CLOSING EXERCISES EVENING OF MAY 27 AT HIGH SCHOOL; L. W. SEYMOUR THE SPEAKER

"The Cisco Grammar school graduation class numbers 117 this year and the student body as a class is one of which we are justly proud," said Carlos J. Turner, principal of the school, today.

Graduation exercises will be held at the high school auditorium on the evening of May 27, with Rev. L. W. Seymour as speaker.

Diplomas will be handed to the graduates by first and second honor students of the class.

As has been the custom, the program will be largely in the hands of the student body.

The musical part of the program will be patriotic in nature, using the official songs of Uncle Sam's armed forces.

JR. COLLEGE SENIOR CLASS TO HAVE PLAY

The senior class of the Cisco Junior college will stage the first play ever attempted by students of the college for which an admission charge is asked, according to Glenn Tableman, president of the class, and Jane Moore, class reporter. Funds are to be used to defray the expenses of an outing trip for the class, the extent of which will depend upon funds secured and ability to secure conveyances for the trip.

The program will be held at the high school auditorium, Wednesday evening, May 20, at 8:30 o'clock. It will be a variety program consisting of classical and other music, humorous readings and numbers of such varying interests that it has been named a "Variety Program." Admission, 15 and 25 cents.

Committees named to arrange for the event are:
Program — Jane Moore, Billie Ruth Aiken, Mildred Kimmell and Troy Caraway.
Ticket committee—J. B. Duff, Marian Jacobs and Emma Cone. Stage and Arrangements—Melvin Crawford, Helen June Terry and Elton Lankford.
O. L. Stamey will be toastmaster.

KERCH PENINSULA FIGHT SLOWS DOWN

MOSCOW, May 13.—The battle for Kerch, gateway to the oil-rich Caucasus, was developing steadily Wednesday, but the Russians gave no hint of any major Nazi success in this strongest attack the Germans thus far have made this spring.

The German high command claimed the battle to break through the Kerch isthmus had been decided with capture of 40,000 Russians and "annihilation of enemy forces which have been overrun and encircled there."

Soviet communiques reported stubborn fighting on the Crimean peninsula, of which Kerch is a panhandle, but for two days has declared nothing of importance has occurred.

The attack was evidently a far cry from the dashing offensives which the Germans launched at this season in Western Europe in 1940 and in the Balkans in 1941.

The government's mid-day communique said, "there were no substantial changes at the front" overnight, a statement implying no major gains for either side.

A supplement to this communique said that reinforced German units counter-attacking on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow had been beaten off by Soviet troops with heavy casualties to the nazis.

Red troops commanded by Comrade Demenyuk "drove the Germans into a bog and almost completely annihilated them," the communique said in describing that action.

A bog of 102 nazis planes occurred Sunday and Monday, and presumably most of them were knocked out on the Crimean front.

60 LIONS AND LADIES BANQUET TONIGHT

Between 60 and 70 Lions and ladies will attend the Lions Ladies night banquet and program at Hotel Laguna tonight, according to the report of Lion Charles S. Sandler, who has been contacting members today.

An unusually interesting program of fun and music entertainment has been provided for the event following the banquet which Manager Frank Dale of the hotel says is to be a good one. At least two Lion cubs will receive their initiation into the mysteries of the club tonight as part of the program. This beautiful ceremony is always interesting and inspiring to visitors as well as to members.

The banquet starts promptly at 8:30; opening ceremonies begin at 8:15. If you are not there at this hour, you will be late.

Plates are 75 cents each. Members may bring guests, their wives or their sweethearts, it is announced.

U. S. O. MEETING TONIGHT

Charles J. Kleiner, U. S. O. chairman for Eastland county, has called a meeting for 7:30 o'clock tonight in the courthouse at Eastland and all USO precinct chairmen and their assistants are expected to be present.

The meeting will be addressed by good speakers, Mr. Kleiner said, and all Cisco citizens who can be asked to be present.

J. T. Sandefer, of Breckenridge, USO regional chairman, will be present and speak, as well as Paul L. Harrup, of Abilene, who is Y. M. C. A. director of USO work in this area.

Mr. Harrup will present a moving picture that portrays the inductee from the day he takes the service oath. This picture, Mr. Kleiner says, is deeply interesting and educational and is well worth anybody's time.

Tonight's meeting will launch the USO drive in Eastland county and it is the county chairman's hope that the campaign will start off with a bang and go over big without needless delay.

CORINTH CEMETERY.
The annual cemetery working will be held at Corinth Saturday morning, it was announced by Nute Hart today. The general public is invited to attend.

JAP FORCES GATHER FOR FINAL TEST

MELBOURNE, May 12.—A Japanese invasion fleet is re-assembling at island bases northeast of Australia, awaiting heavy naval reinforcements for a new offensive thrust, dispatches from Allied advanced bases indicated today.

Warships and transports were reported at these bases. The main striking force had been scattered by the American-Australian naval victory in the Coral Sea but it was believed to be virtually intact, insofar as key units went. It was apparently only awaiting reinforcements to strike a new blow which many believed would give Australia and the United States and Allied forces their supreme test.

