Australia America's New Frontier Predicts Lawson in Letter to His Parents

Mr. and Mrs. O. G. Lawson, 511 Ninth Street, have received a letter (date of Feb. 22) from their son, Melvin M. Lawson, who is in Australia with the signal corps of the army. The envelope was Australian stamps, but was postmarked. The letter in part

Dear Mama and Daddy:
This is the first letter I have written since I landed in Australia.
I cannot of course tell you what or what part I am in. This goes out on the first mail boat, will write often and you may receive a stack of letters all at once occasionally. I sent you a telegram several days ago telling you getting here safely. So far we have received no mail from the sub, but should in a few days.

Like the People
The people of this country and city have taken us to their invitations have been community our headquarters by the men for drivers into the country, supper, tea, shows, tem-swimming, week-ends and all we have been too busy to accept, but few of them.

Everything has been interesting, think what makes it most instinct is that the people speak English, after a fashion. If we had to go to South America or Java or the other country where an entirely different language was spoken we would have accepted here the people speak English and are white, so the many differences in accent, customs and are interesting to me.

The "Language"
Mutton and Scotch whisky seem to be the main eats here. A good steak is hard to find and good coffee almost impossible, and one has to hit the waiters over the head to get them to serve water with the meals.

I bought some khaki shorts the other day, and with the tropical helmet we have been issued. I look quite tropical. I am sorry I cannot send a picture, but promise to dress up for you when I get back home. I was the first American officer to wear them and you can see his leadership in the forthcoming struggle in the Southwest Pacific.

The Allied commander, meanwhile, continued conferences with Australian and American civil and military leaders in his vast organization task. He planned to work through Easter, which will be a particularly sober holiday throughout Australia this year.

MacArthur, an Episcopalian, native of Little Rock, Ark., received this message from W. P. Witsell, director of Little Rock's Christ Church:

"The church of your baptism sends Easter greetings and an expression of faith and loving pride in you."

MacArthur replied:
"At the altar where I first joined the sanctuary of God, I ask that you seek Divine guidance for me in the great struggle that looms ahead."

This country has a currency system like the British. The pound is worth $3.26 of our money and is made up of 20 shillings. A shilling is 12 pennies. Many things are cheaper than in the United States, such as phone calls or street car fare and a taxi costs 20 cents a mile.
Clothes are a little higher and gasoline much higher, radios almost three times higher. I did not bring my radio along, thinking I would buy one here, but when they wanted $60 for a battery radio that would cost $15 or $20 back home, I did not see it that way. Cameras are about 10 to 25 per cent higher and cigarettes almost double. Many things you just cannot get at all. Lighter flints are very rare, as is the fluid for the lighter.

Think Like Americans
The Australians are quite American in the way they think and and they look to America for future. It is hard to explain mental attitude. The Aussies very loyal to the English government and the king, as a figure.
Our soldiers here have fun-brought home to them the that Americans and Aussies not only have a common sense of pioneer stock, but com-thoughts, ideals and a com-way of life.

his country is rich. No oil has been found here, for the reason it's "wildcatting" has been done.
Everyone here will tell you that American and British companies have found oil here, but have purchased it to take that with a lot of salt, having heard many owners back home talk along same line; but in a country as logically old as this there must certainly be oil in it somewhere.

Everything Rationed Everything is rationed; but only gasoline do you need a ration card. On every thing else you buy you are expected to use discretion. If you tried to buy two pairs of wool socks at one time, as I did, you would get only one. The system seems to depend on the honesty and cooperation of the people and it seems to work. Many stores do not restrict sales at all, but merely ask in a nice way to think of the other fellow, since so many things are difficult and sometimes practically impossible to get. The people do not seem to mind it. I wonder what effect the same thing would have on Americans?

I am keeping up my journal fairly well and with that as a background I should be able to tell you a lot of the country and of my adventure when I come

You know it is almost as large as the United States.
At present the total population is seven million and 45 per cent live in the five capital cities. There is a very small rural population.
Transportation costs are very high.

Australia is divided into five states and each one has a different gauge railway; thus there is no transcontinental train service as we know it. Gasoline and oil are always expensive, so few good roads have been opened up.
Even between Melbourne and Sydney most of the freight is carried by ship.

America's New Frontier Australia will be America's new frontier—not South America—as I used to think. There is "fame and fortune" here for those that realize it and get in on the ground floor.
There are many of our boys thinking seriously of getting in on the boom.

Most of the industries and land are British-owned, but opportunities will be unlimited after the war, so do not be surprised to have my phone up and tell you to ship down a half dozen rotary rigs and bring a bunch of rough-necks—and come running.

