FLIGHT TO REALITY

Yes, we civilians are getting on to a war basis. And not so slowly either. Our supplies of both "durable goods" and "consumer goods" are steadily diminishing, and on the whole we seem to be taking it nobly. To normal Americans, after the first shock of surprise and alarm, there is some satisfaction of soul in going without various luxuries and conveniences, to help in a big cause. Conscious virtue makes deprivation easier.

As the flight to reality goes on, we find ourselves reading such novel reports as the following: "At the turn of the month, production of copper zippers, hooks and eyes was halted. Washing machine manufacture for civilian use will end on April 15. On April 23 manufacture of radios will cease, and on April 30 vacuum cleaner and mechanical refrigeration production will stop. Coin music box production will cease May 1. Next month also will witness the stoppage of toaster, waffle iron and other electrical appliance production."

"Washington observers believe that many more lines face curtailment. Output of bedsprings and mattresses, for example, will be cut. Facing curtailment also are cooking utensils, furnaces, light bulbs, musical instruments, watches, sporting goods using metals, and other similar items. The conversion of war, in other words, will be far more drastic than was anticipated earlier. And we are down-hearted about it? Well, we're getting toughened to stand the hardships. And it helps a good deal, in this process of adaptation to reality, to reflect on how many of these gadgets our ancestors did without in war and peace for the very good reason that they never had them."

THE ELEVENTH JAP

The boys in the East have a saying that one American is good for ten Japs—but after the ten have been accounted for, the eleventh Jap always comes out from behind a tree. It's he who gets the American or Anzac soldier. It's that eleventh Jap who is getting Wainwright's forces down at Bataan. MacArthur got seven or eight before his departure, and Wainwright has downed two or three more in his brief interval, but the eleventh is now coming out in force, and he's just one too many.

It is encouraging, therefore, to hear that the eleventh plane is now coming up on our side. Churchill's promise is being kept—that in 1942 production would catch up with that of the Axis and gradually outstrip it. American production, certainly, is coming up. Planes, tanks, jeeps, half-tracks and all the rest of the materials and munitions of war are rolling off the lines as they never rolled before.

The cry is still for more. It rises from every theater of the war. But it is being answered. The eleventh Jap and German are going to get theirs before long. They will join the first ten in a long, inactive silence.

While we're stream-lining men's clothes and leaving off cuffs and vests and so on, how about neckties, hat bands and coat-sleeve buttons?

BATAAN BOOMERANG

The "boomerang" is a weapon of the native Australian bushmen. It is so shaped that if it does not hit its mark it is not wasted. It flies back again to its thrower. In the taking of Bataan the Japs have taken a leaf from the book of native Australia. They have thrown the weapon and they believe they have won a victory. But all they have done is to throw a boomerang. It will return to its sender, not to fall harmless at his feet, but to cut him to the death. Pearl Harbor was not a victory either. It was merely a stimulus to the American people. MacArthur said, "I go, but I will return."

STILL FULL OF FIGHT

Military commentators in Berlin say "the Soviets clearly show signs of exhaustion as the result of the fruitless efforts during the winter battle."

It has seemed to American observers that the omnipotent and unconquerable Nazis also show signs of exhaustion. And in the interest of strict truth, it should be observed that Russian efforts on that great eastern battle front have been far from fruitless. The Reds during the winter have stopped the mighty Germans in their tracks, held them in an incessant battle along a 2,000 mile front, and in many places forced them back. As a result the Russian positions are now much more favorable than they were four months ago.

This is not saying that Hitler's war machine is not still powerful, and that it may not be able to push the Russians eastward again as the mud dries and the vast struggle is renewed. But at least Hitler and his hordes have been stopped once, and fought and held on at least equal terms. That may happen again. If the Russians are weakened by their long fight, so are the Germans. And the Reds will now have active allies to help them.

THE GLASS AGE

Living in glass houses is nothing. Anybody can do it now, by the simple procedure of using glass brick in the walls along with the glass panes in the windows. The walls can be transparent, translucent, or colored, according to taste.

