CITY FATHERS MEET AND AGREE THAT WEED AND GRASS HEALTH MENACE MUST BE ELIMINATED

Cisco city commission met in regular session last night and transacted considerable business, though much of it was routine and of little public interest.

One matter of decided interest to the public—cutting the weeds and grass on vacant lots and elsewhere throughout the city—was discussed at length and plans made whereby it is hoped to interest the citizenship in removing this health menace.

Mayor and commission were unanimous in declaring property owners—both resident and non-resident—as good citizens must do their duty in this respect—before the Pied Piper comes along and lures the little children of the city into the Great Forests of Weeds and Grass.

It is expected that the Cisco Board of Health, which is headed by Dr. W. P. Lee, will issue a statement on this subject tomorrow.

Work on the city's third 50,000-gallon water standpipe was reported as progressing. The concrete base has been completed and the steel workers will start their work at once.

Commissioner of Streets A. V. Clark announced that weeds in and about otherwise beautiful Oakwood cemetery would be removed this week.

It was stated that renditions for 1942 taxes should be made now, and that Mrs. R. B. Carswell has been employed in this connection. Taxpayers may visit the office of City Secretary George W. Downie and sign up, or they may contact Mrs. Carswell.

Those present in addition to Mayor G. P. Mitcham and Secretary Downie were Henry Drumwright, sanitary commissioner; Charles J. Kleiner, finance commissioner; George Boyd, police and fire commissioner, and A. V. Clark, streets, parks and cemetery.

DEFENSE GUARDS AND AIR RAID WARDENS CONDUCTED SATISFACTORY 'PRACTICE' LAST NIGHT

Much satisfaction over the first practice for air raid alert in Cisco last night was expressed by Capt. O. L. Stamey of the Defense Guards and by Homer Ferguson, chief air raid warden, because of the cooperation given by all concerned, including the telephone service, directly in charge of E. Worley, chief operator, whose organization put calls through in record time to warn guards and wardens of the impending work-out.

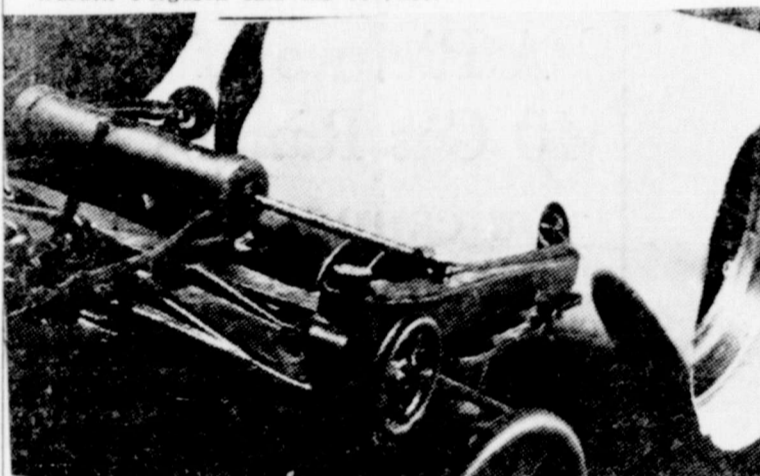

At about 10:15 Chief of Police Perdue called Captain Stamey and Warden Ferguson of the defense units, who immediately began calling their zone officers, who in turn called their men.

All defense guards were at their posts in less than 12 minutes and some as quickly as five minutes after being called. These posts guarded the various entrances to Cisco and guards remained on duty until relieved by the inspection check-up.