This city has no "blacksouts" at night, only "brown outs." All lights are dimmed and many turned out. City streets and landmarks are still discernible at night, and the only thing they have succeeded in doing is making it inconvenient to get around.

Mutton and Scotch

Mutton and Scotch whisky

CISCOANS BUY $125,856.75 IN DEFENSE BONDS

Purchase of defense bonds and postal saving stamps, as reported by the First National bank and Cisco postoffice, at the close of business on February 28, totaled $111,633.75. Of this total the First National bank is credited with $84,275 and the postoffice with $27,358.75.

Since this report the First National reports additional sales of defense bonds for March of $10,125, and the postoffice $4,098 bonds and saving stamps.

This boosts the local sale of defense bonds and saving stamps from May, 1941, to March 31, 1942, to $94,400 for the First National and $31,456.75 for the post office.

Total Cisco sales, $125,856.75.

M'ARTHUR ASKS DIVINE AID IN DAYS AHEAD

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S
HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 4.—In an Easter message, Gen. Douglas MacArthur Saturday asked Divine guidance for his leadership in the forthcoming struggle in the Southwest Pacific.

The Allied commander, meanwhile, continued conferences with Australian and American civil and military leaders in his vast orga-

REAL ESTATE PARABLE

Tolstoy's vivid story of the land-grabbing peasant may apply neatly to Japan's military campaign.

The peasant was offered as a gift all the land he could walk around in one day. He started out at sunrise on a big circuit, walking rapidly and running from time to time. It was past noon when he turned to complete the loop. By late afternoon he was plowing hysterically and falling from time to time. As sunset neared, and he was still some distance from his goal, he grew desperate. The sun went down, leaving him in sight of his starting point but unable to reach it, and in a final effort he fell dead on the empty plain.

It is still too early in the day to say for sure that Japan, in her vast sweep to annex other people's land, is doomed to suffer the same fate. But the plan is the same, and she is weary from the great effort. Can she close the circuit and hold her gains? If not, her Empire of the Rising Sun may soon be, after all her struggle, an Empire of the Setting Sun.

LUCKY BIRDS

Spring is the time when men, waiting for the frost to leave the ground and the mud to dry, prepare for war—perhaps the climax of the greatest of all wars. And they are too busy with that to pay much attention to some other things going on around them, which may be just as important in the universal scheme of things.

The birds, for instance, don't pay any attention to these strange human operations. They are very busy and very happy with quite different activities. Ted Robinson, observant newspaper columnist, tells about it in the Cleveland Plain Dealer:

"The redbird in the locust and the robin on the lawn,

"The thrasher in the willows and the flicker on the fence. They warble in their innocence of winter weather gone.

"They fly about and sing and shout without a bit of sense. And just because the day is nice, and just because it's spring, they think the world's a paradise where everyone should sing."

And they will raise a little brood to sing and swing and soar. And no one can explain to them about a world at war."

It is a wonderful blessing, isn't it, that nobody can explain to them? And it is wonderful, too, that human beings can share their blessedness for a little while by going out into the woods and fields. Listening to their music and observing their normal construction work, you realize that the world hasn't all gone mad.

INDIA AT WAR

What, if anything, is India doing in the war? The question is often asked. It has been answered, if it needed answering, by Henry S. L. Polak, an Englishman lecturing in this country, who is well acquainted with India and in fact is an old friend of Mahatma Gandhi.

His array of facts is impressive. When the war started, it was expected to be entirely a mechanized affair, with few men needed. The Indian authorities therefore called for only 100,000 volunteers, but 500,000 offered themselves, and the Indian army now contains over a million. Men from India have fought all over the East from North Africa to Hongkong. It was a force from India that took Damascus in Syria from the Vichy French. The captured French commander called the Indian troops "a most formidable army."

In addition, though India is primarily agricultural, it has been manufacturing war materials at an amazing rate. Both Russia and China have benefitted from munitions made in India. Chiang Kai Shek's famous visit to India was in part caused by his concern that the Indian output of war supplies should continue, and if possible be enlarged.

So if it is asked what India is doing in the war, the answer is, plenty, with more yet to come.

SUPREME EFFORT.

This is a time for all Americans to brace themselves for the biggest effort of their lives. Cecil Brown, who has probably seen more of the present war than any other correspondent, and has called the turns more accurately, is back home with a line of straight talk for people who can take it.

We are now, he says, in the biggest crisis of our national history. "The next three months will decide the war. Many men are going to die within that time in all theaters of the war. Tens of thousands of Americans must die in future engagements before the tide is turned against the Axis forces."