The real wonder is that we may dress in glass clothing. Fiber glass, made simply from sand, sodium, and other common materials, may be spun into slippers as lovely as Cinderella's. It may also be spun and woven into cloth of various kinds, said to be durable, warm and capable of taking any colors desired.

These facts have been known for some time, but not much practical use has been made of them. With common materials of commerce used up as they may be in the course of this war, we may have a notable development of glass products when it is over.

MacArthur must be a miracle man—he's already got those rampaging Australians steamed down for team work.

SLAVE LABOR

While several million German men are engaged in fighting foreign wars of conquest, and garrisoning countries already conquered, their place is taken at home by foreign labor. Much of this labor consists of prisoners of war. By the modern laws of warfare captured troops may be used under civilized restrictions for constructive work. It amounts to slave labor, for which the prisoners are allowed merely enough food and other supplies to keep them alive and working, but is considered legitimate.

There is also a very large group of workers, both men and women, from the civilian population of conquered countries, who have been taken to Germany against their will to work likewise for the Nazi war machine, with the least possible compensation. This is slavery of a kind that has not been known in Europe for centuries. It is one of the chief offenses of the Nazi war machine, and the situation would be clarified if they were called Hitler's Slaves.

Besides these groups, there are great numbers of people drawn from countries of central and western Europe, regarded as voluntary workers, who are treated a little more generously, but who would not make munitions for Hitler if they were not driven by fear, for their families if not for themselves.

The work done by all these unwilling helpers is essential to the Nazi juggernaut and a part of the Hitler system, which will last as long as Hitler lasts—maybe longer. It is one of the bulwarks of force and terror that must be destroyed, along with the Nazi armies, to restore a free world. The resentment it arouses is one of the forces working for freedom.

OTHER EDITORS

Under the Sod and the Dew Percy H. Landrum in Hartford, (Ky.) News: One sunny afternoon recently I spent about two hours in the Frankfort cemetery, which is commonly known as the "Arlington of Kentucky." It was two hours well spent, because some of the most noted characters in history are buried there. I viewed the graves of more than a half-dozen governors, including Goebel, Bradley, Morrow, Beckham, Blackburn, Letcher, Madison and others. "Under the sod and the dew, waiting the judgment day" in this "happy hunting ground" are also Theodore O'Hara, Daniel Boone and Richard M. Johnson, a vice president.

Child Permit Robert Quillen in Dallas News: When we are wholly civilized, people will get a permit to become parents, as they now get a license to marry. And before the permit is granted, they will be required to prove their fitness to become parents—to prove themselves mentally sound, free of hereditary disease and possessed of the knowledge necessary to train a child properly and the ability to provide for it.

For persons without these qualifications to bring a child into the world would be—and should be—a crime. What right has anybody to have a child for other people to support? And what right have people to bring a child into the world if their ignorance or ineptitude or lack of character will do him to untimely and failure?

Parenthood is commonly considered none of the public's business, and so it would be if it harmed the public in no way. But a diseased, feeble-minded or wrongly trained child is doomed to become a public charge or burden or nuisance, and people have the natural right to protect themselves from such imposition.

SPRING RAIN

The lightning cuts a path across the sky To make a way for silver-slippered rain. Her little feet tap sharply as they run Across the dusty surface of the plain.

And soon a million shoots of living green Will trace the magic pattern where she trod, And from each fence post going into town A meadow lark will voice his praise to God.

APRIL 27 REGISTRATION ORDERS ISSUED

Announcing the distribution of instructions to Texas local boards concerning the April 27 registration, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, said today that plans are under way to register approximately one and one-half times the number of men who were registered in the third registration.

As soon as the president's proclamation calling for the fourth registration has been received at state headquarters, Governor Coke Stevenson will, according to the director, issue a proclamation calling upon all men in this state who had attained their forty-fifth birthday on or before February 16, 1942, and have not attained their sixty-fifth birthday on April 27, 1942, to register as of their home address between 7:00 a. m. and 9:00 p. m. on Monday, April 27.