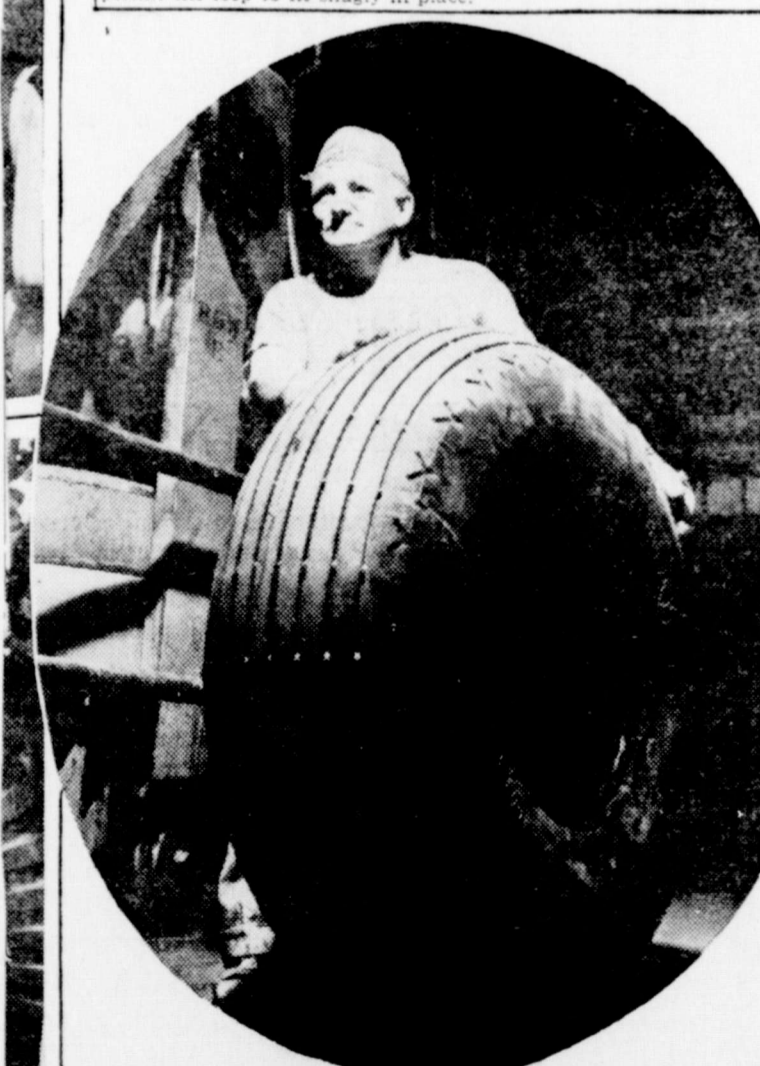

Warden Ferguson said his response was very satisfactory. He placed many calls over the telephone in record time. The cooperation was perfect, he stated, both from the telephone company and from his zone officers, who in turn had to notify their men. In the air warden force there were eight zone officers, with five or six men to the zone. Within 12 to 15 minutes all were at their posts.

In the Defense Guard setup there are 12 posts, command of which is distributed among the officers. There are about 50 guardsmen serving under these officers, with the responsibility of guarding the city's approaches and exits and to protect property from pilfering in case of fire or other damage to property that would require guards in stress of bombing or other disasters inflicted by the enemy.

The heads of these two defense units said there would be other practices and they expect even better responses, since they will have the advantage of this practice.

The completed fabric is formed into the tire. This whole web rubber will soon come out of a mold as a bomber tire. The fabric layer by layer, onto this drum by the use of a rod forced between the and the one being applied. The rod stretches the new fabric suit permit the loop to fit snugly in place.

This giant bomber tire is like those which equipped the B-25's which Brigadier General "Jimmy" Doolittle used to bomb Tokio. General Doolittle personally wired General Tire employees his appreciation of the fine job they had done in making tires for the North American bombers his squadron used. This tire was made by the processes illustrated on this page.

SOVIETS ARE REPULSED IN KHARKOV AREA

MOSCOW, June 24.—German assaults, ever mounting in fury, forced Russian withdrawals on both the Sevastopol and Kharkov fronts today.

The Soviet Navy Red fleet said Russian units on one sector of the Sevastopol front had been forced by overwhelming and relentless pressure to fall back on new positions. They continued their stubborn resistance, inflicting terrible casualties on the Germans.

In a dispatch from the Kharkov front, 350 miles north of Sevastopol, the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star reported that 200 German tanks had managed to wedge into Russian defenses on one sector.

On neighboring sectors, groups of 20 to 30 tanks, after a battle lasting a day, had "slightly pushed back" individual Russian units, to new positions, Red Star said.

Col. Gen. Fritz Erich von Mannstein hurried more divisions of infantry, masses of tanks and clouds of planes against the hard-pressed defenders of Sevastopol. It was understood that he was using more than 200 planes against a considerably smaller Soviet air force.

The Soviet Black Sea fleet ceaselessly pounded the Germans with big guns, and supplied the Sevastopol garrison Red Star said. Its air arm ranged far behind the enemy rear, pounding troop concentrations and supply lines.

The Germans had brought up still more reserves and new herds of tanks.

Sevastopol's defenders, sworn to fight "to the last drop of blood," still believed the German attack would be smashed, partly because the Soviet garrison had been reinforced by the Black Sea fleet.

ROY LITTLE WRITES HOME FROM THE SEA

Mrs. Frances Little of Eastland has just received a letter from her son, Roy Little, who was born in Cisco.

Little's present address is of course unknown, but he is attached to the Destroyer Monssen. He writes as of June 19, as follows:

Dear Mom: You know, sweet, the old saying, "No news is good news." Please believe it, because there will be lots of weeks when there will be no news from me.

Maybe some of the other fellows from home write more often, but you must realize that their ships are in port twice as often as mine. You have probably heard that a "destroyer" is never in port—it's true.

Hope you are well. I am fine and having a lot of fun beating 'em—out of the Japs. Love, ROY.

U. S. NAVY WITH CANNON ADDED TWO ON TRACTORS YOUNG MEN AXIS ADVANCES

G. C. Martin from the navy recruiting station at Abilene was in Cisco this morning and signed up two young men—one from Cisco and one from Anson. Both enter the service as seamen, second class, construction regiment, U. S. naval reserve.

Marvin Albert Baird is 17 years old and the son of Mrs. W. L. Burns, 402 E. Seventh street, Cisco. His father lives near Anson. Clyde Ernest Lamson is 18 years old and his home is on route three, Anson.

D. L. Fenter, Abilene, recent navy enlistee, was here with Martin today and will travel with him hereafter. They may be found at the Cisco postoffice each Wednesday morning.

HOWARD ROBINSON IS IN GOOD HEALTH

A letter from Howard Robinson to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robinson, brings the glad news that the Cisco young man is in good shape physically and able to laugh at the rumor circulated here some time ago that he had been badly hurt and blinded while serving with the armed forces. The letter was dated June 14 and is as follows:

Dear Mother:
Hello, Little Lady! How are you today? Things with me are the same as usual, O. K. Nothing to worry about and having a pretty nice time in general.

