contribution to the Allied cause. The appointment of the Dutch commander, Vice Admiral Helfrich, as chief of Allied naval forces in the South Pacific promises more of this effectiveness in the future.

Admiral Helfrich, 55, is a native of Java, and has a better knowledge of the region than any British or American admiral. He has spent 29 of his 34 years of naval service in the Indies, and already in this war has earned the opportunity granted him by the Allied high command. The selection of Admiral Helfrich gives the doughty Dutch a share of leadership in the Far Pacific to which they are entitled, and it should have the further value of strengthening morale in the Dutch East Indies, which will be the major zone of operations after the fall of Singapore.

The enforced retirement of Admiral Hart because of ill health is regrettable after the valiant work of our navy in Macassar Straits, but his successor from the Dutch navy bears every promise of being the man to finish the job begun there.

We can't have frivolous women coming in with Lady Bountiful attitudes, or sob sisters who do nothing but feel sorry for the patients—Mrs. Edmund Butler, director of volunteers, St. Vincent's Hospital, New York.

None of the victories of the six could have been gained without this silent but very active partner—from the Battle of Poland to Pearl Harbor. His name is complacency. — Jim Farley, former postmaster general.

There is but one business in America today. That is winning the war. There will be but one business when the fighting is over. That will be to win the peace.— Joseph Daniels, First World War secretary of the Navy.

WE COULD LOSE.

It is time for Americans to wake up and face the realities of this war. The smug attitude that "we've won every war we ever fought, and of course we'll win this one," is dangerous. The plain fact is that, as matters stand right now, the Japanese are winning. And we shall soon have to face Hitler. The British naval defeat yesterday in the Straits of Dover is more evidence that we are up against a stiff proposition.

Since the Japs struck that first deadly blow at Pearl Harbor they have ranged far and wide and have incessantly kept up their assault over a tremendous area. They hold the Philippines, except for the fortress of Corregidor and the end of the Bataan Peninsula where General MacArthur and his brave little army keep up an almost hopeless fight. They have spread themselves like a pestilence over the Dutch East Indies and are steadily seizing beach-heads and burrowing into strong positions from which it will be very hard to dislodge them. We have sunk some enemy ships but are still on the defensive throughout that vital area, and the enemy has an immense advantage in everything but time.

The Atlantic war has been brought to our shores, and the steady sinking of American ships grows ever more alarming. We are building a great fleet and raising great armies, but both will take time, and "time is of the essence." But these obvious, material facts are not the main reason for alarm. Every other peril can be faced calmly and confidently if we Americans are unified, aroused and shaped into one vast team eager to fight and win this war. Our spirit rose mightily for a little while after Pearl Harbor, but has slumped again. Our war effort is dragging, including arms production. And unless we snap out of our lethargy and go all out for offensive war, we're due for an immense amount of grief.

In the meantime it is too much to hope that congress, too, will awaken to its responsibilities and buckle on its fighting armor and silence at their origin all silly proposals for non-defense raids on an already hard-hit national treasury?

Once we awaken the fighting spirit possessed by the brave soldiers of the first world war, we will get somewhere. And that spirit will never be awakened as long as congress and congressional committees take time out to discuss the employment of fan dancers to entertain our soldiers, pass pension bills for United States congressmen or waste good daylight saving time on pork barrel measures like the rivers and harbors bill.

Another thing: We need some one in Washington with the moral courage to tell defense job strikers where to get off—NOW!

Americans demand that these men be kept at work on the defense jobs so necessary to victory or else be placed in the army or navy, alongside patriotic men who are ready to risk their lives for $21 a month.

RISEING STAR

A canvass of the ministers of the city reveals that all church services in the city are to continue according to the old time. That is, the ministers have announced that each service will be one hour later by the clock, which actually keeps them operating on the same time as formerly.

The 4-H club of Rising Star Ward school will have a demonstration meeting at the home of Faye White on March 5. The subject of the demonstration will be frame gardens. Material on foods for health and vegetables to plant has been given to the girls by Miss Wheatley, assistant county home demonstration agent.