General Page pointed out that although the men affected by this registration are not liable for military service under the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, they will be registered in much the same manner as men who enrolled in previous registrations.

Local boards will conduct the registration with the assistance of volunteer registrars, and will record the same information on registration cards as was required in the first three registrations.

Registration cards will be buff in color and there will be no substantial change in form.

General Page pointed out that since registrants who were forty-five years old or over on February 16, 1942, are not liable for military service, there will be no national lottery and no order numbers will be assigned, although the registration cards will be serially numbered by local boards.

Because of the difficulties which may be experienced with elderly registrants, registration places will be carefully located in every local board area throughout the state and sufficient registrars will be provided so that registrants will not face transportation difficulties or long delays at registration places, the director stated.

In the metropolitan areas special registration places will be arranged for transients. Also, in establishments of substantial size, registration booths will be provided in order that time will not be lost from important tasks. For convenience of men subject to registration, but who will be in attendance at conventions, or other large assemblies away from their place of residence on April 27, local boards will register these men on Friday or Saturday, April 24 and 25, to avoid congestion of registration places in towns holding such conventions.

Any person in doubt as to whether or not he must register should consult the proper registration officials and register if they deem it advisable.

Be Good to Your Electric Appliances ..and they'll be good to you!

How to Take Care of Your Electric Refrigerator

Many older models should be oiled every six months and those with belts checked and new belts installed if needed. Condensers in all models should be cleaned once a year. Defrost at regular intervals, allowing the ice to melt rather than using an ice pick. (There's danger of punching a hole in the metal or freezing coil.) Close the door quickly after putting in or taking out food, using care NOT to touch the rubber insulating seal around the door with greasy hands. (Grease causes the rubber to deteriorate.) Allow food to cool before putting it in the refrigerator. In moving from one location to another, be sure that motor shipping bolts are fastened to prevent damage in transit. Be careful with ice trays. Don't bang them around. It's impossible to get new aluminum trays and difficult to get trays of any kind.

CONSERVATION... the Homemaker's Contribution to I-C-T-O-R-Y

We are working out new methods of efficiency and economy so as to provide an ample supply of electric light and power for military training camps and defense industries in this West Texas country in addition to your home and business. But the factories that once hummed busily turning out electric appliances today are being converted to production of war materials. Many appliances, including refrigerators, are vital in the conservation and protection of foods. All are important in maintaining civilian morale, making household tasks easier and conserving time and energy for wartime efforts... work needed by Uncle Sam. So, it's essential that you take precautions to prolong the usefulness of electric appliances now on hand.

How to Take Care of Your Electric Range and Small Appliances

Plan menus so that entire meals are cooked at the same time in oven or thrift cooker. In top-burner cooking, turn burner to low as soon as boiling begins. Be sure to turn burners off when through using them. Don't allow liquids to boil over onto the cooking coil. They're made of several imported metals in addition to copper and magnesium oxide—and are hard to replace. ... Take good care of your sweeper. The bristles in it come from China—or did. Not any more. And rubber belts—you know about rubber. Even electric elements in all appliances may become hard to replace. So don't abuse them. All lamp and appliance cords should be handled a bit more carefully. Keep them off the floor if possible so they won't be trampled or wrinkled, causing the rubber insulation to break.

How to Take Care of Your Washing Machine

Don't overload the washer, or use it to wash out just a few small pieces unless necessary. Plan, if possible, to have a near capacity load every time the washer is used. (Overloading may burn out the motor—and new motors are expensive and hard to get.) Watch the washing time carefully. In using the wringer, take care that no metal objects are left in pockets or metal buckles allowed to scar or nick the rubber rollers.

How to Take Care of Your Electric Water Heater

Be sure that the thermostat is set to give the correct temperature. Keep the water heater in operation all the time. (Since it's automatic, turning it off and allowing the water in the tank to cool, then reheating it, uses more current than continuous operation.) Try not to let hot water run down the sink. (Draw only what you need to use.)