I received another bundle of the Cisco papers and was very glad to get them. Was rather surprised to learn of the street rumor that I was in bad shape and had lost my eyesight. Where does the guy get news like that? Or is he just predicting? Anyway he is just much all wet.

By the way, Mother, send me some of the news from there about the little excitement we had here recently. I can bet it is a bunch of fantastic stories but we would like to know what's going on out here. Please don't let it worry you because there is no reason to.

Well I am back in the groove on my writing again. I got some more material and can get your letters started again. Will write you as often as I can. I must sign off for now and drop dead a few lines. Hope to get some mail from you soon. Lots of love and the very best of luck. Your son,
HOWARD.

HOMER WHITE IS NOW A U. S. AIR PILOT

Homer Dalton White of route two, Eastland, a 1936 graduate of Cisco high school, on June 23 graduated from the army flying school at Victorville, Calif., and is now a full-fledged pilot, with the rank of second lieutenant in the air corps reserve. White also graduated from John Tarleton college, class of '39.

The former Cisco boy entered the air corps on December 8, 1941, according to information furnished the Daily Press by Capt. Edward E. Peeler of the army air force at Victorville.

Eleven other young Texans recently graduated from the Victorville school, Captain Peeler wrote.

WITH THE BRITISH EIGHTH ARMY IN EGYPT, JUNE 24.—German long-range guns have opened on the British frontier line and a powerful Axis army of tanks, guns, mobile anti-aircraft artillery and infantry poured over the desert road at forced march for its greatest offensive of the Libyan war.

British engineers and infantrymen worked without pause, their endurance strained to the limit, to improve a defense line which would hold a jubilant and determined enemy until armored and foot forces could be reorganized.

The British Eighth Army faced, imminently and certainly, a task so great that it did not leave room for immediate optimism.

The Allied hope was that the British gift for improvisation under desperate handicap and at the moment of greatest peril would save the day, with the aid of the Royal Air Force and the great U. S. Army Air Corps Consolidated B-24 planes which were now in action and had already bombed the great Axis base of Benghazi.

The opening shots of the battle of Egypt, in which Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel hopes to break through to Suez, whined over the frontier this morning from Axis batteries newly emplaced in the desert near Fort Capuzzo at the northern end of the British line.

It was evident even to the ground forces that Rommel's artillery was moving rapidly east. As fast as the batteries arrived they were wheeled into position for the bombardment opening the battle proper.

Reconnaissance planes came back with reports that a very powerful Axis army was on the march, along the Tobruk road, which passes through Gambus slightly in from the coast and has its terminus at Bardia, now in Axis hands, just north of the frontier and the British anchor at Fort Capuzzo.

They were pointed toward the coastal end of the British line which has Fort Capuzzo and the Solum-Hell Fire (officially Halfaya) Pass for its key points.

Great guns, moving on tractors, heavy as well as light anti-aircraft guns, all highly mobile, huge German tanks with 88 millimeter (3.46-inch) guns, and dusty columns of Italian infantrymen, were in the virtual parade of Axis forces toward the frontier.

Military men here at the front said the ferocious attack on Tobruk was likely to prove only a miniature maneuver compared to the assault to be expected on Egypt, in which, it was indicated, Rommel would try to break the British line for a mass drive through toward the Marsa Matruh base and the railroad to the east.

Without doubt, Rommel had been encouraged by his quick victory at Tobruk to believe he had the British off balance, and that if his Afrika Korps could maintain its pace greater victories were to be won.

BLAME CHURCHILL

LONDON, June 24.—A motion was introduced in the House of Commons today charging the government with direct responsibility for the "disaster of Tobruk." Laid down by W. J. Brown independent, and Alec S. Cunningham-Reid, conservative, the motion urged complete reorganization of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's government. It cited the Prime Minister's own policy, in defending his cabinet ministers from attack, that the government as a whole is responsible for the prosecution of the war, as justification for putting the blame for the Libya defeat on the cabinet.

Political quarters reported that cabinet leaders, alarmed over the storm which Churchill must face when he returns from his visit with President Roosevelt, had telephoned him warning him of the temper of the House of Commons.

FATE AT WASHINGTON

What are Winston Churchill and Franklin Roosevelt and their trusted advisers cooking up now? Hitler would give his moustache to know. Many war experts at Washington these days must know well enough, but nobody is telling. Public curiosity is naturally immense. But it would be indiscreet to pry into those conferences, and disloyal to reveal them if the secrets were known. The public duty is confidence and patience. In due time, events themselves will reveal the conclusions reached.

Their importance is immense. Never in human history, perhaps, have greater issues been at stake. Never was the fate of so many people involved. Devout citizens, and even some not devout, may well pray for light and wisdom in those conferences. Be the individual statesmen themselves great or small, momentous decisions must be made and immense powers must be used by them. We know they are patriotic and eager for service; God give them wisdom!

Half the free world is represented in the present Washington talks, and another third of it has lately been there in the person of Molotoff, speaking for Stalin of Russia. The fourth big unit of free allies is represented by President Chiang Kai-shek of China, who is doubtless in touch with the White House proceedings.

So Washington is, and remains, the center of these great world events.