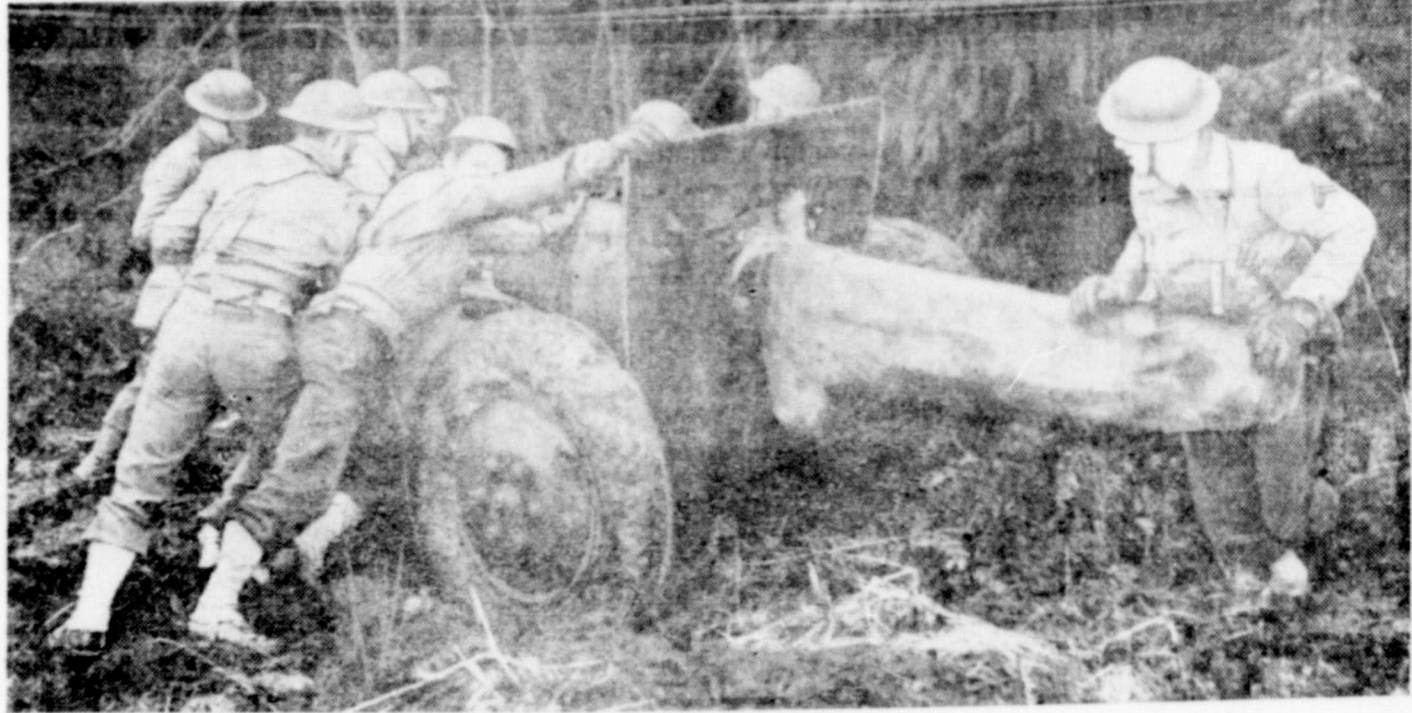

E. E. Scarlett, for the past four years manager of the Rising Star branch of the Community Public Service Co., was, the past week, notified of his promotion to a similar position with the Hamilton house, and with Mrs. Scarlett and their little daughter, left Monday for that place to take charge. SOCIETY and CLUBS

THE NOTEBOOK

Friday The Twentieth Century club will meet in the club rooms at 3 o'clock. The Ruth class of the First Baptist church will meet in the Ruth class room for an important business meeting.

Circle Two WSCS Meets at Church

Mrs. John Shertzer was program leader when circle two of the First Methodist WSCS met in the church Tuesday afternoon for regular meeting. Mrs. J. M. Witten, chairman of the circle, presided and routine matters were discussed and reports were given by Mrs. S. H. McCannell and Mrs. John Brown. Mrs. John Shertzer brought an interesting devotional and directed the scripture readings in which other members took parts. A round table discussion followed, after which the meeting was dismissed with prayer.