The only way to meet the biggest crisis is with the biggest effort. And while the crisis lasts, nothing else matters. This fact applies to government, business, labor, army, navy, air force, civilians, men, women, children, everybody. Politics and class struggle and everything else interfering with the one supreme purpose is OUT for the duration.

We're all standing now at Armageddon, battling for the Lord, for our own lives, for our children's and our country's future. And anybody who doesn't believe it, or is too dumb or lazy or unpatriotic to go all out for every phase of national defense, should crawl into a hole and stay there while the rest of us get the job done.

THE MAILED FIST

in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Been last week.

Mrs. Mary Hearne of Carbon spent the day last Tuesday with her sister, Mrs. Z. H. Been near Long Branch.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Poe Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Shaw and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poe and daughter, Mary Jeanette of Cisco and Mrs. Ben Blacklock from Munday.

J. E. Spencer is doing his part in an effort to produce more food for defense, as he has recently put in another 80-acre orchard near Long Branch. Beginning in 1937 Mr. Spencer has been adding to his two plots of ground until now he has large orchards of different kinds of fruit. There are approximately 4000 trees now planted, with about 2000 of them to bear fruit this year, Spencer said. This includes some 200 apples, and about the same amount of pears, 50 plums and 500 figs besides a large number of peaches, Elberta Supreme, Fair's Beauty, Tenas and the Texabertas.

John W. Cochran, 75, was buried at the Long Branch cemetery, Tuesday, after the funeral rites had been conducted by Rev. H. D. Christian of Carbon.

The deceased was born in Nashville, Tenn., and had been a resident of Eastland county since 1915, where he had been a successful farmer and a good neighbor. He died March 30 about 6 a.m.

He leaves four daughters and one son, two sisters and one brother besides a host of friends to mourn his loss. His children are Mrs. Roxie Garvin, Chickasha, Oklahoma; Mrs. Pansy Johnson, Los Angeles; Mrs. Claud Conley, Joplin, Mo.; Mrs. Mike Miller, Romney and Ben Cochran, Rising Star.

The undaunted spirit of the Dutch is reflected in a saying of their great national hero, William the Silent, who in the 16th century helped to gain their independence from Spain. He said, "Success is not necessary to remain brave, nor do we need hope to them in the long run as to their victims now."

This savagery is practiced, apparently, not only because the Nazis want the Polish lands and resources, but as an object lesson to other nations coveted by Hitler and his brutalized followers. It is what the Nazi Germans will do to Britain and America if they can.

One observer of today's scene sees this advice to orators: If you can't convince them, confuse them. Hitler is one who goes on this principle.

They fly about and sing and shout without a bit of sense. And just because the day is nice, and just because it's spring, they think the world's a paradise where everyone should sing.

And they will raise a little brood to sing and swing and soar. And no one can explain to them about a world at war."

LONG BRANCH

Mr. and Mrs. Almus Hastings were in Cisco on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Reed accompanied about twenty-five young people from the Southern Bible and Vocational college at Mountain Top to Sipe Springs Sunday to attend the fifth Sunday meeting.

Mrs. Addie Scroggins who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. John Bell and Mr. Bell near Long Branch is visiting another daughter, Mrs. Cooper Gunter, and other relatives at Zephyr.

Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Harris and son, Merlin from Hallmark, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Poe in Cisco, Friday.

DETROIT.—To help keep the guns, planes and tanks of the United Nations at the highest possible fighting efficiency, General Motors has launched a new and vital war training and field production effort.

In announcing the program, C. L. McCuen, GM vice president in charge of engineering, advised the Army and Navy that General Motors will:

1. Help train the enormous number of mechanics required to keep a modern armed force in motion by maintaining schools for Army and Navy instructors.

2. Place its own engineers in this field to expedite reports on operating experience, so that its war products can be improved constantly.

3. Assist the Army and Navy in having replacement parts on the spot when needed.

The training job alone calls for expenditures totaling not less than

PLANS FOR COMING CONVENTION AT FORT WORTH SHAPING

AUSTIN, April 4.—Returning from a week-end spent in Fort Worth in conference with Mrs. John L. Whitehurst, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. J. Waring Walker, president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, expresses complete satisfaction with the progress of arrangements for the forthcoming convention to be held in Fort Worth, April 26 to May 2. All indications point to a good attendance, says Mrs. Walker. Approximately seventy-five women will attend from Illinois and other states at a comparable distance will send large delegations.