RECLAIMED RUBBER

One of the greatest reclamation projects in history is now under way. It might be likened to the reclamation of desert land in the American West, although it is in the realm of chemistry rather than real estate. It is the rubber-reclaiming job in which this nation is engaged.

It might also be called the biggest junk job on record. The process is naturally interesting. As the old, used rubber from tires, boots, belts, and so on, pours into the national catch-basins, it is dumped into a de-vulcanizer. The cotton is eaten up by caustics. The caustics are then removed and the reclaimed product is heated and shaped into slabs, under pressure, by steam-heated mixers and rollers. Fine screens remove the dirt, and the material is then ready, almost as good as new, to be shaped again into thousands of useful articles. The wonder of this precious substance is that, although it is a vegetable product, it seems almost as durable and imperishable as if it were mineral. Its values are now finding full appreciation. Artificial substitutes are made in growing quantities, but for many purposes are less satisfactory.

HUNGER IN HAMBURG

Food riots are reported in Hamburg. Depend upon it, the rioters are the housewives and humble people of the city. High-priced Nazis have no shortage of food to riot about. Hitler is said to be abstemious in his habits, but when fat Goering, Goebbels and the other Nazi leaders run short of food, the millennium will be near. Or should it be called the day of judgment?

GOOD-BYE BATTLESHIP

An era of national defense ends with the apparent decision of the United States government to build no more battleships. No rule has been made to that effect, but several battleships already planned have been eliminated from the new building program in favor of air-plane-carriers.

Cruisers and destroyers will still be built; the program calls for 500,000 tons of the former and 900,000 tons of the latter. But the great dreadnaughts with their heavy armament, behemoths of the sea, will pass away as did their ancient predecessors of the animal kingdom, the dinosaurs. And for the same reason—because they are unwieldy in combat and too easily destroyed by smaller craft.

It is said that a little animal, not much bigger than a rat, the ferocious of the Mesozoic Age, destroyed the dinosaur. It was a lively little beast, which could get at the "terrible lizard" and bore into his vitals before he could turn around. The battleship suffers the same handicap from the modern torpedo.

SOUVENIRS

What the drop in traveling will do to the hotel business, everybody knows. Looking for crumbs of comfort, the hotel managers may find a reduction in their count of missing silver and linen. Fewer guests at least means fewer souvenir-takers. This habit of stealing minor pieces of property as remembrances of trips taken is a curious habit. It certainly is not due to a mere thief's desire to take articles of value whenever he can get away with them. It is more on the order of a boyish trick, though hotels do not think it very funny.

A New York firm has found a way to capitalize this childishness. It sells towels marked "The White House," "Alcatraz," and the like, which ought to give the household guest a real thrill. They may create the same furore that a few years ago was caused by the appearance on the streets of automobile license plates marked "China," "Egypt," "Turkey." These, too, could be obtained for a modest price, and were very impressive. Impressive, that is, to all but the police, who found them annoying and brought about their discontinuance. Even if they had not done so, it is safe to say that no one in his senses would drive about nowadays with a license plate marked "Japan."

These innocent practices (not the stealing, but the buying of towels with unusual marks) enliven life, and help to keep some people young.

REFINERY REOPENS

SUGARLAND, June 24.—Imperial Sugar Co.'s refinery here, closed last week because all available warehouses are filled with sugar, is expected to resume operation July 6, a company spokesman said today. The spokesman said that the plant is closed in June "for the first time in 10 or 15 years" because sugar, since rationing has piled up in all warehouses available to the company. Extra space obtained in Houston and other places also is full.

Our government system is used in commissions, too. One member's greed for power checks and balances another's.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE

DEAN FOR NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL

April, 1934 (Files of Cisco Daily News)

The city commission will meet in a called session this evening to plan requested work projects upon which relief workers may be employed in the program that will supplant the CWA, Mayor J. T. Berry announced. County relief headquarters at Eastland have requested that the city submit projects capable of employing 100 men at once so that approval may be received at Austin and work started April 16, the date upon which the new program will begin in Texas. Suggested projects were: Graveling city streets and cemetery avenues; improvement and re-working city parks at lakes; improvement in city water and sewer systems. The city, the mayor said, may have to furnish some materials. It was said that the school system would also be asked to provide projects. Mayor Berry said he had been asked by a number of citizens to appoint a park and cemetery board, as provided by the city charter. He stated that he would probably name three men for this post at an early date.

The Cisco Flour Mill will open for business Wednesday morning. Operated by P. K. LeFevre, a miller of 15 years' experience, and his son-in-law, J. H. Kendrick, who has been associated with him for the past three years, the mill will do custom milling of both flour and corn and grind feed. The mill, of 25 barrels per day capacity, is located in the building at Sixth street and Katy tracks formerly occupied by the Fort Worth Tool and Supply company. The equipment was brought here from Gainesville two months ago and Mr. LeFevre and Mr. Kendrick have been busy installing it since that day. The two operated a mill at Putnam for a long while and Mr. LeFevre was for many years owner and operator of a mill at Woodson. The Cisco Flour Mill will process a special brand of flour in addition to doing custom business. The public is invited to visit the plant.