Mrs. Jimmy Allen Hostess to Circle

Circle four of the First Methodist women's society of Christian service met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Jimmy Allen on Fifth street. Mrs. J. Earl Crawford brought the devotional from the sixth chapter of Isaiah, following which she discussed briefly the prophets of the Old Testament. Mrs. M. A. Northup concluded the service with prayer. After the routine of business, the circle voted to give up serving refreshments at future meetings for the duration of war. Mrs. W. E. Ricks was appointed chairman of the program committee and announced that the study will be benediction night scenes of the Bible. The meeting was closed with a benediction, after which the hostess served light refreshments to Mrs. J. E. Crawford, Mrs. G. P. Rains, Mrs. Wm. Joyner, Mrs. C. E. Hickman, Mrs. W. W. Manning, Mrs. Mike Murphy, Mrs. Homer Ferguson, Mrs. M. A. Northup, Mrs. W. E. Ricks, Mrs. C. Paschall, Mrs. Kimmie and Mrs. Allen.

Splendid Program At PTA Wednesday

A splendid program was given in the auditorium of Grammar school when the Parent-Teacher association met in regular session Wednesday afternoon. Miss Vena McBeth directed the program in which Marleece Elliott told a story and Bobby Wilson gave a reading. Katherine Nell Reynolds announced the program. Mrs. K. C. McKasland led the group singing. Two boy scouts, Joe Philpott and Marion Paschall of troop 101, led in the pledge to the flag. Principal Carlos Turner showed

Group Three Met In Ford Home

Mrs. E. Ford and daughter, Miss Olga Fay Ford, were hostesses when group three of the First Christian church council met in their home Tuesday afternoon for the weekly session. Mrs. Lonnie Shockley, chairman, opened the meeting and Mrs. J. S. Mobley brought an interesting devotional from First Corinthians, chapter 13. A review of the book, "What's Right With The World?" was given by Mrs. Mobley. During the business session Miss Ethel Mae Wilson was elected vice-chairman. The meeting was closed by repeating the missionary benediction in unison. Refreshments were served to Mrs. Lonnie Shockley, Mrs. Audrey Ezelle, Mrs. W. H. Clark, Mrs. I. A. Brunkenhauer, Mrs. A. S. Nabors, Mrs. Guy Ward, Mrs. J. W. Bailey, Mrs. J. S. Mobley, Misses Ethel Mae Wilson, Olga Ford and Mrs. Ford.

Miss Sue Penn and C. B. Stanford Wed.

A quiet wedding took place in the home of Rev. C. S. Moad on February 7 when Miss Sue Penn became the bride of Charles B. Stanford in an impressive ring ceremony at which Mr. Moad officiated. Only a few close relatives and members of the Moad family were present. The bride wore a becoming blue crepe dress with matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Stanford are well known here, where they have both been employed for several years. They will make their home at 810 W. Twelfth street, Cisco. Mr. Stanford is an employee of the Radford Grocery company.

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Vowell

The death angel entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Vowell Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 11, 1942, and took one of their beloved daughters, Faye Dean. She had been a patient in the Ranger hospital for nearly four weeks. The deceased was 13 years, eleven months and one day old. She is survived by her mother, father, four sisters, Mrs. John McFarrin, who is now a patient in Ranger hospital; Mrs. Forrest Harrison of Colorado, Tex.; Mrs. Kenneth Pierce of Nimrod, Tex.; Mrs. Lebern Tension of Cross Plains; two brothers, Alford and L. E., of Nimrod; with several uncles and aunts who were present for the funeral at Pioneer Pentecostal church, where she was a member. Interment was in Pioneer cemetery. She leaves a host of friends to mourn her death. Her mother told the writer that she begged continuously to come home. We join her many friends in extending our deepest sympathy to the bereaved loved ones. May God bless them in this hour of sorrow. The flower girls were Lue Glenshaw, Dorothy Ferguson, Burline Pierce, Bonnie Wayne Marsh and Arlene Nottingham. Higginbotham Funeral is almost a meal in itself says Dorothy Greig FIRST time I served tomato-oyster stew one of the guests sighed happily and said, "Beyond doubt, the most scrumptious oyster stew I ever ate in all my life." Like all fine oyster stews this one is made with rich whole milk and is lavish with plump oysters. But the touch that gives extra dash is nothing more or less than condensed tomato soup. The soup brings to it appealing color and zesty tomato flavor. Of course, it makes the stew more nourishing, too. Set steam-plumbed bowls of this tomato-oyster stew on the table and watch the members of the family sniff in anticipation. They love it before they even taste it! And, like many other deeply nourishing soups, it can be served as the main course of a light meal. Here are the directions for making the stew: Tomato-Oyster Stew 4 tablespoons butter 1 tablespoon onion, grated or finely chopped 1 pint oysters and oyster liquor 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon pepper 2 cups milk, scalded 1/2 cup condensed tomato soup, heated Cook the grated or very finely chopped onions in the butter. Pick over the oysters, removing bits of shell, then drain and reserve liquor. Add the oysters to the onion and butter with the salt and pepper. Cook until the oysters are plump and the edges begin to curl. Next add the hot milk and oyster liquor, and heat to the boiling point, but do not boil. Then add the hot condensed tomato soup. Mix and serve at once with crackers. Serves 4-6. Home of Rising Star, were in charge of the body. Faye Dean came to this community some three years ago with her parents from Colorado, Tex. She had made a host of friends here and was loved by all who knew her.