TWO-DAY CONFERENCE WAS CLOSED TODAY

The Methodist conference for this district which convened at the First Methodist church yesterday and today, was well attended.

Dr. Roy A. Langston, district superintendent, was in charge. Reports have been very satisfactory regarding finances as well as spiritual uplift and evangelistic gatherings, it was found.

The meeting closed this afternoon at 4 o'clock, following a sermon by Rev. C. R. Gray of Breckenridge.

About 150 persons were in attendance today, and did ample justice to the dinner spread by the Methodist women.

Rev. J. D. Barron of Eastland opened the afternoon session with an inspiring sermon.

Emphasis throughout the conference was placed on the phase of deepening the spiritual life of the churches, represented in the conference, and prayers made for those who are fighting the battles for democratic and religious freedom for the nations of the world.

CISCOAN'S NEPHEW MISSING
Word has been received by Mrs. Mack Stephens that her nephew, James Walker, who was in the U. S. naval service is reported as missing. James Walker, 24, visited in Cisco last summer and made many friends. He had served four years prior to the current war and had taken a position at Texas City, when his country re-called him into service. He is the son of Mrs. Stephens' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Walker of Seadrift, Texas.

PEANUT CLOTH

Cloth of gold was once the raiment of kings. Cloth of silk is now gone from the western world. Cloth of wool is slated soon to be almost as rare. Cloth of cotton still exists but isn't of the quality it used to be—not for the civilian population. Cloth of peanuts comes next.

A Scotsman invented the new fabric, but the patent was taken out in the United States. It is going to be so much like the best Scotch woolen, says Mr. W. B. Jester, president of the National Peanut Council, that the wearer will scarcely feel the difference, and the onlooker will probably not know there is one.

Plenty of peanuts to gnaw at cireuses. Bull games and other hungry "spectator sports" seem to be an inalienable right of the American citizen. Plenty of peanut butter on the luncheon table for granted. Peanut oil is used for many purposes. Farm animals like the flat cake left after the oil has been extracted. Farmers who grow the goobers like the income they produce. So peanuts are a normal part of the American scene. Peanut cloth, however, is a little stranger. But after all, why not? Strangest things have happened. Nylon, for example.

Yes, nature is always imitating art. A dead cat in the wall at Indianapolis seems to be taken out of Kipling's famous "Stalky and Company."

DOUGHNUTS

Do doughboys still eat doughnuts? They do. Major Alva M. Holbrook, of the Salvation Army, says he told American troops at Hawaii.

"You get just as hungry and you can stuff away just as many doughnuts as your peepsies. And when you are not in training or fighting, you do the same things." Life and war and the army change, yet many things remain the same. More and better doughnuts will be made in this war for more and better doughboys. Can these boys fight as well as their dads, besides eating as well? Bataan and Corregidor say they can. Wake Island says they can. The Battle of the Coral Sea takes up the refrain.

Their forebears ate doughnuts, and fought, and won freedom for their own land, for Cuba, for the slaves. Often and always they have fought for the freedom of the seas. This time they fight for the freedom of all nations from aggression, from conquest and from slavery.

There's just something about doughnuts. Doughnuts and doughboys together are getting ready to win again.

INTERNATIONAL TRUSTEES

Madagascar, it has been announced in Washington and London, while being used for defensive purposes by the United Nations during the war, will be "held in trust for France" and restored to that country. There need be no doubt of the pledge being kept.

The precedent thereby established is one of large and growing interest. As the war proceeds, and the free powers continue taking over enemy and neutral territory, as they doubtless will, Uncle Sam and John Bull may find themselves getting into the real estate trust business on a large scale. In fact, this is already true of Britain. When the show-down finally comes at the peace table, these two governments may be trustees for a quarter of the world. It would be one of the most remarkable situations in history.

NO FAVORS SHOWN

The General Motors Corporation has been punished for allegedly using defense metals for non-defense purposes. Not long ago a like blow fell on our most important manufacturers of vacuum cleaners. They may have been innocent, but the government thought not.

Evidently the chips are falling where they may. Time has been when large business interests could count on having a friend at court to ward off such blows. Those days are gone. No person or corporation in this country is big enough now to trifle with Uncle Sam.

There's probably more stewing and belly-aching among people safe at home than among the fellows who have to do the fighting.

GAS VERSUS TIRES

There's more than one way to skin a cat, and authorities at Washington are probably not averse to a little thrifty hocus-pocus for the country's good. Take this gasoline rationing, for example.

When the people of the eastern states have their gas supply reduced, it is evident that the victims are saving not only fuel but rubber. And logically, however they may be discriminated, it is more important to save the rubber than the fuel. The nation as a whole has plenty of gasoline and can produce more, whereas there is no more natural rubber in sight, and it will take years to make enough artificial rubber for current needs.

Thus, if people want to keep their eyes on the ball, probably rubber is the thing to watch. And if there should be an official crack-down on gas sales in the mid-west and across the continent, irate motorists should remember that the less gas they use, the longer their tires will last. By pinching the gas supply, millions of tires might be made to last for the duration.