Cisco high school's thinly-clad lived up to expectations and won the county interschool league class A track and field meet held at Eastland Saturday. The Lobes amassed a total of 53 1/2 points to nose out Eastland with 48 1/2. Gorman was third with 39 points and Rising Star fourth with 7 1/2. Although the track and field title carried with it 20 points toward the all-round championship, it was not enough to overcome the early total lead held by Eastland, and Cisco was second in the total number of points gained. Scores for the first three places were: Eastland, first, 312 1/2; Cisco, second, 173 1/2; Rising Star, third, 151. John Garrison, fleet Maverick from Eastland, was high point man of the meet with a total of 17 points. Bill Rutledge of Cisco was second with 12 1/2 and Sentell Caffrey, Cisco, third with 12 points. Scranton ran away with first place in the class B division with 61 1/2 points, to be followed in order by Olden with 26, Alameda with 20, and Carbon with 15 1/2. Flatwood won first place in the rural class. A feature of the meet was the 440-yard run by Charlie Livingston of Scranton who, in running the man-killing quarter mile in 52.6, sheared off two tenths of a second from the official state class B record for the distance. His time was exactly one second better than that of Garrison, in the class A quarter. Cisco's winning the track and field championship yesterday was in sharp contrast with the Lobes' poor showing last year when they were able to collect only a few points in the middle distances.

Easter Sunday was the wedding day chosen by Miss Emma Ruth Clarkson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clark, and Wilson O. Wheatley, grandson of Mrs. J. W. Wilson. The ceremony was performed at 2 in the afternoon at the home of the bride, 1007 W. Twelfth, with only the immediate family and intimate friends present. The ring ceremony was read by the Reverend Frank Turner, pastor of the First Methodist church. The bride was attired in an ensemble of nu-bone crepe with harmonizing accessories. Attendants were Mr. Duncan and Miss Neva McBride of Rising Star. Mrs. Wheatley is a graduate of the Rising Star schools and a former student of Daniel Baker college at Brownwood. She has been teaching in the schools of Cross Plains. Mr. Wheatley is graduate of Cisco high school, is now located at Tilden, where he is connected with the Magnolia Refining company.

Funeral services for Mrs. T. L. Cooper, mother of Tax Collector T. L. Cooper, of Eastland, formerly of Cisco, will be held at Gorman Christian church this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Cooper, who would have been 89 years of age May 2, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. H. Rhodes, at Odessa Friday evening. The body was brought through Cisco yesterday afternoon to Eastland, where it will lie in state at the home of her son, 613 Mulberry street, until 2 o'clock. Burial will be at Gorman. Mrs. Cooper was born at Arkadelphia, Ark. She and her husband came to this section in 1871, where they made their home until Mr. Cooper died in 1917. Mrs. Cooper after the death of her husband made her home with her children, usually spending the summer with T. L. Cooper at Cisco and Eastland and the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Rhodes, and another son, A. Q. Cooper, both of Odessa. A third son, Will, lives at Temple, Texas. A sister, Mrs. Weldon Roberts, lives at Gorman. Services will be conducted by the Rev. O. G. Lanier of Ranger. Pallbearers will be T. A. Thompson, I. C. Underwood, Robert Cooner, Tom Haley, C. H. Rubber May Win the War—Here Is How the Military Forces Are Using It

The principal need for rubber in America today is for tires for our mechanized army and navy. Rubber from our stock pile of crude is mixed with chemicals in this milling process. The chemicals add life and toughness to the rubber. Each batch of rubber milled has a different compound, the mixture depending upon the job the tire it makes is designed to do.

As important as rubber in the making of a military tire is cord. In endless miles it is woven into fabric, the fabric later being impregnated with rubber. Here is one battery of cord spools in the General Tire & Rubber company plant.