Tomato Oyster Stew

CROSS PLAINS

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McLeod have moved from Leuders to a farm southwest of Cottonwood, which they recently purchased. The place known as the old Hopper place is southwest of Cottonwood some two miles. Mr. McLeod lived at Cottonwood a number of years ago and has many friends throughout this area, all of whom rejoice in the fact that he has moved back to his old "stomping grounds."

the school official estimated. The school, he said, hopes to build a better building than the one destroyed. Cause of the blaze could not be determined, investigators said.

Bill Calhoun, who has been employed on the E. I. Vestal place northeast of town for a number of years, has been notified to report to Baird Monday morning, where he will leave for induction into military service. A farewell dinner was given Bill at the Vestal home Sunday evening.

Roland Bryan and Albert "Red" Usery, who recently passed examinations in El Paso, left Monday afternoon, February 9, for Baird, where they joined the contingent of Callahan county boys.

Funeral services for Oscar Brady Turner, 32, of San Angelo, brother of Reece Turner, who lives west of Cross Plains, were held Wednesday afternoon, February 4, at the First Baptist church in Coleman. Cross Cut school will rebuild its gymnasium which was destroyed by fire January 25, according to D. A. Branda, superintendent of the school. The building was insured for $2,000. Construction of the new building will cost between $4,000 and $4,500.

An almost unbroken chain of merchant ships valiantly withstands the challenge of both nature and enemy submarines in an effort to keep open the lifeline to Russia and other Allied nations. These can be reached via the Northern route, and the very hardships in the form of cold, choppy seas, ice and darkness, not to mention icebergs, both submerged and on the surface, lend their own form of protection from undersea vultures. In the few short hours of twilight which comprise "daytime" during the Arctic winter, camera records the icy voyage of Naval escort and cargo ships bearing war supplies from the American arsenal of democracy to Uncle Sam's allies.

BRIDGE EXPERT PUTS MORE PEP INTO CONTRACT

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 13.—Drive contract—a spectacular new bridge game for the nation's estimated 20,000,000 players—has been developed by J. Frank Healey, an Americanization counselor who would rather play cards than eat.

The game is a modified form of progressive contract bridge with a "minor slam bonus" for a five-bid in a minor suit.

Healey, a slight, nervous teacher-player for 13 years, currently is writing a book in which he plans to develop the idea of "minor slams."

For four years he has been experimenting with the "equal suit" idea whereby all suits except no-trump would have the same value. His record of experiments and averages tend to show that the "equal suit" game would detract from the delicate bidding situations that arise on minor suit hands.

Bidding Variety.

"The minor slam," Healey says, "is for the purpose of counterbalancing the unlogical awarding of game at 10 tricks for spades and hearts and 11 tricks for diamonds and clubs. By awarding a minor slam bonus to the two minor suits, a variety of bidding levels are retained at which game may be reached."

Under Healey's plan, a bidder might feel it well worth the risk to stretch a three no-trump game bid into five diamonds or clubs. If the minor suit bid was successful ful the reward would be substantial.

Healey describes "drive contract" as a shorter method of conducting tournaments.

Bonus For Game Bid.

- "In drive contract," he says, "there is only one set of scoring. No rubbers are played and each hand is an individual contest. Partial scores cannot be carried from one hand to another and game must be bid and made on one hand in order to score the game bonus. The regular contract scoring is used with the following exceptions:
1. All hands are bid, played and scored as though both sides always were vulnerable.
 2. Game bid and made on one hand scores a 500-point bonus.
 3. Any successful less-than-game contract scores a 100-point bonus.
 4. A minor slam bonus of 350 points is scored for fulfilling a contract of five diamonds or five clubs.
 5. These bonuses are in addition to trick and honor scores.