Gas consumption should be gauged by "necessary driving," but it's hard to agree on a definition.

The enterprising Japs seem to have celebrated their Coral Sea victory very prematurely.

When in doubt, buy war bonds. Also when not in doubt.

OPEN FORUM

Charity

Editor Daily Press: Several years ago, in a Sunday after-dinner conversation, the writer and his wife were discussing the meaning of the word "charity." To further inform ourselves along this line, we turned to the pages of our dictionary. In our minds, we had usually associated the word, charity, with the giving of help, especially material things, to those in need, and this is one definition of charity, but we were surprised in referring to our dictionary to find that greater stress was given to this word, as representing an attitude of mind: We quote in part the following: taken from Webster's International Dictionary: "1st. Christian love of one's fellow men." "For charity shall cover the multitude of sins. 1st Peter 4: 8." "2nd. More generally, love; benevolence; good will; affection; an act or feeling of affection; "Charity is therefore a habit of good will, or benevolence, in the soul." "With malice towards none, with charity for all. Lincoln." "3rd. Liberality or lenience in judging of men and their actions."

It has been said that war always brings out the worst in men; therefore it is necessary in these dark days that we make an earnest effort to be true to our higher nature, to the end that the fruits of any military victory we might secure may not turn into dead ashes, as they did in 1918. President Wilson, in a speech delivered at New York City in September, less than two months before the signing of the Armistice, said: "The impartial justice meted out must involve no discrimination between those to whom we wish to be just and those to whom we do not wish to be just."

But Wilson's ideals failed to control the articles of peace. The spirit of revenge and greed that dominated the peace chamber paved the way for our present war. In the winter of 1918-19, when we as individuals were feeding and otherwise ministering to the starving children of Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Montgomery, of Cisco, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee, on Monday of last week. Mrs. Lee Dabney who has been employed at a hospital in Cisco came with them and that night attended the graduation exercises as her only daughter, Yvonne Dabney was one of the graduates.

many, our representatives at Versailles were heaping misery upon their shoulders.

We must not allow history to repeat itself. It would be very easy at this time for any military victory we may gain to turn into an economic and social defeat, encompassing the world with its wreckage. May God indeed help us if such a thing should happen.

Man's ingenuity has reduced the world to a neighborhood; let justice make us friends. We want to visit, therefore we should have unrestricted emigration and immigration. We want to exchange goods, therefore we should have "free trade." Oh! you say, that would upset business. Better a year or two of business chaos, than another war a few years later. After a year or so of readjustment it is likely that we would find a "free trade" world not such a bad place in which to live. We Americans pride ourselves on being able to produce goods more cheaply than any other country in the world. What should we be afraid of?

Above all things at the peace table we should remember that the children of Germany and Italy are not responsible for this war. God must love them, as he does our children. Let us be careful not to injure them.

"Now abideth Faith, Hope, Charity, these three, but the greatest of these is Charity." W. B. STARR.

I DON'T KNOW HOW I'D MANAGE WITHOUT MY ELECTRIC WASHER

Reddy Kilowatt REMINDS:

Your electric washer is one of your best helpers in keeping down living costs... saving time and work. Treat it well!

Don't overload, thus putting a strain on the motor. Drain immediately after using; rinse thoroughly; and leave cover off tub until all dampness has evaporated. Wipe rolls and frame of wringer dry. Wipe cord dry and wind carefully on hooks. Take care that no metal objects are left in pockets or buckles allowed to scar or nick rubber rollers. Oil as directed in instructions.

I'LL TAKE GOOD CARE OF THE THINGS I HAVE!

MAKE THEM LAST!

Your electric appliances were built to give many years of service, if they are properly used. Naturally they may need minor adjustments and repairs from time to time. This should be done before irreparable damage puts them out of service for the duration. When in doubt, call your friendly electric "fixit" man.

STUDENTS GO BACK TO SOIL FOR DURATION IN GARDENA VALLEY

INSTRUCTION IN HARVESTING ONIONS.

SPRAY ROUTS INSECTS.

Out in Gardena Valley in California, where the Rising Sun has taken over a ten-acre tract of farmland formerly operated by Japanese who have been evacuated to the interior by Federal authorities. Into Uncle Sam's food larder go the lush vegetables currently being harvested as the first crops are gathered by the eighty students participating in the venture. Each youth spends three hours a day afield, this time formerly having been spent in gymnasium and classroom work in farming. The students, backed by organization funds of several thousand dollars, took over the lease from the Nipponese tenants of pre-war days. Profits from the crops go back into the student body fund with a certain percentage being split as a bonus among the "farmers" at the end of the semester. Not only is the project an aid in bolstering the regions' agricultural output, but the boys involved are enjoying the physical benefits of a rigorous life in the open as they toil in the sun. Directing their efforts is William K. Haley, head of the agricultural department of the school who works side by side with his charges as they go about their assigned duties behind the plow, the harrow, sowing seeds, weeding and spraying and eventual harvest. Here is a cross section of activities as recorded by the camera of our photographer, who recently paid the "farmers" a visit.