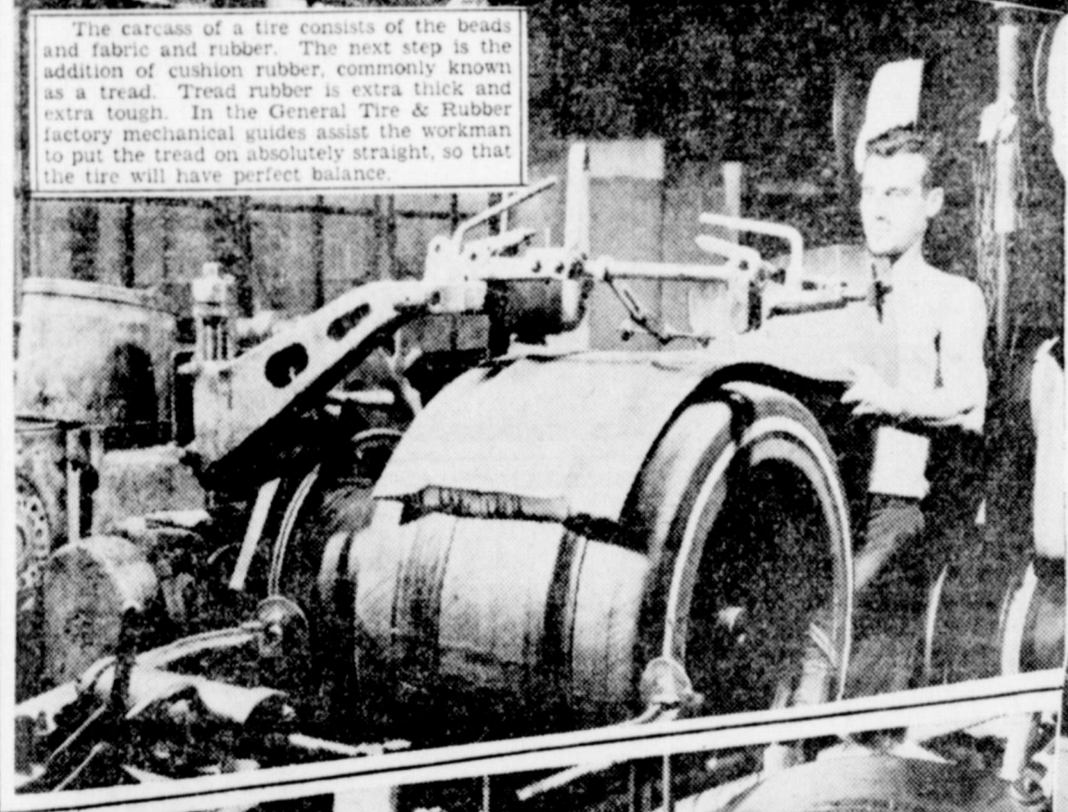

This is a typical tire worker. The job is a hard one and demands weight and strength. This mill worker carries a supply of gum rubber from the mill to the calendaring machine, where cord and rubber are put together.

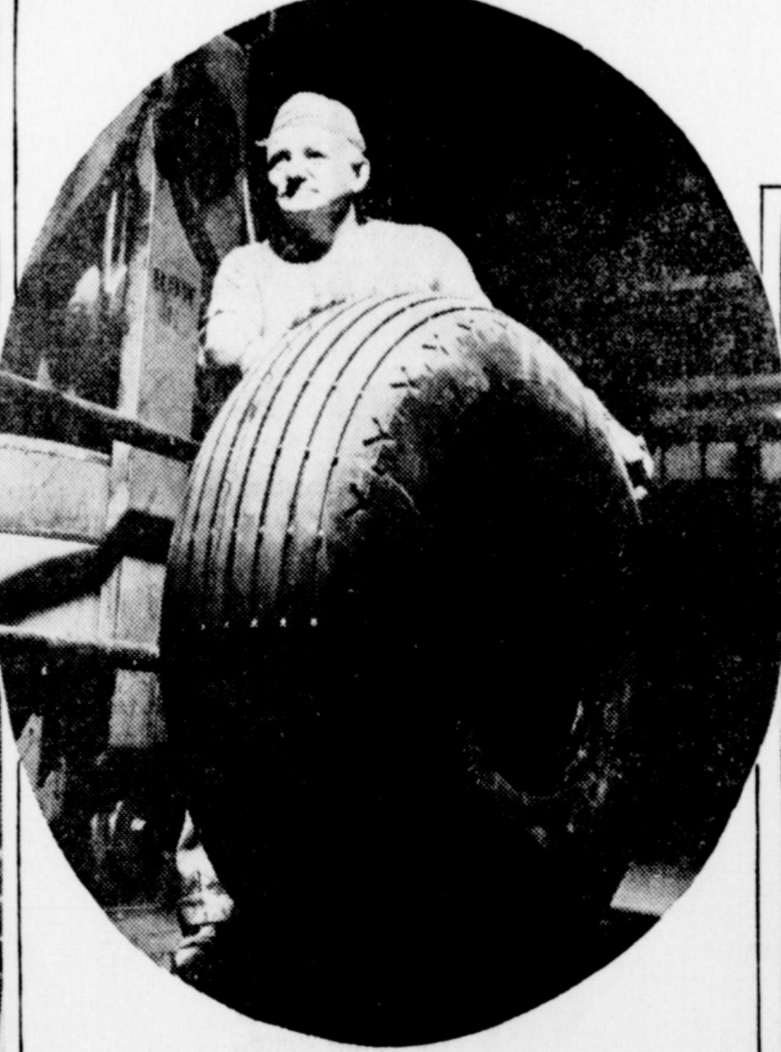

As the cord runs through the calendaring machine it is squeezed through warm rubber under terrific pressure. Each individual cord is completely insulated in its own sheath of rubber and produces a strong fabric for use in military tires. In the trough in front of the General Tire workman can be seen the gum rubber which beads with the cord to form the tire fabric.