Three courses are to be offered in the school which will be open without charge not only to Methodists but to any person interested in improving his skill as a church leader, according to Rev. Leslie Seymour, local Methodist pastor, who will serve as dean of the school.

Mrs. C. W. Kent of Waxahachie, specialist in children's work, will have a class in "Teaching Children in the Church School."

Rev. J. D. Barron, pastor of First Methodist church of Eastland, will teach a class in "Adult Work in the Church."

The third course will be "Senior Young People's Department Plans," to be taught by Mr. Seymour.

Dr. Roy Langston, district superintendent, will have general charge of the week's program.

It is expected a large number of Cisco people will go over each night for the classes.

"War is hell," said Sherman, as he finished checking the grocery bills.

Mr. Walker, Mrs. Perkins and Miss Ethel Foster, the state treasurer, have just concluded visits to seven of the eight conventions.

According to Mrs. Walker, Texas women are alive to the needs and seriousness of the present national crises. They have gone on record as opposed to excess profits by capital as result of war industry; they favor discarding the 40-hour week for labor during the war emergency; they have pledged full cooperation to the Red Cross and other war activities, urging the farm women to use their full time in the "Food For Freedom" program. At the request of Mrs. Walker and by the vote of the Third District in the convention, the exhibit committee for the General Federation of Women's convention, Mrs. A. J. House of Yoakum will serve as chairman of the Lone Star Bus club, a Mendelshon's Wedding March as a recessional.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. C. King, 1609 Bullard. The dining table, laid in white linen cloth held the three tier wedding cake and decorations of silver pheasants; tall white tapers in silver holders gave added radiance to the scene. Mrs. K. E. Sherman and Mrs. F. E. Allyn presided at a silver coffee service at each table-end. After the cake was cut by the bride, Mrs. Edward Lee relieved her and presided during the refreshment period.

Other members of the house party included Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, Mrs. Jack Anderson, Mrs. R. B. Carswell, Mrs. A. E. Jamison, Mrs. H. E. McGowan, Mrs. Roy Huffmeyer and Mrs. Metcalf of Corpus Christi.

W. W. Wallace, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, in a single ring ceremony at which Dr. Paul Wit of Abilene Word presiding. Mrs. Billie Bacon directed the recreation period with questions on the Bible. Report was made of pressure cookers tested during the afternoon.

The following visitors were welcomed: Mrs. Mattie Burson, Mrs. C. L. Gilmore, Mrs. Chas. Parks and Mrs. C. E. Hickman.

Members brought samples and recipes for the exhibit which was later placed in J. C. Penney's window for display during Saturday and today.

Miss Ella Andress sang "Indian Love Call," accompanied by Mrs. Hitton; ushers were Miss Inka Sherman and Luise Eisenhower.

The music changed to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal chorus as the bridal party arrived. Miss King entered on the arm of Mr. H. E. McGowan, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gold crepe jacket dress with violet hat, white gloves and accessories of navy blue; on her purse was pinned a pretty violet corsage. For "Something Old" she carried a handkerchief, carried by the groom's mother at her wedding; her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls around her neck.

The bride was attended by Miss Virginia Carter who wore a navy blue frock with white and navy accessories and shoulder corsage of violets.

The groom was attended by Joe Slicker as best man; both were dressed in military uniforms.

Mrs. Hitton played "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony and

CATTLE MARKET

The light supplies of cattle and calves that reached the Fort Worth stockyards for Saturday's trading found a fully steady market.

Hogs were steady to 10c lower than on Friday with the top of $13.85 paid by packers. Compared with a week earlier, good to choice butchers were mostly 50 cents higher.

The clipped lambs that represented the day's business in the sheep yards were fully steady.

A few good fed yearlings in the cattle yards brought $10.50 to $11.25 with common to medium yearlings and steers at $8 to $10. Beef cows cashed at $8.50 to $9; butcher cows at $7.50 to $8; and cappers and cutters at $5 to $7. Occasional bulls brought $7 to $8.75.

Fat calves sold at $8.75 to $12 and calf calves at $7.25 to $8.25.

A few steer steer calves were purchased at $11.50 down. Other steers were too scarce to make a market.

Hogs were steady to 10c below Friday's average or steady with that day's packer market. The top of $13.85 was paid by packers for good and choice 180 to 280-pound butchers while good 160-pound weights sold down to $13.

Packing sows and pigs were steady, packing sows at $12.50 down and stocker pigs at $11.50 down.

In the sheep yards clipped lambs sold at $9 down or fully steady while the other supplies listed among the receipts were not offered on the open market.