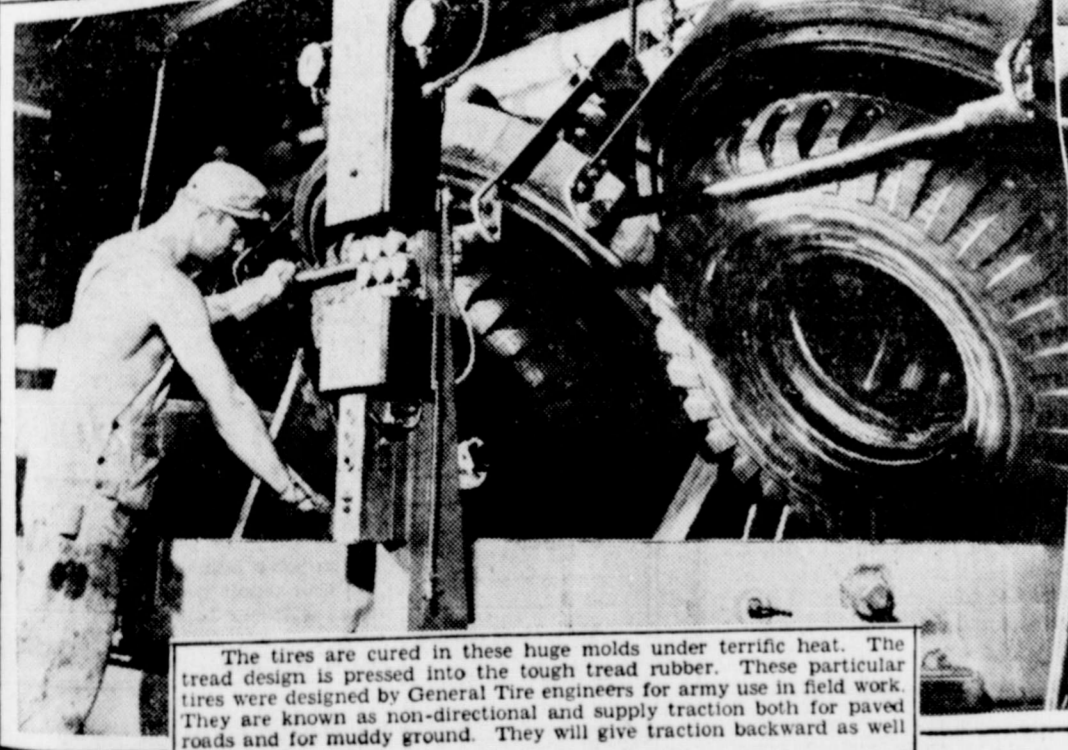

The completed fabric is formed into the tire. This whole wide piece of rubber will soon come out of a mold as a bomber tire. The fabric is slipped, layer by layer, onto this drum by the use of a rod forced between the last layer and the one being applied. The rod stretches the new fabric sufficiently to permit the loop to fit snugly in place.

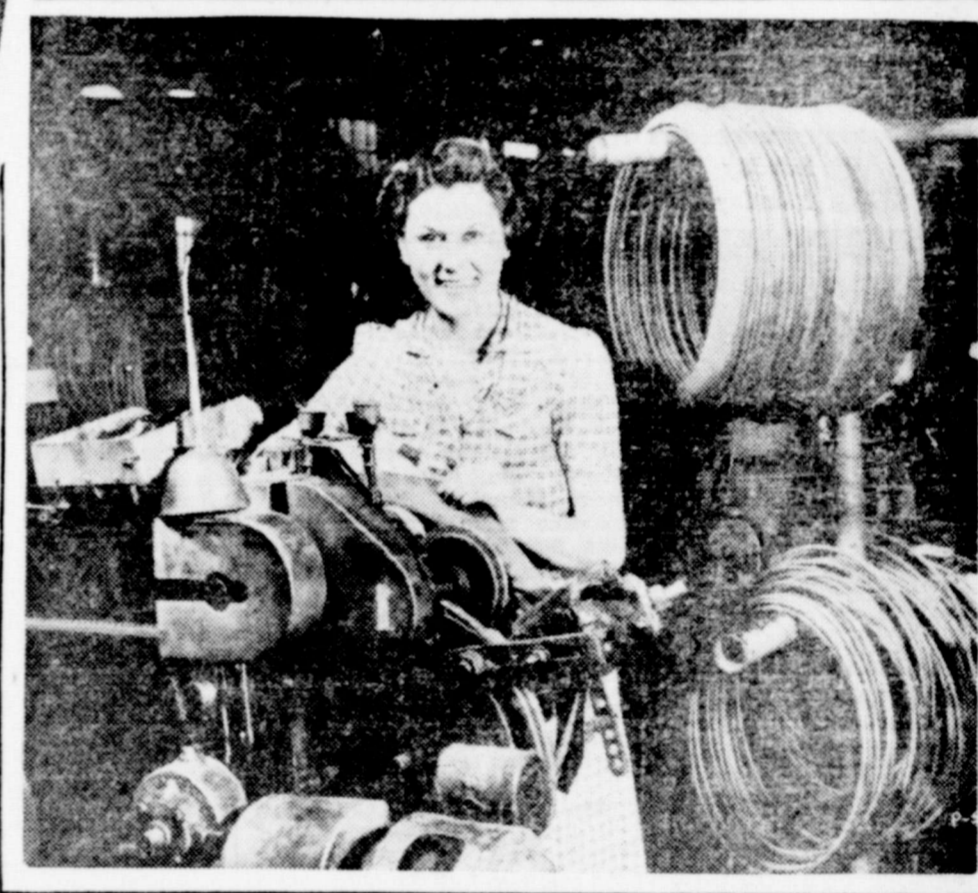

The carcass of a tire consists of the beads and fabric and rubber. The next step is the addition of cushion rubber, commonly known as a tread. Tread rubber is extra thick and extra tough. In the General Tire & Rubber factory mechanical guides assist the workman to put the tread on absolutely straight, so that the tire will have perfect balance.

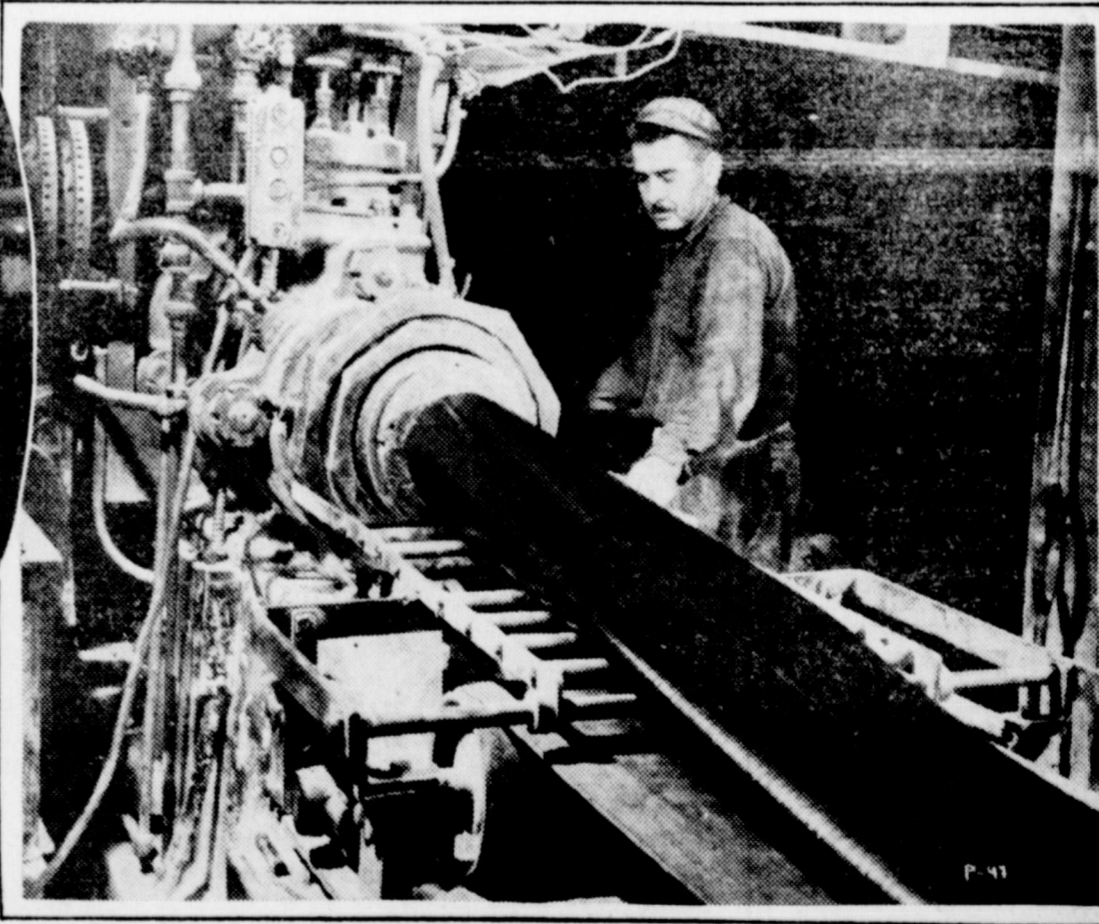

This giant bomber tire is like those which equipped the B-25's which Brigadier General "Jimmy" Doolittle used to bomb Tokio. General Doolittle personally wired General Tire employees his appreciation of the fine job they had done in making tires for the North American bombers his squadron used. This tire was made by the processes illustrated on this page.

The tires are cured in these huge molds under terrific heat. The tread design is pressed into the tough tread rubber. These particular tires were designed by General Tire engineers for army use in field work. They are known as non-directional and supply traction both for paved roads and for muddy ground. They will give traction backward as well as forward.

Women play a vital part in tire building. This attractive General Tire lassie works in the bead room. The bead is the reinforcing wire hoop used to hold the tire on the rim of a vehicle. The wire beads are covered with sturdy fabric which builds strength into the sidewall of the tire. In most army and navy vehicles two or more beads are used for each tire.

Every tire for bomber or fighter plane, jeep, combat car, anti-aircraft carriage or convoy, needs tubes. The tire room at the General Tire company plant is working night and day turning out these tubes, which are made by forcing rubber through this machine much as meat is forced through a grinder. A seamless rubber tube is thus formed.

So Take Good Care of Your Gas Equipment
Make it Last till We Win this War!
★★★★ Since this country has to skimp on metal household goods, we urge you to keep your gas equipment in first class condition.
I. ROOM HEATERS: To store for the summer, remove dust inside and out; wrap in newspapers and keep in a dry enclosed place.
II. RANGES: Do not let food spill over (in top cooking, the simmer-burner heat prevents this; in oven-cooking, careful handling does it). Do not set hot vessels on the bare porcelain surface. (Use cork mats.) Do not use the oven to heat the kitchen in cold weather (prolonged heat will cut down the life of the oven walls). Do not clean up the range while the enamel is warm. When it cools, remove crumbs and spatters with a damp cloth. Do not over-cook foods. It means wear and tear on the range, as well as on the groceries.
SPECIAL NOTICE
The Government Order freezing all types of gas heating equipment has been amended. Floor Furnaces, Gasteam Radiators, Circulators and Radiant Heaters NOW may be sold and installed for use in rooms which do not already have some type of heating equipment. Likewise, under certain conditions, you are permitted to purchase and install Gas Ranges and Gas Water Heaters. You gas company will be pleased to advise and assist you with complete information and details.
